EXPLANATION OF THE CRITICAL APPARATUS

The apparatus contains variant readings, source notes, and supplementary notes.

1. Variant readings. The Escorial MS was selected as the basis for this critical edition (see above, Introduction, § 2.1.). Variant readings from the four other MSS are noted here; differences in plene or defective spelling, masculine or feminine gender, abbreviation, and word order have been included only when they might affect the meaning. In clear cases of scribal error within the Escorial MS, the correct reading from one of the other MSS has been inserted in the text and the error recorded in the apparatus. Emendations not based on variant readings have been relegated to the supplementary notes. Tables of sigla for the MSS and signs used in listing the variant readings appear below, at the beginning of the apparatus, pp. 285-6 (Hebrew pagination).

2. Source notes, containing references to biblical, rabbinic, and kabbalistic sources quoted or referred to by R. David.

3. Supplementary notes, designated by a *. These handle comparisons with the Aramaic text of the Zohar, emendations, and textual data.

ספר מראות הצבאות

לר' דוד בן יהודה החסיד

פרשת אחרי מות מן מראות הצובאות

וידבר יי אל משה אחרי מות שני בני אהרן גו' ר' יהודה אמ' כיון שכתו'
וידבר יי אל משה אחרי מות למה אמ' פעם אחר ויאמר יי אל משה דבר
אל אהרן אחיך שהרי בדבור הראשון די ומספיק. אלא כך שנינו כתי'
וידבר יי אל משה*. וידבר יי אליו. וכתי' ואל משה אמ' עלה אל יי.
והעמידו חבריא הדבר שבכאן הוא מדרגה אחת ואחר כך מדרגה אחרת.
גם בכאן וידבר יי אל משה מדרגה אחת ולבסוף ויאמר יי אל משה דבר
אל אהרן אחיך מדרגה אחרת. והכל לדבר אחד עולה* ומשרש אחד הכל
מחחבר. תאנא אמר ר' יוסי ביום הכפורים ניתקן זה הפרשה כדי לכפר
על ישראל בגלות בשביל שסדר בכאן נסדר ובשביל שמיתתם של בני אהרן מכפר
על ישראל. מכאן למדנו כל אדם שיסורין של אדונו באין עליו הם כפרה על
עונותיו וכל מי שמצטער על יסורין של הצדיקים מעבירין עונותיו מן
העולם. ועל זה בזה היום קורין אחרי מות שני בני אהרן גו' כדי שישמעו העם
ויצטערו על אבודם של הצדיקים ויתכפר להם עונותם. וכל מי שמצטער על
אבודם של הצדיקים או מוריד דמעות עליהם הב"ה מכריז עליו ואמ' וסר עונך
וחטאחך תכפר. ולא עוד אלא שלא ימותו בניו בחייו ועליו כתי' יראה זרע
יאריך ימים וחפץ יי בידו יצלח. אמרה כנסת ישראל לפני הב"ה אני בקטרת
ואתה בשמן. פתח ואמ' שיר המעלות הנה מה טוב ומה נעים שבת אחים גם
יחד. מהו שבת אחים גם יחד כד"א ופניהם איש אל אחיו. בשעה שהיה אחד
באחד אזי היו משגיחן פנים אל פנים כתי' הנה מה טוב ומה נעים שבת אחים
גם יחד. כשהיה הזכר מחזיר פניו מן הנקבה ויי לעולם באותה שעה כתי'
ויש נספה בלא משפט ודאי. הנה מטתו שלשלמה. מהו מטתו של שלמה זהו
כסא הכבוד של המלך יי צבאות דכתי' בטח בה לב בעלה. שלשלמה למלך
שהשלום שלו . ששים גבורים סביב לה שהם מתאחדים ומתאחזים בצדה מצד
הדין הקשה ונקראים שדין לפידי אש* שאותו נער מחלבש בהם מימינו חרב
שנון חזק ויש בו חקוקים שבעים אלף להטי אש אכלה ואותן ששים גבורים מזויינין
בזיוני קשים של כלי מלחמה של אותן גבורות של צד הגבורה עליונה ההי"ד
מגבורי ישראל. פתח ר' שמעון ואמ' מים קרים על נפש עיפה ושמועה
טובה מארץ מרחק. בכאן יש להסתכל בדברי שלמה המלך והכל בחכמה אמרן.
בא וראה שלשה ספרים הוציא שלמה לעולם כלם הם נאמרים בסודות
החכמה עליונה ואלו הן שיר השירים הוא חכמה קהלת היא תבונה משלי הוא
דעת לנגד שלש אלו עשה שלשה ספרים שיד השירים כנגד חכמה כך הוא קהלת

כנגד תבונה כך הוא משלי כפגד הדעת אלא כל אותן הפסוקים בשתי גוונים
הם ראש וסוף ובשתי גוונים נראים וכשאנו | מסתכלים בפסוקים א ע"ב
אלו זה כולל בזה וזה כולל בזה ובשביל זה שקלן כנגד הדעת. אמ"ר
שמעון הא ודאי נתקיים זה הפסוק ושמועה טובה מארץ מרחק כך הוא
ניחות הרוח כמו מים קרים על נפש עיפה. בא וראה כל הנטיעות וכל
אותן דינין* שמתלהטים כלם הם מאירין ומתלהטין והם מקבלים משקה
ומתברכים מאותו נהר שנמשך ויוצא שהכל כלול בו וכלל של כל בו וזה
הנהר נקרא אם* לגן עדן העליון בשביל שעדן משתתף בזה הנהר ולא
יתפרש ממנה ובשביל כך כל המבועות נמשכין ויוצאין משם ונותנין משקה
לכל צד ופותחין בה פתחים ועל זה רחמים ממנה נמצאים ורחמים פתוחים
בה ובשביל שאנו קורין לה אם והיא נקבה והגבורה ממנה נמצאת והדין
ממנה יוצא ונקראת רחמים לבדה. והרי מצדה דינין מתעוררין ובשביל
כך כתי' רחמים ונקוד בדין אותיות רחמים ונשמך מצדה דין כנון יְהוָה
והוא כתו' יהוה והוא רחמים בכתיבתו ובניקודו הוא דין גמור* שהרי
מצד זה יוצא ומתעורר מדרגה אחר ונקרא גבורה והא נקרא אלהים באלו
אותיות והתחלתו הוא מ"א ובו הוא נאחז ובשביל שנאחז זה בזה ובשביל
כך כתי' יי הוא האלהים כי יי הוא האלהים באלו אותיות והוא אחד וזהו
מדרגה שניה. אבל מדרגה שלישית היא צדק והיא כתר האחרון והיא
ביה דין של המלך. ותאנא אדני כך כתי' וכך נקרא וכנסת ישראל בזה
השם נקראת וזה השם במקום זה נשלם ואלו הן שלש מדרגות שנקראים
בשם דין וכלם הם מתקשרים אחד באחד בלא פירוד כלל. א"ל אי ניחא
לפני אבא שאום' לפניו דבר ששמעתי בזה דכתי' אהיה אשר אהיה אבל
לא קיימתי זה הדבר. א"ל אלעזר בני והא אמרו חבריא שבדבר אחד
נקשר עכשו הכל וסוד הדבר כך הוא אהיה זהו כלל של כל כשאותן
השבילים הסתומים נכללים כלם במקום אחד מיד נקרא אהיה והוא כלל
של כל וסתום שלא נתגלה ואחר שיוצא ממנו התחלה ואותו נהר מתעבר
להתמשך הכל מיד נקרא אשר אהיה כלו' עד כאן אהיה אהיה עתיד למשוך
ולהוריד* הכל אהיה כלו' עכשו אני הוא כלל הכל וכלל של כל פרט.
אשר אהיה שמתעברת האם ומזדמנת להוציא פרטים של כל ולגלות שם
העליון ואחר כך בקש משה לידע פרט הדבר מי הוא עד שפירש ואמ'
יהוה זהו פרט ובכאן לא כתי' אשר אהיה. ומצאתי בספר של שלמה המלך
אשר הוא בקשר העדן העליון נמצא והסוד בזה באשריכי אשרוני בנות.

אהיה הוא מזומן להוליד. בא וראה איך הוא יורד ממדרגה למדרגה להראות
הב"ה למשה קשר האמונה*. מתחלה אהיה שהוא כלל של כל וסתום שלא
נתגלה כמו שאמרנו וסימניך ואהיה אצלו אמון. וכתי' לא ידע אנוש ערכה
גו' ואחר כך הוציא אותו נהר שהוא אם העליון ומתעברת שעתידה להוליד
ואמר אשר אהיה שהיא עתידה להוליד ולתקן הכל וא"כ מתחיל להוליד
ולא כתי' אשר אלא אהיה כלו' עכשו יצא ויתקן הכל ואחר שיוצא הכל
ונתקן כל אחד ואחד במקומו הניח הכל ואמ' יהוה זהו פרט וזהו הקיום.
באותה שעה ידע משה סוד של שם הקדוש סתום ונלוי והשיג מה שלא
יכולים להשיג* שאר בני אדם אשרי חלקו של משה. בא ר' אלעזר ונשק
ידיו של ר' שמעון אביו א"ל אלעזר מכאן והלאה תזהר שלא לכתוב שם
הקדוש אלא כראוי שכל מי | שאינו יודע לכתוב שם הקדוש ב ע"א
כראוי ולקשור קשר האמונה אחד באחד בשביל ליחד שם הקדוש עליו
כתי' כי דבר יי בזה ואת מצותו הפר הכרת תכרת וגו'. אפי' שחסר אלא*
מדרגה אחת או קשר אחד ממקום אחד מהם אין לו חלק באלהיישראל ונכרת
מאותו אור העליון לכן כתי' הכרת תכרת וגו'*. בא וראה בראשונה הי'
כולל של כל. סתום מכל צדדיו ושבילים שאינם פתוחים והוא כלל זכר
ונקבה. וקושו של הי' למעלה רומז לאין ואחר כך י' הוציא אותו נהר
שנמשך ויוצא ממנו להתעבר ממנו בה"א בו כתי' ונהר יוצא מעדן להשקות
את הגן יוצא כתי' ולא יצא בשביל זה לא צריך להתפרש ממנו ובשביל
כך כתי' רעיתי ואם תאמ' ונהר כתי' משמע אחד ובכאן הם ג' כך הוא
ודאי י' הוציא ג' ובשלשה נכלל הכל. י' הוציא לפניו אותו נהר ושנים
בשביל* שיונקים לאותו נהר ומתעברת מהם ותוציא אותן אחר ה"א כדוגמא
זה ה"א והם בנים תחת אב ואם ואחר שהולידה והוציאה בן זכר והניחתו
לפניו ולכן צריך לכתו' וא"ו והוא יורש ירשת אב ואם ויורש שני חלקים
וממנו נזון הבת ועל כן צריך לכתו' אחר כן ו"ה כאחד בראשונה י"ה
כאחד בלא פירוד ולא רשאי להפריש ביניהם אף בכאן ו"ה כאחד ולא
רשאי להפריש אותם ובזה נתקיים הדבר בלבי כך הוא ודאי למקום אחר
מעלין דברי אלו ומכניסין אותן לפני לפנים. אשרי חלקם של הצדיקים
שיודעים סודות עליונים של המלך הקדוש והם ראוים להודות לו ההי"ד
אך צדיקים יודו לשמך ישבו ישרים את פניך. תאנא אמ"ר יוסי* אל
אלהים יי דבר ויקרא ארץ הוא שלמות של כל ושלמות האבות הקדושים.
דבר ויקרא ארץ להמצא בכנסת ישראל בשלמות ובשמחה ובחדוה ומאי

זה מקום הוא נמצא עמה חזר ואמר מציון מכלל יופי אלהים הופיע. וכן תאנא כשרצה הב"ה לבראת העולם של מטה עשה אותו הכל כדוגמא של מעלה ועשה ירושלם באמצעית העולם ומקום אחד נקרא ציון הוא עומד עליה ומזה המקום היא מתברכת וממקום ציון התחיל לבנות העולם ההי"ד אל אלהים יי דבר ויקרא ארץ ממזרח שמש עד מבואו. מאי זה מקום מציון מכלל יופי אלהים הופיע כלו' מציון נשלם העולם שיופי העולם* אלהים הופיע. בא וראה ירושלם לא יתברך אלא מציון וציון יתברך מלמעלה וכל אחד באחד נקשר. א"ר יהודה ויצא אל המזבח אשר לפני יי וכפר עליו. המזבח סתם כביכול כמו שנעשה למטה כך הוא נעשה למעלה והכל נקשר אחד באחד. ותאנא כמו שבזה היום מכפר הכהן למטה כך כהן העליון מכפר למעלה וכשכהן של מטה מסדר עבודה גם כן הכהן למעלה מסדר עבודתו לא נמצא למעלה עד שנמצא למטה ומלמטה מתחיל לעלות הקדושה של המלך העליון ונמצאים כל העולמות בשמחה* לפני הב"ה. אמ"ר יהודה אלמלא היו יודעים ישראל למה הב"ה פוקד עליהם ולהוכיח להם יותר מכל האומות אז ידעו בודאי שהב"ה הניח משלו ולא גבה מהם אחד ממאה. תאנא כמה מרכבות וכמה מחנות יש לו להב"ה וכמה שולטני' ממונים נמצאים בעבודתו וכשזימן וברא ישראל בזה העולם הכתיר אותם בשתי כתרים כדוגמא עליונה אשר הם* | בארץ הקדושה שימצאו בעבודתו קושר ב ע"ב לכל העליונים כלם בשביל ישראל ודוחה אותן* ולא נכנסין לפניו והעבודה לא נעשית לפניו למעלה עד שישראל עושין למטה עבודתם כל זמן שישראל הם נמצאים בעבודת אדוניהם גם כן לעילא כביכול. בזמן שישראל למטה מבטלים עבודתם גם כן למעלה והעבודה לא נמצא לא למעלה ולא למטה בשביל* שישראל בטלו עבודתם אבל כשהם מתחילין* בארץ למטה גם כן למעלה מתחילין. ואחר כך אומר הב"ה לישראל אם הייתם יודעים כמה אוכלוסין וכמה חיילות מתעכבים בשבילכם אז תדעו שאין אתם כדאי להתקיים בעולם אפי' שעה אחת. ועם כל זה מה כתי' ואף גם זאת בהיותם בארץ אויביהם לא מאסתים גו' בשביל כך כתי' ויצא אל המזבח אל המזבח סתם. אשר לפני יי סתם וכפר עליו ואחר כך ויצא ועשה את עולתו ואת עולת העם גו' וכפר מה רוצה לומ' כדי לעורר חסר העליון* בראשונה. תאנא כתי' וכפר על הקדש אלא* אמ' ר' אלעזר הא שנינו שהרשעים עושין פגימות למעלה ומעוררין דינין וגורמין לטמא המקדש ונחש החזק מתחיל להתגלות ומיד הדינין מתעוררין בעולם ובזה היום מבקש* הכהן

לטהר הכל ולעורר כתר הקדוש שלו שהוא ראש של המלך בשביל שיבא המלך לשכון עם המטרוניתא וכשראש של המלך נוטל כלם הם נוטלים והוא יבא להזדווג עם המטרוניתא ולהתעורר שמחות וברכות בכל העולמות נמצאים שכל שלמות עליון והתחתון בכהן הוא תלוי שאם יתעורר כתר שלו הכל יתעורר והכל בשלמות נמצא ועל זה כתי' וכפר על הקדש בראשונה וכפר על הקדש כדי להרבות שלום בעולם ולהרבות השמחות והברכות למעלה ולמטה וכשהשמחה והזווג של המלך הקדוש והמטרוניתא נמצא אזי כל השמשין וכל בני ההיכל כלם הם נמצאים בשמחה ויש חירות לעולם מכל עונותיהם שחטאו לפני המלך הכל יתכפר להם הה"ד מכל חטאתיכם לפני יי תטהרו. ובשביל כך כתי' וכל אדם לא יהיה באהל מועד בבאו לכפר בקדש עד צאתו. בשעה שנכנם לזוג אותם בשעה שמזדווגין המלך והמטרוניתא באותה שעה וכפר בעדו ובעד ביתו. תאנא וכל אדם לא יהיה באהל מועד ר' יצחק פתח וזכרתי את בריתי יעקב גו' זה הפסוק אמרוהו חבריא בשעה שישראל הם בגלות כביכול הב"ה עמהם שהרי השכינה לא תסור מהם לעולם. בא וראה בזמן שישראל היו נמצאים בגלות בבל השכינה שרתה עמהם ושבה עמהם מן הגלות ובזכות אוחן צדיקים ששכנו בארץ שרתה בארץ ולא תסור מהם. אמ"ר יהודה כשחזרה המטרוניתא למלך וחזר הכל בהילול של המלך ובשביל כך נקראים אנשי כנסת הגדולה אנשי כנסת הגדולה ודאי. ושנינו כל זמן שישראל שרויים בגלות אם הם זוכין הב"ה מקדים לרחם עליהם להוציאם מן הגלות ואם אינן זוכין מעכבן בגלות עד אותו זמן שנגזר אע"ג שמגיע הזמן והם אינן ראויים הב"ה משגיח לכבוד שמו ולא ישכחם בגלות | ההי"ד וזכרתי את בריתי יעקב ג ע"א גו' אלו הם האבות שהם שלמות של כל. ר' חייא אמ' מאי טעמא יעקב בראשונה בכאן אלא בשביל שיעקב הוא כלל האבות והוא אילן הקדוש בשביל כך ו' הקדוש הוא יתר בכאן והוא אהוז בו לכן אנו קורין יעקב בוא"ו. ר' יצחק אמ' סוד וא"ו אותיותיו הם מנין שלש עשרה מדות כי וא"ו בגי' שלשה עשר* בשביל שהוא יורש ירשת של שלש עשרה מבועות של המבוע הסתום הקדוש. ר' אבא אמ' וא"ו למה הוא כולל ו' א' ו' אלא ו' שיושב על הכסא כד"א ועל דמות הכסא דמות כמראה אדם עליו מלמעלה. א' נסתם בתוכו ולא נתגלה וזהו שכתו' בי נשבעתי נאם יי גו' ו' אחרונה כולל ו' ראשונה וא"ו אחרונה הא אמרנו שהוא יסוד והוא סיום הגוף והוא כלל שלו ועל כן כל האותיות כלולים אחד באחד וא"ו הוא ראש וסיום והבן זה. בא וראה שתי אותיות הם ו"ו וא"ו ראשונה

ועל זה אנו מכוונין בנעילה שהוא שעת רצון שהוא זמן זווג העליון ועל זה אנו אומ' וחתום וחתמנו לפי שעת' היא מתעלה לבית המלך שהיא מוציאה הכתבים לחתום. אזי היא מקבלת הכתבים ותוריד אותם עמה וחותמת אותם לחיים שהם הצדיקים והרשעים למות ועל זה אנו מתפללין וחתום לחיים פי' שאנו מתפללים לפני העט' שהיא נעילה שיחתמנו לחיים משל למה הדבר דומה למלך שבא לחתום הפתקים על בני המדינות להכביד עליהם עולים ומסים בשביל שמרדו בו והיה משנה שלו מבקש עליהם כדי שיקל מעליהם בזרותיו עד שנטל הפתקין מידו וחתמן בטבעת המלך והסוד בזה ונחתום בטבעת המלך אין להשיב ודי למבין.

מחוסר דעת הבריות שאין נותנין לבם להבין ולהשגיח ולא עין לראות ולא פה לדבר כי הם עוזבים חיי העולם ומתעסקים בחיי שעה כי לולי היו מסתכלים ומהרהרים בסודות החורה אולי היו משגיחין דבר אחד מני אלף באותן הסתרים העמוקים לכן שלמה ע"ה כל דבריו הם נסתרים ונבלעים בפי המחשבה העמוקה לכן אמ׳ הכל כאשר לכל. פי׳ הכל רומז לכנסת ישראל שהיא נקראת הכל ה"ד לא תחסר כל בה כי היא כוללת הכל ומקבלת מכל שהיא מדת המחשבה העמוקה שהוא כלל כל הפרטים והכללים כי כל פרטי האישים שנמצאים בעולם הם שואבים משם ונמשכים משם כי הפרטים הם נמשכים מן הכללים כי הכללים הם שלשה והסוד בזה והגה שם שלשה עדרי צאן רובצים עליה והם נקראים כללים למה נקראים כללים על שם שהם כלולים בכל והכל בהם והם בכל זה רומז לאותן ג׳ מבועות הנעלמות אשר אין הפה יכול להפסיק בעיונם ולא העין יכול להביט ולהסתכל שם וזהו סוד ויסתר משה פניו כי ירא מהביט אל האלהים. כמו שהאדם צריך בשת וענוה במלי דעלמא כך צריך בשת וענוה במלי דחכמתא לכן משה ע"ה נתן מסוה על פניו ונתבייש להביט לאותן הכללים העתיקים הגדולים לכן כתי׳ ויסתר פי׳ הסתיר פניו במסוה של הבשת ולא רצה ליכנס לפנים בלא רשות וכיון שראה הב"ה שהסתיר פניו היקרים ונתן כבוד לשם ית׳ מיד קרא לו הב"ה וא"ל של נעליך מעל רגליך פי׳ תסיר הסתום שהוא נעול וסגור ותכנס בגלוי. גם כן דוד לא רצה ליכנס לפני לפנים אלא בגלויות ה"ד לא הלכתי בגדולות ובנפלאות ממני אלא נכנס בגלויות ה"ד גל עיני ואביטה נפלאות מתורתך כי גל הוא מלשון נגלה שהיה נכנס מלמטה למעלה לכן כתי׳ הכל כאשר לכל שלמה בנו גם כן עלה מלמטה למעלה והכל במדת הכל שהיא כנסת ישראל שהכל נראים בה כי כל המדרגות והאספקלריאות והמראות כלם נראים בה. אימתי היא מתחברת עם העליונים כאשר לכל כשלכל שהוא מדת המחשבה מביט לה ומאיר לה אזי היא מלאה ושבעה מאורות של העליונים כי היא מקבל מן הכל לכן אמ׳ שלמה הכל כאשר לכל מקרה אחד אל תקרי מקרה אלא מלשון המקדה במים עליותיו פי׳ כתר עליון שהוא מדת המחשבה העמוקה והוא סתום של הסתומות והוא טמור של כל הטמורות מקרה עליונים ותחתונים במי הנחל של המבוע העמוק שהוא מדת היובל ה"ד ונהר יוצא מעדן להשקות את הגן כי כל הנבראים והנמצאים כלם לא נמצאו אלא מאמתת המצאו כי כלם הם באים משם וכלם ישובו שם ה"ד כי עפר

כל הנמצאים לכן אמ׳ דוד ע"ה המקרה במים עליותיו השם עבים רכובו
המהלך על כנפי רוח. המקרה הוא פת׳ ע׳ כי הוא נקרא תקרה כמו התקרה
שהוא סובל המעזיבה כך כ"ע הוא סובל ונושא עליונים ותחתונים מתחת
זרועותיו ה"ד מתחת זרועות עולם. במים כלו׳ במי של הנהר שהוא
האומן והוא נקרא יוצר בראשית כי הוא האומן של המלך יתבר׳ ויתעלה
בשכמל"ו. עליותיו אלו הם גדולה וגבורה ותפ׳ שהם סוד האבות הקדושים
שנקראים עליות כמו העליות שהם עליונים על שאר הבניין כך אלו הם
עליונים על שאר המדות של המחודשות והם הנקראים הרים וגבעות ה"ד
ברכות אביך גברו על ברכות הורי עד תאות גבעות עולם תהיין לכן הם
נקראים עליות. השם עבים רכובו עבים רומזים לנצח והוד שהם נקראים
עבים מלשון עננים והסוד בזה נשא לבבינו אל כפים אל אל בשמים. ד"א
למה הם נקראים עבים בשביל שהם נקראים גשמים כנגד העליות שהם
סוד האבות כי האבות כנגד התחתונות שכליים ורוחניים נעלמים ונסתרים
בכל כנגד נצח והוד שהם נקראים עבים כי כמו שהם שכליים כנגד התחתונים
כך הם גשמים כנגד עולמות עליונים שהם כ"ע וחכמה ובינה שהם עולם
המושכל לכן נקראים עבים כי כל מה שישתלשלו וירדו המעלות למטה
יותר הם מתעבים ומתגשמים יותר ויותר ה"ד השם עבים רכובו כי הוא
רוכב על הכל כי כל הספי׳ והמעלות הם נקראים מרכבות לספי׳ העליונות
להן לכן רוכב על הכל ה"ד רוכב שמים בעזרך וכו׳. המהלך על כנפי
רוח אלו הם ששה קצוות שהם נקראים כנפי רוח על שם שש כנפים שש
כנפים לאחד כי כל אחד ואחד יש לו ששה קצוות שנקראי׳ כנפים כי
כנפי הוא מלשון קצות ה"ד ועשו להם ציצת על כנפי בגדיהם פי׳
בזויותיהן ועוד כתי׳ לאחוז בכנפות הארץ וינערו רשעים ממנה. ד"א
המקרה במים עליותיו וכו׳ המקרה רומז לעי׳ העי׳ שהוא נקרא מקרה
כי הוא מקרה הכל כי כמו שהבניין של התקרה הוא למעלה מכל המדריגות
כך עי׳ העי׳ הוא למעלה מכל המדרגות כי הוא מקרה כל הבית בקירויו
ה"ד המקרה כו׳. במים רומז לכ"ע שהוא מבוע של הנחל שכל המים
והמקורות והנחלים והמבועים נוזלים משם בשביל שהוא נקרא מזל על
שם הנזילה שנוזל משם כי עי׳ העי׳ הוא כביכול מקרה כל העולמות באותן
המים שהם נוזלים מן המים ההם והבן זה ודום ליי. עליותיו רומז אל
חכמה ובינה שהם נקראים עליות על שם שהם עליונות והם נקראים הרי

נבנונית והרי אפרסמון והם נקראים עליות. ד"א למה הם נקראים עליות
אל תקרי עליות אל על תי"ו וכי הם עומדים למעלה מן התי"ו שהוא
מלכות. השם עבים רכובו. השם פי׳ כ"ע של שלשה אבות שהם נקראים
עבים על שם וענף עץ עבות וערבי נחל | בשביל שהם ח ע"א
שלשה בדי הדם וזהו סוד שלשה הדסים ושתי ערבות ולולב אחד ואתרוג
אחד יסור. לכן אנו עושים אלו שלשה בדי הדם בלולב לרמוז לאלו שלשה
אבות שהן גדולה וגבורה ותפארת שהם שלשה ה"ד השם עבים רכובו
להודיע שהוא הב"ה ית׳ ויח׳ הוא רוכב על הכל כי הכל צריכין לו והוא
אינו צריך לאחד מהם. כי הנרכב הוא צריך לרוכב ואין הרוכב
צריך לנרכב. המהלך על כנפי רוח. למה אמ׳ המהלך ההולך מיבעי ליה מהו
המהלך כמו מתהלך בנן פי׳ לפעמים שהשכינה היא מסתלקת ועולה ולפעמים
היא יורדת וכל זה הוא בשביל מעשיהים של ישראל. בא וראה אם ישראל
מעשיהם טובים אזי שכינת אלהים שהיא שכינה עליונה משגחת על ישראל והיא
רופפת עליהם כאם על הבנים בשביל שהיא אם הבנים שמחה ומורידת להם
המים מן עומק של הנחל שהוא סוד המחשבה. אבל אם ישראל כביכול מעוותין
מעשיהם והולכים הוץ לדרך יי אזי כביכול השכינה היא מתהלכת וקופצת כי
היא מסתלקת לפעמים ויורדת לפעמים זה הוא הכל בשביל מעשה היצורים לכן
כתיב המהלך ולא כתי׳ ההולך. על כנפי רוח שהם נצח והוד שהם נקראים כנפים
על שם לאהוז בכנפות הארץ וינערו רשעים ממנה בשביל שהם קרובים לארץ שהיא
כנסת ישראל. והם עומדים בקצות הארץ וזה הוא סוד אל שתי קצותיו והבין זה.

אחד לצדיק ולרשע פי׳ לצדיק הוא צדיק יסוד עולם שהוא
נקרא צדיק והוא סוד שיוסף נקרא צדיק בשביל ששמר הברית הקדוש.
ולרשע הוא תמורת הצדיק שהוא נקרא רשע כי הוא הפך הצדיק כי רשע
תמורתו. לטוב הוא רומז לחסד שנקרא טוב בשביל שהוא מטיב עם כל
היצורים והנבראים כלם כי חונן ומטיב לכל וזהו סוד שאברהם היה יושב
בפרשת דרכים להכנים האורחים שעוברים ושבים לביתו והסוד בזה אשל
פירו׳ אכילה שתיה לוייה וזהו סוד האילן שאכלו תחתיו המלאכים ה"ד
והוא עומד עליהם תחת העץ ויאכלו. לכן הוא נקרא טוב על שם גמילות
חסד שהיה עושה עם בני העולם. לטהור רומז לגבורה שנקרא טהור ה"ד
לב טהור ברא לי אלהים בשביל שהוא מטהר ומלבין ומצרף כל הנבראים
בחוזק דינו הקשה ולטמא זהו תמורתו שהוא סוד עשו שהוא מצד הטומאה
והוא זוהמת הזהב הנקי והטהור. ולזובח רומז לעט׳ ישראל שנקרא זובח

מל' זבחי אלהים רוח נשברה בשביל שהיא שבורת הלב. ולאשר איננו
זובח זהו תמורתה שאינה זובחת אלא רודפת אחרי סריפות החיות כדי
לסרוף טרף ולשלול שלל ולבוז בז. לכן אמ' שלמה ע"ה מקרה אחד לכל
פי' מקרה מלשו' מקור להודיע שכל אלו ממקור אחד הם נובעים כמו
הכסף הטוב שיהפרש הפסולת לצדו | והכסף הנקי לצדו ח ע"ב
כזה המדר נמצאו כל הנמצאים וכל הנבראים כלם ה"ד מקרה אחד.
אמ' ד' שמעון לר' חייא ראוי אתה ובטוב הוא כל מה שדברת כי עתיק
יומן יפתח עינו עליך.

ד"א הכל כאשר לכל מקרה אחד וכו' כי שלמה המלך ע"ה
היה מביט בכל הדורות בצדיקים וברשעים ורואה דברים שמגיעין לרשעים
מגיעין לצדיקים ואמ' זה רע בכל אשר נעשה תחת השמש. זהו תחת השמש
ודאי. הכל כאשר לכל מקרה אחד לצדיק זהו אברהם שנקרא צדיק ה"ד
כי ידעתיו למען אשר יצוה את בניו ואת ביתו אחריו וכו' כי אברהם שהוא
מדת החסד הוא נקרא צדיק על שהוא נותן צדקה לתחתונים וכלם הם מתפרנסים
ממנו לכן הוא אב רחמן שהיה מרחם על הבריות שהם היו טועים חוץ דרך
יי והיה מדריך אותם לדרך המלך והיה קושר הייחוד האמתי בלבם ולא
היו זזין ממנו עד שנכנסו במסורת האמונה הקדושה והאמינו ביסוד העליון.
והסוד בזה ויטע אשל בבאר שבע כי אל"ף מאשל רומז לכ"ע שנקרא
אלף מלשון פלא בשביל שהוא נסתר ונעלם. שי"ן רומז לגדולה ולגבורה
ולתפארת וליסוד שהם עומדין בצורת שין. למ"ד רומז למלכות יי ה"ד
המלמד ידי למלחמה וכו' לכן היה נוטע כל אלו המדרגות בבאר שבע
שהיא כנסת ישראל והיה קושר כל הקשרים ביחוד אחד והיה מגלה לבריות
זה הסוד המופלא שנקרא אשל עד שנכנסו בסוד היחוד לכן הוא נקרא
צדיק שהיה מדריך בני העולם בדרך החכמה והיה נותן צדקה לעניים
וזהו סוד אין עני אלא עני בדעת בשביל שהיו עניים בדעת ייחוד אלהים
היה פותח להם פתח של החכמה והיה מכניס אותם בפתחים ההם לכן היה
יושב בפרשת דרכים ויכניס האורחין בביתו פי' ביתו ממש. ונמרוד
הרשע שהמריד את כל העולם כולו על הקב"ה והיה מטעה אותם אחריו
והיה גורם לבריות שהיו מורדים בעליונים ובתחתונים והיה מוציאם חוץ
מיחוד יי והיו הולכים ועובדים ע"ז זה מת וזה מת ה"ד מקרה אחד לצדיק
ולרשע. כי ודאי מקרה אחד שהוא כ"ע שנקרא מקור החיים מכח פשיטותו
והשואתו הגמורה כי ממנו נובע זה שהוא מוחל לצדיק ולרשע ה"ד וחנותי את אשר אחון ורחמתי את אשר ארחם ואע"פ שאינו הגון וראוי.

לכן הוא נקרא מדת ההשואה בשביל שהוא משוה צדיק לרשע בהשואתו
הגמורה לכן הוא נקרא מקור.

לטוב ולטהור ולטמא. לטוב הוא משה שנקרא טוב שנ' ותרא
אותו כי טוב הוא. ותרא היא מדת המטרוניתא כשהיא מסתכלת ומבטת
כנגד הזכר שהוא משה ורואה | שהוא טוב מצד שהוא ט ע"א
מקבל מעולם העליון והסוד בזה כי טוב העץ תפ' למאכל וכי תאוה הוא
לעינים. וכיון שיודעת בו צד הטוב מיד היא משתוקקת ומתאוה להתדבק
בו בזווג אחד וביהוד אחד ה"ד ותרא אותו כי טוב הוא ותצפנהו שלשה
ירחים כנגד נצח הוד יסוד שהיא צופנת אותו באותן שלשה מדות ה"ד
מה רב טובך אשר צפנת ליריאך פעלת לחוסים בך וכו'. לטהור זה דוד
ע"ה ה"ד לב טהור ברא לי אלהים וכתי' וישלח ויבאהו והוא אדמוני
עם יפה עינים וטוב רואי. רומז למטרוניתא שהיא מדרגת דוד שהוא נקרא
אדמוני והסוד בזה ויצא הראשון אדמוני בשביל שהוא מקבל האודם מצד
הגבורה שהוא ביה דין הקשה והוא אדום כאש והוא אודם הזהב לכן הוא
נקרא ראשון בשביל שהוא שער הראשון להכנסת בית המלך כי אין אדם
יכול לעלות לפני המלך אלא דרך השער ההוא. והוא נקרא אבן השתייה
כי בזה האבן כל העולים במרכבה בזה האבן עולים לכן דוד המלך נקרא אבן
ה"ד אבן מאסו הבונים היתה לראש פינה כי הוא פנה ויסוד לכל העולמות
כולם הם עומדים עליו לכן הוא נקרא אדמוני מלשון אדם. עם יפה עינים
פי' יפה הוא במראות ובצבעים ובגוונים כי כלם נראים באותה האספקלריא
שאינה מאירה. ואין עינים אלא לש' מראה וזהו ששנינו במסכת שבת אין
נותנין צמר ליורה עד שיקלוט העין. פי' צבע להודיע לך כי עינים הוא
מראה ה"ד עם יפה עינים. ועוד כתי' עלאבן אחת שבעה עינים. וטוב
רואי והסוד בזה כי טוב העץ למאכל וכי תאוה הוא לעינים וכו'. לטמא
זהו נבוכד נצר כי דוד בנה יסוד בית המקדש ומלך ארבעים שנה ונבוכד נצר
החריבו ומלך ארבעים שנה. נבוכד נצר רומז לתמורת המלכות שהוא תמורת
דוד שהוא סוד המלכות והוא נקרא סוד הנחש שרוכב על אותן החמורים שהם
עומדים תחתיו ולעולם הוא רודף אחרי מלכות בית דוד להחריבה ולהעמיד
מלכותו. לכן זה מלך ארבעים שנה וזה מלך ארבעים שנה ואין בין זה לזה אלא
שזה מומאה וזה טהרה. לכן כל מה שדוד בונה הוא הורס כי זה הפך
מזה. זה מת וזה מת להודיע לך שמקרה אחד לכולם. ולזובח זהו שלמה

המלך ע"ה ההי"ד ויזבח שלמה את זבח השלמים אשר זבח ליי בקר עשרים ושנים אלף. למה עשרים ושנים אלף כנגד עשרים ושתים אלף מקורות של מבוע הנחל שמתפשטים משם כ"ב אותיות של התורה שהם נמשכים דרך הנתי' עד למלכות יי. לכן שלמה המלך ע"ה כנגד זה היה עושה

ג"כ למטה היה זובח | שנים ועשרים אלף וכו'. ולאשר ט ע"ב איננו זובח זהו ירובעם שביטל את ישראל מעלות לבית המקדש ההי"ד רב לכם מעלות ירושלם הנה אלהיך ישראל אשר העלוך מארץ מצרים ומלך אחר זה*. כטוב זהו משה כמו שביארנו. כחוטא אלו המרגלים שכתי' בהם וחטאים תרדף רעה. משה לא נכנס לארץ ומרגלים לא נכנסו. הנשבע זהו צדיקיה שכתו' בו גם במלך נבוכד נצר מרד אשר השביעו באלהים ונחעורו עיניו. כאשר שבועה ירא זהו שמשון שנא' השבעו לי פן תפגעון בי אתם ונתעורו עיניו שנ' ויאחזוהו פלשתים וינקרו את עיניו ויורדו אותו עזתה ויאסרוהו בנחשתים ויהי טוחן בבית האסורים לפי' אמ' שלמה זה רע בכל אשר נעשה תחת השמש. ד"א כטוב אלו בניו של אהרן. כחוטא אלו שחלקו על הכהונה קרח ועדתו אלו נשרפו שנא' ותצא אש מלפני יי ותאכל אותם בשביל שנכנסו להקריב אש זרה. ואלו נשרפו ההי"ד ואש יצאה מאת יי ותאכל את החמשים ומאתים איש וכו'. ר' אבא פתח לשחוק אמרתי מהולל ולשמחה מה זו עושה. מה מעורבב שחוק של אומות העולם ששוחקין בבתי טרסיאות ובבתי קרקסיאות שלהם כי שחוק שלהם הוא לע"ז כדי למשוך עליהם רוח הטומאה מלמעלה כדי שיתדבקו במדרגתם כראוי. ולשמחה מה זו עושה מה טיבן של תלמידי חכמים להיות עושים שם. כי שמחת עוסקי התורה היא שמשתדלים בתורה ובמצותיה ובדקדוקיה ובטעמיה ובסתריה ובתעלומיה ובאיסוריה ובטומאותיה ובכשריה ובפסוליה זהו שמחתן ההי"ד פקודי יי ישרים משמחי לב. אבל אומות העולם הטמאים הם שמחים בנבלות פיהם ובשחוק ובקלות ראש ובלשון הרע ובזנות ובניאוף וברציחה לכן אלו הולכים ומתדבקים בצדם ואלו מתדבקים בצדם ההי"ד ויגדלו הנערים ויהי עשו איש יודע ציד איש שדה ויעקב איש תם יושב אהלים. זה נמשך לצדו וזה נמשך לצדו.

ד"א לשחוק אמרתי מהולל וכו' אמ' ר' אחא אמ' שלמה המלך ע"ה דברים ששחק עליהם מדת הדין כתי' ולא ירבה לו נשים ולא יסור לבבו וכסף וזהב לא ירבה לו מאד. וכתי' ויהי לו נשים שבע מאות ופלגשים שלש מאות ויסו נשיו את לבבו. וכתי' ולא ירבה לו סוסים וכתי' ויהי לשלמה ארבעים אלף אורות סוסים

למרכבתו וכתי' וכסף וזהב לא ירבה לו מאד וכתי' ויתן שלמה את הכסף בירושלם כאבנים ולא היו גנובות. אמ' ר' יוסי בן חנינא אבני עשר אמות ואבני שמונה אמות. תאנא ר' שמעון בן יוחאי אפי' משקלות שהיו בימי | שלמה של זהב היו דכתי' אין כסף לא נחשב בימי שלמה י ע"א למאומה.

אבל סוד הדבר מאומה רומז לעטרת ישראל שהיא נקראת מאומה בשביל שאין לה מאומה משלה אלא מה שהיא מקבלת מן העליונים אבל בימי שלמה עמדה הירח במלואה והיא מליאה ושבעה מכל אורות עליונים ולא היתה צריכה למדת הבסף ההי"ד אין כסף נחשב בימי שלמה למאומה וכו' כי שלמה ע"ה ידע סוד הענין בשביל זה היה מותר למטה בעולם הכסף כל מה שהיה עושה היה של כסף בשביל שמדת הכסף שהוא חסד היה נוהג בעולם ולא היה בימיו התעוררות דין לא למעלה ולא למטה בשביל שמדת הכסף היה שולט בעולם ולא מדת הזהב לכן אפי' משקלות שהיו בימי שלמה של זהב היו.

ולשמחה מה זו עושה. אמ' לו הב"ה מה העטרה הזאת בידך רד מכסאך באותה שעה ירד שלמה מכסאו ובא אשמדי כדמות שלמה וישב על כסא מלכותו והיה שלמה מחזיר בכל בתי כנסיות ובכל בתי מדרשות שבירושלם ואמ' אני קהלת הייתי מלך על ישראל בירושלם. והן אומ' לו שלמה המלך יושב על כסאו ואתה יושב ומשחטה עצמך ואומ' אני קהלת הייתי מלך על ישראל בירושלם והיו מכין אותו בקנת ונותנין לפניו קערה של גריסין. באותה שעה אמ' וזה היה חלקי מכל עמלי. באותה שעה אמ' הבל הבלים אמר קהלת וכו'.

אבל סוד הדבר של זו האגדה כי שלמה המלך רומז לכנסת ישראל שנקראת שלמה בלש' נקבה בשביל שהיא בת זוגו של צדיק יסוד עולם שהוא מדת השלום ההי"ד הנני נוטה אליה כנהר שלום ועל ידי שלמה נטרדה ונתגרשה כביכול מן מלכות המלך העליון בשביל שעבר על דברי תורה ונשא נשים נכריות מואביות חתיות וצדוניות הכניס השפחה במקום גברתה כביכול גרם סלוק מלכות שלמה העליון ובא אשמדי שהוא תמורת המלכות וישב במקומו והכניס הטומאה במקום הטהרה והכניס השפחה במקום גברתה למלוך והיתה היא מסבבת בבתי כנסיות ובבתי מדרשות כביכול גרושה וטרודה ממלכותה ואומרת אני קהלת הייתי וכו' ודאי כעין דוגמא זה נטרד שלמה למטה ממלכותו והבין זה.

ד"א לשחוק אמרתי מהולל וכו' אמ' ר' פינחס מה מעורבב
שחוק ששחקת מדת הדין על דור המבול שנא' שוחה עבר ולא יגעיל
תפלט פרתו ולא תשכל. ישלחו כצאן עוליהם, יבלו בטוב ימיהם. כיון
שאמ' מה שדי כי נעבדנו ומה נועל כי נפגע בו אמ' להם הקב"ה ולשמחה
מה זו עושה חייכם אני מאבד זכריכם מן העולם ה"ד וימח את כל היקום
אשר על פני האדמה וכו'. ד"א | לשחוק אמרתי מהולל מה י ע"ב
מעורבב שחוק ששחקת מדת הדין על הסדומיים כתי' בהם ארץ ממנה יצא
לחם וכו' מקום ספיר אבניה וכו' גתיב לא ידעו עיט וכו' לא הדריכוהו
בני שחץ ולא עדה עליו שחל. כיון שאמרו באו ונשכח תורת רגל מארצינו
מיד פרץ נחל מעם גר הנשכחים מני רגל וכו'. אמ' להם הב"ה ולשמחה
מה זו עושה חייכם אני אשכחכם מן העולם ה"ד ויי המטיר על סדום
ועל עמורה גפרית ואש וכו'. ד"א לשחוק אמרתי מהולל. מה מעורבב
שחוק ששחקה מדת הדין על אלישבע בת עמי נדב שראתה ארבע שמחות
ביום אחד. דאתה משה אחי בעלה מלך ואהרן בעלה כהן גדול ואחיה
נחשון נשיא ושני בניה סגני כהונה. כיון שנכנסו בניה להקריב קרבן יצאו
שרופין נהפכה שמחתה לאבל ה"ד אחרי מות שני בני אהרן וכו'. ר'
לוי פתח אמרתי להוללים אל תהולו אמ' הקב"ה לרשעים הצדיקים לא שמחו
בעולמי אתם מבקשים לשמוח בעלמי. אדם הראשון לא שמח בעולמי
ואתם מבקשים לשמוח בעולמי. ר' לוי אמ' תפוח עקיבו של אדם הראשון
היה מכהה גלגל חמה ואל תתמה בזה בנוהג שבעולם אדם עושה שני הסקרין*
אחד לו ואחד לבן ביתו. של מי הוא עושה נאה לא שלו. כך אדם הראשון
נברא לתשמישו של הב"ה וגלגל חמה נברא לתשמישן של בריות לא כל
שכן תפוח עקיבו מכהה גלגל חמה. ומה אם תפוח עקיבו מכהה גלגל חמה
קלסתר פניו על אחת כמה וכמה.

אבל יש לך להסתכל כאן בסוד הדבר כי בודאי אדם הראשון
הוא רומז למדת התפ' שנקרא ראשון. למה נקרא ראשון בשביל שהוא
ראשון לחמש ספי' תהתונים שהם תפ' נצח הוד יסוד מלכות. וחמשה עליונים
הם כ"ע חכמה בינה גדולה וכיון שתפא' הוא ראשון לחמשה ספי'
התחתונים נקרא ראשון והוא אדם הראשון ועקיבו של אדם הוא יסוד
שהוא סוד הברית שעומד בין הרגלים והוא נקרא עקב ואותו אור העקב
שהוא יסוד מכהה גלגל חמה פי' שהחמה שהיא בארץ שלנו אינה נחשבת
כלום כנגד אור עקיבו כי הוא מקבל כל אורות העליונים כלם והוא מקור

האור כי לשם יתקבצו כל המאורות לכן גלגל חמה אין לה אור כלל כנגד
אותו אור וכל שכן קלסתר פניו שהוא סוד התפ' שנקרא אספקלריא המאירה
שהוא אור החיים והוא אור התורה ה"ד כי עמך מקור חיים באורך נראה
אור. וזהו סוד מה שאמ' רז"ל שופריה דיעקב מעין שופריה דאדם הראשון
כי שניהם שואבים מזו המדה לכן הוא מכהה גלגל חמה בודאי. לכן התורה
כולה היא סודי סודות אשריו | ואשרי חלקו מי שזוכה לחפש יא ע"א
אחרי נתיבותיה וסודותיה וטעמיה יזכה לראות באור החיים ה"ד לכו ונלכה
באור יי.

אמ' ר' לוי בשם ר' חנינא שלש עשרה חופות קשר הב"ה
לאדם הראשון בגן עדן שנא' בעדן גן אלהים היית כל אבן יקרה מסוכתך
אדם פטדה ויהלום תרשיש שהם וישפה ספיר נפך ובדקת וזהב מלאכת
תפיך ונקבייך בך ביום הבראך כוננו.

אבל סוד הדבר בעדן גן אלהים היית וכו' ואין עדן אלא עדן
החכמה שנקראת עדן ה"ד ונהר יוצא מעדן להשקות את הגן וכו' והיא
נקרא עדן בשביל שהוא מקבל ענג ועידון ותפנוקי מלכים שהם כ"ע
וע' הע' שנקראים מלכים לכל התחתונים. גן אלהים זהו כנסת ישראל
שנקראת גן אלהים ה"ד גן נעול אחותי כלה גל געול וכו' כל זה רומז
למדת המלכות שנקראת כל ה"ד לא תחסר כל בה. אבן מלשון אבן מאסו
הבונים היית וכו' רומז גם כן לעט' שנקראת אבן. יקרה כי היא יקרה
ונכבדת בעיני המלך ה"ד כל כבודה בת מלך פנימה וכו'. מסוכתך אלו
הם שתי סוכות שרומזים לחכמה ובינה שהם נקראים סוכות והסוד בזה
וסוכה תהיה לצל יומם מחורב וכו' וכתי' וברא יי על כל מכון הר ציון
ועל מקראיה ענן יומם ועשן וכו' לכן כנסת ישראל שנקראת אבן היא יקרה
וכבודה מאותן שתי סוכות כי משם היא נמצאת לכן היא כבודה בת מלך
פנימה על שהיא בראשונה נסתרת ונעלמת לפני לפנים על כן היא נקראת
פנימה. ד"א פנימה פי' פני מה שהיא היתה עומדת לפני חכמה עליונה שנקראת
מה ה"ד מה רבו מעשיך יי כולם בחכמה וכו'. אדם רומז למדת התפ'
על שם שהוא מקבל האודם מן הגבורה. ד"א אדם אל תקרי אודם אלא
אדם שהוא נקרא אדם הראשון והסוד בזה דודי צח ואדום דגול מרבבה.
פטדה הוא אבן ירוק הבא מארץ כוש רומז למדת הבינה שהוא קו ירוק
והסוד בזה את קשתי נתתי בענן והוא רומז לקשת העליון והוא ירוק לכן
נקרא פטדה על שם שהוא מארץ כוש והוא נקרא כוש בשביל שחור

שהוא כולל כל השחרות והוא נקרא חושך והסוד בזה ישת חשך סתרו
סביבותיו סוכתו חשכת מים וכו׳. ויהלום רומז לגבורה שהוא בית דין
הקשה שנקרא ויהלום מלש׳ הולם פעם ועוד כתי׳ יהלמני צדיק חסד ויוכיחני
בשביל שהוא מכה והולם ביסורין הוא נקרא יהלום. תרשיש רומז ליסוד
בשביל שהוא מקבל משש מאות ושלש עשרה נחיבות המתפרטים והיורדים
מעולם העליון אל יסוד עולם ההי"ד תרשיש כי ת"ר רומז לשש מאות.
שיש רומז למלכות שהוא בת זוגו שנקרא אבן שיש בשביל שהוא מקבל
מצד | הדין הקשה שנקרא אבן ההי"ד והסירותי את לב האבן יא ע"ב
מבשרכם וכו׳. שהם כנסת ישראל שכולם נראים בה כמו השוהם שהוא
מקבל כל המראות. וישפה רומז לכנסת ישראל שהיא נקראת ישפה אל
תקרי ישפה אלא יש פה פי׳ מדת היש שהוא נעלם בחכמה נראית במדת
המלכות שנקרא פה בשביל שהוא פה לפתח שער המלך העליון. ספיר הוא
גם כן רומז לה והסוד בזה ותחת רגליו כמעשה לבנת הספיר וכו׳. נופך
רומז למדת הגבורה והסוד בזה מלש׳ בפך אבניך והבן זה. וברקת רומז
למדת ההוד שהיא נקראת ברקת על שם שהיא מקבלת מצד הגבורה שנקרא
ברק והסוד בזה וברק בן אבינועם כי ברק הוא סוד הגבורה שנקרא ברק
והוא בית דין העליון והוא בן אבי נועם אבי רומז לחכמה שהוא סוד האב
העליון. נועם רומז למדת הבינה שנקראת נועם כי בה כל מיני חירות ונעימות
של העולמות כולם והסוד בזה ויהי נועם יי אלהינו עלינו וכו׳ עלינו
ודאי כי היא מכסה עלינו כאם שמכסה על בניה. זהב רומז למדת הזהב
שהוא גבורה. ד"א בעדן גן אלהים וכו׳ כי יש בזה הפסוק שלש עשר
חיבות כנגד שלש עשרה חופות שקשר הקב"ה לאדם הראשון ואלו הן:
אדם פטדה ויהלום תרשיש שהם וישפה ספיר ונפך וברקת זהב כל אבן
יקרה מסוכתך כנגד י"ג חופות שעשה הקב"ה לאדם הראשון כשברא הב"ה
אותו ההי"ד בעדן גן אלהים היית כל אבן יקרה מסוכתך וכו׳.

ר׳ שמעון בן לקיש אמ׳ אחת עשרה חופות היו. ורבנן אמרי
עשרה חופות היו. אין ביניהם מחלוקת. מי שעשה אותן י"ג עשה כל אבן
יקרה מסוכתך שלשה. ומי שעשה אחת עשרה עשה אותן אחד. ומי שעשה
עשרה לא עשה אחד מהן אלא אדם פטדה ויהלום תרשיש שהם וישפה ספיר
נפך וברקת זהב. הרי לך עשר כנגד עשרה חופות. רומז לעשר מדרגות
הנעלמות שהם בעולם העליון שהם עשר צחצחות. והסוד בזה והשביע
בצחצחות נפשך וכו׳ והבן זה. ואחר כל זה הטובה שעשה הב"ה לאדם

הראשון אמ׳ לו כי עפר אתה ואל עפר תשוב. אברהם לא שמח בעולמי
ואתם מבקשים לשמוח בעולמי. כי נולד לו בן לאחר מאה שנה אמרתי לו
קח נא את בנך את יחידך אשר אהבת את יצחק והלך אברהם אבי ע"ה
מהלך שלשה ימים ההי"ד ביום השלישי וישא אברהם את עיניו וירא את
המקום מרחוק. והסוד בזה מרחוק נִ נראה לי וכו׳. פי׳ סוד המקום שהקב"ה
מנסה בו הצדיקים הוא אחד מל"ב נתי׳ פליאות חכמה והוא מכ"ע שנקרא בעולם
רחוק והסוד | בזה אמרתי אחכמה והיא רחוקה ממני. וירא מה יב ע"א
ראה ראה ענן קשור על גבי ההר אמ׳ לו בני אתה רואה מה שאני רואה
אמ׳ לו הן. אמ׳ לו מה אתה רואה. אמ׳ לו אני רואה הלנאה ומשובח
וענן קשור עליו. אמ׳ לנעריו רואים אתם כלום. אמרו לו אנו רואים הר
וגבעה. אמ׳ להם שבו לכם פה עם החמור עם הדומה לחמור. נטל את
יצחק בנו והעלהו לראש ההר ובנה את המזבח וסידר את המערכה וערך
את העצים ונטל הסכין. אילולי שאמ׳ לו הב"ה אל השלח ידך כבר היה
שחוט. כיון שבא אצל אמו אמדה לו אמו מה עשה לך אביך. אמ׳ לה
נטלני אבא והעלני הרים והורידני בקעות וסדר את המערכה והעריך העצים
ועקדני על גבי המזבח ונטל את הסכין לשחטני. אילולי שאמ׳ לו הב"ה
אל תשלח ידך אל הנער כבר היה שוחט אותי. אמרה לו ווי לך ברא
דעליבתא. אילולי שאמ׳ לו הב"ה אל תשלח ידך היה שוחט אותך. ולא
הספיקה לגמור הדבר עד שיצתה נשמתה וזהו שכתי׳ ויבא אברהם לספוד
לשרה ולבכותה. מהיכן בא מהר המוריה. כביכול הב"ה לא שמח בעולמו
ובני אדם מבקשים לשמוח בעולמו. שמח יי במעשיו אין כתי׳ כאן אלא
ישמח יי במעשיו. אימתי ישמח יי במעשיו לעתיד לבא. ישראל לא שמחו
בעולמי ואתם מבקשים לשמוח בעולמי. שמח ישראל בעושיו לא כתי׳
כאן אלא ישמח ישראל בעושיו שעתידין ישראל לשמוח במעשיו של הב"ה
לעתיד לבא. לפי׳ כתי׳ אמרתי להוללים אל תהולו. ר׳ יוחנן ור׳ יודן
בן גלילא פתח אם על פיך יגביה נשר וכי ירים קנו. אמ׳ הקב"ה אם
על מימר דפומך הייתי משרה שכינתי על גבי הארון או על מימר פומך
הייתי מסלק שכינתי מן הארון. מקדש ראשון סלע ישכון ויתלונן לינה
אחת. מקדש שני על שן סלע ומצודה. ושנינו משניטל הארון אבן היתה
שם מימות הנביאים הראשונים ושתיה היתה נקראת. ולמה נקראת שתיה.
אמ׳ ר׳ יוסי בר חלפתא שממנה הושתת כל העולם. וכיצד היתה תפלתו
של כהן גדול ביום הכפורים. יהי רצון מלפנקדי אלהינו ואלהי אבותינו

שתהא השנה הזו שחומה* גשומה וטלולה שנת דיצה שנת שובע שנת רצון
שנת ברכה שנת משא ומתן שנה שלא יצטרכו עמך ישראל בה זה לזה שנה
שלא ינביהו שררה אלו על אלו. ורבנן אומ' עוד היה מוסיף בתפלתו על
אחינו אנשי השחון שלא יעשו בתיהן קבריהן. משם חפר אוכל למרחוק
עיניו יביטו. משם הוא מרגל אוכל לכל ימות השנה. למרחוק עיניו יביטו |
מראש השנה היה יודע מה יהיה בסופה. כיצד כיון שהיה יב ע"ב
צופה ורואה עשן המערכה עולה לדרום אזי היה יודע שדרום שבע, עולה
למזרח יודע שהמזרח שבע. עולה לצפון יודע שהצפון שבע. כלפי רקיע
יודע שהעולם כולו שבע. ואחר כל השנה היה* אפרוחיו יעלעו דם ובאשר
חללים שם הוא. פי' שישראל כולם הם מתענגין בתפנוקי מלכים. ר'
יודן בשם ר' יהושע בן לוי ור' ברכיה בשם ר' חייא בר אבא אמרו קרבו
שאו את אחיכם מאת פני הקדש . מאת הקדש אין כתי' כאן אלא מאת
פני הקדש כאדם שאומ' לחבירו העבר את המת הזה מלפני אביו עד מתי
יראה אביו את בנו מת ה"ד אחרי מות שני בני אהרן וכו' .ר' אמאי
בר' זעירא* פתח אף לזאת יחרד לבי ויתר ממקומו. ומהו ויתר מקפץ
כמו שכתו' לנתר בהם על הארץ ותר' לקפצא בהון על ארעא. אמ' איוב
לא היו בני אדם* דומין למטהו של אהרן. נכנס יבש ויצא לח. במטה
אהרן כתי' ויוצא פרח ויצץ ציץ ויגמול שקדים. טיטוס הרשע נכנס לבית
קדשי הקדשים חתך את הפרוכת ונכנס בשלום ויצא בשלום. ובני אהרן
נכנסו להקטיר ויצאו שרופים ה"ד אחרי מות וכו' . ר' ברכיה פתח
גם ענוש לצדיק לא טוב להכות נדיבים עלי יושר. אפע"פ שענשתי לאהרן
ונטלתי שני בניו ממנו לא טוב אלא להכות נדיבים עלי יושר. תני בשם
ר' אליעזר לא מתו שני בני אהרן נדב ואביהוא אלא על שהורו הלכה
בפני משה רבן. מעשה בתלמיד חכם שהורה הלכה לפני ר' אליעזר רבו.
אמ' זה אינו מוציא שבתו עד שהוא מת. וכן היה לא הוציא שבתו עד
שמת. אמ' לו תלמידיו רבינו נביא אתה. אמ' להם לא נביא אנכי אלא
כך מקובל אני מרבותי כל המורה הלכה בפני רבו חייב מיתה. תנא אסור
לתלמיד חכם להורות הלכה בפני רבו עד שיהיא רחוק ממנו י"ב מיל
כנגד מחנה ישראל. בא וראה בארבע מקומות בתורה מזכיר מיתתן של
בני אהרן והזכיר את סורחנן כל כך למה להודיעך שלא נמצא בידן אלא
אותו עון בלבד. אמ' ר' אלעזר המודעי בא וראה כמה קשה מיתתן של
בני אהרן לפני הקב"ה שבכל מקום שהוא מזכיר מיתתן מזכיר סורחנן

כל כך למה שלא ליתן פתחון פה לבאי עולם שמעשים מקולקלים היה
להם בסתר לפי' מתו. אמ' בר קפרא בשם ר' ירמיה בן אלעזר בשביל
ארבעה דברים מתו בני אהרן. על הקריבה ועל ההקרבה ועל אש זרה ועל
שלא נטלו עיצה זה מזה. על הקריבה שנכנסו לפני לפנים למקום שלא
היה להם להכנים להקטיר קטורת פי' למקום שהקטורת הוא שוכן שם
ה"ד שמן וקטורת ישמח וכו' כי שמן רומז לכ"ע שכל השמנים של
המשחים שנמשכים לזה העולם משם הם | נובעים ה"ד יג ע"א
כשמן הטוב על הראש יורד על הזקן זקן אהרן שיורד זכו' . לכן הוא
נקרא שמן. וקטורת רומז לבינה קטורת מלש' קשר כי הוא קושר בין
העולמות בין עולם העליון ובין עולם המחודש כי הוא כאסקופה המשתמש
לשתי רשויות אם הפתח פתוח היא משתמשת לפנים והדלת נעולה משתמשת
לחוץ ונחשבת כרשות הרבים והדלת פתוח נחשבת כרשות היחיד כך הבינה
היא משתמשת לפניי לפנים שהוא רשות היחוד שהוא מעולם העליון ונחשבת
גם כן מעולם התחתון שהוא רשות הרבים לכן נקרא קטורת שקושר כל
העולמות בקשר חזק ובזה חטאו בני אהרן שרצולהקטיר קטורת ליכנס
לפניי לפנים להרהר ולחקור. ועל ההקרבה שהקריבו מה שלא נצטוו על
זה ה"ד אשר לא צוה אותם. ועל אש זרה על שהביאו אש מבית כירים
פי' אש של העט' שהוא בית הכירים לקרב האש למדרגתו. ועל שלא
נטלו עיצה זה מזה. תנ' ר' חייא איש מחתתו אש מחיתתו* אש מעצמו
עשו ולא נטלו עיצה זה מזה. אמ' ר' לוי ובשביל ארבע דברים מתו בני
אהרן ובכלם כתי' בהם מיתה. על ידי שנכנסו שתויי יין כתי' בהם יין
ושכר אל תשת אתה ובניך אתך בבאכם אל אהל מועד ולא תמותו וכו'.
שהם באו והיו מעוררים צד הגבורה שהוא יין המשתכר ויין של רוגז ויין
של כעס. וכהן הוא מדת החסד צריך להראות לעולם פנים שחוקים ופנים
של שמחה כדי לעורר מדרגתו כדי לעורר חסד העליון שהוא כהן גדול
בשמים ואלו בני אהרן באו לעורר צד הדין שהוא יין המשתכר כדי להוציא
דין על העולם לכך נענשו. ועל ידי שנכנסו מחוסרי בגדים דכתי' בהן
והיו על אהרן ועל בניו בבאם אל אהל מועד או בגשתם אל המזבח לשרת
בקדש ולא ישאו עון ומתו.

אבל סוד הדבר כי שני בני אהרן לא היו עדין שלמים בבגדים
העליונים כי כל צדיק וצדיק יש לו מלבוש ידוע* שיתלבש בו כשיפטר
לבית עולמו אזי ימצא אותו מלבוש מתוקן ויתלבש בו כהוגן אבל אם

לא עדיין נשלמו מעשיו ואינו ראוי לאותו מלבוש אזי לא ימצא אותו מלבוש מתוקן ואותו מלבוש יֵאָרֵג ממצות וצדקות ומעשים טובים ה"ד וילבש צדקה כשריון וזה המלבוש אינו מתוקן אלא למי שהוא שלם מלמטה וקיים דמות השלשלת* בזה העולם בפריה ורביה והוא שיש לו בת זוג אזי הוא שלם מלמעלה ומלמטה ואזי אותו המלבוש מתוקן לו כראוי. ואם כביכול זה המלבוש אינו מתוקן לו בשביל שלא נשלם מלמטה בשביל שאינו נשוא והוא פגום שאין לו פריה ורביה אזי נפשט לו אותו מלבוש מלמעלה. גם כן שני בני אהרן נכנסו מחוסרי בגדים פי' בגדים עליונים שלא היו נשואים ולא היה להם פריה ורביה לכן הופשטו מאותן הבגדים ולא היו עדין מתדמין ליוצרם* ונכנסו לעשות העבודה | ההיא לכן נענשו יג ע"ב מלמעלה ה"ד ותצא אש מלפני יי ותאכל אותם וכו' פי' דווקא אש העליון שהוא המלכות שנקרא אש ה"ד כי יי אלהיך אש אוכלה הוא וכו'.

ומה היו חסרים אמ' ר' לוי מעיל היו חסרים שכתו' בו מיתה ה"ד והיה על אהרן לשרת ונשמע קולו בבואו אל הקדש וכו'. ועל ידי שלא היה להם בנים כמו שאמרנו כתו' בהם מיתה שנא" וימת נדב ואביהוא לפני יי בהקריבם אש זרה לפני יי במדבר סיני ובנים לא היו להם וכו'. אבא חנין אמ' על ידי שלא היו להם נשים דתנן וכפר בעדו ובעד ביתו. ביתו היא אשתו שנקראת ביהו בשביל שהאשה היא עקר הבית. אמ' ר' לוי שחוצים היו הרבה היו אומרין איזו אשה הוגנת לנו. אמ' ר' נחמיה עליהם כתי' בחודיו אכלה אש ובתולתיו לא הוללו. ועוד מן זה כתי' ואל משה אמר עלה אל יי אתה ואהרן נדב ואביהוא ושבעים מזקני ישראל והשתחויתם מרחוק. מלמד שהיו משה ואהרן מהלכין תחלה ונדב ואביהוא מהלכין אחריהן והיו אומרין עוד ימותו שני זקינים הללו ואנו נוהגין שררה על הצבור תהתיהן. ר' יודן בשם ר' איבו אמ' שניהם אמרו בפיהן זה לזה. ר' פינחס אמ' בלבם הרהרו. אמ' להם הב"ה אל תתהלל ביום מחר כי לא תדע מה ילד יום. ודא' מה ילד יום כי אותו היום הידוע שהוא בנסת ישראל שהוא אחד משבעה ימות השבוע שהם פעליו* בששת ימי בראשית כי אותה המדה היא מקבלת הגזירה מעולם המחשבה לחתוך הגזירה על פי הדין העליון ויש בידה יכולת לשנות הגזירה ההיא לטוב או לרע כמו שהיא רוצה וזהו סוד וינחם יי על הרעה וכן ויחעצב אל לבו. כל זה רומז למדת המלכות שהיא נקראת סוד האיפשר* לכן היא הלד מה שהיא חפיצה להוריד לעולם לכן אמ' בי לא תדע מה

ילד יום ודאי. כי הרבה סייחין מתו ונעשו עורותיהן שטוחין על אמותיהן. כתי' ואל אצילי בני ישראל לא שלח ידו וכו'. אמ' ר' פינחס מכאן שהיו ראוין להשלחת יד. ויחזו את האלהים ויאכלו וישתו אלא מלמד שזנו עיניהן מן השכינה כאדם המביט בחבירו מתוך מאכל ומשתה. ר' יוחנן אמ' אכילה ודאי דכתי' באור פני מלך חיים ורצונו כעב מלקוש. אמ' ר' תנחומא מלמד שהגיסו את לבן ועמדו על רגליהן וזנו עיניהן מן השכינה. ר' יהושע בשם ר' לוי אמ' משה לא זן עיניו מן השכינה שנא' ויסתר משה פניו כי ירא מהביט אל האלהים. בשכר כי ירא זכה לוידאו מגשת אליו ובשכר מהביט אל האלהים זכה ותמונת יי יביט. ונדב ואביהוא זנו עיניהן מן השכינה ולא נהנו מן השכינה ה"ד וימת נדב ואביהוא לפני יי בהקריבם אש זרה וכו'. אמ' ר' יוחנן וכי לפני יי מתו אלא מלמד שהיה קשה לפני הקב"ה בשעה שבניהם של צדיקים מסתלקין בחייהם. ר' נחמן בע' קמ' ר' | פינחס בכאן אתה אומ' יד ע"א לפני יי לפני יי שני פעמים ולהלן הוא אומ' לפני אביהם פעם אחת אלא מלמד שהיא קשה לפני הקב"ה כפלים. במדבר סיני וכי במדבר סיני מתו אלא מלמד שמהר סיני נטלו אפופסין שלהן. ובנים לא היו להם ר' יעקב בר אביה בשם ר' אבא אמ' אלו היו להם בנים היו קודמין לאלעזר ואיתמר שכל הקודם בנחלה יוצאי יריכו קודמת ובלבד שיהא נוהג מנהג אבותיו. ויכהן אלעזר ואיתמר על פני אהרן אביהם. ר' יצחק אמ' בחייו ר' חייא בר אבא אמ' במותו. על דעתיה דר' יצחק דאמ' בחייו נאמ' כאן על פני אהרן אביהם ונא' להלן וימה הרן על פני תרח אביו. ומה פני האמור להלן בחייו אף בכאן פני בחייו. על דעתיה דר' חייא דאמ' במותו נאמ' כאן פני וגאמ' להלן ויקם אברהם מעל פני מתו. מה פני האמור להלן במותו אף פני האמור כאן במותו. ועל דעתיה דר' יצחק דאמ' בחייו ארעיה טומאה באהרן שימש אלעזר טומאה באלעזר שימש איתמר. מעשה בשמעון בן קמחית שהיה צריך לדבר עם מלך מערביים ניתזה צינורא מתוך פיו על בגדיו וטמאתו. ונכנס יהודה אחיו ושמיש תחתיו בכהונה גדולה. אותו היום ראתה אימן שני בניה כהנים גדולים. אמרו שבעה בנים היו לה לקמחית וכולן שימשו בכהונה גדולה. נכנסו חכמים אצלה אמרו לה אמרי לנו מה מעשים טובים יש בידך. אמרה להם לא ראו קורות ביתי שערות ראשי מימי. אמרו כל קמחיא קמחין וקמחא דקמחית סולתא. קראו עליה את הפסוק הזה כל כבודה בת מלך פנימה ממשבצות זהב לבושה.

אבל יש לך להסתכל בסוד הדבר כי הבאר שהעלה להם הקב"ה לישראל הוא רומז לסוד באר שחפרוה שרים. כמו הבאר שהוא מתמלא מן המקורות והמבועות כך כנסת ישראל היא מתמלאת מן המבועות והמקורות העליונים אשר לא יכזבו מימיו לעולם. והסוד בזה וירא והנה באר בשדה והנה שם שלשה עדרי צאן. ועוד כתי' שתה מים מבורך ונוזלים מתוך בארך. למה באר בתחלה ואחר כך בור. אלא כל זמן שכנסת ישראל מתמלאת מן המקורות העליונים שהוא הנהר שאינו פוסקין מימיו נקראת באר. אבל אם חס ושלום אם אין כנסת ישראל מקבלת מן הנהר ההוא אז כביכול היא חסירה ופגומה ונקראת בור והסוד בזה והבור רק אין בו מים פי'

סדוחין ומים הפוסלין את המקוה ומים המארדים. אזי היא כביכול מקבלת
מצד החיצוניות והסוד בזה ותכמא הארץ והבין זה מאד ודום ליי. לכן
זה הבאר שהעלה הב"ה לישראל היה במילואו מן העליונים והיו בהם מים

שבה רוצה לומ' | המוח הקדוש שהוא בתוך כת' ע' יח ע"ב
שהוא יושב באויר זך וסהור שאינו נתפס בשכל ורעיון. ד"א מוח אותיותיו
הם חום בשביל שמשם יבא חום של החיונות של המחשבה. כי מן המחשבה
יתהוה הרהור ומן ההרהור התאוה והתאוה היא נשלחת אל הכביד והכליות
אזי יתעוררו הכליות בכח התאוה ושולחים מים טהורים ונקיים כנגד הנקבה
ומשם יתהוו פירות של הנשמות הקדושות הנשלחים לזה העולם והם נקראים
פרי מעשיו של הקב"ה שהוא תפ' ישראל ההי"ר בנים אתם ליי אלהיכם
וכתי' ממני פריך נמצא. פי' ממני ודאי. כי כל הנשמות הקדושות היורדים
לעולם ודאי ממנה הם מתאצלים ובאים לעולם. נמצא שכל הנמצאים
והנבראים יתאצלו ונמצאו מאותו חום של המוח הקדוש והסוד בזה כי לא
מחשבותי מחשבותיכם ולא דרכיכם וכו'. לכן האל"ף של אמת רומז
לכ"ע והבין זה. מ' רומז לנהר שהוא היובל והסוד ועל יובל ישלח שרשיו.

כמו המ"ם שהוא פתוח מלמטה וסתום מלמעלה לרמוז לך למדת היובל
שהיא פותחת עצמה כדי ליתן מים לעולמות שלמטה לכן הוא פתוח מלמטה.
וסתום מלמעלה בשביל שהוא נסתם ונסגר מכ"ע שהוא אין ואפס כי הוא
נדבק מין למינו לכן המ"ם סתום מלמעלה ופתוח למטה בשביל שהוא עומד
בין שני התחומין בין עולם הסתום ובין עולם הנגלה. כי הבינה היא סתומה
עם העליונים ופתוחה עם התחתונים. וזהו סוד שאסור לו לאדם לשנות
מנהג המדינה אלא נותנין עליו חומרי מקום שהלך לשם וחומרי מקום שיצא
משם והבן זה והמשכיל יבין. ד"א למה המ"ם שהוא הבינה פתוח מלמטה
אלא לרמוז שהבינה נקראת תשובה ובשביל שהוא מקבל לכל שבי פשע
וידו פתוחה לקבל השבים אליו לכן הוא נקרא תשובה. והסוד בזה כי
עפר אתה ואל עפר תשוב ולכן היא פתוחה למטה. ד"א המ"ם פתוחה רומז
למדת התפ' שהוא זכר כי הזכר אינו צריך שמירה והנקבה שהיא עט'
ישראל היא צריכה שמירה והסוד בזה שהכלה והחיה צריכין שמירה והבן
זה מאד. ד"א מ"ם סתומה רומז למדת היסוד שהוא סוד הברית שהוא
ג"כ צריך שמירה בשביל שהוא נחשב במלכות יי כי הוא והיא אחר. והסוד
בזה לפרבה המשרה ולשלום אין קץ כי הוא נקרא מדת השלום ההי"ר
הנני נוטה אליה כנהר שלום וכנחל שוטף וכו'. תי"ו מן אמת רומז למדת
העט' כמו שאמרנו. נמצא | שאלו שלש מדרגות שהם כ"ע יט ע"א
ותפ' ועט' הם סוד אמת. לכן אל* ג' ספי' נקראו אמת המים כי כל המים
של כל העולמות לא יצאו אלא על פי אלו ג' מדרגות שהוא מדת שורק
כנון זה ,' שהנקודה הראשונה רומז לכ"ע ואמצעית רומז למדת התפ'
שהוא אמצעי והוא הבריח התיכון. והאחרונה רומז למדת המלכות ונמצא
שעל ידי אלו שלשה קשרים יתהוו ויתציירו כל הנבראים וכל הנמצאים.
משנסתלקה הבאר מה כתי' שם לא מקום זרע ותאנה וגפן ורמון ומים אין
לשתות. כשכביכול כנסת ישראל יסתלקו ממנה מקורות העליונים שמשפיעים
לה אזי היא כביכול אין לה זרע שהם נשמות הקדושים שהם נשלחים לה
מלמעלה ממקום כ"ע שהוא סוד המחשבה העמוקה ההי"ד לא מקום זרע
כי בעט' שנקראת מקום אין שם זרע של הנשמות. ותאנה היא נקראת
תאנה ואין תאנה אלא תְּאֲנָה כי היא בתואנה ובמריבה בין עם טמא המתדבקים
בה והסוד בזה ויהי העם כמתאוננים והבין זה. ד"א תאנה היא תאנה ממש
שהיא נקראת תאנה כמו התאנה שעליה מרים כך כנסת ישראל היא כביכול

חיה מרה בין התמורות. וגפן היא נקראת גפן ה"ד גפן ממצרים תסיע. כמו הגפן שאינה מקבלת עליה הרכבה כך כנסת ישראל אינה מקבלת עליה לא כח מן הכוחות מן החיצוניות אלא כ"ע שהיא משתחוה לו ותקבלהו לאלוה ה"ד וצבא השמים לך משתחוים. ד"א למה נקראת גפן כמו הגפן שעליה נושרות מזמן לזמן כך היא כביכול מתרחקת ומתקרבת מן זמן לזמן ליכנס לביה המלך העליון ה"ד ובגפן שלשה סריגים. אלו הן נצח והוד יסוד שהם שלשה שרינים עליונים. והיא עלתה נצה פי' שהיא מתעלה ביניהם. ורמון רומז ג"כ לכנסת ישראל שנקראת רמון. ומים אין. כי אין הוא כ"ע שהוא מדת המחשבה כי כל המים הבאים מלמעלה משם הם באים ה"ד ומים אין לשתות. לכן אמ' הב"ה למשה אמור לישראל כשתכנסו לארץ אני מחזיר לכם את כל הטובה. פי' הטובה הגנוזה לכם מששת ימי בראשית ה"ד מה רב טובך אשר צפנת וכו' פי' אותו אור העליון ששימש כשנברא העולם כשקמו אינשי פושעי הדור מיד גנזו הקב"ה לצדיקים ה"ד וימנע מרשעים אורם וזרוע רמה תשבר. לכן זה האור עתיד הקב"ה להאיר לישראל ה"ד והיה אור הלבנה כאור החמה ואור החמה וכו' וכתי' כי יי אלהיך מביאך אל ארץ | טובה יט ע"ב ארץ נחלי מים וכו' פי' כנסת ישראל שהוא ארץ התחתונה כל הנחלים והמקורות של כל העולמות כולם שופכים לה ה"ד כל הנחלים הולכים אל הים והים אינינו מלא וכו' פי' כל הנחלים היורדים מכ"ע הם הולכים אל הים ההוא אע"פ אינינו מלא כי היא שואבת כל המימות והיא עדיין יבשת והסוד יבשה הארץ וכו'. עיינות של כ"ע המתפשטים מן מבוע של כל. ותהומות פי' מימות של כל התהומות ההם כולם הם נותנים לה. כתי' ארץ חטה ושעורה וגפן ותאנה ורמון ארץ זית שמן ודבש. הם עשרה תיבות כנגד עשרה מדות הנעלמים. ארץ אשר אבניה ברזל. פי' אבניה רומז למדת הגבורה שהוא קשה כברזל ה"ד והסירותי את לב האבן מבשרכם וכו'. ומהרריה תחצוב נחושת. פי' גבורה והוד נקראים הרים למלכות שהיא נקראת נחשת.

אמ' להם הב"ה לישראל אע"פ שתמצאו אותה מלאה לא תאמרו נשב ולא נטע אלא היו זהירין בנטיעה ה"ד כי תבואו אל הארץ ונטעתם כל עץ מאכל וכו'. כשם שנכנסתם ומצאתם נטיעות שנטעו אחרים אף אתם היו נוטעים לבניכם שלא יאמר אדם זקן אני כמה שנים אני חי למה אני עומד ומתיגע לאחרים למחר אני מת. אמ' שלמה המלך ע"ה את הכל

ושנינו כמה מתנות נבראו בעולם. כך שנו רז"ל שלש מתנות טובות ברא הקב"ה בעולמו חכמה וגבורה ועושר. זכה אדם לאחת מהן נוטל חמדת כל העולם. זכה בחכמה זכה בכל. זכה בגבורה זכה בכל. זכה לעושר זכה לכל. אימתי בזמן שהיא מתנות שמים ובאות בכח התורה אבל גבורתו ועשרו של בשר ודם אינו כלום שכן אמ' שלמה המ' ע"ה שבתי וראה תחת השמש כי לא לקלים המרוץ ולא לגבורים המלחמה וגם לא לחכמים לחם וגם לא לנבונים עושר וגם לא ליודעים חן כי עת ופגע יקרה את כולם. וכן ירמיה אמ' כה אמ' יי אל יתהלל חכם בחכמתו ואל יתהלל הגבור בגבורתו ואל יתהלל עשיר בעושרו. כי אם בזאת יתהלל המתהלל השכל וידוע אותי וכו'. ומתנות אלו שאינן מן הקב"ה סופן להפסק ממנו. שנינו שני חכמים עמדו בעולם אחד מישראל ואחד מאומות העולם. אחיתופל מישראל ובלעם מאומות העולם. ושניהם אבדו מן העולם הזה ומן העולם הבא. שני גבורים עמדו בעולם אחד מישראל ואחד מאומות העולם. שמשון מישראל וגלית מאומות העולם ושניהם אבדו מן העולם. שני עשירים עמדו בעולם אחד | מישראל ואחד מאומות העולם. כא ע"א קרח מן ישראל והמן מאומות העולם. ושניהם אבדו מן העולם. למה לפי שלא היה מתנתם מן הב"ה אלא הן הוטפין אותה להן. וכן אתה מוציא בבני גד ובני ראובין שהיו עשירים הרבה והיה להם מקנה גדול וחבבו את ממונם וישבו להם חוץ מארץ ישראל לפי' גלו תחלה מן השבטים שנא' ויגלם לראובני ולגדי ולחצי שבט המנשה. מי גרם להם על שהפרישו עצמן מן אחיהם בשביל קניינם ה"ד ומקנה רב היה לבני ראובן ולבני גד וכו'. זש"ה כי לא ממוצא וממערב ולא ממדבר הרים. כי אלהים שופט זה ישפיל וזה ירים. מהו לא ממוצא וממערב לא ממה שאדם יוצא ועמל בסחורה והולך למזרח ולמערב וחוזר על המדברות נעשה עשיר. אפי' פורש בספינות והולך למזרח ולמערב וחוזר על המדברות ועל ההרים אינו נעשה עשיר. מהו ולא ממדבר הרים. אמ' ר' אבא כל הרים שבמקרא הוא לשון הרים חוץ מזה שהוא דומה שאין האדם מתרומם מן הדברים הללו. ומה הב"ה עושה נוטל נכסים של זה ונותן לזה ה"ד כי אלהים שופט זה ישפיל וזה ירים. למה נקרא שמן נכסים שנכסין מזה ונגלין לזה. ולמה נקרא שמן זוזים לפי שזזין מזה ונותנין לזה. וכן חנה אומ'

יי מוריש ומעשיר משפיל אף מרומם. באף שהוא מביא על זה מרומם לזה. תדע לך כשבקשו שיתעשרו בני ראובן ובני גד הפיל את המדינים לפני ישראל כדי שיתעשרו מה כתי' למעלה וישבו בני ישראל את נשי מדין ואת טפם ואת כל בהמתם ואת כל מקניהם ואת כל חילם בזזו. ה"ד ומקנה רב היה לבני ראובן ולבני גד. שהשפיל את המדינים ורומם לבני ראובן ולבני גד. לקיים הפסו' כי לא ממוצא וממערב ולא ממדבר הרים. לכן כתי' כי אלהים שופט זה ישפיל וזה ירים. וזהו שכתו' לב חכם לימינו ולב כסיל לשמאלו. לב חכם לימינו זה משה ולב כסיל לשמאלו אלו בני ראובן ובני גד שעשו את העיקר טפלה ואת הטפלה עיקר. למה בשביל שחבבו את נכסיהן יותר מן הנפשות* שהן אמרו למשה נדרות צאן נבנה למקנינו פה ואחרי כן וערים לטפינו. אמ' להם משה לא כך עשו את העיקר תחלה בנו לכם ערים לטפכם ואחר כך וגדרות לצנאכם. זהו כתי' לב חכם לימינו ולב כסיל לשמאלו. אמ' להם הקב"ה חיבבתם ממונכם יותר מן הנפשות חייכם אין בו ברכה שנא' נחלה מבהלת בראשונה ואחריתה לא תבורך. לכן אמ' רז"ל איזהו עשיר השמח בחלקו ה"ד יגיע כפיך כי תאכל אשריך וטוב לך.

אבל סוד הדבר אל יתהלל חכם בחכמתו אין חכם אלא | מדת החכמה שנקראת חכם כי החכמה הוא דבר ממוצע בין כא ע"ב היסודות אינו מן האין ממש ולא מן היש ממש אלא הוא ממוצע ביניהם כי יש גבול בעולם החכמה שנקראת יש ויש גבול בעולם החכמה נקרא אין כמו שפירשתי*בענין הנתיב של ל"ב נתיבות כי הנתיב י"א הוא היחס הניתנת לעמוד בפני עי' העי' לרמוז לך שעד זה הנתיב הוא נקרא אין והעדר גמור ומן הנתיב של אחריו הוא התחלת היש לכן נקרא חכמה מדה בינוני ונקראת גלם שהוא מוכן לקבל הצורות*. לכן אע"פ שהחכמה עצמה אין לה להשתבח ולהתהלל על עצמה שלא ממנה חכמתה אלא מן הסבות העליונות לה פי' כ"ע שהוא מדת המחשבה וע' העי' שהוא אין סוף פי' שאין סוף לעומקותו כי הוא אפס ואין שאין אין כמותו. ואל יתהלל הגבור בגבורתו רומז למדת הגבורה שהוא גבור וחזק שבכל המדות ה"ד יי כגבור יצא כאיש מלחמות יעיר קנאה יריע אף יצריח וכו' אפילו הגבורה שהוא חזק בדינו מכל מקום אין לו להתגאות כי אין לו כח אלא מן אם הבנים שמחה שהוא אם לכל חי אע"פ שהיא רחמים מכל מקום היא נקראת דין ה"ד בראשית ברא אלהים. ואין אלהים אלא מדת הדין

שכל הדינין והגבורות יתעוררומשם. ואל יתהלל עשיר בעושרו רומז להוד שהוא עשיר מצד הגבורה ה"ד בשמאלה עושר וכבוד כי כל העושר של כל העולמות בה ה"ד מצפון זהב יאתה וכו'. לכן באתי להודיעך על אלו ג' מדות הנזכרים שכל אלו אין להם מעצמותן אלא ממתנת אלהים. כי אם בזאת יתהלל המתהלל השכל וידוע וכו'. כי אין לאדם להשתבח ולהתהלל כי אם בזאת פי' כי על ידי זאת שהוא כנסת ישראל יבול האדם לעלות ולחקור במציאות השכל שהוא כ"ע. אל היקרי השכל אלא העבל כי הוא נקרא שכל על דרך שכל משכיל מושכל. וכ"ש האדם הבזוי והשפל שעומד בדעת קלה שאינו יכול להלל עצמו לא בחכמה ולא בגבורה ולא בעושר אלא בזאת שהיא מתנת אלהים שהיא נותנת לו חכמה וגבורה ועושר על פי השכל העליון שהוא סוד המחשבה העליון אשר אין רעיון יכול לחפש.

פתח ואמ' ראשית עריסותיכם חלה תרימו תרומה כתרומת גורן כן תרימו אותה. ראשית רומז למדת החכמה שנקראת ראשית ה"ד ראשית חכמה יראת יי כי היא נקראת ראשית בשביל שהיא ראשית להשגה שיש בה ישות ה"ד להנחיל אוהבי יש ואוצרותיהם אמלא. עריסותיכם רומז למדת העט' שנקראת עריסותיכם מלש' ערס שהוא מטה בשביל שהיא נקראת מטתו של שלמה ששים גבודים סביב לה וכו' ועוד כתי' וישתחו ישראל על | ראש המטה. לכך ציונו הב"ה להפריש חלה כב ע"א ותרומה למה בשביל שהחלה רומז למדת הדין הקשה שהוא סוד הגבורה שכל הדינין והגבורות משם מתעוררים. חלה בני' שלש וארבעים כנגד השם של מ"ב אותיות שהוא בתוך הגבורה שנקרא מדת הדין הקשה כי הוא דן ושופט את כל העולמות ע"י אלו מ"ב שמות. לכן ציונו הקב"ה להפריש חלה כדי להסיר הדין מן העולם כדי שלא ישאר בעולם התעוררות דין כלל. כי עריסותיכם שהיא המטה הידועה נקראה בית דין הרפה והיא העיסה ואנו צריכין להסיר ממנה החלה שהוא בית דין הקשה כדי שלא יתחברו שתי בתי דינין ביחד ה"ד והסירותי את לב האבן מבשרכם וכו' והסוד בזה ויקח מאתם את שמעון והבן זה. לכן ציונו הב"ה בתורתינו הקדושה להסיר החלה מן העיסה כדי שלא יתעוררו הדינין בעולם כי אין התעוררות למטה עד שיהא התעוררות למעלה*. לכן אנו צריכין ליתן החלה לכהן ויאכלנה מאי טעמא בשביל שהכהן חסד עליון הנקרא כהן גדול בשמים ה"ד כי בחסד יכופר עון וגו' והוא מדת החסד והרחמים

כי אינו חפץ אלא להביא רחמים לעולמות כולם מפני חסדו הגדול. ואנו נותנין לו החלה הידועה שהיא מדת הגבורה כדי לאכול אותה ולכפוף הדין הקשה כדי שלא לשלוט על העולם ואנו כוללים השמאל בימין כדי שיבלע שם ולא יעשה רושם בעולם וזהו סוד שהמים מבבין האש. לכן כל מי שאינו מפריש חלה מעיסתו כאלו גורם התעוררות דין על העולם לכן לא יאכל אותה אלא הכהן שהוא חסד גמור והוא יסוד המים. אבל לא תאבל לנוכרי אלא כהן למה בשביל שישראל שהוא נכרי לכהונה יש בהם קצת התעוררות דין ויכול לחבר דין עם דין של הגבורה ויצאו לעשות דין וכליה בעולם. לכן הזהרה שלא לאכול הנוכרי את החלה כי הנוכריים יש בהם התעוררות כגון תפ' שהוא ממוצע בין דין ורחמים ונצח ג"כ יש בו התעוררות דין והוד שהוא מקבל מן הגבורה יש בו גם כן התעוררות דין ויסוד ג"כ. לכן כל מי שאוכל החלה אין לו חלק באלהי ישראל בשביל שהוא עושה פגם בעליונים במקום דליכא פגם והבן זה.

הרי חלה למטה ונסכים של יין למעלה. לפי' פתח ר' חנינא ואמ' לך אכול בשמחה לחמך ושתה בלב טוב יינך כי כבר רצה וכו'. אכול בשמחה לחמך ראשי תיבות אבל לרמוז לך שאין שמחה שלימה בעולם מיום שנחרב בית המקדש יהי רצו' שי' במ' בי' שאסור לו לאדם לשמוח יותר מדאי ההי"ד שישו אתה משוש כל המתאבלים עליה. כי כל המתאבל על חורבן בית המקדש סופו לראות בשמחתה ההי"ד כל המתאבלים עליה.

מהו כי כבר רצה האלהים את | מעשיך. זה הפסוק מדבר כנגד אברהם בשעה שאמ' לו הקב"ה קח נא את בנך את יחידך השכים אברהם ונסל בנו בזריזות והעלהו להר המוריה*. אמ' אברהם לפני הבי"ה רבו' של עולם לחנם אמרת לי קח נא. א"ל לאו אלא להודיעך בעולם שנא' כי ידעתיו למען אשר יצוה את בניו ואת ביתו אחריו וכו'. אמ' ר' שמעון בן יוחאי אמ' לו הבי"ה חייך שאני מעלה עליך שאם אמרתי לך שתשחוט את נפשך לפני לא תעכב. מנין אמ' ר' שמעון בן יוחאי כתי' ולא חשכת את בנך הרי כבר פירש יצחק מהו יחידך. זו נפשו של אברהם לפי שהנשמה קרויה יחידה ההי"ד הצילה מחרב נפשי מיד כלב יחידתי. אמ' אברהם לפני הקב"ה רבו' של עולם אי איפשר לי לירד מכאן בלא קרבן. אמ' לו הבי"ה הרי קורבנך מתוקן מששת ימי בראשית שנא' וישא אברהם את עיניו וירא והנה איל אחר נאחז בסבך בקרניו וכו'. כך שנו רז"ל אילו של אברהם נברא בין השמשות. באותה שעה נטלו

אברהם ויעלהו לעולה תחת בנו.

אבל סוד הדבר כי האיל רומז למדת הברית שהוא אות הקדוש והוא סוד יוסף הצדיק והוא נקרא איל בשביל שהוא מעולם הזכרים נקרא איל על שם הזכר. אבל הנקבה היא נקראת אילה ההי"ד אילת אהבים ויעלת חן דדיה ירווך בכל עת וכו'. וכיון שהיא נקראת אילה מלש' נקבה נקרא הוא איל והסוד בזה והנה איל אחר נאחז בסבך בקרניו. וכתי' וקרני ראם קרניו פי' יסוד עולם שהוא נקרא קרן. לכן זה האיל הוא של אברהם פי' של חסד וזהו סוד בת היתה לאברהם בכל שמה כי הוא נקרא בכל כי מדת היסוד ומדת המלכות הם נקראים אחד,וזה האיל הוא נברא בין השמעות פ' בין גצח והוד שנקראים השמשות בשביל ששגיהם מקבלים מן השמש יי צבאות ונקראים על שם השמש שמשות פי' שנים. לכן הביאו רז"ל דבריהם ברמז אילו של אברהם נברא בין השמשות. לכן המשכיל יבין וידום ליי.

מהו תחת בנו אמ' אברהם רבונו של עולם הריני שוחט את האיל הזה ותהא רואה אותו כאלו יצחק בני שחוט לפניך. נטל דמו וזרקו אמ' לו כך תהא רואה כאלו דמו של יצחק זרוק לפניך. נטל את האיל והפשיטו אמ' כך תהא רואה אותו כאלו עורו של יצחק הפשטתי לפניך. נטלו והספיגו אמ' כך תהא רואה כאלו יצחק מסתפג לפניך על גבי המזבח. שרפו אמ' כך תהא רואה כאלו אפרו צבור לפניך על גבי המזבח. ויעלהו לעולה תחת בנו. אמ' לו הבי"ה בנך הוא שנתקרב ראשון אלא האיל הזה תחתיו. באותה שעה אמ' אברהם רבו' של עולם איני זז מכאן עד שתשבע לי שאין אתה מנסה אותי לעולם שאם ח"ו לא הייתי שומע לך איבדתי כל מה שיגעתי מימי. אמ' | לו הקב"ה כך הוא שאילו לא שמעת לי לא היה בידך כלום. באותה שעה נשבע לו הקב"ה שלא ינסהו לעולם ההי"ד ויאמר בי נשבעתי נאם יי וכו'.

כתי'* אור זרוע לצדיק ולישרי לב שמחה. אור הוא אור עליון שבא מכ"ע הוא אור הגנוז מששת ימי בראשית והוא אור קדמון והוא אור נעלם ואותו אור הוא זרוע לצדיק שהוא יסוד עולם שהוא נהנה מאותו האור. מהו זרוע וכי האור יזרע אלא סוד הדבר כי האור הידוע הם נשמות של המחשבה והם נקראים פירות על שם שהם פרי מעשיו של הקב"ה ואותן הנשמות הם נזרעים ונשפעים לצדיק יסוד עולם לכן אמ' אור זרוע לצדיק.

בא וראה זרע הב"ה את התורה והמצות לישראל להנחילם
לחיי העולם הבא. לא הניח דבר בעולם שלא נתן בו מצוה לישראל.
בא לחרוש כתי' לא תחרוש בשור ובחמור יחדיו. יצא לזרוע כתי' לא
תזרע כרמך כלאים וכו'.

אבל סוד הענין לא תחרוש בשור ובחמור, רומז לשתי בתי
דינין שמתעוררים בעולם הם בית דין הקשה ובין דין הרפה אם יתחברו
אלו הם עושין דין בעולם לכן הזהרה לנו מתורתינו הקדושה שאסור לחרוש
באלו שני מינים שהם שור וחמור כדי שלא לעורר בתי דינין על העולמות
כי כל מי שחורש בשור ובחמור למטה כאלו הוא חורש ומערב שתי בתי
דינין ביחד. יצא לזרוע לא תזרע כרמך כלאים. אבל סודו למה אסור
לנו לזרוע הכרם בכלאים בשביל שהכרם רומז לעט' ישראל הה"ד כרם
היה לשלמה וכו' ואותו כרם הוא מקבל כל כלאים והוא זרוע מימיני כלאים
וכיון שאותו כרם הוא מקבל מכל מיני מראות העליונים הן אודם והן
לובן והן ירוק והן תכלת והן שחור והן לבן וכל כיוצא בזה מן מראות
העליונות לכן יש לנו הזהרה בתורתינו הקדושה שלא לזרוע הכרם בכלאים
כדי שלא להשתמש בשרביטו של מלך העליון כי הוא זורע הכלאים בתוך
כרמו לכן אין לנו רשות לזרוע כדוגמא זה כי כל מי שזורע כלאים בכרמו
נטרד מאלהים חיים והבן זה.

יצא לקצור כתי' כי תקצור קצירך בשדך ושכחת עומר בשדה.
ואין עומר אלא כנסת ישראל שהיא נקראת עומר והסוד בזה והעומר עשירית
האיפה הוא.

שחט ונתן לכהן הזרוע והלחיים והקבה. ואין כהן אלא כהן
העליון הה"ד והוא כהן לאל עליון. הזרוע רומז לגבורה שנקרא זרוע
הה"ד בגדול זרועך ידמו כאבן. והלחיים רומז לחסד שנקרא לחיים.
אל תקרי לחיים אלא לַחַיִם בשביל שהוא מי החסד שנקרא לח הה"ד ודמות
על ראשי החיה רקיע כעין הקרח הנורא נטוי וכו' כי הוא נקרא | לח כג ע"ב
וגבורה נקרא יבש בשביל כח האש. ד"א והלחיים אל תקרי והלחיים אלא
הַלַּח יַם כי הוא לחות הים כי כנסת ישראל הנקראת ים מקבלת משם הלחות
של המים כי היא נקראת מים תחתונים ועולם החסד נקרא מים העליונים
הה"ד תהום אל תהום קורא לקול צנוריך כל משבריך וגליך עלי עברו.
והקבה רומז לתפא' ישראל שנקרא הקבה אל תקרי הקבה אלא הקב"ה והבן
זה מאד. כי הוא נקרא הקב"ה והסוד בזה אל אלהים יהוה. לכן אלו שלשה

מדרגות הם עולים וניתנים לכהן העליון כי הם חלקו וגורלו. כעין דוגמא
זה למטה אנו נותנים הלחיים והזרוע והקבה לכהן כדי שיהא כדוגמא עליונה.

קן צפור כתי' שלח תשלח את האם ואת הבנים תקח לך. אבל
סוד הענין כשתבא לחקור בעולם העליון אזי אתה צריך לשלח האם שהיא
אם הבנים שמחה שהוא עולם היובל בשביל שהוא סתום ונעלם לכן אין
השגתך שולטת שם לכן אתה צריך לשלחה אלא הבנים שהם המחודשים
תקח לך. והסוד בזה כבוד אלהים הסתר דבר וכבוד מלכים חקור דבר.
כי כל מה שאתה צריך לבקש ולחקור תחקור במלכות כי היא בית שער
לכל מי שירצה ליכנס לביה המלך כי משם נכנסין ויוצאין כל העולי' במרכבה הה"ד אין זה כי אם בית אלהים וזה שער השמים.

בחיה ובעוף ושפך את דמו וכסהו בעפר למה כיון שהדם ההוא
שהוא מדת הגבורה שנקראת חיה ונקראת עוף צריכין לכסות דמו בשביל
שהוא התעוררות דין הה"ד חרב ליי מלאה דם ואנו מכסין אותו בעפר
של הבינה שהוא עולם הרחמים כדי לשקט ולשכך רוגזו וחמתו כדי שלא
לעשות דין בעולם לכן אנו צריכין לכסות דם חיה ועוף כדי שלא יראה
ויתגלה הדין בעולם. לכן אנו צריכין שתי עפרים עפר למעלה ועפר למטה.
עפר למעלה רומז לבינה הה"ד כי עפר אתה ואל עפר תשוב. ועפר למטה
רומז למדת התפ' שנקראת ג"כ עפר הה"ד וכל בשליש עפר הארץ. כעין
דוגמא זה אנו צריכין שתי עפרים והבן זה. אבל דם הבהמה אינה צריכה
כיסוי בשביל שדם הבהמה רומז לעט' שהיא רפה בדינה לכן אינה צריכה
כיסוי והבן זה מאד.

נסע כתי' וערלתם ערלתו את פריו שלש שנים יהיה לכם
ערילים וכו'. אבל סוד הדבר למה תהא הנטיעה הנטוע ערלים שלש שנים.
אלא ודאי ערלים מלש' אטום כי יש ערלת הלב פי' אטימת הלב ועורלת
האוזן ג"כ. לכן אמ' בכאן ערלים פי' אטומים רומז לשלש מדות הנעלמות
והאטומות שהם כ"ע וחכמה ובינה פי' יהיו לכם ערלים ונסתרים שאין
לכם בהם השגה לעלות להם | וליהנות מהם כי הם נסתרים כד ע"א
ונעלמים בתכלית ההתעלמות. אבל בשנה הרביעית פי' במדת החסד שהוא
רביעי להם יהיה כל פריו קדש הלולים ליי כלו' שיש לך רשות לחפש
ולהרהר וליהנות משם בהשגתך. כעין דוגמא זה למטה מי שנוטע נטיעה
אסור ליהנות ממנה שלש שנים. ובשנה הרביעית יהיה כל פריו וכו'.

קבר מת כתי' לא תתגודדו ולא תשימו קרחה בין עיניכם למת.

שכך היו נוהגין אותן כומרי של עז שהיו גודדין לפני ע"ז שכך היא עבודתן. לכן ציונו הקב"ה על זה בשביל שישראל הם זרע הקדש והם פרושים ונבדלים מאומות העולם ה"ד ואבדיל אתכם מן העמים להיות לי שצריכין ישראל שיהיו נבדלים מהם בכל בין בזריעה בין בקצירה בין בפיאה ובין בשכחה בין בתגלחת הראש בין במילה ובין בכל דבר ה"ד צאינה וראינה בנות ציון במלך שלמה וכו' אל תקרי בנות ציון אלא בנות ציון פי' בנים המצויינין במילה ובציצית ובתגלחת הראש. לכן הזהיר לנו בתורתינו הקדושה שלא להתגודד על המת ושלא לשרוט שרט בנפש וכן כל כיוצא בזה. שכך היא עבודתן לפני ע"ז שלהם והבן זה.

מגלח שער כתי' בו לא תקיפו פאת ראשכם. כי כל המשחית פאת הראש כאלו מכחיש בתיקון העליון שהוא לובן של הגולגולת שכתי' בו לבושיה כתלג חיור ושער רישיה כעמר נקי כי אותו הגולגולת הוא מלא נימין ושערות הם קווצות של תלתלים והם עומדים בתיקון יפה ונאה לכין כל מי שהוא משחית פאת הראש כאלו הוא מכחיש כביכול ונותין פגם בשער העליון והבן זה מאד ודום לייי.

כי תבנה בית חדש וכו' כתי' כי תבנה בית חדש וכתי' וכתבתם על מזוזות ביתך ובשעריך. כדי לכתוב המזוזה שכותבים בה הזכרות של השם הקדוש וכתי' מבחוץ שם של שדי כדי להבריח משם השידים והרוחות והלילין וכן כל כיוצא בזה. לכן הב"ה נתן לנו המצות לתועלתינו ולהנאתינו כדי להחיותנו כיום הזה.

נתכסה בציצית כתי' ועשו להם ציצית והם ארבעה על ארבע קצות רומז לגדולה ולגבורה ולנצח ולהוד שהם עומדים על ארבע כנפות העולם. ויש בכל ציצית וציצית שמונה חוטין רומז לל"ב נתי' פליאות חכמה כי ד' פעמים ח' יעלו ל"ב חוטין כנגד ל"ב נתי'. ועוד יש בציצית שמונה חוטין וה' קשורין רומז לי"ג מבועות של החכמה שמשם יורדים ומתפשטים י"ג מבועות לעולם. ועשו להם ציצית פי' תעשה ולא מן העשוי שלא יוציא נימין מן הטלית ויעשה מהם אלא מצוה להביא לבן ותכלת | ויעשה. אימתי כשהיה התכלת מצוי ועכשיו אין לנו אלא כד ע"ב לבן לפי שהתכלת הוא נגנז. כי התכלת היה מצוי בעיר אחת ושמה לוז ובה היו צובעין התכלת. כי באותה העיר לא היה שולט בה מלאך המות אלא מי שהגיע לזקנה והיתה נפשו קצתה עליו והיה יוצא חוץ לעיר וימות לכן כיון שנחרבה אותה העיר נתבטל גם כן התכלת. על כנפי ולא באצבע

אלא על הכנף. פתיל שהוא צריך לפותלן. אמ' ר' מאיר מה נשתנה תכלת מכל מיני צבעונין לפי שהתכלת דומה לרקיע* והרקיע דומה לכסא הכבוד ה"ד ויראו את אלהי ישראל ותחת רגליו כמעשה לבנת הספיר. והיה לכם לציצית כדי שתהיא נראית. וכמה שעורה בית שמאי אומרי' ארבע אצבעות ובית הלל אומ' שלש. וראיתם אותו פרט לכסות לילה. וראיתם אותו כתי' ולא כתי' וראיתם אותה אלא אותו שאם אתה עושה כן כאלו אתה רואה כסא הכבוד ה"ד הריאיני אותו ואת נוהו. וראיתם וזכרתם הראייה מביא לידי זכרון וזכרון מביא לידי מעשה ה"ד למען תזכרו ועשיתם את כל מצותי. למה כי לא דבר רק הוא מכם כי הוא חייכם ובדבר הזה האריכו ימים וכו'. משל לבעל הבית שהיה שוקל ארנוניות וכותב אפכיות. אמ' לו אביו הוי זהיר באפכיות שחייך נתון בו. כך אמ' להם הב"ה לישראל כי לא דבר רק הוא מכם כי הוא חייכם. ולא תתורו אחרי לבבכם ואחרי עיניכם אשר אתם זונים אחריהם. הלב והעינים הם סרסורין לגוף מזנין את הגוף. למען תזכרו ועשיתם את כל מצותי. משל לאחד שהיה מושלך לתוך המים הושיט לו הקרבגינו* את החבל א"ל תפוש החבל הזה בידך ואל תניחהו שאם הנחתו אין לך חיים. אף כך אמ' הקב"ה לישראל כל זמן שאתם מדובקים בי* אתם חיים שנא' ואתם הדבקים ביי אלהיכם חיים כלכם וכו'. והייתם קדושים לאלהיכם. בזמן שאתם עושים מצותי אתם מקודשין ואימתכם ויראתכם על כל האומות. אם פירשתם מן המצות נעשיתם מחוללים. אמ' להם הב"ה לישראל בעולם הזה על ידי יצר הרע אתם פורשים מן המצות ולעולם הבא אני עוקרו מן העולם ה"ד והסירותי את לב האבן מבשרכם ונתתי לכם לב בשר. ואת רוחי אתן בקרבכם.

עיניך ודאי. ומן העינים מתפשט החום ההוא דרך הצינורות אל הזרועות ההי"ד ומתחח זרועות עולם. ומן הזרועות מתפשט החום אל הלב שהוא חום החיונית. ומן הלב מתפשט אל הכליות ומן הכליות יתפשטו המים ההם דרך הצינורות אל מדרגה התחתונה שהיא נקראת ים ההי"ד כל הנחלים הולכים אל הים והים אינו מלא. ומן אותו הים מתפלגין ומתחלקים כל מימי בראשית לנהרות ולנחלים ולמקורות. אזי הים מחלקת אותן המים לכל המרכבות ולכל הצבאות והמחנות והמדריגות כולם ההי"ד ותתן טרף לביתה וא"כ וחוק לנערותיה כי מתחלה היא מפרנסת וניזונת עצמה וא"כ לכל חיילותיה וצבאותיה. ואין טרף אלא לש' מזון ההי"ד טרף נתן ליריאיו. ועוד אותן המבועות מתפשטין עד עולם המרכבות ומן עולם המרכבות אל עולם הטבע ומן הפסולת של כל יציע לארץ שלנו ההי"ד הנותן מטר על פני ארץ ושולח מים על פני חוצות.

ר' חייא פתח ואמ' באשר דבר מלך שלטון ומי יאמר לו מה תעשה. באשר כמו מאשר שמנה לחמו והוא יתן מעדני מלך כי בעולם החכמה שנקרא אשר דבר מלך שלטון שהוא פוקד עליה במצותיו כי החכמה תצא מן האין ההי"ד והחכמה מאין תמצא ומשם מתפשט היש אל העולמות כולם. ושלטון הוא עולם הבינה שנקרא שלטון כי הוא שולט על כל התחתונים כי הוא יוצרם ומלכם. לכן כשאלו שתי המדות שהם אשר ושלטון מתחברים בדבר המלך העליון ומוציאין הרז שעלה במחשבה להוציא מי יאמר לו מה תעשה כי כבר עלה הגזירה במחשבה אין להשיב. והסוד בזה נכתב ונחתם בטבעת המלך אין להשיב. ד"א באשר דבר מלך וכו' כאשר יסכימו המלך והמטרוניתא שהיא נקראת שלטון בהסכמה אחת להוציא הענין מן הכח אל הפועל או לחדש בריאה או יצירה מי יאמ' להם מה תעשה כי המטרוניתא נקראה סוד האיפשר ההי"ד אם יהיה אלהים עמדי ושמרני בדרך הזה. בא וראה עולם התחתון יש בו השנוי והחילוף כי כל דבר שינוי והתחלפות ושאר מיני התוארים המשתנים הם בעולם המחודש כגון וילך וינחם ויתעצב אל לבו. אבל בעולם העליון לא יפול בו שום דבר מאלו השינויים והחלופים כי הוא ושמו קדם לעולם | והוא אור קדמון שאין בו שום שנוי וחלוף לא עמידה ולא ישיבה כה ע"ב ולא דבר מן הדברים המתחלפים אלא הוא שוה בתכלית פשיטותו והוא נקרא מדת השוואה אשר לא ישתנה לזולתו ההי"ד וחנותי את אשר אחון אע"פ שאינו הגון וראוי זהו שכתי' אני יי לא שניתי ואתם בני

איש רומז למדת המחשבה ולחכמה כי אל"ף מן איש רומז למדת העתיק שהוא עתיק דעתיקין וסתימא דסתימין. והוא מעין ששבילין סחומין ונהרותיו עמוקים ההי"ד עמוק עמוק מי ימצאנו פי' שתי עומקים אלו למה אלא אחד רומז לכ"ע ואחד רומז לחכמה שהם שתי עומקים. אין לשום נמצא מן הנמצאים שיכול להשיג מהותם מה הם כד"א חולה ארץ על בלימה פי' על בלי מה שהם שתי עומקים ההי"ד מה רבו מעשיך יי כלם בחכמה עשית וכו' אלא מי שהוא בינה שנמצא מהם הוא ימציאם וישיגם ההי"ר עמוק עמוק מי ימצאנו פי' הבינה שנקראת מי לו יכולת להשיגם. ד"א עמוק עמוק מי ימצאנו. אלו שתי עומקים אחד רומז לע' העי' שהוא עתיקא דעתיקין וסתירא דסתירין וטמירא דטמירין אשר אין בריה מן הנמצאים למעלה ולמטה יכול להדביקו בשכלו ולא להעלותו על מחשבתו וכל שכן לדבר בפיו מהו מהותו ועצמותו כי השכל הוא נמנע מלהדביקו ולהעלותו במחשבתו לכך הוא נקרא עמוק. ועמוק רומז לכ"ע שהוא נקרא ג"כ עמוק על דרך כי גבוה מעל גבוה וכו' ואלו שתי עומקים מי יכול להדביקם בשכל מן הנמצאים אלא מי שהוא הים החכמה כי מי אותיותיו ים באותיותיו להפך. לכן אין בנמצא מן הנמצאים מי שיכול לידע מהותם אלא גולם החכמה ההי"ד עמוק עמוק מי ימצאנו. והחכמה היא נקראת רחוק ההי"ד אמרתי אחכמה והיא רחוקה ממני. וכתי' ממרחק תביא לחמה. וכתי' מרחוק יי נראה לי וכו'. לכך נקרא כ"ע אל"ף.ד"א אל"ף | בגי' כו ע"א מאה וי"א כי המאה רומזים לעשר מדרגות שהם עשר צ'חצחות שהם בגולגולת הראש הם ועניפיהם יעלו מאה בחשבון. וי"א רומז לעשר מדרגות התחתונות שהם עשרה. ואחד רומז לע' העי' שהוא נסתר ונעלם מלהרהר במהותו.

יו"ד מן איש רומז למדת החכמה שנקרא יו"ד שהיא כמו היו"ד שהיא מקבל כל החקיקות בשביל שהיא גולם בך גולם החכמה היא לקבל כל החקיקות וכל הרשימות. כמו היו"ד שלא תוכל לכתוב אות מן אותיות החורה בלעדה כך לא יתהווה ולא יתצייר דבר מן הדברים זולתה לכך נקראת יו"ד. ד"א למה נקראת יו"ד כמו היו"ד שהוא נסתר ונעלם בכל האותיות כך היא נסתרת ונעלמת בכל המדרגות היא רואה וצופה כל הנמצאים והנבראים והיא לא נראית כמו הנשמה שבגוף שהיא רואה ואינה נראית כך הוא רואה וחוקר כל הנמצאים כולם ה"ד עיני יי המה משוטטות בכל הארץ. שי"ן מן איש רומז לשלש מדרגות הנעלמות שהם כ"ע וחכמה ובינה שהם בצורת שי"ן וזהו סוד צורת שי"ן של תפלין של שלשה ראשים. אבל השי"ן של ארבע ראשים רומזים לארבע קשרים שהם נצח הוד יסוד מלכות שהם עומדות בצורת שי"ן של ארבעה ראשים והבן זה מאד ודום לייי. ד"א שי"ן רומז לחכמה ולבינה שנקראים שי"ן כי ש"י רומזים למדת החכמה שנקרא יש וזהו סוד עתיד כל צדיק וצדיק ליבראות שלש מאות ועשר עולמות כמנין יש ה"ד להנחיל אוהבי יש. אבל סודו כבר גליתי לך במקומות אחרים ולא אצטרך עתה לשנות לך ולכן איני מאריך בו. אבל ן פשוטה מן שי"ן רומז למדת הבינה שהיא נקראת נו"ן פשוטה בשביל שיש בו חמשי' שערי בינה שהם חמשים וזהו סוד מה שאמ' רז"ל חמשים שערי בינה נבראו בעולם כולם נתנו למשה חוץ מאחת מהם ה"ד ותחסרהו מעט מאלהים וכבוד והדר תעטרהו. כי בכל השיג משה אלא שער החמשים שכתי' בו זה השער ליי. וכיון שזה השער הוא נסתר ונעלם ואין כח בשום נברא לעלות לה והם נקראים פנים ועל זה כתי' ופני לא יראו שהוא שער החמשים שנקרא פנים בשביל שהוא מתפשט מא"א* לכך הוא נסתר והסוד בזה ויסתר משה פניו כי ירא מהביט אל האלהים. פי' פניו ודאי של האלהים שהוא בינה ועל זה כתי' ופני לא יראו לשום נברא מן הנבראים כי הוא יחלש בהשגתו. על זה בתי' ויסתר משה פניו והסוד כבוד אלהים הסתר דבר וכבוד מלכים חקור דבר. כי הבא לחקור צריך לחקור במלכות | שהיא נקראת כבוד מלכים כי היא פתח ובית שער לכל הנכנסים כו ע"ב בבית המלך העליון אבל כבוד אלהים שהוא בינה הסתר כי אין שם גלוי כלל אלא הסתר לכן הפנים אינן נראים לשום נברא ונמצא. אבל האחור שהוא צד העורף כתי' בו וראית את אחורי ופני לא יראו. כי תשעה וארבעים שערים הם נקראים אחור על שם שהם אחוריים והסוד בזה אחוריהם ביתה

אמ' ר' אלעזר בן שמעון ודאי כאן יש להסתכל בסוד האמונה בענין קשר של תפילין כי ודאי תפילין של הראש שהקב"ה מחעטר בהם הם מדרגות עליונות שהם כ"ע וחכמה ובינה גדולה וגבורה שהם עומדים על ראש מלך יי צבאות וזהו סוד מה שא' רז"ל בתפילין דקדשא בריך הוא מה כתי' בו מי כעמך כישראל גוי אחד וכו' כי הב"ה הוא מתעטר בהם באלו ג' כתרים ומקבל בכל יום ויום אור החיים מן אותן הכתרים. ועל זה צריכין שיהיו רצועות שחורות בשביל שהוא הלכה למשה מסיני. מאי טעמא דאינן אוכמיא ולא חיוורי אלא רזא דמלא כי גוון אוכמא הוא שפיר נאה לגוון חיוור והסוד בזה דודי צח ואדום וכו' לכן הרצועות הם שחורות כעורב והם הלכה למשה מסיני כדא' שחורה אני ונאוה וכו'. ועל זה ווי להההוא גברא דעביד רצועות לבנים כי לבן בלבן אינו נאה ויפה אלא שחור בלבן הוא יפה ונאה ודיי לך בזה לכל מבין דת אלהים הקדושה. בא וראה כשהקב"ה הוא מתעטר בתפילין של הראש שהם ג' כתרים עליונים אז המלך נלבש בכובע ישועה ובמלבוש כמלבוש של המלך העליון ה"ד יי מלך גאות לבש וכיון שהוא מלובש בעשרה לבושים של המלך אז תפ' ישראל יוצא להלחם עם האויבים הבאים על מלכות בית דוד אזי שולח נשמות קדושים לכנסת ישראל כדי לחזקה בגלותה. לכן כל בן אדם שהוא מלובש בתפילין ודאי אינו ירא כלום בשביל שכתר העליון על ראשו ובלבד שלא יזוז דעתו ומחשבתו מן האזכרות שהם כתובים בתפילין ה"ד למען תהיה תורת יי בפיך וכו' וכיון | שאור העליון שהוא כז ע"א שם הקדוש למעלה אין לו לירא מכלום. ולא עוד אלא כל הבריות יריאים ממנו ה"ד וראו כל עמי הארץ כי שם יי נקרא עליך וירא ממך ודאי. אבל תפילין של יד היא כנסת ישראל והסוד בזה והיה לאות על ידכה שהוא יד כהה והוא יד שמאל ועל זה צריכין שתפילין של יד להיות בזרוע.

שמאל והסוד בזה שימיני כחותם על לבך וכחותם על זרועך ואין זרוע אלא שמאל כדא' שמאלו תחת לראשי וימינו תחבקיני. ועל זה צריך להושיט הזרוע בזמן שהוא מניח תפילין כדי להורות יחוד אלהינו ית' ויח' והבן זה והמשכיל יבין. לכן כשהאדם הוא נכתר בתפילין אזי הוא נקרא אחד אזי ראוי שישכון עליו השכינה אז הב"ה שהוא אחד יבוא וישכון באחד בשביל שחיבר היחוד אחד ההי"ד מי כעמך כישראל גוי אחד וכו'. בא וראה ויי לגברא דלא ידכי נפשיה בזמנא דאנח תפילין כי הם צריכין גוף נקי כאלישע בעל כנפים כי אין אדם יניח כתרו של המלך בראשו בזמן שאינו טהור ואם ח"ו נניחם בזמן שהוא לאו טהור או אינו דעתו מיושב עליו כאלו הוא מכהיש ופוגם בדוגמא עליונה ונותן פגם במקום דליכא פגם. לכן האדם צריך הזהרה גדולה בשעת הנחתן שיניחם ויסדרם כדוגמא עליונה ויכוין בדברים הראוים לכוין כדי שיתדמה לעליונים וצריך למשמש בהם בכל זמן כדי שלא יסיח דעתו מן האזכרות ההם אלא יהא מחשבתו ודעתו קשורה למעלה למעלה אזי אותו אדם שלם כדוגמא עליונה אזי הוא יושב כמלאך אלהים. אבל כל מי שיש לו שום כאב או חלי בבטנו לא יניח תפילין בשביל שהרוחות של בטנו מצויות. אבל מי שהוא ברזר ופרוש בקדושה וטהרה יניחם כל היום כלו. אבל מי שאינו יכול לשמור עצמו בכולי האי יניחם בשעת התפלה ודי. ועוד אמ' ר' אלעזר אמא הראה הב"ה למשה קשר של תפילין כי קשר של תפלין רמז וראי למדרגת משה שהוא נקרא קשר האמצעי והוא הבריח התיכון כי הוא קושר העליונים עם התחתונים כי הוא הקשר האמתי שמחבר את שתי הקצוות של שתי העולמות. למה כיון שהספי' הם עשרה חמש כנגד חמש כי חמש העליונים הם כ"ע וחכמה ובינה וגדולה וגבורה. וחמש תחתונים הם תפ' נצח הוד יסוד מלכות ונמצא שתפ' הוא עומד באמצע בין שתי קצות העולמות כי הוא מחבר העליונים עם התחתונים ביחוד אחד והסוד והבריח התיכון בתוך הקרשים מבריח מן הקצה אל הקצה פי' בין שתי קצות של העולמות לכן נקרא תפ' קשר של תפילין של ראש ושל תפלין של יד. לכן הראה הב"ה למשה מדרגתו שהוא קשר האמצעי שקושר כתרים העליונים עם כתרים התחתונים ואזי הראה לו הכתרים העליונים והתחתונים והמרכבות והצבאות ומחנות והראה | לו שמונה עשר אלף כז ע"ב עולמות לצד מזרח וי"ח אלף לצד מערב וי"ח אלף לצד דרום וי"ח אלף לצד צפון. יעלה מספרם ע"ב אלף עולמות כמנין שם של ע"ב היוצא

משלשה פסוקים של ויסע ויבא ויט. וא"ל משה אל יעלה על דעתך כל אלו הכתרים שהעמדתיך עליהם שיעלה על דעתך שיש ביניהם קיצוץ ופירוד אלא כולם הם קשורים זה בזה בשלהבת הקשורה בנחלת. מיד הגביה משה עיניו לשמים ואמ' רבו' של עו' מה אנוש כי תזכרנו וכי מה תחשבהו האדם הנבזה העומד בדעת קלה שהוא כנגד כל אלו הנמצאים כמו יתוש אחד. ועל זה כתי' תולה הארץ על בלימה שתלה העולם על דבר שלא תוכל לומ' עליו מה כי הוא נבלע ונעלם.

ד"א איש רומז למדת התפ' שנקרא איש ההי"ד תפלה למשה איש האלהים והוא נקרא איש לאשה הידועה שנקראת אש ה"א כי היא נקראת אש והוא נקרא אש והיו"ד הנשאר מאיש וה"א מן אשה יעלה בצרופם י"ה רומז לחכמה ולבינה שהם אבותיהם כי החכמה הוא אב לחתן ולכלה והבינה היא אם לחתן ולכלה וזהו כבד את אביך ואת אמך. לכן המדות והמנהגות של האבות מתנהגים בהם הבנים וכיון ששם י"ה מחוברים עם הבנים והבן זה. ד"א איש אשה יעלה חיבורם בגי' שש מאות ושלש עשרה כי מדת התפ' שנקרא איש מקבל אור חיים של העולמות מן רמ"ח צינורות המתפשטות לו מן עולם העליון כנגד רמ"ח איברים שבאדם. ואשה שהיא כנסת ישראל מקבלת השפע מן שס"ה צינורות היורדות לה מן התפ' על ידי סוד הברית שהוא צדיק יסוד עולם נמצא שאיש ואשה יעלה מספרם שש מאות ושלש עשרה כנגד מצות עשה ומצות לא תעשה שהם תרי"ג מצות. וד' הנוספים במספר רומזים לשם של ד' אותיות שהוא שם המפורש יהוה שהוא עקר הייחוד כי היו"ד רומז לחכמה. וה"א לבינה שהוא ה"א גדולה. וא"ו לתפ' שהוא וא"ו. ה"א אחרונה רומז לכנסת ישראל נמצא שבאיש ואשה נתקן ונתחבר יחוד כל העולמות כולם. לכן האדם כל זמן שהוא נפרד ואינו נשאוי אין הברכה שורה עליו. אבל כשהוא נשאוי ויתחברו זכר ונקבה אזי היחוד נתקן מיד הברכות שורות עליהם ומי שאינו נשאוי לא נקרא אחד אלא הוא חצי גוף והנקבה נקראת חצי גוף והשכינה אינה שוכנת במקום פגום אלא במקום שלם. אבל כשיתחברו אלו שני חצאין אזי יהיו גוף אחד ובשר אחד ההי"ד והיו לבשר אחד. מיד כתי' ויברך אותם אלהים והברכות שוכנות עליהם מיד שם הקדוש הוא נמצא עמהם ההי"ד איש ואשה יו"ד מאיש וה"א מאשה יעלה י"ה והבן זה. ד"א איש אותיותיו ישא כי מדת התפ' הוא מקבל כל טוב העולמות ממקור החיים והוא משפיעם כולם אל כנסת ישראל ומאיר לה הפנים כשהם חשובים

ישראל שהוא איש הוא נושא לה פנים שחוקים ופנים מזהירים כרי לשמח
המטרוניתא שהיא אשתו והסוד בזה ישא יי פניו אליך. ד"א ישא כי תפ' ישראל הוא נושא עליונים ותחתונים כולם ההי"ד מתחת זרועות עולם כי
מושך אליו טובות העליונים כמו אבן השואבת* שהוא שואב אליו הכל.
כך תפ' ישראל שנקרא אבן ישראל הוא שואב אליו כל העליונים ונושא
התחתונים מתחת זרועותיו ההי"ד ישא יי וכו'. אשה רומז למדת העט'
שנקרא האש שהוא האש הגדולה ההי"ד כי יי אלהיך אש אוכלה הוא. ד"א
אשה שהיא עט' היא נכללת בשלש כתרים בכ"ע ובכתר אמצעי ובכתר
תחתון. כי אל"ף מן אשה רומז לאל"ף של כ"ע שהוא אל"ף הידוע. שי"ן
רומז למדת התפ' שנקרא שי"ן. ה"א מן אשה רומז לעט' שהיא בת תחתונה
והרי אתה רואה שמדת העט' היא בכל ונכללת מכל וזהו סוד שאמ' רז"ל
בת היתה לאברהם בכל שמה בשביל שהיא מתחברת בכל וכולם הם מתחברים
עמה והבן זה.

אשר יצוד ציד חיה כי אשר רומז למדת החכמה שנקראת אשר
ההי"ד אהיה אשר אהיה וכתי' מאשר שמנה לחמו. יצוד ציד חיה כי הוא
עולה לאותן ההרים הגבוהים הנקראים הרי בשמים וצודה אותן החיות שהם
נשמות הקדושות הבאים מעי' העי' אל כ"ע הנקרא חיה וזהו סוד נפש
רוח נשמה יחידה חיה כ"ע. ומשם הוא מוריד כל חיות של הנשמות לזה
העולם וזהו סוד מה שאמ' יצחק אבי' לעשו וצודה לי צידה וכתי' בה"א
יתירה באחרונה. אמ' לו וצא השדה וצודה לי ציד כי אין שדה אלא עט'
ישראל הנקראת שדה ההי"ד ראה ריח בני כריח שדה אשר ברכו יי. כי
מדת אשר שהוא החכמה הוא מברך לשדה ההוא מן הבריכה העליונה שהיא
בריכה שאין פוסקין מימיה אלא היא הולכת ומתגברת במימיה ההי"ד ונהר
יוצא מעדן כתי' ולא יצא כתי' משמע שהוא יוצא בכל יום ויום שאין
מימיו נפסקין לעולם. לכן אשר הוא מוציא השפע מעולם הנעלם ויברך
לכנסת ישראל. והבינה שהיא נקראת נהר מאיר לכל העולמות ההי"ד ונהר
יוצא וכו' כדא' ונהורא עימיה שרי. ואותו האור יוצא ומתפשט מן אור
קדמון שהוא כ"ע ומשם מתפשט לעדן החכמה ומן העדן יוצא אל הבינה
ההי"ד ונהר יוצא מעדן. ומשם מתפשט אל התפ' שהוא עץ החיים ההי"ד
כי עמך מקור חיים באורך נראה אור. ומן התפ' מתפשט אל העט' ההי"ד
להשקות את הגן שהוא נקרא גן נעול אחותי כלה גל נעול וכו' ומשם

יתפשט האור ההוא אל כל המדכבות והמחנות והצבאות ולעולם הנפרדים
ולארבעה מלכים שהם פני אדם פני אריה פני נשר פני שור ההי"ד ומשם
יפרדו והיה לארבעה ראשים שהם מלכים וראשים על ארבעה חדרים שהם
פני אדם פני אריה וכו'. ד"א ונהר יוצא מעדן להשקות | ונהר כח ע"ב
הוא נהר ממש שנמשך ויוצא מן המבוע של הנהר העליון שכתי' בו עמוק
עמוק מי וכו' ואותו נהר מתפשט מן המוח הקדוש והוא המקור שנקרא
בריכה העליונה. כי יש בריכה עליונה ובריכה תחתונה. בריכה עליונה
רומז לכ"ע כי הוא נקרא ברוך על שם בריכה כי משם מתברכים ומתרווחים
כל המדרגות כי הוא בריכה שיש לו מקור שאין פוסקין מימיו. כי כל
המימות של המקורות והנחלים והנהרות נפסקין וזה המקור לא יפסקו
מימיו לעולם. לכך נקרא בריכה עליונה בשביל שהוא משקה תדיר כל
הארצות ההי"ד ונהר יוצא מעדן כי אותו נהר שהוא נמשך מן המקור העליון
אינו נפסק לעולם ההי"ד ונהר יוצא כתי' ולא יצא משמע יוצא בכל יום
ויום בלי הפסיק והסוד בזה לא איש אל ויכזב ואין ויכזב אלא כלש'
אשר לא יכזבו מימיו. לכן אל שהוא כ"ע לא יכזבו ולא יפסיקו מימיו
לעולם כי הוא עולם הקדוש שלא יפול בו שום שנוי ולא שום חסרון ולא
שום פגימות אלא שלם בתכלית השלימות. לכן המים של הבדיכה ההוא
אינן נפסקין לעולם אלא הם שופכים ומוצקים לבלי דיי ההי"ד ונהר יוצא
מעדן וכו' מעדן החכמה כמו שאמרנו ההי"ד ויטע יי אלהים גן בעדן מקדם
וכו'. להשקות את הגן. הגן ממש שכל המימות היורדים מן הבריכה ההוא
הגן שואב הכל אע"פ אינו מתרווה ויתמלא אלא עדיין היא חסירה ופגומה
ההי"ד כל הנחלים הולכים אל הים והים איננו מלא וכו' לכן זה הים נקרא
מקוה על שם קביצת המים ההי"ד יקוו המים מתחת השמים אל מקום אחד
וכו' כי המים היורדים מן מבוע של כל הם מתקבצים ומתאספים מתחת
השמים שהוא תפ' יי אל מקום אחד שהוא כנסת ישראל שנקרא אחד
כי לשם יסתיים יחוד אלהינו כי היא בכלל היחוד ההי"ד אחד אבל משם
ולמטה הוא עולם הפירוד ההי"ד ומשם יפרד והיה לארבעה ראשים. לכן
כנסת ישראל נקרא מקוה לנשים כי כל הנשים הם טובלות שם. וא"כ
כשעולות מן המקוה ויעלו מטמאתן לטהרתן אזי הם עולות אותן נשמות
הנשים לצדיק יסוד עולם ומתענגות שם עד שייגיע זמן עילויין לעלות
יותר. וזהו סוד שהנשים כשיצאו מן המקוה הם צריכים להסתכל בצורת
אדם צדיק ממור כדי שיתקשר צורת אותו הצדיק בדמיונן וילדו כמותו.

אז תחפוץ זבחי צדק עולה וכליל. כי עולה רומז לתפ׳ שהוא נקרא עולה וזהו סוד שלא היו מקריבין אלא מן הזכר ה"ד זכר תמים יקריבינו. ד"א נקרא עולה על שם שעולה על לב. ד"א תפ׳ נקרא עולה בשביל שהוא עולה למעלה עד עולם העליון שהוא סוד עתיק דעתיקין וטמירא דטמירין וסתימא דסתימין. הוא עולה שם ומתענג שם בעידונין ותפנוקין של המלך ה"ד אז תתענג על יי והרכבתיך על במתי ארץ והאכלתיך נחלת יעקב אביך. מהו נחלת יעקב אביך זהו עולם העליון עולם הקדוש שהוא קדשי הקדשים והוא נקרא נחלה בלי מצרים | שאין כח ע"א להם שולט לא צד ולא עויב ולא מסטין ולא מקטריג ולא דבר ממיני המזיקין אלא הם נחלה בלי מצרים ה"ד אז תתענג על יי. ואין למעלה בטובה מן עונג לכן הוא כ"ע נקרא עונג של הצדיקים ה"ד אז התענג על יי והרכבתיך וכו׳ ואין למעלה ברע מן הנגע ה"ר ונגע לא יקרב באהליך וכו׳. וכליל היא כנסת ישראל שנקראת כליל מלשון כלולה בכל מיני יופי וחן לכן היא כוללת כל המרות וכל המדרגות. ד"א כליל מלש׳ כלת חתנים שהיא בית חתנים שהיא מתקן בית למלך יי צבאות שנקרא חתן ה"ד כחתן יכהן פאר וככלה תעדי כליה. אז יעלו על מזבחך פרים פי׳ כשכנסת ישראל מזדווגת עם המלך יי צבאות אז אותן הפרים שהן תפ׳ ועט׳ הם מתעלים למזבח הקטורת שהוא הבינה נקרא מזבח הקטורת כי קטורת מלש׳ קשר בשביל שהוא קושר כל העולמות עד שיתהוו ויתיחדו כאחד לכן הוא נקרא קטורת. ד"א פרים מלש׳ פרים ורבים כשיתחברו דו פרצופין ביחד אז הם פרים ורבים והנקבה מתעברת מן הנשמות הנשפעים לה מתפ׳ יי צבאות והזכר גם כן יתמלא. והסוד ויתעבר יי בי למענכם שכל הנשמות הנשפעות לתפ׳ יי מן עולם העליון הם מתקבצים כולם שם ויתמלא כל עץ החיים מלא על כל גדותיו ה"ד ויתעבר יי בי למענכם פי׳ בי ודאי למענכם ודאי בשבילכם. והסוד בזה איכה אשא לבדי טרחכם ומשאכם וריבכם והבן זה. ד"א ויתעבר יי בי למענכם מלש׳ העברה פי׳ העבירני וסלקיני כדי שלא ליכנס בארץ ישראל להתענג מאור של ארץ החיים ולהינות מפרייה וטובה.

ר׳ חייא פתח ואמ׳ באור פני מלך חיים ורצונו כעב מלקוש. באור פני מלך זהו אור של התפ׳ שהוא מקבל מן האור ההוא מן עולם החיים ומתפשט החיים ההוא אל כל הנמצאים והנבראים כי אותו החיים מתפשט ממקום מוח הקדוש שהוא עומד במדת המחשבה כי הוא מקור החיים כי

במוח תלוי החיים ובמוח כל האור והחיים הוא נובע משם לכן אמ׳ רז"ל ברמז אם נקב קרום של המוח טרפה כי במוח הוא מקום החיונית לכן נקרא המחשבה חיה בשביל שהיא מחייה המתים לעתיד לבא בטל של המחשבה ה"ד כי טל אורות טליך כי במקום הטל לשם הוא מצוי האור ובמקום האור מצוי הטל כי באותו הטל הקב"ה מחייה המתים ה"ד אהיה כטל לישראל וכו׳ ועל זה כתי׳ באור פני מלך חיים פי׳ באור פני של א"א חיים פי׳ יש בו החיים שמחייה בו המתים. ד"א באור פני מלך חיים כשמלך העליון הוא מאיר פניו לעולם התחתון אזי החיים יוצאים לכל העולמות אזי השמחה והרווי והטובה ומיני ברכה נמצא למה בשביל שהמלך מביט על העולם בחיים כדי להריק להם החיים מן הנהר העמוק של כל ה"ד באור | פני מלך חיים. ד"א באור פני מלך חיים פי׳ כשהמלך כט ע"ב יי צבאות הוא משגיח ומביט לכנסת ישראל בפנים שחוקים ובפנים מזהירים ובפנים של שמחה אזי החיים יוצאים ממקום המוח הקדוש והטהור אזי החיים יוצאים ממקור של הנחל שאין פוסקין מימיו לעולם וכיון שהמלך הוא נוטה אליה כדי להריק בה הברכות אזי היא נמצאת בשמחה והברכות יתחברו בה ה"ד כל הנחלים הולכים אל הים וכו׳. אזי פניה מאירין משמחת המלך שהוא מביט לה לכן כשהמש מסתכל לירח אזי הירח יש לה אורה וכשאין השמש מביט לירח אזי פני הירח חשוכות ואין לה אור כלל וזהו סוד הלקוח והבן זה ודום לייי. ד"א באור פני מלך חיים ואין אור פני מלך חיים אלא אור של א"א שיש בו כל האורות והטללים. כשיתארכו אותן הפנים אזי המבועות והמקורות יתפתחו והמעינות מזילין מימיהם לרוב. אזי המלך יי צבאות מקבל אור של הפנים ה"ד יאיר יי פניו אליך וכו׳. אזי כנסת ישראל פניה שחוקות וצהובות ה"ד באור פני מלך חיים וכו׳. ורצונו כעב מלקוש כי רצונו רומז לרצון של כל הרצונות שכל הרצון של העולמות בו תלוי וזהו סוד ואני תפלתי לך יי עת רצון וכו׳ פי׳ שיתגלה לנו אותה שעה שיתגלה לנו גילוי לובן של מצח הקדוש והטהור אזי הוא עת רצון לתחתונים לקבל תפלתם ועל זה כתי׳ ואני תפלתי לך יי עת רצון. כי היה חפץ למשוך הרצון ההוא אל עת שהיא המטרוניתא שנקראת עת ה"ד לכל זמן ועת לכל חפץ. לכן זה הרצון יתגלה בשעת תפלת מנחה שהרצון יתגלה לכן היה דוד מכוין השעה ההיא והיה מתפלל עליה ה"ד ואני תפלתי לך יי עת רצון וכו׳. עושה אור כשלמה ואין אור אלא אור קדמון שהוא האור שגנזו הב"ה לצדיקים ששת ימי בראשית בשביל פושעי הדור

ה"ד וימנע מרשעים אורם וכו'. ואותו האור הוא אור פניהי והוא האור שעתיד הקב"ה להאיר לישראל כשיצאו מגלותם שכתו' והיה אור הלבנה באור החמה ואור החמה יהיה שבעתים כאור שבעת הימים. וזה האור הב"ה עושה אותו וקיפלו כמו בגד נאה ונהמד שהלובשו מקפלו ומצניעו עד זמן שיתלבש בו ביום שמחה. כך הקב"ה עוטה זה האור והצניעו והצפינו לצדיקים לעתיד לבא ה"ד מה רב טובך אשר צפנת ליריאך וכו'. המקרה במים עליוהיו השם עבים. המקרה במים עליותיו. ואין עליותיו אלא חכמה ובינה שהם עליות לבית בשביל שהם עליונות וקירה אותם המלך במים של אותו נחל והוציאם מן האין אל היש. ד"א המקרה מלש' מקורה הערה שהוא מקור העליון שהקב"ה הוציא אותן העליות שהם חכמה | ובינה ל ע"א והיקנם במים של אותו מקור. גבול שמת בל יעבורון וכו' כי הב"ה שם להם גבול בדי שלא יעברו מן הגבול ולמעלה ה"ד האותי לא תיראו נאם יי ואם מפני לא תחילו אשר שמתי חול גבול לים וכו'. המשלח מעיינים בנחלים. המשלח רומז לכ"ע שהוא נקרא מי השלוח כי הוא מוציא המקור של השילוח ושולח אותו אל המעיינים שהם חכמה ובינה והמעיינים הם נמשכים ויוצאין בנחלים שהם ו' קצוות ומשם הם נמשכים אל כל המדרגות התחתונות עד שמגיעים אל כנסת ישראל ה"ד כל הנחלים הולכים אל הים וכו'. כתי' כאן והים איננו מלא. וכתי' לשם קול ברמה נשמע נהי בכי תמרורים רחל מבכה על בניה מאנה להנחם על בניה כי איגינו. מה לשם כי אינינו מלא בשביל שהמלך נסתלק ממנה אף בכאן כי אינינו פי' אינינו עמה כמו בראשונה כי נסתלק למעלה למעלה. לכן כתי' והים איננו מלא. אע"פ שכל הנחלים והמקורות נובעים לה מכל מקום אינינה מלאה בשביל שנסתלק ממנה בעלה המלך יי צבאות. כי דרך האשה שהיא אוהבת לבעלה כשהבעל פורש ממנה אפי' אם היו נותנין לה כל טובות שבעולם לא יחשב בעיניה לכלום. יותר היא חפיצה שתאכל עם בעלה פת חרבה ותשתה מים ממה שהיא אוכלת בשולחן מלכים אפי' כל מעדני מלכים ושותה כל משקין נבחרים. לכן כתי' אינינו מלא פי' לא יתמלא נפשה ויתקרר דעתה אפי' ששולת לה מלך העליון כל טובות העליונים לא יתקרר דעתה אלא בזווג בעלה המלך יי צבאות. על זה כתי' מאנה להנחם כי אינינו. אבל לעתיד לבא כתי' ביום ההוא אקים את סוכת דוד הנופלת. פי' הב"ה הוא מבשר לכנסת ישראל אל תיראי ואל תיפחדי כי אני בעצמי אקימיך מעפרא ה"ד אקים את סוכת דוד וכו'. למה היא נקראת סוכה דוד בשביל שהיתה

עושה מלחמותיו ונלחמת באויביו ה"ד אם תחנה על מחנה לא ירא לבי ואם תקום עלי מלחמה בזאת אני בוטח. כי אין זאת אלא כנסת ישראל ה"ד בזאת יבא אהרן אל הקדש וכו'. כיון שהיא היתה סוכה על דויד ומסתתרת עליו מפני אויביו נקראת סוכתו ה"ד ביום ההוא אקים את סוכת דוד הנופלת. וערבה ליי מנחת יהודה וירושלם כימי עולם וכשנים קדמוניות. וערבה מלש' ערב שהיא מתערבת לפני המלך ונוטה חנה לפניו ה"ד ותשא חן וחסד לפניו מכל וכו'. וכשנים קדמוניות הם חכמה ובינה נקראים קדמוניות בשביל שהם נמצאים מעולם כ"ע שהוא קדמון לכל קדמון.

ר' יסא פתח ואמ' הנה ימים באים נאום אדני אלהים והשלחתי רעב בארץ וכו' ואין רעב אלא רעב של כנסת ישראל לבעלה המלך. | לא רעב ללחם כי כבר היא מקבלת מעולם העליון שנקרא ל ע"ב אשר מאשר שמנה לחמו כי היא מקבלת משם לחמה ה"ד ממרחק תביא לחמה. ולא צמא למים שהרי כל הנחלים נמשכים לה ה"ד כל הנחלים הולכים אל הים. כי אם לשמוע את דברי יהוה. כי אין דעתה ורצונה אלא להתקבץ ולהזדווג עם המלך יי ה"ד כי אם לשמוע. ואין לשמוע כי אם לש' קיבוץ ה"ד וישמע שאול את העם וכו'.

התמרה עושה תמרים ועושה קוצים וכל מי שמבקש לנטוב תמרים הקוצים שלה שולטים בו. כך הצדיקים ובני תורה כל מי שאינו משמר עצמו מהם נופל בניהנם ולוקה בעולם הזה למה שנשיכתן נשיכת שועל ועקיצתן עקיצת עקרב ולחישתן לחישת שרף ואף כל דבריהם כנחלי אש.

אבל סוד הדבר כי התמרה רומז גם כן לכ"ע שהוא גבוה מעל גבוה כמו התמרה שהיא גבוה על שאר האילנות כך כ"ע הוא גבוה על כל המדרגות. עושה תמרים ועושה קוצים. תמרים אלו הם המדרגות הקדושות. ועושה קוצים אל תמורותיהן שהם נקראים קוצים ודרדרים ה"ד ואקוץ בם.

בא וראה מי שעובר על דברי תורה התורה עולה ויורדת ועושה באותו בן אדם רשומין בפניו בשביל שיסתכלו בו כל בני העולם. עליונים ותחתונים כולם משליכים קללות על ראשו. ותאנא כל אותן עיני יי שהולכין ושטין בעולם לידע דרכי בני אדם כולם זוקפין עיניהם ומסתכלים בפניו של אותו בן אדם ורואין אותו וכולם פותחין עליו ו' ו' ו' לו בעולם הזה ו' לו בעולם הבא. ואומ'* מסביב פלוני שהרי עדות בפניו שרוח* הטומאה

שורה עליו. וכל אותן הימים שהרושם נמצא בפניו לעדות אם הוא מוליד בן הוא מושך לו רוח מצד הטומאה ואלו הן הרשעים של הדור שהם עזי פנים שאדוניהם מניח אותם כדי לאבדם לעולם הבא. ותאנא אבל הצדיק שהוא עוסק בתורה יומם ולילה הב"ה מושך עליו חוט של חסד ונרשם הוא בפניו ומאותו הרושם יריאים עליונים ותחתונים. כך ג"כ מי שעובר על מצות התורה מושכין עליו רוח הטומאה ונרשם בפניו וממנו בורחין עליונים ותחתונים וכולם מכריזין עליו והסתלקו סביב לפלוני וי לו וי לנפשו שהוא מושך רוח הטומאה עליו מלמעלה ויורש אותו לבנו וזהו שאין לו חלק בהב"ה ובתורתו ומניח אותם בזה העולם לכלותם לשלם הבא.

לריה שמניך טובים וכו'. שמניך הם רמז לחכמה ולבינה שהם נקראים שני שמנים אחד של עדן ואחד של הנהר ואותן השמנים הם מושחים העולמות כולם והם נקראים טובים בשביל שהם רחמים שאין שם לא רוגז ולא כעס נמצא אלא רחמים הה"ד וירא אלהים את האור כי טוב וכו' פי' אותו האור הקדמון שיוצא מן | עולם העליון לא ע"א הוא נקרא טוב הה"ד מה רב טובך אשר צפנת ליריאיך. שמן הורק שמך. אותו השמן העליון תורק על שמך שהוא ארץ החיים שנקרא שם יהוה והוא שמו של הב"ה כי התורה ושמו של הב"ה: אחד כי שמו הגדול נכלל בתורה והתורה נכלל בשמו כי הוא ותורתו אחד הה"ד שמן תורק שמך על כן וכו'. ד"א שמן תורק שמך כי השמן ההוא מדיח ורוחץ ושוטף כל התחתונים כולם כי תורק מלש' ומורק ושוטף במים בשביל שאותו נהר של השמן ההוא הוא מטהר הטמאים ומחיה המיתים הה"ד הנני נוטה אליה כנהר שלום וכנחל שוטף. כי אותו הנחל הוא שוטף כל הטמאות מן העולם הה"ד וזרקתי עליכם מים טהורים וטהרתם וכו' ועל זה כתי' שמן תורק שמך פי' להפארת שנקרא שמים הה"ד ואתה תשמע השמים. על כן עלמות אהבוך למי למלך העליון כי כל העולמות וכל המרכבות כולם הם נמשכים ורצים אחריו הה"ד מושכיני אחריך נרוצה וכו'. לכן כתי' הביאני המלך חדריו פי' לאותן החדרים הפנימיים שהם חכמ' ובינה שנקראים חדרי המלך. כשהמלך יבוא לטייל בעולמו בהם נכנם ומשתעשע ומטייל הה"ד ואהיה אצלו אמון ואהיה שעשועים יום יום וכו' וכתי' נגילה ונשמחה בך נזכירה דודיך מיין. נגילה ונשמחה בך ובישועתך בך בגאולתך זהו סיפור של המטרוניתא עם המלך יי צבאות. ד"א מושכני

אחריך נרוצה הביאני וכו'. אמרה כנסת ישראל לפני הב"ה רבו' של עו' מושכיני אחריך נרוצה פי' תמשכני אחריך ודאי כדי שאתדבק במבוקך שהוא מבוע שאין לו סוף כי כל המבועות והנחלים והמקורות משם נובעים כי הם עומקים שאין להם ידיעה כי אינם נתפסים בשום שכל ורעיון אלא הם נעלמים ונסתרים ונחבאים לכן זה המבוע הוא מבוע אין פוסקין את מימיו לעולם אלא הם מזילין ומתגברים והולכים עד אין סוף לכן אמרה כנסת ישראל לפני כ"ע וע' הע' המשכני כדי שאדבק בך ובמדרגתך ובמעלתך כדי שאכנס בהדרך ואדע סודך הה"ר מושכני אחריך נרוצה. הביאני המלך חדריו וכו'. חדריו אלו הם שתי מעלות נעלמות פנימיות שהם חכמה ובינה שנקראים חדרי המלך העליון. לכן אמ' מושכני אחריך. ד"א מושכני אחריך נרוצה וכו' מושכני ואין מושכני אלא משיכה שהוא על הקונה ועל הנקנה כי מי שקונה חפץ מן החפצים צריך למשוך אותו מיד הקונה. אז הקנייה היא קיימת במשיכה כי המשיכה היא קונה הקנייניס. לכן אמרה המטרוניתא לפניו תקניני במשיכה כי אתה הוא הקונה שמים וארץ הה"ד ברוך אברם לאל עליון קונה שמים | וארץ. לכן כתי' מושכני לא ע"ב אחריך נרוצה וכו' כי המשיכה היא קונה. נרוצה מלשון רצוי כי הקניה היא נרצה לקונה בשביל שחפצו בקנייה ההוא כך אהיה מרוצה ומפויים לפניך כדי שתרציני ותקבלני מרצון הרצונות כדי שאתקרב לפניך לקרבן לרצון לפני יי. אז הביאני המלך חדריו. כי הקונה כשקונה חפץ הוא מצניעהו ושמרהו בחדריו ובגנזיו כדי שיהא שמור. כך אמרה כנסת ישראל לפני הב"ה שיביאה ויצניעה בחדריו ובגנזיו כמו שהיתה בימי קדם הה"ד וערבה ליי מנחת יהודה וירושלם כימי עולם וכשנים קדמוניות. נגילה ונשמחה בך כי מי שקונה חפץ ומצניעהו בחדריו מי משמח למי הקונה להפץ או החפץ לקונה אלא החפץ משמח לקונה כך אמרה עס' נגילה ונשמחה בך בישועתך בך בשמחתך בך בגאולתך.

ד"א נגילה ונשמחה בך. בא וראה כשהמטרוניתא היה מתמלאת מן העליונים ומתרוית ושביעה מן המים הקדושים של הנחל אזי כל השמחות של העולמות נמצאים למעלה ולמטה. אזי גילה ורנה ושמחה מצוי בכנסת ישראל כי היא מליאה על כל גדותיה אזי היא נקראת באר הה"ד שתה מים מבורך ונוזלים מתוך בארך. כשהיא מליאה מן העליונים נקראת באר שמקורותיו ומבועיו פתוחים. ובזמן שאינה מקבלת מן העליונים כביכול היא נקראת בור הה"ד והבור רק אין בו מים. פי' מים קדושים וטהורים

שהם מימות הנהל קרומים. אבל יש בו נחשים ועקרבים כביכול שהיא שותה מן המים המגולין שהנחשים והעקרבים שותים מהם והטילו ארסם באותן המים כי הם נקראין מים מגולין בשביל שאין להם שמירה מן שמירת הב"ה אלא הם עומדים מגולין והם נפסלין בהיסח הדעת. והם נקראים מים פסולין בשביל שהם פוסלין את המקואות כביכול שנותנים דעתם להטיל זוהמא וטומאה במקוה ישראל כדי לפוסלו. ד"א פסולין מל' פסל לך כיון שהם נחצבים ונפרדים ונחתכים מן מים הקדושים כי אלו השמרים של מים הטהורים לכן הם פסולין. ונקראים מים גנובים בשביל שהם גנובים ממש כי הם אורבים בלילות כמו הגנבים שהם הולכים בלילות כדי לחפור הבתים לגנוב כך הם חותכים בתי המלכים וגונבים משם טרף וסיפוק. לכן הם נקראים מים גנובים. ד"א למה הם נקראים מים גנובים מלשון גניבה שהוא יבש בלא מים כך הם כל מה שהם מקבלים מן פסולת השפע יותר הם יבשים וצמאים ורעבים. לכך הם נקראים מים גנובים. ולחם סתרים ינעם כיון שינעם להם אותו הלחם והטרף שטורפים ולוקחים בהסתר בלילות | כדרך שהגנבים עושים לכן ינעם להם יותר מה לב ע"א שטורפים כך ממה שמקבלים ביום בגלוי ובפרהסיא. לכך צריכה כנסת ישראל שמירה בלילות ה"ד לא תירא מפחד לילה ומחץ יעוף יומם. והם נקראים מים שאובין הפוסלין את המקוה בשביל שהם שאובין מן המים השאובין ממעייני הישועה ה"ר ושאבתם מים בששון ממעייני הישועה. לכן הם נקראים שאובין בשביל שהם נשאבים משמרי המים ההם וכיון שהם שאובין ופסולין לכן הם פוסלין את המקוה כביכול שהיא כנסת ישראל. ונקראים מים הטמאים בשביל שהם טמאין ומטמאין שהם שמונה שרצים האמורים בתורה שהם טמאין ומטמאין. ד"א ונקראים מים המרים בשביל שהם מרים כלענה שאין בהם מתיקות אלא מרים והסור בזה פן יש בכם איש או אשה או משפחה וכו' פן יש בכם שורש פורה ראש ולענה. פי' שבא אותו שורש או אותו גזע מן אותן המים המרים. לכן יש חילוק בין זרע הקדוש זרע אמת זרע הקדוש שהוא מן המלך והמטרוניתא שהם נקראים בנים להם ה"ד בנים אתם ליי אלהיכם וכתי' ממני פריך נמצא. אבל שורש וגזע של אומות העולם הם נשרשים מאותו שורש הנחש האחור ששרשיו מרים ומאררים ומימיו טמאים לכן הוא מגדל נטיעות מרים. אבל הפ' וכנסת ישראל שמימיהם מתוקים וקדושים וטהורים הם מגדלים נטיעות קדושים וטהורים. לכן מי שנוטע נטיעות על מים מרים הנטיעות

יהיו מרים ומי שנוטע על מים מתוקים הנטיעות הם מתוקים ופירותיהן מתוקים. לכן שורש הנחש שנשרש באומות העולם הוא טימאם לכן הם טמאים. ומטמאין לעולם ואינן יוצאים מידי טומאתן. לכן נקראים מים המרים והבן זה. ונקראים מים המארים שהם ארורים ומקוללים שכל מיני ארורות וקללות היורדים לעולם משם הם יורדים. לכן ארז"ל בסוד האגרה מיום שנחרב בית המקדש לא היה יום שלא ירד בו קללה לעולם והמשכיל יבין וידום ליי. ונקראים מים סרוחין בשביל שיש להם ריח רע מכח הנבלות והטריפות הנשלחים בהם ומקבלין ריח רע מהם. ד"א מים סרוחים בשביל שהם מן התוספות והשיורים של שפע הקדוש ה"ר וסרח העודף. וכתי' יהיה סרוח וכו'. כך כנסת ישראל היא מקבלת מימיה מן המבוע של כל ומתרוית היא בהם וכל חיילותיה ומרכבותיה וצבאותיה ומחנותיה והנשאר מן אותן המים הם השמרים והפסולת יורדים דרך הנקבים שיש בין כנסת ישראל והתמורות עד עולם | הטמא לכן אלו המים נקראים לב ע"ב סרוחים ונוספים. והם מים מתים בשביל שאין להם תנועה כלל שהם כמו המתים ואינם מתנועעים והולכים הזה והנה. ד"א הם נקראים מתים בשביל שהם כמבלי עינים ה"ד עינים להם ולא יראו וכו' והם יושבים בארץ ציה וצלמות. אל תיקרי צלמות אלא צל מות שהם יושבים בצל המתים והנדחים. ד"א הם נקראים מתים בשביל שכל מדרגות הקדושות הם קדושים וחיים ומתנועעים מכח הסבה הראשונה שמניעם תנועה בלי הפסק אלא הם חיים ומתנועעים לעולם אילולי שהיו עומדים רגע אחד בלי תנועה יהרב העולם בסוד השמיטה. אבל התמורות אין להם תנועה מי שמניעם אלא עומדים כמתים לכן אומות העולם אפי' בחייהם נקראים מתים ה"ד לא המתים יהללויה. וכתי' ודורש אל המתים כי בהייהם נקראים מתים וכל שכן במיתתם. אבל ישראל אפי' במיתתם נקראים חיים ה"ד וגנותי על העיר הזאת להושיעה למעני וכו' וכתי' ושבח אני את המתים שכבר פי' בשמיטה מתו מן החיים. והבן זה מאד ודום ליי. לכן כשהעולם בצער העם הולכים לקברי המתים הצדיקים ומבקשים עליהם רחמים כדי שיתבטל הגזירה מן העולם ואזי הם מתעוררים מקבריהם ומשתטחים על קברי אבות והאבות יתעוררו ויכנסו לנן עדן ומודיעין לנפש והנפש לרוח והרוח לנשמה נמצא שהצדיקים הם יותר שולטים במיתתם יותר מחייהם. לכן הצדיקים במיתתן נקראים חיים. אבל לא כן הרשעים כי אם כמוץ אשר הדפנו רוח והבן זה.

נגילה ונשמחה בך וכו׳ נגילה ונשמחה בך נגילה ונשמחה
לך מבעי ליה מהו נגילה ונשמחה בך. אלא בך ממש. כשכנסת ישראל
נפקדה מן מלך העליון אזי היא מתעטרת בכמה עטרות וכתרים ובכילות
חתנים אזי כל אותן מרכבות וצבאות וחיילות ומחנות של עמ׳ ישראל
כולם מתעלים עד אין סוף ומתדבקים במלך יי ממש ה״ד ואתם הדביקים
ביי אלהיכם חיים כלכם. והם מתעננים שם עונג שאין למעלה ממנו ה״ד
אז תתענג על יי והרכבתיך על במתי ארץ. מהו במתי ארץ אלו הם חכמה
ובינה שנקראים במותי ארץ אזי אותן ההויות הם נדבקים ומתחברים עם
ההויות של המלך ה״ד נגילה ונשמחה בך. נזכירה דודיך מיין וכו׳
מיין רומז למאה ועשר. כי מאה רומז לכ״ע שהם מאה ענפים כי כ״ע
בתוכה עשר מדרגות לכל מדרגה ומדרגה מן אלו עשרות יש להם עשר
ענפים הרי מאה עולמות. ויו״ד הנשאר רומז לעשר צחצחות ה״ד והשביע
בצחצחות נפשך ועצמותיך.| לכן אמרה נזכירה דודיך מיין לנ ע״א
עולמות שהם כולם שופכים עלי מימיהם של מבועיהם ונחליהם ומקורותיהם
על ידיך שאתה דודי שאתה עומד ביני וביניהם ה״ד דודיך. לכן כנסת
ישראל היא מקבלת לעולם ריווי של אותו היין על ידי אהובה ודודה
המלך יי צבאות ותרווית מהם על זה כתי׳ ישקיני מנשיקות פיהו כי טובים
דודיך מיין. כי אותו הדוד הוא מכה היין הנזכר.

יי אורי וישעי וכו׳ יי הוא רומז לכ״ע שהוא נקרא יי כי הוא
אדון האדונים ואלוה על כל האלהים ה״ד כי גבוה מעל גבוה וכו׳.
אורי רומז לחכמה שהוא אור קדמון בשביל שהוא אור זרוח בעולם כי כ״ע
הוא אין ואפס ותוהו בשביל שאין בו השנה כלל לכן אין בו זריחה לידע מה
מהותו. אבל חכמה יש בו קצת זוהר בשכל כדי לידע מהותו בשביל זה נקרא
יש ונקרא בוהו פי׳ בו הוא כי יש בו קצת השגה לכן נקרא אור קדמון והסוד
כי בהיר הוא בשחקים וכתי׳ והמשכילים יזהירו כזוהר הרקיע כי המשכילים
הם חכמה ובינה שנקראים משכילים בשביל שבני העולם משיגים ומשכילים
קצת מהותם ומעלתם. ועל זה נקרא חכמה אור קדמון כי הוא קודם בהשגה ועל
זה נקרא בכור לכהן ובכור להשגה והבן זה מאד ודום ליי. ד״א אורי פי׳
אור יו״ד כי היא נקרא יו״ד של שם הקדוש כי הוא התחלת השם הקדוש
ונקרא יו״ד בשביל שהוא מקבל כל החקיקות וכל הרשימות כמו היו״ד שהוא
מקבל החקיקות של כל האותיות לכן אי אפשר לך שתכתוב אות מן אותיות
הקדושות אלא שתכתוב מתחלה יו״ד וא״כ תצייר האות. והיו״ד נעלמת

ונסתרת בכל. כך חכמה נסתרת ונעלמת על זה כתי׳ אורי מי׳ אוד יו״ד.
ד״א אורי כי אותיות אורי הם רומז כי מדת החכמה הם נקראים עיני יי
המסתכלים והמביטין ומשיגים על כל יצורי עולם וכיון שהיא נסתרת ונעלמת
כמו הנשמה שבגוף שהיא רואה ואינה נראית כך היא רואה כל הנמצאים
הן פרטים והן כללים ומשגחת על מעשיהם ה״ד עיני יי תמיד משוטטות
בכל הארץ. כי הם משוטטות ומביטות בכל העולמות כדי להשגיח על
היצורים ולשומרם ה״ד הנה לא ינום ולא ישן שומר ישראל כי לא יאמר
למעלה לא שינה ולא תנומה ולא אחד מכל התוארים הנזכרים בגופות
השפלות לכן חכמה נקראת שומר העולמות ה״ד רואי. ד״א רואי ה״ד
באר לחי רואי כי מדת החכמה נקראת באר לחי שהוא כ״ע שהוא | חי לנ ע״ב
העולמים כי הוא נותן חיים לכל חי והוא מקבל כל החיים מעי׳ העי׳
לכן הוא נקרא חי העולמים כי כל החיים של כל העולמות משם הם נמשכים
ונשאבים וכל מים היוצאים מן מבוע של הנחל יורדים לתוך הבאר שהוא
חכמה על זה נקרא באר לחי. והוא רואי שהוא רואה וצופה כל הנבראים
והנמצאים. ד״א יי אורי וכו׳ כי מדת החכמה היא נותנת אורה לנשמות
של הצדיקים המצטרפים והמצטיירים בתובה ה״ד המה היוצרים יושבי
נטעים וס׳. וישעי רומז לבינה שהיא נקראת תשועת ישראל כי כל התשועות
והגאולות והנחמות משם הם נמשכים לכן היא נקראת יום הכפורים בשביל
שהוא יום סליחה וכפרה והוא תשובה לכל שבי פשע שכל השבים לפני
הב״ה הוא פושט ימינו ומקבלם. ד״א למה נקראת תשובה בשביל כי עפר
אתה ואל עפר תשוב מלש׳ תשובה. ד״א נקראת תשובה בשביל שכל הנבראים
כולם הם שבים כולם לאותה המדה בסוף אלף הששי שהוא בין השמשות
כשיכנס השבת זהו שארז״ל שתא אלפי שנין הוי עלמא וחד-חרוב ולמאן
דאמי׳ תרי חרוב. ד״א בינה נקראת תשועה על שם שהיא מתלבשת בכובע
ישועה של מלך העליון ה״ד ישראל נושע ביי תשועת עולמים. ה״ד
יי אורי וישעי וכו׳. ממי אירא כשהמלך הוא לובש אותה כובע על ראשו
ויבוא להושיע לכנסת ישראל אם כן ממי אירא אין לירא ולא להתפחד
משום נמצא שבעולם. ד״א ממי אירא וכו׳ כי אני מפחד וירא מאויבי
כי כבר אין להם חוזק כי תשש כוחם ה״ד יי לי לא אירא מה יעשה לי
אדם. אלא ממי ירא ופחד אלא מעולם הבינה שנקרא מי ה״ד את מי
נוצץ ויבינהו כי הבינה היא מקור לכל דינין ונבורות ונקראת אלהים ה״ד
בראשית ברא אלהים בשביל שהיא התחלת הדין לכל הנמצאים כי משם

מקבל הגבורה הדין הקשה לכן נפחד דוד על אותו מעשה של בת שבע
ואמ׳ ממי אירא כי ודאי ממנו אני ירא כי הוא מוציא הגבורה שעלתה
על המחשבה כי הלשון מוציא מה שעלה במחשבה לבא לעולם הן טוב
והן רע כי מפי עליון לא תצא הרעות והטוב אלא הגזירה תעלה על המחשבה
והלשון תוציא מה שעלה במחשבת כ"ע לכן אני ירא ממנה כדי להוציא
עונשי מן הכח אל הפועל פ׳ מכח של הבינה אל פועל הגבורה כדי לנקום
ולענוש אותי על אותו עון לכן אמ׳ דוד ע"ה אל תבוא במשפט את עבדך
כי לא יצדק לפניך כל חי.

ר׳ יוסי אמ׳ משעה שחטא אדם הראשון שנגזר עליו ועל כל
העולם מיתה* אמ׳ למה אני מוליד | לבהלה. מיד נתפרש מאשתו לד ע"א
ושני רוחות היו באות ומזדווגות עמו והולידו ואותן שהולידו הם הם מזיקין
שבעולם ונקראים נגעי בני אדם והם שאטין ומקטרגין לבני אדם והם מצוים
בפתחי הבתים ובבורות ובבתי כסאות . ועל זה צריך בן אדם לעשות
מזוזה לפתח ביתו* וכתו׳ בה שם הקדוש שד״י בכתרים עליונים אזי מתקרבים
ורואים כתו׳ במזוזה שד והם סבורים שהוא שם שד מיד מתקרבים ומגיעין
לשם וכיון שהם רואים שהוא שדי אזי הם נותנין כבוד לשם המלך* אזי
הם מתרחקין ממנו וזהו סוד ונגע לא יקרב באהליך מהו נגע אלו נגעי
בני אדם. תאנא בשעה שירד אדם בדיוקן העליון ובדיוקן הקדוש וראו
אותו עליונים ותחתונים והקריבו אצלו והמליכו אותו על זה העולם.
ואחר שבא הנחש על חוה והטיל בה זוהמא ואחר כך נולד קין משם נתיחסו
כל דורות חייבי העולם ומדורור השדים והרוחות משם נמצאו ומצדדיו.
ובשביל כך כל רוחות ושדים הם חצאין. יש בהם חצים מבני אדם. והצים
ממלאכי עליונים למעלה. וכשנולדו מאדם אותן האחרים כולם נמצאו
חצאין חצי מלמעלה וחצי מלמטה. ואחר שנולדו מאדם הוליד מאותן רוחות
בנות שדומין ליופי עליונים וליופי תחתונים. ועל זה כתי׳ ויראו בני
האלהים פי׳ של התמורות את בנות האדם כי טובות הנה ויקחו להם נשים
וכו׳ והיו בני אדם כולם טועין אחריהם. ואחד נמצא בא לעולם מרוחו
של צד קין וקראו אותו תובל קין ונקבה אחת יצאה עמו והיו הבריות
טועין* אחריה ונקראת נעמה ממנו יצאו רוחות ושדים אחרים ואלו הם
תלויים באויר ומודיעין דברים לאותן אחרים שנמצאים למטה וזה תובל
קין הוציא מיני הרג לעולם. ונעמה היא קיימת עד זה היום.ומשכנה בין
רגשי ים הגדול ויוצאת ושוחקת בבני אדם ומתחממת מהם בחלום באותו

תאוה של אותו בן אדם שנדבק בה וההאוה היא נוטלת ולא יותר מאותה
תאוה היא מתעברת ומוציאה מינים אחרים לעולם* ואלו שתלד מבני אדם
הם נמצאין לקבל* הנקבות של בני אדם ומתעברות מהם* וכולם הם הולכים
אצל לילית הראשונה והיא מגדלת אותם. והיא יוצאה לעולם ומבקשת
ילדיה ורואה תינוקות של בני אדם ומתדבקת להרוג אותם ולשאוב רוחם
של התינוקות והיא הולכת עם אותו הרוח ונזדמנו לפני ג׳ רוחות קדושים
ושאסין לפניה ונוטלין אותו הרוח | ממנה ומניחין אותה לפני לד ע"ב
הב"ה. ובשביל כך התורה הזהירה לבני אדם והתקדשתם והיתם קדושים
שאם נמצא בן אדם קדוש לא ירא ממנה. מיד הב"ה ממין אלו שלשה מלאכים
קדושים ששומרין לאותו תינוק והיא לא יכולה להזיק לו ה"ד לא תאונה
אליך רעה ונגע לא יקרב באהליך וכו׳ מאי טעמא לא תאונה אליך רעה
בשביל כי מלאכיו יצוה לך לשמרך וכו׳ וכתי׳ כי בי חשק ואפלטהו וכו׳.
ואם בן אדם לא נמצא קדוש ומושך רוח מצד הטומאה מיד היא תבא ושוחקת
עם אותו תינוק והורגת אותו ושאובת אותו הרוח ולא יסור ממנה לעולמים.
וא"ת אותן תינוקות אחרים שהרגה אותם ונזדמנו לפניה אותן שלשה מלאכים
קדושים ונוטלין ממנה אותו הרוח הא לא בצד הטומאה נמצאו למה שלטה
להרוג אותם אלא זה בן אדם* לא נתקדש אבל לא נתכוון להתטמאות
ולא נטמא בשביל כך היא יכולה לשלוט על הגוף ולא ברוח. ולפעמים
נמצא שיוצאת נעמה לעולם להתחמם מבני אדם ונמצא בן אדם בקשר
התאוה עמה ומתעורר משנתו ואוחז באשתו ושוכב עמה ורצונו באותו התאוה
שהיה לו בחלומו מיד אותו שהוליד מצד נעמה בא. כשיוצאת לילית ורואה
אותו ויודעת הדבר היא מתקשרת בו ומגדלת אותו באותן אחרים ונמצאת
עמו זמנין רבים ולא הורגת אותו זהו בן אדם שבכל חדש וחדש נפגם
ולא יזוז ממנה* לעולמים שהרי בכל חדש וחדש הלילית יוצאה ופוקדת
על כל אותן שהיא מגדלת ושוחקת בהם מיד אותו בן אדם הוא פגום.

א"ר פינחס בשם ר' חלקיה בשם ר' מאיר ושער רישיה כעמר נקי זהו רומז לקווצות של עתיק דעתיקין שהם לבנים כשלג וכצמר הלבן מסודרים ומתוקנים בתיקון יפה ונאה ואין בהם עירבוב כלל כי כל חיים של הנהרות והמבועות והמקורות של כל העולמות משם נמשכים ויוצאים. כי בזו המדה יהכפרו עונותיהם של ישראל ביום הכפורים ההי"ד כי ביום הזה יכפר עליכם וכו' וכתי' אם יהיו חטאיכם כשנים כשלג ילבינו ואם יאדימו כתולע כצמר יהיו. כי זה השער של הראש נקרא שער לבן כצמר הלבן בשביל שהוא נקרא מדת הלבנה כי בה מוחל לצדיקים ולרשעים ההי"ד אם יהיו חטאיכם כשנים כשלג ילבינו. וכתי' לבושיה כתלג חיור ושער רישיה וכו'. כי כך מדתו שהוא מתעסף בטלית לבן כשליח צבור ומוחל לישראל וזהו סוד שנתגלה למשה פי' כ"ע של עט' כשליח צבור מעוטף בטליתו ומלמד לו י"ג מדות הנמשכים מן מבוע של העתיק כי בזה הוא מוחל לצדיקים ולרשעים ההי"ד אם יהיו חטאיכם. א"ר מני לא תהא קרית שמע קלה בעיניך מפני שיש בה מאתים ושמונה וארבעים תיבות כמנין אברי האדם ומהן ברוך שם כבוד וכו'. אמ' הב"ה אם שמרת את שלי לקרותה בכתבה אני אשמור את שלך. לכן דוד אמ' שומריני כאשון בת עין וכו' א"ל הב"ה שמור מצותי וחיה. אמ' ר' שמעון בן חלפתא להי"ד לאדם שהוא בגליל ויש לו כרם ביהודה. ואחד ביהודה ויש לו כרם בגליל. אותו שבגליל הולך ליהודה לעדר את כרמו וזה שביהודה הולך לגליל לעדר את כרמו. עמדו זה עם זה ואמרו זה לזה עד שאתה בא למקומי שמור לי את שלי בתהומך ואני אשמור את שלך בתחומי. כך אמ' דוד שומרני כאשון בת עין. אמ' לו הב"ה שמור מצותי וחיה. כך אמ' הב"ה לישראל שמרו מצות ק"ש שחרית וערבית ואני משמר אתכם שנא' יי ישמורך מכל רע ישמור את נפשך.

בניה ביניקת הנהר ההיא לכן היא כאם שמרחמת על בניה ויונקת אותן. אימתי בזמן שהמלך שהוא תפ' ישראל מזדווג עם בת זוגו שהיא המטרוניתא אזי אותו הנהר של הבינה נמשך ויוצא תדיר להשקות עץ החיים שהוא התפ' אזי היא מעטרת לבנה שהוא התפ' בעטרות עליונות ההי"ד צאינה וראינה בנות ציון במלך שלמה בעטרה שעטרה לו אמו ביום חתונתו וכו'. לכן אותו הנהר נמשך ויוצא תדיר לעץ החיים ההי"ד ונהר יוצא מעדן להשקות וכו'. ואביו רומז לחכמה שהוא נקרא האב כי התחלה וראשית כל הנמצאים בעולם היש כי עד כאן הוא אין מכאן והלאה נקרא יש לכן הוא נקרא אב העולמות. בא וראה בזמן שבני העולם הולכים בדרך האמת ואוהבים לאדוניהם ומשתדלים בתורה ובמצות ומקיימים המצות מאהבה ויריאים מחוזק הדין הקשה אזי הברכות נמשכים ויוצאים מעדן החכמה והבינה. אזי הברכות והשמחות נמצאים בכל הנמצאים אזי הדינים מסתלקים ונשברים ואין להם כח וחוזק כלל. אבל אם ח"ו אם אין ישראל יריאים מחוזק הדין וחוזרים אחוריהם ביתה ועוזבים התורה והמצות אזי כביכול המבועות והנהרות של האב והאם נמנעים ונפסקים ואין יוצאין ונמשכים מימיהם לתפ' ישראל ונשארו כל העולמות כביכול בכבוד אורה של האב והאם. לכן הזהירך התורה ואמרה איש אמו ואביו תראו. כי כל מי שהוא ירא מן אביו ואמו למטה כאלו ירא אב ואם למעלה וגורם המשכת הנהר ההוא לכל העולמות בזכות זה. לכן כל מי שהוא מזלזל בכבוד אביו ואמו ואינו מכבדם אלא מקללם ומבזה אותם במיני בזיונות אזי הוא חייב מיתה בעולם הזה ובעולם הבא וגורם סילוק השפע של אב ואם העליון לעולם והנהרות נמנעים והמבועות נפסקים אזי מיעוט אורה יש לעץ החיים וכ"ש לעץ הדעת. לכן ויי לו ויי לנפשו שגורם פגם זה בעולם ועליו הכתו' או' כי דבר יי בזה ואת מצותו הפר הכרת תכרת. לכן יש לך להסתכל בכיבוד אב ואם בכל יכולתך כדי שתגרום המשכת השפע לעולמות והבן זה. ואת שבתותי תשמורו. שבתי מיבעי ליה מהו שבתותי משמע רבים אלא רומז לשבת העליון שהוא עולם היובל שנקרא שבת הגדול והוא עולם החירות ויום הכפורים שכל מיני גאולה וחירות ממנו יוצאים לעולם. ושבת השני הוא צדיק יסוד עולם שנקרא שבת התחתון. לכן אל יעלה על דעתך לומ' השבת הגדול שהוא עולם העליון אני | מכבדהו ואכניסהו בכלל היחוד בשביל שהוא עולם העליון לז ע"א אבל שבת התחתון שאינו בכלל עולם העליון לא אשמרהו לכן בא והזהירך בנפשך שזה וזה חייב אתה לחבר וליחד אותם כאחד ההי"ד ואת שבתותי

תשמרו כדי שיהא הייחוד אחד בלא קיצוץ ופירוד כלל. אני יי אלהיכם. אני רומז לכ"ע הה"ד אני ראשון ואני אחרון. יי רומז לתפ' שהוא עץ החיים שהוא באמצע הגן. אלהיכם רומז לעט' שהיא למטה מן הכל. נמצא שיש כאן למעלה ואמצע ומטה שהם עיקר היחוד של האמונה לכן אמ' אני יי אלהיכם.

לא תעשוק את רעך וכו' וסוד הדבר כי דרך הוא תפ' ישראל שנקרא ריע הה"ד זה דודי וזה ריעי. והוא עץ החיים המתפרנס מן עולם העליון. אימתי בזמן שישראל למטה הם הולכים בדרכי המלך ונושאים ונותנים באמת ובמשפט שאין בכפיהם גזל וחמס אזי המקורות כולם הם נמשכים לאותו האילן והאילן פרה ורבה באותן המים. אבל אם כביכול ישראל אינן מתקנים מעשיהם למטה אזי כביכול הם עושקים ונוזלים השפע שראויה לבוא מכ"ע אל האילן החיים ויסתלק השפע בעונותם הה"ד לא תעשק את רעך וכו' כי כביכול הם עושקים להב"ה שנקרא ריע שנא' זה דודי וזה ריעי וגורם סילוק המשכת השפע מן עץ החיים. ולא תגזול כי הוא גוזל המים הבאים מן הנהר וחוזרים למקומן וזהו סוד שארז"ל כי כל מי שגוזל פרוטה מחבירו כאלו נוטל נשמתו. כי הגוזל והנגזל אין מכניסין אותן למחיצתן של הצדיקים כי כל מי שחבירו נענש על ידו אין מכניסין אותו למחיצת הצדיקים. ודאי חבירו שהוא הב"ה הוא כביכול נענש על ידו לבלתי בא לו שפע אזי כביכול אינו עולה למחיצת הצדיקים שהם חכמה ובינה כי אותה העט' שהיתה אמה מתעטרת אותה כביכול נסתלקה ולא כבודו של מלך הוא כיון שאין העט' שהיא המטרוניתא נמצאת עמו כי מלך בלא מטרוניתא לאו מלך הוא. ויי לו ויי לנפשו מי שגורם פרצה כזה שגורם סילוק שכינה עילאה מעל המלך העליון הקדוש לכן בא והזהירך שלא תעשוק ולא תגזול כי כל העושק והגוזל כאלו כביכול גוזל לשכינה ממש והבן זה מאד ודום ליי. ד"א לא תעשוק את רעך וכו' כי עדיין יש לך להסתכל כאן בסוד עליון ומופלא בענין לא תעשוק. ואצ"ל כי כל הנשמות היודעות מכ"ע לתפ' ישראל והם מקוננין שם כל אחד ואחד על קנו ויש מהם שהוא שוכן בענפים ומהם בעלין ומהם בשרשים ומהם בגוף האילן כל אחד ואחד כפי מדרגתו ומעלתו כך ישיבתו. כשיבוא ריבוי השפע מן אותו הנחל של כל אל עדן ומן העדן אל שכינה עליונה ומשם אל מדת אברהם ואחר כך למדת התפ' | שהוא החיים אזי שמש ומנן יי צבאות לז' ע"ב מחלק אותו השפע לכל אחת ואחת מן הנשמות ההם החלק הראוי ליתן לו

לא תלין פעולת שכיר אתך עד בקר בא להזהירך שצריך ליתן לפועל שכירות ביומו ההה"ד ביומו תתן שכרו. אבל סוד הענין כי הפועל היא כנסת ישראל שנקראת פועל בשביל כל מה שיצא מן עולם המחשבה העמוקה יצא מן הכח ההוא אל הפועל שהוא עט' ישראל שהיא פועלת ומשנה כל הפעולות כפי מה שתראה טוב בעיניה כי היא נקראת יוצר כמו היוצר כשהוא מכין כלי חרש ומתקנן לפעמים ירחיב ולפעמים יקצר בזמן שהטיקלא סובבת ומתגלגלת בידו. כך כנסת ישראל היא פועלת כל היצורים כולם על דרך זו הטיקלא ההה"ד כי הנה כחומר ביד היוצר וכו'. וכיון שהיא פועלת לכן היא מקבלת שכירותה מן בעל הבית שהוא כ"ע ביומה וכיון שאין לה מעצמה כלום אלא מה שנותנים לה בכל יום ויום מבית המלך וזהו סוד ברוך יי יום יום. לכן אין מאחרין בשכירותה אלא בכל יום נותנין לה שכר קצוב מכ"ע לכן בא והזהירך מי שלן אצלו שכר הפועל כאלו כביכול נותן פגם בפועל העליון ההה"ד ביומו ונתן שכרו.

בא וראה מי שהוא תאותו לעסוק בתורה ולא ימצא מי ילמד אותו והוא באהבת התורה עוסק בה ומגמגם בה בגמגומין שלא ידע. כל דבר ודבר עולה והב״ה משמח באותו הדבר ומקבל אותו ונוטע אותו סביב לנחל ההוא ונעשו מדברים אלו אילנות גדולות ונקראים ערבי נחל ה״ד באהבתה תשגה מאד.

ונטעתם וערלתם ערלתו זה הפסו׳ מדבר בתינוק שלש שנים יהיה לכם ערלים שאינו יכול לא להשיח ולא לדבר ובשנה הרביעית יהיה כל פריו קדש הלולים ליי. שאביו מקדישיה לתורה | הלולים לה ע״ב

ליי מהו הלולים·ליי מהלל* לחב״ה. ובשנה החמישית תאכלו את פריו משעה שהוא מתחיל לקרות בתורה מכאן ואילך להוסיף לכם תבואתו. מכאן אמרו החבריא* בן חמש למקרא בן עשר למשנה לפי שתורה שבכתב היא החמישית מן חמש בתרים התחתונים והיא נקראת החמישית. לכן כעין דוגמא זה יהיה בן חמש למקרא. בן עשר למשנה רומז למדת המלכות שהיא מדת העשירית ה״ד העשירי יהיה קדש ליי. לכן כיון שתורה שבעלפה היא מדת העשירית מן הכתרים ההם כעין דוגמא זה יהיה הבן בן עשר כשילמוד המשנה כדי שיהא הכל כדוגמא עליונה והבן זה מאד. לפי שבעולם הזה אדם מישראל מוליד בן ומוליכו לבית הספר יגע עמו ומלמדו תורה ובעונותיו הוא ימות ואינו שמח בו. אמ׳ להם הב״ה על ידי שיצר הרע מצוי בכם אתם חוטאין ובניכם מתים אבל לעתיד לבא אני מסיר את יצר הרע מכם ומבניכם ואתם מולידים ושמחים בהם שנא׳ לא יגעו לריק ולא ילדו לבהלה כי זרע ברוכי יי המה וצאצאיהם אתם.

ואצ״ל כי שלשה כתרים העליונים שהם כ״ע וחכמה ובינה שהוא עולם העליון אשר אין הפה יכול לדבר שם ואפילו להרהר כי נמנע הדבור וההרהור באותו מקום לכן כתי׳ אלו שלש שנים יהיו לכם ערלים פי׳ אטומים וסתומים ונסתרים ונעלמים שאסור לשלוח שם המחשבה ולא הדיבור. וזהו ששנינו אם רץ לבך לעלות למעלה שוב למקום ה״ד כבוד אלהים הסתיר דבר וכבוד מלכים חקור דבר. כעין דוגמא זה למטה מי שנוטע נטיעה שיהיה ערלים שלש שנים הראשונים כעין דוגמא של מעלה כי כל הנהנה מן הערלה כאלו יתן גלוי בהסתר של המלך העליון וגורם לשכינה עליונה להסתלק מן ישראל ונסתמים ונסגרים הצינורות היורדות מן כ״ע אל התפ׳ לכן ויי לו ויי לנפשו מי שגורם פרצה כזו טוב לו שלא נברא כי מנע טובות העליונים מן התחתונים.

אמ׳ ר׳ שמעון לא תקיפו פאת וכו׳ סוד הדבר יש כאן לחבריא. כי שער של הראש הם הקווצות והנימין של שער הקדוש שכתי׳ בו ושער ראשיה כעמר נקי כי אותו השער הוא עומד בסדור יפה ונאה בלא ערבוב כלל והוא מסבב כל הגולגולות וכמה אלפים ורובי רבבות כתרים עליונים תלויים באותו השער לכן כל מי שהוא מקיף הראש כאלו מחריב כל העולם לכן ויי לו ויי לנפשו שהוא בשער מלכא דלעילא לכן כתי׳ לא תקיפו פאת ראשכם כלשון רבים משמ׳ שראשים ושרים עליונים ממונים על אותו השער | ולא תשחית את פאת זקניך ויי לו ויי לנפשו מי שמושיט לט ע״א

ידו לזקן המלך לכן אין לו חלק באלהי ישראל ונכרת בעולם הזה ובעולם הבא.

והתקדשתים והייתם קדושים וכו׳. כי הב"ה נתן לישראל שתי קדושות ולעצמו קדושה אחת הה"ד והתקדשתים והייתם קדושים לישראל כי קדוש אני להב"ה. אבל סוד הענין כי שתי קדושות רומז לשתי עולמות נעלמות שהם חכמה ובינה שהם קדושים בקדושה עליונה והם משפיעים למדת ישראל שהוא תפ׳ כל קדושה עליונה וכל השפע כדי להחזיקו וכדי ליתן השפע אל מלכות יי שהיא המטרוניתא. לכן שתי קדושות אלו הם לישראל ודאי. אבל קדושה אחת שהוא כ"ע שהוא יחוד שאין בכל האחדים יחוד כמותו כי אינו נחלק לקצוות ולמחלוקות אלא הוא פשוט בתכלית הפשיטות לכן נקרא אחת. ואותה הקדושה היא קדושת עי׳ העי׳ שאין בין עילה ועלול אלא שזה עילה וזה עלול והמשכיל יבין וידום ליי. וזהו סוד קדוש קדוש קדוש יי צבאות וכו׳. כשיבוא הקדושה מבינה וחכמה וכ"ע ועי׳ העי׳ אז כנסת ישראל מתמלאת מטוב העולמות והיא נקראת צבאות לפי שכל צבאות עליונים נראין בה לכן מי שעומד בקדושה צריך לרקוד שלשה רקידות אחד לבינה. ואחד לחכמה. ואחד לכ"ע ועי׳ העי׳ כדי שימשוך השפע משם עד עט׳ ישראל. אזי היא מתקדשת בקדושה עליונה ומתקשטת ככלה בתכשיטיה. לכן ויי לו ויי לנפשו מי שעומד בשעת הקדושה ועומד ומדבר שיחת חולין וקלות ראש ואינו נותן כבוד לשם הקדוש. כי בשעה שישראל למטה מקדישין שמו הגדול אזי יזלו המים של הנהרות והמבועות מעי׳ העי׳ וכ"ע וחכמה ובינה דרך צינורות הקדושות בחשאי ובשתיקה בלא שום קול בעולם. אזי כל המרכבות והצבאות והחיילות והמחנות כולם דוממים ושותקים ונחים כי אין שם קול בשעה שיזדווגו העליונים עם התחתונים לכן תיקן משה לישראל שיאמרו ברוך שם כבוד מלכותו לעולם ועד. לכן ויי לו מי שהוא מדבר בשעת הקדושה כי אינו נותן כבוד לשמו הגדול כי דבר יי בזה וסוב לו שלא נברא בעולם. אפי׳ מלאכי עליונים קדושים אינן רשאין לעורר קול בשעת זווג העליון כל שכן וכל שכן האדם הפחוח והנבזה למטה על אחת כמה וכמה שיעמוד באימה וביראה בשעה שישראל מקדישין שמו למטה. לכן כל מי שהוא אומ׳ קדושה למטה בכל כוונתו פותחין לו מקורות קדושות העליונים ומקדישין אותו למעלה לכן כתיב | וההתקדשתם והייתם קדושים וכו׳. אשריהם ישראל שהב"ה נתן להם את תורתו הקדושה והנחילם לחיי העולם הבא ומסר להם תורתו

הקדושה הה"ד ונחך יי תמיד.

פרשת אמור אל הכהנים. ר׳ אבא פתח ואמ׳ אמרות יי אמרות טהורות כסף צרוף בעליל לארץ מזוקק שבעתים. בא וראה כל מה שהזהיר הב"ה לישראל בשביל קדושתן וטהרתן הה"ד אמרות יי אמרות טהורות. אמרות יי סוד הדבר הם עשר מאמרות שבהם נברא העולם ואלו מאמרות הם עשר מדרגות פנימיות ונעלמות שהם עשר צחצחות המתפשטות תוך כ"ע שהוא עתיק דעתיקין וסתימא דסתימין. ואותן מבועות הם נובעים ממבועות של הנחל העמוק לכן הם מהורות שהם עומדים בעולם הקדוש והטהור לפי שהם קודש הקדשים ומאלו עשר מאמרות נבראו ונמצאו כל הנמצאים כולם וכל מה שישתלשל מן כ"ע ולמטה מאלו עשר מבועות נמשכים ויוצאים הה"ד אמרות יי וכו׳.

למה נקרא שם הכהן כהן גדול בשביל שהוא גדול בחמשה דברים בנוי בכח בעושר ובחכמה ובשנים. אבל סוד הענין כי כהן גדול רומז לחסד שהוא כהן גדול וזהו סוד שארז"ל מיכאל כהן גדול בשמים ומקריב נפשותן של הצדיקים לפני הב"ה והוא מדת אהרן שהוא מקבל כל המשחים היוצאים מן הנהר היוצא מעדן הה"ד ונהר יוצא מעדן. ואותו נהר יורד על ראש הכהן הה"ד כשמן הטוב על הראש יורד על הזקן זקן אהרן וכו׳ והוא מקבל חמשה נהרות מן תפ׳ שנקרא נוי הה"ד דודי צח ואדום ואינני אלא אדום. בכח מן הגבורה שהוא נקרא בעל כח. ועושר מן הבינה הה"ד בשמאלה עושר וכבוד. ובחכמה מצד החכמה שהיא חכמה קדומה הה"ד ראשית חכמה יראת יי. ובשנים לפי שהוא מקבל שמן המשחה מן מבוע של שנים רבות שהוא עתיק דעתיקין הה"ד כימי עולם וכשנים קדמוניות. לכן הכהן למטה שצריך שיהא בו אלו חמשה מעלות שהזכרנו אזי הוא נקרא כהן גדול הה"ד והכהן הגדול מאחיו וכו׳.

אצ"ל בהן גדול רומז לכ"ע שנקרא כהן גדול לפי שהוא כהן ואדון על כל המדרגות הה"ד והוא כהן לאל עליון כי הוא מושח כל הכהנים של מטה בשמן של המשחה היורד מן מבוע של הנחל והוא נקרא כהן גדול מאחיו שהן המדרגות התחתונות שנקראים | אחיו וריעיו הה"ד מ ע"א למען אחי וריעי וכו׳. והוא מקריב נשמות של הצדיקים עד עי׳ העי׳ ברוך הוא וברו׳ שמ׳ לעולם ולעו׳ עולמים כי הוא מקריב הכל ושואב הכל. לכן הוא נקרא אבן השואבת שהוא שואב הכל כדי שיתקשר הכל יחוד אחד.

אשר יוצק על ראשו וכו' פי' אותה השפע והיציקה הניצק
עליו מעי' העי' על ראשו שהוא נקרא ראשו כתם פז. שמן המשחה מן
מבוע ההוא שהוא נהר של אפרסמון שאין פוסקין מימיו. וזהו שכתי' כשמן
הטוב על הראש יורד על הזקן זקן אהרן.כשמן הטוב זהו שמן העליון
היורד מן הנהר העמוק ההוא.הטוב שהוא שמן טוב שאין בו צד רע אלא
הכל טוב ורחמים. על הראש שהוא כ"ע שנקרא ראש מאלו ג' ראשים
שהם כ"ע חכמה ובינה שהם שלשה קשרים של האמונה. יורד על הזקן
זקן. אלו המבועות נמשכים ויורדים על הזקן הקדוש והטהור שהוא זקן
עתיק דעתיקין וסתימא דסתימין שהוא זקן אהרן שהוא אהרן סבא כי על
ראשו יהא נמשח הכל. לכן כעין דוגמא זה יהיה כהן גדול למטה נמשח
בשמן הקדוש כדי להדמות כדוגמא עליונה. לכן צריך הכהן למטה להראות
פנים של שמחה כדי שיהא שלם בכל כדי שימשוך הברכות מאין סוף עד
עט' ישראל שנקראת פי מדותיו כדי שיתקשר הכל על ידי הכהן כי הכהן
הוא עומד בין העליונים והתחתונים כדי להקריב הקרבן שיתקרבו על ידו
המדות. לכן בשעת הקרבת הקרבן צריך שיהא הכהן שמח ולא יראה בו
שום רוגז וכעס כדי להשתיק כעס של דין הקשה לכן הזהרה לכהן שלא
ישתה יין בשעת העבודה כי היין הוא מורה על היין שהוא משחכר שהוא
צד הגבורה ההי"ד חכלילי עינים מיין רומז לגבורה שהוא אדום ההי"ד חרב
ליי מלאה דם. ולבן שנים מחלב רומז לחסד שהוא הכהן. לכן הכהן צריך
להראות פנים של שמחה בדי לכוף ולנצה צד הדין הקשה שהוא שמאל כדי
שלא ישלוט על העולם. לכן הכהן היה מניף את הלוים כדי לשקט ולשכך
רוגזם וכעסם. אזי יתעוררו הרחמים והברכות והשמחות בכל העולמות
ההי"ד כטל תרמון שיורד על הרדי ציון כי שם צוה יי וכו'. כטל הוא רומז
לטל של כ"ע שהוא הכהן הגדול כי באותו הטל עתיד הב"ה להחיות בו
המתיים ההי"ד אהיה כטל לישראל. כי אותו הטל הוא מדת אהיה שגא'
אהיה אשר אהיה לכן כתי' אהיה כטל לישראל כי אותו הטל יורד לבריח
התיכון שהוא | תפ' ישראל שנקרא ישראל ותפ' מתעדן ומתענג באותו מ ע"ב
הטל ההי"ד וזרקתי עליכם מים טהורים וטהרתם כביכול מן החלודה שעלה
עליהם. ויתקבץ אותו הטל במקום מיוחד בתפ' יי ואותו המקום נקרא מקוה
שהכהן גדול טובל בו ביום הכפורים ההי"ד מקוה ישראל יי פי' מקוה של
ישראל שהוא כ"ע שנקרא ישראל סבא הוא יי שהוא תפ' שנקרא יי שנא'
אל אלהים יי. לכן כתי' כטל חרמון שיורד על הרדי ציון. כי ודאי אותו

הטל על הררי ציון שהם אברהם יצחק ויעקב שהם רגלי המרכבה.זהו סוד
שארז"ל האבות הן הן המרכבה. והם נקראים הרים וגבעות ההי"ד אשא
עיני אל ההרים מאין יבא עזרי. כי הם הרים גדולים ההי"ד שמעו הרים
את ריב יי והאיתנים וכו'. ד"א הרים הם נצח והוד שנקראים הררי ציון
לפי שהם למעלה מציון שהוא צדיק יסוד עולם. לשם יתקבצו כל הנשמים
והחללים היורדים מכ"ע ומשם הם נמשכים אל מלכות יי שהיא המטרוניתא.
כי שם צוה יי וכו' כי במקום עט' מתקבצים כל הברכות והמקורות של
כל העולמות כולם כי הם חיים של כל ההי"ד חיים עד העולם.

ומלא את ידו פי' חסד שהוא נקרא יד הימין של יד יי ההי"ד כי
אראה שמיך מעשה אצבעותיך ירח וכוכבים וכו'. לכן הכהן הגדול של
מטה פורש ידו לכהן גדול למעלה כדי להוריד השפע לעולם ההי"ד וישא
אהרן את ידיו כתי' חסר פי' יד הימין כדי להגביה יד הימין על יד שמאל
כדי שיהיו בתי דינין כפופים ומנוצחים וישלוט מדת אהרן שהוא החסד
ויבואו הרחמים והברכות לכל העולמות והבן זה.

כשמן הטוב זהו שמן המשחה הקדוש העליון שיוצא ונשמך

קל וחומר קאמה גבי כהן הדיוט כתי' | לאמו ולאביו לא מבעיא מא ע"א
אמו שהיא ודאית שהוא מטמא לה אלא אפי' אביו שהוא בספק לכן הקדים
האם קודם האב. וגבי כהן גדול כתי' לאביו ולאמו לא יטמא לא מיבעיא
אביו שהוא בספק שלא יטמא לו בשביל שהוא ספק אלא אפי' אמו שהיא
ודאית לא יטמא לה לכן כתי' לאביו ולאמו לא יטמא. אבל יש כאן סוד
עליון כהן הדיוט הוא חסד שנקרא מיכאל כהן גדול בשמים מקדים אמו

קודם האב. אמו היא בינה והאב הוא חכמה. אבל כהן גדול הוא כ"ע שהוא כהן גדול ה"ה והוא כהן לאל עליון. מקדים האב קודם האם כי האב הוא עי' העי' והאם היא אם הבנים שמחה שהיא בינה לכן מקדים האב קודם האם.

אבל על דרך החכמה העליונה הפנימית למה כהן הדיוט מטמא לקרובים וכהן גדול אינו מטמא לקרובים. כי כהן הדיוט הוא מטמא לקרובים בשביל שהחסד העליון הוא בעולם המחודש והטומאה נמצא בדפנות שהם החיצוניות וההמורות לכן כהן הדיוט הוא מטמא לקרובים. אבל כהן גדול שהוא כהן העליון שכתי' בו והכהן הגדול מאחיו וכו' לא יטמא כלל לקרובים בשביל שאין טומאה נמצא למעלה אלא הוא עולם הקדוש והטהור שאין שם שום טומאה עולה אלא הוא עומד בקדושתו. לכן כהן גדול למטה אינו מטמא עצמו אפי' לקרובים וכ"ש לאחרים. ואם כביכול הוא מטמא עצמו לקרובים כאלו פוגם כביכול כתר של המלך כי נותן פגם במקום דליכא פגם בשביל שנזר אלהיו על ראשו לכן צריך שימצא שלם בתכלית השלימות כדי שלא יסתלק שכינה עליונה מעליו כי אין השכינה שורה לא במקום טומאה ולא במקום עצבות ולא במקום פגימות. לכן יש לכהן ליזהר שלא יטמא נזר הקודש כדי שיהדמה לעליונים קדושים ה"ה כי מלאך יי צבאות הוא.

ופאת זקנם לא יגלחו, כדי שלא יראה פגימות בזקן הידוע ה"ה כשמן הטוב על הראש יורד על הזקן זקן אהרן שיורד על פי מדותיו. אבל סוד הענין כי כהן הדיוט הוא חסד שהוא מיכאל בשמים שהוא נמשח בשמן המשחה שיורד לו מן נהר העמוק היוצא ונמשך ה"ה ונהר יוצא מעדן להשקות את הגן.

איכה ישבה בדד וכו'. בזמן שהיא טהורה ונקייה והשמש מאיר לה אזי הכהן שהוא חסד והוא כהן הדיוט שהוא מזווג לה כשהיא טהורה וזורק עליה מים טהורים ה"ה וזרקתי עליכם מים טהורים וטהרתם וכו' שהיא טובלת במי מקוה שכתי' בו מקוה ישראל יי וכו' מה | המקוה מא ע"ב מטהר את הטמאים אף הקב"ה מטהר את ישראל. לכן כל זמן כשהיא טהורה וראויה לבעלה אז הכהן שהוא חסד משפיע לה. אבל כשהיא כביכול יונקת מצד אחר אזי המלך פורש ממנה ומקבלת מצד אחר. לכן הכהן למטה כעין דוגמא זה אסור לישא אשה זונה וכיוצא בהן מאלו הנשים האסורות לכהן כדי שלא יחלל קדושתו והמשכיל יבין וידום ליי. כי קדוש הוא לאלהיו.

כי הוא קדוש לאלהיו שהוא כ"ע ועי' העי' ומי שהוא מוכתר בכתר אלהיו לא יפגום ויחלל זרעו. ולא צריך להראות עצמו בשום פגימות בעולם אלא שלם בתכלית השלימות שלם למעלה ושלם למטה. וקדשתו כי את לחם אלהיך הוא מקריב. ואצ"ל כי מיכאל כהן גדול בשמים הוא נתקדש בכל מיני קדושה עליונות שהם שלש מדרגות פנימיות של שלש קשרים וכיון שהוא נתקדש ונתעטר בעטרות עליונים לכן הוא שואב ומושך הקדושה מאין סוף עד לזקן הקדוש ה"ה כשמן הטוב על הראש יורד על הזקן זקן אהרן. לכן כעין דוגמא זה למטה צריך הכהן שיתקדש בכל כי נוטל חלק בראש וכיוצא בזה בשאר קדושות. לכן מי שאינו מקדש הכהן בקדושתו כביכול עושה קודש חול ודיי למבין.

כי את לחם אלהיך הוא מקריב.ר' חייא פתח מאשר שמנה לחמו והוא יתן מעדני מלך. מאשר הוא עולם החכמה שנקרא אשר ה"ה באושרי כי אשרוני בנות וכו' אל תקרי באשרי אלא באשר י' שהיא נקראת אשר ונקראת י' שהוא גלם החכמה. שמנה לחמו כל השמנים היפים של נהרי אפרסמון משם יורדין ונמשכים עד הזקן הנכבד,לחמו היא עט' ישראל שנקראת לחמו ה"ה ממרחק תביא לחמה פי' כנסת ישראל ממקום שהוא רחוק היא תביא לחמה ומזונה ופרנסתה והסוד בזה עמוק עמוק מי ימצאנו. לכן כתי' כי את לחם אלהיך הוא מקריב פיר' עולם החסד שהוא כהן גדול הוא מקריב כנסת ישראל שנקראת לחם אלהיו עד כ"ע ועי' העי' כדי ליחד הסוף בתחילה ותחילה בסוף ולזווג המטרוניתא עם המלך יי צבאות ויבואו הברכות לכל העולמות על ידי הכהן המקריב והבן זה. ד"א כי את לחם אלהיך הוא מקריב. כי לחם רומז לחכמה הנקראת לחם ה"ה מאשר שמגה לחמו והוא לחם של אלהיך שהיא כנסת ישראל. ועולם העליון שהוא כ"ע הוא מקריב הלחם הידוע אל המטרוניתא ה"ה ממרחק תביא לחמה ה"ה הוא מקריב ה"ה | והוא יתן מעדני מלך. אזי יתקשר מב ע"א היחוד בכל העולם ויתקשרו הקשרים העליונים עם התחתונים והבן זה.

קדוש יהיה לך כי הוא קדוש ומקודש בכל מיני קדושה. יהיה לך ודאי.כי קדוש אני יי מקדשכם. והסוד בזה ואת אחרונים אני הוא. וכיון שהוא נקרא הוא לכן כתי' אני יי מקדשכם כי הוא הקשר העליון הקדוש שקושר כל הקשרים הקדושים כמו אבן השואבת שהוא מושך אליו הברזל ומדבק שתי גופות לגוף אחד כך הוא מדביק הקשרים כולם בדיבוק היחוד. לכך בזמן שהעולם העליון מושך השמן מן הנהר העמוק הנמשך

ויוצא שאין פוסקין מקוריו ה"ר ונהר יוצא מעדן אזי הקדושה נמצאת בכל העולמות ושלש קדושות הם מתחברים בקדושה תחתונה ה"ד כי קדוש אני יי מקדשכם.

ובת איש כהן כי תחל לזנות את אביה היא מחללת באש תשרף. ובת איש כהן. אמ׳ר׳ אלעזר בן שמעון ובת היא המטרוניתא הנקראת בת והסוד בזה בת היתה לאברהם בכל שמה בשביל שהיא מקבלת מן הכל והיא בת כהן שהוא חסד שהוא כהן גדול בשמים. כי תחל לזנות. א"ר אבא ויי לאוזן שישמע דבר זה שבת הכהן היא תחל לזנות והולכת אחרי זנותה ועל זה כתי׳ ויהי כמשלש חדשים שהמטרוניתא היא משלשת בחדשים שהתחלת הדין שהוא הוד הוא ממנה שלש מדרגות יסוד הוד נצח ואחר כך גבורה. נמצא מן הדין הקשה שהוא גבורה עד המטרוניתא הרי לך ג׳ מדרגות לכן בתי׳ ויהי במשלש חדשים ויוגד ליהודה לאמר זנתה תמר כלתך שכביכול שיונקת מצד החיצונים. על זה כתי׳ זנתה ודאי כדא׳ איכה היתה לזונה קריה נאמנה וכו׳ והנה הרה לזנונים. שכביכול היא מתמלאת מן פרי הטמא של צד החיצון. הוציאוה ותשרף כדא׳ השליך משמים ארץ תפ׳ ישראל שנתרהקה מן השמים ודאי ונדחקה בין התמודות לכן כתי׳ הוציאוה ותשרף כדא׳ ויצת אש בציון אש מן הפחד שנקרא אש הגדולה הוצח בה ונשרפה בשלהבת גהר דנור והסוד בזה כי באש יי נשפט והבן זה. כי כל המחודשים נשפטים באש בסוד השמטה. והיא שלחה אל חמיה לאמר לאיש אשר אלה לו אנכי הרה. לאיש אשר אלה לו ממנו אנכי הרה. מהו לאיש אשר אלה לו. אלא לאיש שאני הרה ממנו אלו הן הסימנין שלו פי׳ אני מקבל ממנו כל סימניו וצבאותיו ומרכבתיו וחיילותיו ואספקלריאותיו לכן כתי׳ לאיש אשר | אלה לו פי׳ שלו. אנכי הרה פי׳ מכ"ע מב ע"ב שנקרא אנכי אני מעוברת. ויאמר יהודה צדקה ממני אל תקרי צדקה אלא צדק הא כי שמה גרם כדא׳ כי צדיק יי צדקות אהב וכו׳. מא טעמא אמ׳ יהודה במקום אחד וחמיה במקום אחר אלא הכל דבר אחד הוא.

ובת כהן כי תחל לזנות שהיא כביכול ינקה מצד טמא והלכה אחרי זנוניה ה"ד איכה היתה לזונה קריה נאמנה. והסוד בזה בא נחש על חוה והטיל בה זוהמא. את אביה היא מחללת. היא מחללת לאביה ודא׳. כשכנסת ישראל מקבלת מן מלך יי צבאות והשמש מאיר לה אז הוא"ו מושך השמן מן נהר שנמשך ויוצא אל עולם החסד שהוא הכהן והוא אביה. ואם כביכול ינקה מצד טמא נעשה אביה חול ונתמעט לו השפע הקדושה שהיה

ראוי לו לבא מבית המלך העליון ונפסקו המקורות והצינורות ונעשה קודש חול בשביל המטרוניתא שהיא יושבת בטומאתה ה"ד את אביה היא מחללת באש תשרף באש של נהר דינור שנמשך ויוצא והבן זה. לכן הכהן למטה אם זנתה בתו היא מחללת לאביה ופוגמת קדושתו ה"ד היא מחללת ודא׳.

והבהן הגדול מאחיו. והכהן הגדול מאחיו שהוא כ"ע שנקרא כהן גדול על כל המדרגות ה"ד והוא כהן לאל עליון. מאחיו ודא׳. אשר יוצק על ראשו. על ראשו ודא׳ מן עי׳ העי׳ שיוצק לו מן השמן הסתום והגנוז אשר אין בו צד פרישה אלא סתימא של הסתימין וטמירא של כל הטמירין יוצק לו ודא׳ ה"ד אשר יוצק. ומלא את ידו רומז לחכמה שנקרא יד יי. ועל כל נפשות מת לא יבא. כי הכהן לא יגע בכל טמא מת כדי שלא יקבל טומאה כי אין השכינה שורה במקום טמא אלא במקום טהרה לכן הזהרה שלא יכנס לבית שיש בו המת. אבל סוד הענין כי במקום כהן גדול אין טומאה כלל כי אין טומאה למעלה. לכן הסוכה מקבלת טומאה מן הדפנות ולא מן הסכך שהוא כ"ע כי אין שם לא שר ולא מזיק ולא מקטרג שולט אלא הכל רחמים גמורים. לכן הכהן למטה לא יגרום לעצמו טומאה כדי שלא יהן פגם בכתר המלך כי כמו שהב"ה שלם בתכלית השלימות כדי שלא יראה בו שום פגימות כלל ודיי למבין. ד"א הכהן הוא חסד שנקרא כהן גדול בשמים כי הוא נמשח מן הכהן העליון בשמן הקדש שאפי׳ לאביו ולאמו לא יטמא בשביל שצד אביו ואמו אין | שם מג ע"א טומאה כלל היאך יכנס טומאה במקום דליכא טומאה. לכן ויי לכהן למטה שמטמא עצמו לקדובים ויפגום כתר המלך כי הוא כביכול גורם הפירוד בעליונים ובתחתונים.

כי גזר שמן משחת אלהיו. כי הכהן הוא כ"ע שנקרא בהן גדול כי יש נזר אלהיו שהוא עי׳ העי׳ על ראשו שהוא שמן העליון הקדוש היורד מעי׳ העי׳ ה"ד ונהר יוצא מעדן פי׳ אותו נהר שנמשך ויוצא מעי׳ העי׳ על ראש כ"ע שהוא הכהן הגדול. וכיון שהוא נכתר בנזר העליון אינו רשאי לצאת מן המקדש שיטמא עצמו לקרובים ודיי למבין.

והוא אשה בבתוליה יקח. אשה בבתוליה יקח מיבעי ליה מהו והוא אלא כשהוא הכהן בן י"ח שגה כמנין והוא ישא אשה בתולה. וזהו ששנו רבו׳ בפרקי אבות בן י"ח לחופה. אבל על דרך האמת והוא שהוא כ"ע שנקרא הוא ה"ד והוא רחום יכפר עון וכו׳ אשה בבתוליה רומז למטרוניתא שהיא נקראת אשה בבתוליה ה"ד נפלה בתולת ישראל ודיי

למבין.

ד"א אשה בבתוליה. למה אמ' אשה בבתוליה. או יאמר אשה יקח או בתולה יקח. וכי יש אשה שהיא בתולה אלא בא לומ' לך אע"פ שהיא בתולה בת מ' שנה והיא יצאה מכלל הבגרות לכלל האישות אפי' הכי בתולה נקראת. אבל על דרך האמת כשתפ' יי צבאות מתחבר עם המטרוניתא ומאיר לה אורה בדיבוק אחד אזי היא נקראת אשה ודאי כיון שהמלך נזדווג עמה. אבל כשהמלך נפרש ממנה והניחה אזי היא נקראת בתולה כמו בתולה שאינה יוצאת לחוץ אלא יושבת בבית אביה פנימה ההי"ד כל כבודה בת מלך פנימה כך עט' ישראל שנקראת ישראל היא יושבת ושומרת עצמה כדי שלא יכניס לה זר ההי"ד גן נעול אחותי כלה גל נעול מעין חתום. פי' שהיא כמו הגן שהוא נעול וסתום מכל צד כך היא נעולה וסגורה מכל צד לבלתי צאת חוץ ההי"ד הוציאה ממסגר נפשי להודות את שמך בי יכתרו צדיקים. כי דוד המ' ע"ה כשהיה רואה בגלותה ובצרתה היה מבקש בעדה ואמ' הוציאה ממסגר נפשי היה מבקש לפני התפ' שיוצא נפשו שהיא עט' ישראל מן המסגר ויתחבר עמה ביחוד שלם כדי שיהמשכו הברכות לכל העולמות עד צדיק יסוד עולם ההי"ד בי יכתרו צדיקים כי תגמול עלי. מכאן למדנו שהנשים הכשרות שבעליהן הלכו למדינת הים אינן יוצאות חוץ כלל אלא יושבות בבתיהן סגורות ולא מקשטות עצמן | בקישוטים מג ע"ב כדרך ששאר הנשים עושות והבן זה.

אלמנה וגרושה וחללה זונה את אלה לא יקח וכו'. כל אלו הן אסורות לכהן. אבל על דרך האמת כי הכהן הגדול שהוא חסד בשעת שכנסת ישראל נטרדת מבית המלך והיא גרושה ממנו וחללה בשביל שהיא מחוללת על ידי החיצוניים אזי החסד שהוא הכהן לא יתיחד עמה בשביל שקבלה כביכול חלודה מצד החיצוניים כי היא יושבת בטומאתה. לכן הכהן למטה לא ישא בכל אלו הנשים ואם ח"ו אם נושא מהן פוגם קדושתו למטה ונוהן פגם במרכבת למעלה ויכניס טומאתה חיצונית לטהרה פנימית. לכן הזהירה תורתינו הקדושה לכהן גדול שלא יתייחד בהן. אבל כהן הדיוט שהוא התפ' אשה זונה וחללה לא יקחו כשהיא כביכול נטמאת על ידי הנחש שהשיל בה זוהמא. אבל כשהיא גרושה כרצון המלך ואין בה שום התעוררות של טומאה אפי' הכי אינו מאיר לה שמשו ואינו מביט לה בעין החמלה לכן כהן הדיוט למטה לא ישא כל אלו הנשים הנזכרות אבל אלמנה מותרת לו ודי למבין.

ר' שמעון אומ' סוד יי ליריאיו ובריתו להודיעם. סוד יי ליריאיו זהו כנסת ישראל. ובריתו להודיעם זהו צדיק יסוד עולם בקשר אחד י' שלש אותיות יו"ד שלימות של כל. ראשית של כל יו"ד עליון של כל. וא"ו אמצעית שלימות של כל הצדדים כי בו תלוי האמונה הקדושה. דל"ת הוא הגן של צרור החיים. אות זה קטנה שלימות של כל. אות זה הוא סתימא של כל הצדדים כשיוצא יוצא עם המלך* ועם חיילותיו. י' לבדו בו סותם דבר בו יוצא וסוגר ופותח. ה"א שלימות של כל למעלה ולמטה. ה' הוא ידוע א' וה"א* יו"ד שלימות של שלש אותיות שהם בראש הסתום ושלימות של שמו הקדוש שלימות של מעלה ומטה ובשביל כך לזמנים ה' נוטל א' כגון ה"א בזמן שהיא מתעטרת בעטריו. בא וראה כל אות ואות משמו הקדוש בו יראה שלימות של כל. שם יו"ד הא נאמ' שהוא שלימות של כל בשביל שמאלו שתי אותיות יתפרשו מהם כל עיקר האמונה כי יו"ד רומז לעדן וה"א לגן הידוע שכתי' בו גן נעול בשביל שהוא עולם הסתום והנעלם שהוא סוד המשים שערי בינה. ה"א שלימות של כל ואף ע"ג שאינו הוא כאלף* ו' בין בצד זה ובין בצד אחר של כל הוא להתעטר לכל. בא וראה והיה שבעת ימים. הם אותיות שהם בג"ד כפר"ת. וה"א ויו"ד חשבון האותיות הא שבעת ימים נכללו כאחד היינו דכתי' שבעת ימים ושבעת ימים ארבעה עשר יום. בא וראה שנינו יפה התענית לחלום | כאש מד ע"א לנעורת ועיקר התענית באותו יום ממש ולא ביום אחר. מאי טעמ' בשביל שאין לך יום למטה שאין שולט בו יום אחר עליון וכשהוא יושב בתענית חלום למדנו שאותו היום העליון לא יסור עד שיתבטל אותו הגזרה ודוחה ליום האחד הא שולטנות של האחר הוא ולא נכנס יום ביום אחר של חבירו. כזה הדוגמא אין לך יום שלא נתמנה עליו יום עליון לפעלה. לכן צריך בן אדם שלא יעשה פגימות באותו היום ולא יפגם לפני שאר ימים אחרים. ושנינו במעשה שלמטה יהעורר מעשה למעלה. אם בן אדם עושה מעשה למטה כראוי כך יתעורר עליו כח אחר למעלה. אם בן אדם עושה חסד בעולם יתעורר חסד למעלה ושורה באותו היום ומתעטר בשבילו. אם בן אדם מעורר* רחמים למטה יתעורר רחמים על אותו יום ויתעטר ברחמים בשביל אותו היום שעומד עליו להיות אפיטרופוס בשבילו בשעה שצריך לו. כדוגמא זה להפך. ואם אדם עושה מעשה רע למטה כך יתעורר עליו באותו היום ופוגם אותו ואחר כך עומד עליו אותו היום באבוד לאבדו מן העולם. באותו מדה שאדם מודד מודדין לו.

ר' שמעון פתח ואמ' וירא יעקב כי יש שבר במצרים וכו'. זה הפסוק סוד חכמה יש בו ויש לנו להסתכל בו כי לא ראשו סופו ולא סופו ראשו. אלא בא וראה בשעה שהב"ה רוצה לדון העולם ברעב לא יצא הברוז. שהא כל דינים אחרים הברוז מכריז עליהם עד שלא ירדו לעולם ודין זה לא ניתן לברוז אלא הב"ה מכריז עליו וקורא עליו ה"ד כי קרא יי לרעב. מאותה שעה נפקדים על העולם ממונים אחרים. לכן אסור לבן אדם שיש לו שובעה להראות עצמו בשוק כדי שיראה בו צד שובע שהרי מראה פגימות למעלה ומכחיש דבר המלך בביכול כאלו מעביר ממונים של המלך ממקומם. ועל זה אמ' יעקב לבניו למה תתראו למה תעשו פגימות למעלה ולמטה להכחיש דבר המלך וכל אותן הממונים בהכרזה שלו אבל הנה שמעתי כי יש שבר במצרים רדו שמה ולשם הראו עצמיכם בשבעה ולא תכחשו פמליא של מעלה בכאן. בא וראה כמה תבואה היה ליעקב ולא רצה אלא לשבור בתוך הבאים ולא ימצא פגימות במעשה שלו. ועוד פתח ואמ' וישא אהרן את ידיו אל העם ויברכם. ושנינו ידו כתי' שרצה* לזקוף הימין על השמאל ולמה כדי להראות המעשה למטה בשביל שיתעורר המעשה למעלה. כתי' והעברת שופר תרועה בחדש השביעי בעשור לחדש ביום הכפורים תעבירו שופר בכל ארצכם. והעברת שופר תרועה. שופר תרועה למה אלא שופר שמשבר שלשלאות של ברזל ומשבר שלטנות של שאר העמים* וכדי להראות חירות של כל שהרי היום גרם ובכל צריך להראות המעשה. ועל זה צריך שופר ולא קרן בשביל להראות מי הוא המקום שנקרא שופר.

יי בלך על יד ימינך. בשביל ששם הקדוש הוא בימין ואף התורה בימין. ועל זה בימין תלוי הכל. לכן צריך לזקוף הימין על שמאל ה"ד מימינו אש דת למו ולעהיד לבא כתי' הושיעה ימינך ועניני.

אבל באתי להודיעך בסוד נעלם ונסתר בענין שלש סעודות בשבת. בי השבת הוא סוד יוסף שהוא צדיק יסוד עולם והוא שבת והוא שביעי לשבת הגדול שהוא אם הבנים שמחה. וביום השבת יתחדשו כל השפעים והמאורות של שלש מדרגות העליונות ומושכין מבועותיהן ומקורותיהן ומעונותיהן ליסוד עולם הנקרא שבת ונמצא שהשבת מקבל ג' סעודות עליונות והסוד בזה ואקחה פת לחם וסעדו לבכם אחר וכו' וביון שעולם העליון סועד לשבת בשלש סעודות אלו לכן כעין דוגמא זה אנו צריכין לקיים ג' סעודות אל בנגד זה והמשכיל יבין. ד"א שלש סעודות הם רומזים לאבות

שהן שלשה שהם סועדין וסומכין יום השבת שהוא יסוד והסוד בזה והשענו תחת העץ שהוא עץ החיים. אבל על דרך החכמה העליונה השבת רומז לאם הבנים שמחה שהוא שבת הגדול. והוא נקרא עולם היובל כי היא סועדת בשלש כתרים עליונים שהוא עי' העי' וכ"ע וחכמה כולם נשפעים לה. לכן מי שמקיים ג' סעודות בשבת כאלו כביכול קיים עליונים ותחתונים. לכן כל אדם צריך לרדוף ולהשתדל בשלש סעודות ואם הוא אדם אסנים שאינו יכול לאכול סעודה שלישית יקיים סעודה שלישית בסעודת הבקר.

ידע שור קונהו שור זהו אברהם שנקרא שור הה"ד ואל הבקר רץ אברהם ויקח בן בקר. אל תקרי בקר אלא בוקר הה"ד וישכם אברהם בבקר שאותה המדה בקר נקראת לפי שהיא מקבלת מאור העליון שהוא אור הקדמון שכל האור ממנו יוצא הה"ד ונהר יוצא מעדן להשקות את הגן. ונהר הוא מלש' ונהורא עמיה שרי. לכן נקרא מדת אברהם בקר והבן זה.

בא וראה בשעה שהמלך העליון והקדוש נמצא בעטריו אזי כנסת ישראל* בעטרות עליונים ובשביל שכל קשר האמונה נקשר בזה האילן ונקרא יום אחד הה"ד והיה יום אחד הוא יודע ליי. יום אחד ודאי בכנסת ישראל*. יום אחד בקשר של מעלה. קשר של מעלה הוא ראש וגולגולת ומוח קשר אחד שתי מבועות הם אחוזים | מחלל של מה ע"א הראש* ופירשו רב המנונא סבא בשתי קשרים של האבות שתי עמודים של משה שנמשכין בקיום בשתי מדרגות להתקבץ הזרועות במדרגה האחר בפי האום. אילן זה הוא גוף אמצעית שאוחז לכל אלו והכל מתקשרים בו והוא בהם ועל זה נקרא הכל אחד וכשמזדווג בו המטרוניתא מיד הוא אחד.

א"ר אלעזר בכסה ליום חגינו שמתכסה בו הירח. והיאך נתכסה אלא כשעה הענן והשמש לא האיר מיד הירח נתכסה ולא האיר ועל זה כתי' בכסה ליום הגינו שנתכסה הירח וכמה* האיר הכל האיר בתשובה . ובשביל כך הענן נתכסה והשמש לא האיר. ובקול השופר דכתי' אשרי העם יודעי תרועה יי באור פניך יהלכון. בא וראה בזה היום נתכסה הירח ולא האיר עד בעשור לחדש שישראל שבין בתשובה לפני הב"ה. ואם עליונה שבה והאירה לה. ובזה היום אם עליונה פותחת מקורות של מעין העמוק* לכן נמצא חירות* בכל ועל זה יום הכפורים הוא.יום כפורים* מיבעי ליה מהו יום הכפורים אלא בשביל ששני המאורות מאירין כאחד אור העליון

מאיר באורהתחתון וזה היום מאיר אם העליונה* ולא מאיר השמש ובשביל כך כתי׳ בכסה ליום הגינו. ר׳ אבא שלח לר׳ שמעון אמ׳ ליה אימתי זווג כנסת ישראל במלך הקדוש. שלח ואמ׳ לו וגם אמנה אחותי בת אבי היא אך לא בת אמי ותהי לי לאשה. א״ל ר׳ חייא לר׳ אבא מה ששלח לך ר׳ שמעון מה הוא. אמ׳ ודאי זווג המלך* במטרוניתא אלא בזמן שמאיר מאב העליון וכשהיא מאירה ממנו אזי אנו קוראין לה קודש שהרי מבית האב נסלה זה ומיד מזדווגים כאחד בשביל שהמלך קודש נקרא דכתי׳ קודש ישראל ליי. ונסע* ממקום שנקרא קודש. מיד אחותי בת אבי היא אך לא בת אמי שהרי מבית אבי ולא מבית האם ועל זה ותהי לי לאשה להזדווג כאחד בזמן זה ולא בזמן אחר בזמן שהיא נוסעת* מבית האב ולא בזמן שהיא נוסעת* מבית האם. ויום הכפורים מוכיח שתשמיש המטה אסור בשביל שהזווג לא נמצא שהרי היא מבית האב מקבלת בזה היום ולא מבית האם*.

בזה היום מתעטר הכהן בעטרות עליונים והוא עומד בין עליונים ותחתונים ומכפיר עליו ועל ביתו ועל הכהן* ועל המקדש ועל ישראל כולם. בשעה שנכנס ומכפר ומתבונן* בראש האמונה ומזה באצבעו כמו דכתי׳ והזה ממנו על הכפורת ומזה ומתבונן* בשם הקדוש ומתחיל למנות אחת. אחת אחת ואחת. היא אחת שכוללת כל ושבח של כל ואחר כך אחת ואחת שהם שורין כאחד ברצון ובאהבה שאינן | מתפרשין לעולמים מה ע״ב ואחר שמגיע לזו ואחת שהיא אם של כל מכאן מתחיל למנות בזווג ומונה ואומ׳ אחת ושתים. אחת ושלש. אחת וארבע. אחת וחמש. אחת ושש. אחת ושבע. בשביל למשוך מכל אלו המדרגות משך השפע לזאת אחת שאותה אם עליונה במדרגות ידועות מושך אותו לכתר אם התחתונה ולמשוך הנהרות העמוקין ממקומן לכנסת ישראל ועל זה זה היום שתי אורות מאירין כאחד אם עליונה ואם תחתונה. אם עליונה מאירה לאם תחתונה ועל זה כתי׳ יום הכפורים כמו שאמרנו.

ולקחתם לכם ביום הראשון פרי עץ הדר כפות תמרים וענף עץ עבות וערבי נחל. מה טיבן של ארבעה מינין הללו. מהן שעושין פירות ומהן אין עושין פירות. פרי עץ הדר כפות תמרים אלו הצדיקים שיש להם מעשים טובים. וענף עץ עבות וערבי נחל אלו הן הבינונים שיש בישראל. אמ׳ הב״ה כולן כאחת יעשו אגודה אחת כדי שלא יהא בבניי שום פסלות. אם עשיתם כן אני מתעלה ה״ד הבונה בשמים מעלותיו ואגודתו על ארץ יסדה. ואימתי הוא מתעלה כשהן עושין אגודה אחת שנא׳ ואגודתו על ארץ

יסדה.

א״ר שמעון אבל סוד הדבר פרי עץ הדר כפות תמרים וענף עץ עבות וערבי נחל. ויש לך כאן עשרה חיבות כנגד עשר מדרגות הקדושות שהם קשר האמונה. פרי רומז למדת המלכות שנקראת פרי. והסוד בזה עץ שאכל אדם הראשון ממנו של אחרוג היה ואותו הפרי הוא נחמד למראה לפי שכל מראות העליונות וכל האספקלריאות נראים בזה הפרי. ד״א נקרא פרי בשביל שהוא מקבל כל פרי שיבוא מן עולם העליון שהוא נחל העמוק שלשם מתגדלים הפירות שהם נשמות הצדיקים סביב לנחל העמוק ואותן הפירות מתגדלים באותן הנטיעות שניטעם סביב לנחל ה״ד והיה כעץ שתול על פלגי מים אשר פריו יתן בעתו ועלהו לא יבול. אל תקרי לא יבול אלא לא יובל שהוא האין שנמשך ממנו הנהר שנקרא יובל והסוד בזה ועל יובל ישלה שרשיו. וכשיתגדלו אותן הפירות ויגיע עתן לצאת מעולם המחשבה שהוא אין אל עולם היש מן הכח אל הפועל אזי אותן הפירות שהן פרי הנשמות כולם ישולחו מכ״ע אל עט׳ ישראל הנקרא פרי הגפן ופרי העץ לכך נקראת פרי והבן זה מאד. ד״א פרי אל תקרי פרי אלא פר יו״ד שהיא נקראת פר בן שנה והיא עגל ואותו הפר הוא מקבל מן עשר מדרגות שעליו ה״ד כל הנחלים הולכים אל הים. לכן פרי הוא התחלה של כל המדרגות מלמטה למעלה. לכן אנו צריכין ליקח פרי ממש שהוא | נחמד מו ע״א למראה כדוגמא עליונה קדושה והבן זה.

עץ רומז ליסוד שהוא נקרא עץ ה״ד עץ חיים היא למחזיקים בה. והסוד בזה צדיק כתמר יפרח כארז בלבנון ישגה. ועוד כתי׳ לא תלין נבלתו על העץ. ד״א למה נקרא צדיק יסוד עולם בשביל שהוא יונק מעץ החיים שהוא סוד התפ׳ לכך כתיב בין פורת יוסף בין פורת עלי עין שהוא האריך והגדיל עצמו כאילן לפני אמו כדי שלא ישלוט עליה עין של עשו ביופיה והבן זה.

הדר רומז להוד שנקרא הדר בשביל שהוא מקבל מצד הגבורה שנקרא הדר ה״ד חגור חרבך על ירך גבור הודך והדרך. לפי שהוא נקרא הדר לכך ההוד שמקבל ממנו נקרא הדר. ד״א למה נקרא הוד בזה השם בשביל שכתוב הוד והדר לבשת והבן זה.

כפות תמרים. כפות רומז לנצח שנקרא כפות מאזני צדק והסוד בזה מטה כלפי חסד ה״ד נשא לבבינו אל כפים אל אל בשמים. תמרים רומז לתפ׳ ישראל שהוא הבריח התיכון והקו האמצעי ונקרא לולב מלש׳

לו לב כי הוא עומד באמצע העולם כלב באמצע הגוף והסוד בזה הרואה לולב בחלומו מובטח הוא שיש לו לב אחד לאביו שבשמים. וכיון שהתפ' עומד באמצע העולמות וכל התיומות מכאן ומכאן מתאחדים ומתאחזים בו וכולם הם מתפצלים ממנו והוא מחובר בהם והם בו כמו האצבעות של היד שכולם הם מתפצלים מעיקר ושורש אחד שהוא עומד באמצע כך אלו כולם אחוזים באמצעי שהוא גוף האילן והבן. לכן ארז"ל נחלקה התיומת התיומת פסול ליטלו לפי* שהוא מורה על פגם במרכבת הקדושה כי אין שם פגם ולא פירוד כלל אלא הכל יחוד אחד בלא קיצוץ ופירוד. לכן נפרצו עליו פסול כי הוא מורה פגם. לכן מי שנוטל לולב שהוא פסול בימים ראשונים כאלו נותן פגם במרכבת הקדוש העליון. ד"א תמרים אל תקרי תמרים אלא תמרים כי הוא נותן פרי וחמר לעט' ישראל הנקראת ים שנא' כל הנחלים הולכים אל הים. ד"א תמרים שתי תמרים הן אלו תפ' ויסוד שהם יעקב ויוסף שהם עומדים זו למעלה מזו כי הם שוים בהולדה כי כל מה שאירע ליעקב אירע ליוסף והסוד אלה תולדות יעקב יוסף.

ענף רומז למדת הגבורה שנקרא ענף בשביל שהוא ענף מן אותו ענף העליון שכתי' בו ועל יובל ישלח שרשיו. והוא שורש וענף מאם הבנים שמחה.

עץ רומז למדת החסד | שהוא מדת אברהם שנקרא מו ע"ב חסד והסוד בזה והוא עומד התת העץ ויאכלו.לפי שאברהם נטע אשל בבאר שבע לזמן תחתיו האורחים והנידחים ממקומן והוא היה סומך אותם תחת אותו העץ הה"ד ואקחה פת לחם וסעדו לבכם אחר תעבורו.

עבות רומז למדת הבינה שהיא נקראת עבות מלש' התרים לעב קולך. לפי שהיא מקבלת מן הנחל העמוק של כל והסוד בזה ורואה בעבים לא יקצור והבן זה.

וערבי רומז למדת החכמה שנקראת ערבה לפי שהיא ל"ב נתיבות פליאות חכמה שבל המתיקות והעריבות של עולם העליון הוא מקבל.

נחל רומז לכ"ע שהוא נקרא הנחל העמוק שכתי' כל הנחלים הולכים אל הים לפי שאותו הנחל אין לו תכלית הה"ד עמוק עמוק מי ימצאנו. ד"א נחל מלש' נחלה לפי שהוא נוחל לתחתונים נחלת האבות הה"ד נחלת יעקב אביך. ונקרא נחלה בלי מצרים לכן כתי' בו עונג הה"ד אז תתענג על יי .

נמצא שיש לך כאן עשרה תיבות כנגד עשר מדרגות העליונות.

לכן כל בן ישראל צריך ליטול אגודה בידו שהם ארבעה כנגד שם יהוה שהוא ארבעה אותיות אבל הם כלולים מעשרה מקומות כמו שאמרנו ונמצא מי שאוחז בידו אלו ארבעה מינין הכלולים עשר כאלו הוא קושר כל המדרגות הקדושות באגודה אחת. לכן צריכין שיהיו אלו ארבעה באגודה אחת כדי להודיע יחוד יוצרנו ברוך הוא וברוך שמו חי וקיים לעולמים בשכמל"ו. ומי שאינו אוחז אלו ארבעה מינין ומברך עליהם כאלו הוא כופר בשם הקדוש העליון ואין לו חלק כלל בשמו הגדול הגבור והנורא. לכן צריך ליקח הלולב ביד ימין כדי לרמוז למדת החסד שהוא ימין כדי לנצח ולכפוף השמאל ויתגבר הימין שהוא רחמים. ומי שהוא עושה הפך זה משנה כביכול סדר בראשית ומהפך מדת רחמים למדת הדין. וצריך לנענע הלולב בכל מיני הנועות שהם ששה ושלשים. ששה למזרח וששה למערב וששה לצפון וששה לדרום וששה למעלה וששה למטה כנגד שלשים ושתים נתיבות פליאות חכמה שהן עומדים ומסודרים בסדר זה ודיי למבין. ד"א למה ששה ושלשים תנועות כדי לרמוז לך לאותיות הקדושות המתחברים והמצטרפים בתנועותיהן ובגלגוליהן ששה ושלשים תנועות כמו שכתבתי לך במקומות אחרים וזהו סדר הנועתן על פי נוטרייקון וזהו צורתו :

אִי	אֵי	אֲי	אֱי	אֳי	אֹי
אי	אי	אי	אי	אי	אי
אי	אי	אי	אי	אי	אי
אי	אי	אי	אי	אי	אי
אי	אי	אי	אי	אי	אי
אי	אי	אי	אי	אי	אי

לכך צריך הנוטל את הלולב לנענע ששה ושלשים תנועות כדוגמא זו כדי שיהא הכל כדוגמא עליונה כי כל המצות כולם הם על דרך העליון והסוד בזה אם בחוקותי הלכו ואת מצותי תשמרו. ולא כתי' אם בחוקות תלכו ואת מצות תשמרו אלא בחוקותי ומצותי פי' אמ' הב"ה חוקותי שאני הולך בהם ומצותי שאני עושה. לכן יש לך ליזהר בנפשך ליטול הלולב בזו הדוגמא שהראיתיך כדי שיהא הכל כלול בדוגמא עליונה. לכן יש לו לאדם להתכוין בכל אלו הענינים כי הכונה אנו צריכין כי מי שאינו מכוין בדבר כאלו לא עשה כלום.

וא"ת למה האתרוג אינה קשורה בכלל המינין האחרים באגודה אחת. כבר ידוע הוא כי האתרוג הוא כנסת ישראל שהיא עומדת חוץ לפרוכת

כביכול ונטרדה ונתגרשה מבית המלך לפי שאין לה מראה בפני עצמה אלא מה שאחרים נותנין לה לכן לענין זה אינה בכלל הספי׳. אבל לענין היחוד הם בכלל כלם. וזהו ששנינו נעוץ סופן בתחילתן ותחילתן בסופן. ולכן צריך הנוטל הלולב בשעה שהוא מנענע צריך להדבק האתרוג עם הלולב כדי להודיע יחוד וזווג העליון שהוא נמצא באלו הימים כי כל אלו שבעת ימי החג הזווג של המלך והמטרוניתא נמצא לפי׳ צריך כל בן ישראל להראות שמחות ביותר באלו הימים כי הוא זמן שמחה בעליונים ובתחתונים. לכן כל מי שהוא משמח עצמו בזה החג הוא מוסיף שמחה עליונה ושמחה תחתונה לכן כתי׳ שתי שמחות בחג כתי׳ ושמחת בחגך וכו׳ ולבסוף כתי׳ והיית אך שמח מה שלא כתי׳ כך בשאר החגים אלא לרמוז לשמחה עליונה ולשמחה תחתונה. וכל מי שהוא שמח בה לעולם מרבים לו שמחה מעולם העליון שהוא שמחה של כל השמחות ה״ד אם הבנים שמחה. ועוד אנו צריכין לאחד הברכה שינתן אלו הסמנין במקום מים או במקום לח כדי לרמוז שבל אלו שבעת ימי החג המבוע של הנחל* הוא שופך מבועיו ומקוריו על כל העולמות לכן אנו מבקשים באלו הימים על המים כדי שהב״ה שהוא בלא ישפיע לנו ממבועיו לבלי דיי.

ויברא אלהים את האדם בצלמו בספר של שלמה המלך ע״ה מצאנו בשעה שהזווג נמצא למטה שולח הב״ה דיוקן אחד בפרצוף של בן אדם ורשום בדיוקן של אותו בן אדם הנולד ממש ואותה הדיוקן עומד וממתין לנולד ההוא בגן עדן שלמטה* ה״ד ויברא אלהים את האדם בצלמו אותו צלם גזדמן לו לקבל אותו כשיצא* לאויר העולם ובאותו | הצלם מז ע״ב יתגדל והסוד בזה אך בצלם יתהלך איש וכו׳. וזה הצלם הוא מלמעלה בשעה שהרוחות הקדושות יוצאין ממקומן כל רוח ורוח ניתקן לפני המלך הקדוש בתיקוניו דווקא בדיוקנו ובפרצופו כמו שעומד בזה העולם ומאותו דיוקן ותיקון הקדוש יוצא זה הצלם וזהו שלישי לרוח ומקדמת בזה העולם בשעה שהזווג נמצא ואין לך בריא* בעולם שלא נמצא זה הצלם בגופם.

בא וראה זה הצלם הקדוש שבו* הולך בן אדם ומתגדל ונעשה מזה הפרצוף דיוקן שלו צלם אחר ומתחברין כאחד זה נוטל לזה בשעה שהם נמצאים שמוד הוא אותו בן אדם וגופו בקיום ורוחו שורה בגופו. בשעה שיקרבו ימיו למות מסתלקים ממנו זה מעל הזה ונשאר בן אדם בלא שמירה כלל ה״ד עד שיפוח היום ונסו הצללים. הצללים תרי משמע.

רב המנונא פירש וערבי נחל אלו הן שתי עמודים שאמרנו שהמים

יוצאים מהם ובטוב הוא. אבל ראינו ששתי מדרגות אלו שעומדים על מדרגת יצחק* הפירות ואסיפת הברכות* יוצאין מהם.

לולב רומז ליסוד עולם שהוא סוד השלום הוא הקו האמצעי המתעלה למעלה דרך התפא׳ עד אילן העליון והענפים משתרגים לכאן ולכאן לימין ולשמואל של הב״ה וצבא השמים עומדים עליו והוא כולל וממוצע ביניהם ולפי שהוא הקו האמצעי המתעלה עד מקום כ״ע המורה על יחוד השלם לפי׳ אמ׳ רז״ל ברמז נחלקה התיומת פסול לפי שדומה לשתי רשויות ולפי שהוא יוצא מעדן אינו נפסק ואינו נחלק לשנים אלא היומה אחד בעצמו. והמתבונן בדברי רז״ל שאמ׳ הרואה לולב בחלום אין לו אלא לב אחד לאביון שבשמים. וכבר ידעת כי ההשקאה נמשבת דרך קו האמצעי עד יסוד עולם כמו ההשקאה הנמשכת מן המוח דרך חוט השדרה להשקות המחוקק הידוע. וזהו סוד מה שאמ׳ רז״ל בבראשית רבא כפות תמרים זהו הב״ה שנא׳ צדיק כתמר יפרח וכו׳. כי הוא עצמו רומז ליסוד עולם הנקרא צדיק וכתי׳ ראיתי את יי יושב על כסאו וכל צבא השמים עומדים עליו מימינו ומשמאלו.

וערבי נחל שתי ערבות כנגד שתי עמודים הנקראים נצח והוד ואותן הערבים המריקים שפע האצילות דרך יסוד עולם בכנסת ישראל וההויות מצטיירין בקרבה כעצמים בבטן המלאה. ועוד אמ׳ רז״ל וערבי נחל הם הגדלים על הנחל להודיעך שאלו נמשכים מעדן החכמה לחכמה אצולה כדא׳ כל הנחלים הולכים אל הים וכו׳. ועוד אמ׳ רז״ל בבראשית רבא וערבי נחל זהו הקב״ה שנ׳ סולו לרוכב בערבות ביה שמו. ושלשה הדסים רומז לבינה שהיא אם הבנים שמחה עם שתי הכתרים הנקראים מעון ומעונה | שהוא חסד וגבורה. מח ע״א

וענף עץ עבות. עבות שענפיו חופות את רובו.

לולב היבש פסול לפי שהלולב שהוא תפ׳ ישראל מקבל המים של הנחל מן הנהר שאין פוסקין מימיו ה״ד ונהר יוצא מעדן וכו׳.

ר׳ יהודה אומ׳ יאוגדנו מלמעלה כדי שלא יראה קלון בשכינה עילאה. כי עולם העליון הוא עולם היחיד שאין שם התפרדות כלל אלא הוא יהיד ומיוחד ה״ד שמע ישראל יי אלהינו יי אחד. כי הוא אחדות שאין אחדות כמותו בכל העולמות לכן צריך לאגוד הלולב שהוא תפ׳ למעלה בכ״ע כדי שיתאחד ויתאגד עם ספי׳ העליונות כדי שיעשה הכל אגודה ה״ד ואגודתו על ארץ יסדה. לכן קבלה הוא ביד מקצת החסידים שהן

אגדין ראש הלולב למעלה לרמוז לכ"ע שהוא נאגד ונקשר בקשר עי' העי' שאין שם לא פירוד ולא קיצוץ אלא הכל שלם בתכלית השלימות כדי שיהא דומה הכל לדוגמא עליונה. לכך אשריו ואשרי חלקו מי שהוא נזהר בכל אלו האזהרות ויכון לבו ורצונו לכוונת העליונים אשריו בעולם הזה ובעולם הבא.

הגיעו לשער המים שהוא חסד שנקרא שער המים העליונים שהוא נקרא בית שער לעולם העליון שהוא נחל העליון ונחל קדומים.

ויקחו אליך שמן זית זך כתית למאור וכו' אמ' ר' אלעזר למה הסמיך הב"ה פרשה זו לפרשת מועדים אלא כולם הם נרות עליונים וכולם הם נרות להדליק משמן המשחה העליון שעל ידם של ישראל מתברכים עליונים ותחתונים ונדלקו הנרות. וכתי' שמן וקטורת ישמח לב שהוא חדוה ושמחה של עליונים ותחתונים. אמ' ר' אבא שמחו ביי וגילו צדיקים וכו'. שמחו ביי כדא' זה היום עשה יי נגילה ונשמחה בו. שהרי הב"ה חפץ לשמח אותו ולהאיר לו פנים וימצא בן אדם בשמחה עמו בשביל שאותו השמחה של הב"ה הוא הה"ד נגילה ונשמחה בו. בו ביום בו בהב"ה. והכל דבר אחד. בא וראה כל מי שאומ' שהמעשה העליון מעורר מעשה התחתון* תופח רוחו והלא זו הפרשה מוכיח. ופרשה זו הדלקת הנרות הוא וקטורת הסמים כאחד הה"ד שמן וקטורת ישמח לב. כי הדלקות הנרות וקטורת הבסמים למעלה ונקשר כאחד כראוי ובמעשה למטה יתעורר מעשה למעלה.

אמ' ר' יהודה מזבח של מטה מעורר מזבח אחר. הכהן של מטה מעורר כהן אחר עמו. במעשה של מטה יתעורר מעשה של מעלה. ר' יוסי ור' יצחק היו הולכים בדרך. אמ' ר' יוסי לר' יצחק וקראת לשבת עונג ולקדוש יי מכובד וכבדתו מעשות דרכיך ממצוא חפצך. וכבדתו מעשות דרכיך שפיר. אבל ממצוא חפצך מהו. ומהו חסרון הוא לשבת. אמ' לו ודאי חסרון הוא שאין לך דבר ודבר שיוצא מפיו של אדם שאין לו קול שעולה | למעלה ומעורר אותו דבר* ומאי הוא אותו שנקרא חול למעלה מח ע"ב מאותן ימים של חול וכשיתעורר חול ביום הקדוש גריעות הוא ודאי ליום ההוא. והב"ה וכנסת ישראל שואלין עליו מי הוא שרוצה להפריש זווג שלנו כי עתיק הקדוש אינו שורה על חול והבן זה. בשביל כך הדהור מותר מאי טעמא בשביל שההרהור אינו עושה דבר ולא יעשה ממנו קול ולא עולה אבל אחר שמוציא הדבר מפיו שמאותו הדבר נעשה קול ובוקיע אוירים ורקיעים ועולה למעלה ומעורר דבר אחר. ועל זה ממצוא

חפצך כתי' ומי שמוציא דבר קדוש מפיו ודבר של תורה ומאותו דבר נעשה קול ומתעוררים קדושי המלך העליון ומתעטרים בראשו. אבל מי ששורה בתענית בשבת עושה גריעות לשבת או לאו. וא"ת אינו עושה גריעות הא סעודה האמונה נתבטל ממנו ונענש בעונש גדול בשביל ששמחת השבת בטל ממנו. א"ל דבר זה שמעתי בשביל על זה בן אדם משגיחין עליו מלמעלה מכל בני העולם בשביל שזה היום הוא יום של שמחה הוא למעלה ולמטה והוא שמחה של כל השמחות שכל האמונה בו נמצא ואפי' רשעי גהנם בו נחין. וזה בן אדם אין לו חדוה ואין לו מנוחה והוא משונה מכל העליונים וההתחתונים וכולם שואלים עליו מאי נשתנה פלוני זה בצער יותר מכל בני העולם. ובשעה שעתיק הקדוש נגלה בזה היום ונמצא זה בצער ותפלתו עולה ועומרת לפניו ומיד יתבטלו ויתקרעו עליו כל גזרי דינין. ואפי' אם נסכמו עליו בבית דין של מלך לרעה הכל נקרע ונתבטל. ובשביל שבשעה שעתיק מתגלה כל שמחה וכל חירות נמצא ועל זה שנינו קורעים גזר דינו של שבעים שנה מהו שבעים שנה אלא אע"ג שהסכימו עליו כל אותן שבעים כתרים של מלך שהוא חייב בדין זה* הכל יתקרע ויתבטל בשביל שעתיק הקדוש נוטל לו לבן אדם. והני מילי כשיראה חלום שראוי להתענות עליו בליל שבת.

ר' חייא פתח ואמ' כבוד אלהים הסתר דבר וכבוד מלכים חקור דבר. כבוד אלהים הסתיר דבר שכבוד אלהים הוא שלא לגלות סודו העליון כי הוא סוד המלך לפי שהוא מדת המחשבה ומדת האפס ואין רעיון ושכל יכול לעלות שם. לכך הוא כבוד אלהים למי שמסתיר כבודו ועל זה כתי' ויסתר משה פניו כי ירא מהביט אל האלהים כי הוא נסתר ונעלם לפי שהוא עתיק דעתיקין וטמירא דטמירין. וכבוד מלכים חקור דבר כי במדת המלכות שנקרא כבוד מלכים לשם הוא מותר להרהר ולחקור שם וזהו סוד שאמ' רז"ל שצריך ליכנס שיעור שני פתחים שהם עט' ותפ' שהם | פתחים מט ע"א לבית המלך העליון כי כל הרוצה לעלות לבית המלך צריך ליכנס באל השערים כי בהן יודע כל מנהגי המלך העליון והסוד בזה נודע בשערים בעלה והבן זה מאד.

בא וראה שם הקדוש הוא עיקר האמונה והתורה היא שמו של הב"ה והיא אמונה של עליונים ותחתונים ועל זה עומדים העולמות כולם ואין לך אות קטנה בכל התורה שאין תלויים בו אלף אלפין ורבוא רבבן עולמות. ועל זה שנינו אותיות אלו סוד התורה קשורים אלו באלו כי אלף

אלפין ורבוא רבבן עליונים תלויים בכל אות ואות ויסתלקו ויתקשרו באמונה בנגלה ובסתום. בא וראה כי בתורה תלוי העולם הזה והעולם הבא והוא אחד ושמו אחד ועל זה כתי' אמרתי אשמרה דרכי מחטוא בלשוני. וכתי' אל תתן את פיך לחטיא את בשרך.

משפט אחד יהיה לכם כגר כאזרח יהיה כי אני יי. כי הכל ממשפט אחד שהוא תפ' ישראל נובעים כל אלו החוקים והמשפטים והסוד בזה הכל נתנו מרועה אחד כי הוא נקרא רועה ישראל הה"ד זה דודי וזה ריעי.

וירגמו אותו אבן. וכי באבן היו רוגמים אותו והלא באבנים היו רוגמים אלא דומז לתפ' ישראל שנא' משם רועה אבן ישראל והיו דוחין אותו שתי קומות מתפ' לעט' כי תפ' ויסוד הם נקראים שתי קומות והיו דוחין אותו למטה עד מלכות יי והמלכות דוחה אותו להוץ לתמורות ונידונים שם עד זמן ידוע והבן זה מאד.

ר' חייא פתח ויצא חוטר מגזע ישי ונצר משרשיו יפרה. ויצא חוטר היא כנסת ישראל שנקראת חוטר שהוא מטטרון ששמו כשם רבו ואותו החוטר יצא מגזע ישי שהוא חכמה שנקרא ישי מלש' יש והסוד בזה כי ישי הוליד את דוד וכתב ר' דוד וישי הוליד את דוד והבן זה מאד ועל זה נקראת הבינה ההיא י"ה*, והיו"ד הנוסף רומז לעשר ספי' עליונות והבן זה כי החכמה נקרא יש הה"ד להנחיל אוהבי יש.

ונחה עליו רוח יי רוח חכמה ובינה רוח עיצה וגבורה רוח דעת וכו'. ואצ"ל כי הזכיר בזה הפסוק ארבע מיני רוחות שהן רוח חכמה עליונה קדומה ורוח בינה הה"ד ורוח אלהים מרחפת על פני המים. ורוח דעת שהיא של התפ' שנקרא גם כן רוח כמו ששנינו נפש רוח נשמה יחידה חיה. ויראת יי פי' רוח של כ"ע שנקרא רוח הקדוש המנשב בין קרומי המוח שהוא אויר זך פנימי המתעורר מן סביב נחל קדומים. לכן כתי' מארבע רוחות בואי הרוח כלו' ארבע רוחות כנגד ארבע מדרגות הנזכרות כאן בפסוק זה. וכולם יתחברו לרוח אחד ההה"ד בואי הרוח.

והריחו ביראת יי פי' מלך המשיח שהוא סוד הבינה כשיגיע שעת גאולתן של ישראל אז הב"ה שהוא כ"ע מריחו בכל אותן מיני ריחין | סובים ובוסמין של הרי אפרסמון וכל המקורות והמעיינות מט ע"ב והנחלים ונהרות של כ"ע כולם נמשכים ויוצאין מן העומק ההוא אל היש ומן היש אל המדה ההיא שנקרא משיח ה"ד ורוח אלהים מרחפת על פני

המים זהו רוחו של משיח והבן זה מאד ודום ליי. אזי הבינה שהוא משיח הוא שופט בצדק הדלים שהיא כנסת ישראל כי הוא מעורר הדין והמשפט על אומות העולם.

ר' יוחנן ור' יהושע בן לוי ורבנן. ר' יוחנן אומ' בהמה אחת היא רובצת על אלף הרים ואלף הרים היא רועה בכל יום שנאמר כי בל הרים ישאו לו וכל חית השדה ישחקו שם. אבל סוד הענין כי הבהמה היא כנסת ישראל שנקראת בהמה ה"ד אדם ובהמה תושיע יי. היא רובצת על אלף הרים פי' עשר מדרגות הקדושות יש בכל אחת עשר יעלה מניין מאה וענפיהן וענפי ענפיהן יעלו אלף מדרגות שנקראים הררי העולם והסוד בזה האלף לך שלמה. כי אותה בהמה שהיא כנסת ישראל היא שואבת כל אותן ההרים ורועה אותן ושותה כל אותן הנהרות והנחלים והמעינות כולם בגמיעה אחת ואפי' הכי אינינה מלאה ה"ד כל הנחלים הולכים אל הים והים אינינו מלא. ואחר כך היא נותנת טרף לכל המרכבות והצבאות והחיילות והמהנות כולם ה"ד ותתן טרף לביתה וחוק לנערותיה. כי הם כולם מתפרנסים ממנה ה"ד כי בל הרים ישאו לו וכל חית השדה ישחקו שם.

אצ"ל כי סוד הירדן הוא יסוד עולם שהוא מאסף ומקבץ כל אותן ששה חדשים שהם ששה מדרגות העומדות למעלה ממנו היא שותה אותן בגמיעה אחת ה"ד והים אינינו מלא.

ד"א ומהיכן היא שותה תני ר' שמעון בן יוחאי ונהר יוצא מעדן ושמו יובל שנא' ועל יובל ישלח שרשיו וממנו שותה פי' אותו הנהר שהוא עולם הבינה ה"ד ונהר יוצא מעדן להשקות את הגן.

וכבר ידעת כי כנסת ישראל נקראת שלמה המלך שעשה שלשים כור כנגד שנים ושלשים נתי' פליאות חכמה שהם משפיעין לכנסת ישראל. כנגד זה היה יודע שלמה כוונת העליונים והיה עושה שלשים כור ודי בזה לכל מבין. ועשרים כר סולת כנגד עשר מדות שיש בכל אחת דין ורחמים הרי עשרים כור סולת. עשרה בקר בריאים כנגד מדות העליונות שהם עשר. עשרה בקר רעי כנגד הענפים שהן עשרה בכל אחת ואחת. ומאה צאן כנגד מאה מדרגות.

אמ' ר' יהודה בד זביבא* אלף נשים היו לו לשלמה וכל אחת ואחת עושה לו סעודה בכל יום. וכל אלו הם סודות עליונים כמו שרמזתי לך בכמה מקומות. כי הם י"ם ובכל אחת ואחת מן הספי' יש בהן עשר יעלו מספרם מאה ובאותן המאה | יש בכל אחת ואחת עשר ג ע"א

יעלו מספרן אלף הרי לך אלף מדות המשמשות לשלמה שהוא כנסת ישראל שהיא נקראת שלמה. כנגד זה היה שלמה משחמש באלו הנשים והכל כדוגמא עליונה והבן זה מאד ודום ליי. אשריהם ישראל שהב"ה מסר להם תורתו והדביקם בשמו הקדוש העליון יתבר' ויתי כי כל מי שהוא משחדל בתורה יורש חיי העולם הבא ההי"ד אז תתענג על יי. נשלם.

זרש' בהר סיני. ר' חייא פתח ואמ' נבהל להון איש רע עין ולא ידע כי חסר יבואנו. זהו מלוה מעותיו ברבית שהוא מתבהל להעשיר ולא ידע כי חסר יבואנו.

ואצ"ל כי סוד השמיטה עניין מופלא ונעלם אע"פ שהוערתיך במקצת המקומות קצת העניינים לכן באתי להזכירך ולהועילך בסוד השמיטה הקדושה. והסוד בענין השמיטה דור הולך ודור בא והארץ לעולם עומדת. פי' שמיטה הולך ושמיטה באה והארץ שהוא עולם העליון שנקראת רחבי ארץ הה"ד התבוננת עד רחבי ארץ שהוא סוד גן עדן המוכן לחסידים לעתיד לבא והסוד הרחיב יי לנו ופרינו בארץ ודאי. כי הוא נקרא מקום רחב ואין שם מקום קצר אלא הכל רחב והסוד בזה ויקרא שמה רחובות והבן זה. לכך כל שמיטה ושמיטה הולכח והאחרת תבוא כי כל ספי' וספי' מושלת בשמיטה. כפי מה שהיא הספירה כך היא השמיטה. אם הספירה לדין השמיטה היא דין ואם הספי' היא רחמים השמיטה היא רחמים ואם היא במשפט כך היא שמיטתה והקבלה האמתת שקבלנו איש מפי איש עד משה רבי' ע"ה ששמיטה שעברה היתה של חסד וזאת השמיטה שאנחנו בה היא לגבורה ועל זה יתעוררו בזה השמיטה כמה גזירות חזקות ודינים קשים וכמה שמדות בעו' הרבים וחוזק הגלות לכך הגלות החזק הזה מורה על הגבורה שהיא שולטת עכשיו. לכך כשיעברו שתא אלפי שהוא העולם אז יכנס מיד בין השמשות אזי הצדיקים יושבים ועטרותיהם בראשיהם ונהנין מזיו השכינה ומקשטין עצמן ליכנס בשבת הגדול שהוא אם הבנים. ובשיכנס השבת אזי כל העולמות והמדרגות והמרכבות כולם הם נשאבים עד לבינה ההי"ד כי עפר אתה ואל עפר תשוב. ולא ישאר אלא הוא ושמו קדם לעולם ההי"ד ונשגב יי לבדו ביום ההוא.אזי כתי' והיה יי למלך על כל הארץ ביום ההוא יהיה יי אחד ושמו אחד. אז כל המדות הם מתאחדים עם המלך הקדוש העליון ואזי הצדיקים הם יושבין עם המלך במלאכתו | ההי"ד המה ג ע"ב היוצרים יושבי נטעים כי הם יושבי נטעים ודאי בשביל שהם יושבים עם נטיעות של אותו נהר ההי"ד ונהר יוצא מעדן להשקות את הגן. כי הם

מתענגים ומתפנקים בתפנוקי עדן כי כל הנשמות הקדושות הם יושבים שורות שורות סביב נחל קדומים שהוא בתוך היובל כי הם נטועים שם כדרך שהאילנות נטועים סביב לנחל ההי"ד ואנכי נטעתיך שורק כלה וכו' נטעתיך שורק ודאי. ויושבים שם אלפים שנה שהעולם חרב וזהו סוד שארז"ל שתא אלפי הוי עלמא וחד חרוב ולמאן דאמ' תר' חרוב ההי"ד יחיינו מיומים ביום השלישי יקימינו ונחיה לפניו. פי' יחיינו לאחר שני ימים הנזכרים שהן אלפים שנה שהעולם חרב שיומו של הב"ה הוא אלף שנים ואחר כך יחיינו ויקימנו לפניו בשמיטה הבאה והסוד בזה ואהיה שעשועים יום יום משחקת וכו'. לכך כשיגיע שמיטה זו כל העולם חרב אין לשם לא זריעה ולא קצירה ולא חרישה אלא הארץ שבתה שבת ליי. ליי שהוא שבת לחיי העולמים כי הוא יום שכולו שבת לכן תיקנו רז"ל בברכת המזון ביום שבת הרחמן ינחילנו ליום שכולו שבת. כי אותו היום הוא שבת כולו כי אין שם לא כעס ולא רוגז ולא תחרות ולא איבה אלא כולם הם יושבים כמלאכי השרת ואומרין לפניהם קדוש ההי"ד והיה הנשאר בציון והנותר בירושלם קדוש יאמר לו כל הכתוב לחיים וכו'. כי הם כמלאכים ממש ויושבים עם המלך ודאי. ובשיתחדש הב"ה השמיטה אז נמלך בנשמותן של הצדיקים וזהו סוד עתיד כל צדיק וצדיק לבראות שלש מאות ועשר עולמות כמניין יש ההי"ד להנחיל אוהבי יש ואוצרותיהם אמלא. והסוד בזה שנשמתן הם הם ההויות הקדושות שיצטרפו ויתגלגלו בגלגוליהן ובתנועותיהם כי הם הנשמות שבאים לעולם. באותן הנשמות בורא הב"ה אלו העולמות והמרכבות והצבאות כולם.

שהוא מיכאל כהן גדול בשמים ומתפשט הנהר ההוא לשנים ושבעים ענפים שהוא שם הקדוש של ויסע ויבא ויט ואחר כך יוצא ומתפשט אותו הנהר לגבורה לשנים וארבעים מדרגות שהוא השם הגדול שיש בו מ"ב אותיות שהוא אבגית"ך קר"ע שט"ן וכו' ואחר כך מתפשט הנהר ההוא אל התפ' שהוא הבריח התיכון המלך יי צבאות לשנים עשר מנהיגי העולם שהם י"ב הויות קדושות ולשנים עשר שבטי יה ולשנים עשר מזלות ולי"ב בתים ולי"ב חדשים ולי"ב אבנים קדושים. ואחר כך יוצא ונמשך הנחל ההוא לשתי עמודים שהם נצח והוד שהם נקראים צבאות ואחר כך מתפשט לצדיק יסוד עולם שהוא ברית הקדוש לתרי"ג צינורות קדושות היורדות מן עולם העליון עד צדיק יסוד עולם. לכן נקרא מדת יוסף ברית כי הוא עולה תרי"ג חסר אחת לכך מהאחדים שם תרי"ג מצות הנזכרים בתורתנו הקדושה ההי"ד אם לא בריתי יומם ולילה חוקות. ואחר כך מתפשט הנהר ההוא למלכות יי לארבעה ועשרים אדנים שהם נקראים אדני פז והסוד בזה שני אדנים תחת הקרש האחד. ומתפשט לכל המרכבות והצבאות והחיילות כולם ההי"ד כל הנחלים הולכים אל הים והים אינינו וכו'. כי כל הנהרות והמדרגות כולם הם נמשכין עד מלכות יי והסוד מושכיני אחריך נרוצה. כי הם נמשכים ורצין אחריה וזהו סוד שהזכרים רודפים אחרי הנקבה והבן זה מאד ודום ליי. ונמצא שהנחל אחד יתפשטו ממנו מקורות ונהרות ומעיינות רבות ואחר כך יתאחדו ויתקבצו אל מקום אחד שהוא מדה עשירית ההי"ד יקוו המים מתחה השמים אל מקום אחד. וכשיגיע זמן השמיטה ליבנס בין השמשות אזי כל אלו הנהרות כולם חוזרין לנחל קדומים שהוא הנחל שנמשך ויוצא מעומק המחשבה ההי"ד כי עפר אתה ואל עפר תשוב. כי מדת הבינה נקראת עפר וזהו סוד הכל היה מן העפר אפי' גלגל חמה נמצאת מן העפר ולשם ישובו כולם.

ושבתה הארץ שבת ליי ודאי. כי הארץ שהיא מלכות יי ודאי היא שובתת וחוזרת לקדמותה לבית המלך שהוא עולם הבינה והיובל אז יש לה שבת ומנוחה. מכאן למדנו עד עתה לא היה לה שבת ומנוחה בשביל שהיא טרודה בין העמים הסמאים הדוחקים אותה מכל צד ומכל פנה אזי ושבתה הארץ שבת ליי. שבת ועונג זשמחה בשביל שהיא יושבת עם המלך העליון והבן זה. ד"א ושבתה הארץ שבת ליי. ושבתה הארץ שבת מיבעי ליה. מהו שבת ליי אלא ודאי כשהארץ שהיא כנסת ישראל שובתת ויש לה מנוחה אזי הוא שבת ליי גם כן המלך יי צבאות נח ושקט אזי כל הספי'

כולם יעלו עד לבינה שהוא עולם החירות ועולם יום הכפורים | שכל נא ע"ב העבדים יוצאים בו לחירות כי העבדים הנדחים בתמורות הם יוצאים בו לחרות ויעלו למדרגתם כמו שהיה בראשונה.

שש שנים תזרע שדיך ושש שנים תזמור כרמך ואספת את תבואתה. שש שנים רומז לששה המדרגות שנקראו שנים על שם שיפול בהם שנוי לפעמים לדין ולפעמים לרחמים. ולפעמים לרוגז ולכעס ולפעמים לנחת וזהו סוד וינחם יי על הרעה וכו' ויתעצב אל לבו. וכיוצא בו מן התוארים שיפלו במחודשים. לכך נקראו שנים על פי השתנותם והתחלפותם. ואותן שש שנים בהן תזרע שדך שהיא כנסת ישראל שנקראת שדה ההי"ד ראה ריח בני כריח שדה אשר ברכו יי. ואותה שדה היא נזרעת מכל אותן שש שנים מאור העליון כעין דוגמא זה למטה אנו צריכין לעשות כדוגמא זה לזרוע השדה שש שנים כדרך העליון. ובשביעית שמיטה ליי ההי"ד ובשביעית תשמטינה ונטשתה ואכלו וכו'.

ושש שנים תזמור כרמך. כי אותה הכרם שנקרא כרם של שלמה ההי"ד כרם היה לשלמה זומרין אותו כל אותן שש שנים ומתקנין אותו ומסירין ממנו כל אותן הקוצים והדרדרים והחוחים העולים בה מן החיצונים כך כנסת ישראל כל אותן שש שנים שהוא שתא אלפי מזמרין ומתקנין כל אותו הכרם ומיפין אותו ומסירין ממנו החולדה שעלה עליה מכח הטמאות של התמורות כי הם כוונתם כביכול להשליך טומאתם וזהמתם בכרם ההוא ודיי למבין.

ואספת את תבואתה של אותן שש שנים כדרך העליון. אבל כשיכנס השבת בין השמשות אז הקב"ה שהוא הבינה מאסף תבואתו לאוצרו ההי"ד יפתח יי לך את אוצרו הטוב את השמים. כמו בעל השדה שהוא מקבץ תבואתו דפירותיו ומכניסם אל האוצר כך הבינה הוא מקבץ כל הפירות והתבואה שעשתה השדה של תפוחים כל אותן שש שנים שהן שתא אלפי ויכניסם אל אוצרו והבן זה מאד ודום ליי.

ובשנה השביעית שבת שבתון יהיה לארץ שבת ליי שדך לא תזרע. ובשנה השביעית שבת אז יהיה שבת לארץ ולא תזרע שדך בשביל שהוא שבת לארץ ודאי. אבל סוד הדבר ובשנה השביעית שהוא השמיטה שנכנס בשבת כבר אזי הוא שבת ודאי לארץ שהיא עט' ישראל שהיתה בגלותה בין שאר העמים. ושבת ליי שהוא בעלה המלך יי צבאות והסוד בזה וישבת ביום השביעי מכל מלאכתו וכו'. וזהו סוד שאמ' רז"ל כל מי שטורח בערב שבת יאכל בשבת. כל מי שטורח באל שתא אלפי שהם נקראים ערב

שבת ודאי יאכל בשבת כי מוצא שכרו בעולם היובל שנקרא שבת הגדול ואם אינו טורח בערב שבת בזה העולם מה יאכל בשבת. ומזאת האגדה אנו מבינים כי כל צדיק וצדיק כמו שהיתה | מדרגתו ומעלתו נב ע"א בזה העולם כך נותנין לו מעלה ומדרגה באותו עולם כל אחד ואחד כפי מה שהיה בזה העולם. והרשעים שהיו פושעי ישראל בזה העולם אע"פ שיש להם חלק לעולם הבא לאחר שקבלו עונשן ונצטרפו ונתלבנו ככסף המזוקק שבעתים מכל מקום אין מעלתן כמעלת הצדיקים ועוסקי התורה והסוד בזה קטון וגדול שם הוא וכו' קטון וגדול ודאי שם הוא כי מי שהיה גדול בזה העולם במעלה ובמדרגה שם הוא כך באותה המעלה. ומי שהיה קטון במעלה פחותה שלא היה עוסק בתורה כך הוא שם באותה המעלה ועל זה כתי' יודע יי דרך צדיקים וכו'. כי הצדיקים הם ניכרים לפני הב"ה לכך הם מתעלים במעלה באותו עולם.

ואצ"ל כי כל שפי' וספי' מושלת בשמיטה כגון חסד מושלת שמטה אחת שהיא שהא אלפי וא"כ יהיה העולם חרב אלף שנים וא"כ גבורה וכן כולם עד למלכות. אבל כשחשלוט הבינה בשמיטה אזי היא מושכת כל הנמצאים ותהיה העולם חרב אלפים שנה לפי שהוא יובל הגדול וזהו שאמ' רז"ל שיתא אלפי הוי עלמא וחד חרוב ולמ"ד תרי חרוב. ולא פליגי אותו שאומ' וחד חרוב רומז לשמיטה של אחת מן המחודשים כגון גדולה וגבורה ותפ' אבל למ"ד תרי חרוב הוא רומז למדת הבינה שהוא היובל הגדול והבן זה מאד. והסוד בזה יחיינו מיומים ביום השלישי יקימנו ונחיה לפניו פי' יחיינו מאותן שתי הימים שהם חורבן העולם וא"כ יקימנו כבראשונה.

והיתה שבת הארץ לכם לאכלה לך ולעבדך. כשיכנס בשמיטה אזי כל התבואה שקיבצו ואספו כל אותן השנים בזה העולם פי' כל אותן החסדים והצדקות והטובות שעשו בזה העולם הנקרא ערב שבת יהיה לכם לאכלה בשבת. כי הם אוכלין ודאי כי הצדיקים יושבים ועטרוחיהם בראשיהם ואוכלין ונהנין מזיו השכינה של הב"ה אזי הב"ה הוא יושב ביניהם כאב בית דין ה"ד יי במשפט יבא עם זקני עמו ושריו וכו' ויושב ודן אומות העולם שבערו הכרם שהוא כרם יי צבאות. ואז הב"ה נוטל ספר תורה בחיקו ויאמר כל מי שעסק בתורה יבוא ויקבל שכרו כי ספר תורה הוא מדת התפא' שנקרא תורה שבכתב והיא יושבת בחיקו בשביל שחזר הוא"ו שהוא הבן לבית אביו ועלה לעולם העליון. ואזי מכריז ועומ' כל מי שעסק בתורה יבוא לקבל שכרו מעולם החכמה שנקראת תורה קדומה ונקראת שכר ה"ד

ויש שכר לפעולתך לכן משם מקבלין עוסקי התורה שכר לעולם הבא. אז נכנסין ישראל לקבל שכר התורה אז נכנס מלכות ברשעה של רומי ומלכות פרס לקבל שכרם אזי אומ' להם הב"ה מה עשיתם בזה העולם כדי לקבל שכר אזי אומרין לפניו רבו' שעו' כמה שווקים | עשינו נב ע"ב וכמה מרחצאות וגשרים עשינו בשביל ישראל כדי שלא יבטלו ויתעסקו בתורה. אמ' להם הב"ה כל זה בשבילכם עשיתם ויש בכם מי שעסק בתורה. אזי אין להם מענה וישובו כולם בפחי נפש לגיהנם ה"ד ישובו רשעים לשאולה כל גוים שכיחי אלהים. אבל ישראל עם קדוש הם יושבין ומתענגים בתפנוקי עליונים ונהגין מאור הקדמון אזי הוא מנוחה לחי העולמים.

וקדשתם את שנת החמשים שנה וקראתם דרור בארץ לכל יושביה יובל היא תהיה לכם ושבתם איש אל אחוזתו ואיש אל משפחתו. משפחתו ודאי שכל אחד ואחד ישוב למשפחתו בעליון למקום שהוא נחצב ונאצל ממנו והסוד בזה והרוח השוב אל האלהים אשר נתנה. וכבר ידעת כי כל הנמצאים כולם הם מצויירים למעלה בתבניתם ובצורתם כמו שהם בזה העולם ממש הן פני אדם הן פני אריה הן פני נשר הן פני שור כל אחד ואחד כמו שהוא למטה כך הוא למעלה. לכך כל נשמה ונשמה יש לה מקור שהיא נחצבת ממנו ממקום העליון וכשיגיע שנת החמשים שהוא היובל אז כל הנשמות עולים לראות את פני יי וכולם הם שבים לאחוזתם ולמשפחתם ודאי למקום שנתאצלו ונחצבו משם ה"ד בשנת היובל הזאת תשובו איש אל אחוזתו והבן זה מאד.

פעמים רבות יצילם וכו' זה הפסו' מדבר בבני אדם כיון שמגיעה לו צרה ועושה תשובה הב"ה מצילו כך פעם ראשונה חזר בו הרי יפה ואם לאו הב"ה מביא עליו צרה למה שהב"ה קשה לפניו לפשוט ידו באדם הזה

ומהו עושה לו כיון שהוא הוסא לו תחלה פושט ידו בנכסיו. ממי אתה
למד מנעמי ובניה ואלימלך בעלה שהיה ראש הדור באותה שעה כיון שבא
הרעב מה עשה הניח לארץ ישראל והלך לארץ מואב והיה הב"ה קוצף עליו
שהיה נשיאו של דוד ולא היה לבניו ללמוד מאביהם לחזור לארץ ישראל
ומה עשו אף הן נשאו להם נשים מואביות שלא טבלו אותן ולא גיירו אותן
שנא' וישאו להם נשים מואביות שם האחת ערפה ושם השנית רות שראתה
דברי חמותה. וישבו שם כעשר שנים. כל אותן עשר שנים היה נג ע"א
הב"ה מחרה בהן שמא יחזרו בתשובה וישבו לארץ ישראל וכיון שלא עשו
תשובה התחיל לפשוט ידו בגמליהם ובמקניהם מיד וימותו גם שניהם מחלון
וכליון. הרי אתה רואה שקשה לפני הב"ה לפשוט ידו באדם הזה ומהו עושה
לו מדלדלו מנכנסיו והוא מוכר נכסיו. אדם שהוא חוסא מה הב"ה עושה
לו תחילה מביא עליו עניות ומוכר שדהו חוזר בו יפה ואם לאו חוזר ומוכר
את ביתו חזר בו יפה ואם לאו מוכר את עצמו לעבד שכך כתי' כי ימוך
אחיך וכו' אם חזר בו מוטב ואם לאו ראה מה כתי' בפרשה שנייה ואיש
כי ימכור בית מושב עיר חומה. חזר בו מוטב ואם לאו וכי ימוך אחיך עמך
ונמכר לך. כל כך למה על שֶׁמֶך בעניות. ובא גואלו. אמ' ר' שמעון בן
יוחאי אלימלך ושלמון ופלוני אלמוני ואבי נעמי בולם בני נחשון בן עמינדב
היו ואלימלך ומחלון וכליון פרנסי הדור היו ומפני מה נענשו מפני שיצאו
מארץ ישראל לחוצה לארץ שנא' ותהם כל העיר עליהן ותאמרנה הזאת
נעמי. ראיתם נעמי שיצאה מארץ ישראל לחוצה לארץ מה עשתה לה.

ילמדנו רבינו כמה נימין היו באותו כנור שהיו הלויים מנגנין
בו. כך שנינו ר' יהודה אומ' שבע נימין היו באותו הכנור שנא' שובע
שמחות את פניך. אל תקרי שובע אלא שבע שמחות ה"ד שבע ביום הלליתיך
על משפטי צדקך. אבל סוד הדבר כי היו שבע נימין כנגד בת שבע שהיא
עט' ישראל שנקראת בת שבע ונקראת בור שבע בשביל שהיא מקבלת
משבע מדרגות נעלמות כעין דוגמא זה היו שבעה נימין באותו הכנור כדי
למשוך שפע של כ"ע לכל העולמות. ד"א היו שבע כנגד שבעה מדות המחודשים
שהם אברהם ויצחק ויעקב ויבין ובועז ויוסף ושלמה לכך היו אלו השבעה
למטה כדי שיתעוררו אלו שבעה צדיקים בעולם ויתקיים ויתבסם העולם
בשבילם ה"ד שובע שמחות את פניך וכו' שאלו שבע מדות מקבלים
ברכות ושמחות מפניך שהוא אורך אנפין. אבל ליסות המשיח נעשית שמונה
שכן דוד אומ' בניגון למנצח בנגינות על השמינית כי מדת הבינה שהיא

אם עליונה משתתפת עם בניה ושולחת להם מעין ברכות של כ"ע ועי'
העי' אזי היא מתעטרה לשלמה בנה ה"ד צאינה וראינה בנות ציון במלך
שלמה בעטרה שעטרה לו אמו ביום חתונתו. אזי הם שמונה כדרך העליונים.
אבל לעתיד לבא נעשית עשר שנא' אלהים שיר חדש אשירה לך בנבל
עשור אזמרה לך. ומי התקין להם שמואל ודוד שנא' המה יסד שמואל ודוד
הרואה באמונתם. אזי יתייחדו כל עשר המדרגות ביחוד אחד ואזי כל
הפתחים והשערים עליונים הם נפתחים לכנסת ישראל והמעיינות נג ע"ב
והמבועות והנהרות ונחלים שולחים מימיהם לתחתונים והשמחות נמצאים
בכל העולמות ה"ד והיה אור הלבנה כאור החמה ואור החמה יהיה שבעתים
כאור שבעת וכו'. לכן תיקנו הם השיר והיו הלוים עומדים על הדוכן ומזמרין
לפני מי שאמר והיה העולם. ראה חיבה שחיבב הב"ה הלויים כך אמ' הב"ה
למשה הרבה הלוים הם חביבין לפני קח אותן לשמי לשררה ה"ד קח את
הלויים.

נפש רוח ונשמה מדרגה על מדרגה. נפש בתחילה והיא מדרגה
של מטה. רוח תפ'* אחר כן ששוכן על הנפש ועומד עליה. נשמה מדרגה
שעולה על הכל. ונתבאר נפש היא נפשו של דוד והיא שעומדת נגד* הנפש
מאותו נהר שנמשך ויוצא. רוח זהו רוח שעולה עליה ואין קיום לנפש כי
אם ברוח וזו היא רוח ששוכנת בין אש ומים ומכאן ניזון את הנפש. רוח
עומדת בקיום מדרגה אחרת עליונה שהיא נשמה. כי אלו נפש רוח משם
ניזון הרוח* וכשנוטל הרוח אזי נוטל הנפש* . הכל אחד ונגשים ונקרבים
זה בזה הנפש נגש ברוח והרוח נגש בנפש* הכל אחד.

פרש' אם בחקותי . ר' חייא פתח ואמ' באשר דבר מלך שלטון ומי יאמר
לו מה תעשה. בא וראה כמה בני העולם אטומי לב שאינן מבינין ומשגיחין
בתורתו הקדושה והכרוז יוצא בכל יום ומכריז עד מתי פתאים תאהבו פתי
וכו' כי התורה היא פתוחה לכל ה"ד לא בשמים היא. כי התורה היא
אחוזה בעץ החיים. ועץ החיים אחוז בזרועות עולם. והזרועות אחוזים
בנהר העליון והנהר בעדן ועדן במבוע של הנחל ונמצא מי שעוסק בתורה
כאלו הוא עוסק בשם הגדול שנקרא נחל קדומים. לכך מי שפורש ממנה
הוא פורש מן החיים העליונים ה"ד כי הוא חייך ואורך ימיך. כי מי שזוכה
לתורה שנקרא עץ חיים זוכה גם כן לאורך ימים שהוא כ"ע שנקרא אורך
אנפין לבך כתי' ואורך ימיך ודאי. לכך אוי לו מי שמניח חיי עולם ומשתדל
בחיי שעה. לכן כל מי שעוסק בתורה עוסק בחיים ה"ד ובחרת בחיים.

בא וראה אם בחוקותי הלכו ואת מצותי תשמרו. אם בחוקות תלכו ואת מצות תשמרו מיבעי׳ליה מהו חוקותי ומצותי אלא חוקות שאני עושה ומצות שאני עושה. מכאן למדנו מנין שהב"ה מתפלל הה"ד והביאותים אל הר קדשי ושמחתים בבית תפלתי עולותיהם. והרי אתה רואה | שהב"ה נד ע"א מתפלל לפני כ"ע גע׳ העי׳ ומושך שפע מן עמוק של הנחל הנקרא כ"ע אל כנסת ישראל ונמצא שכנסת ישראל מתברכת על ידו. ומנין שהב"ה מניח תפלין הה"ד שימיני כחותם על לבך כחותם על זרועך והרי אתה רואה שהב"ה מקיים המצות של כ"ע ועי׳ העי׳ ועל זה כתי׳ אם בחוקותי תלכו ואת מצותי ודאי. אבל על דרך סוד העליון אם בחוקותי רומז ליסוד עולם שנקרא חק הה"ד בחוקו חוג על פני תהום. ד"א חוקותי רומז לתפ׳ ועט׳ שנקראו דופרצופין הה"ד אם לא בריתי יומם ולילה חוקות שמים וארץ לא שמתי. ד"א חוקותי אל תקרי חוקותי אלא חוקות יו"ד פי׳ רומז לחכמה קדומה שנקרא יו"ד הה"ד גלמי ראו עיניך ועל ספרך כולם יכתבו. לכן חכמה נקראת גלם יו"ד כמו היו"ד שהוא גולם לכל האותיות לחקוק ולהצטייר ממנו כל הציורים כך חכמה היא מציירת ומפעלת בכח הבינה כל הנבראים והנמצאים.לכן חוקותי הוא לשון חקיקה בשביל שהוא חוקק ובורא כל הנמצאים. ד"א חוקותי רומז לכנסת ישראל הה"ד ותתן טרף לביתה וחוק לנערותיה. כי היא נותנת חוק וגבול לכל היצורים. ואת מצותי תשמרו אלו הם תרי"ג מצות הנשפעים מעולם החכמה דרך הצינורות כמנין ברית צינורות שיורדים בהם השפע אל היסוד ועל זה נקראים מצותי. ד"א מצותי פי׳ שתי מצות מצות עשה ומצות לא תעשה. מצות עשה רומז לתפ׳ יי שנקרא מצות עשה ועט׳ ישראל נקראת מצות לא תעשה ואלו שתי מצות נקראים מצותי ה"ד ואת מצותי. ד"א ואת מצותי תשמרו.אבל על דרך העליון מצותי רומז לחכמה ובינה הנקראים מצותי. למה בשביל שהם מקבלים עליהם עול יחוד העליון של כ"ע ועי׳ העי׳ הה"ד אתה הוא יי לבדך. אתה רומז אל התפ׳ שנקרא אתה בל׳ נוכח הוא רומז לכ"ע שנקרא הוא בל׳ נסתר ונעלם. יהוה רומז אל התפ׳ לבדך פי׳ העי׳ שהוא לבדו הה"ד ראו עתה כי אני אני הוא ואין אלהים עמדי אני אמית ואחיה. וצבא השמים לך משתחוים שכל אלו הם משתחוים פני כסאו ועל זה כתי׳ מצותי פי׳ חכמה ובינה שהם מצווים לקבל עליהם יחוד כ"ע ועי׳ העי׳ והבן זה מאד ודום ליי.

ועץ השדה יתן פריו. פי׳ עט׳ שהיא נקראת שדה של תפוחים

קדושים יתן פריו של המלך העליון כי אין פרי יוצא אלא מבין זכר ונקבה אבל התעוררות של המשגל יהעורר מן מוח הקדוש שהוא כ"ע ומן המחשבה יושלח כח החיוני אל הלב ומן הלב יתעורר אל הכבד ומן הכבד אל הכליות והכליות הם משליכים מים כנגד הנקבה שהיא כנסת ישראל אזי יתעורר התאוה בחשק הרצון של שניהם ויצאו מביניהם | הנשמות שהן נד ע"ב פרי מעשיו של הב"ה ה"ד ממני פריך נמצא. ואזי כנסת ישראל שולחת פירותיה לכל הגבולין והסוד בזה בן פורת יוסף בן פורת עלי עין אל תקרי פורת אלא פאורות ה"ד בנות צעדה עלי שור. ד"א בן פורת יוסף בן פורת עלי עין. בן פורת הוא יסוד שנקרא בן לאם הבנים שהוא נהר פרת אל תקרי פורת אלא פרת בשביל שהיא פרה ורבה על ידי המים העליונים שמקבלת מן נחל העמוק של כל הסתימות ה"ד ונהר יוצא מעדן וכו׳ כי אותו הנהר מוציא נטיעות וזרעים ופירות לעולם על ידי הנחל העמוק ויסוד שנקרא בנו של אותו הנהר ה"ד הנני נוטה אליה כנהר שלום וכנחל שוטף וכו׳ וכל הפירות של הנשמות שהוא מקבל הוא מקבל מן נהר העליון ה"ד בן פורת וכו׳ שהוא ודאי בן נהר של פרת. עלי עין בשביל העין הפקוח שאינו לא ינום ולא ישן שתדיר השגחתו עליו ונותן לו מזון עליון והסוד בזה טוב עין הוא יבורך אל תיקרי יבורך אלא יברך שאותו עין הטוב הוא מברך לנמצאים מן הבריכה העליונה.

ואכלתם ישן נושן וישן מפני חדש. אבל יש לך להסתכל באן בסוד מופלא ונעלם כי ישן רומז לכ"ע הנקרא עתיק דעתיקין ה"ד ועתיק יומין יתיב וכו׳. נושן רומז לעי׳ העי׳ שהוא נקרא נושן ועתיק של כל העתיקין וטמירא של כל הטמירין ועל זה כתי׳ ואכלתם פי׳ כי עולם העליון כתי׳ בו אכילה ה"ד אכלו רעים שתו ושכרו. וישן מפני. כי כ"ע הנקרא ישן תוציאו מפני החדש כי אינו בכלל המחודש כי זה עולם הקדמון וזה עולם המחודש.

בשברי לכם מטה לחם. כביכול אני שובר בשבילכם מטה לחם שהיא כנסת ישראל שנקראת מטה ה"ד ואת המטה הזה וכו׳. ואפו עשר נשים לחמכם בתנור אחד פי׳ כל הטובות היורדים לכם מן הנהר העליון על ידי עשר מדרגות לכנסת ישראל הנקראת תנור אפע"פ שאתם אוכלים ונהנין ולא תשבעו והסוד בזה יבשה הארץ.

ר׳ חייא פתח ואמ׳ הנה אל ישועתי אבטח ולא אפחד כי עוזי וזמרת יי ויהי לי לישועה. הנה אל רומז למדת החסד שנקרא אל והסוד

בזה אל אלהים יהוה והוא נקרא אל בשביל שהוא רחמים. ישועתי רומז לכובע ישועה הנקרא כ"ע שהוא ישועה לכל ישועות. אבטח כי אני בוטח בו ה"ד יי אורי וישעי ממי ארא יי מעוז חיי ממי אפחד. וכיון שאור הישועה הוא לי לישועה אם כן ממי אפחד כי אין לי להתפחד מכלום.

וזכרתי את בריתי יעקוב וכו' כי יעקוב בוא"ו יחירה לרמוז לך כשהב"ה זוכר ברית האבות אזי תפ' ישראל מקבלת מן אם העליונה שהיא אם הבנים שמחה והיא הנהר העמוק המספיק לכל העולמות. וזכרתי רומז למדת כ"ע שהוא מדת המחשבה כי הזכירה לא תהיה אלא במחשבה. כשב"ע שהוא סוד המחשבה זוכר ברית יעקב | שהוא תפ' נה ע"א ישראל וברית של יצחק שהוא בית דין הקשה וברית אברהם שהוא חסד ופוקדם בהשלחת השפע ובכללם זוכר המטרוניתא שהיא כנסת ישראל ה"ד והארץ אזכור.

אמ' הב"ה למשה שיזהיר לאהרן ולבניו שיהיו מברכין לישראל שנא' דבר אל אהרן ואל בניו לאמר כה תברכו את בני ישראל אמור להם. וכתי' השקיפה ממעון קדשך מן השמים וברך את עמך את ישראל וכו' וכתי' הואל וברך את עבדך כי אתה אלהי ברכת ומברכתך יבורך את בית עבדך לעולם. אמרה כנסת ישראל לפני הב"ה רבונו של עולם לכהנים אתה אומ' שיברכו אותנו אין אנו צריכין להיות מתברכין אלא מפיך ה"ד השקיפה ממעון קדשך מן השמים וברך את וכ'. אמ' לה* אע"פ שאמרתי לכהנים שיהיו מברכין אתכם עמהם אני עומד ומברך אתכם לפי' הכהנים פורשין את כפיהם לומ' שהב"ה עומד אחרינו ה"ד הנה זה עומד אחר כתלינו משגיח מן החלונות מציץ מן החרכים.

אבל על דרך האמת הנה זה עומד וכו' כי זה רומז ליסוד עולם הנקרא זה ה"ד הנה אלהינו זה קוינו. כי היסוד עומד אחר כתלינו שהיא כנסת ישראל הנקראת כותל ומחיצה בשביל שהיא מפסקת בין עולם היחוד ובין עולם הפרוד. ד"א הנה זה עומד אחר כותלינו. זה בני' י"ב רומז לשנים עשר הויות הסובבים את מזבח יי ומושכים החיים לתפ' יי ושולחים החיים לאילן שהוא עץ החיים העומד בגוף העולמות כי הוא נותן כח החיונית לכל המדרגות. ואותן שנים עשר הויות הם כללים כל ישראל והם נקראים כותלי המזבח וסובבים אותו כמו הכותל הסובב לבית ונשמר הבית בעבור הכותל כך אלו ההויות הם עומדים אחר הכותל שהוא תפ' יי שנקרא כותל ומחיצה לעולם התחתון בשביל שהוא סוד הפרוכת המבדיל בין כלי המאכל

ובין כלי הנשמה. כלי הנשמה הוא עולם העליון שהוא נשמה לכל הנשמות כי כ"ע הוא נשמה לחכמה ובינה . וחכמה לביגה. ובינה לעולם התחתון. לכך נקראים כלי הנשמה.וכלי המאכל הם גדולה גבורה תפ' נהי"מ בשביל שיש בהם כח ההרגיש והטבעים ומקבלים כח המאכל והמזון אל האצטומכא העומדת באמצע שהוא סוד התפ' שבה יטחן המן לצדיקים לכך נקראים שחקים על שם ששוחקים המן לצדיקים. ונמצא שהתפ' הוא הוילון המפריד בין כלי המאכל ובין כלי הנשמה לכך נקרא כותל ומחיצה ועל זה כתי' השקיפה ממעון קדשך מן השמים וברך את עמך וכו'. ד"א הנה זה עומד אחר כתלינו וכו' ואין זה אלא חסד שנקרא זה ה"ד זה קרבן אהרן וכו' והוא עומד אחר חכמה עליונה הנקרא כותל לעו' | העליון נה ע"ב כי הוא חסד מפסיק בין עולם האין והיש והוא שואב הברכות מן הבכור ונותנם למטה. לכך הוא משגיח ומביט בעין ההמלה לברך לתחתונים.

ר' יוסי פתח הנה מטתו שלשלמה ששים גבורים סביב לה מגבורי ישראל. נמשלה בית המקדש למטה מה המטה הזה ניתנה לפריה ורביה כך בי' המקדש כל מה שהיה בתוכו היו פרין ורבין שנא' ויארכו הבדים וירא ראשי הבדים מן הקודש. וכן כתי' ויבן את בית יער הלבנון למה נמשלה ליער לומ' לך מה יער פרה ורבה כך בית המקדש כל מה שהיה בתוכו פרה ורבה לכך נאמ' הנה מטתו שלשלמה ששים גבורים. כולם אחוזי חרב. כל אחד ואחד שמו של הב"ה נזכר בו יברכך יי וישמרך. יאר יי. ישא יי.

בשנה היובל ישוב השדה לאשר קנהו וכו'. כי השדה תשוב לשמיטה למלך העליון שקנה אותה ה"ד ברוך אברם לאל עליון קונה שמים וארץ. כי כ"ע קנה שמים וארץ מעומק עי' העי' והוציאן לאור ה"ד יי קנני ראשית דרכו וכו'. אך בבור אשר יבוכר ליהוה בבהמה לא יקדיש וכו'.אך בכור שהוא חכמה הנקרא בכור לעולם היש כי האין אין לו השגה לפי שהוא אין ואפס ותוהו. והיש הוא בכור לכהן בשביל שהוא יש להשגה והבן זה מאד ודום ליי. אשריהם הצדיקים שהב"ה הנחילם תורתו הקדושה ויזכים לאור החיים ה"ד מה רב טובך אשר צפנת ליריאיך פעלת לחוסים בך וכו'. נשלם אם בחוקותי ש"ל.

ספר במדבר סיני . ר' אלעזר* פתח ואמ' ויברא אלהים את האדם בצלמו בצלם אלהים ברא אותו. בא וראה בשעה שהב"ה ברא לאדם הראשון בראו בדיוקן של עליונים ותחתונים והיה.בלול מן הכל והיה זיו והודו מאיר

מסוף העולם ועד סופו. והיו יריאים ממנו ומתפחדין ממנו עליונים ותחתונים.
יברך יראי יי אלו הן הלוים וכולם הם יריאים מן הב"ה ה"ד
יורו משפטיך ליעקב. הקטנים עם הגדולים אע"ג שאינן נכנסין במנין.
אבל אכניסך בעומק הרז הזה מה שאמ' יי זכרנו. כי זכרנו
רומז לבריח התיכון שהוא הקו האמצעי שהוא הזכר לעמ' ישראל כי הוא
המשפיע לה ה"ד יי זכרנו יברך יברך וכו' שתי פעמים יברך למה כי
התפ' הוא מוציא מים מן הנחל קדומים בחוזק משיכתו לבריכה התחתונה
ומתחילה יתפשטו המים אל בריכה עליונה שהיא התפ' וא"כ אל הבריכה
התחתונה. וא"כ מתפשט הבריכה ההיא אל כל שאר המרכבות והצבאות והחיילות
שהן למטה הימנה הנקראים בית ישראל ה"ד ותתן טרף לביתה וחוק לנערותיה
ועל זה אמ' דוד ע"ה יי זכרנו | לשו' רבים פי' שהוא זכר של נו ע"א
שאר המדרגות האחרות. ד"א יי זכרנו רומז לעומק המחשבה שהוא כ"ע
הנקרא זכרנו מלש' זה שמי לעולם וזה זכרי לדור דור. כי הוא משפיע
טובו וחסדו מן עי' העי' מן העלת הבריכה הנעלמת והנסתרת ה"ד יברך
מלש' בריכה. יברך את בית ישראל רומז לגדולה ולגבורה ולתפ' שהוא
משפיע להם. ד"א יברך את בית ישראל אלו הן הנשים רומז לנשים הידועות
שהם גבורה ועמ' הנקראים נשים ה"ד נשים שאננות וכו'. יברך את בית
אהרן רומז למדת החסד הנקרא אהרן שהוא מיכאל כהן גדול בשמים שיתברך
מן הבריכה העליונה ה"ד כשמן הטוב על הראש יורד על הזקן זקן אהרן
שיורד וכ'.

ר' יהודה אמ' הבאני אל בית היין. מלה"ד למרתף גדול של
יין זהו סיני ולמדנו משם תורה שהיא נדרשת ארבעים ותשע פנים טהור
ומ"ט פנים טמא ה"ד אל בית היין.

ואלה שמות האנשים אשר יעמדו אתכם לראובן אליצור בן
שדיאור. פי' אלה שמות האנשים שהם י"ב כנגד י"ב שבטים הנזכרים
על שבט ראובן אליצור בן שדיאור כי אליצור רומז לחסד הנקרא אלי
על שם אל אלהים יהוה. צור רומז לבינה הנקרא צור העולמים לפי שממנו
נצטיירו כל המעשים וכל הפעלים אשר יצאו מעומק המחשבה העמוקה.
בן שדיאור פי' שדי אור פי' שאמ' די לעולמו והסוד בזה ואל שדי יתן
לכם רחמים וכו'. אל תקרי שדיאור אלא שדה אור פי' שדה של אור שכל
אורות הטובים נגנזים בו והוא אור קדמון נעלם הנקרא שדה של אור הקדמון
הוא עתיק של כל העתיקין וטמירא של כל הטמירין. ועל זה אליצור בן

שדיאור והבן.

ונסע אוהל מועד מחנה הלוים וכו'. וא"כ מה כתי' דגל מחנה
אפרים לצבאותם ימה היינו מערב לפי שהשכינה במערב ה"ד* ויברכם
ביום ההוא לאמר בך יברך ישראל לאמר. וישם את אפרים לפני מנשה.
אבל סוד עליון יש כאן. בך יברך ישראל פי' ישראל סבא. מאי טעמ'
אלא בך יברך ישראל. יבורך ישראל או יתברך ישראל לא כתי' אלא יברך
ישראל מהו יברך ישראל. אלא ישראל הקדוש לא יברך לעולם אלא בך
שאתה במערב וכתי' אל שדי פרה ורבה וכו'. ולמדנו שראה עמו שכינה
ומיד אמר בך יברך ישראל בך יברך לעולם*. ושנינו כל האומר תהלה
לדוד שלש פעמים בכל יום זוכה לחיי העולם הבא. בשביל לזווג לה ולהכניסה*
בין צפון לדרום. בכן* אדם בבקר מקבל עליו עול מלכות שמים וא"כ
מסדר שבח באותן התושבחות עם תהלה לדוד. וא"כ הללויה שהם סדור
כנגד עשר מדרגות עליונות כי עשרה פעמים הללויה נאמ' כנגד י"ס שהם
כתרים עליונים קדושים של שם הקדוש. ובשביל כך עשרה הם הללויה.
וא"כ | מסיים בעשרה תושבחות שהם הללו אל בקדשו. מה נו ע"ב
הם עשרה והלא חמשה הם אלא האחרים מתחילין בהללויה ומסיימים בהללויה.
וא"כ מסדר בשבח של אז ישיר משה שיש בו הכל ובזה מקבל עליו עול
מלכות שמים ומלכות הקודוש. וא"כ משרה אוהה בחסד בסיום התפלה
להתקדש בו. וא"כ בתפלת מנחה של הגבורה ה"ד ויצא יצחק לשוח
בשדה לפנות ערב. באותו שעה דין של הגבורה תלוי בעולם והדין מתחיל
להחפשט בעולם ואזי היא נתנת בין צפון ודרום להתחבר בזווג אחד* בנוף
כראוי. ומי שמחבר אותה בכל יום כהאי גוונא ודאי הוא בן העולם הבא.
בשביל זה דגל מחנה אפרים ימה שהוא בין צפון לדרום.דרום ראובן מצד
אחד דכתי' דגל מחנה ראובן תימנה. צפון דן מצד אחר דכתי' דגל מחנה
דן צפונה.אפרים בין זה לזה נמצא מערב שהוא אפרים בין צפון לדרום
הכל כדוגמא עליונה.

וכתי' והנה יי נצב עליו ויאמר אני יי אלהי אברהם אביך
א"ר אושעיא אשרי ילוד אשה שראה הב"ה ומלאכיו נצבים עליו ומשמשין
אותו. ומנין בביאתו שכן כתי' ויעקב הלך לדרכו ויפגעו בו מלאכי אלהים
הרי המלאכים. השכינה מנין שכך כתי' וירא אלהים אל יעקב עוד בבואו
מפדן ארם ויברך אותו. ה"ד מאשר יקרת בעיני נכבדת ואני אהבתיך.
אבל סוד הענין שהוכרח היה שהב"ה וכל מלאכיו עומדים על

יעקב לשרת ולשמש אותו לפי שהוא סוד עליון לכל בעלי שכל והלא ארז"ל אמ' הב"ה ליעקב אני אלוה בעליונים ואתה אלוה בתחתונים ה"ד בוראך יעקב ויוצרך ישראל. ואצ"ל כי יעקב למעלה הוא מדת ההפ' הנקרא יעקב שהוא גוף האמצעי והוא עיקר העולם לפי שכל עליונים נסמכים עליו. נמצא שהתפ' הוא עומד באמצע בין דרום וצפון והב"ה שהוא כ"ע הנקרא אלהי אברהם הוא עומד עליו ה"ד הנה יי נצב עליו ויאמר. נמצא שהב"ה עומד עליו דוקא. וגם כן מלאביו שהם מיכאל וגבריאל שהם מדת החסד ומדה הגבורה עומדים עליו מימינו ומשמאלו ועל זה הוכרח היה ג"כ למטה שהשכינה והמלאכים עומדים עליו לשמרו ולבשרו לשוב אל בית אביו ה"ד הארץ אשר אתה שוכב עליה ודאי. וזה סוד שגילו רז"ל בדרמז בדבריהם שנשל הב"ה כל ארץ ישראל וקפל תחת יעקב והסוד בזה הארץ אשר אתה שוכב עליה וכו' ודאי. ועל זה כעין דוגמא כשיצא יעקב מפדן ארם אירע לו זה המעשה שהב"ה וכל מלאכים באו לשמרו ולשמשו ה"ד הנה יי נצב עליו.

וכבר הוערתיך בכמה מקומות ששים המה מלכות רומז לששים מדרגות של ששה קצוות שעולה מספרם ששים כי בכל אחת ואחת עשרה יעלה מספרם ששים. ושמונים פילגשים בהתחברך אם העליונה שהיא אם הבנים שמחה ואם התחתונה יעלה מספרם שמונים. פלגשים אל תקרי פלגשים אלא פלגי שם פי' של שם הקדוש העליון | כי כל פלגי מים נז ע"א ומבועות ונחלים ומקורים משם הם נמשכים ויוצאים ה"ד והיה כעץ שתול על פלגי מים אשר פריו יתן בעתו.

ויהיו בני לוי גרשון וקהת ומררי. כבר כתבתי לך שם שלוי רומז למדת הגבורה הנקרא לוי בשביל שהוא מחובר עם בית דין התחתון מלש' כמער איש ולויות. גרשון מל' גרש כרמל בשביל שמדת הגבורה הוא נקרא גרש ירחים לפי שהוא מגרש כל שהוא ראוי לשלח ולנדח מן מלכות יי הנקרא ירחים בדינו החזק והקשה והוא נקרא כסיל והסוד בזה ומושכות כסיל תפתח לפי שהוא מושך ודוחה בכח המושך והדוחה הראויים לנדח מן מלכות יי ומגדש אותם והסוד בזה גבי דוד לכל מי שנכנם בבי אידרא כי גרשוני היום מהסתפח בנחלת יי. והבן כל אלו העניינים כי הם גדולים ונפלאים אשר אין הפה יכול לדבר ולא האזן יכול לשמוע ועל זה נקרא מדת הגבורה גרשן בשביל שאינו נושא פנים לשום בריה ולשון אלא הכל בדין ובמשפט ה"ד האל הגדול הגבור והנורא אשר לא ישא פנים ולא

יקח שוחד. ד"א ולו בני' מ"ב רומז למ"ב אותיות של שם הגדול שהוא בתוך הגבורה של אב"ג ית"ץ וכו' כי הוא ממונה על מ"ב בתי דינים שבהם מקהים את שני העמים.

חברון רומז למלכות בית דוד הנקרא חברון בשביל ששם נקברים האבות השלשה שהם אברהם יצחק ויעקב ושם הם נראים. ד"א למה נקראת חברון כי שם נתחבר דוד במלכותו. ולא קיבל המלוכה על ישראל עד שנטלה בחברון ועל זה דוד המלך נמלך בחברון. ד"א למה נקראת חברון בשביל שהיא מתחברת ומזדווגת בכל יום עם בן זוגה שהוא תפ' יי ועל זה נקראת חברון. ועוזיאל רומז לגבורה ולחסד אל תקרי ועזיאל אלא עז אל כדא' מהאוכל יצא מאכל ומעז יצא מתוק לפי שהוא עז כנמר בדינו הקשה. אל רומז לחסד על שם אל אלהים יהוה. ד"א ועזיאל רומז לתפ' ולעט'. עז כדא' יי עוז לעמו יתן. אל לעט' הנקרא אל כדא' אל זועם בכל יום.

והרי אתה רואה שכל אלו שמות של השבטים ושמות בני בניהם כולם הם רמוזים על סוד העליון הקדוש. לכן כל מי שיש לו עינים לראות ולב להבין יכול להבין מאלו השמות פלאי פלאים בסודות התורה הקדושה.

ועל זה באתי להועירך בסוד ערבה למה היו מקיפין בערבה שבעה פעמים ביום זה והוא בנקרא יום הושענא רבא. לפי שאנו מבקשים לפני מלך העולם הנקרא בינה שיושיענו ויורד לנו מאותו הנהר הנמשך ויוצא מעדן מים ונשמי רצון ברכה ונדבה ועל זה אנו מתחילין הושענא כי נא רומז לאחד וחמשים שהוא סוד הבינה ובשביל שהיא אם הבנים שמחה נקראת הושענא רבה לפי שיש אם רבה ואם זוטא ועל זה בתחילת יום הסוכה שהוא יום הראשון שולטת צד הבינה הנקראת סוכה בשביל | שהיא נז ע"ב פורסת כנפיה על בניה כאם שמכסה על בניה ונקראת סוכת שלמה ועל זה היא שולטת בזה היום הראשון. וא"כ ביום שני של הסוכה שולטת ג"כ הבינה בכלל שאר הספי' ונמצא שהיא שולטת שני ימים הראשונים ועל זה היו עושין בארץ שני ימים יום אחד והבן זה. ביום שלישי שולטת הגדולה שהוא אחד מן המרכבה. וגבורה ביום רביעי. ותפ' ביום חמישי. ונצח ביום ששי. והוד ביום שביעי שהוא יום ערבה והוא יום הושענא רבא. ונמצא שהוא יום הדין. ואנו צריכין לסבוב בערבה שבעה פעמים כדי להוריד הכח של שבעה מדרגות לערבה להמתיק דינו ולרחם על עדת ישראל ולהריק לה מן המים של הנהר העליון הנמשך ויוצא. ועל זה אנו צריכין ליטול

ערבה הגדילה על המים לפי שמדת ההוד עומדת על הנחל שהוא יסוד ההי"ד הנגי נוטה אליה כנהר שלום וכנחל שוטף.

ויקח משה את כסף הפדוים מאת העודפים על פדוי הלויים. כי משה שהוא תפ' נוטל הכסף מצד החסד שהוא אהרן. מאת עדת בני ישראל לקח את הכסף חמשה ושששים ושלש מאות ואלף וכו' כי חמשה כנגד חמשה ספי' עליונות וחמשה ספי' תחתונות. ושלשים רומז לששה קצוות והבן כל אל העניינים על מתכונתם.

ונתנו עליו כסוי עור תחש וכו'. עליו פי' המלכות שהוא דין. כסוי עור החש אל תקרי כסוי עור אלא כסוי אור כדא' כתנות עור וילבישם ואין עור אלא אור באל"ף. ג"כ בכאן כסוי אור פי' אור העליון הקדמון שכתי' בו והלכו גוים לאורך כי התפ' הוא מכסה ומלביש לכלה שהיא המטרוניתא בכסות אור וזוהר שהיא תכשיטי הכלה הה"ד וככלה תעדי כליה. תחש אמ' רז"ל כי אותה החיה הנקראת תחש לא נמצאת אלא פעם אחת בימי משה ר' ע"ה ונעלמת ונסתרת מן העין. ויש כאן סוד עליון כי התחש הוא רומז לכ"ע הנקראת תחשים שהיא אור החיה הנעלמת והנסתרת למה בשביל שבימי משה היו הרחמים נמצאים ביותר בשביל זה שהיה עומד בתפלתו לישראל הה"ד ואם אין מחני נא מספרך אשר כתבת. ועל זה היו מכסין על אותו הארון עור התחש שהיא חיה של כ"ע כדא' נפש רוח נשמה יחידה חיה כדי לכסות הרחמים על הארן שהוא דין.

ולקחו בגד תכלת וכסו את מנורת המאור. פי' בגד תכלת כנגד אור החכמה שהיא בצבע הכלת שהיא מתכסה על המנורה שהיא המסרוניתא. ואת נירותיה אלו הם שאר ששה מדרגות העומדים עליה שהם חסד וגבורה ותפ' נצח והוד יסוד שהם ששה נירותיה המאירים למנורה ההיא והבן זה.

ונתנו אותה ואת כל כליה אל מכסה עור תחש ונתנו על המוט. ואצ"ל כי עור התחש שהיא החיה הידועה שהזכרנו והמלכות וכל | מרכבותיה נח ע"א וצבאותיה וחיילותיה ומחנות כולם הם מתעלות עד כ"ע שהיא החיה על שם נפש רוח נשמה יחידה חיה ונמצא שהעט' וכל כליה הם ניתנים אל אותו מכסה שהוא אור תחש אל תקרי מכסה אלא מכוסה בשביל שכ"ע הוא נסתר ונעלם ונתכסה מעין כל בריה שבעולם. וא"כ נותנין אותה על המוט שהוא צדיק יסוד עולם הנקרא מוט כדי להוריד מן החיה ההיא שפע אל צדיק יסוד עולם.

וכסו אותו במכסה עור תחש. כדי להוריד הנהר הנמשך מן

המבוע של הנחל שהוא כ"ע שהוא עמוק וסתום ונעלם ונסתר לפי שהבינה נקראת לשון והלשון תוציא מה שעלה במחשבה העמוקה ותוציא אותו לפועל הן דין והן רחמים הכל הלשון תוציא ועל כן הלשון הוא עומד בפה להוציא מה שהיה נסתר ונעלם במחשבה.

ולא יבואו לראות כבלע את הקודש ומתו. אזהרה מזה הפסו' לאותן הבאים ליכנס בעומק המחשבה העמוקה שהיא נסתרת ונעלמת. אלא יש לכל אדם משכיל ליתן כבוד לשם הגדול שלא ליכנס במקום שלא ניתן לו רשות הה"ד כבוד אלהים הסתר דבר. ואם עובר על זה הגבול ויכנס יתכן שיענש מלמעלה. כי אלו הדברים הנסתרים באור של כ"ע הם נעלמים ונבלעים כי הם נקראים מעשה מרכבה ומעשה בראשית רבא*. וזהו שארז"ל תמים תהיה עם יי אלהיך מהו דכבשא דחמנא למה לך. כי הוא ית' ויח' שמו של מלך מ"ה הב"ה שהוא ראשון והוא אחרון ומבלעדיו אין אלהים. וברא העולם בסוד שלשה עניינים גדולים וטובים והם דעת חכמה ובינה שנא' יי בחכמה יסד ארץ כונן שמים בתבונה. וכתי' בדעתו ההומות נבקעו. בא וראה למה ברא הב"ה הארץ שהיא עולם השפל בסוד החכמה והשמים שהוא עולם גדול ממנו בתבונה שהוא דבר קטון מן החכמה. וכבר שנינו אימתי נקרא חכם בחכמה כששואלין אותו בכל דבר והוא עונה ומשיב כענין וידו הוא בכל ואזי נקרא חכם בחכמה שהיא גדולה על התבונה ועל הדעת. ועל כן היה לו ית' לעשות השמים בחכמה שהיא גדולה על התבונה. תדע לך כי החכמה גדולה מכולם ועל כן נקרא אדם חכם מפני שהוא חכם בכל חוכמות. והתבונה קטנה מהחכמה ועל כן נקרא אדם מבין כלומ' מבין דבר מתוך דבר מלבו ומעצמו. ר"ל בראותו יסוד בונה עליו בניין. וכן הוא המבין בראותו דבר אחד או קצתו משלים הענין עליו והב"ה ית' ויח' שמו ברא השמים בסוד תבונה שהוא עניין הבנייך* מתוך היסוד. ובראשית כל הנבראים ברא צורת כל המלאכים הקדושים שהם תחלת כל הנבראים הנאצלים | מזיו אור הדרו. נח ע"ב ועשרה שמות נקראו בסודם ובתוך שמותם נקראו אלהים. ועל כן בא להורות בראשית ברא אלהים פי' ברא ית' ויח' שמו צורת המלאכים הנקראים אלהים והם היסוד מכל הנבראים האחרים ומתוך זה היסוד נבראו השמים לאחר כן בסוד תבונה. הוא דבר מתוך דבר שהם מסוד אור צודת המלאכים כלו' הם בניין מתוך היסוד ועל כן כתי' כונן שמים בתבונה. אבל הארץ שלא נהיתה* מתוך יסוד אחד אלא שהיא תלויה על המים הוצרך

לומ' שנבראת בחכמה כי אין לה יסוד אחר על שהיה הבנין. והב"ה יסד לה יסוד עשוי בחכמה ועל כן נאמ' יי בחכמה יסד ארץ כונן שמים בתבונה. דבר מתוך דבר.

ובתורה ברא הב"ה את עולמו שנא' ואהיה אצלו אמון. אל תקרי אמון אלא אומן וזהו שכתי' בראשית ברא אלהים. ר"ל עם ראשית שהיא החכמה העמוקה ברא אלהים שהוא בינה את השמים ואת הארץ שהם דו פרצופין והבן זה.

אמ' ר' בראשית וכו' ית' שמו של הב"ה שברא כל העולם והכינו בחכמה בתבונה ובדעת. וכנגדם ברא שלשה עולמות. עולם העליון ועולם התחתון ועולם האמצעי. ונהן בעולם הקטן צורת שלשה. צורת המדברת וצורת הצומחת וצורת השכלית. ותדע לך כי עולם התחתון מתקיים* בנפש והנפש באויר והאויר בבורא ית' ויח' שמו. תדע שהבורא ית' ברא האדם וברא אותו בצלם ובצורה והכינו מארבעה דברים מובדלים זה זה. מאש ומרוח וממים ומעפר שנא' והארץ היתה תוהו ובוהו וחשך על פני תהום ורוח אלהים וכו' אלו הן ארבעה דברים האמורים למעלה כדא' מקום יש בכרכי הים שקורין לאש תוהו וזהו היסוד הראשון. בוהו מים. וחשך עפר. ומנ' לן דחשך הוא עפר* והרוח הוא הרוח ממש. ואמנם כי הוא ית' ברא את האדם שהוא עולם התחתון כנגד עולם העליון. ונתן בו קיום הנפש המניעה לכל לגוף כולו. ועל כן הבדילו מכל הגבראים אשר למטה עמו. ובמה האדם מובדל מיתר הנבראים בזאת הנפש ובאיזו נפש בנפש המדברת.

ואני שמעתי מאבא ששבע כוכבים הם ולזמן שמגיע שעה של כל אחד ואחד מהם לומ' שירה לפני הב"ה מרוב השמחה והאהבה שיש בהם שולחים זיוון ואורם והולכים לומ' שירה. וענין אחר שאלו שבעה כוכבים לוא הולכים ולא נוסעים ממקומן אלא בשעה שקורא להם הב"ה להאיר במקום שהוא חפץ דכתי' לכולם בשם יקרא וכשהם נוסעים שולחין זיון ואורן עמהם לילך.

ויאמר אלהים יהי אור. ותאני ר' ברוספדאי גדול התוספות אור היה זה האור שלא במותו ואין כמותו וזהו אור השכל הגדול שנהיה מאור | זיו הדרו וזהו העומד אחרי הפרגוד דתניגן מאי דכתי' עוטה אור נט ע"א כשלמה. מלמד שעשה הב"ה שאר המלאכים כמו אותו אור הראשון מאותו האור ממש ס"ד במותו אלא מהו* דבר מובדל ומושכל כך שאר המלאכים

דברים מובדלים ומושכלים אבל אין השגתם כהשגתו דתאנ' ר' ברוספדאי השגת המלאכים היא השגה גדולה מה שאין כן למטה מהם. השגה שנייה היא השגת השמים מה שאין משיגין מה שלמטה מהם. השגה שלישית היא השגה מדרגה התחתונה אשר בעפר יסודם והיא השגת בני אדם מה שאין משיגין שאר כל הנבראים. וכנגד שלש מעלות הללו יש באדם שלש צורות נפשות. צורה הראשונה היא הנפש השכלית , השניה היא הנפש המדברת. השלישית היא הנפש הבהמית המתאווה תאוות הגשמיות והיא הנפש אשר תמעול מעל. וא"ת הרי נפש הראשונה היא הנפש הבהמית כנגד מדרגה התחתונה שאמרנו נפש המדברת כנגד השמים שהיא מעלה יתירה על הראשונה נפש השכלית כנגד מדרגת המלאכים שהיא המעלה העליונה על כל אלה.

ויקח אחת מצלעותיו. בספר הראשון* נמצא זו לילית ראשונה שהייתה עמו ונתעברה ממנו ולא היתה לו לעזר כמו בת זוג אלא כמו עזר סוכנת. ועל זה כל אותן ק"ל שנים שהיה אדם נטרד מגן עדן והיה כמנודה מן הב"ה לא הוליד מן חוה שהיא בת זוגו בשביל שפירש מאשתו בשביל שהיה מנודה כי דרך המנודין יושבים כאבילים בחשך ואינן אוכלין בשר ואינן שותין יין ואינן משמשין מטותיהן בשביל שהרוחות הטמאות שולטים עליו כדי שלא יוליד בנים חצופים ורשעים ועזי פנים. ועל זה היה אדם פירש מאשתו חוה שהיתה נדבקת עמו בצלעותיו. וזהו ששנינו כשנברא אדם הראשון ירדו עמו שתי רוחות אחת נתקיימה עמו והאחרת לא נתקיימה עמו ואותה של ליליה לא נתקיימה עמו אלא ק"ל שגים שהיה כמנודה והוליד ממנה רוחות רעות ושידין ומזיקין וזו היא שערקת לכרכי ימא. אבל לאחר כששב אדם בתשובה לפני הב"ה ויצא שמח מלפניו על מה שמחל לו עונותיו אזי נזדווג עם בת זוגו שהיא חוה הידועה הנקראת אם כל חי שהיא המטרוניתא שלו ולא הפילגש אזי הוליד בדמותו. כעין דוגמא זה למעלה אדם הראשון שהוא סוד התפ' הנקרא בריה התיכון יש לו ג"כ שתי רוחות האחת היא הפילגש נקראת לילית שהיא תמורת חוה העליונה. והאחרת היא מדת המלכות שהיא המטרוניתא ופילגש מזדווג כביכול בזמן שהגזירות וצרות שולטין בעולם אזי יצאו לעולם דורות חצופין ועזי פנים ורשעים והאכזרים. אבל בזמן שהוא מזדווג | עם המטרוניתא נט ע"ב אזי יצאו לעולם נשמות קדושים וטהורים כמו צורות של שת וחנוך ומתושלח וכיוצא בזה והבן כל אלו כי הם נכוחים.

ר' חייא פתח* אל אלהי הרוחות לכל בשר וכו' ברוך שמו

של מ"ה הב"ה שהוא מקום עולמו ואין עולמו מקומו ה"ד הנה מקום אתי. ולא יגבילנו מקומו ולא יאחזהו זמנים כדכתי' הן אל שגיא ולא נדע מספר שניו ולא חקר. וכתי' כי לא מחשבותי מחשבותיכם. והקדים תורתו שני אלפים שנה לבריאת עולמו כדכתי' תורה מאתי תצא. וכתי' ואהיה אצלו אמון ואהיה שעשועים יום יום. והמצא כח נבדל שאין מדור עם בשר דכתיב להין אלהין די מדרהון עם בשרא לא איתוהי. והמצא עולם הנעלם הוא שכתוב ותעלומה יוציא אור. והמציא עולם שכולו טוב ה"ד שכל טוב לכל עושיהם. והמציא עולם הרוחות ה"ד רוח יי תגיחנו. והמציא עולם הנשמות ה"ד והשביע בצחצחות נפשך. והמציא עולם הגופות ה"ד אני יי אלהי כל בשר המפני יפלא כל דבר. ויקרא אחד שאין חוץ ממנו. ויקרא יחיד שהוא יחיד בכל חלק. ויקרא מיוחד שהוא מיוחד בלא תמורה. ויקרא אומן שהוא מחליף דבר לתמורה ותמורה לדבר. ויקרא אמון שהוא משנה המנהג. ויקרא אימון שהוא מקיים המנהג. ויקרא נאמן שהוא נאמן לשלם שכר ונאמן ליפרע. הוא אלהי עולם הוא שמו ושם לכל שם שמו טרם המציאו המוצאים. ועוד לא יסור בשמו נקראו ה"ד כל הנקרא בשמי. ולפי שהם חסירים מאמיתתם בהתחלק הויתם ברצותם לחלק חלקיהם לא מנע מהם ההשלמה אשר הם שוים בסתר תעלומה. והשוה רצונו לרצון המונו ומציאותם למציאותו. ושלימותם לשלימותו וקדמותן לקדמותו. ובהשותו רצונו לרצון המונו כאחד יקרא אחד יחיד ומיוחד. יקרא אחד להודיע שאין חלקיהם חסרים מהשלמתו ואין שלמותן כי אם משלימותו. ומכח הנסתר יצא בנשמע ומן הנשמע בנראה ואין לנו עסק בנסתר כי אם בנשמע בעשר המאמרה מזיו האורות כי מקול דממה דקה הקול הנשמע שכתו' בו קול יי בכח, שהוא כח לכל הקולות שממנו קול ורוח ודיבור. יש מהם עשרה קולות בעשרה מאמרות ובעשר הדברות. והנראה יראה מאור המתעלם שממנו אורו המאציל. ואור האצילות. ואור הנאצל זהו אור הרוח הנקראת יחידה. ואור הרוח הנקראת חיה. ואור הרוח הנקראת רוח. ואור הרוח הנקראת נפש. ואור הרוח הנקראת נשמה ואור הגוף ואור המאציל ואור האצילות ואור הנאצל צורך העליונים. ופעמים ימשך אורם אל התחתונים השבעה שהם צורך | התחתונים הנראה מהם כנגדם בנראה אור ס ע"א שחק אור בקר אור צהר או צהרים או ערב אור ערבים אור חשך והאור המהעלים מהאחד כלהב אש בגווניו כעניין שנא' רשפי אש שלהבת יה. ושלשת האורות הנזכרים כח השכל וכח ההשתכלות וכח שכל. ונקראים

מהות הרבוי והשכינה טוב הצפון הוא הוא שכתי' מה רב טובך אשר צפנת וכו'. ומן המעיין הנוביע הסוב הצפון המתעלם הופך זה אל זה כדכתי' הופך לבקר צלמות ויום ללילה החשיך. וכשממיר דבר לתמורה ותמורה לדבר נקרא אומן הוא שכתי' יי אלהי אתה ארוממך אודה שמך כי עשית פלא עצות מרחוק אמונה אומן. ויש להאמין כי סוף השנתו מדרך הנעלם. ולכן אפי' המעשים הגדולים* נקראים פלא וכמו שיש לי לרוממך ולהודות לשמך על המעשים הנגלים כך יש לי לרומם ולהודות על פלאי הפלאות שהם בסתר הפעולות הנסתרות הנקראות עצות מרחוק כי הם באות ממרחקים ומהם כח כל צבא השמים. והעצה שהיא הסברון בזה שהוא מרחוק* שהוא רחוק מהשגת השכל כדכתי' רחוק מה שהיה. וכתי' מרחוק יי נראה לי ודאי. זה עניין העצות שהן כח לכל צבא הנמצאות מרחוק מדבר אמונה והאמונה מכח אומן כי כל הברואים נקראים אמוני אמונה אומן לפי שכל אחד ואחד מהם כוחו נמשך מאומן ואדם נברא יחידי ושלשת חלקים שהיה ממנו להודיע אומן בכח אמונה הנקראת אמון וכח אימון והיה ראוי שיהיה רצון אחד ורצון אדם היה ראוי לשלוט תחלה בכח אומן. וא"כ רצון חזק* בכח אמונה אומן. ושלשתן אחד שלכך היו כולם אחד כדי שיתקיים רצון העליון בשלשתן בשוה במחשבה בדבור ובמעשה ולפי שהיה אחד בכח הרבים בו רצון חלקיו ויכול להשתנות בין במצוה בין בעבירה ובין הרצון עצמו שהיה מתחייב כזה זוכה אם היה מכווין להשלמת האחדות וזהו שארז"ל זוכה אדם נעשה מלאך חיים לא זכה נעשה מלאך המות. ובחסרון אמונתה של חוה החטיאה האדם מדרך האומן וחטא קין בדרך אמון והרג אחיו. וכיון שחטאו והפרידו חפציהם זה מזה בהפרד חלקיהם מיד היו ראויים להשתנות ולהתחדש כדי להשוות מדותיהם. בקריעת ים סוף שקפאו תהומות ושב הים לחרבה מפני רוח קדים עזה אך לא העבירם על הים ולא הוציאם מיד פרעה שהורה לשלחם לפי שלא מתנהגים בכח אומן ובדבר שכיוצא בו ראוי להיות במדה ובגבול שנה את המנהג בכח אמונה שנא' ויאמינו ביי ובמשה עבדו.

ועד שיתברר ויתלבן אותו עניין וינקום השם מעמלק אין השם שלם ואין הכסא שלם ואין | עולם הנפות ראוי לשוב לכח ס ע"ב שלימות שהיה ראוי לעמוד ולהתקיים בו קודם שחטא אדם עד שיבוא משיח בן דוד שהוא שלם במוטבע במורגש במושכל ובנעלם שהיה בו כח אלהי ומלאכותי וכח אנושי וכח צמחי וכח בהמי. כח אלהי דכתי' ונחה עליו

נקי כפים ובר לבב. ולברר תוכו דכתי׳ ובר לבב. וכתי׳ יי אלהיך מתהלך בקרב מחניך. והיה מחניך קדוש ולא יראה בך ערות דבר ושב מאחריך. שהמתנהג בדרך זה ואינו מטהר עצמו רוח הטומאה מתערב ברוח טהרה. ואין אחד מתטהר בנמר וחלומותיו ודבריו מעורבים עד שהוא אנוס שוגג ומוטעה ובדרך זה נתקדשו ישראל. כשקבלו התורה נתקדשו מן הקדש בקדושה עליונה בתשע קדושות שהכהן מתקדש בקדושת עצמו ובקדושתו של לוי ובקדושתו של ישראל. והלוי מתקדש בקדושת עצמו ובקדושת הכהן שהוא משבטו ובקדושתו של ישראל. וישראל מתקדש בקדושת עצמו ובקדושתו של נביא ובקדושתו של מלך. וכולם מתקדשים מן הקודש ההי"ד ואנשי קודש תהיון לי וכו׳. וכמו שהן מתקדשים כך הם מתברכים ממקור הבריכה העליונה בתשע ברכות כדכתי׳ תהיה מסלה ממצרים אשורה ובא אשור במצרים. וכתי׳ יהיה ישראל שלישיה למצרים ולאשור. אשר ברכו יי צבאות לאמר ברוך עמי מצרים. פי׳ ברוך עמי שהן מתברכים מברכתן של מצרים שממנה אשור מתברך כדכתי׳ ומצרים באשור. ומעשה ידי שהם מתברכים מברכתו של אשור שממנה מצרים מתברך כדכתי׳ ובא אשור במצרים. ונחלתי ישראל. שהם מתברכין בדכת עצמן. מחלקין מברכתן למצרים ולאשור והם ברכה בקרב הארץ. וכמו שהן מתברכין כן מתאחדין כדכתי׳ ונתתי לכם לב אחד. וכתי׳ ומלך אחד יהיה לכולם למלך. וכתי׳ אז אהפוך אל עמים שפה ברורה לקדוא כולם בשם יי ולעובדו שכם אחד. וכתי׳ והיה יי למלך על כל הארץ ביום ההוא יהיה יי אחד.

אמ׳ רז"ל הנודר כאלו נשבע במלך והנשבע כאלו נשבע בחיי המלך. פי׳ הנודד נדר מדיר עצמו מדירתו של עולם שהוא עי׳ העי׳ שאין דירה מזולתו שהוא | מקומו של עולם ואין עולמו מקומו סא ע"א והוא הדיר עצמו מכל דירת מקומו אם יעבור על נדרו ופירושו הסרת דירה ד"ל הסרת דירתו של מ"ה הב"ה שיהיה מוסר מן המלך ומכל דירת מקומו שאין מקום זולתו ועל כן ארז"ל כאלו נשבע במלך וכשהוא נשבע בחיי המלך זהו התפשטות הדצון ונקרא חיי המלך שכן אמרו בספר יצירה

אחת רוח אלהים חיים וכו׳. על כן אז"ל נשבע בחיי המלך. והנשבע ועובר על השבועה כתי׳ בו ואת אשמו יביא ליי. ועל הקרבנות שאמ׳ בהם אשה ריח ניחוח ליי. אשה לשם אשה ריח לשם ריח ניחוח לשם נחת רוח. ופי׳ נחת רוח לפי שאמרתי ונעשה רצוני. ובאמת האשם הבא על העובר על השבועה לא בא בו אלא אשה ולא ריח ניחוח אע"פ סתם הקרבנות לשם אשה וריח ניחוח הם באים. ונם על כל חטאות ואשם אין בהם לא אשה ולא ריח ניחוח אבל עיקר כפרתם בעבור הקרבן ונחת רוח לפניו כשהחוטא מביא קרבן שנצטווה עליו. ופר׳ העלם דבר יוכיח שנא׳ בו ועשו כל העדה פר בן בקר אחד. לריח ניחות ליי. אבל הנודר אם עבר על נדרו אינו חייב להביא קרבן לפי שאין שם לא אשה ולא ריח ניחוח ולא נחת רוח מאחר שזלזל בדירתו והמשכיל יבין. ואע"פ שיש תומדא בנודר שהנדר חל על דבר מצוה כדבד הרשות בענייניים דבים מה שאין כן בשבועה אע"פ ששניהם שוים בהיתר היתר הנדד כהיתר השבועה ביחיד מומחה או בשלשה הדיוטות והתשובה לשניהם מועלת כי היא קדמה לכל.

אמ׳ בעלי הקבלה שהשם ית׳ ושמו דבר אחד הוא וזהו הדבר שהוא למעלה מכ"ע ובכל עת הכתר הוא דבוק עם החכמה לא יתפרדו לעולם ושום פירוד לא יבוא ביניהם וזהו שארז"ל במכוסה ממך אל תדרוש ובמופלא ממך אל תחקוד ובמה שהורשת התבונן ותבין כשאמדו התבונן שהוא לשון נגזר מבינה פי׳ שניתן לו רשות להבין ולחקור בבינה. ד"א ובמכוסה ממך פי׳ חכמה ובמופלא ממך פי׳ כ"ע. ובמה שהורשת פי׳ בעט׳ ובזה ארז"ל יה"ו אות ראשונה יש בה שתי שמות הראשונים המדובקים כאחד. ואות שניה יש בה שם שלישי הראוי להתבונן. והאות השלישית הוא קו האמצעי שיש רשות לדבר ולחקור.

ועוד קבלתי בענין השם המיוחד תחשוב יו"ד שבה נבנה העולם ראשה נוטה לסופה עד לאין תכלית עשרה מאה אלף רבבה רבבות ואינה יוצאה מחשבונות אל המקום אשר היה שם אהלה בתחלה חוזרת חלילה. וכן הה"א חוזרת חלילה לחשבונה הראשון | וכן הוא"ו. סא ע"ב

ועוד שמעתי בעניין ויי הוא ובית דינו. ר"ל העט׳ שהעט׳ בת זוגו של התפ׳ ולכך אמ׳ ויי בהיכל קדשו הם מפניו כל הארץ. כלו׳ שזה סוד הזיווג ומפני אותו השפע הבהיר והנודא הם מפניו כל הארץ.

ועוד שמעתי בעניין שמע ישראל הוא התפ׳ יי שהוא כתר החכמה. אלהינו כתר הבינה וא"ת והלא אמ׳ כי התפ׳ הוא ישראל ומנאה

תחלה. וי"ל קודם שיקבל השפע העליון נקרא בלש' נקבה שהיא ישראל החיה הידועה ואחר שמקבל השפע נקרא יי שהוא משפיע לאחרים. וא"כ שאנו אומ' אחד על הכל כלו' הכל אחד והכל נקרא ים החכמה ועל זה אמ' כל הנחלים הולכים אל הים.

ועוד שמעתי בעניין ה"א רבתא של הליי תגמלו זאת. היא בינה. וה"א זעירא של בהבראם היא המלכות כלו' שכינה עילאה שכינה תתאה. ואלו הן שני ההי"ן של השם ית' ויתʼ. ויש מן המקובלים שאומרים דא שכינתא ודא יובלא.

ואצ"ל שקודם בריאת העולם היו הספי' בכח ובבריאת העולם יצאו מן הכח אל הפועל. ואלו הן ששת ימי בראשית ויום השביעי אבל השלוש אין הפה יכולה לדבר בהם הם אחד והם נשמה. והם אויר הקדמון וכינוי השם שהעולם אינו מתקיים אפי' שעה אחת בלא אויר כך הכל תלוי בשלש ראשונות והמשכיל יבין.

ואצ"ל מה תועלת יש בחלוף האותיות שלש עשרה מדות ולמה אין השם יוצא כמשמע האותיות וכפשוטן. כי בתחלה החליפו היו"ד בעבור מ"ם. וההי"א בצד"י. והוא"ו בפ"ה. וההי"א בכ"ף. כבר למדנו כי היו"ד כנגד הדבר המתעלם והנסתר ועל כן צורתה קצרה. ובחילופה במ"ם בא ללמוד ולגלות עיקר הדבר יותר ומי שיש בו לב להבין ועינים לראות יבין מתוך מ"ם למה נקראת המחשבה בל' טהורה ולא בל' טהור ויבין סוד הפסוק שאמ' ועתה פן ישלח ידו ולקח גם מעץ החיים . ועוד יבין אותיות מצפ"ך למה הם נקראים בסוף התיבה ולא בתחילה והנני אומ' על המ"ם שבשם הראשון של שלש עשרה מדות שהיא מצפ"ך דעת עליון וכ"ע ועל כן תמצא שאמ' החכמה בל' תִּמָּצֵא ולא ימצא. ויש לנו לדעת למה נקראת החכמה בל' נקבה ולא בל' זכר וכן התשובה. אבל כלל כל הדברים ועיקרם מפורש במ"ם ועל כן היא נקודה פתח ולא קמץ. ומכאן יש לנו ראיה למה שאמ' הנביא וזרקתי עליכם מים טהורים וטהרתים. ועל כן ארז"ל מחשבה טהורה ולא קדושה והרי אתה למד סוד מ"ם העליונה ומ"ם התחתונה והסוד בזה בדעתו תהומות נבקעו וזהו סוד עץ הדעת. ועל כן היו"ד עם מ"ם היא לש' ים ועל כן | תמצא כתוב ומעיין סב ע"א מביח יי יצא ועוד כתי' יהיה מקור נפתח לבית דוד ולא לזרע דוד בלש' בית וזה שאמ' הנביא ע"ה ההי"ד כי עזבו מקור מים חיים את יי וסוד הדברים האלה מ"ם נקבה תסובב גבר.

ואצ"ל פי' שמע ישראל. אלו ששה תיבות כנגד ששה ימים שבהם נברא העולם וכולם שבחו לאל ית'. פי' מלת שמע בגי' ד' מאות ועשר רחמים כנגד מצפ"ץ והוא שמו של הב"ה שנא' כי ביה יי צור עולמים. יהוה אלהינו יהוה שמותיו של הב"ה כוזו במוכסז כוזו הוא הב"ה. בגי' אחד הוא יֵ מדות בהבדלה דר' עקיבא וכתי' שמן תורק שמך. בגי' מצפ"ץ באותיות מלאות כגון מ"ם צאד"י פ"א צד"י בגי' שמך עם אותיותיהם וזהו אל שדי ובעבור זה אמ' לעולמו דיי שמתברך מעצמו ומברוך ממקור הברכות ומשם הם רשומות הברכות והחיים של חי אדון הנשמות הנותן חיים להחיות חי העולמים הנסתרים והנעלמים והמשכיל יבין.

ואצ"ל כי עניין מתחת זרועות עולם המקבלים וזהו וזרועותיו כפולים על שכמו וזהו פי' כפיו של הכהן שהוא דוגמתו המתברך והמקבל ממעל ומברך וכהן גדול דוגמתו למעלה מזה. וכל מקום שתמצא מעון מעונה הבן זה ושאר הדברים צדק ומשפט הכל נקרא כסא לו. ובהיות ישראל בגלות אין הכסא שלם כי הדברים מתפשטים בעצמם ואין בהם דבקות רוח הקודש ממעל לפי שהוא מסתלק ועולה למרום מרומים. ובהיות ישראל על אדמתם הדברים כמו כן על מכונם והכסא שלם ומתעלים למעלה לקבל מן הכתרים ומן התשובה והכל מתעלה בדבקות עם הכתר העליון הנקרא קדוש וזהו שכתי' ביום ההוא יהיה יי אחד וכו' כלו' שלא יהיה שם אחד כי אם בחבור ואזי הכסא שלם וכולם יקבלו זה מזה וזה מזה עד למעלה וזהו שכתו' אל תנאץ למען שמך אל תנבל כסא כבודך. ורצוני(!) לומ' כי ילכו ישראל בגלות ותהרס הבניין והכסא ואמ' יהושע והכריתו את שמנו מן הארץ ומה תעשה לשמך הגדול. ובכל מקום שתמצא למען שמך והבן זה. ובמדרש תלים אמ' כ' לוי בשם ר' חמא כל זמן שזרעו של עמלק קיים לא השם שלם ולא הכסא שלם שנא' כי יד על כס יה. והיה צריך לומ' כסא יי וכי כשיאבד זרעו של עמלק מן העולם אזי הכסא והשם יתבר' שלם ההי"ד האויב תמו חורבות לנצח וערים נתשת אבד זכרם המה. מה כתי' אחריו ויי לעולם ישב כונן למשפט כסאו נשלם. |

פרשת נשא ר' חייא פתח ואמ' אמת מארץ תצמח וכו'. בא סב ע"ב וראה כי הוא ית' מתעלה עד אין סוף ויש בו ראש וסוף ואמצע ובזמן הגלות אין שם עילוי כי אם ירידה כפי סילוק רוח הקודש וכפי העילוי ההי"ד אמת מארץ תצמח ממקום ירידתו ויהא דבק ברוח הקודש ולכך נתקן ויתקדש ויתעלה וזהו שנא' בימי הגאולה הזכירו כי נשגב שמו. הוא

שאז"ל בהגדה חסד ואמת נפגשו בימי הגאולה ובמדבר סיני רבה כתי' אספה לי שבעים איש. זהו שכתי' הבונה בשמים מעלותיו ואגודתו על ארץ יסדה. ואשמה הנפש ההיא כי האשם תלוי בנפש החוטאת שהיא הנפש החיה שהזכרנו בסוד בראשית. ואצ"ל כשנברא אדם נברא בצלם אלהים שהוא נשמת האדם הה"ד ויפח באפיו נשמת חיים. פי' היא הנשמה הקדושה העליונה הנאצילת מאצילות הקדמון הה"ד נר אלהים נשמת אדם. וא"כ כשחטא ירד ממעלתו וממדרגתו ונטרד מגן עדן מיד ויהי האדם לנפש חיה. פי' הנפש הבהמית שכתי' בו מי יודע רוח בני האדם העולה היא למעלה ורוח הבהמה היורדת היא למטה לארץ. כי אותה נפש חיה היא הנפש המתאוה תאות גופניות ומתאוה לניאופים ולתאוות רעות אחרות כיוצא בזה ועל זה כתי' ואשמה הנפש פי' הנפש ההיא ולא הנפש השכלית חלילה לאל מרשע. והשיב את אשמו בראשו. פי' אותו האשם שעשה ושב בתשובה יחזיר אותו בראשו פי' בכ"ע שהוא אחד מן שלש ראשים לפי שהוא מדת המחשבה הפשוטה ומדת ההשואה שמוחל לרשע כמו לצדיק הה"ד וחנותי את אשר אחון.

איש איש . פי' איש העליון שהוא המלך יי צבאות. ואיש התחתון כי כמו שקינא האיש התחתון כך מקנה עליה האיש העליון על זה כתי' איש איש. והסוד לא על המלך לבדו עותה.

ורז"ל אמ' אף בראשית מאמר הוא על כן עדן היא החכמה הפנימית שנחקקו בה ל"ב נתי' פליאות חכמה וגאצלו מהן הספי' ויש מהן שנטעו בשש קצוות והספי' והנטיעות כולם נקראו גן והחכמה נקראת עדן היא כמעין וכשורש לכל הנתי' הנשארות* לגן. והגן הוא כמו אילן שיש בו ענפים מראשו עד עיקרו והוא יונק תמיד מן השורש שהוא המעיין יוצא מאין סוף המתפשט מן המקור בלא פירוד ובלא שום הפסק לא יום ולא לילה ואפי' רגע וזהו שאמ' הכתו' ונהר יוצא מעדן להשקות את הגן. ופי' ונהר מל' נהורא הוא האור הפנימי הבא תמיד מאין סוף ומעדן לכך אמ' יוצא ולא אמ' יצא מעדן | לפי שאותו האור שהוא סג ע"א הנהר אינו פוסק ובכל עת ועת מתפשט במדות על כן נקרא עולם הבא וזהו שנא' להשקות את הגן פירושו להשפיע אורו וכבודו וברכתו בכל אלה המדות הנזכרות והם הנקראות מדות* וספירות ונטיעות והכל נעשה על ידיהם ברצונו הקדמון הנטוע בהם על ידי הנהר היוצא מן החכמ' הנקראת עדן המשקה את אלו ולכך אין להפריד המבורך שהוא האילן מן המברך

שהוא המעיין. וגם אין להפריד המעיין מן המקור המתפשט הכל ממנו לפי שהוא מקום נטיעת השורש לכולן. וכשם שהשורש מחליף מזעו ומעמיד האילן וענפיו ועליו ופירותיו כך זה הנהר הבא מעדן ומאין סוף מעמיד האילן הנזכר וענפיו שהם מדותיו בכל קצוותיו לפעול פעולותיו שהם כנגד עלין ופירות בכוחו ובאורו ובזיוו והדרו. וכל צד שבו כולל בכח חבירו לפי שכוחן בא מן האחד שהכל בו. אבל יש בהם ג' מדות שנקראו אבות לפי' קרובים אצלו וכל שאר המדות כענפים וכח האבות בהם.

ולפי דעתי על כן נקרא מוצא זה הנהר עדן כאומרו ונהר יוצא מעדן שהוא מל' עד והוא מגז' את אשר עדן לא היה. זה דבר והפכו ד"ל הסרת עד לפי שאין עוד מקום שיאמ' בשבילו עד מקום פלוני. וכשאמ' מעדן ר"ל מאין סוף וזהו מה שארז"ל עדן אין לה שיעור. שהנהר הזה אינו נפרד מן המקור שאין לו סוף וזהו סוד כי כה אמר רם ונשא שוכן עד. ר"ל הסרת עד כמו שפירשנו בעדן שר"ל עד אין סוף לפי שהכל דבר אחד ומתאחד באין סוף והמפריד והמגביל מקצץ בנטיעות ולפי שהמדות כענפים נקרא גן עדן וכל המדות האלה הפנימיים רמוזים בפסו' ויטע יי אלהים וכו' שיכול היה לומ' יהיו אצילות בעדן בכל מעשה בראשית כמו שאמ' יהי אור והיה מיד או שיאמ' ויצמח יי אלהים גן בעדן. או כמו שאמ' תדשא הארץ דשא עשב. וכאן אמ' בלי נטיעה. אלא מכאן ארז"ל קוצץ בנטיעות ומהיכן היו אותן האילנות אשר נטע בגן עדן ובפסו' זה נאמ' וישם שם את האדם אשר יצר.

בא וראה והגן הפנימי גן על פי הנטיעות שהן אדוקין במעיין ואותו המעיין המשקה הגן אדוק במקור ואחר השקאתם משם יפרד והיה לארבעה ראשים. הם ארבע מחנות השכינה והם נפרדות לכל צד לארבע רוחות ויקראו עולם הנפרדים. ואותם המלאכים אשר במחנות ההם משתלחים לכמה ענייניים. ואין אחד מהם עושה שתי שליחות יחד שאין כן במדות הפנימיות שכולן פועלות כאחד ודבר והפכו | על פי הרצון. סג ע"ב וכשהקב"ה רוצה לפעול במדה אחת מן המדות בלבד כל אחת ואחת מן השלש שנקראו אבות נעשית ראש למדתה ומשפיעה כח למדות הנפרדות לעשות שליחותם באותה מדה ולא בזולתה.

ובמדרש תנחומא אמ' שלש שבועות נשבע הב"ה לציון. נשבע בבריתו של אברהם אבי' ע"ה שנא' כי מי נח זאת לי ובנפשו נשבע כביכול כתי' נשבע יי בנפשו. ובשבת נשבע שנא' וביום השביעי שבת וינפש.

ובתורה נשבע שנא׳ נשבע יי בימינו . ויראה מן השבועות הנזכרות שהן ארבע. והוא אמ׳ שלש. ועל דעת הקבלה האמתית כי שבת ונפש אחת שבת וינפש ושניהם נאמרו בשכינה. ונמצא במקום אחר תשובה שעשו שקרא בשכינה נפשו שנא׳ ויסירו את אלהי הזכר מקרבם ויעקדו אותה ותקצר נפשו בעמל ישראל. ובאמת שזה נאמ׳ על השכינה שכן מצינו בדברי רז"ל על הרוני בית דין וזהו שאמ׳ כאן ותקצר נפשו בעמל ישראל לפי שהשכינה מצרה מצרתם שנא׳ בכל צרתם לו צר ומלאך פניו הושיעם. הרי שכינה נקראת נפשו. לכך נאמ׳ ולא תנעל נפשי וזו היא השכינה ואונקלוס תרג׳ מימר. ובתרגום ירושלמי מתרגם וידבר יי אל משה. ומלל מימרא דיי. כי כשהדבור יוצא מאספקלריא המאירה שהוא הרחמים הדבור ההוא יוצא מפי השכינה להנעים הקול ולשכך אותו כדי שיכול משה לסבלו ולקבלו שאין ילוד אשה יכול לסבול כח הקול הבא מלפני לפנים. אותו הקול הוא שנתנה בו התורה ועליו נאמ׳ וידבר אלהים את כל הדברים האלה לאמר. לאמר על ידי השכינה לישראל. וזהו מה שאמ׳ אנכי ולא יהיה לך מפי הגבורה שמעום. וארז"ל בקול הראשון יצאה נשמתם בקול שני חזרה. וכן וישמע את הקול מדבר אליו ולא אמ׳ מדבר מכאן שהיה מדבר בינו לבין עצמו ומשה היה שומע מבין שני הכרובים והמשכיל יבין וידוש. ודרשו רז"ל מאחר שאמ׳ כאן מדבר אליו גם במתן תורה כן כי הדיבור אי איפשר לשמעו מפי השכינה ולא כל הנביאים היו יכולים לשמוע מפי השכינה כי אם משה ועל כן אמ׳ דבר אתה עמנו ונשמעה. אבל כל דבור היוצא מפי השכינה שאינו מלפני לפנים הוא בל׳ אמירה. וכל הנביאים היו שוין באותו הקול. ויאמר בל׳ אמירה כמו ויאמר יי אלי לאמר. ויהי דבר יי. וגם למשה בשעה שלא היה מתייחד עמו הדבור היה התרגום מימרא דמז שעל פי השכינה היה הדבור נשמע לו. וכשהוא נשבע בקדשו כמו שנא׳ אחת נשבעתי בקדשי. כאלו אמ׳ בנפשי לפי שהשכינה זוהר הכבוד | הפנימי על ידי הספי׳ הקדושות שלמעלה ממנה. לכן אמ׳ סד ע"א בקדשי. ובמקום אחד הוא קורא אותה לבו שנא׳ ויאמר יי אל לבו לפי קבלתה מן הנחי׳ החקוקות בחכמה שהם ל"ב על ידי הספי׳ שלמעלה ממנה שאף היא מגעמת ומקבלת הכח והברכה והזוהר על ידי כולן ולכך נקראת לבו על שם מניינם שהם ל"ב ועל ידי כך הכל אחד שהיא הגדר המקום לכולן. וגם היא לפי קבלתה מן הנחי׳ אומרי׳ בעלי הקבלה שהיא נקראת חכמה לכך אמ׳ בספר יצירה נעוץ סופן בתחילתן וחחילתן בסופן

הרי הכל הוא מבואר.

ואמ׳ אחד על נבי שלשה. ושלשה על גבי שבעה. ושבעה על נבי שנים עשר. וכולן אדוקים זה בזה וחשבונן עולה ל"ב. וחוץ מן האחד שהוא מתאחד בכולן לפי שהנאצל אינו נפרד מן המאציל והמפריד והמגביל הוא מקצץ בנטיעות ועל כן נקראת השכינה נפשו וקדשו ולבו. ועל זה ישמע החכם ויוסף לקח. ויש בזה פי׳ אחר אחד על נבי שלשה האחד מתאחד נכלל עם שלשה. כי המשך הנמשך בחכמה אחד והחכמה הרי כאן שנים. ומן החכמה בבינה הרי שלשה.והמשך הנמשך בחכמה מאין סוף אינן שני דברים אלא הכל דבר אחד. וכשהוא אומ׳ אחד על גבי שלשה כמו שנא׳ שבע קצוות מקום ואין קצב יותר על שש ומפני שהוא מעמיד הקצוות נקרא קצב ומקום ואינו אלא סובל ועל כן קראו בסוף ספר יצירה היכל הקודש מכוון באמצע ולא נקראה קצה מצד עצמו רק בעבור היותו מקיים הקצוות ומעמיד בכוחו וברצונו המקומות. כך אחד על גבי שלשה ר"ל העולה* עם המשך הנמשך בחכמה והחכמה והבינה הרי שלשה שהעלה והמשך דבר אחד כאשר פירשתי ובעבור שהאחד מתאחד בכלל לכך אמ׳ אחד על גבי שלשה. וכן בשלשה הנזכרים ג"כ דבר אחד אבל הם שם לעילה והוא שמו הגדול עם הקו האמצעי המתאחד בבינה במשך הנמשך מן העילה בהם ובקו האמצעי. על כן הוא מונה אותן השלשה לבד מן האחד. ובאמת הוא כלול בשלשה והקו האמצעי חוזר ונמנה עם השבעה הם הם הספי׳ שלמטה מן שלשה שהם שש בשש קצוות ועם השכינה שהיא כנגד המקום הרי שבע ושלש שלמעלה הנזכרות הרי עשר ספי׳ והאחד נכלל במשך הנמשך בחכמה לפי שהכל דבר אחד שאינו אלא התפשטות הרצון בחכמה וצמצם שכינתו בטפח וארון יוכיח שהיה מדבר עם משה מבין שני הכרובים. ועוד משכן ובית עולמים יוכיחו שאמ׳ שלמה הנה השמים ושמי השמים לא יכלכלוך וכבודו מלא עולם | והשרה סד ע"ב שכינתו בשניהם . והשבעה הנזכרים שהם על גבי שנים עשר הם שנים עשר גבולי אלכסונין ועליהם נאמ׳ יצב גבולות עמים למספר בני ישראל. והכל אדוקין זה בזה כי הכל מתקיים בכח הנעלם ובברכה המתפשטת ממנו לכל הדברים הנזכרים על כן נאמ׳ מלא כל הארץ כבודו.

זרע אברהם אוהבי, א"ל הב"ה אם אתן לך כסף וזהב יש לך הרבה דייך שתהא אתה כמוני שנא׳ ואתה את בריתי תשמור. ובהגדה ברא הב"ה עשר אצבעות רגלים למטה וברא האיבר ביניהם ועשה לו עטרה

להיות מולך עליהם והבן זה.

אמר רבא סוד הכסא שעשה המלך שלמה. על זה האדם אשר נפתחו לו שערי קבלה ישים לבו להבין הדברים הנעימים והיפים וימצאם מתוקים מדבש ונופת צופים. ואמר והמשכילים יזהירו כזוהר הרקיע. ומי האיש החפץ חיים יתן לבו להבין דברי אלהים חיים. ידוע תדע כי הכסא הוא דבר מכוסה על שם שהכוחות מכוסות בו ומוציאם בכח הרצון בזמן הקצוב לפניו ועל כן נקרא כסה מלש' כסה שמים הודו וכו'. ואל תתמה על זה כי אתה מוציא כסה כתו' בה"א וראש עגול לכסה. ועל כן נכתב בה"א לבאר לנו מה שאמרנו שש מעלות לכסא. ואלו הן שש מעלות לכסא הרחמים והעדות אנכי יי אלהיך שחשבון הכסא עולה לאנכי והסוד בזה התחת אלהים אנכי. ובכתו' זה אנו מבינים לפאי פלאות מאת יי צבאות מה שאתה רואה שנכתב בה"א הכסא בא ללמד כי כס הרחמים מתאחד בכסא הדין וזו היא ה"א אחרונה ה כתו' בה בשם המיוחד. כי הוא"ו בין שתי ההי"ן והוא"ו הוא שש מעלות לכסא ושני ההי"ן ה"א ראשונה לבינה וה"א אחרונה האמונה ואין להאריך יותר כי לא יוכל הספר להכיל סודות של זה הפסוק. אבל יש לנו לכלול דבר כלל הראוי שש מעלות לכסא ושמות ידועות יש לשש המעלות וההי"א היא המעלה האחרונה וראש עגול לכסא זהו ראש דברך אמת. ולמה אמ' מאחריו על אשר מתאחד הראש עם המעלה אחרי הכסא שנא' על ידי משה ר' ע"ה וראית את אחורי ופני לא ידאו. וזהו שאמ' דוד ע"ה בסוף הפסוק ולעולם כל משפט צדקך. ללמד כי הראש הנקרא אמת מתאחד במשפט. וראש עגול לכסא מאחריו בא להודיענו אחור וקדם צרתני. ומה נעים סוף הפסוק ותשת עלי כפכה . אל תקרי כפכה אלא כפי כה וסוד הכ"ף וצורתה מוכיח על כן נתיסד מרכבת הכסא על הכ"ף ומה שאמ' ותשת עלי כפכה בא ללמד הכתו' האומ' הסר מעלי המון שריך. וחכמי' ז"ל דרשו מה שדרשו בשומע תפלה וכו' אלו הן שתי המעלות שנקרא עליהם אף ידי יסדה ארץ וימיני טפחה שמים קורא אני אליהם יעמדו | יחדיו. ומה יפה סוף הפסוק יעמדו יחדיו ושנים סה ע"א אריות עומדות אצל הידות ואלו הן שני שדי הגדולים העומדים אחד לימין ואחד לשמאל ומראיהן כעין נחשת קלל. ונקראים שרפים שנא' שרפים עומדים ממעל לו. והמה נפרשים מלראות פני הכבוד ועל כן נאמ' בשתים יכסה פניו וכו'. ויש חצר הכבד בינם לבין קונם מהלך ששה ושלשים פרסאות וזהו מה שאמ' ישעיה כי שמותם נודעים הם למבינים והם המבטלים גזירות.

וטובים הם להזכירם בתפלה כדי לבטל כל גזירה שבעולם ואם לא נחתמה במאמר העשירי שהוא סוד כ"ע הנאמ' בו כך עלה במחשבה כי כל גזירה הנחתמה במחשבה אין מתבטלת לעולם. ועל זה העיקר נעשה נחש נחושת שנא' עשה לך שרף וכו' ומכאן אתה למד חכמתו של משה ע"ה שעשאו מנחושת כי לא פירש לו מאי זה דבר יעשנו ועשאו מדבר שאותיות נחש נופלות בו הוא הבין מה שהבין וזהו מה שאמ' הכתו' על נס כי כל מי שהוא נשוך מנחש רואה נחושת מיד מת. כי העניין נותן להיות כן. ואדם וחוה והנחש יוכיחו ובא הנחושת להגן על ישראל והבן זה. וי"ב אריות שש על שש המעלות מזה ומזה אלה הם שנים עשר המלאכים העומדים סביבות הכסא למספר שבטי בני יעקב. והם מלאכי רחמים ומליצים טובים על ישראל והם ממונים על רי"ו עולמות כנגד חשבון יאיר יי פניו וזהו סוד ויעבר עד הנה כלל הכסה המכוסה.

ד"א שש מעלות לכסה כי כסה בני' סכה שהיא הסוכה שהזכרנו בכמה מקומות בזה החיבור וכיון שבא לידי סוד זה אני צריך לדבר בו. ואצ"ל כתיב ישת חשך סתרו סביבותיו. ברד ונחלי אש. דע כי השם ית' הקיף לכסאו שבעה ענני כבודו שנא' מאחז פני כסא פרשז עליו עננו כלו' פרשז פרש ז' פי' ז' ענני כבוד פירש לכסאו והקיפן ועליהם נאמ' סביבותיו סוכתו ועל כן נאמ' לישראל במדבר באלו ז' ענגים כי בסוכות הושבתי וכו'.

כתי' ואמרו לי מה שמו. מה שם סודו בראשית ברא אלהים מסטרון המנהיג כל העולם. לא יהיה לך אלהים אחרים שהוא סוד שר הפנים ואע"פ שתראה אותו מניע פרטי העולם אל יעלה בדעתך שהוא אלוה כי אפי' זה השר אחר אחרים נמשך ומעלות יש למעלה ממנו בסוד אי"ק. ועניינו שהוא ראשית התנועה בסוד יו"ד והוא תכלית העשרה עשיריות שהם שכלים הנפרדים בסוד ק' הרי לך שר מעלתו למטה ממעלות שכלים נפרדים שהיא ק' ולמעלה ממעלות הגלגלים | שהיא מעלת סה ע"ב יה' והיא ראשית התנועה בסוד אלף. ואל העניינים הם עניינים נפלאים הם למי שיש לו עינים לראות ואזנים לשמוע. ואמנם כי סור אי"ק אל"ף יו"ד קו"ף. ותדע כי אל"ף המסור ביד השר והוא סוד אי"ק כלו והוא כולל כמו שתראה ראשית הפעולה בסוד י"א. אמנם כבר ידעת מהותה כי היא הכוללת במו כן כל חלקי המציאות בסוד עשרה חלקים והעשיריה למעלה. ובסוד ששה סדרים ובסוד ד' יסודות. ואמנם אות הקו"ף הוא

סוד מקום כי קו"ף בגי' מקום ואמרו הנה מקום אתי והתבונן אמרו מעולם ועד עולם וכו' . ואמנם תדע לך כי מקום הוא השם בעצמו ית' והבן כל אלו העניינים במתכונתם והמשכיל יבין.

ר' יוסי אומ' גדול העונה אמן יותר מן המברך. א"ל ר' נהוראי השמים כן הוא תדע שהרי גולידין מתגרין במלחמה וגבורים נוצחים. וצא"ל מהו ענין אמן שנאמרו עליו שני המאמרים האלה. ותחלת כל דבר אשכילך ואורך פי' מי כמוכה באלים יי מי כמוכה על מה נכתב בה"א ונכתב בפסו' פעמים. הה"א הראשונה הם חמשה ספירות העליונות וכללם ביחד למען הודיעך כי אינם מתפשטות למטה כי אם למעלה וכנגדם חמשה שמות לנשמה חיה יחידה רוח נפש הולכת על סדר הספי'. והנפש קיומה בדם כי הדם הוא הנפש והיא המתאוה לאכילה ומשגל ועליה נאמ' עניתי בצום נפשי וכתי' תענו את נפשותיכם והנפש האכלת וכנגדה נא' ותצא אש מלפני יי ותאכל את העולה ואת החלבים. ובאליהו כמו כן,ואמ' פעם שנייה מי כמוכה לרמוז הה' ספירות שהם מתפשטות למטה בזמן הגלות ואמ' נאדר בקודש. ואצ"ל מפני מה אמ' בכאן נאדר ולא אמ' נאדרי כמו נאדרי בכח ומהו בקדש. דע כי בכל מקום שתמצא קודש הוא רמז לחכמה עליונה וזהו סוד קודש ישראל ליי ראשית תבואתה הכתו' בה"א וזהו זרע קדש.

אמ' ר' יוחנן יעקב אבי' ע"ה לא מת. מכדי ספדוהו ספדיא וחנטוהו חנטיא וקברוהו קבריא א"ל מקרא אני דורש דכתי' ואתה אל תירא יעקב ואל תחת ישראל כי הנני מושיעך מרחוק ואת זרעך מארץ שביהם. מקיש הוא לזרעו מה זרעו בחיים אף הוא בחיים. א"ר יעקב אבי' לא מת. ולא אמ' אברהם ויצחק מפני שהוא המכריע והוא כלל וכן הוא אומ' וצדקה תציל ממות. ואומ' מבקשי פניך יעקב סלה.

ר'ישמעאל אומ' שלשה הדסים ושתי ערבות ולולב אחד ואתרוג אחד. וצא"ל כי הם בין הכל שבעה. ושלשה הדסים הירקרקות רמז לתשובה עם שני כתרים שהם רוחניים ועל זה נאמ' והוא עומד בין ההדסים.

תנו רבנן שלשה שותפין יש באדם הקב"ה ואביו ואמו. אביו מזריע לובן | שממנו העצמות וגידים וצפרנים ומוח שבראש ולובן שבשנים.סו ע"א אמו מזרעת אודם שממנו עור ובשר ושחור שבעינים ושער. והב"ה נותן בו רוח ונשמה וקלסתר פנים וראית העין ושמיעת האוזן ודבור שפתים

והלוך רגלים ודעה ובינה והשכל. ואצ"ל מפני מה סמך את שבתותי תשמרו לאיש אמו ואביו תיראו. וכבר ידעת מדרך הקבלה מפני מה אביו מזריע לובן כפי עיקר קבלתו על כן אמ' כרחם אב על בנים. ואמו מזרעת אודם כפי קבלתה ומכאן שהנשים זרעניות כתולדות האש לשרוף ולהשמיע קול. ומוח שבראש הוא מאביו. כל התולדות של פניו. כי על כל פנים מוח הבן נמשך ממוח האב. והמוח הוא מדת יו"ד ובו החכמה והבינה.אם יקרה במוח שום היפוך מיד האדם מבולבל בדעתו. וכן עומדים בכח כל תולדות האדם ומשם יפרדו והם בו כעין דשימות דקות בתכלית הדקות כי על כל פנים התאוה באה מרצון הנפש. ונשמת הזכר יונק מנשמת הזכר ונשמת הנקבה יונקת מנשמת הנקבה ולכך התקינו שלא עשאני אשה כי לפעמים מתחלפות הנשמות ומטעם זה באו עקרות לעולם מכח שיבואו נשמותיהן מן הזכר. אם אתה מן המשכילים תבין זה הסוד הגדול והמופלא הזה ודום ליי.

ועל התאוה ודבקות הנפש בנפש באה הטפה ממעיין במוח רותחת מתולדות הראש שהוא מאש דרך נקבי השדרה זה מזה וזה מזה ומתערבת במים היוצא מנקבי הבטן שהוא ממים ומתגלגלת עד הגויה שהיא מרוח והוא כנוד נפוח וקשה והרוח ההוא קשה ודחוק שם מאוד. ומתוך הקושי הגדול מן הרוח הרוצה לצאת דוחה הטיפה וטוחה אותה בכותך בית הרחם. ועל כן ארז"ל כל שכבת זרע שאינו יורה כחץ אינו מזרעת ועל כן קורא הכתו' משכת זרעת*וכו' וידע אדם את חוה אשתו לפי שהטפה באה ממקום הדעת. ולפי שהטפה נמשכת מן המקום ההוא הזהירו רז"ל לקדש אדם עצמו בשעת תשמיש שנא' בקרבן קדש. ולפי שבמוח כל תולדות האדם אמרו בסנהדרין ובבראשית רבא קול דמי אחיך צועקים אלי. דמו ודם זרעיותיו. ולפי שבמוח היא החכמה והבינה ארז"ל נותן בו דיעה ובינה והשכל וכבר ידעת כי השכל רמז לחכמה עם הדבור התלוי בו. וכבר ידעת מהו מדת הדין ומדת הרחמים והכל נקרא כסא לתשובה. זולתי הכתרים הנקראים מעון ומעונה וזהו סוד מעונה אלהי קדם ומתחת זרועות עולם. וכל פעולותיהם הם כפי הנהגת הרוכב עליהם על | כן סו ע"ב כשהוא דן את העולם קורא אותו מלך יושב על כסא הדין ר"ל מדת הדין. וכשהוא מרחם ומטיב קורא אותו יושב על כסא רחמים וזהו סוד ובחסד עולם רחמתיך. וזהו ויגולו רחמיך על מדותיך. וזהו סוד כי תרכב על סוסיך מרכבותיך ישועה. וארז"ל אין הרוכב טפלה לסוס אלא הסוס טפלה

ד"א* בראשית ברא אלהים. ובאתי להעמידך על אמתת הפי׳ בפסו׳ זה ואפרש המזמור יי אלהי גדלת מאד הוד והדר וכו׳ שהוא אמור על עניין מעשה בראשית מתחלתו ועד סופו וזהו כלל המזמור. אמ׳ כנגד יהי אור הנברא ביום ה"ד עוטה אור כשלמה. ופי׳ בו אצילות האור ההוא מאין. וכנגד יהי רקיע הנברא ביום שני להבדיל בין מים למים אמ׳ המקרה במים עליותיו. ופי׳ אותה ההבדלה לכמה עניינים היתה. וכנגד יקוו המים. אמ׳ יסד ארץ על מכוניה. פי׳ הזמן הקבוע לה. וכנגד תדשא הארץ דשא. אמ׳ מצמיח חציר לבהמה. וכנגד יהי מאורות אמ׳ עשה ירח למועדים. וכנגד ויברא אלהים את שני המאורות הגדולים. אמ׳ תשת חשך ויהי לילה. הזרח השמש יאספון. וכנגד ישרצו המים. אמ׳ זה הים גדול ורחב ידים שם רמש. וכנגד יום הששי שנא׳ בו ויברא אלהים את האדם. אמר יהי כבוד יי לעולם וכו׳ . וכנגד יום השביעי שהוא כנגד אלף השביעי שיהיה העולם חרב. אמ׳ המביט לארץ ותרעד. וכנגד תענוג הנשמות באלף השביעי אמ׳ אשירה ליי בחיי. וכנגד בטול יצר הרע אמ׳ יתמו חטאים מן הארץ ורשעים. והכי מפרש המזמור הזה עם פרש׳ מעשה בראשית והמשכילים יבינו.

יי אלהי גדלת מאד. רמז על זוהר החכמה המתרבה לכל צד. ומן השפע ההוא יניקה. הוד והדר לבשת. בך נקשרה החכמה ולא תמצא אתה זולתה ולא תמצא היא זולתך. זה היה קודם בריאת העולם וזהו שארז"ל יחיד בעולמו והיו ההויות עמוקות ונסתרות בחכמה ופירש ואמ׳ איך היה בריאת שני העולמים. עוטה אור כשלמה הוא הזמנת המשכת החכמה הסובבת את הכל ובאומרו עוטה ר"ל שקבל שפע מן הזוהר ההוא. ועל ידי הדבור התנוצץ אור שהיה כולל עשרת הדברים שנאצלו ביום ראשון כאחד בלי פירוד. והם שמים וארץ תוהו ובוהו פי׳ תוהו דבר שאין לו צורה. ובוהו מלביש את התוהו עד שיצטייר ציור דק יותר מן הרוח. וחשך על פני תהום. עומק רום ועומק תחת. ורוח אלהים. זהו רוחו של משיח. רוח | חכמה ובינה. מרחפת על פני המים. מכסה על הכל. וזהו כלל סז ע"א הכל שנתאצל ביום ראשון כמו שארז"ל באדם הראשון שעה ראשונה הוצבר עפרו ובאמרו יהי אור נתעטף באור אור כמו שביארנו ומצינו חמשה פעמים אור כתו׳ בפרשה הראשונה וחמשה פעמים מים בפרשה שניה שהיו חמשה טיפי מים וחמשה טיפי אור בתוכם. והם החמשה קולות

הנאמרים בנתיגת התורה. ולכך נאמ׳ כי טוב ר"ל נחלק האור כמדליק נר מנר ונתן כח להיות להתפשט ולהמשך ה"ד ויבדל אלהים בין האור ובין החשך. הגביל לכל אחד המשכתו והתפשטותו וזהו שכתי׳ יהי אור ויהי אור. פי׳ אספקלריא המאירה ושאינה מאירה. ועל שניהם נאמ׳ כי טוב וזהו ויקרא אלהים לאור יום ולחשך קרא לילה. פי׳ המשיך כח מדת היום ליום וכח מדת הלילה ללילה. ויהי ערב ויהי בקר יום אחד. עדיין היה הכל מיוחד כי כל זה התשפטות הויה. ד"א ויהי ערב אספקלריא המאירה. יום אחד פי׳ יחיד המיוחד בשמותיו. וכנגד יהי רקיע אמ׳ המקרה במים עליותיו. יהי רקיע יתפשט הרקיע בתוך המים כהתפשטות הנשמה בצורה. ועשה ביום השני הגבלת מקום ובעבור זה לא נאמ׳ כי טוב בשיני לפי שלא נשלמה עדיין מדת טובו של הב"ה. ויהי מבדיל בין מים למים כלל ההבדלות שנים מים העליונים ומים התחתונים. והעליונים נקרא דרך משל זכרים והתחתונים נקבות. והפרסים הרבה עצמו ראשיהם לכך אמ׳ המקרה במים עליותיו. כענין שנא׳ הבונה בשמים מעלותיו. כי הם עשויות מעלות על מעלות כדכתי׳ כי גבוה מעל גבוה שומר וגבוהים עליהם. וכל הדברים שנצטיירו זה לפנים מזה סובב סובב חצים למעלה וחצים למטה וזהו כשם שהשכינו למעלה כך השכינו למטה.* וכפי הענין הזה הם שמונה עשר אלף עולמות. וזהו מה שאמ׳ דוד ע"ה רכב אלהים רבותים אלפי שנאן. אחר שאמ׳ רבותים שהם עשרים אלף עולמות כנגד עשר ספי׳ למעלה ולמטה חסר מהם האלפים מפני שהם אין והכל אמת כי הם רבותים והאלפים אין להזכירם בכלל מניין כי הם אין. וידוע הוא כי על כל עולם ועולם מאלף דור לכך הוא י"ח אלף עולמות. ולכך היה סוד החכמה והעילה שלא נא׳ במעשה בראשית כי אם תשעה פעמים ויאמר והעשירי הוא רמוז במעשה בראשית שאין ראוי להזכירו.

השם עביט רכובו כלל ההבדלות שנבדלו במים העליונים שבעים חוץ מפנימיותיו והם שבעים | ואחד וכנגדן המים סז ע"ב התחתונים בהם ונקראים בשם אחד הרי שבעים ושנים ולכך אמ׳ עביט. ואומ׳ הנה יי רוכב על עב קל. וכתי׳ הנה אנכי בא אליך בעב הענן. שהחמשה קולות נחלקו לשבע קצוות מקום וחוץ מן הקצה הפנימי הרוחני המעמיד הכל שאינו מן המניין הרי שש קצוות בכל אחד ואחד מן הקצה העשרה ולכך אמ׳ בפרש׳ מעשה בראשית ששה פעמים כי טוב. וכפי העניין הזה נאמ׳ ששים המה מלכות. ששים גבורים סביב לה הכל ענין

אחד. וכמו שאנו עתידין לבאר ועם הקצה הפנימי הרוחני הם שבעים ואחד זה כלל ההבדלות שנבדלו ביום שני הנבלת והבדלת מקום. וכמו שאנו אמרים באדם הראשון שעה שנייה נדלו כאדם הבונה חרבה ועושה בה סימנים לעליות ולחדרים ובה ההשלמה באלו ההבדלות למה היו.

עושה מלאכיו רוחות רמז כי ביום שיני נבראו המלאכים הם צבאותיו שעליהם נקרא אלהי הצבאות שאינם כתחלפים ומתבטלים בהתחלף שאר המלאכים שנבראו ביום חמישי. וכנגד יקוו המים מתחת השמים אל מקום אחד ותראה היבשה. אמ' המשלח מעיינים בנחלים וכו'. הוא האמנת המשכת הצינורות לים החכמה ואמ' יסד ארץ על מכוניה. נראו ונבדלו הבדלה ממש לכך חזר ואמ' בו כי טוב תחת היום השני. וכמו שאמרנו באדם הראשון שעה שלישית רקמו וזהו שאמ' ותראה היבשה. בעוד שהיה העולם מים במים לא היתה יכולה להתגלות. וכנגדו אמ' יסד ארץ על מכוניה. ופי' זמנה הקבוע לה עולם ועד שהוא אלף דור חמשים אלף שנים כי כל דור חמשים שנה.

יעלו הרים ירדו בקעות אל מקום זה יסדת להם. ים אוקיאנוס. וזהו ויקרא אלהים ליבשה ארץ וכו' המשיך הרצון שהוא סוף המחשבה אל היבשה כי משמ' יבשה דבר שאינו עושה פרי והמשיך סוף המחשבה אליה שהיה כלל הדברים. ויקוו המים. יעשו צינורות אשר הנהר יוצא מעדן ניתייסד להשתלח משם החמישי להשקות את הגן. ועכשיו נראו באוחן צינורות גולם אבל לא המשכה ובעבור כי הצינורות הם הם הזמנה להמשכת העניינים. המשלח מעיינים בנחלים בין הרים יהלכון. ישקו כל חיתו שדי וכו'. היא החיה הנודעת הנקראת הגן ה"ד ונהר יוצא מעדן להשקות את הגן. ישברו פראים צמאם. קורא פראים המשרתים אשר הם ממונים על עניני העולם כפי ההנהגה וכהעניין שנא' הכפירים שואגים לטרף. וזהו ולמקוה | המים קרא ימים. המשיך הקו האמצעי סח ע"א היונק מן המקור כחוט השדרה היונק מן המוח למדת היום כעניין שנא' כל הנחלים הולכים אל הים פי' כל הצינורות נמשכים ממדת היום למדת הלילה דרך יסוד עולם.

משקה הרים מעליותיו. לפי שהדשאים והצמחים לא יצמחו עד שירדו המים שהם הנשמים אמ' משקה הרים וסמיך לו מצמיח חציר לבהמה. מפרי מעשיך תשבע הארץ. רמז בכאן כי מן המעלות ההם שהם היסודות הראשונים הרוחנים באה סבת המטר לעולם והוא פרי המעשים ההם כי

הם סבת כל ההויה וההפסד שבעולם והרי סבת האור והחשך והתילד קיטור הארץ אשר ממנו יבא המטר וארץ ישראל שותה מן הפנימיים לפי שהיא כנגד הקו האמצעי הפנימי ושאר העולם שותה תמציתם וכן הוא אומ' הבונה בשמים מעלותיו ואגודתו על ארץ יסדה. ואחד שהזכיר בניין מעלות השמים הזכיר הבא מסבתם. וכן באיוב מזכיר היסודות הראשונים. הרים הגבוהים ליעלים סלעים מחסה לשפנים. הנה בזה בכאן כי כל דבר שואב חיים ויונק מן היסודות הראשונים שנראו ונתגלו ביום השלישי והושם בטבעם כחפץ הנצחי הקדמון להיות משטרם בארץ ולהיות כל בעלי חיים דבק ונקשר בהם ומסתפק מהם וסופם לשוב אליהם וזהו שנא' שם כי טוב.

מי יתנך כאח לי וכו' תשובת הכבוד. יונק שדי אמי תקבל יניקה ממקום יניקתי וזהו רוח אלהים חיים. אשקך הדבור אוהבך לדביר הקדוש הוא ריח אמי. וכשם שאין הנשמה מראה פעולותיה זולתי הנוף ואין לגוף פעולה בלתי הנשמה כך הב"ה מראה נוראותיו ואותותיו על ידי מדותיו. אשקך כל זה משל להסתפקות האור העליון אשר משם מתברכים האבות והבנים יחדיו.

שמואלו וימינו הדבור כי כולו הוא עילוי.

השבעתי אתכם דברי השכינה עם ישראל שלא ידחקו את הקץ ועל כן אמ' אילות וצבאות לפי שאין השכינה במקומה.

ואצ"ל כי שם אהיה מורה על התחלת ראשונה כי אל"ף הוא התחלת כל
האותיות והוא ראשית לאחדים והיו"ד ראשית לעשרות והיא מדרגה שנית.
וכל נולד מדבר בדברים האלהיים אי איפשר היותו במעלתו אחר היותו
עלול. ומפני היות האל"ף בלתי מקבל חלוקה והעלול יתואר בחצי ממעלת
העילה ואין לעילה הראשונה תואר שיתואר בחצי חיבורה לאל"ף ה"א
להורות על חצי מדרגה. וכן ליו"ד ה"א והיא חצי מדרגה באמת. ויש
הבדיל בין ה"א הנולדת מן האל"ף ובין ה"א הנולדת מן היו"ד ובין
ה"א האחרונה לוא"ו ובין ה"א אחרונה ליו"ד. ויש למשכיל לחקור

בה ובסדרה אשר סודר על פי השם. והנה ראש אהיה וראש יהוה הקיפו אדני זה במעלתה ראשונה וזה במדרגתה אחרונה והדין באמצע. ועל כן אין יכולת לנביא להכיר בתחלת נבואתו הפרש הרוח המתלבשת בו אם מדת הדין או מדת רחמים. ומתוך תלבושת הרוח ועזר הכח האלהי יתגלו לו מן השמים.

וראיתי אני בפי׳ קצת מן המקובלים* בפי׳ ואמרו לי מה שמו שבקש לדעת מהותו ר"ל מהות הכח המתלבש בו כי פרעה היה כופר באלהות ואמ׳ לא ידעתי את יי. כלו׳ שאין השגתו רק על דרך לו* כלו׳ אין ואפיסו שאין לו חקר ולכך אמ׳ משה אני צריך לידע מהותו של שם להשיב לפרעה ולישראל השובה ברורה לכל שאלותיהם. והשיבו הב"ה אהיה אשר אהיה רמז לו שהכל מעיקר אחד. סימן לדבר שהאל"ף אות אחת ומכח תנועה מביאה הה"א וה"א מביאה בכח התנועה אות יו"ר ויו"ד יביא בסתר מבטן תנועחח וא"ו ומסתר תנועת הוא"ו אות ה"א הרי אומ׳ ו"ה ומסתר תנועת ה"א אות אל"ף הרי א"ה. וחלק דבריו לד׳ חלקים החלק הראשון ויאמר משה. השני ויאמר כה תאמר. השלישי ויאמר עוד אלהים אל משה כה תאמר אל בני ישראל. הרביעי לך ואספת את זקני ישראל ואמרת אליהם. החלק הראשון גילה את הסוד כולו למשה לפי שהיה ראוי יותר מכולם ולפי׳ גלה לו שורש הדבר. החלק השני צוהו והרשהו לגלות להם שם אחד בלבד. החלק השלישי גלה להם שם המפרש בפי׳ אע"פ שאמ׳ זה שמי לעולם וזה זכרי לדור דור. לא הזכיר זכרי כי אם בשביל שמי ולכך חזר ופי׳ לזקינים בחלק רביעי פי׳ זכרי אע"פ שהשם רמוז בו.

ועתה יש לפרש באי זה דרך הודיע למשה מהותו של שם ומה היה יותר משה בידיעתו יותר מן האחרים במהות המהות. דע שהמהות עיקר שוה באחדות השוה הגמורה שאין בו יהרון לצד על צד ואותו עיקר מתרומם מהשגת חוקר. ולכך נקרא רום מעלה שאין רוממות ועילוי שהוא למעלה ממנו והרוצה קורא אותו כ"ע. סימן רום אות אל"ף. סימן רום מעלה אות ה"א | ושתיהם ספי׳ אחת. ספי׳ שנית היא כח ההשכל שאין עא ע"א כח למסתכל יותר ממנה ולכך נקרא השכל שהוא התחלת התכלית שהוא כח החכמה. וסימן ההשכל אות יו"ד וסימן החכמות אות ה"א ושתיהן ספי׳ אחת. הרי שתי ספי׳ נכללות בשם אחד והוא אהיה. ומזיו ההשכל הנקרא חכמה יצא אור השכל הנקרא בינה שהיא הספי׳ השלישית שהיא נכללת בשם אהיה. ומפני שהבינה אין כתה אלא מכח שתי הספי׳ הנכללות

בשם אחד נקראת בשמם. הרי אתה רואה שגלה למשה ספי׳ ראשונות שהם פניפיות. הראשונה כח אלהי השניה כח מלאכות. השלישית כח נבואה. והשב השני בכתו׳ הוא הראשון וזה הוא פי׳ אהיה המאושר מן אהיה הראשון והכל אחד. אך עיקר הבינה הוא י"ה וכדי לרמוז שהוא מקבל כח מרום מעלה.ולפי שלא היו ישראל ראויים לידע סוד האלהות וסוד מלאכות וכח נבואה ולא גלה להם שמות אלו כי אם הכח הנאצל מהם שהוא פנימיות הרחמים וקראו אהיה. וגלה אותם לישראל הנבחרים הראויים לידע להודיעם סתר הדבר וא"כ הודיע לאחרים הפחותים מהם גלוי הדבר המתפרש באות וא"ו שהוא נקרא בשם המפורש. ולזקינים המיוחדים הראויים להכנס בסוד העבור מסר להם סוד השכינה שהיא נקראת ה"א ה"ד פקד פקדתי וכו׳. ועתה יש לנו לפרש היאך נכללת שלשה שמות של אהיה בשם המיוחד. השם הראשון בפסוק נכלל באות ראשון שהוא יו"ד. והשני בפסוק נכלל באות שני שהוא ה"א. והשלישי בפסוק נכלל באות שלישי שהוא וא"ו. וכשתפרש אות וא"ו יתפרש סתר דבר שהוא נקרא אהיה. ומה הוא פירושו של הוא"ו שש מדות. הגדולה והגבורה והתפ׳ והנצח וההוד ויסוד עולם.

אמ׳ ר׳ יהודה אין לך בכל לילה ולילה שאינו אוחז מטטרון שר הפנים כל נשמתן של תלמידי חכמי׳ העוסקים בתורה לשמה ומראה אותן לפני הב"ה וממתינין מלאכי השרת ודוממין מלומ׳ שירה עד שיאספו נשמות של הצדיקים עמהם ויזמרו ביחד לאל עליון ה"ד הנצנים נראו בארץ. אלו העוסקים בתורה לשמה.

ר׳ לוי פתח שמע ישראל יי אלהינו יי אחד. שבכאן רמז עיקר היחוד של אלהינו לקשור הכתרים של מלכינו אחד באחד בלא פירוד. שמע רומז לכנסת ישראל שהיא כנסת הכל מל׳ וישמע שאול וכו׳. ישראל רומז לעדות ישראל. יי לתפ׳ עם שש קצוות. אלהינו לזרועות עולם. יי לשלש עליונות. אחד האל"ף רומז לכתר. החי"ת צריך שיאריך בחי"ת עד שימשיך שפע הברכה מן החכמה אל התשבה ומזו לזו עד לצדיק שהם שמונה בחשבון החי"ת | וכשתגיע לדל"ת דאחד עא ע"ב שהיא רבתי צריך שבעוד שתאמ׳ הדל"ת שתאריך בה עד שיתיחד העט׳ שהדל"ת רומז לה. ותחשוב בלבך שהכל כלול בה כל העשרה כלולים בצדק. ואחרי כן תעלה מחשבתך שההוד כלול מכל העשרה. וכן לנצח וכן לתפ׳ וכן לגבורה וכן לחסד וכן לתשובה וכן לחכמה וכן לכתר עד

אין סוף. בכל אחד שצריך שתחשוב שהיא כלולה מכולם וזהו יחוד אמיתי והבן זה מאד ודום ליי.

ושנו רבותי' וביום השמיני ימול בשר ערלתו. בא וראה המילה נכרתו עליו שלש עשרה בריתות כנגד אחד. ובזכות ברית מילה נתנה נבואה בישראל ובשביל המילה תפילה של ישראל מקובלת כי מילה בגי' פה בחשבון אחד. ועל זה תקנו כי אתה שומע תפלת כל פה. כלו' כל בעל ברית מילה. ובשביל זה נתנה נבואה בישראל שנא' פה אל פה אדבר בו. וכל העובר על מצוה זו עוקר עולם ממקומו וכופר באחד לגמרי. אבל מה שכתו' זאת אות הברית כלו' מן האותיות. ולא מצאתי צורת העט' בצורת האותיות כי אם באות היו"ד. וזה הוא הנקרא חותם האמת אשר נחתם בבשרינו. ועל זה תקנו בברכת המילה חתם באות ברית קודש ואם אינו חתום בזה האות כאלו הוא מחלל בריתו של הב"ה. ואם ינח חותם זה ומכניס אותו ברשות הטומאה ראה מה הוא עושה שמחלל חותם המלך זו היא אות יו"ד מן השם הגדול שבי"ה.

מפני* מה היה ענין יוסף שמת בחוצה לארץ ולא זכה למות בארץ הואיל ואמרת כי לפי שהיה צדיק הושם בארץ כדכתי' אדון* הברית. היאך לא זכה למות בארץ. ועוד כי משה שהיה מבחר הנביאים היה במדרגה גדולה יותר ממנו כמו כן היאך לא זכה למות בארץ ומת בחוצה לארץ. וכן כי יעקב שהיה מבחר מן האבות לא זכה גם כן למוח בארץ ומת בחוצה לארץ. ועוד כי יעקב ומשה במדרגה אחת היו ויוסף במדרגה הקרובה להם בברית הקדוש היה. כל אלה שותפין הן במדרגתם קרוב יוסף אצלם הנוטל מהם. על כל פנים תימה הוא על הענין הזה. ועוד יוסף למה לא זכה להקבר עצמו בארץ זולתי עצמותיו דכתי' ואת עצמות יוסף אשר העלו בני ישראל ממצרים קברו בשכם. והוא צוה זה הה"ד והעליתם את עצמותי מזה אתכם. ויעקב זכה להקבר כל עצמו בארץ. ומשה איש האלהים לא זכה לא זה ולא זה. העניינים אלו הם תמיהים. והנני משיבך על כל אחת ואחת מאלו השאלות.

והנה זו השאלה הראשונה שיוסף לא זכה שימות בארץ ונשמתו יצאה ברשות אחר הואיל וצדיק הוא לא היה ראוי לכך. הדע לך כי על כל פנים עניין יוסף לא היה צדיק אלא בהיותו בחוצה לארץ ונשתעבד | בשעבוד ולא היה ברשותו וענו בכבל רגלו וברזל באה נפשו עב ע"א כדי שלא ישמור את בריתו והכל סבל על עצמו ולא חלל את בריתו.

על כל פנים זכה להקרא צדיק מה שלא זבה כן בהיותו בארץ וישב עם אביו ועם קרוביו ועם תולדותיו אין השבח שלו כלום כי בעל כרחו שלא בטובתו ישמור עצמו מכל רע ולא ידבק בידו מן החרם. אבל בהיותו בחוצה לארץ כפי אשר אמרנו זכה להיותו צדיק. ואמנם בהיותו במקום אשר זכה להיות צדיק שם זכה להדבק בבוראו וזה הוא השבח. אע"פ שיצאה נשמתו בחוצה לארץ לא יכול רשות אחר ליטלה ממנו ויזכה למקומו הראוי לו והטוד מורה כמו שאמרנו דכתי' ויישם בארון במצרי'. ואין השבח כולו כל כך אלא ימות בחוצה לארץ ויזכה למקום הזה אשר אמרנו. וכמו כן משה זהו השבח שמת בחוצה לארץ ובא והאיר ללבנה כי השמש בהאספו הלבנה האירה ממנו וזהו סוד גדול יעקב ומשה ויוסף בהיות להם שבח גדול. אבל לפי הדרך העליון הפנימי אלו האנשים הללו שהזכרנו שהם במדרגה עליונה על הלבנה אין כראוי להם מכל וכל שימותו אלא להיותם חיים וקיימים לעולם. אבל בהיותם במקום גרעון נאספו אל עמם ומתו פי כל מדרגת משה ויעקב עליון על מדרגת הלבנה ומדרגת החיים והשלום ומה גרע להם הארץ הקדו' ולפי' נאספו אל עמם ודיי בזה לכל משכיל ומבין.

ועל מה שלא זכה יוסף להקבר בארץ עצמו זולתי עצמותיו הענין הזה הוא סוד גדול ונכון. תדע לך כי עשרה שמות הן שאינן נמחקין ובתוך אותם עשרה שמות שם הצדיק יסוד עולם הוא השם הנקרא* ושם זה על כי כל צבאות מרום ממקום זה יוצאין כי הנהר אינו פוסק לעולם וממנו פורחת הנשמות וצבאות העליונים. וכבר ידעת דוגמת אדם בהיותו עור ובשר ועצמות ובידים. והסוד הפנימי כי העוד הוא דוגמת מתיחות הרקיע החופף מבחוץ כדוגמת העור החופף על האדם. והבשר הוא דוגמת סוד שמו קץ כל בשר אז תהיה מדרגה השולטת על הבשר. עצמות הם שאר צבאות מעלה מחנות עליונות. ובידים הם המקורות שהם המדרגות אשר מהם יוצא שפע לעולם. ועל הדרך הזה תוכל לדעת כי סוד העצמות צבאות ומחנות ואלה הם שנכנסו לארץ. וארון העצמות הוא הולך אצל ארון חי העולמים הכל על דרך סוד הפנימי כפי הראוי.

יעקב הוא סוד הגוף ולפי' גופו הכניסו לארץ כפי העניין הראוי לו. משה לא זכה לא זה ולא זה. בחייו זכה להשתמש מה שלא זכה במותו אדם אחר. כיון שנכנסה השכינה בארץ דבקה בבעלה הראשון איש תם. ומשה נשאר בחוצה לארץ והיא חזרה לבעלה | הראשון. עב ע"ב

מכאן למדנו האשה שנישאת לשני בעלים ומתה היא למי חוזרת באותו העולם. וסימניך אלכה ואשובה אל אישי הראשון. ומאז לא היה אדם בעולם שיעמוד במדרגת יעקב ומשה עלכן לא נקבר בארץ כי יעקב הבעל הראשון היה קבור שם והעט׳ אינה ראויה להדבק שם בשני הבעלים ותזרה לשכון בבעל הראשון כפי הראוי לשכון ולחזור לראשון אשר זכה בה בתחלה. והכל הוא עניין סתום וידוע הוא למשכילים יודעי חן ומביני מדע. ומפני כך לא זכה משה להכנס בארץ ואע"פ שגרם החטא הכל הוא סבה מאת הבורא ית׳ לחזור כל הדברים כתיקונן כפי הראוי ודיי בזה לכל משכיל ומבין מדעתו.

ועוד יש לשאול על עניין רחל מפני מה לא קברה יעקב במערת המכפלה ואני תמיה שכבר קדמה מיתתה של לאה למיתתה של רחל ולפי׳ נקברה שם אינו כך כי על כל פנים מיתתה של רחל קדמה למיתתה של לאה והיה לו לקברה במערה. וא"ת כי רחל היתה עיקר הבית מפני מה קבר ללאה אחרי כן במערת המכפלה ולא לרחל. וא"ת כדי שלא יכנס שתי אחיות לארץ יניח ללאה ולא יכניסנה שם מפני אהבת רחל. ועוד כבר ארץ היתה לבא אפרתה למה לא קברה באפרתה וכבוד היה לו לקברה בעיר ולא בפרשת הדרכים והניח רחל שהיתה אהבת נפשו. אפי׳ אורח שנתאחז עמו בדרך ומת ראוי לו להוליכו לעיר הקרובה ולקברו שם. וכל שכן לאשתו ולאהבת נפשו. כי כל אלו הדברים יש לדעת האמת ומהו העניין.

ויש להשיב מה נחמד העץ להשכל ותאוה הוא לעינים והשאלה נכוחה. השאלה הזאת נחלקת לשני חלקים שתי שאלות הן. האחד מפני מה לא נקברה רחל במערת המכפלה. והשנית מפני מה לא נקברה באפרתה הואיל והדרך קרוב לאפרת. ואמנם כי דבר זה על אשר לאה נקברה במערת המכפלה וזכתה שם יותר מרחל באמת ונכון היתה הסבה הזאת בעניין זה. לזה זכתה ויצאה ממנה ששה בנים ובת אחת. והיא סוד דוגמת העולם המוציא שש קצוות והבת היחידה ביניהם לתת לה כל אחד ואחד די ספקה והוא הסוד הנעלם והנסתר זו דוגמת זו ולפי סוד העניין והדוגמא היה ללאה להסתר במסתרים בתוך המערה לפניי לפנים להיותה במסתרים בתוך המערה כפי אשר אמרנו. רחל הוא הסוד הגנלה דוגמא אחת ממש ועל כן עמדה בפרשת דרכים ונקברה שם להיות מצבתה בנגלה. ולפי זה העניין כמו | שאמרנו בתחלה תוכל לעמוד על תוכן האמת. ומאחר

אשר ידעת זה אל תשאל מפני מה לא הכניסה לאפרת. ולפי הפשט אין דרך כבוד לאשה להוליכה ממקום למקום אלא שתהא נקברת במקום אשר תמות שם. ועל כן רחל כתי׳ בה ותלד רחל ותקש בלדתה. ועדיין הקושיא במקומה עומדת ותקבר שם ודיי בזה לכל משכיל.

ועוד יש לשאול על עניין הדודאים שנתנה לאה לרחל כי העניין לפי הנראה הוא גנאי וכבר ארז"ל גנאי הוא לאשה לתבוע משכבה מבעלה ובכאן לא ראינו כך אלא בפרהסיא אמרה תורה שיצאה לאה לקראתו לחוץ לתבוע מן יעקב משכבה מה שאין ראוי לאשה חצופה שבעולם כ"ש לצדקת כזו וב"ש לפי שהיא עומדת על משמרת דוגמא עליונה כפי אשר אמרתי.

ועוד רחל אשר אמרה לכן ישכב עמך הלילה כי הכל לפי הנראה בין מצד לאה בין מצד רחל הכל הוא גנאי ודבר שאין ראוי לכתוב בתורה.

תדע לך כי כבר התעוררנו בתחילה על היות האמהות סוד דוגמא של מעלה כפי מעלת האבות להיותם דוגמא עליונות והן היו בסוד למעלה כפי אשר אמרנו. אמנם כי סוד עניין זה נסתם ומופלא בסוד אלהותו. תדע לך כי רחל סוד השכינה היא מדת מערב. ראובן סוד מדת דרום. ועל כן הדגל שלו בדרום שנא׳ דגל מחנה ראובן תימנה לצבאותם . מפני שהוא ראשון. ולאה סוד נעלם ונסתר כפי אשר הוא תכונת כל אחת ואחת שהיא סוד שני עולמות עולם הנסתר ועולם הנגלה. ולפי דרך זה נסתרה לאה במסתרים בתוך מערת המכפלה. ורחל בפרשת דרכים. בדרך זה להיות זה נסתר וזה נגלה. ואצ"ל יש תמיד למדת דרום לתת לה ולבקש מנוח לכף רגלה. מה כתי׳ וילך ראובן בימי קציר חטים. ראובן הולך לבקש לה מנוח שהוא מדת דרום. אימתי בימי קציר חטים. כשאוכלוסיה קצרו קצירה ואכלו את לחמה ולקחו ממנה שלל.

וימצא דודאים שני הכרובים שהם נצח והוד הנקראים שני עמודים אשר מהם יורד השפע לעולם. בשדה זו זו השדה אשר ברכו יי. ויבא אותם אל לאה אמו מביא אותו התעוררות לסוד נעלם כי לעולם אין שפע יורד מלמעלה זולתי בהתעוררות שניהם סוד זכר ונקבה ובשביל התעוררות אותם שני הכרובים ללאה אמו. וכיון שמדת דרום מביא אותם אל לאה אמו. תני נא לי לפרנס ולכלכל צבא שלי׳ מאותו התעוררות שהכניס לך מאותן הדודאים ממדת דרום. וכשאמרה לה המעט קחתך את אישי. אמרו כי בכאן היא אמרה לרחל בדרך האהבה והתענוג והחדוה כמדת האם עם בתה. ומה אמרה המעט קחתך את אישי דבר זה אינו בשביל יעקב

אלא על סוד הנקודה העליונה הנסתרת היא. ואמרו אין לעולם חיבה יתירה כמו האם אצל בתה כשהיא בת יחידה בין ששה אחים.| קרא עג ע"ב לה בת לא זז מחבבה עד שקרא לה אחות. לא זז מחבבה עד שקרא לה אם. כשם אמה. לא זז מחבבה עד שקרא לה שמו ממש חכמה שנא' והחכמה מאין תמצא. וכיון שאמה בא אצלה בדרך תענוגי האהבה אומרת המעט קחתך את אישי. נקל הוא לך זה ליקרא אותך בשם בעלי ולקחת אותו האהבה מה תרצי יותר אותו עניין התעוררות הדודאים לקבל שפע בשבילם. ותאמר רחל לכן ישכב עמך הלילה תחת דודאי בנך. ותתמלא תענוגים ממנו ואור זוהר הבהיר מן עולם היש. ואצ"ל יש כ"ב אותיות תוצאות מן החכמה העליונה להנחיל אוהבי יש. וזהו יש כ"ב עמך הלילה וכו' כעניין הזכר בנקבה שמצייר. מה כתי' ויבא יעקב מן השדה בערב. בכאן הוא סוד נסתר ויש לך לדעת כי סוד השדה מקבל כל ממדת דרום ונתחבר עמו בסודו תפ' ישראל. יעקב איש תם כיון שיבא הערב ומתעורר מדת גבורה שהוא פחד יצחק שבאותו עת ממש בשדה. ואמרו ויצא יצחק לשוח בשדה לפנות ערב וכו'. יעקב מניח לו השדה ועולה ללקט תענוגים כאמו. מיד ותצא לאה לקראתו ותאמר אלי תבא כי שכר שכרתיך. לי תאסף תחת כנפי ולך אתן כל התענוגים וכל אורים גדולים כי כבר באותו התעוררות הדודאים נתרציתי. מיד מה כתי' כיון שבא יעקב לחסות תחת כנפיה. וישכב עמה בלילה הוא. ר"ל כי הוא רומז לאל"ף של אחד וזהו שאומר אני והוא הושיעה נא אחרון עם ראשון יהוד שלם מלמטה למעלה. וסוד דבר הנעלם והנסתר וישכב עמה בלילה לא כתי' אלא הוא סוד הנסתר והנעלם והכל לפי התעוררות העולה מלמטה.

ועל עניין הבכורה אשר שאלת יש לך לדעת כי ח"ו הוא לא חמל על אחיו ואפי' על כל אדם יש לחמול באכילה ובשתיה כ"ש על אחיו ממש אלא כבר התעוררנו בתחילה יעקב אבי' בסוד החכמה הנוראה וכל הדברים היה יודע בסוד החכמה. וכי הוא ית' ויתי' מנהיג העולם וזה לפי חסדו לעניין דוגמת העולם שלמעלה להתנהג העולמות בשוה כפי הראוי לכל אחד ואחד. עולם שלמעלה בדבר הרוחני ועולם שלמטה בדבר הגופני. והוא היה יודע והבין הסוד הגדול הזה שעשו הוא היה דומיא דנחש המסטין להרע תמיד. וראה וידע כי הערלה סובב לברית הקדוש ולפני חסאת רובץ ומפני כי שם השפע היורד נוטל חלקו להגביה למעלה להשחית רבים ביד. וכיון שראה יעקב כך אמ' אם אני אוכל לדחות

כל זה במאכל ובמשתה כפי הראוי לתת לו וכיון שידעתי כי יתמו חטאים למעלה וימשכו אחר אכילת אחרת | ויעזוב רשע דרכו וכו' ובכל עד ע"א קדש לא ינע ואל המקדש לא יבא. מיד ויזד יעקב נזיד כדי להמשיך הרשע אחר האכילה הראויה לו. כיון שראה הרשע המאכל ההוא מיד תאב ונמשך אחריו כפי מה שאמרנו בסוד הלעיטיני נא מן האדום. כפי אשר התעוררנו בתחלה ולפי' עניין הבכורה הוא לעניין מוכרח ואין דבר בתורה שיוצא מדרך חכמה גדולה לחוץ.

ועוד יש לשאל על עניין יעקב שהיה צדיק גמור בכל מעשיו איך היו כל.ענייניו במרמה אצל אחיו כי כמדומה לי שמעולם לא הלך עשו עם יעקב במרמה. אם תאמר לי לפי שלא היה יכול לו בחזקה אינו אומ' זה אלא על שהתנהג עמו במדה זו. ועוד כי לפי דברך אם עשו הוא סוד הנחש עקלתון שהוא ערום לפי הדין הוא היה צריך להתנהג עם יעקב במרמה. בתחלה הלך עמו במרמה לקחת את בכורתו ממנו במעט עדשים כשראה אותו רעב לאכול אין זה דרך אחים שלא לפרנס זה את זה. ויש לנו ללמוד שהב"ה על שלא נתנו בני ישמעאל מים לישראל נתרעם עליהם דכתי' משא בערב ביער בערב תלינו אורחות דדנים. לקראת צמא התיו מים. ובכאן כשראה יעקב לעשו אחיו רעב וצמא לא חשב לחמול על אחיו עד שלקח ממנו בכורתו זה אינו ראוי לצדיק כמותו. ועוד דבר שהוא יותר מהכל כשראה שיצחק אביו היתה תאותו לברך את עשו כפי סבתו אשר אמרת מדוע הלך לגנוב ממנו ולגזול ברכותיו ולגנוב דעת אביו להחנכר אליו ככל אשר עשה. דברים כאלה תימה לצדיק כמותו. ועוד אני מקשה צדקת כזו דבקה אמו איך עשתה הדברים האלה וסבבה לבנה כעניין זה אצל אביו ואצל אחיו על כל פנים יש לנו לדעת אפיתת העניינים האלה. ואמרו כי איך* הברכה לא לקח יעקב ממנו זולתי כי יעקב היה בכור וטיפה הראשונה היה ולפי' יצא באחרונה והאחרון בראשונה ומפני שהוא היה הבכור יצא* לקחת ממנו את שלו.

וכבר ידעת כי סוד עשו הרשע הוא רשע המכחיר את הצדיק כגון העורלה שהיא הסובבת אותו וכעניין זה סבת הסבות להפרש העורלה מן הברית בסבת אותה האכילה. כיון שראה שעשו האב במטעמיו של יעקב אמ' יעקב אם זה יעשה רצונו ויפרש עצמו מן הבכורה בשביל האכילה אשר לו אני בטוח שאעשה כן לסוד העורלה אשר למעלה כמעט שיקנה* ממנה מלמטה שיתנו להביא* הרי יתפרש מן הברית ויהפך לעשות עצמו

עבד ולא יעמוד במעלתו.

ועוד יש לך לשאול על עניין צדיק ורע לו ורשע וטוב לו. וזה העניין הוא סוד גדול ומופלא בעניין היבום.

וכבר ידעת כי סוד היבום | הוא בלכת האדם לבית עד ע"ב

עולמו ואין לו זרע להזכיר שמו הכרת תכרת הנפש ההיא וגדל מכאובה ועונה בה ונדחה מעל יי ובגורל הצדיקים לא יבא ובעוד יומם שמשו יבא ואין לו חלק במעלות הקדושות ובסוד נורא תהלות ויושב בחוץ ונכרת דמותו לאין נכונות מהתמונות הכלולות* כל התמונות. ועל כן עניין הסוד המיוחד על דרך הנכון הזה בהיותו נפטר לבית עולמו ואחיו חי נשאר כדי לקיים שמו וילך אל הכלי אשר הניח בסוד המעשה כי הוא סוד הכסא לנוח בו שבט הרשע אשר נכרת תמונתו ולהושיבו אל מעונתו למען לא תכרת בהכרת עולמית כל הימים ולא יאבד לעולמים. והנה כי בהתחבר אחיו הדואג והשומם על אחיהו ובא אל מעונתו הנה גם היא תדאג ותשום בראות אח בעלה בא אליה האהלה והוא גם הוא בהתחברו עמה יזכור לאחיהו וידאג עליו ויכון רוחו אליו ושניהם כאחד אליו יהיחדו והאבידה אשר תמצא כי נועדו. והסוד כעניין סוד אומרו אם ישים אליו לבו ונשמתו אליו יאסוף. וסמך בסוד אומרו עליו פרא למוד מדבר באות נפשה שאפה רוח וכו'. והכל הוא בסוד ידוע בהתכונם במחשבתם כי היא התועלת הידועה למצא את האבדה אשר נאבדה.

ואמנם יש לך לדעת כי כל העניינים נמשכים לעולם מין במינו והתבונן כי המשכת הרוח הוא במינו בסוד רוח להמשיך רוח ברוח. ועל כן התועלת בהיותו הוא ית' אב רחמן ומנהיג הכל במדת חסד וצוה לעשות חסד עם המת הנאסף ואין איש מאסף אותו הביתה. ובא אחיהו ואשתו ועושין עמו חסד ואוספים אותו ולא ישב לחוץ. והנה הסוד באומרו ולא יכרת שם המת מעם אחיו ומשער מקומו לא היה העניין להוליד בן ולקרוא אותו בשם המת. אבל העניין אינו על זה הדרך והוא ית' לא צוה על העניין הזה. אבל הסוד הוא בהיותו ית' צוה לעשות חסד עם החיים ועם המתים בכמה פנים והחסד גדול כמו שאמרנו הה"ד לא תהיה אשת המת החוצה לאיש זר יבמה יבא עליה הבן ותשכל זה הפסוק כי זה החסד הגדול שעושה אחיו של המת ואשתו שהניח והסוד כפי אשר אמרנו.

דע אחי ישמרך האל כי ידיעת עניין זה היא ידיעה עליונה אשר דאוי למשכיל להכריח שכלו ומחשבתו בידיעתה וזה כי הסבה הראשונה

כי יאצל אצילות הנקרא אין כ"ע אויר קדמון והאצילות ההוא המיוחד בהתעלותו בעצם מהותו תתגלה ממנו ספי' החכמה וזהו החכמה מאין תמצא. ובצייר החכמה אצילותיה המצטייר מעצם מהותה תתגלה ספי' הביגה. ואל זה רומז אי זה מקום בינה. ושלשת הספי' הללו הם כנשמה לנשמות ר"ל עה ע"א לשאר הספי'. ועל כן תצטרך לבחינת שכלך לערוך שלש על שלש והוא ערך המספר על מספרו לא על זולתו והם השע ובהתחבר העשירית שהיא הכלה הכלולה מהכל יעלה עשר ועל זה אמרו עשר ולא תשע ולא אחד עשר.

ואצ"ל סוד שלש שמות המורכבים כאחד בהיות בעלי הקבלה משתמשין בהם בכוונת התפלות. ושלשת אלו השמות הם יהוה הוא הנמצא באחדות השוה בתכלית האפשרות מתעלה מן הכל ומאצל בכל הוא השם המורה על קדמותו ית' ויח' ומכח השם המיוחד נתקנה כח ראשון מצוי נאצל באמיתת הקדמון ונקרא אהיה כל הכוחות כלולים בו כולם ועץ החיים ועץ הדעת ותחתיו מתפלגין המרכבות התחתונות. וכח זה הנאצל בשם אהיה תשוקתו וממשכתו אצל עי' העי' והוא דבק בו והוא כדמיון כסא לבורא ית' ויח'. ואחר שידעת הנאצל מאמיתת המאציל בסוד אלו השני שמות דע כי יש עוד שם אחד נקרא חמיד כנוי השם הגדול והנורא ית' והוא השם שאותיותיו אדני. וצא"ל כי זה השם שהוא אדני הוא כדמיון פשר מעיד ומורה המשכת השם העליון הנאצל באהיה כדרך זה. אל"ף ראשונה שבשם אדני מעידה על אהיה. יו"ד אחרונה מעידה על תכלית אהיה שהוא סוף כל התכליות והיא סבת הכל הוא השם יהוה ית' ויח'. וכבר ידעת כי צירוף השם המיוחד בשמושו הוא סוד ירושלם והוא משולשת ד"ן מרובעות* כמו שכבר קבלת מה שתצטרך לדעת. כי אהיה שהוא ד"ן כי שמי בקרבו. כלו' שפע המציאות האמיתית במה שאהיה תתקיים ואם כן סוד ד"נ שבאדני מעיד על דבוק הנאצל במאציל ונודל התשוקה. וסוד א' של אהיה יו"ד יהוה נמצא אדני כדמיון פרשה* לשני שמות ההויה ומעיד ומורה על כח השם המיוחד בתוך הנאצל ממנו הה"ד ונשגב יי לבדו ביום ההוא.

ולפי' המתכוין בתפלה צריך לדעת מהו כורע בברוך של אהיה ומהו זוקף בשם שהוא אהיה יהוה והסוד ברוך אתה אדני המעיד כל האצילות מהראש ועד הסוף בסוד א' אהיה יו"ד יהוה וזהו סוד אתה מאל"ף ועד תי"ו והוא פרשה באמצע ועל אותה הה"א נמשכת ההויה וקיום מאת השם ונעשית ברכה מקבלת שפע ולפי' יהוה יותר אהיה אדני כנגד יו"ד יהוה

ואז תתיחד הנפש בהדבקה ביחיד האמיתי וישארו כל הנאצלים למטה בהיותו מתבונן עליו השם ואצילותו עליהם ואזי יתבונן הזה נאצל וזה מאציל ולא יקצץ בנטיעות ונמצאת הנפש פנויה מכל הנבראים ודבוקה בשם הגדול מהם ה"ד ובו תדבקון. ועל זה המכוין הכונה הזאת | תפלתו עה ע"ב מקובלת בהיותך נעשה בדמיון מרכבה לשם הגדול אחר היותך מסיר כל האמצעים ומשים אותם ספילה לו בסוד השם המורכב מסוד יהוה אהיה אדני ותכוין בהם בהיותך אומ' ברוך אתה יהוה כי הכל אחד ואז תייחד כל הכוחות באחד ויתחברו הענפים ולא תמצא מעכב על תפילתך שכבר תקנת את כולם ותלית אותם על השורש ונמצאו כולם עמך בהתיחדם עם דבקות נפשך בשם ית' ואז תמצא בשעת התפלה כמו שכללת סבת הכל וזהו סוד יי אלהינו יי אחד פי' בהיותך מיחד כל הכוחות ועושה מהם קשר אחד.

ר' שמעון פתח* השמים מספרים כבוד אל וכו'. כבר ידעת כי השמים הוא הקו האמצעי הנקרא שמים ה"ד ואתה תשמע השמים. אבל על דרך הפנימי העליון כי החיצון גלוי וידוע לכל בתחלת מחשבה שכוונתו לשמים המורגשים ולשמש המורגש. וגם הר"ם ברמז"ל כבר הביא ראייה בספרו הנזכר מפסוקי' אלו שהגלגלים בעלי נפש ודיעה מכירים את בוראם ומשתוקקים למניעם תנועתם הסיבובית מה שאין צורך עתה להאריך בו והוא האמת. אלא כוונתינו בזה גבוהה מכוונתו כגבוה שמים על הארץ. ואל יחשבני השומע כי אני כמגביה עצמי ולא יחשבני ומדבר עתק אין זה כי אם כצמצום שכן ארז"ל כחלל שבין הארץ לרקיע כך בין הרקיע למים עליונים. ויש גורסין בין רקיע לכסא הכבוד. ועוד שיש כסא למעלה מכסא וכבוד למעלה מכבוד. אבל המשכילים מקבלי האמת מפי יודעיה ידעו ויאמנו כי דברי אלה נכוחים למבין וישרים למוצאי דעת. ואין לחוש מאיש שוגה ומפתי אם אותם אחרי גו ישלך. הלא דברי יסיבו עם הישר הולך אע"פ שאנחנו מודים לרב ז"ל בקצת דברים ממה שכתב באותו פרק בעניין הגלגלים והתחלתם ובפרק אחר במספרם. ואין אני בוזר ומקיים שדוד ע"ה נתכוון לכוונתו במזמור זה חלילה לי אמנם כדי לגלות אליך את לבי עתה באתי לייישב פסוקי המזמור על נתיבות דרכי החכמה הנעלמה כפי אשר תשיג ידי ושכלי הקצר.

בא וראה בשעה שהיה משבח ומזמר היה מעלה מחשבתו למעלה ממה שנפל בחלקו כדי להמשיך הברכה לחלקו ולנחלתו ה"ד משוך

חסדך ליודעיך וכו'. ואצ"ל כי ברוב דבריו היה מתכוין דוד ע"ה אל החסד באומרו הושיעני כחסדך. וכתי' אלהים ברב חסדך ענני. וכיוצא בהם רבים והנצח מענפי החסד הוא באומרו נעימות בימינך נצח. ועל כן הוא פותח בתחילת רוב דבריו למנצח. וא"ת שהוא מל' נצוח יהיה מחלקי התוקף והגבורה,ובמדרש | של ר' נחוניא בן הקנה סוף עו ע"א השכינה הוי ג"כ נצח. והיינו לנצח נצחים תרי וכו'. והיא היא של מדתו של דוד ע"ה זהו כוחו והוא תהלתו והוא אלהיו כאומרו תהלה לדוד ארוממך אלהי המלך וכו' עליה נאמ' אבן מאסו הבונים.וסמיך ליה מאת יי היתה זאת וכו'. וסוד גדול נגנז בזאת דכתי' זאת היתה לי וכו'. בזאת אני בוטח. וכתי' בתורה בזאת יבוא אהרן. וזאת התרומה. וזאת הברכה. וזאת אשר דבר להם אביהם. ובנביאים ובחנוני נא בזאת. ואענה את זרע דוד למען זאת. ורבים אחרים בתורה ובנביאים שסודם גלוי למשכילים. ובמדרש ויקרא רבא ארז"ל על פסו' בזאת יבוא אהרן אל הקודש. ד' יודן פתר קריה בכהן גדול בכניסתו לבית קדשי הקדשים חבלות חבילוח של מצות יש בידו. בזכות התורה וזאת התורה. בזכות המילה זאת בריתי אשר תשמרו. בזכות שבת אשרי אנוש יעשה זאת. שומר שבת וכו'. בזכות ירושלם זאת ירושלם בתוך הגוים שמתיה.

וראיתי לקצת המפרשים נותנין חלוק גדול בין מזמור לדוד ובין לדוד מזמור. והעולה מדבריהם כי כשהוא אומ' מזמור לדוד מתכוין להמשיך רוח הקודש אליו וכשהוא אומ' לדוד מזמור שכבר שרתה עליו השכינה ומכאן ואילך מדבר ברוח הקודש. ואני בעניי לא זכיתי להבין ההפרש הזה שביניהם מדברי המפרשים והזכרתיו אולי ירגיש בהם המבין מדעתו יותר ממני.

השמים בה"א הידיעה פי' השמים הידועים ורמז למה שארז"ל בהבראם בה"א בראם. וכן קדמו להם חמש הויות רוחניות. ובבראשית רבא א"ר יהושע בן קרחה בהבראם באברהם. בזכות אברהם בראם. והוא הוא מה שאמ' דוד ע"ה אמרתי עולם חסד יבנה . וכתי' יי בהשמים חסדך בתוספת ה"א מה שאין כן בכל המקרא. וכתי' סביב סביב כחלונות. ובמדבר סיני רבא ובפסיקתא כחלונות אין כתי' אלא כהחלונות מקטינות היו מבפנים ורחבות מבחוץ כדי שיהיו מוציאין אורה לעולם. והוא טעם בה"א בראם רמז לה"א ראשונה ואם נאמ' ה"א אחרונה והיא השמים שמים ממש והארץ הארץ ממש שכן ארז"ל שהעולם הזה נברא בה"א והעולם הבא נברא ביו"ד.

וקבלתי כי ה"א בהבראם מאותיות קטנות לסוד נשנב ונפלא ומה שאמרו

כבוד. מילת כבוד נאמרה על ענייניים רבים גם על דעת בעלי הקבלה. ואולם ביחוד רמז אל הכבוד העליון הכולל כל ההויות העליונות ועליו נאמ' הראיני נא את כבודך . וזהו רמז אל כבוד שנא' עליו וכבוד יי מלא את המשכן. וברוך כבוד יי ממקומו. ורבים זולתם. אל הוא מדת החזק מדת הפחד פי' הגבורה כמו שכתי' יש לאל ידי. ואולם בתוספת אות מהשם הוא מדת הרחמנות כאומרו אלי אלי למה עזבתני. וזהו שכתי' זה אלי ואנוהו וכו'. ובמכילתא דר' שמעון בן יוחאי כתי' זה אלי ואנוהו אלהי אבי וארוממנהו. פי' עמי נוהג במדת רחמים ועם אבותי נוהג במדת הדין. והוא כאלו הזכיר שם בן ד' אותיות כי השם הגדול הוא עושה גדולות לאין חקר ונפלאות עד אין מספר. וזהו סוד וארא אל אברהם אל יצחק ואל יעקב באל שדי ושמי יי לא נודעתי להם. שלא נתפרסמו הנסים והנפלאות אלא על ידי משה רבי' ע"ה שהיתה נבואתו מתוך אספקלריא מאירה ובה יעשה לעין כל אותות ומופתים משנים הטבעים כענין שכתי' מלפני אלוה יעקב ההופכי הצור אגם מים חלמיש למעינו מים.

ומעשה ידיו וכו' רמז אל ההויות האחרונות הנקראות גופניות ואע"פ שגם הם הראשונות רוחניות פשוטה והכל אחד. כי קצב אחד ומדה

אחת לכלהנה ונקראות גופניות לפעולתם בגופים וכיון שזכר מעשה אי אפשר ליחסו אלא לידים ואע"פ שהיא דומות לעניין אחר כאשר נזכיר בע"ה והואיל ואמ' ומעשה ידיו שהוא נופל על הדברים הגשמיים. ואמר מגיד שהוא דבר מורגש נחתך בלשון ובשפתים. ואמ' רקיע ג"כ שהוא נראה בקרוב מן הגשמות יותר מן השמים. ואע"פ ששמים ורקיע בענין זה דבר אחד הוא דומז. ואין זה הרקיע המבדיל בין מים למים כי אותו רקיע הוא טיפה אמצעית שהוגלדה בחכמה ועל כן היא מתוארת ביו"ד. ועל זה ארז"ל אין בין מים עליונים למים | התחתונים אלא כמלוא נימא. עה ע"א ולפי שאמ' בן זומא אין בין מים עליונים למים תחתונים אלא כשתים או שלש אצבעות אמרו עליו עדיין בן זומא מבחוץ. והוא הנכון כי ביום השני נאמ' יהי רקיע בתוך המים . אם כן מי יוכל לשער הנקודה המבדלת בין סוף יום ראשון לתחלת יום שני וכן בין מים למים. ועל זה אמ' החכם אמ' ר' אחא בר יעקב כמלוא נימא ואין אחד מהם תולק על חבירו. אלא שכל אחד נתכוון להפליג בדקות הדבקות והאחדות. ועל כן אמ' דוד ע"ה בים דרכך וכו'. והרקיע שעליו אמ' הנביא ודמות על ראשי החיה רקיע כעין הקרח הנורא. הוא על גבי שבעה רקיעים. וארז"ל ויעש אלהים את הרקיע. זהו אחד מן המקראות שהרעיש בן בן זומא את העולם. ובמדרשו של ר' נחוניא בן הקנה שאלו תלמידיו את ר' ברכיה נרצה דבריגו לפניך. לא נתן להם רשות וכו'. עד יום אחד בדק אותם אמ' להם השמיעוני חכמתכם. פתחו ואמרו בראשית. וא"כ אמרו ורוח מלפני יעטוף ונשמות אני עשיתי. פלג אלהים מלא מים. מאי פלג אלהים מלא מים. כך למדתנו רבי' שנטל הב"ה מימי בראשי' וחלקם ונתן חצים ברקיע וחצים באוקיאנוס ה"ד פלג אלהים מלא מים. ועל ידם אדם למד תורה דכתי' הוי כל צמא לכו למים. ובפרקי ר' אליעזר אומר זה הרקיע שעל ראשי החיות שנא' ודמות על ראשי החיה רקיע. והחיה היא החיה שאמ' עליה ז"ל חיה אחת יש ברקיע ששמה ישראל. וראשי החיה שבמרכבה העליונה הם זרועות עולם ועל כן נאמ' ראשי החיה ולא ראשי החיות. ואולי הם הכתרים הפנימיים שהם ראשת כל בכורי בל.והרקיע אשר על ראשם כ"ע שבהם. ושם דרך אחרת מעמידין בה המים העליונים והתחתונים. והרקיע והחיה בשולי הכסא המתנשא המלאים את ההיכל וזהו עניין נעלם. ואם לקחת שמץ מנהו הביאותיו אל בית האוצר למען לא תגע בו יד כי היא פליאה ונשגבה ארץ לא עבר בה איש ולא ישב אדם שם. וכבר ידעת טעם גשיאות

כפים כי יד ימין נבוהה מיד שמאל. וארז"ל למי נושאין כפים. אמ' ליה לרום השמים. מנ' לן דכתי' רום ידיהו נשא והסוד נרמז בתוספת הה"א. ואמ' דוד ע"ה ואשא כפי אל מצותיך אשר אהבתי. רמז לעשרת הדברות שהם המצות הכתובות בשני הלוחות חמש כנגד חמש. ובמשה נאמ' ויהי ידיו אמונה. לא נאמ' ויהיו ידיו אמונות אלא ויהי ידיו אמונה ליחד הידים ולהמשיך אצילות עשר אצבעות אל האמונה אז גבר ישראל. ואולי רמז ב"כ לעשר גלגלים שכנגד עשרה מאמרות שבהם | נברא העולם הרשומות עח ע"ג בשם של ד' אותיות שהוא יהוה. וטעם מגיד ממשיך כי בכוחו הגדול ובברכה הנמשכת ממנו היא היד החזקה מוציאה הדברים לידי מעשה מורגש בין לטוב בין לרע. והוא האמצעי בין מעלה ומטה סוף העליונים ותחלה ליסד התחתונים. ועניין היד הגדולה שראו על הים היתה כלולה בחסד להציל את ישראל ולהטביע את המצריים. לכן כתי' ובני ישראל יוצאים ביד רמה. וכן אמ' דוד ע"ה אתה ידך גוים הורשת וכו' ותשלחם לישראל כמו תשלח קצריה עד ים. וכן אמ' דוד ע"ה גפן ממצרים תסיע וכו'. הנה היד המגרשת היא הנוטעת ועל כן נקראת היד הגדולה כי שם הראה את כבודו ואת גודלו. ובפרק הרואה במתניתא תאנא בשם ר' עקיבא לך יי הגדולה זו קריעת ים סוף. ובבראשי' רבא ויעש אברהם משתה נדול. ר' יהודה בר סימון אמ' התורה היתה מסיילת שם. ר' יהודה בשם ר' יוסי בר חנינא אמ' גדול העולמים היה שם הה"ד כי ישוב יי לשוש עליך לטוב כאשר שש על אבותיך. ובמכילתא דר' שמעון בן יוחאי להראות את עבדך את גדלך. זהו בניין אב לכל גדלך שבתורה. ואת ידך החזקה אלו עשר המכות שהביא הב"ה על המצרים במצרים שנא' בהם נטה את ידך וכו'.

יום ליום. ידוע כי הספי' הם נקראות ימטם ונקראות מאמרות השלש הראשונות אין שם יום נרמז בהם. אבל הששה מהם כנגד ימי בראשית שבהם יצאו כל הדברים מן הכח אל הפועל העליונים וכנגדם בתחתונים. והשביעי שבת ליי כי בו שבת מכל מלאכתו שהרי מן הששי ואילך לא נתפשטו הכוחות להוסיף ענין ולא לברא חדשה. וטעם וביום השביעי שבת וינפש. יכול אף מן הדין ת"ל וינפש מגיד שאין הדין בטל מלפניו לעולם הה"ד צדק ומשפט וכו'. ומספר ימי השבוע בעניין הזה אינן כסדר הידוע ולכך אמרו מונה שבעה ושובת לפי שכל אחד נקרא שביעי לעניין. וארז"ל נובלת העולם הבא שבת וזהו סוד את שבתותי תשמורו שתי שבתות אחד כנגד זכור ואחד כנגד שמור. שכן כתי' איש אמו ואביו תיראו ואת שבתותי תשמורו.

את זה לעומת זה עשה תאלהים. ובבראשית דבא בכל מקום מקדים בבוד אב לאם וכאן הוא אומ' איש אמו ואביו תיראו ואת שבתותי תשמורו. מגיד ששניהם שקולין זה בזה. וזהו סוד אב אחד לכולנו ואל אחד בראנו. בא וראה היכל הקודש מקום שבעלי תשובה עומדים שם. והוא טעם השביעית שהוא זכר לשבת דכתי' ושבתה הארץ שבת ליי. והוא סוד שיהא אלפי שנין הוי עלמא ותד חרוב. ועוד בהגדה של שמעון התימני את ר' זעירא שמעתי עליך שאתה בקי בחדרי תורה שאילה אחת אנכי שואל לך. אמ' לו כמה שני העולם. א"ל ששת אלפים. אמ' לו מניין לך. | א"ל עט ע"א מפי' האותיות א' אחד וכו'. א"ל מן האותיות יש לך ולא ממקום אחר. אל משמות שבעה רקיעים ושמות שבעה ארצות וכו' כדאיתא התם.

ישת חשך סתרו. והטעם לפי שהחכמה שהיא אור נמצאת מאין שהוא העדר האור דכתי' והחכמה מאין תמצא. ואין זה דרך שאלה אלא להודיע מקום מוצאה. וכן מה שאמ' אי זה מקום בינה ר"ל האל"ף שהיא ראש הכתרים ותחלת כל האותיות והיו"ד שהיא החכמה זה מקום בינה והיא יו"ד שבשם ושנייה לה בינה. ובמדרשו של ר' נחוניא בן הקנה אמ' ר' אמורא מאי דכתי' יי איש מלחמה יי שמו. אמ' ליה רב רחמאי לא תבעי ליה מלתא פשיטא שמעלי ואנא אמלכינך. משל למלך שהיו לו ד' דירות נאות ושם לכל אחת ואחת שם וזו טובה מזו. אתן זו לבני ששמה אל"ף גם זו טובה ששמה יו"ד וגם זו טובה ששמה שי"ן. מה עשה אספם כולם ועשה מהם בית אחד. א"ל תסתום דבריך. א"ל בני אל"ף ראש יו"ד שיני לו שי"ן כולל כל העולם מפני שכתו' בו תשובה.ע"כ לש' המדרש וישמע חכם ויוסף לקח.

וקבלתי בצורות הנקודות והאותיות דברים עמוקים ודיעות פנימיות מורות על הכתרים הפנימיים בצורתם. והנקודות ג"כ מעידות עליהם בכוונתם ורומזות עוד על הנבדלים הנאצלים מהם בשמותם איש

על דגלו באותות מעידים על פעולתם ומודיעים מקום אצילותם. ואל יקשה מאמרי הקודם שהנקודות בנשמה לאותיות כי כן הדבר ואין דברי סותרים זה את זה שאי איפשר להשיג כח האותיות אלא על ידי הנקודות לפי שהאותיות פנימיות נעלמות יושבות על מלאת שוקטות. ועל ידי כח הנקודות תנועתן והם גופן מרכבותן ובהם נראה כח פעולתן והם ככלי ארמנותן*.

בא וראה שהנקודות לעולם למטה מן האותיות ואם אין השורק למטה אינו גם למעלה. ולעולם נגרר אחרי הוא"ו שהיא עמוד האמצעי והנה גם הוא באמצע. אמנם נקודה אחת קטנה דקה מן הדקות נעלמת עליונה היא עלתה על כולנה הוא חזיון לאיש משכיל להורות על יחיד | אחד ומיוחד ממציא את כולם נשגב מכל מחשבה. ומכל רעיון נעלם עס ע"ב עליון על כל העליונים. הוא אלהי האלהים ואדוני האדונים. סבת כל נעלם ראש כל תחלה קץ לכל תכלה ומרומם על כל ברכה ותהלה. וא"ת בלבך והלא התאנין למעלה מן האותיות ידוע תדע כי אע"פ שהם למעלה אין מעלתן כמעלת האתיות אבל הם כעס' על ראש המלך מטכסיסי המלכות וטפלה היא למלך. ומכל מקום התאנין דברים נפלאים חיצונים רומזים למציאות רוחניים עליונים. ובשם הרב ר' אלחנן מקותיל* ראיתי כתו' וזהו לשונו מסורת בידינו מזקינים קדמונים כי הנקודה עולם התנועה המעורר עולם האותיות כמלך המעורר עם גדוליו וחיילותיו והכתרים הם סימני המלכים המוכתרים בכתרי המלכות. עד כאן לשונו.

ארז"ל ויקראו בספר תורת האלהים. זהו מקרא. מפרש אלו הם דברים עמוקים וארוכים אחר סוד האותיות והנקודות נמשכים. ראה גם ראה כי כולם כנושאי כלי קרב ומוכנים למלחמה ערוכה בחנית וכידון ובקשת דרוכה. קצת צורתם זו מזו משונות ותנועתם על דרך הסוד מותקנות מהם מורידים ומהם מעלים מהם מרימים ומהם משפילים מהם רצים ומהם שוכבים מהם נוסעים ומהם חונים מהם רודפים מהם זקופים ומהם כפופים מהם פניהם איש אל אחו פונים ומהם הפכו עורף ולא פנים. ולא מצינו להם בכל פסוקי התורה סדר ידוע ומשמרה סדורה כי האחרון ראשון לפעמים ופעמים הראשון אחרון כסדר הנלחמים פעם נהדף ופעם הודף. אבל אי איפשר להם בלא סדר קבוע לחכמי הלב אשר יגיעו למצא דברי חפץ ודרשו וחקרו ושאלו היטב הם אמרו כי כלם רומזים למערכות צבאות עליונים נעלמים מודיעים את אשר יקרא אתכם באחרית הימים בהיות נכון הר בית יי כאשר בתחלה. כי עתה בעונותינו גברה ועברה רוח קנאה עד בוא עת

רצון ותזריע אור זרוע לצדיק. אבן הנגרש ממקום חפצו הרובץ תחת משא המקעיע* הרביעי ישב בדד וידום עוד ישוב בעזרת זוקף כפופים ויורידו לארץ וישבור עולו מעל צוארו עד יקרא בגרון לגדל שכרו ויתגברו שני הנגרשים על שני המגרשים ויינקו שפע ימים מאצילות ימין ושמאל שהם שני טעמים ויזרוק מים טהורים ממהר קץ פדות וקול השופר הולך וחזק לאסוף שלש נקודות הכסף לסגולה אחת ויקבץ פזורי מעלה ומטה מבין העמים. וגם לדעת בעלי התכונה גלגל השמש הוא האמצעי | שבשבעה פ ע"א כוכבי לכת כנגד שבעה קני מנורה שלשה מצדה האחד ושלשה מצדה השני. ארז"ל עשרה גלגלים הם ועשרה מאמרות הם כל גלגל יש לו מאמ' אחד לא שהוא סובב בו אלא שהוא מסבבו . וזה צריך ביאור רחב לסדר ערך י' הגלגלים לעשרת מאמרות כי הוא נאחז בסבכי חכמת התכונה ואין כוונתינו עתה להרחיב פה ולהאריך בו לשון שאין זה מקומו ולפי שגם הם נחלקו בסדרן ובמספרן.

ולשמש שם אהל בהם. כבר זכרנו כי השמים האלו נמשלו לשמש לתוקף אורם ונוגה זרחם. כי שמש ומגן יי צבאות הוא הוא שמש צדקה ומרפא. ולא עוד אלא שנם אור השמש המורגש הוא מכח אותו האור הבהיר העליון הצח והמצוחצח שעליו נאמ' עוטה אור כשלמה. וגם בהתחלתו ממנו על ידי אמצעיים אם מעט ואם הרבה כי אי איפשר לומ' שהשמש הזאת שהוא נוף מורגש לחוש העין בראות ולחוש המשוש בחום שתהיה היא מאירה מעצמה ושבחה והתחלתה ממנה ושאין לה התחלה אחרת רוחנית חוץ ממנה ושהיא פועלת מעצמה חלילה חלילה אלא על כל פנים יש לה התחלה אחרת שממנה מקבלת שפע בלי הפסק שהרי אף תנועתה הכרחית הפך הטבעית. וגם כן הארץ הנזכרת מקבלת מן השמים הנזכרים על ידי הצינור האמצעי הנאמ' עליו כי כל בשמים ובארץ. ואמרו שם אהל בהם ר"ל שבהם התחלת כל אורה של מטה. וארז"ל נובלת אורה שלמעלה גלגל חמה. וכנגדה נובלת חכמה שלמעלה תורה. הכוונה חכמה האחרונה תורה שבעל פה. ואם נאמ' חכמה ראשונה תהיה תורה שבכתב. ואהל מל' יהילו אורם. וכתי' בהילו נרו עלי ראשי. וגדולה מזו אמרו בעלי הקבלה שהם התחלת מניין השביעית בקצת ענייניס אע"פ שהיא הששית כמו שרמזנו למעלה והיא נר אמצעי שבמנורה שממנו ששה קנים וכולם מקשה אחת. ונקודה זו נקראה ראש ועליה נא' ראש דברך אמת. וזהו סוד מה שארז"ל מניין שהב"ה מניח תפלין וכו' ובתפלין

שבראש ארבע פרשיות כנגד חיות המרכבה העליונה והפרשיות יודיעו עניינם ודוגמתם למעלה ראש. ועל כן הוצרך לכתו' בעניין התפלין פארך תבוש עליך אלו הן התפלין והמשכיל יבין. ואם יש דעות חלוקות במניח בראש זה נאה לדרוש. על זה נא' ראשו כתם פז שהוא פני זקן פ"ז אע"פ שמצאו בו המעתיקים רמז לשד החכמה. וארז"ל זקן זה שקנה חכמה. ומה שאמ' קווצותיו תלתלים שחורות כעורב לפי שמה שלמעלה מן הראש היא אש שחורה ולפי שלא נגש | דניאל אל הערפל אשר פ ע"ב שם האלהים ר"ל מדת הדין של מעלה אמ' ושער רישיה כעמר נקי. וכתי' קווצותיו תלתלים שחורות וכו'. לא קשיא כאן בישיבה כאן במלחמה שאין נאה בישיבה אלא זקן ואין לך נאה במלחמה אלא בחור עד כאן. ובבראשית רבה כתי' ואברהם זקן בא בימים. א"ל הב"ה אני אומנותי גמילות חסדים תפוש אומנותי ולבש לבושי ההי"ד ואברהם זקן וכו'. ובמכילתא דר' שמעון בן יוחאי יי איש מלחמה יי שמו. לפי שכשנגלה הקב"ה על הים נראה להם כבחור עושה מלחמה ההי"ד יי שמו. נגלה להם בסיני כזקן מלא רחמים שלא ליתן פתחון פה לומ' שתי רשויות יש בשמים אלא יי איש מלחמה יי שמו. ע"כ.

ומשוש תתן על כלה. כי הוא החתן המכהן פאר והמפאיר בית תפארתו שבו הכלה הכלולה בתו של אברהם אבי' ע"ה. ובמדרש ויהי ביום כלת משה להקים את המשכן. כלת כתי'. אמ' ר' לוי ביומא דעלת כלתא לגנונא וכו'. ועוד שם כתי' באתי לגני אחותי כלה. ר' מנחם חתניה דר' אלעזר בשם ר' שמעון בן יוסינא באתי לגן אין כתי' כאן אלא באתי לגני לגנוני למקום שהיה עיקרי מתחלה. ובפסיקתא עוד כתי' ביום חתונתו חתונים היו. וביום שמחה לבו זהו אהל מועד. ראיתי בתרגום ירושלמי ליהודים היתה אורה ושמחה וכו' ליהודאי הות רשותא למעסק באוריתא ולמטר שבתא ומועדיא ולמגזר ערלת בשריהון ולאחתא תפלין על ידיהון ועל ראשיהון.

תיבות נפלאות אלו שהם עט' תפ' שיבה צדקה ר"ל שאם יהלך אדם בדרך צדקה ויתנהג באותה מדה כראוי יזכה לעטרת התפא' והשיבה אבל לא לתפ' עצמה שלא זכה לכך אלא רבן של כל הנביאים. ורז"ל אמ' בבראשי' רבה על יאמר נא ישראל. ויושב תהלות ישראל. ישראל סבא. ועוד אמרו וידר ישראל נדר וידרץ ישראל אין כתי' כאן אלא וידר ישראל. ישראל סבא.ועוד שם נאמ' יצחק נקרא ישראל ואלה שמות בני ישראל הבאים מצרימה יעקב ובניו. יעקב נקרא ישראל כתי' לא | יעקב פא ע"א יאמר עוד שמך כי אם ישראל וכו'. אברהם נקרא ישראל. אמ' ר' נתן מלתא עמיקתא הוא ומושב בני ישראל אשר ישבו במצרים. בא ללמד שהאבות הן הן במרכבה. וכן אמז"ל ותקרא את שמו שמואל כי מיי שאלתיו. שמואל שאול מיביעי ליה. אלא חנה סבתא קריא ליה שמואל והמשכיל יבין וידום ליי . ובמדרש תלים כך אמ' דוד ע"ה אם אתה עונה מושב ואם לאו אני קורא.

איש איש כי יהיה טמא לנפש או בדרך רחוקה. זש"ה מקצה השמים מוצאו. היא החופה הנזכרת שממנה יצא החתן והוא הקצה הראשון תכלית מה שהמחשבה יכולה להגיע אליו כי מה שלמעלה מן החכמה הם מים שאין להם סוף ותכלה והוא נחיב לא ידעו עיט. ולא יגיע אליו שום שכל ואין שום מחשבה והרהור בנופשין בו. ועוד שיש מחשבה לפנים מן מחשבה על כן נאמ' כי לא מחשבותי מחשבותיכם ולא דרכיכם דרכי. וארז"ל מקצה השמים ועד קצה השמים אתה שואל ואי אתה שואל מה למעלה וכו'. ותקופתו על קצותם. וזהו המזל מה שזכרנו למעלה שהוא מסובב ומקיף מראש ועד סוף פעמים נחשב ראשון ופעמים שלישי ופעמים ששי ופעמים אמצעי הכל לפי המקום ולפי העניין המכוון. וארז"ל במדרשו של ר' נחוניא בן הקנה משל למלך שהיו לו שבעה בנים ושם לכל אחד ואחד מקומו אמ' להם שבו זה על גב זה. אמ' התחתון אני לא אשב למטה ולא אתרחק ממך. אמ' להם הריני מסובב ורואה אתכם כל היום והינו דכתי' מלא כל הארץ כבודו. ע"כ. וטעם קצותם שש קצוות מקום הנזכר בספר היצירה השביעי המקיף.

והאיש אשר הוא טהור ובדרך וכו'. ואצ"ל כי עניין הנפשות סודן גדול מאד מאד מי ידעם ועמוק עמוק מי ימצאם. ואזכיר ממנו מעט מהרבה מהנאות לפסוק הזה בלבד ונחלקו בה קצת אנשי הקבלה מקצתם אמרו שיסוד נפש ומכונה מן האלהים אשר נתנה ובהפרדה מן הגוף תשוב וארז"ל אי בעו צדיקי ברוא עלמא דהא רבא ברא גברא ושדריה לקמיה דר׳ זירא. הוה קא משתעי בהדיה ולא אהדר ליה כו׳ ובבראשי׳ רבא ויצא יעקב מבאר שבע וכו׳. ר׳ יודן אמ׳ מבארה של שבועה שלא יעמוד לפני אבימלך ויאמר השבעה לי כמו שנשבע זקינך ונמצאתי משהה בני שבעה דורות. ר׳ הונא אמ׳ מבארה של בכורה. אמ׳ שלא יעמוד עלי עשו ויאמר לי כך היית מרמה ונוטל את בכורתי ונמצאתי מאבד אותה השבועה. ר׳ ברכיה אמ׳ בחדש השביעי וכו׳. הוה קארי ירחא דשבועה שבו נשבע הב"ה לאברהם אבי׳ ע"ה ויאמר בי נשבעתי נאם יי כי יען וכו׳.

ונשוב לענין הנפש ונאמ׳ כי האומרים שהיא מיסוד הבינה גוזרים שתשובתה הרמתה על מכונתה. ובמעשים זכתה כל אחת ואחת לפי מעלתה התקרב אל מקום אצילותיה עד שתגיע לכסא הכבוד העליון שבעליונים על ידי תשובה ומעשים טובים והגונים. כמאמרם דז"ל גדולה תשובה שמגיעת עד כסא הכבוד שנא׳ שובה ישראל עד יי אלהיך וכו׳. והוא צרור החיים שנא׳ עליו והיתה נפש אדוני צרורה בצרור החיים את יי אלהיך. אע"פ שכל אחד ואחד מכונה צרור החיים על פי דעתו ולפי כוונתו אל אשר יהיה שמה הרוח ללכת ונראה בה לרמוז כי התורה שהיא החכמה תשיב הנפש למקום ואל צור חוצבה בין לדברי מר בין לדברי מר אע"פ שדברי ספר הבהיר מכריעין הדעת האחדונה. ובמכילתא והנכם היום ככוכבי השמים לרוב. הרי אתם קיימים כיום. מכאן ארז"ל שבע כתות של צדיקים בגן עדן מעלה על מעלה. על כת הראשונה כתי׳ אך צדיקים יודו לשמך. ועל השנייה כתי׳ אשרי תבחר ותקרב ישכון חצריך. על השלישית כתי׳ אשרי יושבי ביתך. ועל הרביעית כתי׳ יי מי יגור באהליך. ועל החמישית כתי׳ ומי ישכון בהר קדשך. על הששית כתי׳ מי יעלה בהר יי. ועל השביעית כתי׳ ומי יקום במקום קדשו. ובמכילתא אמ׳ כל קדושיו בידיך.

אלו נפשות של הצדיקים שנתונות עמו באוצר שנא׳ והיתה נפש אדוני צרורה בצרור החיים וכו׳. ואמרו המקובלים הקדמונים אשר היו לפנים קבלה בידם מפי ישישים וזקינים אנשים חכמים ונבונים מסרוה אבות לבנים ובניהם לבניהם ובניהם לדור אחר כי שלשת אוצרות הם רוחניים נגנזים וסתומים חותם בתוך חותם דשתי אותיות חתומים העליון אוצר הנשמות השכליות ה"ד רוח דעת ויראת יי. אוצר השני הוא תפ׳. אוצר השלישית היא אוצר הנפשות התורניות כדא׳ אשר לא נשא לשוא נפשו. נפשו כתי׳ לסוד | נעלם. שם האוצר השלישי נרשם בפסוק כי נחם יי ציון. הכל בצירוף אותיות אשר חכמים הקדמונים יבינו לצרפם. פב ע"א

וגם נוכל לפרש במה שארז"ל גדולה תשובה שמגיעת עד כסא הכבוד שהוא על ידי תשובה ממש. כי המיתה ממריקת כמו שארז"ל על ידי התשובה תתמרק הנפש במיתה ותשוב אל אישה הראשון נקייה וטהורה אחרי אשר הוטמאה והלכה והיתה לאיש אחר והיתה מנוחתה כבוד זה הוא שמובטח לו שהוא בן העולם הבא. על כן וחשב מחשבות לבלתי ידח ממנו נדח על ידי תשובה וסליחה ואז יכלו כל הנשמות שבגוף. ולמה ארז"ל במקום שבעלי השובה עומדין אין צדיקים גמורים עומדים. וזהו סוד מופלא ומכוסה. כבר רמזנו אותו בענין סוד צדיק ורע לו רשע וטוב לו. ושלמה המ׳ ע"ה פי׳ הענין בפסוק מלא בספר קהלת והמשכיל ימצאנו ואיש תבונות ידלנו מבלי שיפסק משיחה למשיחה וחבל לחבל כי אחריתו הבל. הוא סוד המים הגגרים ארצה אשר לא יאספו. ומשם יפרד סוד היבום הנקרא בניין שהוא דוחה איסור אשת אח. וכבר ארז"ל שהיא מצוה שקיים אותה יהודה בן יעקב ע"ה ה"ד בא אל אשת אחיך וכו׳. ובעניין בועז נאמ׳ לנעמי והיה לך למשיב נפש ושם כתי׳ יולד בן לנעמי לפי שנשאה כלתה אחד מקרובי בעלה הרחוקים שנא׳ עליו ולנעמי מודע לאישה. כל שכן אלו נשאה אחד מן הקרובים כל שכן וכ"ש אחד מן האחים שהיא מצוה מן התורה באחי האב ולא באחי האם שמשפחת אם אינה קרויה משפחה ולכך אינו דוחה איסור אשת אח לפי שכח הזכר מן הזכר וכח הבן מכח האב ועל כן אשה מזרעת תחלה יולדת זכר. וכן ארז"ל שאביו מזריע לובן ואמו אודם וכן הדין לפי קבלתם מדונמתם. ועל כן נאמ׳ כרחם אב על בנים רחם יי וכו׳. וכתי׳ כאיש אשר אמו תנחמנו כן אנכי אנחמכם וכו׳. ובבראשית רבה כרחם אב על בנים. תני ר׳ חייא כרחמן שבאבות ה"ד והוא עבר לפניהם וכו׳. ובאחים רמז לזולתם דכתי׳ כי אנשים

אחים אנחנו. וכתי׳ אח לצרה וכו׳. וכתי׳ אשר לא אחיך הוא. ועל כן נאמ׳ קרוב לנו האיש מגואלינו הוא. וראה כי אשת סריס אינה זקוקה ליבם לפי ששמו מחוי עליו הכתו׳ אומ׳ ואל יאמר הסריס הן אני עץ יבש. וכתיב ונתתי להם בביתי ובחומותי יד ושם טוב מבנים ומבנות. ואונן יוכיח דכתי׳ ביה וידע אונן כי לא לו יהיה הזרע. מה שלא נאמ׳ כך בעֵר. אלא אונן הוא שידע ידיעה ברורה במיתת ער אחיו מפני שהיה אונן עושה מעשה כמו אחיו וימת גם אותו. הוקשו שניהם במיתה ובמעשה. ובאלה הדברים רבה. ככה יעשה לאיש אשר לא יבנה את בית אחיו. ר׳ אליעזר אומ׳ אשר לא בנה ולא עתיד לבנות. ע"כ | ארז"ל פב ע"ב לסוד נעלם בית אחד הוא בונה ואינו בונה שתי בתים ונקרא חלוץ הנעל כי הלץ מהם. והבן כל זה היטב. וביבמות שנינו אמ׳ ר׳ יהושע שמעתי שהסריס חולץ וחולצין לאשתו ואין לי לפרשה. אמ׳ ר׳ עקיבא אני אפרש סריס אדם חולץ וחולצין לאשתו שהיתה לו שעת הכושר. סריס חמה לא חולץ ולא חולצין לאשתו שלא היתה לו שעת הכושר. ועתה תן לבך לכל הדברים אשר דברו שהרי ר׳ יהושע לא רצה לפרש הסוד ובא ר׳ עקיבא ופי׳ הטעם בענין קצר ובזה נרשם סוד שינוי הכריתות הכתובים בתורה. ונכרתה הנפש ההיא מלפני. ועוד כתי׳ והאבדתי את הנפש ההיא. והכרתי הנפש ההיא. הכרת תכרת הנפש ההיא. ובמכילתא דר׳ שמעון בן יוחאי ונכרתה אין הכרתה אלא הפסקה מקרב עמה. והבן כל אלו הענייניס מאד.

וביום הקים את המשכן כסה הענן וכו׳. כתי׳ פקודי יי ישרים משמחי לב. הם המצות שנצטוה בהם משה ר׳ ע"ה פנים אל פנים ופה אל פה. היא תורה שבעל פה. והיא נקראת שמחה ה"ד שובע שמחות את פניך. הם הפנים שנא׳ בהם לא יהיה לך אלהים אחרים על פני. ובאלה הדבריס רבה ויאמר אסחירה פני מהם וכו׳ הריני מסלק שכינתי מבינהון וכו׳. ובמכילתא דר׳ שמעון לא יהיה לך אלהים אחרים וכו׳ על פני אחרים באחרונה נעשו וכן הוא או׳ חדשים מקרוב באו. ד"א אחרים שמאחרים את הטובה מלבוא לעולם. על פני . מלמד שמביאין אף לעולם. למה נקרא שמם אלהים אחרים. לאחרון שבמעשים. שמי שהוא אחרון במעשים קראן אלוהות. וזהו סוד וכבודי לאחר לא אתן וכו׳. וסוד לא תשתחוה לאל אחר. ואלהי נכר הארץ. ולכך ארז"ל אנכי ולא יהיה לך מפי הגבורה שמענום.

וגם ראיתי לאחד מחכמי הקבלה כי כל דבור מן השמים וכל אמירה מן הארץ. ואומ׳ אני לפי דעתי אולי יהיה עניין זה במשה ר׳ ע"ה בלבד ה"ד ויאמר יי אל משה וכו׳. וסוד פנים ואחור גדול ונורא מאד עליו ארז"ל במסיכת חגיגה בשלמא מה למעלה ומה למטה מה לאחור אלא מה לפנים מאי דהוה הוה ר׳ יוחנן ור׳ אלעזר דאמרי תרוויהו משל למלך בשר ודם שאמ׳ לעבדיו תבנו לי פלטרין גדולים על האשפה הללו. והלכו ובנו. אין דצונו של מלך שיאמרו לו שם אשפה. ע"כ. ומי שחם על כבוד קונו ישכיל וידום ובמתג ורסן עדיו לבלום.

ועניין לב הוא לב השמים הנזכרים למעלה. ארז"ל זה יתנו כל העובר על הפקודים. כל העובר על המצות הנקראים פקודים. והטעם כי הרגום פיקודי יי. פיקודיא דיי ואלו ואלו דברי אלהים חיים. ולפי שהתורה שבעל פה היא בת זוג ללב שהוא צדיק כתמר יפרח אמ׳ משמחי לב. כלו׳ לב הלולב והוא לב האילן הנטוע בגן. | ודעת פג ע"א הרב ר׳ משה בר נחמן ז"ל שהלולב כנגד חוט השדרה שהוא קו האמצעי באדם שממנו מתפשטים הענפים לכאן ולכאן. וסוד הלב לא נתן להדרש כי גדולים חקרי לב ופלגי מים לב מלך ביד יי. ובבראשית רבה ויתעצב אל לבו. אמ׳ ר׳ ברכיה משל למלך שבנה פלטרין על ידי הדריכל. ראה אוחה ולא ערבה לו. על מי לו להתרעם לא על הדריכל ה"ד ויתעצב אל לבו. אמ׳ ר׳ אסי משל למלך שעשה סחורה על ידי סרסור והפסיד. על מי לו להתרעם לא על הסרסור ה"ד ויתעצב אל לבו. והמשכיל יתבונן לדרוש ולתור בסוד הדריכל והסרסור. אמ׳ ר׳ יודן גדול כוחן של נביאים שהם מדמים את הצורה ליוצרה. כתי׳ גם בלילה לא שכב לבו מלהביא פורענות על המצריים ביום ופורענות בלילה שנא׳ ויהי בחצי הלילה ויי הכה כל בכור וכו׳. ד"א כי כל ימיו מכאובים אלו הסדומיים. גם בלילה לא שכב לבו. זהו הב"ה מלהביא עליהם פורענות שנא׳ ויי המטיר על סדום. ובמדרשו של ר׳ נחוניא בן הקנה אמ׳ ר׳ רחמאי כבוד ולב הרי הם אחד ונקרא כבוד על שם פעולת מטה והיינו כבוד השם והיינו לב השמים . והתבונן כי כבוד ולב עולין במספר אחד ועל כן אמ׳ הרי הם אחד והם שנים ועשרים אותיות ועשרה מאמרות והכל אחד ונכלל בלב.

ואולם ראוי להעיר ולעורר כי עניין זה הוא סוד מצות לולב ואתרוג והדס וערבה שהם ארבעה מינים. ופי׳ לולב לו לב. וארז"ל לו מסור ללב. ר"ל ל"ב נתי׳ פליאות חכמה שהם כנגד כנפי החיות ופני

החיות הנא' בהם וארבעה פנים לאחת וארבע כנפים וכו'. והמדקדקים במרכבת יחזקאל ע"ה הגדילו והוסיפו במספר כנפי החיות עד מספר רנ"ו ליעקב שמחה שכן נא' לאחת להם.

ואצ"ל מל"ב נתי' נאצלו י"ש עולמות הנאמר בהם להנחיל אוהבי יש. מן השלשים נאצלו שלש מאות על סדר אותיות אי"ק והשנים לשמע אוזן נשמעו ועקבותם לא נודעו. ועשרה שהם תל יסוד בנין לשלום המבין* ואלו י"ש עולמות הם מתפשטים מן עולם החכמה אל מדת החסד שהיא נקראת פסח שני והבין כל אלו העניינים כהוגן.

ויש אשר יהיה הענן מערב עד בקר ונעלה הענן בבקר ונסעו וכו'. ואצ"ל כי י"ש עולמות נאצלו מאצילות שלשים. ועניין זה צריך פי' רחב וביאור ארוך אבל הם כנגד החיות ופניהם וכנפיהם וזהו לש' רז"ל עליהם שלשה שרים הם תלי גלגל ולב וכל אחד מהם שנים עשר פקידים ובהם העולם מתקיים היינו דכתי' וצדיק יסוד עולם. ע"כ. וזהו סוד שבטי יה עדות לישראל. י"ב שבטי יה וקבלנו שמותם והם בתלי כנגד ווי העמוד האמצעי ואלף חוק מכריע כנגד האב. וקבלנו בשם רבי' האי גאון שהם נפעלות מעשר מעלות פועלות משלש גנוזות ראשי ראשים מאורי אור וקודש הקודשים. | ויש מן המקובלים שאומרים פג ע"ב כי שלש מעלות למטה מן הכסא נאצלו מאצילות רוחני אחד קדוש מתיחד במלכות ומעצם בו. קבלנו שמותם ונרמזו בנועם יי על כן נאמר בתורה דרכיה דרכי נועם ובדריהם כולם דברי אלהים חיים. ודעת הרב ר' משה בר נחמן ז"ל שהעשר נפעלות לשלש הראשונות לפי מה שכתב בפי' ההורה. ומצאתי סמך לדבריו במדרש תלים בפרשת י"ג מדות. א"ר סימון י"ג מדות בהב"ה יי יי אל רחום וחנון וכו'. רב אמ' אחת עשרה. ורבנן אמרי' עשר. ועל אי זה מהם השתחוה. רב אמ' על החסד שנא' וימהר משה ויקד ארצה וישתחו. ר' אליעזר בן יעקב אומ' על ארך אפים. רבנן אמרי על מדת רחמים. והמשכיל יבין סוד מחלוקת החכמים ואם תשכיל ותבין הפרש אזי הבין ההבדלים שבדבריהם. והחכם המקובל הרב ר' אשר ז"ל פירש פי' ארוך בסוד י"ג מדות ומשם יראנו המסתכל בספרו וכל הדברים יגיעים ואולי בחכמתו העלים ממנו ודבש והלב תחת לשונו.

ואצ"ל יש לגלגל י"ב פקידים והוא היסוד ונקרא גלגל לפי שבו מתגלגלים ל"ב כחות וגם כן לל"ב ונקרא לב ים כי הוא מקוה כל

המים הקדושים משם יפרד והיה לארבעה ראשים.

בא וראה כי לולב בימין עם הדם וערבה ואתרוג בשמאל וכי אתרוג אינו נקשר באגודה אע"פ מעכב ולפי' אם נטלה פטומתו שממנו יונק פסול לפי שדומה לקצוץ. וארז"ל פרי עץ הדר זהו הב"ה דכתי' בו הוד והדר לפניו. כפות תמרים זה הב"ה דכתי' צדיק כתמר יפרח. וענף עץ עבות זהו הב"ה דכתי' והוא עומד בין ההדסים. וערבי נחל זהו הב"ה דכתי' סולו לרוכב בערבות ביה שמו. ולולב כנגד זכור. ואתרוג כנגד שמור. והם שלשה הדסים כנגד שלשה כתרים אשר במצולה שהוא ים החכמה העליונה והוא הים הקדמוני והוא על גבי שבעה. ושתי ערבות כנגד זרועות עולם שהם הנחלים ההולכים אל הים. כי הארץ דומה לתכלת. ונקראים ערבה לפי שהם מתערבים זה בזה ועל כן נתייחדו בנחל. ולולב אחד כנגד צדיק אחד ואין לו שיעור למעלה והיינו כתי' ותכליתן אין להם סוף ויש לו שיעור למטה כי קץ שם לחשך והיינו שיעור קומה היינו דכתי' זאת קומתך דמתה לתמר וכו'. וארז"ל שתמר יש בו כח זכר וכח נקבה כלו' הוא משפיע ומקבל. ואתרוג היא נקבה ג"כ אחת לפי שאינה משפעת כיוצא בה אלא דרך גלגולה הנעלם וסבובה הנפלא כי הנקבה תסובב גבר. וראיתי בפסיקתא דר' ברני עקרה. תני ר' אליעזר בן יעקב עתידה ירושלם להיות רמה ועולה עד שתהיא מגעת לכסא הכבוד ואומרת להב"ה גשה לי ואשובה. ע"כ. והוא סוד פנימיות השפע וההמשכה וזהו יסוד היחוד ועל כן ארז"ל שדומה ללב שהלב משקה כל האיברים וזהו סוד | זכר פד ע"א ונקבה בראם. והזכיר הכתו' פרי עץ הדר בענין פרי עץ הדר* טוב ורע. וסמך לו כפות תמרים שהוא על גב האתרוג והקדים שנים אלו על עץ עבות וערבי נחל לפי שהם קרובים לו. ויש מפרשים כי עניין שלשה הדסים כנגד הראש ושתי זרועות עולם. ושתי ערבות כנגד הזיתים. ואחרים אומ' כי שלשה הדסים כנגד השמים העליונים. ומה שארז"ל במדרשו של ר' נחוניא בן הקנה על שם המקום שהם קבועים בו ששמו נחל דכתי' כל הנחלים הולכים אל הים וכו'. ומאי ניהו ים הוי אומ' זה אתרוג. ומנ' לן דכולהו אקרי נחל דכתי' וממתנה נחליאל אל תקדי נחליאל אלא נחל אל. ועוד ארז"ל מאי ממתנה ממקום שניתן היינו המוח הקדוש והמשכיל יתעורר כי המוח הוא מקום המחשבה והבן זה מאד.

עשה לך שתי חצוצרות כסף מקשה תעשה אותם וכו'. ובמכילתא למה היו של כסף כדי לעורר צד החסד שהוא צד הכסף שהוא רחמים

כדי שיסעו ברחמים ה"ד לי הכסף. ועוד ארז"ל שלשה נקראו נחל. התורה וארץ ישראל וישראל. התורה דכתי' וממתנה נחליאל. ארץ ישראל דכתי' בהר נחלתך. ישראל דכתי' והם עמך ונחלתך.

כתי' מצות יי ברה מאירת עינים. שתוסיף אור על אור הטבעי להסתכל ולדעת במה שאין העין שולטת כנגד* מצוה ותורה אור. ויש לפרש מצות יי שהיא תורה שבעל פה. מאירת עינים שבעה עיני יי המה משוטטות בכל הארץ. ובבראשית רבה כתי' ויהי כי זקן יצחק ותכהין עיניו מראות. פי' שנסתלקה ממנו רוח הקודש הנקרא אור.

יראת יי טהורה. ואצ"ל כי עניין היראה ידוע כי הוא מחלקי הפחד והיא התורה והמצוה אשר כתבתי להורותם. והסוד אשה יראת יי היא תתהלל. ועל כן נבתב יראת יי טהורה היא חכמה אל"ף דל"ת ואולם ראוי לפרש כי יראת יי הנכתב יו"ד ה"א רמזאל ראשית החכמה העלונה ר"ל מה שלפניה באומ' ראשית חכמה יראת יי והיא הידועה באין סוף ונקראת יראה באמרם ז"ל בספר יצירה נעוץ סופן בתחלתן וכו'. וגם כן אמ' הנביא ע"ה אני ראשון ואני אחרון. ונקראים כתר ועט' ועל כן הבכור והעשירי קודש ליי. ובמדרשו של ר' נחוניא בן הקנה שאלו לו תלמידיו לר' אלעזר רבינו מאי קדש לי כל בכור. אלא שנתקדש בקדש וכו'. וגם כן נקראת חכמה כי יראת יי חכמה אמ' כי היראה העליונה טהורה וזכה עומדת ברום עולם לעדי עד ובקיומה יתקיימו כל ההויות הנמשכות ממנה מראש ועד סוף כי בהיות המעיין נובע תמיד והמקור מקור חיים ונוזלים מן לבנון וישבצו עצי יי וארזי לבנון אשר נטע בעדן מקדם ויתרבו הנטיעות כולם ויתקיימו לעולמי עד.

ואצ"ל כי עניין שתי חצוצרות רומזים לחכמה ולבינה לפי שהוא עולם הרחמים ועל זה הם למקרא העדה ולמסע את המחנות כי כל שפע עליונה מתקבצים ומתאספים | מהם עד עט' ישראל פד ע"ב שנקראת העדה והבן זה.

ובני אהרן הכהנים יתקעו בחצוצרות והיו לכם לחקת עולם וכו'. ובמדרשו של ר' נחוניא בן הקנה נאמ' משפטיך למלך תן וצדקתך וכו'. ואצ"ל כי שני משפטים הם החזק והרפה זש"ה החזק הוא הרפה. וצדקתך לבן מלך. וכללם באחת במלת אמת להודיע שאין פירוד ביניהם ושניהם נקראים צדק כמו שכתי' צדק צדק תרדוף. וכן נקראת מדת הדין האדמה הראשונה המיוחסת לעולם התבונה. צדק הוא מדת דינו של עולם. ועוד

אמרו שם מאי צדק. צדק ממש זו שכינה וכו'. וארז"ל האי צדק הוי צדקה או לאו. א"ל אלא צדק הוי כובע ישועה על ראשו ואין ראשו אלא אמת שנא' ראש דברך אמת. ואין אמת אלא שלום שנא' כי אם שלום ואמת יהיה בימי. ועתה ראה והתבונן כמה סודות נפלאים גלו לנו במאמר הזה ואיך הורו דרך היחוד השלם כי הצדק על הראש והאמת והשלום נקשרים זה בזה והכל אחד. וכתב הרב ר' משה בר נחמן ז"ל בפי' התורה הצור תמים פעלו כו' המשפט צדק והצור ישר אלו דבריו ז"ל ר"ל כי המשפט אינו דין מוחלט אלא דין בתוכו רחמים ועל כן אמ' משפטי יי אמת וכו'. ובסנהדרין אי"זהו משפט שהוא של שלום כלו' דבר הממוצע. ואולי באומרו צדק ומשפט מכון כסאך נתכוון לצדיק יסוד עולם שהוא המשפט. והחסד ואמת יקדמו פניך מבואר הוא למשכיל שהם קודמים לפניס ואין כל הפנים שוות. מאי כתי' אשרי העם יודעי תרועה וכו' רמז לפנים הנזכרים וזהו סוד יום תרועה יהיה לכם שכל באי עולם עוברין לפניו כבני מרון והוא יום הדין וכתי' ותרועת מלך בו. וכתי' הריעו לפני המלך יי. והיא תרועת מלחמה ומלחמה ליי כי הוא איש מלחמה. ועל כן תוקעין ומריעין. ותרועה לעולם פשוטה לפניה ופשוטה לאחריה כדי שיבבשו רחמיו את כעסו ויגולו רחמיו על מדותיו כמסודר בתפלת ראש השנה כי ימינו פשוטה לקבל שבים.

ואני קבלתי עניין נפלא בפנימיות והוא עניין נעלם מעיני רוב המקובלים ומקום אשר לא דרכה בו כף רגלם לפי שהוא נמשך משך חכמה אחרונה אל מקום תחת רגלי הכסא שנקרא הדום רגליו. אבל מה שנא' וערפל תחת רגליו. אחד הוא משלשה עניינים שבהם מתעלם החשמל הראשון כעניין שכתו' חשך ענן וערפל. והחשמל הוא היושב אצל הכסא תחת הרגלים העליונים לקבל הדבור היוצא מן הכבוד וכמה ערפלי טוהר ומיני מאורות נתן סביבות עוזו. ובמכילתא דר' שמעון ומשה נגש אל הערפל. יכול לערפל הפנימי או לערפל החיצון ת"ל אשר שם האלהים. אמור מעתה שתי חומות של ערפל היו שם והיה משה מהלך ביניהם עד שמגיע לערפל | הפנימי. ע"כ. ואל יחשוב אדם שכוונתי בכסא הזה לכבוד פה ע"א הנקרא כסא הכבוד. אין כוונתי כי אם לכסא שהכבוד האחרון יושב עליו הנמשל לאבן ספיר. וכבר אמרנו בתחילת דברינו זה כי יש כסא למעלה מכסא וכן נרמז בדניאל כרסייה שביבין דינור. עד די כרסוון רמיו שאינו פחות ממשלש מעלות. וכן אמ' יחזקאל ע"ה החשמל חשמל החשמלה שהם שלש מעלות משלש של שלש באצילות זו למעלה מזו וזו

לפנים מזו. ואל תאמר בלבבך החשמל הוא חשמל האחרון שהרי בתחלת נבואתו אמ' ומתוכה כעין החשמל. הוא הראשון בנבואה ואמצע בסדר. אמנם באתי להעיר לב מבקשי יי לדרוש ולתור בחכמה ולדעת סדרי האצילות הנאצל מן המעלות הקדושות למען לא יחסר מכם כי כל האצילות נמשך זה מזה בטבעות השלשלת ונקשר זה בזה כשלהבת הקשורה בגחלת.

עתה אשוב להשכילך בינה בפנימיות ענייני ראש השנה על פי כוונתינו הראשונה. עניין השופר ג"כ יש לו סוד כי כל השופרות כשרים חוץ משל פרה לפי שיש בו חללים הרבה והוא קרן. והתבונן במזמור הללו אל בקדשו שאמ' בחמישית בתקע שופר סמוך לרוב גדלו אע"פ שאינו כסדר אלא לפי שהדומה לו וקרוב אליו. ואמ' העשירית בצלצלי תרועה וסמיך ליה כל הנשמה תהלל יה וכו'. והוא סוד עלה אלהים בתרועה יי בקול שופר. ואתה בן אדם ראה בעיניך ובאזניך שמע שתקנו רז"ל עשרה קולות בשלשה סימנין שהם קשר"ק קש"ק קר"ק ותקנו עוד לתקוע שלשה פעמים כל סימן וסימן ועולה מספרם שלשים קולות שהם שלש עשריות רמז לעשיריות מחשביות ולעשיריות נבואות ולעשיריות תורניות הנכללים במספר שם בן ד' אותיות והם רמוזים בשלש יודי"ן שהורגלו כל ישראל לרשום בהם השם הגדול זו לפנים מזו או אחת על גבי שתים כזה הדוגמא ייי יי והוא הנכון ואין איש שם על לב מה טבם. והאמת כי שס גדול ונורא קדוש הוא. ועוד תשכיל ותדע שנהגו הותיקין לתקוע כל סימן וסימן בנשימה אחת לחבר את האהל להיות אחד. וארז"ל במסכת ראש השנה בפרק יום טוב אין פוחתין מעשרה מלכיות וכו'. הני עשרה כנגד מי. כנגד י' הלולים שאמ' דוד ע"ה בספר תלים. הלולא טובא איכא אלא הללוהו בתקע שופר הללוהו בצלצלי שמע וכו'. ויתבאר לך הסוד ממה שאמ' שם ר' יוחנן הפותח לא יפחות משבע ואם אמ' שלש יצא כנגד תורה נביאים וכתובים. ואמרי ליה כנגד כהנים לויים וישראל. וכבר רמזתי סודם למבין. ותורה היא אספקלריא המאירה. | נביאים פה ע"ב כנגד למודי יי שהם נצח והוד. וכתובים כנגד תורה שבעל פה. וסוד שבע ג"כ רמזתיו כבר ועוד יתבאר.

ואמ' משפטי יי אמת. זכר לדין הרפה בעניין מה שכתו' אמת מארץ תצמח. והאמת הוא השלום על כן נאמ' הנני נותן לו את בריתי שלום. וכתי' צדק ושלום נשקו. והברית הוא הברית הקשת הנתון בענן שהוא לאות ברית בין יי ובין הארץ הוא שאמ' הנביא ע"ה וחסדי מאתך

לא ימוש וברית שלומי לא המוט וכו'. והתבונן באומרו ברית שלומי ולא אמ' שלום בריתי כי השלום עיקר וקודם במעלה. ובמסכת עיטין אמ' ר' יוחנן לא כרת הב"ה ברית עם ישראל אלא בשביל תורה שבעל פה שנא' כי על פי הדברים האלה כרתי אתך ברית. אז"ל את קשתי דבר המוקש לו. והוא סוד בצלם אלהים הוא מראה דמות כבוד יי. ושלש גוונים יעידו. על כן אז"ל על המסתכל בקשת שלא חס על כבוד קונו וראוי הוא שלא בא לעולם.

אמרו במדרש שיר השירים הביאני המלך חדריו. אלו חדרי גן עדן מכאן הם אומ' כשם שגלגל חמה נתון באמצע הרקיע כך עץ החיים נתון באמצע גן עדן שהיה ר' יהודה אומ' בשם שהקיסטונית נתונה באמצע הסרקלין כך עץ החיים מכוון כנגד גלגל חמה. אחרים אומרי' עץ החיים הוא מהלך שבע שנים. ר' מאיר אומ' ארבע מאות שנה הוא עץ החיים כנגד גלגל חמה. מה גלגל חמה מהלך חמש מאות שנה אף עץ החיים מהלך חמש מאות שנה וכל פלגי מימי בראשית יוצאים מתחתיו. והסוד בזה והיה כעץ שתול על פלגי מים. עתה אשכילך ואורך סוד מחלקותן בדרך קצרה בעניין סתום הוי יודע כי כל האילן בכללו שורשו וגוף נקרא צרור החיים ועץ הדעת אחד מחלקיו. ולא עוד אלא שאמרו שלא גלה אותו לאדם ולא עתיד לגלותו ואמרו עליו אם על כבוד תולדותיו חס הב"ה על כבודו לא כ"ש והוא סוד מופלג שאין למעלה הימנו. וחכמי ז"ל אומ' נתכוונו לרשות הנקודה המיוחדת שבגללה נקרא עץ החיים. אחרים אמרו מהלך שבע שנים כנגד ימינו של אברהם. ור'מאיר אומ' מהלך ארבע מאות שנה כנגד ברית הקשת שנתן לנח איש צדיק. ור' יהודה אומ' מהלך ת"ק שנה כנגד דיוקנו של יעקב החקוקה בכסא הכבוד והוא אמצע טרקלין ואמצע הרקיע. ויש מפרשים מהלך ת"ק שנה חצי יומו של הב"ה. וזה היה חטאו של אדם הראשון שעקר הנטיעה הזאת מן הגן ואכל מפרי עץ הדעת טוב ורע שכן כחי' וחקח מפריו ותאכל ותחן גם לאישה. וארז"ל מאי דכחיב | אוהב פו ע"א יי שערי ציון מכל משכנות יעקב. משל לשני בני אדם אחד רגיל לעשות טובה ועשה טובה ואחד רגיל לעשות רעה ועשה רעה הה"ד אוהב יי שערי ציון. וגדולי חכמי הקבלה המעמיקים בטוב וברע מדקדקים ותולין חטאן של אדם וחוה ונחש הקדמוני באילן גבוה מה שאין האוזן יכולה לשמוע ואין הפה יכול לדבר ואין ראוי להרהר בו וכ"ש לרמוז אליו בשום רומז כלל אלא כבוד אלהים הסתר דבר כי היא דרך פליאה ונסתרה הוא. משל

לבת מלך שהריחה ציקי קדרה ועל כן אין אדם לפרש בה רשאי שהרי עבדיה הביאו לה בחשאי. ועוד ארז"ל נביאי אומות העולם אין הב"ה מדבר עמהם אלא בחצי דיבור שנא' ויקר אלהים אל בלעם. אבל נביאי ישראל בדיבור שלם ההי"ד ויקרא אל משה בל' קדושה בל' טהרה בלש' שמלאכי השרת מקלסין בו שנא' וקרא זה אל זה ואמר. ועל זה איש אשר רוח בו יתן אל לבו אם ירובעם טעה במקום הזה עצמו לפי הדברים הראשונים אולם היה חטאו להפך שהוא חבר לאיש משחית כמי שגזל אב ואם נמצא און לו ולא פנה למעלה שהרי עשה לו עגלי זהב. ויש אומ' שהפריד הימין מן השמאל כלו' אצבעות היד האחת מן השנית. והתבונן בעשותו עגל מזהב כי פני שור מהשמאל וכבר בארנו עניין הזהב. ואל תחשוב שעשה ירובעם שתי עגלי זהב לדעת שניות . אבל לפי שהצריך אותם בשני מקומות כמו שהוא מפורש במקומו. ואלו היה צריך לשלשה או לארבעה לא השיב ידו על כן נאמ' לעמוס ובית אל לא תוסיף עוד להנביא כי מקדש מלך הוא ובית ממלכה הוא והבן זה היטיב. וכן ארז"ל עליו שנא' כתבו על קרן השור אין לנו חלק ביי אלהי ישראל . ויש אומ' שעשה שני עגלי זהב לפי שנחלקה המלכות והמבין יבין.

וחטאן של דור המבול נתפרש בתורה ובדברי רז"ל בבראשית רבה ובכמה מקומות אמרו הסוד נשגב ונעלם נסתם ונחתם. וכן אתה מוציא בדור המבול שלא מרדו במקום אלא מתוך שובע שנא' בתיהם שלום מפחד וכו' אמרו שפה אחת גשמים היא אין אנו צריכין לה ואד יעלה מן הארץ. אמ' להם המקום ב"ה בטובה שהטבתי לכם אתם מתגאים לפני בה אני אפרע מכם ההי"ד ויהי הגשם על הארץ וכו' . ר' יוסי בן דורמסקית אמ' הם נתנו עיניהם עליונה ותחתונה כדי לעשות תאותם אף המקום פתח להם מעיינות עליונים ותחתונים כדי לאבדם שנא' ביום הזה נבקעו כל מעיינות תהום רבה וכו' . ובבראשית רבה כתי' עוד ישלחו כצאן עוליהם וכו' . ר' לוי אמ' לשלשת ימים היתה | אשתו של אחד מעוברת פו ע"ב ויולדת וכו' . א"ר לוי בערבייא צווחין לינוקא עוילא. ושעירים ירקדו שם. והמשכיל יבין.

אבל חטאן של דור הפלגה לא נתפרש בתורה והוא מעין חסאו של אדם הראשון לפי הדעת הראשונה. ומתוך עונשן יודע למשכיל חטאן כי לפי שחשבו לעשות להם שם ומגדל וחשבו להרום מגדל דוד ומרדו במגדל עוז שם יי וקצצו והפרידו עצי יי הפיצם השם הגדול על פני כל

הארץ מדה כנגד מדה. ובבראשית רבה ודברים אחדים. שאמרו דברים על שני אחדים על אחד היה אברהם. ועל יי שהוא אחד. ד"א ודברים אחדים. הם היו אוחדים מה שביד זה ביד זה והבן היטב.

ועוד יש לך לשאול למה בשביל זה נתחייבו שריפה כזאת שנשרפו נדב ואביהוא. ואם יעלה על דעתך בחטא קל כהוראה הזאת כיון שמצוה להביא מן ההדיוט. אלא י"ל על כל פנים כי גדול עונם מנשוא והמבין יתבונן באש זרה אשר לא צוה אותם ומלת עליה ומלפני יי והוא טעם בקרבתם לפני יי. ומעשה העגל שנא' בו כי שחת עמך ולא נא' נשחת כבר נודע על דעת אנשי הקבלה עניין ההשחתה שכן כתי' פן תשחיתון ועשיתם לכם פסל תמונת כל. ותמונת כל היא ההשחתה כי אי איפשר לעם חכם ונבון הגוי הגדול הזה ובהיות אהרן הכהן ע"ה מנהיגם שיעשו אלהי כסף ואלהי זהב אלא חשבו להמשיך כח עליון לילך עמהם ואשר יוציאם ואשר יביאם באומרם אשר ילכו לפנינו לא בשביל אשר נעבוד אותו. ועשאוהו מזהב וזה תכלית השגתם שנא' ויראו את אלהי ישראל ותחת רגליו וכו' . וטעם עגל מסכה שם ע"ז. ובפסיקתא דעשר תעשיר א"ר יודה בר עלאי ע"ז עברה עם ישראל בים שנא' ועבר בים צרה. ואין לשון צרה אלא ע"ז דכתי' והמסכה צרה וכו' . ובפרק קמא דיומא מקדש ראשון מפני מה חרב מפני שהיו בו שלשה דברים ע"ז גלוי עריות שפיכות דמים דכתי' כי קצר המצע מהשתרע והמסכה צרה כהתכנס. אמ' ר' שמואל בר נחמני. וא"ת מניין לטמא בע"ז ומה לנו ולצרה ללמוד מהגר שפחת שרה. אל תתמה על החפץ שכן מצינו בדברי רז"ל דרבן יוחנן בן זכאי היה אומ' על האי פסוקא ושם אשתו מהיטבאל בת מטרד שלש מאות הלכות פסוקות לר' אליעזר ולר' אלעזר בן ערך תלמידיו דהוו עסקי במעשה מרכבה קמיה. ולעניין זה נמשך סוד פרה אדומה בהיותה נקבה ותמימה ונשריפת באש לפי שהיא חוקת התורה היא תורה שבעל פה החוקקת | חוקה פז ע"א זו . והשורף אותה טעון טבילה לפי שנטמא באפר פרה אבל היא עצמה מטהרת. ארז"ל תבא פרה ותכפר על מעשה העגל . משל לבן שפחה שטמא פלטרין של מלך וכו' . וכן עניין עזאל ואיש עתי ועגלה ערופה וציפור של מצורע גרשם בו שהרי עבודתם מבחוץ. וארז"ל בבראשית רבה ונשא השעיר עליו את כל עונותם. זה יעקב אל תיקרי עונותם אלא עונות תם שנא' ויעקב איש תם. ועוד כתי' שם הן עשו אחי איש שעיר. כדא' ושעירים ירקדו שם. ואנכי איש חלק כדא' כי חלק יי עמו. ומשם נלמד

טומאות המת. ומה שארז"ל חרב הרי היא כחלל להיות אבי אבות הטומאה לטמא אדם וכלים הוא סוד נסתר החרב המתהפכת דוק ותשכח וזכור ואל תשכח. אבל הצדיקים אינן מטמאין במיתתן לפי שהם מתים בנשיקה על פי יי ולא בעטיו של נחש. ועוד נלמוד סוד נגעי בתים ונגעי בגדים ואינו נוהג אלא בארץ והבן זה היטב.

ויהי בנסוע הארון ויאמר משה קומה יי וכו׳. ועניין נו"ן הפוכה נרשם ונרמ׳ לעת׳ ישראל שהיא לפעמים נזורה לאחור והפוכה מפני המלך יי צבאות ועל זה נקראת קרן הפוך ולפעמים היא פשוטה על דרך הזווג העליון והבן זה מאד.

אל ימשלו בי אז איתם. כלו׳ אהיה עם ולא רצה לומ׳ על עצמו לפי שהיה צדיק גמור אלא כיון שלא חטא בעניין זה והיה תמים עם אלהיו וינקה מפשע רב שאין למעלה הימנו כי הייחוד הוא העמוד שהכל נשען עליו וכל העולם לא נברא אלא לצוות לזה כי זה כל האדם לייחד את בוראינו ולקבל את מלכותו עלינו כרשום בכתב אמת בפסוק שמע ישראל יי אלהינו יי אחד. שהוא שורש האמונה וכל המאמין בזה ומציירו בשכלו ציור אמתי שכלי מאמין בכל התורה כולה בכלליה ופרטיה וזו היא הדעת שנא׳ עליה השכל וידוע אותי. וכתי׳ דע את אלהי אביך ועובדהו.וכל הכופר בזה או המצייר בלבו שום רושם פירוד וקיצוץ כפר בכל התורה כולה ואין לו חלק בדוד ולא נחלה בבן ישי ואין לו דעת כלל עליו נאמ׳ גם בלא דעת נפש לא טוב וכו׳. וטוב לא יהיה לרשע. שפירושו לא יראה בטוב הצפון ולא חלק לו בבינה. וכיון דאתא לידן פסוקא דשמע נימא מילתא במלת אחד. כי השמות עניינם ידוע למשכילים ואע"פ שמהן עולין וא"כ יורדין ומהם מעלין בקודש ונימא הכי אחד כולל הכל ביחוד שלם. הא כי צד אל"ף הוא ראש מה שאין המחשבה יכולה להתפשט בו.

ח׳ חכמה ושמונה דברים עמה עד היסוד בה | על כן ארז"ל פז ע"ב ובלבד שלא יחטוף בחי"ת להודיע כי אלהים בקרבה. דל"ת היא עס׳ ישראל רמז לבית דין הרפה לפי שהיא כלולה מן הכל ועל כן מאריכין בה הה"ד למען יאריך ימים על ממלכתו מדה כנגד מדה לפי שממנה תוצאות חיים ושם צוה יי את הברכה חיים. ובמסכת ראש השנה אז"ל שמע ישראל יי אלהינו יי אחד. יי אחד הוא מלכות. והיא נקראת חותם תבנית. ולא עוד אלא כי דל"ת מספר העשרה על כן נאמ׳ בספר יצירה דל"ת חכמה רמז לחכמת שלמה. וחכמה בראש וחכמה בסוף וזהו סוד קשר של תפלין

שהראה הב"ה למשה שהוא כמין דל"ת והוא סוד בכל ביתי נאמן הוא. ויש מן המקובלים שכוונתם באל"ף וחי"ת וזהו ובלבד שלא יחטוף בחי"ת. ודל"ת גם כן חכמה קדומה ומאריך בה עד חכמה אחרונה ומיד פוסק שאין להאריך בה יותר מדאי. וזהו כדי שהמליכהו על השמים ועל הארץ ועל ד׳ רוחות העולם. ויש מפרשים בכל ביתי בי"ת בראשית ואינינו נכון כי כבוד הבית הזה האחרון גדול מן הראשון ולא הגיע משה ר׳ ע"ה עד תכונתו. ובאמת אין זה כי אם ביה אלהים וזה שער השמים. לפי ששאר הנביאים נקראו איש האלהים. עבד יי לא נקרא אלא משה ויהושע תלמידו תכף מיתה דכתי׳ וימת יהושע בן נון עבד יי וכו׳. וידעת שפניו של יהושע כפני לבנה לפי שעלתה נפשו למעלה עליונה. ואל תקשה על מאמ׳ עבדי הנביאים ושאברהם ויעקב האבות הראשונים וכלב וישעיה ואיוב וזרובבל שנקראו בנים למקום ית׳ כי פיו המדבר אליהם כל אחד כפי מעלתו והבכור בבכורתו והצעיר כצעירתו. וארז"ל כל הנביאים כלם לא נתנבאו אלא מתוך אספקלריא שאינה מאירה ומשה אדון הנביאים מתוך אספקלריא המאירה כו׳. לפי שכל הנביאים לא ראו את הכבוד אלא מתוך תשע מראות כעניין שכתי׳ ביתזקאל ע"ה וכמראה המראה אשר ראיתי וכו׳. וכן בדניאל הוא אומ׳ ובינה לו במראה. ואשא עיני ואראה. ופניו כמראה ברק וכו׳. אבל במשה כתי׳ פה אל פה אדבר בו ומראה ולא בחידות וכו׳. פי׳ מתוך מראה אחד.

ובסוד שלש קדושות שמעתי יש מהם שסומכים על דברי יונתן בן עוזיאל ז"ל קדיש במרומא בית שכינתיה וכו׳. ומהם עומדים על דברי ספר הבהיר וזה הוא לשונו: כ"ע קדוש שהוא שורש האילן הקדוש יחיד ומיוחד | בכולם וכו׳. ומהם עניינו בפרקי מרכבה וראו פח ע"א כתו׳ בשם ר׳ ישמעאל כהן גדול וזהו לשונו ברוכים אתם לשמים יורדי מרכבה אם תאמרו לבניי מה אני עושה בתפלה של שחרית ובתפלת המנחה בכל יום ויום ובכל שעה ושעה בשאתם אומרים לפני אל קדוש. למדו אותם ואמרו להם שאו עיניכם לרקיע בעת תפלתכם בשעה שאתם אומרי׳ קדוש כי אין לי הנייה בכל עולמי שבראתי כאותה שעה שעיניכם נשואות בעיני ועיני נשואות בעיניכם כשאתם אומ׳ לפני קדוש והעידו לכם עדות זו שאתם רואים מה אני עושה לקלסתר פניו של יעקב שהוא חקוק לי על כסא כבודי כו׳ כדאיתא התם. כל אלו ואלו דברי אלהים חיים סתומים וחתומים נראין כאלו אינם מוסכמים על כן ראיתי אני לכתו׳ דברי רז"ל

במדרש שיר השירים ואלו דבריהם כלשונם זש"ה איומה כנדגלות. שדימה הב"ה את ישראל למלאכים. במלאכים נאמ' שרפים עומדים ממעל לו וכו'. ובישראל אתם נצבים היום כלכם. המלאכי' אומרי' קק"ק וישראל אומרי' אלהי אברהם אלהי יצחק ואלהי יעקב. ע"כ. והנה זה מבואר טוב ויפה ולא נשאר מקום למשכיל לשאול ואין דרך לנטות ימין ושמאל.

ויש לפרש אז איתם אהיה תמים כדמתרגמינן שלם כלו' תעלה מעלתו עד השלום שהוא האמת. ויש לומ' במלת אז שהוא היחוד השלם לייחד האחת כוללת השלש ושבע וזהו סוד אחת למעלה ושבע למטה. וסוד מניין ההזאות אחת אחת ואחת אחת ושתים וכו' כדמות מה שזכר בעל ספר יצירה בגלגול האותיות א' עם כולם וכולם עם א' וכחי' אז תקרא ויי יענה. וארז"ל בספר הבהיר מאי אז אלא מלמד שאין רשות לקרוא לא' לבדה אלא על ידי שתי אותיות הדביקים בה היושבים ראשונה במלכות ועם א' הם שלש. ונשארו שבע מעשרה מאמרות שבהם נברא העולם. על כן אמ' רז"ל שהתורה וכסא הכבוד הם מכלל שבעה דברים שקדמו לעולם. הכוונה לכסא הכבוד מרום מראשון. ובתורה כתי' יי קנני ראשית דרכו קדם מפעליו מאז. הכוונה לחכמה העליונה הקדומה. ובכסא הכבוד כתי' נכון כסאך מאז. והכריע ר' אבא בר כהנא שהתורה קדמה לכסא לפי שכתו' בה קדם מפעליו מאז. וכתי' והוכן בחסד כסא. וכתי' עולם חסד יבנה. וזהו סוד מה שארז"ל שהיה מביט בתורה ובונה העולם ומה שאמרו מחשבתן של ישראל קדמה לכל כלום' | לכל מעשה פח ע"ב שבעה דברים קדמה המחשבה. ובבראשית רבה משל למלך שהיה נשוי למטרונה ולא היה לו ממנה בן. פעם אחת היה עובר בשוק כו'. אלו שצפה הב"ה שאחר עשרים ושתה דורות ישראל עתידין לקבל התורה היה כתו' בתורה דבר אל בני ישראל ע"כ. באמת זהו סוד אז ישיר משה ובני ישראל את השירה־הזאת והבן.

ואצ"ל עניין הרצון הוא ידוע כי הוא החפץ הפשוט והוא הלב וכן נאמ' בקורבנות לרצון להם לפני יי. ואמ' תכון תפלתי קטורת לפניך. וארז"ל שמן וקטורת ישמח לב. אמ' הב"ה אין בכל הקורבנות חביב עלי כקטורת. וכן נאמ' בקורבנות עולותיכם וזבחיכם לרצון על מזבחי. ונאמ' יעלו על רצון מזבחי יעלו על הרצון שהוא הלב והוא הרצון שהוא הלב שנא' עליו רצון תעטרנו. ותמשוך הברכה מלמעלה למטה ויהיה הריח ניחוח. וארז"ל אין ריח אלא באף ואז יהיה נחת רוח מלמעלה זהו שמן

הטוב על הראש שיורד על פי מדותיו וימשך שפע של הברכה על העליונים מן המקור ומן העליונים למה שאחריהם ומה שלמטה מהם. ובנח נאמ' וירח יי את ריח הניחוח וכו'. מיד ויאמר יי אל לבו לא אוסיף. ובפסיקתא באתי לגני אחותי כלה. ר' אליעזר בשם ר' חייא בר' משל למלך שכעס על המטרונה וסרדה והוציאה מתוך פלטרין שלו. לאחר זמן ביקש להחזירה. אמרה יחדש לי דבר. כך לשעבר היה הב"ה מקבל קורבנות מלמעלה ה"ד וירח יי את ריח הניחוח. מיד כתי' ויאמר יי אל לבו. ועכשיו הוא מקבל מלמטה ה"ד באתי לגני אחותי כלה ע"כ. ואם בעל נפש אתה חבין ותחקור ממטרוניתא הטרודה מן היכל של המלך. וכבר רמזנו רמז מעט לעניין הלב ומזה יתבאר למשכיל בסוד המזבח. וארז"ל כל המגרש את אשתו ראשונה מזבח מוריד עליו דמעות שנא' בזאת תעשו כסות דמעה את מזבח יי בכי ואנקה וכו' והוא סוד נעלם ועמוק.

ובנחה יאמר שובה יי רבבות אלפי ישראל. פתח ואמ' יהיו לרצון אמרי פי והגיון לבי לפניך יי צורי וגואלי. ואצ"ל הגיון הלב היא המחשבה מה שאין אדם מבטא בשפתיו. ויש דברים שהמחשבה תופשת בהם ומתפשטת אליהם מה שאין הפה יכולה לדבר. וגם אין ראוי להוציא בפה כל מה שבלב כעניין לבא לפומא לא גלי. ואמ' לפניך רומז אל פני האדון יי. מכאן ארז"ל כל מי שדר בחוצה לארץ דומה כמי שאין לו | אלוה שנא' לתת לכם את ארץ כנען להיות לכם פט ע"א לאלהים. הוא מה שאמ' עמוס לאמציה כהן בית אל על אדמה טמאה תמות וישראל גלה יגלה מעל אדמתו. וכבר רמזנו סוד הפנים הנראים והפנים שאינם נראים ה"ד וכפר אדמתו עמו. היה ר' מאיר אומ' כל היושב בארץ ישראל ארץ ישראל מכפרת עליו שנא' העם היושב בה נשוא עון. וארז"ל למה כל מבעיין קבורת ארץ ישראל. א"ר אלעזר דברים בגו. אמ' ר' יהושע בן לוי מהו דברים בגו ה"ד אתהלך לפני יי בארצות החיים. ובמכילתא דר' שמעון נר הייתי בארץ נכריה. ר' יהושע אומ' ארץ היא לו בודאי וכו'. וזהו סוד יי אלהינו וכו'. ועוד ארז"ל כל הקבור בארץ ישראל כאלו הוא קבור תחת המזבח. ובאלה שמות רבה והכית על הצור אין כתי' כאן אלא והכית בצור. ובעניין דברתם אל הסלע שנא' למשה ולאהרן שניהם נטו מן הדרך במחשבותם ובהסכמת כוונתם פעמים לפי שלא נזכר להם הנני עומד לפניך שם על הצור כפעם הראשונה במסה כי הם מרו את פי יי כאשר רמזתי בעניין שנא' על אשר

מריתם את פי. ועל כן לא נכנסו לארץ ישראל כי פי יי הוא המוציא והמביא שנא' על פי יי יחנו ועל פי יי יסעו.

ואצ"ל הנה אנכי שולח מלאך. הוא מלאך שר הפנים ששמו כשם רבו. ויש לשאול אם נתרצה משה בכך שהרי כבר נאמר ושלחתי לפניך מלאך ולא נתרצה ואמ' אם אין פניך הולכים אל תעלנו. והיתה התשובה גם את הדבר הזה אשר דברת אעשה. אם כן היאך נתרצה אחר כך במלאך שליח אלא הכל היה כמו שבארנו. וכן כתב הרב ר' משה בר נחמני ז"ל וחכמי הקבלה שבמקומו מודים לו. ועוד כתב כי הוא המלאך הנראה בסנה ופירש כי מה שאמ' ז"ל בבראשית רבה מלאך זה הוא מיכאל. ר' יוסי הארוך אמ' כל מקום שרואין אותו אומרי' רבי שם רבי' הקדוש כך כל מקום שמיכאל נגלה שם כבוד השכינה וכו'. אמ' כי בודאי נגלה מיכאל בתחלה וא"כ שכינה עצמה דכתי' וידא יי כי סר לראות ויקרא אליו אלהים וכו'. ועל כן נאמ' כי ירא מהביט אל האלהים. כי משה רבי' ע"ה לא היה ירא מהביט אל המלאך וכן נראה לי משפט הכתובים בעניין אם אין פניך הולכים שהרי אחר ויעבר נאמ'. ובסנהדרין בפרק כהן גדול כתי' ואל משה אמר עלה | אל יי. עלה אלי מיבעי ליה כו'. פט ע"ב

ועל כן המשכילים אשר רוח יי בהם הם יסתבלו בדבריהם וזהו לשונם פלוגי שר הפנים שנכתב באות אחת שבה נבראו שמים וארץ וחתמם בשבעת אהיה אשר אהיה ונכתב בשש אותיות ובשבע אותיות ובשני אותיות ושבעים שמות ובשבע קדושות ונחקק על שתים עשרה אבנים ונתן על ששה משמותם ונכתב בשבעה קולות ומסר השם הגדול להשתמש בו למשה ולא נתן הב"ה רשות להשתמש בו לא לאדם הראשון ולא לאברהם ולא ליצחק אלא למשה בלבד שנא' הנה אנכי שולח מלאך לפניך וכו'. והזהיר הב"ה למשה שישתמר בו ועל זה אמ' משה אם אין פניך הולכים וכו'. ובמדרש איכה ויבא אל הגוים אשר באו שם ויחללו את שם קדשי וכו'. לא היה צריך לומ' אלא ויבואו ואת אמ' ויבא אלא כביכול הוא עצמו.

בא וראה בשעה שמתברכת כנסת ישראל כל העולמות מתברכים וישראל למטה יונקים ומתברכין ממנה* לפי שהיא מגנת על ישראל כדא' וסע מלאך האלהים. מלאך האלהים זו כנסת ישראל ואותה שעה בסיוע של האבות היא נוסעת וכשהם נמצאים אצלה כולם נמצאים. ובשביל כך נמסר באלו הפסוקים שם הקדוש שכלול בהם האבות כמו שרמזנו אחד כסדר ואחד למפרע ואחד כסדר. ויסע כסדר בשביל שאברהם נמצא בכאן וכל

אותם שבאו מצדו ועל זה הוא כסדר כדוגמא זה.

מיד נקשר קשר האמונה זה בזה וזה בזה ומתוך כך ניצולו ישראל. ושנינו במקום שהאבות נמצאים שאר הצדיקים הם נמצאים אצלם ועל זה שם זה עולה לצדדין אחרים מתפרשים אע"ג שכולם יוצאים לדרך אחד. בא וראה כשמאיר זה הבאר מצד יצחק ונקשר בו יעשה הים הגדול גלים חזקים ותקיפין עולין ויורדין בזעף וברוגז ונוסע למעלה ויורד למטה ואברהם כנגדה. ומתוך רוגז וזעף וחמה ותוקף זה אצל זה ולא היו מתקרבין עד שבא יעקב ושיכך רוגזו ושיבר גלגליו ההי"ד ויס משה את ידו על הים דווקא וכו'. ברוח קדים. מאי ברוח קדים עזה של אותו היס. וישם את הים לחרבה ויבקעו המים.ונתפלגו המים לצד אברהם ולצד אלו האחרים בדרך ישר בצד יעקב וכל אותם שבאו מצדו. ועל זה מעשה בתיקון השם הגדול בזווג

האבות שהם קשר אחד של האמונה להיות מרכבת | השלום צ ע"ב ובזווג של האבות כאחד. ויודעים החבריא לילך בדרך ישר ולתקן מעשים כדאוי ובשם זה הוא קשר האבות נמצא ואורחין לדין ואורחין לרחמים לסיוע לחסד ליראה להורה לחיים למות לטוב לרע.

בא וראה שבעה קשרים הם שמתקשרים שלשה האבות וארבעה אחרים. ראש ואמצע בקשר אחד ואלו אותם שחפרו באר של מים והם קשר אחד בשלש יודי"ן השלישיות הוא שלימות של כל האמונה. הרביעית שני עמודים שהגוף עומד עליהם. החמישיה טוב ורע והוא הנהר היוצא אילן של החיים והמות שהוא עומק של כל. הששית דין ורחמים. השביעי הוא אמצעי של כל ובשביל שהוא אמצעי נקרא אני קיום של כל העגפים. בא וראה שבע מדרגות אלו מדרגה אחת למדרגה אחרה והם מרכבה אחת וכל אותן שמתאחדים בו. וכן מדרגה למדרגה וכולם הם מתנהגים אחריו. בא וראה בשעה שאלו המדרגות נמצאים כל האמונה נמצא. ואל שבעה עננים שסבבו לישראל. בשביל כך כשנוסעת השכינה באבות היא נוסעת.

ויהי בנסוע הארון ויאמר משה כו'. בכאן יש להסתכל בסוד עליון שהנו"ן הוא הפוך לאחור. וא"ת נו"ן כפופה היא ידועה שהיא נקבה. ופשוטה הוא כלל הזכר והנקבה. והא אמרו בכאן ויהי בנסוע הארון למה חזר לאחור בדוגמא זה ב . בא וראה נו"ן באשרי יושבי ביתך לא נאמ' בשביל שהיא בגלות ואוקמוה החבריא דכתי' נפלה ולא תוסיף קום. אלא מה אני מקיים למעלה וארון ברית יי נוסע לפניהם דרך שלשת ימים לתור להם מנוחה. כיון שהיה נוסע הארון הנו"ן היה נוסע והשכינה היתה על גבי הארון. בא וראה הארון היה נוסע לפניהם דרך שלשת ימים. הנו"ן לא היה מתפרש ממנו ונוסע עמו ומתוך אהבתם של ישראל החזיר פניו לנגדם וסיבב את הארון כשהוא היה הוליך החזיר פניו למקום שיצא ועל זה בנסוע הארון נ' מסבת פנים לצד ישראל וכותף הגוף אצל הארון. ועל זה כשהיה נוסע משה אמ' קומה יי למנוחתך. לא תעזוב לנו ותחזיר פניך אצליגו. מיד הב"ה מחזיר הנו"ן אצלם ב * כדוגמא זה כמי שמחזיר פנים למי שאוהב . וכשהיא חונה הארון וישראל חונים מיד מחזיר נ' פניו מישראל וחוזר גבי הארון והכל הוא נכון וראוי ודי בזה לכל מבין. אמ' ר' שמעון לאלעזר בנו אלעזר כך הוא ודאי.אבל לא כל כך החזיר פניו מישראל דאם היה כך היה צריך | הנו"ן להתהפך צא ע"א מנוון אחר שלמעלה. זהו מנוזר וזהו כדרך המישור גבי הארון. אלא

ודאי לא החזיר פניו מהם. ומה היה עושה בשעה שהיה חונה הארון אמ׳ משה קומה יי למנוחתיך*. מיד שורה הארון והשכינה ועומד בצד אחר והפנים כנגד ישראל ולנגד הארון ובשביל כך היה הנו"ן כלול לארון ולישראל. אלא שישראל גרמו לאחר כך ההי"ד ויהי העם כמתאוננים וכו׳.

ויהושע בן נון מלא רוח חכמה כי סמך משה את ידיו עליו. אמ׳ הב"ה בעולם הזה יחידים נתנבאו. אבל לעתיד לבא כל ישראל נעשין נביאים שנא׳ והיה אחרי כן אשפוך את רוחי על כל בשר ונבאו בניכם ובנותיכם זקניכם חלומות יחלומון בחוריכם חזיונות יראו.

אבל אכניסך בסוד עניין מה שאמ׳ קרבנו קערת כסף אחת. והיתה של כסף כי הקערה רומז למדת החסד שהוא נקרא קערה כמו הקערה שהיא מקבלת כל המשקין והמשחין כך היא מקבלת כל השמנים והמימות מן המבוע העליון ההי"ד כשמן הטוב על הראש יורד על הזקן. ועוד היתה של כסף לפי שהוא צד הכסף ההי"ד לי הכסף ולי הזהב. אחת רומז למדת אברהם הנקרא אחת ההי"ד אחת היא יונתי תמתי. אמ׳ הב"ה אני יחיד בעליונים ואברהם יחיד בתחתונים. ד"א למה נקרא אחת בשביל שמדת החסד נקרא אחת בשביל שהוא מאחד ואוחז בין עולם העליון ובין עולם התחתון. שלשים ומאה משקלה. שאותה הקערה שהיא חסד מקבלת מעולם החכמה הנקרא שלשים על שם ל"ב נהי׳ פליאות חכמה. כעין דוגמא זה היה הקרבן הכל כדוגמא של מעלה וכל זה הוא סוד עליון. ומאה כנגד עשר מדרגות עליונות שהם מאה עם ענפיהם. מזרק אחד כסף רומז לצד הנצח שהוא מקבל מצד החסד שהוא כסף. כף אחת עשרה זהב מלאה קטורת. כי הכף רומז לצד הגבורה הנקרא כף שהוא מקבל הקטורת של האש מעולם הבינה. כי הבינה היא נקראת עולם בית דין ההי"ד בראשית ברא אלהים. והגבורה מקבל הדין מעולם העליון במו הכף שהוא מקבל האש כך הגבורה מקבלת מן הנהר ההוא אודם האש. פר אחד רומז למדת התפ׳ הנקרא פר וזהו סוד הפר שהקריב אדם הראשון. בן בקר אל תיקרי בקר אל בן בָּקָר רומז לחסד הנקרא בקר ההי"ד וישכם אברהם בבקר. ועל זה הפר שהוא תפ׳ הוא בן החסד הנקרא בקר והבן זה. איל אחד. הוא יסוד הנקרא איל ההי"ד | בכור שורו הדר לו וקרני וכו׳. כבש אחד צא ע"ב רומז להוד הנקרא כבש לפי שהוא מצד הדין. בקר שנים רומז לחכמה ולבינה הנקראים שלמים לפי שהוא סוד השלום שאין שם רוגז וכעס ותחרות אלא עולם המנוחה והחדוה והחייב. כנגדם היו מקריבים זבח השלמים

הכל כדוגמא עליונה. אילים חמשה. פי׳ לחמשה עליונים שהם כ"ע וחכמה ובינה גדולה גבורה שהם חמש עליונות. עתודים חמשה בנגד תפ׳ נצח הוד יסוד מלכות. והבן כל אלו העניינים על מחכונתם.

שבעת ימים תסגר שבעת ימים מחוץ למחנה ואחר תאסף. ורמז כאן לכנסת ישראל שהיא בביכול נתרחקה ונטרדה מן שבע מראות עליונות שאינה מקבלת אורה כהוגן בשביל שכחות החיצוניות מבדילים בינה ובינם עד שיגיע זמן שהרתה אזי היא מהיחדת ומזדווגת עם המלך ותיכנס להיכלו ההי"ד ואחר תאסף. והבן כל זה העניינים כי הם נפלאים עד מאד והמשכיל יבין. אשריהם הצדיקים שהב"ה גלה להם שכינתו וסתרי תורתו הקדו׳ ההי"ד סוד יי ליריאיו ובריתו להודיעם.

פרש׳ שלח לך אנשים. שלח לך אנשים ויתורו את ארץ כנען וכו׳. ושנינו מהו לפרוש לים הגדול קודם לשבת שלשה ימים. כך שנינו אין מפליגין בספינה לים הגדול ג׳ ימים קודם לשבת בזמן שהוא הולך למקום רחוק אבל אם מבקש לפרוש מאי זה יום שירצה. למה מפני שהוא שליח כמו מצור לצידן מותר לו לפרוש ואפי׳ בערב שבת מפני שהדבר ידוע שהוא יכול ללכת מבעוד יום. בשלוחי הרשות. ואם שליח של מצוה הוא מותר לפרש באי זה יום שירצה.

ויבואו עד נחל אשכול ויכרתו וכו׳. אבל באתי לעוררך במלין יקרים וביון שראו שלא היו יכולים לילידי ענקים שהם המדות העליונות ירדו למדת המלכות הנקראת נחל אשכול לפי שהיא מקבלת מנחל של נהר דינור שהוא כולו אש ובחרו להם הזמורה ההיא להאמין לו ולקבל אלוהותו עליהם.

וישאוהו במוט. ואין מוט אלא צדיק יסוד עולם לפי שהצדיק לא ימוט לעולם. בשנים. אלו הם נצח והוד שהם שני עמודים הנקראים בועז ויכין לפי שהם נמשכים ונאצלים מן הרמונים שהוא צד הגבורה שהוא מר בקליפה של הרמון. | ומן התאנים רומז לצד החסד צב ע"א לפי שהוא מתוק כתאנה והבן.

וישובו מתור הארץ מקץ ארבעים יום. לרמוז שיחול עליהם הפורענות הנאצל ממדת ארבעים שהוא צד הגבורה השולט על ארבעים בתי דינין.

ויספרו לו ויאמרו באנו וכו׳. ואצ"ל כי הארץ הידוע שהיא

כנסת ישראל היא מקבלת מצד התלב של עולם העליון ודבש מצד החכמה. וזה פריה פי׳ מדת היסוד הנקרא וזה הוא מושך הפירות העליונים ית׳ פי׳ הנשמות הקדושות והטהורות הנמשכים מן החיה העליונה.

אפס כי עז העם היושב בארץ והערים וכו׳. ואצ"ל אפס רומז לכ"ע הנקדא אפס בשביל שאינו מושג לחוקרים בעדו אלא הוא אין לגמרי מבלי השגה. כי עז רומז לגבורה הנקרא עז הה"ד מהאוכל יצא מאכל ומעז יצא מתוק. היושב בארץ הנראים בארץ ההוא. והערים בצורות גדולות מאד. לרמוז לשאר המדרגות שהם תחת האפס שהם חכמ׳ ובינה גדולה וגבורה ותפ׳ נצח והוד יסוד. כל אלו הערים הם בצורות פי׳ הם נמנעים מלהשיגן ועל זה אמרו אין לנו עסק לעלות שם אלא די לנו בזאת הזמורה שכרתנו והבן זה.

אך ביי אל תמרודו. פי׳ בכ"ע שהוא אלהינו וברא אותנו וכל העולמות אל תמרודו בו ואל תקצצו ותדע כי הוא יחיד ומיוחד כשלהבת הקשורה בנחלת כי הם דיבוק אחד ואין ביניהם קיצוץ ופירוד.

ואתם אל תיראו את עם הארץ כי לחמינו הם. פי׳ כי אלו המדרגות הם לחמנו על שם מאשר שמנה לחמו בשביל שהם מספיקם לנו לחמנו ומזונינו.

ויאמר יי אל משה עד אנה ינאצוני וכו׳ ועד אנה לא יאמינו בי. למה לא יאמינו ביחודי ובמהותי שאני מלך ומושל לכל הנמצאים.

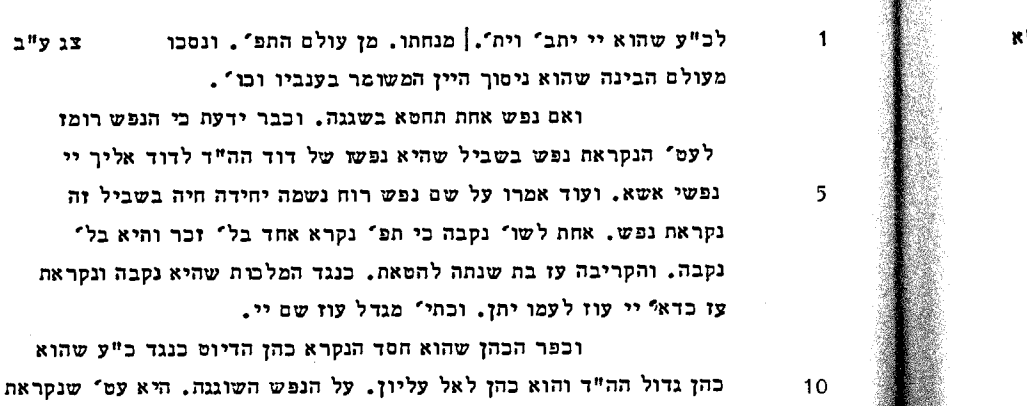
ואמרו אל יושב הארץ הזאת שמעו כי אתה יי בקרב העם הזה אשר עין בעין. פי׳ עין העליון שהוא כ"ע בעין ההחתון הנקראת מלכות ונמצאית שנגלית עליהם באלו המדות הנוראות. וענך עומד עליהם. פי׳ מדת המלכות. ובעמוד אש שהוא גבורה.

ועתה יגדל נא כח יי כאשר דברת לאמר. יהי רצון מלפניך שיתגדל כח החסד שהוא צד הגדולה ונצחו מדת הרחמים למדת הדין. סלח נא לעון העם הזה כגודל חסדיך. רומז למדת החסד לפי שמדת החסד הוא גדול בחסדו וברחמנותו.

ואולם חי אני וימלא כבוד יי את כל הארץ,אבל | תדע צב ע"ב שאני נקרא חי העולמים ואני יושב בין י"ת אלף עולמות שהם באורך אנפין כמנין חי.

וינסו אותי זה עשר פעמים פי שניסו אלו עשר מדרגות ולא עמדו באחד מהם ומרדו בי.

ועבדי כלב עקב היתה רוח אחרת עמו. מצד עולם העליון הקדוש שכתי׳ בו ונחה עליו רוח יי רוח חכמה ובינה. וימלא אחרי פי׳ אחרי ודאי והסוד בזה ואת אחרונים אני הוא לפי שכ"ע הוא אחר כל המדרגות והוא ראשון והוא אחרון.



והעמלקי והכנעני יושב בעמק. פי׳ הם תמורת הע׳ היושבת בעמקים הה"ד כשושנה בין החוחים.

וישכימו בבקר ויעלו אל ראש ההר. פי׳ באו לתקן מה שקלקלו וכיוונו להחזיק לעלות אל ראש ההר שהוא תפ׳ הנקרא הר. הננו ועלינו אל המקום ודאי פי׳ ודאי המקום שהפסיקו והפרידו מן העט׳ בא ליחדו ולקבלו עליהם במדת אלהות ית׳ ויח׳.

ויאמר משה למה זה אתם עוברים את פי יי. אמ׳ להם אל תעברו את פי יי שהיא העט׳ אל תעלו מלמטה למעלה כדרך היחוד ולא תעלו להר קודם וא"כ תרדו. אל תעלו כי אין יי. פי׳ אל תעלו ליחד היחוד בזמן שכ"ע הנקרא אין יי בקרבכם כדי שלא תפסיקו בין המדרגות. ונגפתם לפני אויביכם. פי׳ התמורות שהם אויבים לעט׳. כי העמלקי והכנעני שם לפניכם ונפלתם בחרב. פי׳ בתמורת החרב הקדוש שהוא חרב ליי מלאה דם.

תורה אחת ומשפט אחד יהיה לכם. תורה אחת רומז לתורה שבעל פה הנקראת אתת. ומשפט אחד רומז למדת התפ׳ הנקרא משפט הה"ד מלך במשפט יעמיד ארץ וכו׳. יהיה לכם ודאי בהתחברות שניהם ביחוד בלא פירוד ואוי לו ואוי לנפשו מי שמבדיל ומפסיק בין אלו שתי מדות לפי שהוא פוסק חיים עליונים מן כנסת ישראל הה"ד ונרגן מפריד אלוף ואין אלוף אלא תפ׳ ישראל הה"ד ונרגן מפריד אלוף. וכתי׳ אלוף נעורי אתה. ד"א אלוף רומז גם כן לעט׳ ישראל והסוד בזה אלופינו מסובלים. לפי שהיא סובלת כל המשאות. בא וראה בזמן שהיא נפרדת מן בית המלך נקראת אל"ף. ובשעת החיבור נקראת אלוף. בשביל שהוא"ו נתחבר בה בזווג אחד הה"ד אלוף נעורי אתה.

ואצ"ל כי יש כאן בזה הפסוק תורה אחת סוד מופלא ונעלם על דרך האותיות המתגלגלות בסיבובם וזה הסוד נקרא שם החסד וזהו ציורו. |

ואצ"ל כי זה השם היוצא מזה הפסוק של תורה אחת הוא נפלא מאד והוא ממונה על חן וחסד ורחמים וצריך להזכירו בציור תכלת ורבי' מאיר ז"ל מרוטנבורק הזכיר אותו בשעה שהמלך שלח אחריו ורצה לתפוש אותו בבית האסורים. מיד כשבא לפניו הזכיר אותו בקדושה ובטהרה כדין וכהוגן. מיד נהפך לבו שלמלך ויצא מלפניו בחן ובחסד וברחמים ונתן לו מתנות ודורונות*. ועל זה זה השם אשרי ואשרי חלקו מי שמשתמש בו בקדושה ובטהרה אהוב למעלה ולמטה.

וכי תשגו ולא תעשו את כל המצות האלה אשר דבר יי. כי המצות הם מצות עשה ומצות לא תעשה לפי שמצות עשה נאצלים מן עולם התפא' שהוא אילן החיים ומצות לא תעשה הם ממלכות יי שהוא לא תעשה.

והיה אם מעיני העדה נעשתה בשגגה. פי' עיני העדה הם עינים העליונים שהם חכמה ובינה הנקראים עיני יי המה משוטטות בכל הארץ. ועשו כל העדה. כנגד עט' ישראל. פר. שהוא תפ' ישראל. בן בקר. בן חסד הנקרא בקר ה"ד וישכם אברהם בבקר. אחד לפי שהוא נקרא אחד על שם שבתפ' יתייחדו שם כל המראות והגוונים והצבעים של כל העליונים. כי כל השפע העליונה תעבור על אילן החיים לפי שהוא יושב באמצע הדרך ומקבל כל הטוב הבא מארץ כוש ומארץ קדם. לעולה. פי' לבינה שהיא עולה עליונה. לריח לסוד הריח שהוא תפ' ישראל. ניחוח. לעולם העליון שהוא נחת בלי כעס ורוגז. ליי. פי'

לכ"ע שהוא יי יתב' ויית'. מנחתו. מן עולם התפ'. ונסכו מעולם הבינה שהוא ניסוך היין המשומר בענביו וכו'.

ואם נפש אחת תחטא בשגגה. וכבר ידעת כי הנפש רומז לעט' הנקראת נפש בשביל שהיא נפשו של דוד ה"ד לדוד אליך יי נפשי אשא. ועוד אמרו על שם נפש רוח נשמה יחידה חיה בשביל זה נקראת נפש. אחת לשו' נקבה כי תפ' נקרא אחד בל' זכר והיא בל' נקבה. והקריבה עז בת שנתה להטאת. כנגד המלכות שהיא נקבה ונקראת עז כדא' יי עוז לעמו יתן. וכתי' מגדל עוז שם יי.

וכפר הכהן שהוא חסד הנקרא כהן הדיוט כנגד כ"ע שהוא כהן גדול ה"ד והוא כהן לאל עליון. על הנפש השוגגה. היא עט' שנקראת נפש שוגגת כנגד העליונים לפי שבעליונים לא נמצא שם לא רוגז ולא תהרות ולא עצבות אלא הכל רחמים. אבל בעט' נמצא שם התחדשות התוארים והאפשריים ובה נמצא השגגה ועון ושאר מיני חטאות ה"ד בחטאה בשגגה שהוא לש' חסרון כרא' והייתי אני ובני שלמה חטאים.

אשרי חלקם אותם המשתדלים בתורה לשמה שהרי הם. נקשרים ממש בהב"ה ונקראים אחים וריעים לו ה"ד למען אחי וריעי אדברה נא שלום.

ועתה יגדל נא כח יי. ר' אחא ור' יוסי אמ' אשדיהם ישראל מכל שאר העמים שהב"ה חפץ בהם ומכנה בהם ומתפאר בהם שהעולם לא נברא אלא בשבילם כדי שישתדלו בתורה בשביל שנקשר אחד באחד וישראל למטה בזה העולם הם קיומם הכל* וקיומם של שאר עמים. אימתי בזמן שהם עושין רצון אדוניהם. בא וראה כשברא הב"ה בן אדם התקין אותו כדוגמא עליונה ונתן כחו וחזקו באמצעות הגוף במקום ששורה הלב שהוא תוקף ומזון של כל הגוף ומשם ניזון כל הגוף וכל איברי הגוף ניזונין מן הלב שהוא חוזק של כל והכל בו תלויין ואותו לב נקשר ונאחז במוח העליון הקדוש ששוכן למעלה בראש. כך הב"ה כשברא העולם וסידר לים אוקיאנוס וסיבבו סביב סביב כל ישוב הארץ וישוב של שבעים אומות הכל סיבב סביב לארץ ישראל שהוא ירושלם. וירושלם הוא באמצעיה של כל הישוב והוא מסבב להר הבית. והר הבית מסבב לעזרות שלישראל והם עזרות מסבבין ללשכת הגזית ששם סנהדרין גדולה יושבין. ושנינו אין ישיבה בעזרה אלא למלכי בית דוד לבדם. ולשכת הגזית הוא מסבב לבית האולם והמזבח. והמזבח מסבב להיכל.

וההיכל מסבב לבית קדשי הקדשים ששם שורה השכינה וכפורת וכרובים והארון ובכאן הוא לבו של העולם כולו. ומכאן ניזונו כל מקומות הישוב שהן איברי הגוף. ולב זה הוא ניזון מן המוח של הראש ונאחז ונקשר זה בזה ההי"ד | מזון לשבתך פעלת יי. כדוגמא זה למעלה צד ע"א
בסוד הקדוש העליון הסתום. ים העליון הוא כנגד זה הים. וא"ת יש למעלה ים מן ים*. בא וראה נהר דינור מסבב לכמה מחנות כנגד שבעים צדדין חקוקים משבעה מאורות והם סביב לאותן שמשים שלפנים מהם והם סביב לארבע מרכבות והם מסבבין לאותה עיר הקדושה הרובצת עליהם. ושנינו לשם הם עזרות לפנים מן עזרות ואין ישיבה בעזרה של שם אלא מלכי בית דוד לבדם וסנהדרין גדולה נמצאים שם בלשכת הגזית והוא בית דין עליהם שמשמש למקום שמשמש והדין ניתן לקדושי עליונים עד שמגיע למקום שנקרא קדש הקדשים. ושם הוא הלב שורה וזה הלב ניזון מן המוח שעליו ונאחז זה בזה. כדוגמא זה למעלה והוא בסוד המלך העליון עד שנמצא הכל ניזון מן המוח העליון הסתום של כל. בא וראה כשמאיר עתיק הסתום במוח ומוח מאיר ללב בדרך נועם יי וזהו הנקרא רוח* יי שכתו' בו ורוח אלהים מרחפת על פני המים. ואותו הכוח הוא הבא מכח עתיק הקדוש הסתום של כל הסתימות.יגדל נא כח שיתגדל ויתרבה למעלה למעלה וימשך ויצא למטה. כאשר דברת לאמר. כדי ללמוד מכאן כל דורות האחרונים לעולם ולעולמי עולמים. לאמר. פי' לומר זה לדורות.

וידעת היום והשיבות אל לבבך כי יי הוא עתיק יומין הוא האלהים הוא אחד ברוך שמו לעולם ולעולמי עולמים. א"ר שמעון ראיתי עליונים למטה ותחתונים למעלה. עליונים למטה הוא דיוקן של אדם שהוא בתיקון של העליונים. תאנא כתי' וצדיק יסוד עולם. שהוא כולל שית זהו שכתי' שוקיו עמודי שש. ושנינו בצניעות הספר באדם נכללו כתרים עליונים בכלל ופרט. ובארם נכלל כתרים תחתונים בפרט וכלל. כתרים עליונים בכלל כמו שאמרנו בדיוקן שכל אלו התיקונין הם בפרט באצבעות הידים חמש כנגד חמש. כתרים תחתונים רמוזים באצבעות הרגלים שהם פרט וכלל שהרי הגוף לא נראה עמהם והם חוץ לגוף ובשביל כך לא היו בגוף שהטף הוסר מהם. אי הכי מאי ועמדו רגליו ביום ההוא על הר הזיתים. אלא רגליו הם רגלים של גוף של בעלי הדין כדי לעשות נקמות לשונאיהם של ישראל ונקראים בעלי רגלים ומתאחדים בעלי דינין

תאנא כל אותן כתרים שלא נכללו בגוף כולם הם רחוקים ממנו והם טמאים ומטמאים לכל שיקרב אליהם. וא"ת אי הכי הא מלאכין קרישין דליתהון בכלל הגוף. לא ח"ו שיהיו חוץ מכלל הגוף לא יהיו כביכול קדושים ולא מתקיימים וכתי' וגוויתו כתרשיש וכ' וגבותם מלאות עינים. והאיש גבריאל. כולם הם בכלל הגוף של האדם אלא חוץ מאלו שאינן בכלל הגוף בשביל שהם טמיאין ומטמאין לכל מי שיקרב אליהם. ושנינו כולם הם מרוח של שמאל שלא נתבסם באדם ויצאו מכלל הגוף הקדוש שלא נדבקו בו ובשביל כך כולם הם נמצאים ומטמאים והולכין ושאטין בעולם והולכין בנקב של התהום להתדבק באתו דין הקדמון שיוצא מכלל הגוף שנקרא קין של מטה ושאטין בכל העולם ופורחין ולא מתדבקין בכלל הגוף ובשביל כך הם מבחוץ של כל המחנות העליונות ויושבים חוץ למחנה ההי"ד מחוץ למחנה מושבו. אשריהם הצדיקים בעולם הזה ובעולם הבא שגילה להם הב"ה סודות התורה מה שלא גילה לשום אומה ההי"ד לא עשה כן לכל גוי .

פרש' ויקח קרח. ויקח קרח בן יצהר בן קהת בן לוי. זש"ה אח נפשע מקרית עוז ומדינים כבריח ארמון. אח נפשע מקרית עוז. זהו קרח שהיה נפשע והלך כנגד משה ומרד וירד מן הכבוד שהיה בידו. ואין נפשע אלא מרידה כמו שכתי' מלך מואב פשע בי. וכן הוא אומ' אז תפשע לבנה בעת ההיא. ומדינים כבריח ארמון. מדינים שעשה כנגדו כפלטירין. כבריח ארמון. שחלק על המקום ועל משה.

אבל סוד עליון יש לך כאן בעניין טלית שכולה תכלת שהוא חייב בציצית. כבר ידוע הוא שהטלית רומז למדת החכמה הנקרא טלית על שם לבושיה כתלג חיור ושער רישיה כעמר נקי. לפי שהחכמה הוא לבוש לכ"ע שהוא מתלבש בו. והחכמה היא כולה תכלת בגוניו ובצבעיו. והציצית שהיא עט' אתה צריך לגעוץ הסוף בתחלה ונמצא

שאין טלית תכלת בלא ציצית ולא ציצית בלא תכלת כדא׳ ועשו להם ציצית. לכן אע"פ שהטלית שהוא חכמה אי אפשר לך לייחד ולחבר היחוד אלא בכלל המלכות שהיא הציצית לפי שיש עשר ספי׳ בלימה ועשר ולא תשע. עשר ולא אחד עשר. לכן כעין דוגמא זה למטה אע"פ שהטלית כולה תכלת צריך לעשות לו ציצית כדוגמא עליונה.

ויקומו לפני משה ואנשים מבני ישראל חמשים ומאתים נשיאי עדה קריאי מועד אנשי שם. זה הפסוק העמידוהו החבריא. ר׳ שמעון אומ׳ קראי מועד כתי׳ חסד. למה אלא כל כך הוא מלכות של הארץ כדוגמא מלכות השמים וזה סוד כל אותן כתרים עליונים של שם הקדוש נאחז בהם וכולם מזומנים הם ממקום שנקרא קודש הה"ד מקראי קודש. ואימתי בשעה שמועד מזומן בעולם כדוגמא שאותם כתרים עליונים | מזומנים מקודש העליון הכי נמי קודש התחתון מזומן צה ע"א לחיילותיו להתעטר להם בקודש העליון הידוע. קודש התחתון הוא חכמת שלמה הכי נמי מזומן לכל חיילותיו והם חיילות כוחות מזומנים להתעטר בהאי קודש בזמן שהמועד שורה בעולם כדוגמא שחיילותיה עומדים למעלה הכי נמי עומדים ממונים כדוגמא שלהם למטה ועל כן נקראים קריאי מועד בשביל שאותם שלמטה ועל זה קראי מועד חסר כדוגמא שלמעלה. אבל בשלימות יותר אותן אנשי שם. אנשי שם ודאי ולא אנשי יי. וזהו סוד ונוקב שם יי מות יומת. ועל זה נקראים בכאן אנשי שם שכיון מצד הגבורה באים אנשי שם אותם שבח שלהם יותר.

בן יצהר של צד הבינה הנקרא יצהר כדא׳ דגן תירוש ויצהר. ד"א יצהר מל׳ צוהר תעשה לתיבה. שהוא עולם הבינה וסוד השמטה והיובל שהוא מאיר לכל העולמות והמדרגות התחתונים לו כי אין להם חיים אלא ממנו כדא׳ ונהר יוצא מעדן להשקות את הגן. ד"א יצהר פי׳ י׳ צהר לפי שהיא מקבלת מן עשר מדרגות עליונות של כ"ע הנקראים עשר צחצחות. בן קהת בן הבינה שהוא נקרא קהת מל׳ ולו יקהת עמים.

רב לכם בשיאמ׳ אדם לחבירו דיי לכם בשררה. ד"א רב לכם. פי׳ רב העליון הוא לכם לאלוה. אבל צידינו מספיק לנו להושיע. כי כל העדה כולם קדושים. פי׳ כולם שמעו לפני הר סיני עשרת הדברות שיצאו מפי הגבורה ונתקדשו באותו מעמד והם כולם קדושים לכהונה ולוייה ולמלוכה ולנבואה. ובתוכם יי. לפי ששם יהוה הוא סובב ומתגלגל

על כל בני המשפחות שהם ראובן שמעון לוי וכו׳. כי הב"ה היה בוחר באהרן לפי שהוא מדת החסד והעולם צריכים חסד ורחמים ושלום בעולם כי על ידי הקרבנות יתרבו השלום והרחמים בעולם. וקרח היה מצד הדין ולא היה נאה לו לעבוד במקום אהרן והוא בא להחליף הימין בשמאל ושמאל בימין ונמצא שהכחיש ומנע שפע עליונה מן הנהר למדות וזהו סוד ויקח קרח פי׳ לקח השפע לבלתי לבא לתחתונים. ד"א ומדוע תתנשאו. אלמלא אתם לבדכם הייתם במעמד הר סיני אלא כולם היו במעמד מתן תורה כדא׳ את אשר ישנו פה עמנו. לפי שכל הרוחות והנשמות כולם היו באותו המעמד הנולדים ושיאינן נולדים היו כולם על הר סיני והבן.

וישמע משה ויפול על פניו. פי׳ שמע מחלקותם ועצתם מיד ויפל על פניו. פי׳ על פניו ודאי שהוא סוד הפנים והוא מטטרון שר הפנים לפי שכל הפנים נראים בה ומשה עשה נפילת אפים לאותה המדה שהוא סוד | עץ החיים והוא אילן המות לפי צה ע"ב שכל רוחות ונשמות של בני העולם בה נפקדים ומשה בא לאותו המדה לבלתי שלא להשחיתם.

ואנחנו נלך בשם יי אלהינו. פי׳ כ"ע שהוא אלהינו והוא מלכנו שהוא אחד בתכלית האחדות הפשוטות אשר לא תשתנה לזולתו לפי שכל הנמצאים והנבראים כולם הם מתאצלים מעומק המחשבה. לכן אין לנו אלא יי אחד וחורה אחת ומשפט אחד ומזבח אחד וכהן גדול אחד כדא׳ כולם נתנו מרועה אחד.

ותנו בהן אש. מן אש חצוני שהוא סוד העט׳. ד"א אש מצד שמאל. ושימו עליהם קטורת. מצד הבינה שהוא פנימי והוא קטורת. לפני יי. פי׳ לפני העילה הראשונה.

המעט מכם. חזר על קרח. כי הבדיל אלהי ישראל אתכם מעדת ישראל להקריב אתכם אליו ודאי. ויקרב אותך. לפי שהוא היה הגדול שבשבט שלו שנעשו אחיו טפלה לו. אמ׳ להם המחלוקת שאתם עושין אינה כנגדי אלא כנגד המקום שהוא ית׳ ויה׳. ובקשתם גם כהונה. פי׳ כהונה עליונה להחליף שמאל בימין וימין בשמאל. לכן אתה וכל עדתך. המתלוים עמך. הנועדים על יי ודאי כביכול שחירפו וגידפו למעלה.

הרעיפו שמים ממעל. מאי הרעיפו כדא׳ יערף כמטר לקחי. ועל צד שהוא מזון עליון אמ׳ ועל זה כל עיני עליונים ותחתוני׳ מצפין

להב"ה בשביל אותו מזון של כל.

בא וראה עשרים ושחים אותיות של התורה כולם הם מתפשטים באלו עשר מאמרות. וכל אמירה ואמירה מאלו כולם הם חקוקים באותיות חקוקות ובאותיות ידועות כל אחד ואחד על ענינו ומתכונתו. בגיני כך השם הקדוש נתכסה באותיות אחרים. וכל אמירה מודה ומשתחוה ומקבל עול של אמירה עליונה הימנו בשביל שנכלל זה בזה וזה בזה.

ועל זה שם הקדוש חקקתי אותו באותיות אחרים בשביל שיתכסה הכל זה בזה וזה בזה ואלו האותיות הם מורים על קשר היחוד

ושלשלת הקדוש ית' ויתי' עד שמקדישין כולם כאחד ביחוד אחד. לכן כל המשתמש בהם בקדושה ובטהרה ינצל מכל צרה וצוקה. וכל מי שאינו משתמש בהם בקדושה יאבד מן העולם הזה והעולם הבא. ואלו כ"ב אותיות הם נכתבים בכתיבה נכרית ובשביל שאנחנו בארץ סמאה אין אנו רשאין לכתוב אותה בכתיבה קדושה כדי שלא יתסמאו אלא באותה כתיבה הידוע. ואני הייתי חפץ לכותבם אלא בשביל הארכת הציורים והפסד הנייר וקיצור הזמן לא יכולתי להאריך בהם ע"כ. ועל זה מי שרוצה לידע אותן אותיות הרשומין בכל כתר וכתר יתייחד יחוד עליון בלבו ועל זה יזכה ויתקיים בכל. ואני חקקתי פעם אחת אותן האותיות הרשומים וידועים בכל כתר וכתר מספר העליון של השר החמשים שחיבר שר שלום גאון בעיר מייטבורך והולכתי זה השם עמי בכל הדרכים שעברתי. שבח לאל לא פגעתי בשום פגע רע אלא בעונות הרבים מרוב טלטול הדרך נאבד ממני אלא נרשם לי צורת אותן האותיות בקירוב. ואלו אותיות הם מצורפים עם שבעה אתי"ן שכתב רב הונא בקמיע שלו. מעשה היה ברומי שמלך אחד היה שם ושלח אחרי חכמי ישראל ואמ' להם תכתבו לי שם אחד בקמיע אם אכנס במלחמה כדי שאנצח לאויבי ואם אכנס בנהר עמוק ואעבור אותו ואם אכנס באש לא יזיקני. אמ' לו אדונינו תן לנו זמן ג' ימים. נתן להם זמן. בין כך נכנסו חכמי ישראל בעיצה מה לעשות עד שהסכימו כולם ואמרו לכתוב זאת הקמיע וכתבו שבעה אתי"ן. נכנס | במים בזה הקמיע לא נטבע. ובאש צו ע"ב

ולא ניזוק. ובמלחמה היה נוצח. ואחר כך הראה קמיע זו לחכם אחד ואמ' לו הראה אם יש בו שום טישטוש ותעתיק אותו לי על קלף אחר וכן עשה וטעה בקצת הדברים והביאו למלך ותלה אותו המלך עליו. עבר בו במים כמנהגו הראשון ונטבע ע"כ. להודיע לך על שם של שבעה אתי"ן כמה הוא כוחו גדול. וצריך הכותב שיכתוב אות הראשון בליל הראשון בשעת קריח הגבר. והשני בליל השני עד שיגיע לליל שבת צריך ליקח גוי אחד בטהרה ויחקוק אותו השם בליל שבת. וכל אלו הרשימות והחקיקות ידועים גבי החבריא. אשריהם הצדיקים בעולם הזה ובעולם הבא שהב"ה הפץ בכבודם ומגלה להם סודות עליונים של שם הקדוש שלא גילה אותו לעליונים קדושים.

ובשביל זה היה יכול משה להתעסר בין אותן המלאכים הקדושים וכולם לא היו יכולים להתקרב אצלו ואם לאו הכי היאך היה

יכול משה להתקיים ביניהם אלא אשרי חלקו של משה בתחילת דבירו עמו הב"ה רצה לידע סוד שמו הקדוש בנסתר ובנגלה כל אחד ואחד כראוי ומיד נדבק בו וידע יותר מכל בני העולם.

פרש' חוקת התורה. ר' יוסי פתח וזאת התורה אשר שם משה לפני בני ישראל. בא וראה דברים של תורה הם קדושים והם עליונים והם מתוקים כמו שכתו' הנחמדים מזהב ומפז רב.

ויבואו בני ישראל כל העדה מדבר צין. ר' יהודה אמ' למה פרשה זו סמוכה למיתת מרים. אלא כיון שנעשה דין בזה הפרה לטהר לטמאים נעשה דין במרים ונסתלקה מן העולם . כיון שנסתלקה מרים נסתלק אותו באר שהיה הולך עם ישראל במדבר ונסתלק באר של כל. פתח ואמ' ואתה בן אדם שא קינה על בתולת ישראל. וזהו סוד עליון דכתי' הושיעה ימינך. גופה דכתי' לבשו שמים קדרות דהא השמש נחשך בשבילה כדוגמא זה ותמת שם מרים ותקבר שם.

בא וראה לא היה מים לעדה. שהרי נסתלק הבאר של מעלה ושל משה ונשבר הימין דכתי' יאסף אהרן אל עמיו. ואחר כך נתחשך השמש דכתיב ומות בהר. וכתי' והאסף אל עמך גם אתה כאשר נאסף וכו' שהרי זרוע | הימין נשבר והגוף שהוא השמש צח ע"א נחשך. בא וראה לא נמצא דור בעולם כדורו של משה שמשה היה קיים בעולם ואהרן ומרים. וא"ת בימיו של שלמה היה ג"כ כך לאו דהא ימיו של שלמה שלם הירח והשמש נכנס ובימיו של משה נכנס הירח והשמש שלם. בא וראה שלשה אחים היו משה ואהרן ומרים כדא' ואשלח לפניך את משה וכו'. מרים היא הירח ומשה הוא השמש ואהרן הוא זרוע ימין.

חור הוא זרוע של שמאל. ויש אומרי' נחשון בן עמי נדב. בראשונה נסתלקה הירח* כדא' ותקח מרים הנביאה אחות אהרן ודאי שהוא זרוע הימין שהוא יתקרב לה באחדות אחד באחוה ובאהבת הריעים. וא"כ נאסף משה שהוא שמש כדא' והאסף אל עמך גם אתה. אשרי חלקו של משה ואהרן ומרים בעולם. בא וראה בימיו של שלמה המ' ע"ה הירח שלטה בתיקונה והיתה נראיה בעולם ונתקיים שלמה עליונה שהמאור שלו היה שולם בעולם. כיון שהירח ירד ונפגם בעונו היתה פוגמת יום אחר יום עד שהיתה נמצאת בקרן מערבית ולא יותר. אשרי חלקו של משה הנביא שכתי' בו וזרח השמש ובא השמש וכו'. בא וראה וזרח השמש. כשיצאו ממצרים שהשמש האיר לא ירח. ואל מקומו שואף זורח הוא שם הא כתי' ובא השמש במדבר עם שאד מתי מדבר.כיון שנכנס השמש לאי זה מקום נכנס אל מקומו בשביל להאיר לירח הה"ד שואף זורח הוא שם אע"ג שנכנס זורח הוא שם ודאי שהרי לא האיר הירח אלא מאור השמש וזהו סוד שכתי' והנך שוכב עם אבותיך*. אע"ג שאתה תכנס הנך להאיר לירח. כך הוא משה ועליו כתי' זה הפסו' מה יתרון לאדם בכל עמלו שיעמול וכו'. מה יתרון לאדם בכל עמלו זהו יהושע שנשתדל להוריש ארץ הקדוש לישראל ולא זכה להשלים הירח כראוי.

ומשם בארה היא הבאר. מאי לכא* בכאן בארה וא"כ באר אלא בארה אחר שנתקבצו המים בתוכה והם יורדים לתחתונים. ונקרא באר בשעה שיצחק ממלא אותו. היא הבאר הוא כתי' וסוד הוא כמו שכתי' ועבד הלוי הוא. ר' אבא אמ' בכל מקום הוא קרינן אותו היא זכר ונקבה כאחד. ה"א נקבה שהיא כנסת ישראל שהיא ה"א התחתונה וא"ו הזא הזכר שהוא תפ' ישראל כלל של כל שהרי האל"ף בשלימות שוכן בו. אשריהם ישראל אע"ג שהם למטה הם אחוזים בכלל העליון של כל ובגין | כך כתי' הוא עשנו ולא אנחנו. באל"ף צח ע"ב כתי' של וא"ו וה"א שכולל הכל. ר' שמעון אמ' הרוח ומים הוא רוח הקודש שהוא מנשב בראשונה כדאמ' הפיחי גני וא"כ נוזלים המים למלאות הכל כדא' ישב דוחו יזלו מים . ישב רוחו בראשונה וא"כ יזלו מים. ועד שלא מנשב זה הרוח לא נוזלים אלו המים. מאי קמ"ל משמע שצריך בכל לעורר הדבר במעשה או בדבר או להראות כמראה המעשה. ובכאן עד שלא ינשב הרוח אינן הולכים המים אצל אותו הרוח. הוא הבאר היא קרינן. מאי שנא בראשונה בארה ועכשיו באר אלא בראשונה נקבה

לבדה ועכשיו שאמ' הוא כלל זכר ונקבה נקרא באר. ובמקום שנמצא זכר אפי' מאה נקבות זכד אנו קוראין אותם. אסוף את העם בשביל זה אם באר לא סר מהם הבאר.

אבל אבניסך בין אולם ולמזבח בכל אלו הנפלאים כי רז"ל כל דבריהם דברי אלהים חיים והם רמזו סתרי דאוריתא ברמז כדי שיבינו המבינים והמשכילים כדא' והמשכילים יזהירו כזוהר הרקיע. בא וראה אז"ל הרי פרצוף אחד שברא הב"ה בבני אדם מלא היסס יש בו כמה מעיינות ואינן מתערבים זה בזה. וכבר ידעת שהפרצוף שהזכירו ז"ל הוא פרצוף האדם העליון שהוא עולם של עשר מדרגות המכונה בבן אדם לפי שהאדם הוא נקרא עולם קטן כנגד עולם העליון וזהו סוד שהזכירו ז"ל דו פרצופין נמצא שהצורה העליונה נקרא פרצוף ואותו פרצוף הוא בבן אדם העליון ההי"ד אחרי עורי נקפו זאת ומבשרי אחזה אלוה וארז"ל שבזה האדם יש פרצוף כמלא היסס ויש בו אותן המעיינות מהם מלוחים מהם מתוקים מהם שמנים מהם סרוחים ואין מתערבין אלו עם אלו כי כל אחד ואחד מן אלו הנהרות והמעיינות נוטל גבולו עד אנה הוא נמשך ויוצא כדי שלא יתערב בנבול חברו אלא בגזירת האדון העליון ית' שמו ויתׂ הדרו. וארבעה מעיינות אלו הם בפרצוף האדם מתחלת העינים עד הפה והוא כמלא היסס. וארז"ל מי העינים מלוחים למה כשאדם בוכה על המת בכל שעה היה מסתמא אלא על שהן מלוחין פוסק ואינו בוכה. אבל הא לך סודו. כי העינים רומזים למדת המטרוניתא שהיא בומה כביכול על בן זוגה הנפרד ממנה בשביל עון הדור והיא יושבת ובוכה עליו בכל יום כדא' ויקרא יי אלהים צבאות ביום ההוא לבכי ולמספד ולקרחה ולחגור שק. ועוד | כתי' קול ברמה נשמע צט ע"א נהי בכי תמרורים רחל מבכה על בניה מאנה וכו'. נמצא שבכיה נתיחם לכנסת ישראל שהיא בוכה מפני שמימיה מלוחים בשביל שמעיינות מלוחים נמשכים לה מצד המורתה הנקראת גפרית ומלח שריפה כל ארצה לא תזרע וכו' כמו ששנינו יש מים מלוחים מים שאובין ע"כ. והיא נקראת עינים כדא' והשב בפתח עינים וכתי' על אבן אחת שבעה עינים. ואותן העינים נמשך בהם מן אותן מעיינות המלוחים של החיצוניים והיא בוכה על בעלה שהוא נסתלק ממנה והוא נחשב כמו מת. מכאן ראיה מי שהוא יושב בלא זוג הברכות אינן שוכנים עליו ובמקום שאין הברכות מצויים אין שם חיים כדאמ' ראה חיים עם אשה אשר אהבת. ובזמן שאין שם

חיים עליונים ובמקום הפירוד נסתלק משם החיים לכן כיון שתפ' ישראל נסתלק מן המטרוניתא כביכול נשאר הוא בלא חיים עליונים והיא יושבת עגומה ובוכה עד זה היום על בעל נעוריה כדא' קול ברמה נשמע נהי בכי תמרורים רחל מבכה על בניה וכו'. אבל על שהן מלוחין פוסק ואינו בוכה.

ומפני מה מי האזנים שמנים לפי שבשעה שאדם שומע באזניו שמועה קשה אל מלא תופשה באזניו מתקשרת ומת ומתוך שהם שמנים מכניס בזה ומוציא בזה. וכבר תדע שהאזנים הם רומזים לשתי מדות העליונות שהם חכמה ובינה הנקראים האזנים והם אזני יי כדאמ' שמעה אזני ותבן לה. הוא רומז לעולם הבינה שהוא אזני ולא יתכן עניין באזן אחד אלא בשתי אזנים נמצא שאלו שתי מדות חכמ' ובינה שהם אזנים וכיון שמעיינותיהם שמנים מכח שנמשך ויוצא מן המבוע של שמן העליון כדא' כשמן הטוב על הראש וכו'. ומתוך שהם שמנים מכניס בזה ומוציא בזה לפי שאלו שתי המדרגות הם שופכות אחת לאחת. כעין דגמא זה באדם התחתון מי אזניו שמנים כדא' נעשה אדם בצלמנו כדמותינו.

מפני מה מי החוטם סרוחין. שבזמן שאדם מריח ריח רעה אל מלא שהחוטם מימיו סרוחין שמעמידין אותו מיד מת. אבל סוד החוטם הוא נפלא ונסתר ונעלם וזהו סוד בעל החוטם כדא' ותהלתי אחטם לך. ומימיו הם סרוחין מל' סרח העודף שהוא תוספת לפי שאותו הנהר נמשך ויוצא לעולם כדא' ונהר יוצא מעדן. יוצא כתי' ולא יצא ומימיו לא יכזבו ולא יפסקו | לעולם ולעולמי עולמים. שבזמן צט ע"ב שאדם מריח ריח רעה מכח חוזק הדין שהוא מבאיש והוא נקרא יצר הרע המפתה את הבריות למושכם מדרך החיים לדרך הרע. והוא כשאור שבעיסה וזהו סוד זבובי מות יבאיש יביע שמן רוקח. ונמצא שריח הרע מתעורר מצד דין הקשה ותמורתו לולי שמעיינות של החוטם סרוחין ועודפים במשיכתם ויציאתם מעולם העליון לפי שמדת החוטם שהוא רחמים גמורים מעמידין ומסלקין ומשככין חוזק הדין וסורחנו כעין דוגמא זה באדם התחתון.

ומפני מה מי הפה מתוקים. פעמים שאדם אוכל אכילה ואינה מתקבלת בלבו ומקיאה. אם אין מי הפה מתוקים אין נפשו חוזרת. מי הפה רומזים למי החסד שהם מתוקים מדבש ונופת צופים והוא חפץ בבנין העולם לפי שהוא רחמים. פעמים שאדם אוכל אכילה ואינה מקבלת

בלבו ומקיאה. פ' אותן הנשמות שהם נבראים בזה העולם וגרמו לעצמן דחייה לעולם התמורות מיד הם נכרתים ונדחים בכח הדוחה ממדה למדה עד המלכות ומשם הוא נמשך לחוץ עד שיקבל ענשו ונמצא שמדת החסד של הארץ מקיאה אותם לחוץ כדא' ותטמא הארץ וכתי' ותקיא הארץ את יושביה. לפי שהיא מקיאה ודוחה אותם לחוץ. אם אין מי הפה מתוקים לפי שהחסד עושה חסד עם הבריות לולי הוא אותו הנפש הדחויה אינה חוזרת לעולם אלא לפי שמימיו הם מתוקים תתעלה הנפש מגריעות לעילוי וזהו סוד ומתוקים מדבש ונופת צופים. לפי שהוא בעל החסד והרחמים לפי' מי הפה מתוקין.

ועל זה יש לך לעשות ק"ו ומה מלא היסס הזה שהזכרנו יש בו כמה מעיינות ואינן מתערבין זה עם זה אלא כל מעין ומעיין הוא נמשך לגבולו הים הגדול על אחת כמה וכמה. וזהו סוד זה הים גדול ורחב ידים שם רמש ואין מספר.

ד"א זאת חוקת התורה זש"ה מי יתן טהור מטמא לא אחד. אבל סוד הענין אותו המבדיל בין טהור וטמא והאציל הטהרה לצדו וטומאה לצדו. לא אחד פי' כ"ע הנקרא לא והסוד בזה הוא עשנו ולא אנחנו עמו וצאן. ד"א מי פי' הבינה שהיא קרויה מי כדא' את מי נועץ ויבינהו.

בא וראה התינוקות שהיו בימי דוד ע"ה עד שלא יטעמו טעם חטא היו יודעין לדרוש את התורה בארבעים ותשע פנים טמא ובארבעי' והשע פנים טהור והיה דוד ע"ה מבקש ומתפלל עליהם רחמים ואומ' | אתה יי תשמרם תצרנו מן הדור זו לעולם. ק ע"א

בא וראה בפרשת פרה אדומה יש בה ז' משבעה. שבע פרות שבע שרופות שבע הזיות שבעה כבוסין שבעה טמאין שבעה טהורים שבעה כהנים. ואם יאמ' לך אדם חסר הם אמור לו משה ואהרן בכלל היו כדא' וידבר יי אל משה ואל אהרן לאמר. זאת חוקת התורה וכו'.

חכמת אדם תאיר פניו. אמ' ר' יודן גדול כוחן של נביאים שמדמין דמות גבורה של מעלה לצורת אדם שנא' ואשמע קול אדם. ר' יהודה אמ' מהכא ועל דמות הכסא דמות כמראה אדם עליו מלמעלה. ועוז פניו ישונא. שהוא משתנה ממדת הדין למדת רחמים. אבל על דרך הסוד העליון מי בהחכם. היה לו לומ' מהו בהחכם. אלא ודאי סוד עליון הוא כי הה"א רומז למדת העולם הבא הנקרא יובל והיא ה"א עליונה

של שם הקדוש והיא ה"א של הקדוש ב"ה הנקרא חכמה עליונה קדומה. מי יודע פשר דבר וכו'. פי' מדת הבינה הנקרא מי יודע פשר דבר של עומק המחשבה לפי שהלשון תוציא מה שעלה במחשבה ומפרש הפשר והפתרון של עומק המחשבה ותעלומה אל הפועל וזהו סוד יש מאין לפי שהוא מוציא דבר האין והנעלם אל היש ונמצא מי שהוא בינה יודע פשר דבר של האין שהוא כ"ע. חכמת אדם תאיר פניו. לפי שהחכמה העליונה שהיא של אדם העליון תאיר פניו פי' לתפ' הנקרא פנים של החכמה שהיא מאירה אור הקדמון לפנים של אדם. דא' תאיר פניו פי' היא תאיר פני העט' הנקראת פנים וזהו סוד לחם הפנים לפי שהיא מקבלת מכל הפנים ונקראת מסטרון שר הפנים. ועוז פניו. פי' מדת הגבורה הנקרא עוז של פניו ישוגא שישתנה ממדת הדין למדת רחמים כדא' עלה אלהים בתרועה יי וכו'. ד"א ועוז פניו ישונא שהיא משתנה בכמה בגדים ובכמה צבעונים וגוונים כדא' ופשט את בגדיו ולבש בגדים אחרים. ד"א מי כההכם. אל תיקרי כההכם אלא כה חכם רומז למדת הכה שנא' כה תברכו את בני ישראל. ונמצאת שמדת כה נקרא חכם וזהו ששנינו חכם בבינה והבן בחכמה. ומי יודע פשר דבר שמדת העט' שמפרש ענין עומק המחשבה עד שיצא לפועל והסוד בזה כי הגידה אסתר מה הוא לה וזהו סוד פשר דבר. ד"א חכמת אדם תאיר | פניו. ק ע"ב זהו החכמה שאדם עוסק בה היא תאיר פניו של האדם עד שיאירו כשמש כדא' והמשכילים יזהירו כזוהר הרקיע.

בא וראה ישראל שעמדו לפני הר סיני פסקה זוהמתן לפי שהטיל הנחש זוהמא בחוה הידועה ונשאר בה עד יום שעמדו לפני הר סיני כדא' היו נכונים לשלשת ימים אל תגשו אל אשה. כדי לטהר עצמן

מכל מיני טומאה. אבל כשעשו את העגל חזרה זוהמתן ונטמאו ברוח הטומאה ששכן עליהם מכח העגל שעשו כדא' ולא שתו איש עדיו עליו. משמע שהב"ה הסיר מהם אותו התכשיט שהכתיר עליהם לפני הר סיני ונמצא שנטמאו בטומאה לפי שנדבקו בעגל שהוא טמא בטומאה חזזית. לפי' אנו צריכין לעשות כל אלו העניינים כדי להסיר אותה הטומאה מעלינו וזהו סוד יבא פרה ויקנח צואת בנה שהוא עגל לכן אלו העניינים הם דברים נסתרים ונעלמים ונכוחים לכל מבין.

בא וראה וישלח משה מלאכים וכו'. ואין משה אלא משה העליון הנקרא יעקב סבא כי משה ויעקב במדרגה אחת הם. ואותה המדה נקרא עתיק יומין וסתימא של כל הסתימין והוא ראש הלבן לפי שהמדה הזאת היא עולם הרחמים הגדולים כדא' ברגע קטן עזבתיך וברחמים גדולים אקבציך. והוא הנקרא רצון כל הרצונות והחפץ המבוקש. והיא מלבנת עונותיהם של ישראל כדא' לבושיה כתלג חיור ושער רישיה. אימתי כשיתגלה פני הרצון והרחמים והויות של הלובן יורדים לעולמות וזהו סוד וישלח משה מלאכים שהוא מדת משה סבא. מלאכים אלו הן ההויות של רחמים כדי לשכך ולשקט רוגז הדין שהוא בית דין | הקשה קא ע"א הנקרא מלך אדום כדא' חרב ליי מלאה דם. מיד ישתכך חוזק הדין. לכן ראשית כל המראות לובן. תכליה כל המראות שחרות לפי שמדה העליונה בתכלית הלובן כדאמ' אם יהיו חטאיכם כשנים כשלג ילבינו. ויש מקום בהר מחוץ למחנה בתכלית השחרות והסימן בזה המבדיל בין קדש לחול ובין אור לחושך. והכל רמז בפסוק מפני שיבה תקום והדרת פני זקן.

ד"א וישלח משה מלאכים מקדש אל מלך אדום. משה הוא מדת התפ' הנקרא משה העליון. מקדש. אל תיקרי מקדש אלא מקודש שהוא עולם העליון הנקרא קדש הקדשים הוא מקום המחשבה ר"ל כשיתעורר מלך אדום שהוא דין הקשה לבוא להתעורר בדינו מכח הבינה הנקרא אלהים וישלוף חרבו הקשה כדא' וחרבו שלופה בידו נטויה על ירושלם. אזי משה שהוא מדת רחמים הוא בא להמשיכו ולפייסו בדברים רבים ושולח לו המלאכים שהם החיות הדקות הפנימיות שהם גווני לבן בתכלית הלובן שכולל כל לובן כדי לשכך ולשקט רוגז מעומק כ"ע שהוא רחמים גדולים כדא' וברחמים גדולים.

כה אמר אחיך ישראל שהוא קו האמצעי והוא ממוצע בין

שתי הדינין נמצא שתפ' הוא אח לישראל לפי שישראל מקבל ממנו.

אתה ידעת את כל התלאה אשר מצאתנו. פי' שסבלנו בסבתך. כי עניין ישראל הוא יסוד הרחמים כי הוא מקבל הרחמים מעומק המחשבה שהוא מאור והופיע מאור הצח המצוחצח אזי יופיעו עמו כל מיני שפעים אוחרנין וגוונים ומראות של שאר המדרגות. אימתי בזמן שעומק העולם מסתכל בפניו אל פני העולמות התחתונות הנקרא עולם המשפט כדא' באור פני מלך חיים פי' כשפני כ"ע מאיר לפנים התחתונים אזי החיים נמצאים למעלה ולמטה. ובכל מקום שכתי' בפסוק אור הם רומזים לפנים של מעלה והוא סוד בהיות שערי רחמים הגדולים נפתחים וכל המדרגות מתמלאות רחמים וחיים ואז כל העולמות בחסד וברחמים ואין כח בכל בעלי דין לפגוע בשום בריה מצד דין ועונש כלל וזהו סוד שאמ' הכתו' רבים אומרים מי יראינו טוב נסה עלינו אור פניך יי. ודאי אור פני עליון. וכתי' אל יי ויאר לנו. האירה פניך על עבדך | וכתי' ישר יחזו פנימו. ישר יחזה פנימו מיבעי ליה. קא ע"ב

אלא יחזו פנימו בהיות עולם הרחמים ועולם הדין מסתכלין פנים אל פנים אז הכל ברחמי' ובשלימות.

דרשו יי בהמצאו קראוהו בהיותו קרוב. והלא כתי' קרוב יי לכל קוראיו. והלא הוא קרוב לכל מהו שכתי' בהיותו קרוב אלא ודאי יש כאן סוד עליון. בא וראה בזמן שפני מלך עולם עליון שהוא עומק המחשבה העליונה מהפך פניו אל עולם התחתון אזי הוא קרוב לכל המתדבקים בו ותפלתם של ישראל עולה ומתעטר עד ראש מלך מ"ה הב"ה יתי' ויתי' אזי הוא קרוב לרצות ולהריק הרצון של כל הרצונות. אבל כביכול שפני העליון סותם אורו ומראה פנים של כעס מכח האדמימות אז העין נסתם והפנים מתלהטים באש אזי הוא רחוק כביכול והשפע העליונה נמנע והעולמות הם מצפים למים כדא' להשקות את הגן. אבל בזמן שהוא קרוב אזי הוא מצוי לכל הקוראים לו כדא' בהמצאו. ואין בהמצאו אלא מל' מוצא מים פי' שאותו מוצא של העין המבוע נפתח ושולח מימיו לכל המעלות אזי העולמות בשמחה והברכות נמצאים למעלה ולמטה.

ד"א בהמצאו לפי שהוא מציאות עליון ממקום עי' העי' שהוא סתימא של הסתימין ועל זה הוא מציאות קדמון לכל קדמון ומצוי לכל נמצא אשר מאמחתו נתגלו הספי' וזהו דבר עמוק ונסתר מאד וזהו סוד דרשו יי בהמצאו קראוהו בהיותו קרוב לכל המדרגות.

ואכבדהו אדבקהו באור הנקרא כבוד. ואמנם יש לך
להבין בעניין אור כבוד ראשון שהוא סוד אהיה והוא סוד הכתר העליון
הוא הרמוז בקוצו של יו"ד של שם יהוה לפי שממנו ישאבו מים כל הספי'
עד שיגיעו למלכות שהוא שם אדני. ויש בעניין שם אהיה סודות עמוקות
ונסתרות ואין לי להאריך כאן בו לפי שעוררתיך באלו העומקים בכמה
מקומות לכן איני צריך להאריך בו עכשיו. לפי שספי' הכתר היא נסתרת
ונעלמת בעומק המחשבה אין מי שיכול לחקור בה דבר כי אם על ידי
שמיעת אזן ולא על ידי ידיעה כדמיון מה שכתי' אבדון ומות אמרו
באזנינו שמענו שמעה. אלהים הבין דרכה והוא ידע את מקומה. ולפי
רוב התעלמותו נקראת בתורה בל' הוא כמי שאינו עומד לנוכח הפנים.
וכבר ביארתך כי הכתר העליון שהוא אהיה והקו הבינוני שהוא מדת
יעקב וסוד המסרוניתא כל אלו השלש הן ראש וסוף ואמצע לכל אתת
מהן יש בתורה לשון ידוע שרומז על אותה ספי'. כי לשון אהיה רמוז
בתורה | בלשון הוא כמי שאינו פנים אל פנים לפי רוב קב ע"א
התעלמותו וממנו יהאצלו כל מיני סליחה וכפרה. בשער זה הוא מעביר
כל מיני דינין קשין ומבטלם בהתגלותו. לפי' אמ' והוא רחום יכפר
עון וכו'. והסוד בזה הוא ההלתך והוא אלהיך. כי הוא אלהינו עם מרעיתו
וצאן ידו. יי הוא האלהים. ואצ"ל כי הכתר הספי' העליונה היא נרמזת
לכל ספי' וספי' כדא' הוא עם תהלה הוא תהלתך והוא אלהיך. אשרי האזן
שומעת להבין אלו הנסתרים. כבר הוא ידוע למקובלים מהו תהלתך ומהו
אלהיך כי במקום זה רומז על צדק עליון וצדק תחתון שהוא סוד שני
ההי"ן של שם המיוחד שבהם כל הספי' נקשרות ולפי' אמ' לשון הוא
עם כל אחת מהן כלו' שעולם הרחמים נתגלה לישראל בצאתם ממצרים
וכי צד נתנהג עמהם במדבר כאומרו אשר עין בעין נראה אתה יי וכו'.
וזהו סוד ותחס עיני עליהם משחתם ולא עשיתי אותם כלה במדבר. וזהו
טעם המן והבאר ושליו ועגני הכבוד ושאר נסים ונפלאות שבמדבר לפי'
נאמ' הוא תהלתך והוא אלהיך. שאל מלא שספי' הרחמים הנקרא הוא
היתה נגלית המיד במדבר על ספי' העט' והיתה משפעת לה ברכותיה
ואור הפנים והרחמים כמה פעמים עשתה ספי' אדני לישראל כלה במדבר
וזהו סוד ועתה יגדל נא כח יי. ואומ' יי ארך אפים ורב חסד ואמת וכו'.
וכמה עומקים גדולים כלולים במקומות הללו וזהו סוד שאמ' הוא תהלתך
והוא אלהיך. ולפי' אמ' להלן בפסו' זה אשר עשה אתך את הגדולות

ואת הנוראות האלה אשר ראו עיניך. ובדרך זה צריך אדם להתבונן
בכל מקום שאמ' בתורה בענין זה לשו' הוא כי הדבר רומז בקשר ספי'
עולם הרחמים עד שאר הספי' ודבר זה עמוק עד מאד. וצריך אתה למסרו
בקבלה מפה אל פה לדעת הדרך אשר ילך בה להתבונן כי צד ספי' הרחמים
נגלית על שאר הספי' וכי צד היא מהפכת מדת הדין למדת רחמים וכל
זה ברמזים שבאו בתורה בל' הוא וזהו סוד ראו עתה כי אני אני הוא
וכמה ביוצא בזה.

ואחר שביארתי לך קצת הרמזים בספי' הכתר הנקרא הוא
צריכין אנו לומ' כי מדת התפ' הנקרא יהוה גם היא הרמוז עליה בתורה
הוא לשון אתה וסימניך אתה ולפי שספי' התפ' הנקרא יהוה פעליה
גלוים יותר מספי' הכתר נקראת בתורה ברמז בל' אתה כמי שעומד
לנוכח* וזהו סוד התחלת התפלות אתה חונן. אתה קדשת. אתה בחרתנו.
אתה אחד. ולשון קביעות הברכות בל' אתה כדא' ברוך אתה יי למדני
חוקיך. וכן המדרגה האחרונה נקראה אדני הלשון הרומז עליה בתורה
הוא לש' אני כדא' ראו עתה כי אני אני הוא. וזהו אני אני היודע* יניקתה
דרך גדולה | וגבורה ודרך נצח והוד. פעמים יונקת קב ע"ב
מצד הרחמים ויהיה כל העולם בטובה ובשלימות. ופעמים יונקת מצד
הדין וכל העולם במיני צער ועונש. וזהו שאמ' ראו עתה כי אני אני הוא.
וא"כ פי' אני אמית ואחיה מחצתי ואני ארפא. משמ' למדת העט' יש
בה שתי סגולות לחיות ולהמית ולמחוץ ולרפוא בשביל שיש בו סוד
האיפשר.

ואצ"ל כי לרוב התעלמות ספי' הכתר והיותה נסתרת מכל
הנמצאים ואין מי שיוכל להתבונן בה זולחי לשמע אזן כמו שכתבנו למעלה
לפי' נקראת בתורה בל' אין כדא' היש יי בקרבנו אם אין. שהם סוד
שתי הספי' העליונות המתאחדות באות ראשונה של שם יח'. ועוד אצ"ל
ג"כ סוד מה שרמז והחכמה מאין תמצא. באמת כי סוד יו"ד של השם
יח' מסוד הקוץ העליון נתגלית וזהו והחכמה מאין תמצא. וסימניך אות
ונקודה עליה.

נקדמה פניו בתודה יש מי שהוא מקדים להם* והא כתי'
מי הקדימני ואשלם. אלא במה אקדים יי כלו' באי זה תפלה ותחנונים
ומעשים טובים אעשה כענין שיתגלו פני הרחמי' קדם בשאר הספי'
במה אקדים יי. המבין זה העיקר יבין כמה סודות וכמה ענייניים בדמיון

רמזים חדש ימינו כקדם. מעונה אלהי קדם ומתחת זרועות עולם. למטה משלש ספי' הנקשרות כאחד בספי' קדם הם זרועות עולם. והבן כל זה.

וישלח ישראל מלאכים אל סיחון מלך האמרי. ואין ישראל אלא ישראל סבא שהוא סוד כ"ע הנקרא זקן כדא' לבושיה כתלג חיור. שאין בו ידיעה לזולתו הוא השם המסתתר בשפיר חביון והממונה על עולם הרחמים והזה זה השם יש לו י"ב מיני צרופין ונקודת הרחמים מקור הויה באמצע. ואלו י"ב מיני צרופין ונקודת האמצע הם סוד תליסר מכילתא דרחמי אשר הם כולם רחמים גדולים ואין בהם תערובת דין .ואותם י"ב צרופין של שם המיוחד והקו האמצעי מתוך בנתים הם סוד י"ג מדות המחזיקות דין ורחמים וכשיופיעו מדות העליונות משם הכתר שהוא אהיה אשר הם כולם ברחמים אני יתמלאו כל הספי' וכל העולמות ברכה ורחמים וכל מיני שפע.

ואצ"ל כי צד דע כי בהיות צדיק בעולם שהוא ראוי להתכוון בתפלתו עד עולם הרחמים והרצון אע"פ שנגזרה גזירה בבית דין של מעלה כשאותה התפלה של אותו צדיק עולה עד הכתר אזי נפתחים שערי עולם הרחמים. וכשיפתחו כל אותן השערים אזי כל אותן הדינין שנגזרו מתבטלין לפי שמאורות הרחמים העליונים הופיעו ונתמלאו כל הספי' רחמים ומיני שפע וברכה ואצילות. ואין בכל הספי' באותה שעה מקום שיהא מחזיק דין שהרי נפתחו שערי עולם הרחמים ונתמלאו כל הצינורות וכל האוצרות | וכל הבריכות רחמים גמורים. ואין שם קג ע"א מדה מחזקת כעס ורוגז לפי שהכל עומדי' בשמחה וברצון ועברו כל מיני הזעם ונהפכו כל בעלי הדין לרחמים. וכל הטובה הזאת שופעת מרחמים העליונים המשפיעים דרך שלשה עשר צינורות העליונות בי"ג מדות אשר בעולם המשפט. וכל זה אינו מצד גזר דין אלא מצד רצון ורחמים ואע"פ שאין בני אדם ראויין לכך מאחר שאותו צדיק גרם להיות שערי עולם הרחמי' נפתחים הכל מתנהג במדת רחמים שלא מצד הדין וזהו וחנותי את אשר אחון. ואע"פ שלא יצא מן הדין שהרי כשהופיעו פני הרחמים מן הכתר כל העולמות נהפכין לרחמים וזה העניין הוא מעניין התפלה וגם מצד עשיית קצת מצות שהן גורמות להיות שערי עולם הרחמים נפתחין כגון נשיאות כפים וסוד הקטורת ושאר מצות כיוצא בהם.

ראה שהגיע הקץ וראה שלא היו ישראל ראויין לגאולה אזי נתגלו פני הכתר עולם הרחמים הגמורים ואזי נתמלאו כל הספי' וכל הצינורות חסד ורחמים ועברו פני הזעם שהרי כל הספי' היו עומדות בשמחה ובחדוה שהרי נתגלו פני הרחמים הגדולים וזהו שאמ' הב"ה למשה כה תאמר לבני ישראל אהיה שלחני אליכם. כלו' עולם הרחמים הגמורים נתגלה על כל הספי' והופיע שם אהיה ונהפכה מדת הדין למדת רחמים ובסבה זו אתם נגאלין כי לא הייתם ראויים להגאל מצד מעשיכם הרעים אלא שהגיע הקיץ ונתגלו פני הרחמים ובשם הרחמים שהוא אהיה אתם נגאלין אע"פ שאינכם ראויים לכך לפי שזה השם שהוא אהיה והוא עולם הרחמים עושה חסד ומטיב ומרחם וחונן שלא מצד הדין כמו שנא' וחנותי את אשר אחון. וזהו סוד שמסר הב"ה למשה שם אהיה בגאולת מצרים.והמבין מה שביארנו בכאן יוסיף בסחון ושמחה וידע כמה הם רחמי השם ית' על בריותיו ויותר ויותר על ישראל שמטיב להם וחונן ומרחם עליהם בהתגלות עולם הרחמים אע"פ שאינם ראויין לאותם הרחמים וזהו עניין יציאת מצרים והטעם שהזכיר בה שם אהיה. ואם ח"ו גרמו ישראל ונפסק הדין בבית דינו של יהוה ויצא מן הדין שספי' יסוד ראויה להסתלק ממדת המלכות אזי היא עת החרבן והגליות ונקראת עת רעה וזהו שאמ' כי מפני הרעה נאסף הצדיק. ואזי נשארת ספי' המלכות הנקראת אדני יבשה מכל טוב העליון ומתמלאת מכל מיני דין ועונש ומיני משחית אוי לבריות שהיא פוגעת בהם באותה שעה שאין מי שימלט מידה וגומרת הדין באף ובחמה ובקצף גדול. אבל בהופיע שם אהיה על שם יהוה ית' וילכו הרחמים דרך הצינורות לשם יהוה אזי כל הספי' מתתקנות וכל הצינורות מתישרות | והולכות בהם כל מיני שפע קג ע"ב ורחמים וברכות לשם אדני. אזי הוא עת רצון ואז ספי' המלכות מקבלת כל מיני שפע וברכה משם אהיה ומשם יהוה ית' ואזי כל ברואי עולם עליונים ותחתונים בשמחה ובששון ובכל מיני נחת רוח ונמצא העו' מלא שלום וריעות. והיודעים לסדר שלשה המערכות הללו בזמן הנביאים והתנאים והאמוראין היו דוחין כל הגזירות והיו עומדין לישראל מגן וצנה וסוחרה והיו מנועי* ומתקנין צינורות יהוה להיות נמשכים לשם אדני והיו עולין בתפלתם עד מקום הרצון והיו פותחין שערי עולם הרחמים והיו הספי' מתמלאות שפע רחמים ואור שאין לו סוף ושיעור. ואם הוא מן הדין שאין אתה ראוי לרחמים הוא יתן לך מתנת חנם ואע"פ שאינך

ראוי כי זהו דרך הרחמים העליונים והפנים המאירים לתת מתנת חנם כמו שכתי׳ וחנותי את אשר אחון. וזהו סוד יאיר יי פניו אליך ויחנך. והנה זה הוא מפתח שתכנס בו לכמה חדרים בתורה אשר ננעלו עליהם השערים ואשרי העם אשר מסר השם להם מהנת חמדה כזאת והמבין זה יבין מה שאמ׳ בראש השנה בעניין גזר דין דצבור או דיחיד שהוא נקרע.

ויסעו מקדש וכו׳. פי׳ כביכול נסעו מקדושה עליונה שהוא סוד עולם הרחמים שהוא מרחם על כל בריותיו והם גרמו בזה הנסיעה שנסתלק מהם השגחת עולם הרחמים שהוא סוד העין המשגיח העין הטוב העין שאינו ינום ולא ישן. ובאו להר ההר והגיעו ובאו עד למדת העט׳ הנקראת הר ההר ונדבקו ועזבו עולם הרחמים בעניין הנסיון שאמ׳ היש יי בקרבנו אם אין. בהר ההר על גבול ארץ אדום לאמר. כי זה הר ההר שהזכרנו הוא על גבול ארץ אדום שהוא סוד ההוד המקבל מן אודם הגבורה שהוא סוד מדוע אדום ללבושיך.

ואצ״ל כי בימים שיש בהם תפלת מוסף צריכין להזכיר בקדושה כתר יתנו לך יי אלהינו וכו׳ ואותו הכתר הוא מקבוץ כל התפלות והתושבחות שנעשו בתפלת יוצר וכל המוני מעלה ומטה מפארים כאחד בשליחות הכתר אל עומק מציאותו הראשון ואזי ממתינים אלו לאלו כדי שיתיחדו כולם ותהיינה התפלות עולות עד עולם רצון הרצונות כדי שתהיה פרנסת כל העולמות נמשיכת מעומק המציאות כי כל המוני מעלה מצפים ומחכים מתי תצא להם מתנת הכתר במה שיתקיימו והסוד בזה עיני כל אליך ישברו וכתי׳ פותח את ידך ומשביע לכל חי רצון. ודע כי על ידי הרצון יפיק כל חי צרכיו מאת הכתר. והספי׳ הזאת נקראת ראש הלבן כמו שפירשתי בספר הגבול לפי שהיא עולם הרחמים הגדולי׳ והרצון והחפץ והיא מלבנת עונותיהם של ישראל בהתגלות פני הרצון והרחמים. | ואצ״ל כי ראשית כל המראות לובן תכלית קד ע״א של כל המראות שחרות ולפי שכל המראות הם בשאר גוונים וצבעים והספי׳ הזאת בתכלית הלובן. ויש מקום בהר מחוץ למחנה בתכלית השחרות וסימניך ומבדיל בין קודש לחול ובין אור לחושך והסוד בזה ועד זקנה אני הוא ועד שיבה אני אסבול וכו׳.

ויחנו מעבר ארנון אשר במדבר וכו׳. כי ארנון רומז לתפ׳ שהוא נקרא ארון של נ׳ שלשם מתקבצים ומתפצלים חמשים שערי

בינה ונכנס הנו״ן בין האותיות והוא עומד בין שתי הגבולים.

על כן יאמר בספר מלחמות יי. פי׳ ספר מלחמות הוא סיפר ברית יי שהוא ספר מלחמות שהב״ה עושה באותו הספר כל מלחמותיו. והיא נקראת את והב בסופה וכו׳. אה מל׳ אות כדשנינו אות הוא בצבא שלו שכל הצבעים והגוונים והאספקלריאות נראים בזה הספר הנקרא אות כדא׳ קק״ק יי צבאות וכו׳. ד״א אות. אימתי נקראת העט׳ אות בזמן שהוא״ו שהוא סוד התפ׳ נכנס בין אל״ף לתי״ו ויתצרף לאות אזי המלך מתחבר עם המטרוניתא ואזי היא נקראת אות והיא מליאה ושלימה מכל צד והברכות כולם נמצאים בה. ובזמן שאין הוא״ו יכנס בין האותיות אזי נקראת את אזי היא בתכלית החסרון והגריעות. והב. היא נקראת והב מל׳ הב הב שהיא אומרת לעולם הזכר הב הב לי מימיך המתוקים לרוות צמאוני. ד״א והב בשביל שהיא מקבלת מלמעלה השפע ונותנת למטה לשאר המרכבות העומדים תחתיה. בסופה. והיא נקראת בסופה שהיא נקראת סוף כל המדרגות והספי׳ כדשנינו נעוץ סופן בהתחילתן ותחלתן בסופן. ד״א בסופה אל תקרי בסופה אלא סופה מל׳ סופה וסערה שהיא מקבלת רוח קדים וסופה וסערה ממקום עולם הגבורה. ואת הנחלים. רומזים למדת נצח והוד הנקראים ערבי נחל כדא׳ כל הנחלים הולכים אל הים והים אינינו מלא. ד״א ואת הנחלים ארנון אלו הן שאר הנחלים והנהרות שהם בתוך העט׳ הנקרא ארון יי והיא הארון שבתורה הקדומה מונחת בתוכה והיא מקבלת חמשים שערי בינה מן אם הבנים שמחה. ויכנס הנו״ן בין האותיות אזי היא נקראת ארנון ודיי בזה לכל משכיל. אשריהם ישראל בעולם הזה ובעולם הבא שמסר להם הקב״ה תורתו הקדושה והנחילם לחיי העולם הבא. נשלם פרש׳ חוקת ואתחיל פרש׳ בלק בע״ה ב״ה. |

פרש׳ בלק בן צפור. וירא בלק בן צפור את כל אשר עשה ישראל. קד ע״ב ר׳ חייא פתח ואמ׳ הצור תמים פעלו כי כל דרכיו משפט אל אמונה ואין עול צדיק וישר הוא. בא וראה לא הניח הב״ה לאומות העולם פתחון פה לעתיד לבא לומ׳ שאתה רחקתנו ולא נתת לנו כמו שנתת לישראל בעולם.

ויאמר בלעם אל מלאך יי חטאתי כי לא ידעתי כי אתה נצב לקראתי בדרך ועתה אם רע בעיניך אשובה לי. להודיעך שהיה רשע גמור ויודע שאין עומד בפני הפורענות אלא תשובה שכל מי שחטא

ואומ׳ חטאתי אין רשות למלאך ליגע בו. כי לא ידעתי. אע״פ שהוא משתבח ואומ׳ יודע דעת עליון פיו העיד בו ואומ׳ לא ידעתי.

בא וראה בשעה שראה בלק שהרי סיחון ועוג נהרגו ונלכד ארצותם*. מה ראה שהוא אמ׳ וירא אלא ראה בחכמה שלו שהוא ותמשה גדולים של מואב עמו נופלין ביד ישראל ראה ולא ידע ועל זה הקדים לבלעם שכוחו בפיו כעין דוגמא ישראל שכוחן בפיהם ואפי׳ בלעם תאב היה לזה יותר מבלק ואותו ידוע* שהוא היה יודע בלילה בשביל שאותן כתרים התחתונים והחמורים לא נמצאים אלא במשמרה ראשונה של הלילה כדשנינו משמרה ראשונה חמור נוער. ועל זה היה לו זה האתון של זה הצד לפי שהיה שואב ומושך משם כוחו והיה מתסמא באתון ההוא בלילה לפי שהוא מדתו ולהתחבר החמורים עמה בתחלת הלילה. וא״ת והא כתי׳ ויבא אלהים אל בלעם לילה. כך הוא ודאי ובשביל שאותו הממונה שיהא עליהם והוא היה בא כנגדו כדוגמא זה ויבא אלהים אל לבן הארמי וכו׳ דהכל הוא דבר אחד.

משל למלך שהיה לו מטרונה ופילגש. למטרונה יזדווג לה ביום לעין כל. ולפילגש הוא מזדווג לה בלילה. כך היא הנבואה של ישראל ושל אומות העולם. לנביאי ישראל תבא להם הכת הגדול בדרך הצינורות עד להפ׳ שהוא יום ומשם נמשך עד לעת׳ שהיא אספקלריא שאינה מאירה והוא מדרגת הנביאים שמשם הם שואבים ומושכין נבואתם. אבל נביאי אומות העולם נבואתם בלילה פי׳ מחמורת הלילה שהיא סוד המלכות שהם חוספין וגוזלים מן העיכול דרך גניבה כדא׳ הכפירים שואגים לטרף ולבקש וכו׳. נמצא שנבואתם היא בלילה דרך נסתר והבן כל אלו העניינים על מתכונתם וזהו סוד ולא קם נביא עוד בישראל כמשה. בישראל לא קם. הא באומות העולם קם. פי׳ בצד תמורתו. וההבדל שמשה |

מצד הקדושה והטהרה ובלעם מצד הטומאה לפי שהוא היה קה ע״א
מכוין השעה שבו הב״ה כועס בדא׳ ואל זועם בכל יום.

כיון שראה הב״ה שרצונו הוא לילך אמ׳ לו קום לך אתם ואך את הדבר אשר אדבר אליך וכו׳. מיד וישכם בלעם בבקר ויחבוש את אתונו לעשות בו רצונו ורצון של בלק והמבין יבין. ועל זה ויחר אף אלהים כי הולך הוא. דווקא הוציא עצמו מרשותו ממה שאמ׳ לו ואפס* את הדבר וכו׳. בא וראה שהרי בראשונה נתן לו רשות ואמ׳ קום לך אתם. ועכשיו שהיה הולך למה ויחר אף אלהים. אלא בשביל

שהולך הוא. הוא ברשותו פי׳ ברשות שלו לצאת מאותו שאמ׳ לו ואפס* את הדבר. אמ׳ ליה הב״ה רשע אתה מתקן עצמך ומזרז זיונך לצאת מרשותו. חייך אתה ואתונך ברשותי תהיו. מיד ויתיצב מלאך יי בדרך לשטן לו. מאי ויתיצב. אמ׳ ר׳ אבא עמד ונתיצב באומנות אחר ויצא מאומנות שלו שהרי מלאך של רחמים היה וחזר לשטן לו. והיינו דאמ׳ ר׳ שמעון הרשעים מהפכים רחמים לדין. לשטן לו שהרי לא היה אומנות שלו.

תאנא רמ׳ ר׳ שמעון בא וראה כמה היה חכם בלעם בחרשיו ובקסמיו יותר מכל בני העולם. שהרי בשעה שמצא עיצה לצאת מרשותו של הב״ה מאותו דבר דכתי׳ ואך את הדבר וכו׳ הסתכל בחרשיו ולא מצא אלא אותו אתון. מה כתי׳ ויחבוש את אתונו. הטעין אותה בכל חרשים וקסמים שהוא ידע אותה ונכנס בה וכלל אותה מן כל בשביל ליכנס* לישראל מיד ויחר אף אלהים כי הולך הוא. הוא דווקא. מה עשה הב״ה הקדים למלאך של רחמים לעמוד כנגדו ויסתור חרשיו וקסמיו. ועל זה לא כתי׳ ויתיצב מלאך אלהים ויעמוד מלאך אלהים. אלא מלאך יי שהוא רחמים. אמ׳ הב״ה רשע אתה טענת לאתונך בחרשיך ובקסמיך כמה בעלי דינין עומדים כנגדך לסתור חכמתך וקסמך וחרשך עבור ומלק משאך מעל אתונך*. מיד הקדים המלאך של רחמים לשטן לו. לו דווקא כמו שאמרנו.

ותרא האתון את מלאך יי נצב בדרך וחרבו שלופה בידו ותט האתון מן הדרך. ויך בלעם את האתון במקל. ר׳ יצחק אמ׳ וכי למה האתון ראתה למלאך ובלעם שהיה חכם כל כך לא ראה. א״ר יוסי ח״ו שאותו רשע יסתכל במראה הקדוש. אמ׳ ליה אי הכי הא כתי׳ נופל וגלוי עיגים. אמ׳ ליה לא שמעתי בזה דבר. א״ל אני שמעתי מלה שכך היה צריך להסתכל ועכשיו לא היה צריך להסתכל. א״ל אי הכי הוא במדרגה עליונה יותר על כל נביאי האמונה שהוא גלוי עינים ורואה ומסתכל בכבודו של הב״ה | והאמ׳ ר׳ שמעון בלעם בחרשיו היה קה ע״ב
יודע באותן כתרים תחתונים של מטה כמה דכתי׳ ואת בלעם בן בעור הקוסם. קוסם קראו הפסו׳ שהוא טינוף של כל הטינופים איך יסתכל בכבוד אדונו. ועוד שאמ׳ ר׳ שמעון מראה אחד היה וראה והסתכל לפי שעה דכתי׳ ויגל אלהים את עיני בלעם. פי׳ נתעקמו עיניו ואתה אמרת שהיה רואה בגילוי של העינים ונסתכל בכבוד של הב״ה. א״ל אני חוזר

כנגדך. שלי ושלך צריך צחותא ודאי סודי התורה עליונים הם ולא יכולין בני העולם לקום עליהם*. בשביל כך אסור להקדים ולגלות בדברי תורה עד שישמע דבר וידע אותו על בוריו.

באו לפני ר' שמעון ואמרו לו הדבר פתח ואמ' מה אנוש כי הזכרנו ובן אדם כי תפקדנו. זה הפסו' ממונה על העולם אמרו בשעה שעלה ברצונו של הב"ה לבראות בן אדם קרא לכתות של מלאכי עליונים והושיב אותם לפניו. אמ' להם צריך אני* לבראות אדם. אמרו לפניו אדם ביקר בל ילין. הושיט הב"ה אצבעו ושרף אותם. הושיב לפניו כתות אחרים אמ' להם צריך אני* לבראות אדם. אמרו לפניו מה אנוש כי תזכרנו ובן אדם וכו'. מה טיבו של אדם זה. אמ' להם בן אדם שיהא בצלם שלי* ויהא חכמתו עליונה מחכמתכם. וכיון שברא אדם וחטא ויצא בדין לפניו באו עוזא ועוזאל אמרו לפניו פתחון פה יש לנו אצלך זה בן אדם שבראת חטא לפניך. אמ' להם אל מלא תהיו אתם נמצאים אצלם וכו'. מה עשה הב"ה הפיל אותם מן מדרגת קדושתם מן השמים. אמ' ר' שמעון עכשיו אני חוזר לתשובתכם בעניין בלעם. בא וראה בלעם אמ' נופל וגלוי עינים. וא"ת שלא היה כך אלא שבח שהיה משבח עצמו איך יכתו' הב"ה דבר כזב בתורה. וא"ת שאמת הוא הדבר איך ימצא*אותו רשע במדרגה עליונה על כל נביאי האמונה. ועוד שאין שורה קדושה עליונה אלא במקום הראוי לה. ועכשיו אני חוזר לדבר הראשון. ואחר שהפיל אותם הב"ה ממקום קדושתם מן השמים וטעו בעולם. בכאן יש להסתכל וכי הא כתי' עושה מלאכיו רוחות משרתיו אש לוהט. והא אלו מלאכים היו. אלא בא וראה כל אותן מלאכים של מעלה לא עומדין ולא יכולין להתקיים אלא באור העליון שמאיר להם. ואם נפסק מהם אותו האור לא יכולים לקום כ"ש אלו שהפיל אותם הב"ה ופסק מהם אותו האור של מעלה שנשתנו זיום. כשירדו שלט בהם אויר של העולם נשתנו למדרגה אחרת.

בא וראה מן שהיה יורד לישראל במדבר קו ע"א אותו מן מטל העליון מעתיק הסתו' שהוא סתימא של כל הסתימות וכשהיה יורד היה אורו מאיר בכל העולמות וממנו ניזון שדה של תפוחים ומלאכי עליונים. וכשהיה יורד למטה ושלט בו האויר של העולם נקרש ונשתנה זיוו של אותו המן. כך הוא זה מה עשה הב"ה ראה שטעו בעולם קשר אותם בשלשלאות של ברזל. מה עשה השליך לעזא והחשיך פניו בשביל

שאותו שעה שקשר אותם הב"ה היה מרגיז כלפי מעלה והב"ה הפיל אותו בעומק עד צוארו והטיל החשך בפניו של עזאל* ובני העולם שיודעים מקומם ילכו אצלם ומלמדין לבני אדם חרשים ונחשים וקוסמים ואותן הררי חושך נקראים הררי קדם. מאי טעמא בשביל שהחשך הקדים לאור ובשביל כך הרי תושך הררי קדם נקראים, ולבן ובלעם מהם למדו חרשים וקסמים והיינו דאמ' בלעם מן ארם ינחני בלק מלך מואב מהררי קדם. בא וראה בלעם היה משבח עצמו מזה המקום ואמ' נאם שומע אמרי אל ויודע דעת עליון. שומע אמרי אל. בשביל שעוזא ועוזאל אומרים לבני העולם דברים עליונים שהיו יודעים בראשונה למעלה ומספרים מעולם הקדוש שהיו בו ה"ד שומע אמרי אל. שומע קול לא כתי' אלא אמרי אל. אותן מאמרים שהיו אומרים ממנו עוזא ועוזאל מענייני עולם העליון. מי שבא מפרקא ושואלין לו אמור מלה משמע שמלך הקדוש בך*. נאם שומע אמרי אל ויודע דעת עליון. שהיה יודע השעה שתלוי הדין בעולם והיה מכוין השעה בחרשיו. אשר מחזה שדי יחזה. מי הוא מחזה שדי אלו הם נופל וגלוי עינים שהם עוזא ועוזאל. נופל זהו עוזא. גלוי עינים זהו עזאל שהרי לא הושלך עליו חשך אלא נתחזק* ולא הרגיז בזה. ובלעם קרא אותם מחזה שדי של אותם* נופל וגלוי עינים. ובאותו זמן לא נשאר בעולם שנמצא אצלם אלא הוא ובכל יום ויום היה נסתם ונסגר באותן ההרים עמהם כדא' ינחני בלק מלך מואב מהררי קדם. מהררי קדם ודאי ולא מארצה בני קדם.

אמ' ר' שמעון כמה פעמים אמרתי זה הדבר ולא מסתכלים החבריא שהרי הב"ה לא שוכן אלא במקום קדוש במקום שראוי לשכון עליו. וכי הב"ה מכריז ואומ' לא ימצא בך מעביר בנו ובתו באש קוסם קסמים וכו'. והוא בא להתערב עמהם. אלא אשרי חלקם של ישראל שהב"ה קדש אותם כדי לשכון ביניהם והיינו דכתי' כי יי אלהיך מתהלך בקרב מחניך וכו' ולא יראה בך ערות דבר ושב קו ע"ב מאחריך. וכתי' והייתם לי קדושים כי קדוש אני יי. וכתי' אל תטמאו בכל אלה כי בכל אלה נטמאו הגוים. וכתי' ואקדש בם. פי' שלא אוכל לקרב אצלם. אשרי חלקיהם בעולם הזה ובעולם הבא. ואשרי חלקם של נביאי האמונה הקדושים ויש להם חלק להשתמש בקדושה עליונה.

ותרא האתון את מלאך יי נצב בדרך. באותו אורח שהיה משתקע בתוכו בחרבו שלופה בידו. וכי אם הוא יוצא כנגד זאת האתון

מה צריך לחרב. ואם הוא יוצא כנגד בלעם למה ראתה האתון למלאך והוא לא ראה. אלא לכל נזדמן אותו המלאך נזדמן כנגד האתון להוציא אותה מאותו דרך שטעתה בו ובמה ברחמים. ונזדמן כנגד בלעם להענישו בשביל שהוא צריך לילך ברשותו ולא ברשות אחר.

ויאמר אלהים אל בלעם. קום לך אתם ואך את הדבר וכו׳. כך שנינו שזה אלהים שבכאן מלאך היה והוא מקום שבא מצד הדין הקשה שבו אחוזים כח וחוזק של אותם כתרים תחתונים שהיה משתמש בהם בלעם ובשביל כך ויבא אלהים אל בלעם. ויאמר אלהים אל בלעם. כי לפעמים נקראים המלאכים בשם עליון.

וישא משלו ויאמר מן ארם ינחני בלק. ואין ארם אלא א׳ רם שהוא אל"ף של מדת המחשבה הנקרא אל"ף והוא רם על כל רם כדא׳ כי גבוה מעל גבוה שומר וכו׳ כי אמר שבלק הדריך אותו לעיצה רעה והטעני מן דרך היחוד העליון והנחני מן אותן הרעי קדם שהם קדמונו של עולם. כי מראש צורים אראנו. פי׳ מראש הצורים שהוא ראש העליון שהוא ראש ותחלה לכל המדרגות כדאמ׳ אני ראשון ואני אחרון. צורים אלו שתי מדות העומדות תחתיו שהם חכמה ובינה הנקראים צורים. ד"א כי מראש צורים אראנו. פי׳ ממקום כ"ע שהוא ראש הצורים נודעו עקבותיהם שהם נמשכים ויוצאין מגזע קדוש וטהור שהם נאצלין מן ישראל העליון שהוא ישראל סבא. ומגבעות אשורנו. אלו הן חכמה ובינה הנקראים גבעות. הן עם לבדד ישכון. שהם נמשכים ממקום יחיד ומיוחד שהוא לבדו כדא׳ יי בדד ינחנו ואין עמו אל נכר.

מי מנה עפר יעקב. ואין מי אלא מדת הבינה הנקרא מ׳ כדא׳ את מי נועץ ויבינהו. עפר יעקב שהוא מדת העפר שהוא ראש עפרות תבל. והוא עולם היובל הגדול שנקרא עולם הבא כדא׳ כי עפר אתה ואל עפר תשוב. ועוד כתי׳ הכל היה מן העפר והכל שב אל העפר. וזהו סוד הכל מן העפר אפי׳ | גלגל חמה שהוא סוד התפ׳ קז ע"א הכל הוא מן העפר. תמות נפשי מות ישרים. חסר כתי׳ ישרם כי אותו רשע ביון שראה שלא היה יכול להם בשום צד לקללם מיד אמ׳ תמות נפשי מות ישרם. ישר"ם יהא שמיה רבא מברך. ואומ׳ יהי רצון שיהא אחריתי כאותן האומרים אמן יהא שמיה רבא מברך. ואזכה למעלה שהם זוכין.

אל ראש הפסגה. שהוא היסוד הנקרא ראש הפסגה כדא׳

ראש המטה. ויבן שבעה מזבחות. כנגדן ואנכי אקרה כה שהוא מדת המלכות הנקראת כה כדא׳ כה תאמרו.

וישא משלו ויאמר. הוא בלעם ששכרו בלק. ד"א וישא משלו. אל תקרי משלו אלא משָלו פי׳ קיבל נבואתו מצד שלו שהוא צד טומאתו. קום בלק. פי׳ קום ואל תשב כי זה המקום אינו מקום ישיבה לפי שאין למעלה לא עמידה ולא ישיבה.

ובן אדם ויתנחם. לא יפול הנחמה אלא במקום מדרגה הנקרא אדם. ההוא אמר ולא יעשה. פי׳ ב"ע הנקרא הוא אמר כדא׳ כי הוא אמר ויהי הוא צוה ויעמוד. ולא יעשה. כמו הוא עשנו ולא אנחנו. פי׳ מדת האין הנקרא ולא עשאנו ג"כ כאן ולא יעשה כי מדת ולא יעשה כל הנמצאים וכל הנבראים. ודבר.כדא׳ בדבר יי שמים נעשו. ולא יקימנה. כי מדת כ"ע הנקרא ולא יקימנה. פי׳ קיים כל מה שיצא מפיו. ד"א יקימנה. פי׳ יקים למדת העס׳ כדא׳ ביום ההוא אקים את סוכת דוד הנופלת. שהיא כביכול היא נפולה בין שאר העמים והוא יקימנה במה שישפיע לה השפע מעומק של הנחל כדא׳ כשמן הטוב על הראש יורד על הזקן.

הנה ברך לקחתי וברך ולא אשיבנה. אלו שתי פעמים כנגד הבריכה העליונה ובריכה התחתונה.

כעת יאמר ליעקב ולישראל מה פעל אל. כעת פי׳ בזמן שהלשון מוציא מה שעלה במחשבה אזי מדת התפ׳ שהוא מדרגת יעקב הוא יוד ע מה פעל אל.

הן עם כלביא יקום וכארי יתנשא. פי׳ בשעה שיתנשא אותו הארי שהוא מדת הגבורה לא ישכב עד יאכל טרף. פי׳ מדה הגבורה שהוא הארי לא ינוח עד שיאכל טרף.

וישת אל המדבר פניו. פי׳ צד מדתו הנקרא מדבר.

וירא את ישראל שוכן לשבטיו. פי׳ מדת יעקב שהוא תפ׳ שהוא שוכן לשבטיו שהם שנים עשר שבטי יה הסובבים לכסאו בי"ב הויות קדושות. ותהי עליו רוח אלהים פי׳ רות אלהים שהוא הבינה כדא׳ ורוח אלהים מרחפת על פני המים. פי׳ מצדו וכו׳.

ונאם הגבר שתם העין. פי׳ שביון לסתום העין הטוב שכתי׳ בו טוב עין הוא יבורך אל תקרי יבורך אלא יברך.

נאם שומע אמרי | אל אשר מחזה שדי יחזה קז ע"ב

וכו׳. שומע אמרי אל שבלעם היה הולך בכל יום אל הרמי קדם שהם לשם עוזא ועזאל ושומע מהם אמרי אל שהיו שומעים למעלה במקום קדושתן למעלה. אשר מחזה שדי יחזה. פי׳ מחזה של שדי שהיא מדה העשירית. נופל הוא עוזא שהעמיק אותו הב"ה עד עומק ההר. וגלוי עינים הוא עזאל.

מה טובו אהליך יעקב. אלו הם שתי אוהלים העומדים אצל מדרגת יעקב מזה הצד ומזה הצד שהם מדת גדולה ומדת גבורה כדא׳ ויעקב איש תם יושב אהלים. משכנותיך ישראל. זהו מדת המלכות שהיא משכנת אביר יעקב.

כנחלים נטיו כגנות עלי נהר כאהלים נטע יי כארזים עלי מים. יזל מים מדליו. פי׳ כי המים הנוזלים מעליונותו כי דליו הוא מל׳ דלה דלה לגו. וכתי׳ ארוממך יי כי דליתני. נמצא שאותן המים של הנחל נוזלים ויורדים מעליונותו של האין שהוא כ"ע. ד"א יזל מים מדליו. פי׳ לש׳ דלי כלי ששואבין בו המים מן הבאר. פי׳ דליו רומזים לחכמה ובינה שהם כלי המלך שבהם שואבים מים מן הבאר העמוק העליון. וזרעו במים רבים. פי׳ העט׳ שהיא זרעו של אותו נחל היא במים רבים שכל המימות והנהרות כולם הם נמשכין ויוצאין אל המדה ההיא כדא׳ כל הנחלים הולכים אל הים והים אינינו מלא.

אמ׳ משה לישראל בלעם הרשע עושה לכם כשפים ופוריח ומפריח לחמשת המלכים הראו לו את הציץ ששמו של הב"ה גלוף עליו והן נופלין עמו. הדע שכן הוא ואת מלכי מדין הרגו על חלליהם את אוי ואת רקם ואת צור ואת חור וכו׳.

ושנינו מי שאכל ולא נטל ידיו מה יהא חייב. כך שנינו נטילת הידים אחר המזון חובה ולפני המזון רשות. לכן הזהיר הב"ה את ישראל שלא לפשוע אפי׳ במצות קלות שנא׳ כי לא דבר רק הוא מכם כי הוא חייכם. אפי׳ דבר מצוה שאתה רואה אותה שהיא קלה וריקה בה חיים ואריכות ימים. כיון שראה בלעם שישראל משמרין את המצות הקלות אמ׳ מי יוכל לקלל את אלו שהן משמרין מצות ושמו גלוף בהם כדא׳ יי אלהיו עמו. המקללן מקלל לעצמן ששמו משותף בהם. התחיל הופך למשלים שנא׳ וישא משלו ויאמר. זש"ה מברך רעהו בקול גדול בבקר השכם קללה תחשב לו. כשבא בלעם לקלל את ישראל עיקם הקב"ה את לשונו והתחיל לברך שנא׳ ולא אבה יי אלהיך לשמוע אל בלעם ויהפך.

נתן | הב"ה כח בקולו וקולו הולך מסוף העולם ועד סופו קח ע"א כדי שישמעו האומות שהוא מברכן ועליו כתי׳ מברך רעהו בקול גדול. לפי שאמ׳ לכה איעצך אשר יעשה העם הזה לעמך וכו׳. אשריהם ישראל שהב"ה חפץ בהם ונתן להם תורתו הקדושה מה שלא נתן לשום אומה ולשון וגילה להם סודתיו כדא׳ לא עשה כן לכל גוי ומשפטים בל ידעום.

פרש׳ פנחס. פנחס בן אלעזר בן אהרן הכהן וכו׳. כי פנחס רומז למדת הבינה הנקראת פן חס פי׳ פן העליון שהוא חס ומרחם על בריותיו והיא נקראת אם הבנים שמחה. ד"א פנחס שהוא רומז לכ"ע שהוא הפן המרחם וחס על בריותיו בצד הרחמים הנמורים כדא׳ והנותי את אשר אחון ורחמתי וכו׳. אימתי בזמן שישראל משתדלים בעבודת אדוניהם. אזי זה הפן הרחמים משכך ומשקט רוגז הדין שהוא סוד עולם הגבו׳ כדא׳ ועתיק יומין יתיב וכו׳. וכתי׳ כורסייה שביבין דינור. פי׳ אותו עתיק שהוא פן הרחמים יושב וכופף על אותו הכסא שהוא מדת יצחק שהוא צש אכלה אזי הוא נקרא פן חס כדא׳ חוסה יי. ועל זה הסוד כינו לפנחס אליהו בשביל שהוא רומז למדת הכתר כי אל הוא כ"ע יה"ו רומז לשלש מדות שהם חכמה ובינה ותפ׳. נמצא שאל שהוא כ"ע הוא רוכב ושולט עליהם כדא׳ כי גבוה מעל גבוה.

ואצ"ל למה היה אליהו בעל שער בסימניו לפי שהוא רומז לכ"ע שלשם מתקנים השערות והנימין והקווצות לכן אמרו בעלי החבריא בסימניו ידוע ולא ידוע. לכן אנו אומרין בהבדלה איש הנקרא בעל שער בסימניו והבן זה מאד. לכן פקח עיניך וראה והבן זה הסוד הגדול בפנחס שקנאו אותו אליהו לכן שמור סוד זה בגנזיך ויהא תחת מלבושיך לבלתי שלא תשליכהו חוצה לאיש זר והבן זה מאד ודום ליי.

ד"א פנחס בן אלעזר וכו׳ זכו ישראל הוא פנחס שהוא רומז לפן חס. לא זכו יקרא פן חס פי׳ פן השחיתון שכביכול יתעוררו כל הדינין בעולם ובעלי הדינין יוצאין לעשות דין על פי האם העליון. לכן אם זכו ישראל זה המדה הנקרא פנחס הוא משיב החמה והקצף והחרון מעל עדת ישראל כדא׳ השיב את חמתי מעל וכו׳ ולא כליתי את בני ישראל בקנאתי. כי אני נקרא אל קנא שאני | מקנא קח ע"ב ברשעים.

את בריתי שלום. זהו מדת היסוד הנקרא ברית הקודש

כדא׳ ואני זאת בריתי אותם וכו׳. שלום כדא׳ אביעד שר שלום.
והיתה לו דוקא. ברית כהנת עולם. פי׳ כהונה עליונה
יורש ממקום פנחס העליון הנקרא כהן גדול כדא׳ והוא כהן לאל עליון.
תחת אשר קנא לאלהיו דווקא. פי׳ מדת היסוד שהוא ברית הקדוש הנקרא
אלהיו שהוא הברית הקדוש שלא יכנס ברשות אחר. לכן כל מי שמכניס
הברית הקדוש ברשות אחר גורם למדת הברית שיתרחק מן המטרוניתא
שהוא אלהיו. אבל מי שהוא מקנא על הברית שנטמא ונכנס ברשות אחר
ועושה בו הדין והמשפט כאלו כביכול מכפד על אלהיו ודאי. והסוד
בזה כאומרם תביאו עלי כפרה וכו׳ ומזויג בין שתי המדות ויכניס הבת
הקדושה אל היכל המלך אזי כל השמחות והברכות נמצאים למעלה ולמטה.
לכן הזהירו ז"ל בעניין הזנות ואמרו קנאין פוגעין בו. ואם איש חכם
אתה חבין כל העניינים על מתכונתם.
התבונן כי זה המדה הזאת העומדת לשער דכתי׳ זה השער
ליי צדיקים יבואו בו. היא המבדזת ואומרת ראו עתה כי אני אני הוא
ומודעת עצמה וממשלתה וגמול טובתה או עונשה לבריות כדי שידעו
להזהר ולא יחטאו לפני יי עד שתהיה היא צריכה להעניש ולהפרע
מהם וזהו סוד אני האמור על מדת אדני. אבל מה שהשם ית׳ יהוה
הוא מכונה בלש׳ אתה לפי שהוא מבפנים ואינו נמצא לבריות כמו מדת
אדני לפי שהשם הנדול יי שוכן בשם אדני כמלך ששוכן בהיכלו ואינו
נמצא עד שמבקשין אותו זהו שנא׳ ובקשתם משם את יי אלהיך ומצאת
וכו׳. ודוד ע"ה לפי שידע סוד עולם העליון הזהיר לשלמה בנו על
דבר זה ואמ׳ ואתה שלמה בני דע את אלהי אביך ועובדהו. אם תדרשנו
ימצא לך ואם תעזבינו יזניחך לעד. וזהו המלך הגדול שצריך אדם ללכת
לפניו ולסדר תהלותיו ושבחיו וטובותיו ולומ׳ לפניו אתה הוא המושל
בעליונים ובתחתונים אתה הוא ואין דומה לך וזהו סוד כל התפלות שאדם
צריך לסדר שבחיו של שם יי ואחר כך יבקש צרכיו כעניין משה ר׳
ע"ה שאמ׳ אתה החלות להראות את עבדך את גדלך ואת ידך החזקה וכו׳
ואחר שסדר שבחיו של יי בל׳ הזה חזר ושאל צרכיו ואמ׳ אעברה נא
וארא את הארץ הטובה. ועל דרך סדר זה כל התפלות והברכות שאנו
מתחננים לפניו. הלא | תראה ראש של כל הברכות קט ע"א
האמצעיות של תפלה באתה הוא מתחיל כאומ׳ אתה חונן. כגון אתה
בחרתנו. אתה קדשת. אתה אחד.

לכן התבונן ותראה כי השם הגדול שהוא שם יהוה והוא
קו האמצעי ונקרא אתה הוא סוד דגלי השם וכל הכנויין כי הוא מחלבש
ומתפאר בכולן כמו שהודעתיך במוד אתה שזהו סוד כל צבאות העולם
וכל המרכבות שנבראו בצירוף האותיות כאשר בא לך בקבלה מפה אל פה
בספר יצירה בצירוף האותיות של רל"א שערים וגלגולן. ותדע ותשכיל
כי בצרוף כ"ב אותיות נבראו שמים וארץ וצבאות מעלה וכל המרכבות
העליונות והתחתונות בכח צירופן נבראו ויצאו כולם כל דבר ודבר למינו
כמו שיחייב הצירוף של האותיות יצאו כל המרכבות זכר ונקבה בסוד
הצירוף והגלגול כמו שאמרו בספר יצירה זכר באמ"ש נבראו ונקבה באש"ם
נבראו וזהו סוד צירוף האותיות וגלגולן.
וכבר ידעת כי סוד הקו האמצעי נקרא נורא והוא סוד
שם יהוה ית׳ שהוא מדת יעקב והוא חתום משני צדדין בסוד אתה וכן
הוא אומ׳ אתה נורא אתה.
התבונן מאד ותראה ביסוד אלפא ביתות שבצירופן נבראו
כל אלפא ביתות וכל צבאות העולם במצרף הבינה שהיא סוד ה"א עליונה
של השם הגדול ית׳ והיא צירה האותיות כולם בחמש צנורות ויצאו
כל האותיות כולם בחמש מקורות שיאלו הן: אהה"ע בומ"ף גיכ"ק
דטלנ"ת זס"ש שר"ץ ואלו הן צינורות החכמה והבינה שבהם יצאו
כל צינורות האותיות מעומק רום הנקרא אין סוף ומתוך צורת האותיות
נעשו כל צורות המרכבות למיניהם עליונים ותחתונים. ואצ"ל כי כ"ב
אותיות הם יסוד והם נחלקות לשלש מחלקות אמ"ש שמהן יצאו שלש
יסודות אש ורוח ומים. בג"ד כפר"ת שבהם נבראו כל השביעיות למעלה
ולמטה ובהם מצויירים שבעה כוכבי לכת וכל השבעיות שלמעלה מהם
ולמטה מהם בסוד שבע כפולות. ועוד יש י"ב פשוטות שבהם נחקקו
י"ב גבולי אלכסונות במרכבה עליונה וי"ב מזלות בשמים ואלו הן
ה"ו זח"ט י"ל ס"ע צ"ק ובאלו נכללו כל המרכבות עליונות
ותחתונות. והבן כל אלו העניינים על מתכונתם מאד מאד.
לכן בזמן שישראל | אינן הולכין בדרכי קט ע"ב
התורה אזי אלו המקורות והצינורות העליונות נמנעים ונפסקים ונכזביס
מימיהם והסוד בזה כוזבי בת נשיא מדין שהוא בעל הדין והקיטרוג המפסיק
בין ישראל לאביו שבשמים.
ובני שמעון נמואל וימין ואוהד ויכין וצוחר ושאול בן

הכנענית. וכן לבנימין בלע ובכר ואשבל גרא ונעמן אחי וראש מופים וחופים וארד. הרי עשר כנגד עשר מדרגות עליונות וכשאתה בא למנותו לבלע משפחת הבלעי אינם אלא שבעה. חסרו שלש לרמוז לשלש שאינם נמצאים בשכל האדם הנברא. ואצ"ל שאלו עשר שמות כולם הם נרמזים לעשר מדרגות עליונים לכן פקח עיניך וראה ודום ליי. בלע רומז לכ"ע המדה המהשבה העמוקה אשר אין בריה יכולה להשיגה לפי רוב עמקותה ודקותה. והטעם מפני מה נקרא בלע לפי שהוא בולע ושואב כל הנבראים והנמצאים כאבן השואבת והסוד בזה ויבלע מטה אהרן את מטותם. פי' אהרן סבא שהוא כהן גדול לעי' העי' המסדר הקרבן לפני עי' העי' ודיי בזה לכל מבין. לכן נקרא בלע לפי שהוא שואב ובולע כל המדרגות והנמצאות בשנת השמיטה שהוא היובל הגדול כד' כי עפר אתה ואל עפר תשוב. כי כ"ע ג"כ נקרא עפר. למה כי כמו העפר שנוטלין מכאן ומניחין בכאן ואין לו קול כך כ"ע שהוא מדת המחשבה אין לו קול אלא הוא הכל בלחישה שאין שם הרמת קול לפי שהוא עולם הנסתר והנעלם לכן נקרא שמן זית לפי שאין לו קול. לכן תבין לך כל אלו העניינים ותצניעים תחת לשונך כד' כבוד אלהים הסתיר דבר. ד"א בלע. למה נקרא בלע אל תיקרי בלע אלא בל ע' כי בל מל' בלי כד' תולה ארץ על בלימה לפי שהוא בלי השגה לנמצא מן הנמצאים. ע' רומז לעי' העי' שהוא סתימא של כל הסתימות אבל אין בין העלול לעילה אלא שזה עילה וזה עלול. ד"א בלע כי בל רומז למקור הסתום שממנו מתאצלים ל"ב נתי' פלי' חכמה. ע' רומזים לע' שמות הנאצלים מעומק רום אל מדת החסד שהם של ויסע ויבא ויט. ד"א בלע בגי' מאה ושנים במניין לרמוז לעשר צחצחות הנעלמות שהם באורך אנפין וזעיר אנפין שהם עשר כד' והשביע בצחצחות נפשך וכו'. ולכן השנים הנוספים כנגד א"א וז"א.

ובכר, באתי להכניסך בו שערי אורה כי מדת החכמה נקראת ובכר מל' כל הבכור לפי שהיא בכור וראשית כל המציאות כי עי' העי' וכ"ע הם נעלמים ונסתרים בלי השגה | בהם כלל לכך קי ע"א הם נקראים אין ואפס ותוהו ובלי כל לשון העדר מורים עליהם אבל חכמה היא נקרא יש לפי שיש בו ישות לכן הוא בכור להשגה כד' והחכמה מאין תמצא. וזהו סוד הבכור לכהן. כדאמ' כבכורה בתאנה בראשיתה. ועוד למה נקראת חכמה בכור בשביל שהיא ראשית והתחלה

למציאות עולם העליון כד' ראשית חכמה יראת יי.

ואשבל רומז למדת הבינה הנקרא אשבל. כי אשבל הוא לש' שביל לפי שהבינה הוא דרך ושביל לעולם האין והאפס כי לולי הבינה לא היה שביל ודרך לעלות לעולם האין ולידע לו ממש. אלא כיון שהבינה היא תוצא מה שעלה במחשבה כדרך שהלשון תוציא מה שעלה בהרהור ובמהשבה.

גרא רומז למדה ההסד שהוא מדת אברהם כי גרא אותיות אגר והוא שכר כד' אנכי מגן לך שכרך הרבה מאד. כי תרגו' שכר אגר. גרא הם אותיות ארג לפי שמדה החסד היא אורג ומחבר בין עולם העליון ועולם התחתון ואורגם ומחברם באריגה אחת. ד"א למה נקרא גרא באל"ף ולא בה"א אלא לרמוז לך כי כמו שכ"ע הוא ראשון לכל המדרגות והוא נקרא אל"ף כך מדת החסד הוא נקרא ראשון ואל"ף לשבעה המדרגות המחודשות וזהו סוד אחת היא יונתי וכו'.

ונעמן רומז למדת הגבורה הנקרא נעמן לפי שהוא מקבל מעולם הבינה הנקרא עולם הנועם כד' דרכיה דרכי נועם. לכן כל נעימות של התורה מתפשטת משם וזהו סוד משה שמע מפי הגבורה.

אחי רומז לחפ' הנקרא אחי מל' איש כד' לא ראו איש את אחיו. פי' אפי' האש לא היו רואין מרוב החשך לכן מדת החפ' נקרא אש כד' יי במשפט יבוא וכו'. ד"א אחי אל תיקרי אחי אלא א' חי פי' שכל החיים הבאים לחפ' הוא מן האל"ף העליון שהוא כ"ע.

וראש רומז לנצח הנקרא וראש מל' ראש ולענה לפי שמשם מתחילין השרים של האומות לעלות והוא ביניהם במרירות החיים וזהו סוד ויגע בכף ירך יעקב בגיד הנשה.

מופים רומז להוד הנקרא מופים בדגיש לפי שהיא מדת הדין שהיא מקבלת מצד דין הקשה.

וחופים פי' מדת היסוד שהוא סוד עשר חופות של הצדיקי'.

וארד מל' ירידה לפי שהמלכות היא ירדה יותר מכל המדרגות. ד"א וארד ולא כתי' וירד אלא בזמן שהיא מקבלת מן אל"ף העליון אזי היא | מושלת ושולטת על כל המעלות קי ע"ב שלמטה הימנה אזי יכנס האל"ף בין שאר האותיות כד' וארד ואם לאו וירד שהוא לשון ירידה והשפלה. והבן כל אלו מאד.

ובני גד צפיון וחגי שוני ואצבן עירי וארודי ואראלי.

כי הם שבעה כנגד שבעה מדרגות המחודשות שהם מן הגדולה עד למלכות. למה כי כל שמות השבטים כלם הם היו נרמזים ונקראים בסודי התו' והם נקבו בשמותם הקדושים כמו שהם נקראים בשמות העליונים כל אחד ואחד כפי שמו ומעלהו לפי ששמם נכללים בש' הקדוש ית' ויח' כי כל שם של כל אחד ואחד מישראל הוא משותף בשמו הקדוש. לכן כל מי שבא לקלל אחד מישראל כאלו חירף וגידף למעלה ודיי לך בזה לכל משכיל ועת הוא לסגור שער זה.

ועתה אשוב לפרש לך אלו שבעה שמות שהם צפיון וחגי וכו'. ואצ"ל צפיון רומז למדת הגדולה לפי שהוא צף למעלה על כל שאר המרכבות והמדרגות והוא נקרא ראשון על כל השבעה לכן הוא למעלה כמי שצף על המים התחתונים.

וחגי רומז לגבורה כי אותיות וחגי הם אותיות יגח כדא' בכור שורו הדר לו וקרני ראם קרניו בהם עמים ינגח יחדיו אפסי ארץ לפי שהוא נוגח ונוקם מכל הנמצאים הבאים למרוד במלכות יי והסוד כי יגח שור את איש וכו'. והוא נקרא שור כדאמ' ופני שור מהשמאל.

שוני רומז לקו האמצעי שהוא מדת יעקב הנקרא שוני מל' משנה למלך העליון שתפ' ישר' הוא עומד ומשרת לפני כ"ע כמו משנה לפני המלך. ד"א שוני מל' משנה שהיא התורה שבכתב שהיא משנה תורה. למה שאלו שלש שמות שהאחד מהם הוא אהיה שהוא עומק האין והשם השני יהוה תפ' הנקרא שוני והשלישי הוא אדני ונמצא שמדת האמצעי נקרא שני בדא' שוני אל תיקרי שוני אלא שני למציאות.

ואצבון רומז למדת הנצח הוא מל' צבי היא לכל הארצות. ד"א אצבון מל' צבאות.

ערי רומז להוד כי ערי הם אותיות ירע מל' אל ירע בעיניך. לפי שהוא מקבל ממדת הרע שהוא גבורה כדא' למה הרעותה וכתי' אם רע בעיניך אשובה לי.

וארוצי רומז ליסוד לפי שכתי' ביוסף ירידה.

וראלי רומז לעט' הנקראת אראלים והוא אחד מעשר כהות המלאכים. לכן כל השמות שבכל התורה כולה הם נרמזים בסוד עליון לכן אם היו כל הימים דיו וכל בני אדם לבגרין ושמים וארץ יריעות לא היו יכולין להספיק לכתו' אחד מני אלף מה שהיה ראוי לכל פסוק ופסוק מפסוקי דאוריתא.

ותקרבנה בנות צלפחד. ואין צלפחד אלא מדת הבינה שהיא סוכה עליונה כדא' וסוכה תהיה לצל יומם מחורב. לפי שהבינה היא צל למדת | הפחד שהוא גבורה לכן כתי' צלפחד. קיא ע"א

פי' צל פחד. בנות צלפחד. אלו הן גדולה גתנהי"מ הנקראות בנות לאם הבנים שמחה. ד"א למה נקראת בנות בשביל שהם בונים כל העולמות מששת ימי בראשית שעל ידיהם נעשו כל המלאכה. בן חפר רומז למדת החכמה הנקרא חפר לפי שהוא מעין הסתום שכל הנמצאים חופרין אחריו לידע ממשותו. אפי' הכי לא יגיע לעומק המקור כדא' אמרתי אחכמה והיא רחוקה ממני. לכן האבות שהיו חופרין בארות כולם היו מחפשין אחר המקור והחפירה של החכמה העמוקה. בן גלעד הוא מקום כ"ע שהוא עומק המחשבה שהוא נקרא גל שהוא לעד לכל הנמצאים. כמו הגל שהוא עומד במקום גבוה ומשם נראים כל מה שלמטה הימנו. כך כ"ע הוא נקרא גל והוא גבוה על כל הנמצאים והסוד בזה גן נעול אחותי כלה גל נעול מעיין וכו'. בן מכיר בן מנשה. אל תקרי מכיר אלא מָכַר פי' מדת הבינה. בן מנשה רומז לעי' העי' הנקרא מנשה. למה נקרא עי' העי' מנשה. לפי שהוא מקום שיפול בו שכחה ונשיון מל' כי נשני אלהים. מה טעם מפני שכל המדרגות והמקורות כולם יש להם לחקור ולחפש ולדרוש אחרי מציאותם מעומק החכמה העליונה. ומשם מבינין דבר מתוך דבר. אבל עי' העי' אין לך צד בשום מקום לא לדרוש ולא לחקור ולא לידע ממנו שום ידיעה לפי שהוא נעלם ונסתר בסוד האין והאפס לכן יפול בו השכחה בעניין השגה לזה המקום. לכן פקח עיניך וראה זה הסוד הגדול והנורא אשריהו מי שמאיר עיניו בו בעולם הזה ובעולם הבא.*

ד"א צל פחד כי צל רומז למדת אברהם הנקרא אשל כדא' ויטע אשל בבאר שבע. וזהו סוד שאותו האשל שהיה לאברהם היה מנסה בו בני העולם אם באו לשוב בתשובה בלב שלם מיד אותו האילן היה צל על ראשו אזי היה יודע אברהם שחזר בתשובה ונכנס תחת כנפי השכינה. פחד רומז למדת הגבורה הנקרא פחד כדא' ופחד יצחק היה לי.

למה לא היה לצלפחד בנים אלא בנות לפי שהיה מצד הנקבות ועל זה הוא שמו צלפחד שהיה מצל הפחד הוא צד הנקיבות. ואלה שמות בנותיו מחלה נועה חגלה ומלכה והרצה. מחלה הוא סוד התפ' הנקרא מלך יי צבאות שהוא מדת רחמים גמורים והיא מדת המחילה לכן מלך

שמוחל על כבודו כבודו מחול. לכן כשיתעורר מדת הגבורה לכלות ולהחריב העולם מיד התפ' שהוא מלך הוא מוחל על כבודו מצד הרחמים העליונים והסוד בזה מלך במשפט יעמיד ארץ. מיד יעמוד הארץ על קיומו. נועה רומז לנצח שהוא נע ונד מכח השרים הבאים לחפור אחרי מקורו לפי שהוא ירך יעקב. חגלה רומז להוד אל היקרי חגלה אלא חג לה. אימתי | בזמן שהיא יונקת מצד התפ' והמלך נזדווג קיא ע"ב עם המטרוניתא. ומלכה רומז ליסוד שהוא סוד יוסף שהיה מלך על מצרים כי לפעמים נקראת יסוד בלשון נקבה ולפעמים בל' זכר והבן כל זה. והרצה רומז לעט' שהיא מתרצה עם המלך יי צבאות.

ותעמודנה לפני משה. שהוא תפ' העליון ולפני אלעזר הכהן. שהוא מדת החסד שהוא כהן גדול בשמים. ולפני הנשיאים. אלו הן חכמה ובינה שהם נשיאים על שאר המדרגות. אשריכם החבריא בעולם הזה ובעולם הבא שנתן לכם הקב"ה מתנה נכבדת כזו אשר אין מלאכי השרת יכולין להגיע בה לפי שהיא עמוקה ונעלמה מעיני כל חי ואפי' הכי זכו בה ישראל עם קדוש כרא' כי עם קדוש אתה וכתי' ואבדיל אתכם מן העמים להיות לי. הבדילם והפרישם מן אומות העולם ומן טומאתם שנא' ואבדיל אתכם וכו'. נשלם.

ראשי המטות. עטרות ודיבון ויעזר ונמרה וכו'. ואצ"ל עטרות רומז לשתי עטרות שהם עט' עליונה ועט' תחתונה כי כמו שנקרא כ"ע כך מלכות נקרא עטרה שהוא לש' כתר ויהחבר משניהם עטרות. ואצ"ל כי בהתאחד השם ית' עם כנסת ישראל ויתאחזו זה בזה אזי כל השרים העליונים נעשים אגודה אחת לעבוד את הש' ית' ולשמש את כנסת ישראל לפי שממנה תבא להם הפרנסה וכמו שתהיה חפצם ותשוקתם של ע' שרים למעלה לשמש את כנסת ישראל כך תהא תשוקת ע' אומות שלהם לשמש את ישראל למטה ולהדבק בהם ויהיו כולם עובדים את יי וזהו סוד כי אז אהפוך אל עמים שפה ברורה לקרוא כולם בשם יי ולעובדו שכם אחד. וזהו סוד ואמרו עמים לכו ונעלה אל הר יי ואל בית אלהי יעקב ויורנו מדרכיו ונלכה באורחותיו כי מציון תצא תורה ודבר יי מירושלם. בזמן שיהחבר עט' ישראל עם כ"ע ומהעלה עד אין סוף אז נקראים עטרות. ודיבון רמז לחכמה הנקרא דיבון פי' די בון מל' בינה שהיא מספקת בינה והשכל לבינה שהיא עולם היובל. ויעזר רומז

לבינה שהיא עולם העזר והישועה והגאולה והחירות. ונמרה רומז לחסד מל' נמר פי' חיה אחת נקראת נמר הוא מלא נקודים לבנים בעורו כך זה המדה מקבלת הלובן מן כ"ע כדא' כשמן הטוב וכו'. והשבון רומז לגבו' שהוא נקרא בעל חשבון. ואלעלה רומז לתפ' הנקרא אלעלה לפי שהוא נקרא אל עלה בשביל שעולה למעלה למעלה ומתאחד עד אין סוף. ושבם רומז לנצח. ונבו רומז להוד. ובעון רומז ליסוד הנקרא ובעון מל' מעונה והבן. ואצ"ל כי כל שמותיו ית' כולם נשואים וכלולים על הש' המיוחד שהוא שם יי ית'. והש' המיוהד ית' ויח' עומד באמצע ונקרא קו האמצעי ושאר השמות כלולים בו מזה ומזה לדמיון ראש האילן שרשיו וענפיו. אשריהם ישראל בזה ובבא. נשלם. |

פרש' אלה מסעי. וישלח משה לרגל את יעזר וכו'. ואין קיב ע"א יעזר אלא עולם הבינה הנקראת יעזר בשביל שמשם נאצלת העזר והסיוע לכל התחתונים הוא השם הגדול הנכתב בעניין אחד ונקרא בעניין אחר. נכתב יהוה ונקרא אלהים וגם נקוד בנקוד אלהים וזהו הספי' הנקראת בינה והוא השם הקושר כל הספי' בסוד חיבור האצילות וההמשכה לפי שזה הוא השם השלישי מן השלשה שמות העליונים המתאחדים בכלל כ"ע. ומן השם הזה ילך שפע האור והאצילות והברכה בכל הצינורות עד שיתברכו שבע מדרגות של מטה. ואצ"ל כי מה שנכתב באותיות יהוה וניקוד בשם אלהים הוא סוד היותו נאחז לכאן ולבאן לפי שהוא מתאחד בעולם הרחמים הגמורים שהוא סוד הכתר. ובכתר נאחזים שני שמות אחד לימין והוא שם יה והאחד לשמאל הוא השם הנכתב יהוה ונקרא אלהים והוא סוד הבינה ומן השם הזה מתחלת מדת הדין.

ואני צריך לעודרך על עיקר גדול כי בכל מקום שתמצא בתורה שם אלהים שלפעמים הוא רומז על הספי' הזאת הנכתבת יהוה ונקראת אלהים שהיא הנקראת בינה כגון בראשית ברא אלהים שהוא סוד הספי' הזאת ליודעי שכל ומעמיקים להכנס בהדרי המרכבה ודבר זה הוא קשה עד מאד להבינו זולתי בקבלה אמיתית מפה אל פה. והנני רומז בראשית ברא אלהים. אלה תולדות השמים והארץ בהבראם ביום עשות יי אלהים ארץ ושמים. יהוה אדני חילי. יהוה בחכמה יסד ארץ כונן שמים בתבונה. וסימן הכולל העניין מה שאמרו חמשים שערי בינה נבראו בעולם. בשלשים ושתים נתי' פליאות חכמה חקק יה וכו'. היודע

לכוין אלו הפסוקים ואלו העניינים ואלו הסמנין יוכל להבין העיקר הזה ואין זה מסור להבינו אלא בקבלה מפה אל פה. וסוד העיקר הזה הוא כולל סדר כל העולמות ובו נכללים בראשית ברא אלהים מדת הגבורה בראשית ברא אלהים מדת המלכות. כי כל אחת מאלו הספי׳ הולידה סדרי עולם ובכל אחת ואחת מהן נכלל סוד פסו׳ בראשית ברא אלהים. והדברים הם עמוקים מאד מאד ואין הכל יכולין להכנס לעומקים והמבין עיקרים הללו יוכל להבין מהו ע׳ פנים לתורה.

ואתה פקח עיניך והתבונן כי במקומות תמצא כתו׳ אלהים והוא רומז על ספי׳ הבינה לפי הרמזים שרמזנו ולפעמים הוא רומז על מדת הגבורה. ולפעמים הוא רומז על מדת המלכות בהיותה מתלבשת מלבוש הגבורה. כל זה כשתמצא אלהים* סמוך למלת צבאות כגון אלהים צבאות השיבנו והוא בההאחד עמוד השמאל במדת הגבו׳ ולוקח כלי מלחמה ולובש בגדי קנאות קנאת יי צבאות תעשה זאת.

והנה בכל מקום שאתה מוצא בתורה ספי׳ יסוד שהיא שביעית בדרך זה: | יסוד שביעית למטה. בינה היא קיב ע"ב שביעית למעלה. והבינה קושרת שש ספי׳ בשלש. והיסוד קושר ספי׳ עשירית בתשע העליונות. והבן זה מאד כי אלו הן שני פרקי החבור והיחוד לעשר ספי׳ בסוד אחד בשלש ואחד בשבע. ואחר שידעת זה דע כי בכל מקום שתמצא בתו׳ ספי׳ שביעיות שבע פעמים הוא סוד הספי׳ מן היסוד ועד הבינה ובמקומות מן הבינה ועד היסוד כי ששת ימים עשה יי את השמים ואת הארץ. ששת ולא בששת.

אי זו היא הספי׳ הנקראת תורה שבכתב היא מדת התפ׳. נמצאת למד תורה שבכתב ומשפט ואמת ויעקב כולם רומזים לקו האמצעי.

ואצ"ל כי ספי׳ הבינה הנכתב יהוה ונקראת אלהים הוא סוד גלוי ג׳ ספי׳ עליונות אשר על ידיה מתגלה אור הכתר והרצון עד שמגיע האצילות והשפע והברכה למדת יסוד שזהו סוד ז׳ ספי׳ שזכרנו וכשמגיע כל שפע וכל מיני ברכה למדת יסוד אזי מדת יסוד חוזרת ומריקה כל מיני השפע ואצילות הברכות במדת המלכות הנקראת אדני ולפי׳ נקראת בת שבע.

ואצ"ל כי אלו שתי׳ הספי׳ שהם ספי׳ בינה וספי׳ המלכות הם סבת התגלות כ"ע וסבת השפע והברכה והקיום לכל הנמצאים. והספי׳ שהיא בינה נקראת במקומות הרבה בינה והטעם

כי הוא סוד המליץ העליון עומדת בין הספי׳ העליונות ובין הספי׳ התחתונות שלמטה מהם והיא המאצלת על כל שאר הספי׳ אצילות שפע וברכה מן כ"ע ועל ידי הספי׳ הזאת יתבונן האדם עיקר העיקרים ויסוד כל היסודות שאל מלא היא אין דרך להכנס לידיעת קדמותו ית׳ וית׳ והרי הוא כדמיון המליץ הנאמן שנא׳ אנכי עומד בין יי וביניכם שהוא סוד המליץ התחתון בינו ובין בני ישראל אות היא לעולם. וכבר רמזו בעלי החכמה שספי׳ הבינה כמו הלשון בפה באמת כמו הלשון בפה מכמה צדדין. האחד שהוא סוד הכתוב השלישי. והשני שהוא סוד קשר שלש ספי׳ עליונות ואצילות ברכתם של* שבע ספי׳ התחתונות שאל מלא הבינה לא נכנס אדם לדעת קדמונו של עולם. והנה משה ר׳ ע"ה שהוא המליץ הנאמן השיג בבינה מ"ט שערים כמו שאז"ל חמשים שערי בינה נבראו בעולם וכולם נמסרו למשה חוץ מאחד שנא׳ ותחסרהו מעט מאלהים. ועוד השעם שנקראת בינה לפי שהיא סוד תולדות בנים ובנות בסוד בינה ותבונה ולפי׳ בעון נדרים בנים מתים. בעון נדרים מתה אשתו של אדם. וכל זה מדה במדה לפי שהבינה הוא מקום הנדר כמו שהוא ידוע למקובלים.

והנה בהיות ספי׳ היובל עולם הרחמים נקראת נחלה בלא מצרים והיא נחלת יעקב אבי׳ ע"ה לא נחלת אברהם שהיו לו מצרים ולא נחלת יצחק שהיו לו מצרים ולפי׳ כל הזוכה להדבק בספי׳ היובל גאולה תהיה לו לפי שאין שם דבר מעכב וזהו סוד והרכבתיך על במתי ארץ וכו׳ נחלת קו האמצעי. אשריהם ישראל בעולם הזה ובבא. נשלם מסעי בע"ה . |

פרש׳ אלה הדברים . יתב׳ שמו ויתע׳ זכרו של הב"ה קיג ע"א שכל הנסים שעשה לישראל במדבר כך עתיד לעשות להם בציון.

פנו וסעו לכם. פי׳ חסעו למעלה. להר האמורי שהוא אמרי אל פי׳ לכ"ע. ואל כל שכיניו. פי׳ חכמה ובינה הנקראים שתי שכינות פי׳ שכינה של ימין ושכינה של שמאל. בערבה. פי׳ בעט׳. בהר. פי׳ בתפ׳ הנקרא הר.ובשפלה. פי׳ הוד. ובנגב. פי׳ צד אברהם. ובחוף הים. פי׳ היסוד כדא׳ חופף עליו כל היום. לפי שמדת היסוד עומד על העס׳ ומחכסה עליה כי חוף מל׳ כיסוי. והלבנון רומז לכ"ע הנקרא הר הלבנון. עד הנהר הגדול נהר פרת רומז למדת הבינה שהוא

הנהר הנמשך ויוצא מעדן כדא׳ ונהר יוצא מעדן להשקות את הגן.
איכה אשא לבדי טרחכם ומשאכם וריבכם. איכה אל״ף
ויו״ד רומז לכ״ע וחכמה כה למדת הבינה שהם עומדים למעלה מן התפ׳
הנקרא משה לכן אמ׳ משה איכה אשא לבדי. פי׳ איך אוכל לסבול
המשואות של העולמות כולם.
שרי אלפים כנגד אלף מדרגות הנמשכים מן אל״ף הקדוש
העליון. שרי מאות. סוד החכמה שיש בה שלש מאות ועשר מחנות כמנין
יש. שרי חמשים כנגד הבינה שיש בה חמשים שערי בינה. ושרי עשרות
רומז לעט׳ שהיא עשרית כדא׳ העשירי יהיה קודש ליי.
וסוד התורה והמצוה. התורה זו תורה שבכתב. והמצוה
זו הורה שבעלפה. כי התורה שבכתב יש לנו לנהוג בה על ציווי אדני
הנקראת מצוה ונקראת תורה שבעל פה ולפי׳ אמ׳ הכתו׳ לכל תכלה
ראיתי קץ רחבה מצותך מאד.
ואצ״ל כי שלש חסדים הם. האחד חסד העליון הבא מן
המקור העליון שאין בו תערובת דין זולתי כולו חסד ורחמים ונקראים
חסדים טובים והסוד בזה וחסדי מאהך לא ימוש. ועל זה כתי׳ כי המלך
בוטח ביי ובחסד עליון בל ימוט.והשני הוא חסד עולם והוא הנקרא
חסד אברהם שנא׳ תתן אמת ליעקב חסד וכו׳. ולפי שפחד יצחק הוא
מדת הדין מתערבת עם חסד אברהם אין חסד אברהם חסד פשוט אלא
מעורב עם דין כי לפעמים מתגברת הגבורה ומסתתרת בתוכה חסד אברהם
ולפי׳ נקרא חסד עולם כי לפעמים הוא מתעלם בסוד שתי מצות שבהם
מתנהג העולם בסוד גלוי ונעלם בסוד מעלה ומטה ימין ושמאל פנים
ואחור. ולפי׳ חסד עולם יש בו דין ורחמים.* השלישי נקרא חסדי
דוד הנאמנים והם חסדי אל חי הבאים מכח חסדים טובים וחסד אברהם
ונקראים חסדי דוד בהגיעם אצל מדתו ונמשכים אליו החסדים ובאים
דרך עיר דוד ונקראים חסדי דוד ומגיעים לשם אדני ונקרא שם אדני
בל׳ הסידה | והסימן אם אברה חסידה ונוצה. והיודע קיג ע״ב
סוד חסדי דוד יודע סוד הודו ליי כי טוב כי לעולם חסדו. ראש וסוף
ואמצע ויבין מכאן כמה ענייניים עמוקים נרמזים בתוכה*.
ואצ״ל כי שלשה שמות הם אדני למטה. יהוה באמצע.
אהיה למעלה שהוא הכתר ובו תלוי המזל שממנו נמשכין הבנים שהוא
סוד ותתפלל על יהוה ממש שהוא אהיה ממש העומד למעלה כדא׳

על יי לפי שעלתה בתפילתה עד שם אהיה ומשם הפיקה רצונה בדבר
זה וזהו סוד שאמ׳ רז״ל בני חיי ומזוני לא בזכותא תליא מילתא אלא
במזלא תליא מילתא. ומקום זכות הוא ב״ד הגדול של מעלה הנקרא ב״ד
הנקרא אלהים שהוא מדת הגבורה והפחד כמו שאמרתי לך. אלא במזלא
תליא מילתא שהוא מקום המזל הידוע שנותן מצד החסד והרחמים למי
שמוציא חן בעיניו בסוד י״ג מדות בספי׳ אהיה שהוא סוד הכתר. והרוצה
להוליד בנים על ידי הנס עד מקום זה ראוי לעלות. וכן הרוצה להשיג
חיים נוספים על ימיו. כן הרוצה להשיג מזונות יותר על מה שראוין
לו לפי כח תולדתו. וחייו ובניו ומזונותיו שלשתן מפורשין בתורה
שהן למעלה מב״ד הגדול הנקרא זכות שהוא שמאל של התפ׳ הנקרא
יהוה יה׳. ומניין לך שאלו השלשה דברים שהם חיי בני ומזוני למעלה
משם יהוה יה׳ ויח׳. חיים דכתי׳ בחזקיהו שמעתי את תפלתך ראיתי
את דמעתיך הנני יוסיף על ימיך. ולא אמ׳ הנני מוסיף אלא יוסף כלו׳
מב״ד הגדול אמ׳ אני דנתי את הדין אם ירדה המזל הידוע יוסיף חייך.
בנים דכתי׳ בתפלה של חנה כמו שפירשתי לעיל. מזונות דכתי׳ השליך
על יהוה יהבך והוא יכלכלך. על יי ולא אל יי. ובחזקיה נמ׳ כתי׳
ויתפלל על יי*. והטעם לפי שכל הרוצה להשיג ג׳ דברים הללו אינו
יכול להשיגם בעולם אלא על הדין במקום הנקרא זכות שהוא ב״ד
הגדול של מעלה. ובאי זה מקום יכול להשיג דבר זה. ראוי לעלות
למעלה למעלה מן העולם הבא עד מקום כ״ע שהוא אהיה שהוא אין
סוף במקום י״ג מדות של רחמים שהאתת מאותן י״ג מדות נקראת מזל.
וזהו שארז״ל בני חיי ומזוני לא בזכותא תליא מילתא אלא במזלא תליא
מילתא.
ולפי דרכים אלו דע והבן שאע״פ שאנו אומרים שהרוצה
להשיג חפצו מאת השם ית׳ שיהא מכוין באותו השם ית׳ לאותו החפץ
שהוא צריך שאין כוונתינו לומ׳ שיתכוין לאותו השם לבד ועמוד
אלא כוונתינו לומ׳ שיתכוין באותו הש׳ שהדבר תלוי בו וימשוך
כוונת אותו השם עד עשר ספי׳ שהוא סוד המקור | העליון קיד ע״א
הנקרא מקום הרצון. ובשיגיע למקום הרצון אני יפיק רצונו ומשאלותיו
וזהו שכתי׳ פותח את ידיך ומשביע לכל חי רצון. אל תקרי ידיך אלא
יודיך כלו׳ כשאתה פותח סוד יו״ד של שם יהוה שהוא מקום הרצון
אזי אתה משלים רצון כל שואל. נמצאת למד כשאדם צריך דבר להפיק

לפני השם ית' דאוי לו להתכוין בכל עשר ספי' ולהמשיך החפץ והרצון מלמעלה למטה עד סוף הרצון ונמצאו הספי' מתברכות על ידו ונמצא הוא מתברך על ידי הספי' וזהו שכתי' אשר המתברך בארץ יתברך באלהי אמן. וסוד אמן הוא סוד שפע המשכת הברכות משם אהיה לשם יהוה ומשם יהוה לשם אדני. נמצאת למד כי כל המתפלל שהוא מתכוין על דרך זו שאמרנו שהוא מיחד עשר ספי' ומקרב אותן זו לזו.

אשריהם ישראל שנתן להם הב"ה מתנה כזו. אשריהם בעולם הזה ובעולם הבא. נשלם אלה הדברים ש"ל.

פרש' ואתחנן . ואתחנן אל יי בעת ההיא לאמר. זש"ה ושמעת אל תפלת עבדך ואל תחנוניו. הרי הרבה שמות נקראת התפלה ואלו הן תפלה תחנה צעקה זעקה שועה רנה פגיעה זמירה נעילה. ולמה לא נתפלל משה באחת מהם אלא בל' תחנה שנא' ואתחנן. אלא בשעה שעמד משה ואמ' לפני הב"ה הראיני נא את כבודך. א"ל הב"ה הן אני מראה לך. אני אעביר כל טובי על פניך וקראתי בשם יי לפניך וכו'.

ויאמר יי אלי דב לך אל תוסיף דבר אלי עוד בדבר הזה. דב לך פי' כ"ע הנקרא רבון כל העולמים פי' הרב של כל המדריגות העלים והסכים במחשבתו לסלקך מן העולם.

עלה ראש הפסגה. פי' מדת היסוד הנקרא ראש הסולם וראש המטה כדא' וראשו מגיע השמימה וכו'. הפסגה פי' עט' הנקראת פסגה פי' פסגה הוא מקום שנראים משם כל הארץ כך רמז לו לעלות אל מדת העט' שנראים בה כל הצורות וכל האספקלריאות. ושא עיניך. פי' תשיג בעין השגתך. ימה פי' לעט'. וצפונה לצד צפון. ותימנה לצד דרום. ומזרחה לצד מזרח. וראה בעיניך פי' בעין שכלך.

וצו את יהושע. פי' יהושע תלמידך שהוא נאצל ממדרגתך. והזקהו מצד הגבורה. ואמצהו מצד התפ'. כי הוא יעבור פי' מדת הוא שהוא השכינה יעבור לפני העם הזה כדא' ויי הולך לפניהם יומם. והוא ינחיל. פי' מדת המחשבה הנקרא והוא ינחיל להם כל נחלות וירושות עליונות | מעדן העליון הקדוש והבן כל אלו* קיד ע"ב העניינים על מתכונתם.

ועתה ישראל שמע אל החקים ואל המשפטים אשר אנכי

וכו'. פי' החוקים והמשפטים העליונים. אשר אנכי פי' מדת המחשבה הנקרא אנכי . למען תחיו. בחיים עליונים הנמשכים ויוצאים מעומק כ"ע הנקרא חיה על דרך נפש רוח נשמה יחידה חיה.

לא תוסיפו על הדבר. פי' משה ע"ה בא והזהיר לישראל על היחוד ואמ' להם לא תוסיפו על הספי' כי הם עשר ולא אחד עשרה. אם יבא המחקר והמשיג ואומ' ג"כ עי' העי' יכנס בכלל כל המדרגות לכן אמ' עשר ולא י"א. ולא תגרעו ממנו. פי' אם יעלה על דעת המחקר לגרוע ולחסר מדת העט' מכלל הספי' לכן אמרו עשר ולא תשע. והבן כל זה בעומק מחשבתך.

ואתם הדבקים ביי אלהיכם. אשריכם ישראל שאתם דבוקים בהב"ה שהוא מדת יהוה הנקרא עץ החיים לפי שישראל הם דביקים בגוף האילן והם נדבקים ביי שהוא תפ'. אלהיכם הוא מדת העט' הנקרא אלהיכם. חיים כלכם היום. פי' אתם שואבים חיים עליונים מעולם החיים כדא' אתהלך לפני יי בארצות החיים. לפי שכל השפע של החיים בא מצד הבינה. והטעם כי ידו מקבלת שפע וכח מן המדה הנקראת מי והסוד שאו מרום עיניכם וראו מי ברא אלה. ולפי שהצדיקים יודעים סוד מי יכולין לבטל הגזירה והבן הדבר הגדול הזה ותראו הסוד שנא' שוב מחרון אפך. כי מקום התשובה הוא מי והוא המושל על החרון והאף וכן כתי' בשנת היובל הזאת תשובו איש אל אחוזתו. ולפי' התבונן נפלאות שרמז בספר יצירה שהעיצה נגמרת בכליות וכן הוא כתי' לעומת העצה יסירנה.

ועתה באתי להכניס בסוד הפרשה כדא' ואתחנן אל יי. כי אין ואתחנן אלא לש' חנם כדכתי' וחנותי את אשר אחון. לפי שמשה היה מתחנן ומתפלל כנגד כ"ע שהוא מדת חנם כדא' וחנותי. לפי שהוא מוחל לרשע כמו לצדיק והוא מדת ההשואה. לכן כתי' ואתחנן אל יהוה בעת ההיא לאמר. פי' שהכנם ועלה מן מדה למדה והתחיל ליכנם מן מדה העשירית שהיא מדת עת כדא' ואל יבא בכל עת. כך עלה מן מדה למדה עד למדת כ"ע שהוא נותן מתנת חנם לצדיקים ולרשעים. ומנין לך שמשה התחיל ליכנם ממדת העט' כדא' אדני יהוה. כי אדני רומז לעט' שהיא מדה עשירית הנקרא אדני. יהוה פי' תפ' יעקב שהוא קו האמצעי הנקרא אתה. והרי אתה רואה שמשה ר' ע"ה עלה מן מדה למדה עד שהגיע למדת כ"ע שהוא עומק | המחשבה קטו ע"א

שמשם נאצל כל גזירה הנגזר ונסכם בכל הנבראים ונמצאים וזו המדה תעשה הסד חנם לכל הבא להתפלל לפניה קודם גזר דין. אבל אחר גזר דין לא תועיל הפלתו וזהו סוד כך עלה במחשבה. אשריהם ישראל בעולם הזה ובעולם הבא שנתן להם הב"ה התורה הקדושה והתמימה בדא' תורת יי תמימה. נשלם.

פרש' והיה עקב . ר' חייא פתח ואמ' למה אירא ביפי רע עון עקיבי יסוביני. דע כי השם המיוחד הנקרא שם יי ית' הוא השורש והעיקר לכל שמותיו ית' וכל שמות הקודש בו כולם נאחזים וכל הספי' העליונות כולם סדורות בו וכל מעלות העולם למיניהם וכל המרכבות עליונות והתחתונות כולם נשואות בו.

ואצ"ל האותיות והנקודות כולם בשם זה תלוים וכל היצור והדבור הכל עומד בו ית' ויח'. ואל יעלה על דעתך כי הדברים שאמרנו לך עתה בעיקר זה הם דברים שאין ראוי לקבלם ולהאמינם ושאין להם טעם. אבל אלו הדברים הם קבלה ומסורת וידיעה יש לנו בהם ויכולת בידינו לתת לכל אחד מהם טעם וראיה מצד תורתינו הקדושה.

יראת יי שכל טוב לכל עושיהם. והסוד בזה משביל על דבר ימצא טוב. ולפי היות דוד ע"ה דבוק במדה זו אומ' לדוד משכיל. וכל לשון משביל במקום זה תלוי. והיודע סוד החן ידע שכל טוב יתן החן. נשלם.

פרש' ראה אנכי . וכבר ידעת כי בית גנזיו הוא אדני ולפ' כל השומר שבת כהלכה מקרב אלו שני השמות. נמצאו כל הספי' כולן מתאחדות וזהו סוד מנוחה שהוא נח תוך שם אדני והסוד נחה רוח אליהו על אלישע. ואמ' וינח ביום השביעי. ולפי' נאמ' זכור ושמור. ולפי שהנפשות פורחות על ידי אל הי לשם אדני הוצרכו לומ' כי נפש יחידה ניתוספת בו באדם בשבת ונוטלה במוצאי שבת ובסוד וביום השביעי שבת וינפש.

עשר תעשר את כל תבואת זרעך. פי' לעולם תעשר כל המדרגות שהם עשר ולא תשע. עשר ולא אחת עשרה. ד"א עשר תעשר. שתי פעמים למה אלא כי יש כאן סוד עמוק ונעלם שאין הפה

יכול לדבר ולא האזן יכול לשמוע. כבר ידעת כי עשר רומז לעשר התחתונות. עד הנה יש לי רשות לפרש אם אתה מן המשכילים תבין במיטב שכלך הסוד הגדול הזה לבלתי שלא להוציאו מפיך. כעין דוגמא זה אנו נותנים | המעשר למטה כדי שיתדמה קטו ע"ב אדם ליוצרו. היוצא השדה שנה שנה. פי' לשדה של תפוחים שלשם מתגדלים כל התבואות.

דגנך רומז לחסד הנקרא דגן בדא' ואקחה פת לחם וסעדו.תירושך רומז לגבורה שהוא היין המשתכר. ויצהרך מל' צוהר תעשה. רמז לתפ' ישראל הנקרא צוהר כיון שהוא נקרא אספקלריא המאירה.

וצרה הכסף בידך. לפי שהוא רמז למדת החסד הנקרא כסף בדי שיקבלהו השם ית' לרצון לפי שהמקום שהוא ירושלם נקרא דין כדא' צדק ילין בה. לכן צריך לערב דין ורחמים.

מקצה שלש שנים. שהם שלשה מדרגות נעלמות שהם כ"ע חכמה בינה. תוציא את כל מעשר תבואתך. לפי שהחסד הוא עולם הנגלה כי כבר יצא מעולם האין כי יש לו רשות לחקור בעולם המלכות. והנחת בשעריך. פי' בשער התחתון שהוא שער המלכות כי לשם כל המדרגות הם מונחים ועומדים והבן כל הדברים על מכונתם כי הם מפורשים ומבוארים לעינים הפתוחות לכן פקח עיניך ותבינם.

כל הבכור אשר יולד בבקרך. כי הבכור רומז לחכמה שהוא נקרא בכור. לכן הוא לכהן שהוא חסד. כי הכהן מקבל ממנו כל ההמשכות בדא' כשמן הטוב על הראש יורד על הזקן זקן אהרן שיורד על פי מדותיו. ועל זה כתי' תקדיש לפי שלשון קדושה רומז לחכמה שהיא קדושה עליונה . ליי אלהיך. פי' כ"ע שהוא אלוה על כל האלהים ואדון על כל האדונים בדא' כי גבוה מעל גבוה שומר וכו'. אשריהם ישראל שהב"ה מסר להם סודותיו הנפלאים בדא' לא עשה כן לכל גוי וכו'. נשלם.

פרש' שופטים . כי יפלא ממך דבר למשפט וכו'. פי' יפלא מלשון כיסוי שנתכסה ממך משפט עולם העליון והנהגותיו ומוצאיו ומובאיו. בין דם לדם. פי' מלשון דומה לפי ששתי אלו המדות שהם חכמה ובינה הם דוממים ושותקים לפי שאין שם העברת קול כי הוא עולם

המשתכך כיין טוב על שמריו. אזי וקמת ועליתה אל המקום שהוא מדת העט' שהיא בית שער לכל הנכנסים במרכבה עליונה כמו ששנינו בספר יצירה אם רץ לבן לחקור בעולם המחשבה שוב למקום שהיא מדה התחתונה של שס ית' כי בה תחקור ותבקש ותבין ממנה כל סדר העולמות העליונות והנהגותם ומוצאיהם.

ובאת אל הכהנים. שהוא מדת החסד משם תבין גם כן יותר ויותר. הלויים רומזים לגבורה כך תעלה ממדה למדה. ואל השופט פי' תפ' כדא' מלך במשפט יעמיד | ארץ וכו'. קסז ע"א אשר יהיה בימים ההם. פי' שהוא השופט המכריע בין אלו שני ימים שהם גדולה וגבורה הנקרא יום טוב והפכו. ודרשת. פי' שתדרוש ותחקור ותשיג ותבין בהם מהות עולם העליון והסוד בזה נודע בשערים בעלה.

והאיש אשר יעשה בזדון לבלתי שמוע אל הכהן. פי' אם ח"ו אם נמצא בליעל ויעשה במיזד ויקצץ בין עליונים ותחתונים ולא יתן לבו לשמוע אל מדת הכהן שהוא החסד או אל השופט שהוא תפ'. ומת האיש ההוא. פי' שהוא חייב מיתה בעולם הזה ובעולם הבא.

שום תשים עליך מלך. פי' מלך שהוא מדת התפ' שהוא מלך בהיכלו. אשר יבחר יי אלהיך בו מקרב אחיך כי הוא עומד בקרב אלו שתי המדות שהם אחיך כדא' למען אחי וריעי. לא תוכל לתת עליך איש נכרי. פי' של צד החיצונים שהם נוכריים ואכזרים. אשר לא אחיך הוא. כי הוא טמא ואתה טהור כי הוא חול ואתה קדוש. לכן אין לערב טומאה בקדושה.

רק לא ירבה לו סוסים. כי הסוסים רומזים למדות של בתי דינין המתגברים לעשות דין בעולם.

והיה כשבתו על כסא ממלכתו. פי' כאשר ישב מדת התפ' על כסאו שהוא יסוד אזי יתחבר עם העט' שהיא משנה התורה הזאת.

והיתה עמו וקרא בו. פי' והיתה עמו דווקא וקרא בו כל ימי חייו. כי לשון וקרא מלשון תהום אל תהום קורא לקול צינוריך. רמז שהתפ' הוא מושך ההמשכות ומיגי האצילות אל המטרוניתא. כל ימי חייו. כל זמן שיש לו שפע של חיים מן עולם העליון שהיא

סוד החיה העליונה הקדומה.

לבלתי רום לבבו מאחיו. אבל כ"ע שהוא נקרא רום הוא נקרא בלתי כדא' אין קדוש כיי כי אין בלתך. פי' כי אין בלותך כי כולם הם בלים והוא אינו בלה. למען יאריך ימים על ממלכתו. לפי שכ"ע הנקרא אורך אנפין הוא מאריך זמן כדא' יי לאורך ימים. כי לא קדם לו זמן. על ממלכתו. פי' שכל הוא יושב על כסא ממלכתו. הוא פי' כ"ע הנקרא והוא. ובניו פי' חכמה ובינה שהם בניו של המלך העליון ית' ויח'.

לא יהיה לכהנים הלוים כל שבט לוי. כי הכהנים שהם מדת החסד והלוים שהם מדת הגבורה.

ונהן לכהן שהוא כהן עליון. הזרוע לחסד. והלחיים לגבורה. והקבה רומז לתפ' שהוא כאצטומכא שהוא מעכל כל שפע העליונה והוא נקרא ריחים שטוחנין בו את המן לצדיקים.

כי ימצא חלל באדמה אשר. זהו סוד עגלה ערופה.

ויצאו זקיניך פי' רמז לכ"ע . ושופטיך פי' שתי בתי דינין.

כפר לעמך ישראל. והנני מאיר עיניך | דע קסז ע"ב כי בכל מקום שאתה מוציא אור פנים מלמעלה הוא סוד גדול. והוא כי יי יש לו שלש מאות ועשר פנים של זעם לכל צד וכולם הם אדוקים ומדובקים בפחד יצחק וכולם הם נחלקים לארבעה צדדין. וכשמאירה מדת הכתר פניה ומוציאה הדגל של הרחמים שחקוק בו מדת אל אזי כל פני הזעם חוזרות להאיר ונהפכות כולם לרחמים וזהו סוד ויהי כי זקן יצחק ותכהין עיניו מראות. ואזי תשיג תקעו בחדש שופר בכסה ליום הגינו. וסוד אשרי העם יודעי תרועה יי באור פניך יהלכון. ותראה מהו שופר של אילו של יצחק. וכשתתבונן ענייניים אלו אזי תבנם לסוד שאנו אומרים יוצר המאורות. ובורא מאורי האש. ואז תבין מה יש בין יוצר המאורות ובין מאורי האש. כי יצירת המאורות נמשכת מן הרחמים הגדולים של מעלה בסוד אל יי ויאיר לנו. ומאורי האש הם נמשכים ממדת אלהים שהוא מרת החושך שנא' בו וחושך על פני תהום.

ואצ"ל כי מרת יהוה המכריע באמצע והיאך מנהיג את עולמו. כינויין של השם יתב' העומדים באמצע השורה מימינם חסד

ומשאלם דין והם כלולים באמצע מן החסד והדין ואלו הכינויין
אשר באמצע נקראים כנוי הרחמים ועליהם נאמ' ליי אלהינו הרחמים
והסליחות כי מרדנו בו.

ואצ"ל כי שמות של כ"ע הם כולם שמות פשוטים בלי
תערובת דבר כי צד רחמים הידועים הסמוכים לשם אהיה או חסד
הסמוך לשם אהיה כולם גמורים פשוטים אין בהם הערובת דבר וזהו
סוד וברחמים גדולים אקבצך. וכי מה רחמים גדולים אלא מפני שהרחמים
הכלולים בקו האמצעי אינם רחמים גמורים שהרי דין מעורב בהם
שהם כלולים מן החסד והדין אבל רחמים של שם אהיה נקראים רחמים
גדולים שאין בהם תערובת דין וכן חסד עליון כדא' ובחסד עליון
בל ימוט. שהוא החסד הפשוט הגמור של שם עליון שהוא אהיה.
אצ"ל* חסד של אברהם תערובת דין יש בו ונקרא חסד עולם ואינו
נקרא חסד עליון. זה הכלל משם ולמטה נולדו ההפכים כולם פנים
ואחור ימין ושמאל ולפי' אין לך שם או מדה משם אהיה ולמטה שהיא
פשוטה בלי הרכבה ואצ"ל כי יש מדה אחת בקו האמצעי שהוא נקרא
כח המרכיב היסודות וזהו

אשריכם הצדיקים הישרים והתמימים שהב"ה הפץ בכבודכם בעולם
הזה ובעולם הבא כי נתן להם סודותיו הגנוזים מה שלא נתן אפי'
למלאכי השרת כדא' עין לא ראתה וכו'. נשלם.

פרש' כי תצא . כך שנו רז"ל הוי זהיר במצוה קלה כמצוה חמורה.
שכך שנו רז"ל שמצוה גוררת מצוה ועבירה גוררת עבירה.

כי יקרא קן צפור לפניך. שלח תשלח את האם. זש"ה
מכל משמר נצור לבך כי ממנו תוצאות חיים. אמ' ר' אחא מאתים
וארבעים ושמונה מצות עשה בתורה כנגד איברים שבאדם ובכל יום
ויום צווחין על האדם עשה אותנו כדי שתחיה בזכותינו ותאריך ימים.
ושלש מאות וששים וחמש מצות לא תעשה כמניין ימות החמה שבכל
יום ויום חמה זורחת עד שהיא שוקעת צווחת ואומרת לאדם גוזרני
עליך במי שהגיע ימים ליום זה אל תעבור בי עבירה ואל תכריע אותי*
ואת כל העולם לכף חובה. הרי שש מאות ושלש עשרה מצות וכל

מצוה ומצוה ניכר מתן שכרה כגון כבוד אב ואם ושילוח הקן כתי'
בהם אריכות ימים. ויש מצוה שמתן שכרה בנים כגון שרה שהאריכה
את האורחין. ושונמית על שקבלה אלישע. ויש עבירה שענשה סקילה
שריפה הרג והנק. ואין לך קלה בכל המצות של עשה משלוח הקן ומה
שכרה למען ייטב לך והארכת ימים.

ועשתה את צפורניה. לפי שהצפרנים הם משכן לטומאה.

לא תלבש שעטנז צמר ופשתים יחדיו. כי השעטנז רומז
לעט' שהיא מקבלת מכל המדות ומכל האספקלריאות והיא מלובשה
מדין ורחמים ומשפט. כעין דוגמא זה אסור להשתמש בשרביטו של
מלך. ד"א כי שעטנז רומז לתמורות הבאים להתערב עם כנסת ישראל
בימי טומאתה.

גדילים העשה לך על ארבע כנפות כסותך אשר תכסה
בה. פי' גדילים ציציות ופתילים. על ארבע כנפות כסותך. כי הגדילים
רומזים לגדולה ולגבורה ולנצח ולהוד שהם עומדות על ארבע כנפות
הכסות שהוא מדרגת התפ' שהוא נקרא טלית והסוד עוטה אור כשלמה
נוטה שמים כיריעה. ונמצא שהתפ' הוא עומד באמצע והטלית באמצע
והגדילים שהם גדולה גבו' נצח הוד עומדות על ארבע כנפות הארץ.
כעין דוגמא זה ציוה לנו בתורתינו הקדושה לעשות גדילים לטלית
כדי להדמות ליוצרינו ונהיה דומין לצורה עליונה וכל מי שאינו מתלבש
בציצית אין לו חלק בשמו הקדוש.

ד"א הטלית רומז לעט' והגדילים הם נצח הוד יסוד
מלכות כנגד ד' גדילים.

על ארבע כנפות כסותך אשר תכסה בה כתי' ולא כתי'
בו. פי' אם תתכסה בכסות מצוה למטה תזכה להתכסות בכסות העליון
שהיא אם הבנים ותכנס תחת כנפיה להתלונן. על זה כתי' בה.

כי יקח איש | אשה ובא אליה ושנאה. כי קיז ע"ב
האיש רומז לתפ' ישראל כדא' יי איש מלחמה. והאשה רומז לעט'
שהיא הכלה הידועה בכל התורה כולה. ובא אליה להתחבר ולהזדווג
לה דרך יחוד. ושנאה מכח שהגיע זמן טומאתה מכח השרים והמלכיות
הבאים להתערב עמה.

ושם לה עלילות דברים. ואין עלילות אלא לשון גילוי
כלשון בעליל לארץ מזוקק שבעתים פי' נתפרסם שהיא כביכול

נטמאה. כיון שהנקבה נטמאת ויתפרש ממנה הזכר מיד יתפרסם העניין שהדברים הם בגו שיש בה שום ערעור ה"ד ושם לה עלילות דברים פי' פרסום הדברים שהגיע זמן טומאתה ונתפרש ממנה.

והוציא עליה שם רע. פי' כביכול שהוציא עליה שם רע. אל תיקרי שם רע אלא שֵׁם רע פי' סם המות של התמורות שמטילין בה דרך הדפנות. לכן אין אדם יוצא מביתו עד שבני אדם מרננים על נקבתו לכן יציאתו גרם לה שם רע והבן כל זה.

ואמר את האשה הזאת לקחתי ואקרב אליה ולא מצאתי לה בתולים. פי' בתולים כדא' נפלה בתולת ישראל. פי' כביכול נפלו בתולותיה משעה שהטיל הנחש זוהמא בה.

ולקח אבי הנערה ואמה והוציאו את בתולי הנערה אל זקני העיר. ואצ"ל ביון שנתפרש ממנה בעלה המלך ונתפרשו עמו כל חיילותיו וכל צבאותיו ונחתכו ונפסקו הצינורות העליונות מלהריק לה מעולם הבינה הנקרא ה"א עליונה ועל זה כתי' הנער בלא ה"א שהיא הסירה ופגומה ויבישה בלי המשכות והשפעות שפע כלל. וכיון שראה אביה ואמה שהם חכמה ובינה שפָּחם מושלכת ונפרדת מבעלה בלי מחיה ובלי מזונות כלל מיד לקחו השמלה של בתולי בתם עד זקני העיר שהם שבעים סנהדרין של מדה הגבורה לדון עליה.

ואמר אבי הנערה פי' חכמה. את בתי פי' עט'. נתתי לאיש הזה לאשה פי' לתפ'.

וענשו אותו מאה כסף. כנגד מאה מדרגות שהם בתוך ההפ' לפי שיש בה עשר וענפיו יעלה מספרם מאה. ולו תהיה לאשה לא יוכל לשלחה כל ימיו. והסוד בזה אע"פ שהם נפרדים אינו בכל עה אלא לזמנים ידועים בימי נדותה וטומאתה. כעין דוגמא זה למטה הבתולה שלא נמצא לה בתולים יסקלוה אנשי עירה באבנים בשביל שעשתה נבלה בישראל כתי' ולא כתי' נבלה סתם אלא בישראל. מהו בישראל כדי לכלול כביכול ישראל העליון שמרדה למעלה ולמטה.

כי ימצא איש שוכב עם אשה בעולת בעל ומתו גם שניהם האיש השוכב עם האשה והאשה. שתי פעמים האשה והאשה אלא כדי לרמוז לך אשה עליונה כביכול | כל מי שבא על אשת איש קיח ע"א באלו כביכול נתן פנים באשה עליונה והפרידה מן המלך יי צבאות כדא' ונרגן מפריד אלוף.

כי ימצא איש נערה בתולה אשר לא אורשה ותפשה ושכב עמה ונמצאו ונתן האיש השוכב עמה לאבי הנערה חמשים כסף. כנגד חמשים שערים שהפסיק מן בתולת ישראל פי' בתולת ישראל לפי שהיא כח פשוט בתכלית הפשיטות ועל זה נקראת בתולה הה"ד והוא אשה בבתוליה יקח*. מן אם העליונה ונפסקו צינורות עליונות בשבילו לעט' ישראל לכן צריך ליתן חמשים כסף כדי להחזיר האבידה לבעלה.

לא יקח איש את אשת אביו ולא יגלה כנף אביו. כי כבר פירשתי לך זה בטעמי עריות בפרש' אחרי מות.

לא יבוא ממזר בקהל יי גם דור עשירי לא יבוא לו בקהל יי. ואם אתה מן המשכילים די לך ברמז מעט.

לא יבוא עמוני ומואבי בקהל יי גם דור עשירי לא יבוא להם בקהל יי עד עולם. עד עולם ואין עולם אלא חמשים שנה כדא' וישב שם עד עולם. פי' עד עולמו של היובל שהוא חמשים שנה כדאמ' ועבדו לעולם פי' עד היובל. לכן ג"כ נרמוז לך סוד עמון ומואב שהתלבנותם וזקוקם עד חמשים שנה לכן אם אתה מן המבינים די לך ברמז מעט.

ולא אבה יי אלהיך לשמוע אל בלעם וכו'. פי' להסכים לו על קללתו.

לא תתעב אדומי כי אחיך הוא ולא תתעב מצרי כי גר היית בארצו. לפי שאדום ויעקב היו אחים בבטן אחד. והסוד בזה אסור לכלות הדפנות מכל וכל כי לולי הטומאה לא יודע הטהרה והסוד כיתרון האור מן התושך.

בנים אשר יולדו להם דור שלישי. והסוד בזה הן כל אלה יפעל אל פעמים שלש עם גבר.

לא תסגיר עבד אל אדוניו. בכאן סוד עליון כי העבד הוא עבד הנרמז בכל התורה כדא' אל עבדו זקן ביתו המושל וכו'. אל אדוניו הוא חסד אברהם פי' לא תגרום שיסגר העבד שהוא העט' מלפני האדון שהוא חסד אברהם כדי שלא יהא קיצוץ ופירוד ביניהם אלא תכללם הכל ביחוד אחד. ד"א לא תסגיר עבד אל אדוניו. פי' שלא תסגיר העט' שהיא העבד מאדוניו שהוא כ"ע הנקרא אדון כל האדונים ולא תקצץ ותפריד בין העט' וכ"ע. ואל תוציא העט' מכלל הספי' העליונות. ד"א לא תסגיר עבד כי העבד הוא תפ' שהוא עובד לכ"ע ולעי' העי' אל תסגיר אותו מאדונו והבן כל זה.

כי תדר נדר ליי אלהיך. דומז לבינה שהוא מקום הנדר לכן לא תאחר לשלמו לפי שהנדר תלוי בעולם הבינה וכל מי שעובר על הנדר כאלו הוא נותן פגם במקום דליכא פגם. כי דרוש ידרשנו יי אלהיך מעמך. שיביא עליך עונש.

מוצא שפתיך תשמור ועשית כאשר נדרת וכו׳. פי׳ כל מה שיעבור על אלו הכלים | הדומים לשם אותיות קיח ע"ב הקדושות שהם הלשון שהוא דוגמת יו"ד והחומם דוגמת וא"ו ושאר הכלים הדומין ג"כ לאותיות הקדושות לכן יזהר בדבור או בנדר או בשבועה שעבר על אלו הכלים הקדושים שישמור אותו לקיים כדאמ׳ מוצא שפתיך תשמור ועשית כאשר נדרת ליי אלהיך שהוא מקום הבינה.

כי תבא בקמת רעך וקטפת מלילות בידך וחרמש לא תניף וכו׳. פי׳ לאחר שיצאת מן הכרם הידוע ועלית משם לשדה העליון ותראה קמת רעך שהוא תפ׳ ישראל שתבא לחפש ולחקור במהות כ"ע מתוך התפ׳ הנקרא קמה כדא׳ והנה קמה אלומתי. וקטפת מלילות פי׳ דברים עליונים כי לשון מלילות מל׳ מלין והסוד הקוטפים מלוח עלי שיח שורש רתמים וכו׳. לכן אם יבא לתפ׳ ויקטוף ויחסוף מאותן מילין עילאין לחקור ולחפש אחרי מהותם.וחרמש לא תניף על קמת רעך. פי׳ שלא תגרום לקמת רעך שום הנפת חרמש שהוא בית דין העליונים רמז שלא יפריד הקמה מן הנצבה והסוד בזה ונרגן מפריד אלוף.

כי יקח איש אשה ובעלה. פי׳ איש הידוע והאשה הידועה. ובעלה כדא׳ כי יבעל בחור בתולה יבעלון בניך. והיה אם לא תמצא חן בעיניו. מצד הכיעור שהאויבים משניאין אותה בעיניו כי מצא בה ודאי ערות דבר והבן כל זה. וכתב לה ספר כריתות שהיא כביכול נכרתה ונפסקה ממנו. ושלחה מביתו פי׳ מהיכלו. ויצאה מביתו פי׳ מהיכלו. והלכה והיתה לאיש אחר. ויי לאוזן שומעת שהכלה המהוללה תשולח מביתו והיתה לאיש אחר והבן כל זה.

ושנאה האיש האחרון שהוא יסוד שהוא בן זווג ושלחה ג"כ מביתו. לא יוכל בעלה הראשון שהוא תפ׳ לשוב לקחתה להיות לו לאשה אחרי אשר הוטמאה מצד החיצוניים עד שיגיע זמן שכתי׳ ולילה כיום יאיר וכו׳. נשלם.

פרש׳ והיה כי תבא . ושמחת בכל הטוב. פי׳ בכל הטוב היורד מן עולם העליון שכל הטובות והשמחות יורדים משם.

כי תכלה לעשר את כל מעשר תבואתך בשנה השלישית. כי שנה שלישית רומז לעולם הבינה שהיא שלישית למדה עליונה.

ונתת ללוי שהוא גבורה. ליתום פי׳ ליטוד. ולאלמנה פי׳ עט׳ שהיא אלמנה. ואכלו בשעריך ושבעו. פי׳ שכולם הלוי והכהן והיתום והאלמנה כולם הם אוכלים ושובעים מטוב העליון.

השקיפה ממעון קדשך. בא וראה כל ההשקפה הם לרעה חוץ מן השקיפה ממעון קדשך | מן השמים שהוא קיט ע"א לטובה כי הוא סוד עין הטוב המשקיף והמשגיח על כל היצורים והנבראים כולם לטובה כדא׳ השקיפה ממעון קדשך מן השמים ודאי פי׳ משמי שמים העליונים שכל ההשקפות וההשגחות הבאים משם הם לטובה כדא׳ השקיפה ממעון. וברך את עמך את ישראל. פי׳ מן הבריכה העליונה שמתברכים ממנו כל הברכות העליונים. את ישראל פי׳ מדת התפ׳ הנקרא ישראל שהוא סוד התפ׳ שהוא כולל כל ישראל. ואת האדמה אשר נתתה לנו. פי׳ מדת המלכות. ארץ זבת חלב ודבש. פי׳ כי היא זבה מכל מיני חלב ודבש הנוזלים מן המבוע של הנחל.

וכתבת על האבנים את כל דברי התורה הזאת. כמו שהתורה היא כתובה בגלגל התפ׳ הנקרא אבן ובגלגל הירח שהיא עט׳ אל"ף אחר אל"ף עד לעיני כל ישראל.

אלה יעמדו לברך את העם על הר גריזים. כי הר גריזים רומז למדת החסד שמשם יתאצלו כל הברכות הנמשכים ונאצלים מן כ"ע וחכמה ובינה והם שמעון לוי יהודה יששכר ויוסף ובנימין שהם עומדים בהר גריזים.

ואלה יעמדו על הקללה בהר עיבל כנגד מדת הגבורה הנקראת עיבל ראובן גד ואשר וזבלון דן ונפתלי שהם ממונים על זה הצד של הקללה.

ארור האיש אשר יעשה פסל ומסכה תועבת יי. כי פסל מל׳ פסל לך לפי שהוא פוסל ומקצץ בין הנטיעות לכן התחיל לדין התחיל ואומר להם אשר יעשה פסל ומסכה ושם בסתר. פי׳ שהוא מפריד בין העליונים והתחתונים.

ארור מקלה אביו ואמו. פי׳ לשון קללה. ד"א מקלה

מל' קלוי באש גרש וכו' שהוא כביכול גורס לאביו ואמו למעלה שיתייבשו להם השפע הקדוש העליון. כי אביו רומז לתפ' ואמו רומז לעט' לכן כתי' מקלה ולא מקלל לכן המשכיל יבין וידום.

ארור משיג גבול רעהו. ואין רעהו אלא תפא' ישראל הנקרא זה דודי וזה דיעי כי אין לאדם לעלות ולהגיע לו. כי עט' היא בית שער להשיג ולחקור בה עד שיכנס מתחלה לשער המלך. ד"א כסיג כתי' בסמ"ך שהוא לשון סייג לתורה שהוא עושה גדר וסייג בין רעהו שהוא תפ' ובין עט' ישראל ומפריד החתן מן הכלה. ד"א ארור משיג מלשון כספך היה לסיגים שהוא פסולת הכסף הנקרא סיגים שהוא גורם כביכול שאין התפ' יונק מן שפע העליון אלא מכח שרי הסובבים לו לכן המשכיל יבין סוד החלודה שיעלה על הספי' והבן זה ודום ליי.

ארור משגה עור בדרך שהוא סוד מלכות יי שהיא כביכול כמו עור שאין לה | אור מעצמה אלא מה שאחרים נותנים קיט ע"ג
לה כי משגה הוא מלשון השגה שמשיג אותה בדרך פי' בדרך מקרה ויפרידה אלא ישגיח אותה בדרך העליון בחבור שאר הספי' ביחוד אחד. ד"א משגה הם אותיות הגשם . פי' אם יבוא וישגיח עליה בהשגחה גשמית ולא בהשגחה אלהית רוחנית לכן אזהרה לך שלא תוציאנה מכלל הרוחניים האלהיים.

ואצ"ל כי יש לך כאן שגים עשר פעמים ארור כנגד י"ב הויות עליונות פי' שהוא גורם להם חסרון אורה לאלו ההויות. אבל אם יקיים כל דברי הברית אז יונק מאלו י"ב הויות אורה וברכה עד בלי דיי. ובאו עליך כל הברכות האלה והשיגון . פי' ברכות של אלו י"ב מקורות. והשיגוך פי' ישיגוך.

ברוך אתה בעיר וברוך אתה בשדה פי' בעט.

פרי בטנך שהוא פרי הבטן שמקבלת העט' מן התפ'.

יתן יי את אויביך הקמים עליך. פי' הקליפות שהם קמים לעולם על מלכות יי.

יצו יי פי' כ"ע אתך את הברכה של אוצר העליון באסמיך פי' בעט' שהיא נקראת אסמי של העולמות.

וראו כל עמי הארץ שהם כולם דואין ששם הקדוש העליון יראה* עליך ואזי כל הבריות יראו ויפחדו ממך לפי ששם הקדוש העליון

הוא חופף עליך. וכבר גליתי לך במקום אחר היאך שם הקודש נרשם בפני האדם כדי להדמות לצורה עליונה כדא' נעשה אדם בצלמנו כדמותנו.

יפתח יי פי' תפ' . לך עט'. את אוצרו הסוב פי' חסד שהוא אוצר וגנזי חיים לכל העולמות כי כל מה שהוא מקבל מלמעלה מושך אותו למטה לעט' ישראל.

ונתנך יי לראש ולא לזנב. פי' שתתעלה עד כ"ע שהוא ראש מן שלשה ראשים. ולא לזנב שהוא כביכול זנב של הנחש. והיית רק למעלה פי' לכ"ע. ולא תהיה למטה. והבן כל זה אם אתה מן המשכילים.

ואצ"ל כי לשון ארור הוא לשון חסרון כדא' יהי מארת חסר כתי' מלשון מארת ועוד ממארת היא שהיא כביכול חסרה אורה ונקראת אור הקטן כדא' ואת המאור הקטון.

ואצ"ל כי יש במדת הגבורה שלש מדות הממונות על הקללות שהם נקראים המארה המהומה והמגערת. המארה היא ממעטה הטוב לבא לעולם והמהומה הוא מלשון ותהום שהיא תעשה מהומה גדולה בכל העולמות. והמגערת הוא מל' נערה שהוא גוער בכל המדרגות ואזי אין לאחד מן הנבראים מענה בפיו. ויש להם כוחות ופועלים ממונים שבהם עושים אלו הדינין כסדר הזה. המארה יש לו ארבעים כוחות שבהם הוא ממעט השפע | כדי שלא לבא לעולם ואלו הן: קכ ע"א

ואצ"ל כי אל ג' מדות הם ממונים על כל דבר המארה המהומה והמגערת הבאים לעולם השפל הזה. לכן כשבא משה להטיל אלו החרמות כללן בכלל שאר הקללות האמורות בתוכחה.

עד השמדך בכח הדין הקשה.

יככה יי בשחפת. יככה כתי' ולא יכך פי' רמז למלכות יי הנקראת כה כדא' כה אמר יי. שהיא ממונה על כל הדינין של המלך העליון. בשחפת ובקדחת ובדלקת ובחרחור ובחרב ובשדפון ובירקון כנגד תמורות של שבעה מדרגות שהם מן החסד עד לעט' שבעה כנגד שבעה.

והיתה נבלתך למאכל לכל עוף השמים. פי' כמו שכתי' יחיו מתיך נבלתי יקומון. כי זה הפסוק יש בו צפון וגנוז סוד עליון יחיו מתיך נבלתי יקומון לכן אם תבין סוד ונבלתי יקומון תבין סוד של זה הפסוק והיתה נבלתך למאכל לכל עוף השמים והבן כל זה.

יככה יי בשחין מצרים ובעפלים כתי' ובטחרים קרינן.

כי יככה רומז למדת הדין הרפה שהוא רפה שעושה כל המכות והנגעים בעולם. בשחין מצרים מכה זוהמת מצרים. ובעפלים מצד הגבורה ובטחורים מצד העט'. ובגרב מצד תמורת העט'. קכ ע"ב

ובחרס מתמורת התפ' כדא' האומר לחדס ולא יזרח וכו'. פי' מדת יעקב בזמן שיסתלק ממנו שכינה עליונה. בשגעון מתמורת הגבורה. ובעורון מצד תמורת העט'. ובתמהון לבב מצד תמורת התפ'.

והיית ממשש בצהרים. שהוא תפ' ישראל הנקראים צהרים כדא' ערב ובקר וצהרים.

אשה תארש פי' האשה העליונה שהיא כנסת ישראל. תארש אותה שתהיה עמך. ואיש אחר כביכול סמאל ושריו מטילין זוהמתם בה כדא' ישכבנה. וזהו סוד וישכב אותה ויענה.

פרי אדמתך וכל יגיעך יאכל עם אשר לא ידעת. פי' כל יגיעך ופרי בטנך יהנו ממנו עם אכזרי שהם החיצוניים.

זרע רב תוציא השדה. פי' השדה העליונה הנקראת שדה של תפוחים. ומעט תאסוף לפי שחצוניים הם קוטפים וחוספים את כל השפע בדרכים קודם שיגיע לבית האוצר.

הגר אשר בקרבך יעלה עליך מעלה מעלה ואתה תרד מטה מטה. פי' הגר שהוא תמורת אופן העט' יעלה עליך ויתגלגל אופנו ויעמוד אופנך.  נמצא שאופן של התמורה מתגלגלת ואופן של העט' יורדת מטה מטה ואינה מתגלגלת. הוא יהיה לראש שיתגלגל אופנו. ואתה תהיה לזנב. פי' זנב לנחש של סמאל.

ברעב מצד הגבורה. ובצמא מצד החסד. ובעירום מצד התפ'. ובחוסר כל מצד החסד של אורך אנפין.

גוי מרחוק פי' אפי' התמורות העליונות שהם תמורת כ"ע הנקרא מרחוק.

גוי עז פנים. פי' שהם עזי פנים וחצופים ואכזרים ורשעים כדא' והכלבים עזי נפש לא ידעו. אשר לא ישא פנים לזקן. פי' אפי' לחסד שהוא נקרא זקן אהרן. ונער לא יחון ולא ירחם.

ואכל פרי בהמתך ופרי אדמתך. פי' פרי בהמתך אלו הם הנשמות היורדים מן עולם העט' הנקראת בהמה כדא' אדם ובהמה. ופרי אדמתך פי' היסוד שהוא אדמה עליונה. אשר לא ישאיר לך דגן תירוש ויצהר. פי' יכלה הכל עד שלא ישאר לא שורש ולא ענף מכל

מה שירד מעולם העליון הם אוכלין הכל דרך הנקבים והחפירות.
הרכה בך והענוגה פי' העט' שהיא הרכה והענוגה
מעונג העליון שהיא יונקת מאם הבנים כדא' אז תתענג על יי והרכבתיך
וכו'.
ובשליתה היוצאת מבין רגליה. פי' העט' הנקראת מי
האם שהיא עומדת בין הרגלים. היוצת כתי' בלא אל"ף לפי שהיה
חסירה מן אל"ף העליון.
ויקרא משה אל כל ישראל. והנה תמצא בכאן סוד
שלשים שנה שנא' בסוד מרכבת יחזקאל כדא' ויהי בשלשים שנה.
ובאלו נגמר כל דין שדנין בב"ד הגדול של שבעים ואחד למעלה. ובשאר
בתי דינין של מעלה באלו שלשים ענייניס | דנין אותם. קכא ע"א
ומה שתצטריך לדעת כי בסוד סדר זה כתו' ראיתי את יי יושב על כסאו
וכל צבא השמים עומדים עליו. צבא השמים הנזכר כאן הם סוד שני
שמות הנקראים שמים והוא סוד אל אלהים ומהם נקרא השם רוכב שמים
וכתי' היושבי בשמים. ועל זה נאמ' ואתה תשמע השמים. וצבא של
אל וצבא של אלהים עומדים עליו מימינו ומשמאלו כמו שכתבנו בלוח
זה של אלו הכנויין של אל טוענין ומהפכין לזכות וזהו סוד מימינו
ואלו הכנויים של אלהים מלמדין חובה וזהו סוד משמאלו. וזה הוא
שארז"ל וכל צבא השמים עומדים עליו מימינו ומשמאלו. מימינים
לזכות ומשמאלים לחובה. ואחר שטוענין סעמחם אלו שתי הכתות
של ימין ושל שמאל דנין הנתבע בב"ד של שבעים ואחד במקום שהוא
מכוון בין השם הגדול יהוה ית' ובין השם הנקרא אלהים. ובין אלו
שתי השמות מוכנת למעלה לשכת הגזית במקום שדנין את בני העולם.
ואחר שטוענין אלו של ימין ושל שמאל מסתכים השם הגדול העומד
באמצע שהוא שם יהוה לגמור את הדין אם לחיים אם למות אם לטוב
אם לרע ואז גוזרין ופוסקין את הדין. ואז הצד הנקרא אלהים גומר
אותו הפסק דין ושם עומדים העדים והסופרים והשוטרים וכשרוצים
לקיים הגזר דין נשלח הכתב ביד המלאכים הנקראים שוטרים והולכים
לב"ד של מטה הנקרא אדני ואז נגמר הדין בעולם התחתון. ומה שתצטרך
לדעת כי המקום שדנין בו הוא בין יהוה ובין אלהים ורוב אותו המקום
בחלקו של אלהים. ומלבד ב"ד של שבעים ושתים יש שם עוד בתי דינין
של עשרים ושלשה במקומות ידועים שבהם נידונין בני עולם. אבל

יש הפרש בין ב"ד זה לב"ד זה כי במקומות ידועים דנין מות וחיים
ובמקומות ידועים דנין עושר ועוני וזהו סוד קבלת הכנויין מפה אל
פה כמו שקבלנום מרבותי מפה אל פה שהיו יודעים אמיתתו ית' ויח'
והם כתובין בספר אחד עמנו. נשלם.

פרש' אתם נצבים . ר' אבא פתח הפוך רשעים ואינם וכעלה צדיקים
יפרחו. לעברך בברית יי אלהיך ובאלתו. פי' סוד היסוד שהוא ברית
הקדוש שהוא עומד בין נצח והוד הנקראים רגלים.
והוא יהיה לך לאלהים. פי' מדת המחשבה העליונה
הנקרא והוא כדא' והוא רחום.
כי את אשר ישנו פה עמנו עומד היום. פי' אם אתם
מקיימים הברית שאני כורת עמכם אזי מדת היש הנקרא ישנו שהוא
חכמה עליונה משפיע לעט' הנקראת פה ויתחברו כל העולמות |
כאחד ביחוד אמתי וההמשכות והצינורות מריקים קכא ע"ב
ומשפיעים את שקיהם. אל תיקרי שקיהם אלא שוקיהם מלשון ותער
כדה אל השוקת. לפי שכל שוקת ושוקת של עולם העליון הם משפיעים
מימיהם למדת הפה שהיא מלכות יי כדא' אשר ישנו פה. אזי הברכות
והשמחות נמצאים למעלה ולמטה והצינורות וההמשכות נמשכים ויוצאים
מן עדן העליון כדא' ונהר יוצא מעדן להשקות את הגן. לכן בזמן
שמתחברים חכמה עליונה עם חכמה תחתונה אז היום שהוא סוד התפ'
עומד לפני יי אלהינו ומתעדן מטובו ומחסדו הגדול אזי כל הטובות
נמשכין מן עומק של המחשבה. ואם ח"ו אם ישראל עוברים על הברית
אזי נפסקין ונמנעין הצינורות וההמשכות להריק ולהשפיע לעולם התחתון
אזי כל מיני קללות ואלות נמצאים בעולם וזהו סוד אין הברכה שורה
אלא במקום הזווג ולא במקום הפירוד. לכן כשמדת היש נפרדת מן
מדת הפה אזי הקללות והאלות כביכול נמצאים למעלה ולמטה.
פן יש בכם איש או אשה. כי מדת פן רומז לתמורת
הדין הקשה הנקרא פן כדא' פן תשחיתון.שיש בכם כביכול איש או
אשה או משפחה מן המשפחות או שבט מן השבטים. אשר לבבו פונה
היום מעם יי אלהינו. שהוא מלך העולם והוא ממ"ה הב"ה להטות לבבו
אחרי אלהים הגוים שהם אלהי אלילים ואלהי מתים שאין בהם שום
חיות כדא' ודורש אל המתים שהם שוחש פורה ראש ולענה של מקום

המר שהם יונקים מצד המר ולא מצד המתוק.

הנסתרות ליי אלהינו והנגלות וכו'. פי' הנסתרות ליי אלהינו פי' אותן שלש עולמות שהם כ"ע וחכמה ובינה הם נקראות נסתרות ותעלומות הם ליי אלהינו כדא' וכבוד אלהים הסתר דבר. והנגלות לנו ולבנינו. פי' אותן המדרגות הגלויות שאינן מכוסות שהם שבעה מדרגות תחתונות כגון חסד גבורה תפ' נצח הוד יסוד מלכות שהם גלויות ומחודשות הם לנו לחקור בהם אבל אין לנו עסק בנסתרות שהם להב"ה כדא' ז"ל מהו דכבשי רחמנא למה לך.

אבל על דרך הסוד הפנימי שהוא עמוק וחתום הנסתרות ליי אלהינו כי סוד ליי אלהינו הוא יי' העי' הנקרא יי אלהינו שהם שלו אותן עשר. י"ס עליונות שהם אורך אנפין וז"א שהם עשר מדרגות פנימיות ונסתרות לכן רמז לנו בתורה בנקודים על לנו ולבנינו שהם עשר כנגד עשר מדרגות שהם בתוך כ"ע שאינם גלויים אלא נסתרים ונעלמים מבלי משיג בהם החוקר לכן נקד עליהם עשר נקודות כי כמו שלא תוכל לומר דבר על הנקודות לפי שאין בהם צורה מן הצורות אלא גלמים כך לא תוכל | להשיג שום השגה בעשר קכב ע"א ספי' של כ"ע. אבל בעשר ספי' שהם למטה תוכל להבין ולהשיג בהם השגה מכח מלכות יי כדא' לנו ולבנינו פי' שיש לנו ולבנינו להשיג בהם ולחקור אחריהם אבל הנקודות שהם נסתרים וסתומים הם לעי' העי' ית' שמו בשכמל"ו. לכן המשכיל יבין וידום ליי ויראה נפלאות מתורתו הקדושה שנתן לנו מבית גנזיו ברוך שבחר בצדיקים בעולם הזה ובעולם הבא.

ושבת עד יי אלהיך ושמעת בקולו. פי' עד ודאי שהיא נקראת ודאי עד מלשון עדנה שלשם מתעדנין ומתפנקין בה הצדיקים לחיי העולם הבא.

אם יהיה נדחך בקצה השמים משם יקבצך יי אלהיך. וזהו חימה למה אמ' בקצה השמים ולא אמ' בקצה הארץ אלא סוד הוא סתום וחתום בעניין השלח. אלא אפי' אותן הנדחים והנכרתים בתמורת התפ' הנקרא שמים הב"ה יקבצם מכל המקומות ויכניסם לירושלם לעיר הקדש כדא' והיה הנשאר בציון והנותר בירושלם קדוש יאמר לו כל הכתוב לחיים בירושלם. ד"א בקצה השמים היא העס' שהיא עומדת בקצה השמים פי' בקרן זוית שלו כדא' והנה סולם מוצב ארצה וראשו

מגיע השמימה. פי' אותן הנדחים והנכרתים בתמורתה יקבץ אותם יי מביניהם כדא' ובאו האובדים בארץ אשור והנדחים בארץ מצרים והשתחוו ליי בהר הקדש בירושלם.

לא בשמים היא לאמר מי יעלה לנו השמימה ראשי תיבות מילה וסופי תיבות שם יהוה לומ' לך שהב"ה הקדים המילה לשמו ית' כדא' כי הגדלת על כל שמך אמרתך לפי שהמילה היא נקראת אמירה כדא' שש אנכי על אמרתך כמוצא שלל רב. וכתי' כי שמרו אמרתך ובריתך ינצורו. לא בשמים היא לאמר פי' התורה לא יאמר האומ' היא בשמים והיא גבוהה ממני איני יכול לעלות שם לקחתה משם. ואם יאמר האומ' שהיא מעבר לים והים מפסיק בינו ובינה ולא יוכל להגיע לה. אלא קרוב אליך הדבר מאד בפיך ובלבבך לעשותו. פי' הפה והלב הם גומרים המעשה. אם יעלה על מחשבתו ללמוד תורה כאלו הוא כבר ידע אותה וזהו שארז"ל יגעת מצאת וכו'.

ראה נתתי לפניך היום את החיים ואת הטוב. את החיים מצד התפ' שהוא עולם החיים שהוא יונק ושואב מן המחשבה שהוא חי של כל חיים. ואת הטוב רומז למדת החסד הנקראת טוב לפי שהוא גומל טובות לחייבים. ואת המות רומז לעס' וזהו סוד עץ הדעת לכן בזמן ממשלתה בני העולם טועמין טעם מות כשהם ישינים בלילה ואזי המות פורשת כנפיה על כל הבריות. ואת הרע רומז למדת הדין הקשה שהוא | נקרא רע והסוד ראו כי רעה נגד פניכם. קכב ע"ב וזהו שאמ' ז"ל כי אמ' פרעה לישראל ראו כי כוכב עולה לכם מן המדבר והוא שמו מאדים הוא מורה על דם והריגה.

וחיית ורבית. וחיית מצד החכמה. ורבית מצד הבינה. וברכך מצד התפ' שהוא מקום הברכות. ד"א וחיית פי' חיים. ורבית פי' בנים. וברכך פי' מזונות כי אלו ג' הם נמשכים ממקום שכולו רחמים והם חיים ומזונות ובנים וזהו סוד שארז"ל בני חיי ומזוני לאו בזכותא תליא מילתא וכו'. אע"פ שגזרו בב"ד של מעלה של סנהדרין גדולה על אלו שלשה דברים אם עמד אדם ונתכוון בתפלה עד מקור החפץ שהוא רצון כל הרצונות יפיק כל שאלתו. ועניין זכות הנזכר במקום זה הוא סוד סנהדרין גדולה. ועניין מזל שהזכירו במקום זה הוא סוד המקור העליון שהוא מקור החפץ הנקרא אהיה אשר משם נזלו מימי החפץ והרצון והוא המזל שכל הדברים תלויים בו ואפי'

ספר תורה תלויה בו וזהו סוד הכל תלוי במזל ואפי׳ ספר תורה בהיכל והבן זה מאד. ואל יעלה בדעתך כי במזלות הכוכבים דברו חכמי׳ז״ל במקום זה אלא במקום החפץ ודיי למבין. נשלם.

פרש׳ וילך משה . וילך משה וידבר את כל הדברים אל כל ישראל. ויאמר אליהם בן מאה ועשרים שנה אנכי היום זכו׳. מכאן שנינו באותו היום שנולד באותו היום בעצמו מת משה אדון השלום. ונמצא שחי משה מאה ועשרים שנה כנגד עולם היחוד. מאה כנגד מאה מדרגות. ועשרים כנגד העשרים הנסתרים והנעלמים והבן זה. נמצא שמשה חי כנגדם מאה ועשרים שנה.

לא אוכל עוד לצאת ולבוא. פי׳ לצאת ולבוא ולחקור ולהשיג ולדעת מוצא ומבוא של עולם העליון כי כבר נסתלקה ממני החכמה לתור אחריה.

יהושע הוא עובר לפניך. פי׳ מדת העט׳ הנקרא יהושע וזהו סוד שאמ׳ רז״ל פני משה כפני חמה פני יהושע כפני לבנה.

חזקו. פי׳ חזקו עצמיכם מצד הגבורה. ואמצו מצד התפ׳. אל תראו מצד ההוד. ואל תערצו מצד העט׳ שאלו ארבעה בתי דינין העוברים לפניכם להלחם.

כי אתה תבוא את העם הזה. היה לו לומ׳ כי אתה תביא את העם הזה אלא פי׳ כי אתה תבוא עם העם הזה אל הארץ פי׳ לארץ ישראל. ויהוה פי׳ מדת התפ׳ שהוא היה מדרגת משה חזר להשתתף עם יהושע.

ויאמר יי אל משה הן קרבו ימיך למות. פי׳ אותן הימים שאדם חי בזה העולם כל יום ויום עולה לפני הב״ה ויושב שם עד שיגיע זמן פטירת | האדם אזי כולם מסתלקים קכג ע״א ומתקרבים לפני המלך להתדבק ליסודם.

הנך שוכב עם אבותיך. פי׳ עם אבותיך ודאי.

וחרה אפי בו ביום ההוא. פי׳ מדת הדין הקשה הנקרא אף כדא׳ באף ובחמה ובקצף גדול.

ואצ״ל כי בהתאחד שתי ספי׳ שהם חמה וירח הנקראים יהוה אדני אזי נמצא העולם בתיקון ובמילוי ובשלימות לפי שכל הצינורות הם מתוקנים והספי׳ מתאחדות והברכה משתלחת במדת המלכות הנקראת

אדני וזהו סוד יהוה אדני חילי. אבל הוא בשתי דרכים. במקומות תמצא כתו׳ אדני יהוה בדא׳ אדני יהוה מה תתן לי. ובמקומות תמצא יהוה אדני כדא׳ יהוה אדני חילי.

והנה בהיות ספי׳ היובל עולם הרחמים נקראת נחלה בלא מצרים והיא נחלת יעקב אבי׳ ע״ה לא נחלת אברהם שהיו לו מצרים ולא נחלת יצחק שהיו לו מצרים.ולפי׳ כל הזוכה להדבק בספי׳ היובל גאולה תהיה לו לפי שאין שם דבר מעכב ולא מונע ומקטריג וזהו סוד והרכבתיך על במתי ארץ והאכלתיך נחלת יעקב אביך. נחלת קו האמצעי שהיא עולה ומתאחזת בעולם הרחמים ונשארו למטה במותי ארץ שהם נחלת אברהם ויצחק.

והיא נקראת תשובה בל׳ חכמים. והטעם לפי שהנשמות נאצלות מן המקום הזה והרוחות מן הקו האמצעי שהוא התפ׳ והנפשות מספי׳ המלכות. וכן נקשרות אלו באלו עד שזוכות להתאחז בספי׳ הבינה. כי צד הנפש קשורה ברוח והרוח בנשמה והנשמה בספי׳ הבינה. ואם חס ושלום חטאה הנפש ונתחייבה עונש כרת הרי נכרתת מן הרוח שהיתה נאחזת בה והפסידה גמול הטוב ואין לה דרך לעולם הבא שהרי נכרתה מן האילן העליון שהיתה נאחזת בו וזהו סוד הכרת האמור בתורה ונכרתה הנפש ההיא מעמיה. ואם אחר כך חזרה והטיבה דרכיה ותיקנה נתיבותיה אזי היא חוזרת להתאחד במקום שנכרתה מתחלה ממנה ואזי היא זוכה לעלות בספי׳ הבינה הנקרא העולם הבא ואזי היא שבה אל המקום שנאבד ממנה וזהו סוד תשובה והסוד בזה ותשובתו הרמתה כי שם ביתו. ולפי שהנפשות נקשרות ברוחות והרוחות בנשמות והנשמות נקשרות בעולם החיים ולפי׳ כתי׳ והיתה נפש אדוני צרורה בצרור החיים.אבל נפשות שנעקרו ממקומן ולא שבו נידונות בכמה עונשים רעים אחר שנעקרו ממקום מטען והרי הן מטולטלות ונעות מעונש לעונש ומנגע לנגע וזהו סוד ואת נפש אויביך יקלענה בתוך כף הקלע. ממקום למקום. כך הנפש משנכרתה ממקומה הרי היא נזרקת ממקום | למקום במיני עונשים רעים הנקראים כף הקלע. ולפי דרך קכג ע״ב זה יש לך להתבונן מהו סוד תשובה שנא׳ בתורה שזהו סוד תשובת הנפש למקום שנעקרה ממנו וחוזרת למנוחתה כדא׳ שובי נפשי למנוחיכי

ובמה היא חוזרת למנוחתה ברפואות הטובות שתקנה למנוחתה התורה היא רפואה לכל מיני חטא ועון כדאיתא בתורת כהנים וזהו סוד

שאמ׳ הכתו׳ תורת יי תמימה משיבת נפש. באמת שאל מלא שהודיעה התורה דרכי התשובה לא היה שם דרך לחזרה. אבל הנביא צווח ואומ׳ שובו בנים שובבים ארפא משובותיכם.

ומנין לנו כי סוד ספי׳ הבינה היא סוד התשובה בניין אב לכל התורה כדא׳ ולבבו יבין ושב ורפא לו. ואם כן התבונן בהיות התשובה היא סוד העולם הבא.

ואחר שביארתי לך העיקר הגדול הזה יש לנו לחזור ולהודיעך סוד מעלת התשובה. כי כל אחד מישראל אחר שנמכר יש לו דרך לשוב לגאולתו כדא׳ גאולה תהיה לו וביובל יצא. וכתי׳ בשנת היובל הזאת תשובו איש אל אחוזתו. בסוד ספי׳ הבינה יכולה הנפש לשוב ולהתאחז במקום שנכרתה ממנו וזהו סוד תשובו איש אל אחוזתו.

ואותה המדה של היובל נקראת צדק עליון בשביל שממנה מתחלת מדת הדין אע"פ שהיא נאחזת בעולם הרחמים וזהו סוד צדק עליון המכוון כנגד צדק תחתון ושתיהן מכוונות זו כנגד זו שערי צדק מכוונים כנגד שערי בינה בסוד אדני יהוה. ולפי שאלו שתי ספי׳ מכוונות זו כנגד זו ושתיהן נקראות בשם צדק אמ׳ הכתו׳ צדק צדק תרדוף. כלומ׳ רדוף להשיג שערי צדק להכנס מתוכה לחיי העולם הבא שהוא סוד צדק עליון שהוא עולם הרחמים ועולם החיים. וירשת את הארץ כנגד צדק תחתון שהוא סוד ארץ ישראל כדא׳ צדק ילין בה . והבן זה במיסב שכלך.

אשריהם הצדיקים בעולם הזה ובעולם הבא כדא׳ ועמך כולם צדיקים לעולם יירשו ארץ וכו׳. נשלם.

פרש׳ האזינו השמים . זש"ה נפש עמל עמלה לו כי אבף עליו פיהו. מה ראה משה ע"ה לקרוא לשמים ולארץ בשעת פטירתו אלא למדך שקרא אותן לצוותן על ישראל ועל עצמו. אמ׳ להם הרי גזר הב"ה עלי למות תנו דעתכם היאך תהיו מקבלין אותי בכבוד שתהיו מסתכלין בי כאלו אני חי ומדבר דברי תורה. ד"א האזינו השמים ואדברה שכבר אמרתי לכם העדותי בכם היום את השמים ואת הארץ. תנו דעתכם שלא תהיו מקטרגין על ישראל לאחר מותי אלא כך תהיו סבורין כאלו אני חי עמכם ועומד ומבקש | רחמים עליהם. קכד ע"א

יערוף כמטר לקחי. פי׳ לקחי רומז לתפ׳ שהיא תורה

שבכתב כדא׳ כי לקח טוב נתתי לכם תורתי וכו׳. תזל כטל אמרתי. פי׳ העס׳ הנקראת אמירה כדא׳ ומאמר אסתר. תזל מלשון נזילה וריבוי פי׳ השפע הנוזל ממקום המזל העליון הקדוש שאמרו בו ז"ל הכל תלוי במזל ואפי׳ ספר תורה בהיכל. לכן בא משה ותיקן השברים והסדקין של הצינורות שנהרסו ונתקלקלו בעון המרגלים ובעון עושי העגל עד שהחזיר ההמשכה מלמעלה עד מלכות יי. ומנין לנו שמשה חיבר המדות כדא׳ כי שם יי אקרא הבו גודל לאלהינו. נמצא שכלל שתי המדות וזיווגם וחיברם קודם מיתתו וכדי שלא יהא להם לישראל ערעור פה למקטרגים עליהם. ד"א כי שם יי אקרא מל׳ קירוי ותקרא פי׳ שהיה מקרה עליה העליוה העליונות והמעזיבות כדי שתהא מכוסה ומלובשת ושמורה מן אויביה.

הצור תמים פעלו. פי׳ הצור רומז לבינה הנקראת הצור שהוא תמים בכל דרכיו לפי שאין למעלה שום חסרון וגריעות אלא הוא תמים בכל דרכיו. כי כל דרכיו משפט. אע"פ שהוא אינו מדת דין ומשפט מ"מ הוא מקור הדין שממנו מתפשט הדין והמשפט. אל אמונה פי׳ חכמה הנקראת אמונה אל תקרי אמונה אלא אמנה כדא׳ ואהיה אצלו אמון והבן כל זה. ואין עול פי׳ כ"ע שאין שם לא עול ולא רוגז ולא כעס. צדיק וישר הוא פי׳ כ"ע הנקרא הוא כדא׳ הוא עשאנו ולא אנחנו.

הליי. פי׳ ה"א רבתא רומז לעולם הבינה שהיא ה"א עליונה מן השם הגדול שהוא יהוה. אמ׳ להם והלא במדה זאת יצאתם ממצרים כדא׳ וחמושים עלו בני ישראל. לפי שבמדה זו הוא מקום החירות והגאולות.

עס נבל מל׳ נובל שרומז לפירות הנובלות כך היו שלא העלו צמחים כעניין שהיו מורדים בשם ית׳ בכמה מקומות.

הלא הוא פי׳ מדת כ"ע. אביך פי׳ חכמה שהוא סוד האב. קנך פי׳ סוד האם שלשם מתלוננים כל הנשמות כמו העופות בקינן. הוא עשך פי׳ הוא עשאך כצורה עליונה. ויכוננך שצייר ותיקן כל איבריך ועצמותיך הפשוטים והמורכבים כל אחד ואחד על כנו כדא׳ ויכוננך.

זכור ימות עולם. לכן אמ׳ להם בניי תזהרו מאד מאד בי חוד העליון ותייחדו למלככם ביחוד אמתי כדא׳ זכור ימות עולם.

פי׳ חכמה וביגה שהם נקראים ימי עולם. בינו שנות דור ודור. פי׳ תאמרו שהוא קדמון בכל דור ודור שהוא סוד השמיטה. שאל אביך. פי׳ לצד החכמה מכח העט׳ כדא׳ נודע בשערים בעלה. זקיניך פי׳ כ"ע ועי׳ העי׳ שהם סתימות של כל הסתימות ועתיקין של כל העתיקין.

כי חלק יי עמו. פי׳ חלקו של הב"ה הם ישראל כדאמ׳ | בני בכורי ישראל. והם חלקו והוא חלקם ואין לאומות קכד ע"ב חלק בו אלא עמו ישראל שהם בניו הקדושים שהם נפרשים ונבדלים משאר האומות כדא׳ ואבדיל אתכם.

ימצאהו בארץ מדבר פי׳ במקום מדבר מצאם ונתן להם החורה והיה עמהם בתוך גלותם כדא׳ מי יתן מדבר מלוני מקום. נמצאת אומ׳ שהשכינה היתה גולה ממקום למקום במדברות ובשדות עד שבא שלמה המ׳ ע"ה ובנה בית המקדש והשכין השכינה בתוכו כדא׳ פה אשיב כי אויתיה. יסובבנהו בשבעה ענני כבוד מכל צדדין. יבוננהו פי׳ הבינם התורה. יצרנהו כביכול עד כאישון עינו.

כנשר פי׳ הבינה. יעיר קנו פי׳ שהוא מעורר קנו שהוא תפ׳. על גוזליו אלו הם ג׳ג׳ח׳נ׳ה׳ י׳מ׳ שהבינה מרחפת עליהם. והסוד בזה ורוח אלהים מרחפת על פני המים. יפרוש כנפיו פי׳ שפורש כנפיו ומכניסם תחת כסא הכבוד.

יי בדד ינחנו ואין עמו אל נכר. יי בדד בני׳ עשרה רמז לעשר נעלמות שהם י"ס ודי לך בזה.

ירכיבהו על במותי ארץ. פי׳ חכמה ובינה הנקראים במותי ארץ והרכבתיך על במותי ארץ.
כדא׳ ויאכל הנובות שדי פי׳ שדי ברכה רומז לאם העליונה. שדי בדגש רומז לעט׳ הנקרא אל שדי כדא׳ ואל שדי יתן לכם רחמים.

ויניקהו דבר מסלע. פי׳ דבש העליון שיורד מעולם העליון שכתי׳ אכלתי יערי עם דבשי שתיתי ייני עם חלבי. וכתי׳ מצור דבש אשביעיך פי׳ מצור ודאי שהוא כ"ע כדא׳ הצור תמים פעלו. דבש הוא השפע היורדת מן עולם העליון ית׳ ויתן׳ ושמן פי׳ שמן של המבוע כדא׳ כשמן הטוב על הראש.

חמאת בקר פי׳ השפע היורד מחסדי יי שהוא מדרגת אברהם שכתי׳ בו ואל הבקר רץ אברהם. ד"א ואל הבקר אל תקרי הבקר אלא ואל הבקַר רץ אברהם כדא׳ וישכם אברהם בבקר. לכן

ואצ"ל שהם שמונה ספי' שמתחילות להמנות מספי' הבינה ושבע תחתיה תן חלק לשבעה וגם לשמונה. והנני רומז לך היא חמשים היא שמונה המבין יתבונן. אבל שמונה ימי חנוכה שתקנו השמן בא מן הרצון של כל הרצונות לספי' הבינה והבינה היא סוד המנורה ונרותיה אל מול פני המנורה יאירו שבעת הנרות. ושמונת ימי חנוכה הם סוד העניין והנס הגדול והיודעים עיקרי הדברים יודעים כי הנס הנעשה בשמן על ידי ספי' הבינה הוא כי משם תולדות השמן מן הרצון. ולפי' המנורה והנרות והשמן סוד כל הספי' והסוד בזה מנורת זכריה ושני צנתרות הזהב שאינן צריכין להביא שמן ממקום אחר אלא שני הצנתרות מריקים | בשני זיתים עליה. המבין זה יבין קכו ע"א סוד י"ה והסוד כל הנשמה תהלל י"ה וסוד הלל גמור בשמונת ימי חנוכה. הרי רמזנו לך רמזים גדולים חזקים ועמוקים במה שתוכל להתבונן בסוד ההלל ובסוד כל מקום שנאמרה בו תהלה. ולא לתנם אמ' רז"ל כל האומ' תהלה לדוד בכל יום מובטח לו שהוא בן העולם הבא. דברים גדולים רמזו הנה כי סוד תהלה הוא סוד עולם הבא. ואל תקשה ותאמ' והלא אמרת כל האומ' הלל גמור בכל יום הרי הוא מחרף ומגדף. הלל גמור לחוד. תהלה לחוד. כי הלל גמור אינו נאמ'

אלא על טעם ידוע. תהלה הוא סוד ערך תיקון הספי׳ וסכסיסיה ומעלותיה אבל אינו גוף ההלל. ולפי׳ אז״ל כל האומר תהלה לדוד בכל יום מובטח לו שהוא בן העולם הבא. כלומ׳ האומ׳ המזמור הזה בכל יום שהוא מתחיל בלשון תהלה שהוא סוד ספי׳ הבינה ויש בו כמה סכסיסים ומעלות משתי ספי׳ המכוונות זו לזו שהן בינה ומלכות מובטח לו שהוא בן העולם הבא ואם תזכה ליכנס לסדרי המעלות האלו אזי תשמח בהם.

ואחרי שידעת זה תבין כי סוד המלכות שהוא אדני שהוא סוד התפלה שבו נכנסין להגיע לספי׳ התהלה שהיא שמינית לה ולפי׳ כללם כאחד בזה הפסוק ואמ׳ בתחלה אדני שפתי תפתח שהוא סוד התפלה וא״כ ופי יגיד תהלתך. כלומ׳ בהיותי זוכה לסדר התפלה כהוגן אזכה להיות ראוי להעירך התהלה כמו שבארנו לישרים נאוה תהלה.

ואצ״ל הספי׳ הזאת היא סוד אות שנייה של שם יהוה והיא סוד ה״א ראשונה של יהוה ית׳. ואצ״ל כי סוד הבינה שהיא סוד שער הספי׳ העליונות וממנה יקבלו שפע ברכה ואצילות שבע ספי׳ התחתונות כמו כן ספי׳ המלכות היא סוד שער כל עשר ספי׳ וממנה יקבלו כל הנמצאות שבעולם עליונות ותחתונות שפע וברכה וקיום וחיים ועמידה. והנה ספי׳ המלכות היא בית קבול לכל הברכות הבאות מספי׳ הבינה ולפי׳ זו דוגמא לזו ושתיהן בינה ומלכות הם סוד שתי ההי״ן אשר בשם יהוה ית׳ ה״א ראשונה בינה ה״א אחרונה מלכות. והנה המלכות מקבלת סוד שפע הברכות הנמשכות מהבינה כמו שפירשנו ולפי׳ זו שמיטה וזו יובל זו שכינה עילאה וזו שכינה תתאה. זו בית שער לספי׳ העליונות וזו בית שער לספי׳ האחרונות. על ידי ה״א ראשונה מקבלות ברכות שאר כל הספי׳ על ידי ה״א אחרונה מקבלות ברכות וקיום כל הנבראות. זו נקראת תהלה וזו נקראת תפלה. זו נקראת | כפורים* וזו נקראת כפורים. זו נקראת שמינית קכו ע״ב וזו נקראת שמינית. כי צד מלמטה למעלה בינה שמינית מלמעלה למטה מלכות שמינית. לפי ששתי ספי׳ העליונות כלולות בבינה כמו שפירשנו.

ואצ״ל שהן שתיהן סוד הפרנסים אשר כל חותם שם יהוה מסור בידיהם. ה״א עליונה שהיא בינה הוא סוד הפרנס הגדול שממנה יקבלו כל הספי׳ שפע ברכה. ולפי׳ תמצא שחותם כל השם מסור בידיה שהרי השם נכתב יהוה ונקרא אלהים הרי השם נקרא בניקודה

לפי שהיא נושאת כל החותם. ה״א אחרונה שהיא מלכות היא סוד הפרנס האחרון שממנה יקבלו עולם המלאכים לצבאותיהם ומחנותיהם שפע קיום ופרנסה וחיים. וכן עולם השמים חמה ולבנה וכוכבים ומזלות. וכן צבא הארץ מיני מתכות וצמחים ובעלי חיים למיניהם כולם יקבלו כח קיום ועמידה וחיים כפי הראוי מספי׳ המלכות שהיא סוד ה״א אחרונה של שם ית׳ ולפי׳ תמצא שחותם כל השם מסור בידיה והיא נקראת בשמו בדרך זה יהוה ונקראת אדני הרי השם נקרא בניקודה. נמצאת למד כי שם יהוה ית׳ יש לו בתורה שני נקודים האחד נקוד אלהים שהוא סוד הבינה בדרך זה יְהוָה בפסוק יְהוָה אדני חילי. ובפסוק אדני יהוה במה אדע. וכן כיוצא בזה. השני ניקוד אדני שהוא סוד המלכות כדרך יְהוָה בכל התורה כולה ואם תבין העיקר הגדול הזה שמסרתי בידך במקום זה תבין סוד שני ההי״ן שבשם ית׳ היאך מכוונות זו כנגד זו ומפתחות השמות בידיהם זו למעלה מזו וזו למטה. ובניקוד שתיהן השם נקרא בכל התורה אלא בניקוד אחד* ומכאן תבין סוד שכינה ביחוד שתי ההי״ן ושתיהן כוונה אחת זו שואבת מזו וזו שואבת מזו והכל יחוד שלם לשם ית׳. והיודע לכוין סוד שתי ההי״ן שבשם צריך לכוין בשעת היחוד כי בשתיהן הוא סוד היחוד השלם. ועל שתיהן נאמר יהיה יהוה אחד ושמו אחד. לכוין זו כנגד זו וליחד הספי׳ זו לזו וזהו העיקר ליודעים דרך בקבלת יחוד השם ית׳. והנה הודעתיך בשתי אלו ההי״ן שהם סוד כל מקום שאתה מוצא בתורה כתו׳ בפסוק אחד אדני יהוה או יהוה אדני.

ואצ״ל יהוה יתב׳ הוא הנקרא שם המיוחד כלו׳ סוד יחוד כל עשר הספי׳ כאחת | וכבר ביארנו כי שתי ספי׳ הראשונות קכז ע״א כלולות באות יו״ד של שם המיוחד. כי עניין הקוץ של היו״ד הוא סוד המחשבה ועיקר היו״ד סוד החכמה. והספי׳ השלישית המתאחזת בשתיהן היא סוד הבינה הכלולה באות ה״א ראשונה של שם,נמצאו שתי אותיות ראשונות של שם כלולות בשלש ספי׳ ראשונות ואות וא״ו של השם היא הכוללת שש מדרגות* ושלש מחצי אות וא״ו ולמטה ואלו הן נצח הוד יסוד. והספי׳ האחרונה שהיא עשירית כלולה באות אחרונה של שם שהוא אות ה״א.

ועתה אנו צריכין להודיעך מה טעם שתי אותיות של שם הראשונות נקראים בפני עצמן ושתי אותיות האחרונות אינן נקראין

בפני עצמן. כבר ידעת מה שפרשנו בסוד יחוד שתי ההי"ן של שם ה"א ראשונה שהיא הבינה מיחדת שבע ספי' תחתונות עמה. ה"א אחרונה שהיא מלכות היא המתיחדת עם תשע ספי' העליונות על ידי יסוד. סוף דבר עיקר כל עשר הספי' הוא שלש ספי' עליונות אשר מהם נשפעות כל שבע הספי' התחתונות. ואם חס ושלום יפסקו ההמשכות השלש אזי נמצא חרבן הבית ושריפת ההיכל ונלות הבנים בין האומות ולפי' חצי השם הראשון שהוא י"ה איפשר לו להקראות בפני עצמו. חצי השם האחרון שהוא ו"ה אי איפשר לו להקראות בפני עצמו לפי שהוא קציצה בנטיעות. וכשיאתה קורא י"ה הרי נם חצי השם האחרון נכלל בו ואין שם קציצה. וכן בסוד יו"ד ה"א וחציו ככולו וזה בחצי השם הראשון אבל בחצי השם האחרון עמידתו וקייומו בסוד י"ה הוא.

ואצ"ל הדרך שפתח בספר יצירה בשלשים ושתים פלאות חכמה חקק י"ה יהוה צבאות וכו'. מה טעם הוצרך להזכיר י"ה במקום זה. והטעם כי י"ה הוא סוד שלש ספי' עליונות עולם הרחמים. יהוה הוא סוד התפ' מקום דבוק של משה רבי' ע"ה מקום יניקת האבות. צבאות הוא סוד מקום יניקה הנביאים ודרך המעלות בספי'.

רק באבותיך חשק יי לאהבה אותם. פי' האבות הן הן המרכבה. חשק כדא' וחשוקיהם כסף. ויבחר בזרעם אחריהם. זהו דוד זרעם ממש כדא' אור זרוע לצדיק. זרעם* ממש יסוד עיקר הזרע והסוד ויצא חוטר מנזע ישי ונצר משרשיו יפרה. ונחה עליו רוח יי רוח חכמה ובינה רוח עיצה וגבורה רוח דעת ויראת יי. כללים נדולים כלל הנה.

ואחר שידעת אלו העיקרים הנכללים במלת יש יש לך ליכנם בחדרי | זאת הספי' לפי שזו הספי' במקומות ידועים קכז ע"ב נקראת חכמה. ואצ"ל כי הספי' הזאת הנקראת חכמה הוא סוד יו"ד של שם המיוחד. ומה שאמרנו שנקראת במקומות ידועים חכמה לא בכל מקום לפי שיש מקומות שהספי' העשירית הנקראת מלכות נקראת גם היא חכמה ועליה נאמר ויי נתן חכמה לשלמה. אבל סוד החכמה הנקראת יו"ד של שם יתב' אפי' למשה רבי' ע"ה נתעלמה ממנו ואין כל בריה יכולה להכנס בה שהרי לא השיג משה רבי' ע"ה כל החמשים שערים של הבינה והחכמה היא לפנים מן הבינה. ועל החכמה הזאת שהיא סוד יו"ד של השם אמרו המקובלים חכמה בראש. ועל החכמה האחרונה שהיא סוד המלכות אמרו חכמה בסוף. כלו' אות ראשונה של שם ית' ואות אחרונה של שם שהיא ה"א תחתונה שתיהן מיוחסות* בשם חכמה. ועל זה אמרו חכמה בראש וחכמה בסוף. ולפי שהחכמה הראשונה היא סוד התפשטות המחשבה מן הכתר אין לה שיעור וגבול מכל מה שאחריה ועליה נאמ' והתכמה מאין תמצא בודאי מאין תמצא שהיא סוד התפשטות המחשבה: מן הכתר. אלהים הבין דרכה אבל לא מקומה. והתבונן כי אלהים הבין דרכה בבינה שעל ידי הבינה נכנסין להשיג חכמה עליונה . והוא ידע את מקומה פי' והוא שהוא סוד הכתר אשר ממנו נמשכת חכמה זה בודאי הוא ידע את מקומה וזו היא החכמה שהיא התחלת התפשטות המחשבה ראש הספי' ועליה נאמר יי בחכמה יסד ארץ כונן שמים בתבונה. ברעתו תהומות נבקעו.ואין אנו בפי' אלו הפסוקים עכשיו.

ועתה מה שיש לך לדעת ולהתבונן אם בכל מקום שאת מוצא חכמה שתדע ותשכל אם הוא רמז לחכמה ראשונה או לחכמה אחרונה.

ואצ"ל כי זו היא החכמה שאינה נפרדת מן הבינה לעולמית לפי ששתיהן דבוקות בכ"ע והוא עולם הרחמים המקום שאין שם לא עצב ולא רוגז ולא פירוד אלא עוז והדר וחדוה. ולפי ששתי אלו הספי' מתאחדות לעולם חכמה ובינה לפי' שם י"ה אינו משתנה לעולם. אבל בהיות ישראל אינם מתנהגים כשורה ח"ו נורמים הפרוד לחכמה אחרונה ומפרידין אותה מן הדעת כדא' ונרנן מפריד אלוף.לפי' לפעמים נפרדת ה"א אחרונה מן הוא"ו וכשהיא נפרדת מן הו"ו אזי הוא"ו מתאספת למעלה ואינה נראית מאחר שבת זונו שהיא ה"א | אחרונה קכח ע"א נפרדה ממנו וזהו המסתיר פניו מבית יעקב. כיון שגלתה שכינה שהיא ה"א אחרונה אזי אות וא"ו אינה נראית אלא י"ה לבדו המקום שאין שם פירוד וזהו סוד כי מפני הרעה נאסף הצדיק. כי בהסתלק וא"ו שהיא התפ' נאסף הצדיק שהוא קוצו של וא"ו התחתון. ומה שאמרנו שחכמה ראשונה היא מיוחדת במקומות הרבה בתורה במקומות ידועים אין כוונתינו לומ' שאע"פ שאותו הפסוק מיוחד לדבר זה שגם חכמה אחרונה אינה נרמזת בה שלפעמים הרבה ידבר הפסוק בחכמה ראשונה ויהא רומז בחכמה אחרונה במו שנא' יי בחכמה יסד ארץ כונן שמים בתבונה. וכי אי זו משתי הספי' גדולה חכמה ואם כן בחכמה* יסד ארץ והשמים

שהם למעלה מן הארץ בתבונה. אלא הדבר מדבר בחכמה ראשונה ורומז בחכמה אחרונה. בחכמה יסד ארץ סוד חכמה שהיא רחמים יותר מן הבינה והיא צורך לבני אדם אבל שמים שאין שם זולתי יושר וטהרה תקוס במדה שהיא יותר דין מן החכמה. וכן יי בחכמה יסד ארץ מדבר באחרונה שהיא עיקר הארץ. כונן שמים בתבונה היא סוד מדת הדין הקשה כנגד השמים. הרי הדבר מדבר בחכמה ראשונה ורומז בחכמה אחרונה.

ואחר שמסרתי בידך אלו העיקרים הגדולים במלת חכמה יש לנו להודיעך שאר הדברים הכלולים בספירה זאת לפי שהיא נקראת לרוב המקובלים רצון כלו' תחלת המשכת החפץ באצילות הספי' והתגלותן מסתר עליון וזהו המקום שאין כח להתבונן בו כלל לפי שאין כל נברא למעלה ולמטה יכול לדעת כי צד דרך התפשטות החפץ באצילות הספי'. ומשה רבי' עה" שאל הודיעני נא את דרכך והיתה התשובה וקראתי בשם יי לפניך. כלו' יש דרך שהיא לפני לפנים מהשגתך ואין לך דרך להכנס לה וזהו סוד לפניך ולפי' אמ' והנותי את אשר אחון ורחמתי את אשר ארחם. שאין דרך ועניין לכל נברא להתבונן בהתשפטות הרצון לא מעט ולא הרבה ולפי' נקרא רצון באין גבול. וכמו שאין אנו משיגין דרך בספי' ראשונה לפי שאין לה קץ וסוף כך הרצון הדבק בה אין לו גבול. ובמדת הרצון מרחם הב"ה על הדבקים במדת היראה כלו' מראש החפץ והמחשבה. אשרי הזוכה לכך ועל זה נאמ' רוצה יי את יריאיו. ואמ' רצון יריאיו יעשה.

ועתה אנו צריכין להודיעך סוד שני מקראות שקבעו חז"ל אחד בראש התפלה והוא אדני | שפתי תפתח וכו' קכח ע"ב והשני בסוף התפלה הוא יהיו לרצון אמרי פי וכו'. ואצ"ל כי הראשון הקבוע בראש התפלה הוא השער שבו נכנסין בני העולם לבקש רחמים מלפני השם ית' וזהו אדני שפתי תפתח. ועל זה נאמ' פתחו לי שערי צדק אבוא בם אודה יה . וסוד * התפלה ההגונה שהיא מתגברת ועולה מספי' לספי' עד שמגעת עד הרצון שהוא דבוק בכתר. ולפי' אמרו בסוף יהיו לרצון אמרי פי. וכשהתפלה מגעת למקום הרצון אזי כל שערים שלמעלה ולמטה נפתחים לפניו ואין שם מעכב ומונע על בקשתו שהרי בעולם הרחמים הוא דבוק ואזי יפיק כל צרכיו ושאלותיו ואין דבר עומד לפניו שהרי ממקור הרצון הוא שואב ויכול לחדש אותות ומופתים חדשים כאלו אותה שעה נבראת עולם ואין דבר עומד לפניו

וזהו סוד שארז"ל בני חיי ומזוני לא בזכותא תליא מילתא אלא במזלא לפי שהכל תלוי בעולם הרחמים שהוא המקור.

אשריהם הצדיקי' בעולם הזה ובעולם הבא כדאמ' אך צדיקים יודו לשמך וכו'. נשלם.

פרש' וזאת הברכה . זש"ה רבות בנות עשו חיל ואת עליית על כלנה. זו היא ברכתו של משה שהרי הדורות הראשונים ברכו כל אחד ואחד את דורו ולא היתה כברכתו של משה.

וזאת הברכה. וזאת הברכות מיבעי ליה מהו וזאת הברכה. אלא רומז לברכה התחתונה שהיא ממונה על הברכות. ואצ"ל יש בריכה עליונה ובריכה תחתונה. בריכה עליונה הוא עולם היובל שהוא הנהר העליון שכל הנהרות והמעיינות והמקורות נמשכין לה מן עתיק דעתיקין וסתימא דסתימין הה"ד ונהר יוצא מעדן. ובריכה תחתונה היא עט' ישראל שבה מתערבים כל הצורות העליונות הה"ד וזאת הברכה אשר ברך משה. כי זו הברכה שנברכת מן משה שהוא סוד התפ' המשפיע לה. בזמן שתפ' משפיע למסרוניתא אזי הברכות והשמחות נמצאים בה לרוב. ואם ח"ו שישראל גורמים בעונותיהם אזי היא נמנעת מכל טוב ההה"ד ותסמא הארץ. אזי היא חסירה בלי אורה ובלי שפע והמשכה וברכה ואזי הצינורות וההמשכות נמנעים מלהריק לה. ואזי היא יבישה מכל טוב כדא' יבשה הארץ והבן זה.

ד"א וזאת הברכה. ר' שמעון פתח אל אלהי הרוחות לכל בשר. בזה הפסו' יש בו | להסתכל בסוד עליון. קכח ע"א אל אלהי הרוחות שהוא מדת המחשבה העמוקה שהוא מקום לעולמו ואין עולמו מקומו כדא' השמים ושמי השמים לא יכלכלוך וכו'. לא ינבילנו מקומו ולא יאחזהו זמנים כדכתי' הן אל שגיא כח ולא נדע מספר שניו ולא חקר. כדכתי' כי לא מחשבותי מחשבותיכם ולא דרכיכם דרכי. וכתי' כי כגבוה שמים על הארץ.

ושנינו שבע פתחים הם לנפשות הצדיקים להכנס עד מקום מעלתם ועל כל פתח ופתח שומרים. הפתח הראשון נכנסה הנשמה במערת המכפלה שהיא סמוך לגן עדן. ואדם הראשון עומד ושומר את הפתח והוא מכריז ואומ' פנו מקום שלום בואך. יוצאה מהפתח הראשון לפתח השני בשערי גן עדן ומוצאה הכרובים שהם מדת נצח והוד ולהט החרב המתהפכת. אם זכתה נכנסת בשלום ואם לאו שם תקבל עונשה

ותשפט בלהט הכרובים וכנגדם היו הכרובים במקדש. ובשעה שהיה הכהן נכנס ביום הכפורים זכה נכנס בשלום לא זכה מבין הכרובים להט יוצא וישרוף אותו מבפנים והמת והיו מכוונים אלו כנגד אלו אשר בשער גן עדן ליצרף הנשמות. זכתה הנשמה נותנין לה פנקס וסימן ליכנס אזי תכנס לגן עדן אשר בארץ. ועמוד אחד של עץ* ונוגה מעורב זה בזה ועשן סביביו שנא' וברא יי על כל מכון הר ציון ועל מקראיה ענן יומם ועשן ונוגה וכו' והוא נעוץ מלמטה למעלה. לא זכתה יותר נשארת שם ומעדנת מהטוב אשר למעלה דאמ' ר' יוסי שהוא גן עדן והוא מכוון כנגד הפרוכת והקרח הנורא אשר למעלה והיא נהנית ממנו. אם זכתה לעלות יותר עולה באותו עמוד שלפתח השלישי והוא עד לרקיע הנקרא זבול ומגעת עד ירושלם אשר שם ושם יושבים השומרים. זכתה יותר פותחין לה הפתחים בצד הרביעי ונכנסת. לא זכתה נועלים השערים ודוחין אותה לחוץ ונוטלים פנקסה. והנשמה אומרת מצאוני השומרים הסובבים בעיר הכוני פצעוני וכו'. ואלו הן מלאכי השרת השומרים את המקדש ואת ירושלים* שנא' נשאו את ידיכם* מעלי זהו פנקסה. זכתה לעלות נכנסת שם באותם השערים ומיכאל השר מקריב אותה לקרבן לפני יי. אמ' ר' חייא הקרבה הוא כאדם המקריב דורון לפני המלך ומיכאל הולך עמם לפתח החמישי והששי ואומ' לפני הב"ה רבונו של עולם אשרי בניך בני אהוביך אברהם יצחק ויעקב. אשריהם הצדיקים הזוכים לזה עד שמגיעין לשער השביעי שהוא ערבות וגנזי חיים טובים נמשכים שם על נפשתן של הצדיקים ונכנסין* מלאכי השרת ומקלסין לפני הב"ה וניזונין מזיו אספקלריא המאירה ושם המנוחה | והנחלה ונוח חיי העולם הבא ומקבלין משקה של מים מן קכט ע"ב הירדן הנמשך מן נן עדן העליון שהיא הבריכה של מים ה"ד וזאת הברכה אשר ברך משה איש האלהים . והסוד והאיש משה ענו מאד.

ואצ"ל כי מדת התפ' הנקראת משה הוא איש האלהים כביכול כמי שמצוה על אשתו לעשות כך וכך. לפי שהגבורה שהיא האשה הנודעת ה"ד נשים שאננות קמנה וכו' כשתבוא להתעורר בדינה לדון העולם אזי התפ' שהוא משה איש האלהים פי' שהוא איש ובעל של הגבורה מצוה לה לנוח כעסה ורוגזה מן המעלות כדי לשקט הדין ועל זה משה נקרא איש האלהים. ד"א איש האלהים אע"פ שהתפ' הוא רחמים לפעמים הוא דין. אימתי בזמן שתפ' יונק מעולם של

כ"ע שהוא כולו רחמים אזי הוא מדת הרחמים ומתנהג עם העולם במדת הרחמים ועוד שהוא מקבל מצד החסד המקבל מכח החכמה אזי נקרא איש האלהים כי נכנס היו"ד בין אל"ף ושי"ן והיו"ד דומז לחכמה אזי נקרא איש האלהים פי' שהוא שולט על מדת הגבורה וכבש והשקיט כעסו. ואם כביכול נמנע השפע מן עולם החכמה אזי הוא מקבל מצד הבינה שהוא צד הגבורה אזי יסתלק היו"ד מן איש וישאר אש אזי שואב מאש של פחד יצחק אזי התפ' דין גמור והבן זה מאד.

וטעם וראית את אחורי לכוונה זו לכסא שהכבוד יושב עליו ולענן הכבוד המבדיל בינו ובין החשמל ולחשמל המקיף לכסא ולשבעה שרפים גבורי כח שקבלנו שמותם שנבראו תחלה כפי מה שזכר ר' אליעזר הגדול בפרקיו והם הנאצלים מז' מעלות עליונות הם היושבים ראשונה במלכות שמים עליונים משמשים לפני לפנים ה"ד שרפים עומדים ממעל לו לכסא הכבוד.

וזהו שכתי' אפריון עשה לו המלך שלמה מעצי הלבנון. פי' משפע החכמה ומשם הבהיק האור ההוא ונאצל ממנו. וזהו שאמ' ז"ל בבראשית רבה מהיכן נבראת האורה. נתעטף הב"ה בשלמה והבהיק זיוה מסוף העולם ועד סופה.השלמה היא המזגת המשכת החכמה הסובבת את הכל ונתעטף לו וקבל זוהר השפע ההוא והתנוצץ אור ממנו. וכן ר' אליעזר הגדול שאמ' השמים מהיכן נבראו מאור לבושו ולקח ועטה כשלמה והיו נמתחין והולכין שנא' עוטה אור כשלמה נוטה שמים כיריעה. הארץ מאי זה מקום נבראת משלג שתחת כסא כבודו שנא' כי לשלג יאמר היוא ארץ ה"ד אפריון עשה לו וכו'. מעצי הלבנון משם היה אצילות הכל וההויות של כל ה"ד יהי אור ויהי אור. והיה אור לא נאמ' אלא ויהי אור והבן זה מאד.

ד"א משעיר למו וכו'. והנה באתי לפתוח לך שערי קבלה בעניין סוד הכסא שעשה | המלך שלמה ע"ה שאמ' שש מעלות קל ע"א לכסא ועל זה תתן לבך להבין הדברים הנכוחים והנעימים ותמצאם מתוקים מדבש ונופת צופים לכן מי האיש החפץ חיים. יתן לבו להבין דברי אלהים חיים. ואצ"ל בי הכסא הוא דבר מכוסה על שם שהכוחות מכוסות בו ומוציאין לפעולה בכח הרצון בזמן הקצוב לפניו ועל כן נקרא כסא מלשון כסה שמים הודו. ואל תתמה על זה כי אתה מוצא כסא כתוב בה"א כדא' וראש עגול לכסה. על כן נכתב בה"א לבאר

לנו מה שאמרנו.

בא וראה שש מעלות לכסא אלו הן שש המעלות אשר בכסא הרחמים והסוד בזה אנכי יי אלהיך. כי כסא בגי' אנכי והסוד בזה התחת אלהים אנכי. ובכתוב זה אנו מבינים פלאי פלאות מאת יי צבאות ית' ויח'. מה שאתה רואה שנכתב בה"א הכסה בא ללמד לך כי כסא הרחמים מתאחד בכסא הדין וזו היא ה"א אחרונה הכתובה בשם המיוחד כי הוא"ו עומד בין שני ההי"ן והוא"ו הוא שש מעלות לכסא ושני ההי"ן ה"א ראשונה צדק ה"א אחרונה האמונה. ואין להאריך יותר כי לא יוכל הספר להכיל סודותיו אבל יש לנו לכלול דבר כלל הראוי שש מעלות לכסא של שש המעלות וה"א היא המעלה האחרונה וראש עגול לכסה זהו שאמ' ראש דברך אמת פי' אמת סוף תיבות ברא אלהים את ולמה אמר מאחריו על אשר מתאחד הראש עם המעלה אחרי הכסא שנא' על ידי משה רבי' ע"ה וראית את אחורי ופני לא יראו. ללמד כי הראש* הכסא הנקרא אמת מתאחד במשפט וראש עגול לכסה מאחריו בא להודיענו אחור וקדם צרתני. ואחר כך רומז סוף הפסוק ותשת עלי כפכה. אל תקרי כפכה אלא כפי כה וסוד הכ"ף וצורתה מוכיח על כן נתייסד מרכבת הכסא והבן.

ושני אריות עומדות אצל הידות. אלו הם שני שרי גדולים העומדים אחד לימין ואחד לשמאל. ומראיהן כעין נחשת קלל ונקראים שרפים שנא' שרפים עומדים ממעל לו. והם נפרשים מלראות פני הכבוד ועל כן נאמ' בשתים יכסה פניו. ויש חצר הכבוד בינם לבין קונם מהלך ל"ו אלף פרסאות וזהו מה שאמ' ז"ל שש מעלות לכסא ושמותם נודעים הם למבינים ולמשכילים והם המבטלים גזירות רעות. וטובים הם להזכירם בתפלה לבטל כל גזירה שבעולם.

וי"ב אריות עומדים שש על שש המעלות מזה ומזה. אלה הם י"ב המלאכים העומדים סביבות הכסא למספר י"ב שבטי ישראל והם מלאכי רחמים ומליצים טובים על ישראל והם ממונים על רי"ת* רבבות מלאכים. ומזה הכסא נשלחים כל פאורות של זוהר וזרח העליון הנמשך מתחת כסא העליון לכסא התחתון ושולח האור | לכל קל ע"ב הנמצאים והנבראים עד אלינו ה"ד וזרח משעיר למו הופיע מהר פארן וכו'.

ואתא מרבבות קודש מלמד שהב"ה גדול ומהולל בכל

צבא השמים שלו שאין מדותיו כמדת בשר ודם. ואצ"ל כי עט' ישראל היא מקבצת כל המראות והאספקלריאות כולם מאור הקדמון ובה כולם מתערבים כי הוא לאות ולמופת על יחוד ית' ויח' שהוא ראשון לכל ראשון וקדמון לכל קדמון והסוד הנה בשמים עדי וסהדי במרומים. פי' על מהותי ומציאותי יה' ויח'.

ד"א ואתא מרבבות קודש. זש"ה עדות יי נאמנה היא תורת יי תמימה שהיא מונחת בתוך הארון היא עדות היא התורה והיא האות שהתורה ניתנה למשה ע"ה ה"ד ואל הארון תתן את העדות אשר אתן אליך. ד"א למה נקרא ארון לפי שכל הכוחות שהם עשרת הדברות הכתובים בשני הלוחות חמש כנגד חמש גנוזות ונכללות בו ומונחות בתוכו ונקראו לוחות העדות על שם ואעידה בם וכו'. וארז"ל שני הלוחות כנגד שמים וארץ וכנגד תתן וכלה וכנגד שני שושבינין וכנגד שני עולמות. והכל ענין אחד נפלא מאד. ועל זה עמוד והתבונן נפלאות האל שהרי אמ' יהושע ע"ה הנה ארון הברית אדון כל הארץ עובר לפניכם. עליו אין להוסיף וממנו אין לגרוע. אמ' ר' שמואל בר נחמני וטעם כי נאמנה כי היתה באומנה אהו אלפים שנה קודם בריאת העולם ה"ד ואהיה אצלו אמון ואהיה שעשועים יום יום. כי יומו של הב"ה אלף שנים כדא' כי אלף שנים בעיניך כיום אתמול.

ישמח יי במעשיו. כי הוא גדול ומוכתר ומעוטר מעשר מדרגות וזהו סוד שארז"ל באדם הראשון בשעה ששית קרא שמות.

יחי ראובן רומז לחסד הנקרא בן לחכמה עליונה.

יחי פי' יקבל עונג מחיים עליונים הנקרא עולם החיים כדא' כשמן הטוב על הראש. ואלמות שלא יפסק ממנו שפע והמשכה.

קטע מספר מראות הצבאות

על פרשת תרומה*

מצאתי שכת׳ מקובל פרש׳ תרומה על דרך הקבלה והביא שם ענין גדול על שיש מקובלים שאומ׳ כי יש למעלה מן הכתר דבר נעלם נק׳ אין סוף וזה לשונו.

ר׳ חייא פתח יי חפץ למען צדקו יגדיל תורה ויאדיר. אשריהם הצדיקים שהב"ה בחר בהם מכל העולם כי הם חבל נחלתו והם דגלו של הב"ה ה"ד ודגלו עלי אהבה ובחר באהרן הכהן וקרבו לעבודתו לשרת לפניו ולהקריב הקורבנות ולהדליק הנרות כדי שיאירו הנרות העליונים. בא וראה כי מיכאל הוא כהן גדול בשמים והוא המקריב הקרבנות שהם הנשמות של הצדיקים ומטהר אותם כדי שלא ישאר בהם שום מום ולכלוך וטינוף אזי הוא מקריב אותם לפני מלך העליון ית׳ ויח׳ זכרו ויתעלו עלייה מעילוי לעילוי והוא ג"כ מדליק הנרות העליונים שהוא מושך השמן הטוב מעולם העליון שהוא מדת האין ומשפיע לתחתונים וידלקו הנרות על ידו ה"ד כשמן הטוב על הראש יורד על הזקן זקן אהרן וגו׳.

ד"א על הזקן זקן אהרן זהו רומז לכתר עליון שנק׳ אהרן שהוא נק׳ כהן שהוא כהן לאל עליון אל תקרי זקן אהרן אלא זקן שהוא זקן על כל המדרגות ה"ד ועתיק יומין יתיב וגו׳ וכתי׳ מפני שיבה תקום והדרת פני זקן וגו׳. פי׳ כשמן הטוב שהוא השפע הנגוזה הטובה על הראש יורד על הזקן שהוא אהרן מן עילת העילות שהוא ראש והוא התחלה וסיום והוא נק׳ אין סוף כי כל העולמות צריכין לו משם נמשך אותו מבוע של הנחל הקדומים לכל העולמות עד שיורד על פי מדותיו ומשם יורד על הררי ציון כי שם צוה יי את הברכה חיים עד העולם.

לכן צוה הב"ה למשה לעשות את המנורה הטהורה על דרך העליון לרמוז למנורה עליונה שכתי׳ בה מנורת זהב כלה וגלה על ראשה ושבעה נירותיה מאירים וגו׳ אלו הם ז׳ מדרגות שהם מורידי׳ ומציקים בה שפע ה"ד שבעה ושבעה מוצקות אל תקרי מוצקות אלא מציקות והם הם מגישין אליה והיא מוצקת פי׳ כמו שהיא | מקבלת היציקה מלמעלה כך היא משפעת למטה ומוצקת עמ׳ כב לכל המדות המורכבות והצבאות.

מקשה תיעשה המנורה. יו"ד יתידה רמז לי׳ ספירות שהן במנורה פי׳ העס׳ לרמוז לך שיש בה עשר ודי למבין. ד"א מקשה

תיעשה המנורה ירכה וקנה פי׳ שהיא נעשית מאליה פי׳ מעצמה ומחתיכת אחת היו עושין אותה הגביעים והכפתורים והפרחים ממנה היו פי׳ לרמוז למנורה העליונה שכל אלו המדרגות כלם שופכין לה והיא מהם והם בה נראים כלם כאחד.

יריכיו רומז לנצח והוד שהם הירכים של המנורה. וקנה רמז לצינור האמצעי שיורד לה מן התפ׳ שהוא אמצעי. גביעיה רומז לגדולה ולגבורה שהם הגביעים והסו׳ את גביעי גביע הכסף רומז למדת הכסף ודי למבין.

בא וראה א"ל הב"ה למשה לא בשביל שאני צריך לנרות של בשר ודם ולא הזהרתיך על הנרות אלא כדי לזכותם בזכות הנרות שהיא התורה ה"ד כי נר מצוה ותורה אור ונהורא עימיה שרי וכתי׳ גם חשך לא יחשיך ממך ולילה כיום יאיר כחשכה כאורה. כדי ללמדך שאינו צריך לנרות בשר ודם. תדע לך כשאדם בונה בית עושה לו חלונות צרות מבחוץ ורחבות מבפנים כדי שיהא האור נכנס מבחוץ ומאיר בפנים. ושלמה המלך ע"ה כשבנה בית המקדש לא עשה כן אלא עשה חלונות צרות מבפנים ורחבות מבחוץ כדי שיהא האור יוצא מבפנים מבית המקדש ומאיר לחוץ שכן כתי׳ ויעש לבית חלוני שקופים אטומים להודיעך שכולו הוא אור ואינו צריך לאורכם. ולמה צוה אתכם כדי לזכות אתכם לכך נאמ׳ בהעלותך את הנרות וכו׳ ה"ד יי חפץ למען צדקו יגדיל תורה ויאדיר.

בא וראה הקב"ה הוא אור קדמון והוא אור ראשון והוא אור כי כל אורה וכל חיים ממנו יוצא וכל המאורות צריכין לו והוא אינו צריך לאחד מהם ומה שצוה להם להדליק הנרות כדי שיהיו דומין כדוגמ׳ עליונה ולהמשיך השפע ממדה למדה ולהדליק הנרות הידועות לכן צונו לתועלתנו להדליק הנרות. אמ׳ הב"ה לישראל הוו זהירין להדליק את הנרות לשמי והנני מאיר לכם אורה גדולה לעתיד לבא ה"ד קומי אורי כי בא אורך וכבוד יי עליך זרח וכתי׳ כי הנה החשך יכסה ארץ וגו׳ וכתי׳ והלכו גוים לאורך ומלכים לנגה זרחך. בא וראה לעתיד לבא הב"ה יהיה אורו הגנוז על כל העולמות | ויתדבק עמ׳כג האור עם החשך ויתחברו כל המדות כאחד והברכות יהיו נמצאים מלמעלה ולמטה ה"ד והיה אור הלבנה כאור החמה וגו׳.

וששה קנים יוצאים מצידיה ג׳ קני מנורה מצדה האחת

וגו׳ רומז לחכמה ולגדולה ולנצח. ומצדה הב׳ בינה גבורה והוד הכל כדוגמה עליונה בא וראה י"ב שבטים שהקריבו קרבנות.ע"כ.

ויקחו לי תרומה פי׳ לשמי הגדול כי דרך האומנין שזוכרין בתחלה המלאכה בשם יי כדי שישכון הברכה על המלאכה כדי שיהא לשמו הגדול ית׳ שמו. אבל הגוים הארורים כשמתחילין לעשות המלאכה מזכירין שם ע"ז מיד שוכן על המלאכה רוח טומאה וישכון באותו בית וזהו סוד שהכנעניים הארורים כשהיו בונים בתיהם היו בונין אותם לשם טומאה מיד היה שורה עליו רוח טומאה וזהו סוד שכתו׳ כי תבאו אל ארץ וגו׳ וכתו׳ כנגע נראה לי לאותו בית אז ידע שנבנה לשם ע"ז שלהם לכן היה צריך להרום את הבית ולהוציא את עציו ואת הבנין מחוץ למחנה ויבנה אותו כבתחלה לשם הגדול והקדוש כדי שישרה על הבית רוח הקדוש והטהור ה"ד ויקחו לי פי׳ לשמי כדי שישרה על המלאכה רוח הקדוש וישכון שם השכינה כראוי ה"ד ועשו לי מקדש ושכנתי בתוכם.

ד"א ויקחו לי תרומה פי׳ לי רומז לתפ׳ ישר׳ ויש לך להסתכל בזה הפסוק בסוד עליון כשתפא׳ המלך הקדוש בא להתחבר במטרוניתא בזיוג אחד אזי היא נקר׳ תרומה מלשון רמה על שהיא מתרוממת ומתנשאת לעלות כנגד המלך יי צבאות לכן ויקחו לי תרומה פי׳ שתעשו משכן ותעשו מזבח ותקריבו הקרבן כדי שתקשרוני עם בת זוגי כי סוד הקרבן הוא הזווג של המדות כשיתחבר החתן עם הכלה כל זה יהיה על ידי הקרבן. ברוך הוא ומבורך שמו שבחר בישראל מכל האומות שנתן להם תורתו ובחר בהם לעם סגולה מכל העמים וחפץ בהם לעשות משכן לנוח שכינתו שם והוא הניח העליונים ובחר בתחתונים והוריד שכינתו לשם ה"ה ויקחו לי תרומה וגו׳.

ר׳ יהודה פתח משכיל לדוד בהיותו במערה תפלה. ואז"לכי בתפלתו של ר׳ נחוניה בן הקנה מזכיר הדעת והידוע והיודע | כמו שכל ומשכיל ומושכל כנגד כ"ע חכמה ובינה וידוע עמ׳ כד הוא כי המשכיל הוא בינה כי יבין וישכיל ולכן בהיות עמ׳ ישראל מתבוננת בבינה להאציל ולהשפיע ולעגות מן מעין החכמה ומדע תפלה חבורים הם לחבר את האהל להיות אחד וכאשר השכיל זה דוד המלך אזי נתחבר עם כתר מלכותו וכאלו הוא מתפלל בלשון חברה עמה ולכן אמ׳ קולי אל יי אזעק כדי לרחם על קולי ועלי. קולי אל יי אתחנן

כדי להגן עליו ולהלחם באויביו ולעמוד בדין על אויביו כי כל תפלה בנפילת אפים לארץ . וסדר הענין הוא כך אחר שבא אל מקור החיים להריק שפע מן כתר עליון אל המעלות הוצרך לסדר יחודו של הקב"ה תחלה ואח"כ לבא ולבקש צרכיו. בא וראה הבא לשאול שאלה מן המלך צריך ליחדו תחלה עד שיהיה ענין יחודו מענין חפצי שאלתו ואח"כ ישאל מן המלך צרכיו ולפי שהוצרך לתפ' ולעט' לתפ' כדי לרחמו ולדין כדי לנקום באויביו הוצרך לכתר עליון ולחכמה ולבינה ולתפ' ולעט' ולכן אמ' אל כ"ע וחכמה ובינה בלשון נסתר ונעלם.

אשפוך לפניו שיחי וגו'. פי' המים אשר נבעו על ידי אשר חפרתי בחלמיש הנעלם אשפוך אותם המים הקדושים אל שיחי והוא התפ' כדי למלאתו מחסריו הרבים לעשות לו חסד ולא מצד הדין.

צרתי לפניו אגיד. פי' וצרות תמורות כל צרות של מלכות בית דוד אשר באו לצרור עליה בחייה ומתוך כך העוותים והגליות והמכאבות כולם מחעוררים ולכן צרתי לפניו אגיד. ופי' לפניו לספירות העשוים על חיות פניו. ויהיה הגדה לבית יעקב ר"ל עט' ומה הן הצרות הן בהתעטף עלי רוחי.

דע אתה המעיין במזמור זה כי כאשר התעטף התפ' בלבוש מלכות תכלת ובתפילין שבראשו ר"ל כח"ב ג"ג אזי רוח יערה מן כ"ע ונהר יוצא מעדן להשקות את הגן והשמחה מצויה לכולם בין בעולמות העליונים בין בעולמות התחתונים ובין בעולמות הפנימיים ובין בעולמות החיצונייס. אמנם כאשר תתעטף בבגדים אחרים אזי קוראים סורו סורו אל תגעו אזי כל העולמות בצער ובדאגה למה כי אין מים לשתות | ולחם אין בכל הארץ ואזי המקורות נסתמו' עמ' כח ויתפתחו מעייני המות ומעייני בורות שיחין ומערות אשר שם נחש ועקרבים וכל מיני שקצים ורמשים אזי יתעוררו כל מיני חלאים רבים וכל מיני ע' טרפות מע' שרים הפך וברך את לחמך ואת מימיך והסירותי מחלה מקרבך. מכאן תבין סוד התוכחות של אם בחוקותי תלכו ושל והיה כי תבא.

ולכן דוד המלך ע"ה צעק ואמ' בהתעטף עלי דוחי ר"ל כאשר תתעטף רוחי שהוא רוח החיים למלכות יי שהוא מלכות בית דוד הם הם צרותי כי אזי באה אשה צרה ונכריה להזדוג במלך יי צבאות. ואתה ידעת נתיבתי פי' באי זה נתיבות אני מנהג את המלכות כי אני

משתדל תמיד להוליך אוהה באורח זו ר"ל בתפ' ועט' סמנו פח לי הבה על דרכי טמנו לי בסתר פחים כדי ללכדני במוקשים.

ועתה צועק ומשליך יהבו ומבטחו אל השמות הנזכרי' והנעלמי' הנכתבים והנק' ואו' הבט ימין וראה פי' הוא מתחנן לתפ' שתביט אל ימין מחסד עליון אשר כבר פתח מחיילותיו. וראה פי' מתחנן לעט' שתראה ולא הזכיר שמאל לפחדו מעונש חסאו. אין לי מכיר פי' כי כ"ע מתוך מעלתו הנעלמת אין בסבעו להכיר את המדרגות האחרות אמנם דעת עליון שולטת ומשגחת בהם ודרך כ"ע להתעורר על ימין ושמאל. משגיחין על הדעת והדעת על הכל. וממנו על שאר היצירות ולפי' אמ' ימין. ואין לי מכיר ר"ל משגיח אם לא על ידי ימין אבד מנוס ממני פי' באהל הצדיק יהיה מנוסת העט' בעת צרה. אין דורש לנפשי הוא אין של התמורות הנק' באין תחבולות יפול עם. הוא דורש לקחת נפשי ר"ל התפ' ממש כי צדיק מט לפני רשע והרשע מכתיר את העטר'. זעקתי אליך יי. ר"ל התפ'. אמרתי אתה מחסי שבכנפיך אחסה ואמתר מהם ומתוך כך יהא חלקי בארץ החיים.

בי יכתירו צדיקים כי תגמול עלי. פי' שתצילני וחפרנסני ותגמלני חסדים טובים עד שיהיה גמולך עלי ולא תמורתך אזי כל צדיקי עולם יהיה להם כ"ע על ראשם ויהיה יי אחד ושמו אחד אזי יהיה יחודו ומעלתו בכל העולמות והשמחות נמצאים למעלה ולמטה והברכות הם יורדים מן מקור העליון הידוע שהוא כ"ע שהוא מריק הברכות לכל העולמות כולם ה"ד ונהר יוצא מעדן להשקות את הגן והשכינה שרויה בעולם אימתי שורה השכינה למטה בזמן שעשו ישראל המשכן ועשו אותו על דרך דוגמא עליונה ה"ד כאשר אתה מראה בהר כי משה היה מסתכל ומשיג בעולם המלכות והיה נעשה המשכן שלמטה כדוגמ' המשכן שלמעלה. ודי למבין.

וצפית אותו זהב סהור מבית ומחוץ תצפנו. כנגד הגבורה
שנק' זהב הנקי והטהור שהיא מקבלת הזהב מצד הבינה ויש בתוך הבינה
מדה נק' סגור כי סגור הוא הזהב הנקי והטהור ה"ד לא יותן סגור
תחתיה לפי שהיא מקבלת האודם של הזהב מן הבינה והגבורה לפי'
היו מצפין הארון של משה בזהב כדרך העליון.

מבית ומחוץ תצפנו. ושנינו ג' ארונות עשה בצלאל
ב' של זהב וא' של עץ והיה נותן הזהב באמצע גמצא שהיה מצופה
הארון בזהב מבית פ' מבפנים שהוא צד הבינה ומבחוץ שהוא צד הגבורה
והבן זה. ויש במדת המלכות מקום נק' ארון הברית. מכאן לת"ת צריך
שיהיה תוכו כברו מבית ומחוץ תצפנו ושיהיה משאו ומתנו עם הבריות
באמונה וכשיעשה זה אזי הבריות אום' עליו שבחות וטובות ואום'
ראו פלוני שלמד תורה כמה משאו ומתנו באמונה עם הבריות וכמה
דבריו בנחת נשמעים ואשריו ואשרי יולדתו ברוך שבחר בתורה ובצדיקים
עבדיו גמצא שהוא גורם שהבריות מספרי' בשבחה ובהלולה של תורה
אבל ת"ח שהוא עובר עבירה ואין משאו ומתנו באמונה והולך בדרכים
מקולקלים והוא גרם שהבריות מרננים עליו ואום' ראו פלוני שעסק
בתורה ותראו היאך בדרכים שאינם הגונים הולך ולא בדרכי הב"ה
כמה הוא | מכוער אוי לו ואוי לנשמתו שגורם לבריות עמ' כז
שהם משנאין את התורה על ידו ה"ד כל משגאי אהבו מות אל תקרי
משנאי אלא משניאי פי' שהם גורמים לבריות שהם שונאים אותו ואת
התורה לכן טוב לו שלא נברא.

לכן צריך כל ת"ח ליזהר בדרכיו ולילך בדרכי התורה
והמצות ויהיה מצופה בזהב מבית ומחוץ ופי' שיהיו דבריו אמיתיים
הן בפיו הן בלבו ולא יגנב דעת הבריות ואם יעשה כן אשריו ואשרי
חלקו שהלך בדרך שהלכו בו האבות אברהם יצחק ויעקב כדי שיהיה
לו חלק לעולם הבא ה"ד אז תתענג על יי.

ולעשות עליו זר זהב סביב. פי' שהיה לארון זר
שהיה מקיף אותו מכל צד רומז לזר העליון שהוא כתר עליון שהוא
נזר הקדש שהוא מקיף כל העולמות כזר שהוא מסבב סביב סביב ולכן
כדי שיהיה הארון עשוי על דרך יסוד העליון צריך שיעשה לו זר
זהב להיות דומה לדוגמא של מעלה.

בא וראה אם זכה ת"ח ונהג עצמו בדרכי הב"ה ובדרכי

המצות ומשתדל בתורה מיד יעשה לו זר פי' נזר הקדש שהוא מתעטר
בכל יום ומושכין לו מנהר הנמשך שפע בכל יום ה"ד ונהר יוצא מעדן.
אם ח"ו להפך שהוא משה דרכיו מיד יעשה כמו זר שהוא נכרי ואין
לו משגיח ולא מרחם ויעשה הפקר לחיות החיצוניות ויחזור הפקר לכל
וכיון שאותו זר שהוא הכתר הקדוש שהוא הש"י סר מעליו מיד הופקר
לכל ויעשה כנכרי שהוא זר לכל דבר.

אל הכפרת יהיו פני הכרובים. אשריכם ישר' שהב"ה
מסר לכם תורתו הקדושה שהיא תורת אמת וגנז לכם מצפוניו וסתריו
מה שלא עשה לשום אומה ולשון ה"ד לא עשה כן לכל גוי.

ואז"ל* כי עולם העליון הוא מושך מנהר של אין סוף
מן המבוע שאינו פוסק המשקה לעולם החכמה שהוא יו"ד של הש"י
והיא ראשית לכל הנמצאים והיא התחלה ליישוב ה"ד והחכמה מאין
תמצא. ומן עומק החכמה שהוא עומק הנחל נמשך משקה לעולם היובל
שהוא סוד חמשים שערי בינה שהיא ה"א של שם המפורש והוא עולם
של אם הבנים שמחה ומשם נמשך למדת החסד של אברהם שהוא עולם
הרחמי' ומשם נמשך לצד יצחק שהיא מדת הגבורה שהיא בית דין הקשה
ומשם נמשכו המים והאש ויתערבו כאחד מצד יעקב שהוא התפ' לכן
התפ' חציו דין וחציו רחמים ה"ד דודי צח ואדום ומשם | נמשך עמ' כח
אל הנצח ואל ההוד והם מאירים פנים לצד כנסת ישראל שהיא נק'
עטרת ולא יסורו השגחתם והבטחתם מן המלכות ה"ד ואל הכפורת יהיו
פני הכרובים. ובתוך הכפורת יש שתי מדות אחרות ונקראות כרובים
שהם מעשה רוקם מצוייר רומז לכרובים שהם מצויירים כפרת ודי
למבין.

ואל הארון תתן את העדות פי' לחבר יסוד ומלכות כאחד
שהם זכר ונק'. לא אמ' בתוך הארון תתן את העדות אלא ואל הארון
תתן את העדות.

ונועדתי לך שם מלשון מועד לכן היא נק' אהל מועד
על שם יתועדו ויתקבצו כל המדרגות כאחד ויאספו כל העם כאיש אחד
שלשם הגיע הדבור מן התפארת דרך הצינור שהוא בין הכרובים שהם
נצח והוד עד לכפורת שהיא מלכות לפי שהשכינה תמיד היא שוכנת
על הארון ולא תסור משם.

ועשית שולחן רומז לכנסת ישראל שהיא שולחן של

מלכים כל זהב וכסף וכל סובות עליונים ותחתונים היה מונח על אותו
השולחן והוא נק׳ זה השולחן אשר לפני יי. ולחם הפנים היה מונח
על השולחן שש המערכת שהם שתים מערכות יעלו י"ב לחמי פנים כנגד
י"ב הויות הקדושות כנגד שבטי ישראל. והוא הלחם הפנים. אחר
כשעה* שהיו מסירין זה מן השולחן היו מניחין להם אחר ולא יראה
השולחן ריקם אפי׳ רגע אחד. הכל הוא רמז לעולם העליון כי כמו
שיש בעולם התפא׳ י"ב הויות שהם מנהיגי העולמות כך יש בעולם
המלכות י"ב הויות וכ"ד אדנים שהם מנהיגים העולמות שלמטה כמאמר
אדון הכל שהוא גבוה מעל גבוה וגו׳.

וצפית אותו זהב טהור רמז לשולחן של מלכים שהיא
כמו שולחן שנסדר עליו כל מעדני מלך כך זה השולחן הידוע כל טובות
עליונים שוכנים עליו. תם ונשלם. אמן.

Incantation Texts in Jewish Aramaic from Late Antiquity - A Corpus of Magic Bowls
Levene, Dan; (2000) Incantation Texts in Jewish Aramaic from Late Antiquity - A Corpus of Magic Bowls. Doctoral thesis (Ph.D), University of London. Green open access

Abstract
Since the first magic bowl text in Jewish Aramaic was edited by Thomas Ellis in 1859 there have only been just over 100 such texts published. Among the most significant contributors were James A. Montgomery, Cyrus Gordon, Edwin Yamauchi, Markham J. Geller, joined more recently by Tapani Harviainen, Christa Muller-Kessler as well as Joseph Naveh and Shaul Shaked. This dissertation includes text editions with critical apparatus for twenty hitherto unpublished magic bowl texts in Jewish Aramaic. The commentary contains philological analyses and comparison with other published and unpublished bowls, Jewish amulets from Late Antiquity, magical Geniza material, classic Jewish sources up to the medieval period, Hekhalot, and Jewish liturgy. Special features and differences between duplicate texts are discussed. A comprehensive glossary, lists of names, and photographs of the bowls are provided. The introduction includes a description of the bowls, a review of the main grammatical features of the Jewish Aramaic dialect of the bowls, a discussion of some other sources with which these texts share material and motifs and an analyses of the importance of duplicate texts. The limited number of bowl texts which are available for study means that many of the problems which have risen in the process of editing have remained unsolved. This new corpus includes a wide spectrum of material including rare curse texts, legal as well as liturgical formula, new lexical material and parallels to previously published texts which allow corrections and in some cases new readings. The occasional employment of other contemporary dialect forms as well as non-Jewish motifs expose the world of magical practice in Late Antiquity to have been fertile ground for cross cultural exchanges.

A new text edition usually stimulates further publications and evaluations of similar texts. This situation particularly applies to J. Naveh and S. Shaked, Magic spells and formulae (Jerusalem: Magnes Press, 1993), since much new material has come to light in recent years. The present article consists of additional texts which have special relevance to the above mentioned volume (see my review of Naveh-Shaked in this issue). Two magic bowls which appeared at Sotheby's (London) in 1985 were copied by me and sent to Naveh and Shaked for study and publication. One bowl in Jewish Aramaic script (Text A) was also copied by the present writer, but the bowl was not easily legible, and Naveh and Shaked chose not to include it within the corpus of bowls, because neither the photographs nor the hand copy were sufficiently reliable. Since the present owner and location of the bowl is unknown, I have included my hand copy of the bowl here, with an attempt to read as much as is reasonably legible, in the hope that eventually the bowl will reappear and corrections to these readings can be made, through collation of the original. A second bowl, in Syriac script, was edited by Naveh and Shaked (Bowl 17), but since they chose not to publish the hand copy of the bowl, it is given below (as Text B).

AI Overview
"Sode Razaya" (or more accurately, Sodei Razaya) is the title of a major work of Kabbalistic mysticism by Rabbi Eleazar of Worms, also known as Eleazar ben Judah of Germiza. It is a multifaceted text composed of several books, including "Sefer Alfa Beta" (Book of the Alphabet) and "Sefer Ha-Cheshek" (Book of Desire), and deals with topics like Merkavah mysticism and divine names.
Author: Rabbi Eleazar of Worms (c. 1160–1230), a German Kabbalist and a student of the Baal Shem of Worms.
Title meaning: "Sodei Razaya" translates to "Secrets of Raziel" or "Secrets of Mysteries".
Content: The work is a collection of smaller books, each focusing on a specific aspect of Kabbalah. Some parts include:
Sefer Alfa Beta: The "Book of the Alphabet," which is the first part.
Sefer Ha-Yichud: The "Book of Unity".
Sefer Ha-Cheshek: The "Book of Desire," which explains how to express a desire and invoke specific divine names like Metatron.
Peirush Al Sefer Yetzirah: A commentary on the Sefer Yetzirah (Book of Formation).
Historical context: It represents an early attempt to systematize Kabbalistic thought, particularly concerning Merkavah (Chariot) mysticism.

Religion Judaism
Eleazar of Worms (אלעזר מוורמייזא - also מגרמייזא of Garmiza or Garmisa) (c. 1176–1238), or Eleazar ben Judah ben Kalonymus, also sometimes known today as Eleazar Rokeach ("Eleazar the Perfumer" אלעזר רקח) from the title of his Book of the Perfumer (Sefer ha rokeah ספר הרקח)—where the numerical value of "Perfumer" (in Hebrew) is equal to Eleazar, was a prominent Kabbalist and halakhic authority, among the greatest of the Hasidei Ashkenaz and a disciple of Rabbi Judah the Pious.

He was the author of the Sefer ha-Rokeach (Rokeach in gematria = Eleazar), one of the Tosafists, and wrote many Kabbalistic works, most of which survive only in manuscript form. He served as a rabbi and judge in Worms, and instituted customs still observed in Ashkenazic communities today.

He was called "the Rokeach" after his book,[1] though he was often mistakenly referred to as "Rabbi Eliezer of Germiza".[2] Due to this confusion, he was sometimes wrongly identified as Eliezer the Great.[3][4]

Biography
Rabbi Eleazar was born around 1165 in Mainz to his father and teacher, Rabbi Judah ben Kalonymus of Mainz (known as the RIBaK), one of the greatest sages of his time. He traveled among centers of Torah in Germany and northern France. He learned Torah from his father and Kabbalah from his relative Rabbi Judah the Pious.[5] He married the granddaughter of the RiBaN (Rabbi Yehuda ben Natan).[6]

Among his prominent students was Rabbi Isaac ben Moses of Vienna, author of "Or Zarua". He signed the Enactments of SHU"M (Speyer, Worms, and Mainz). His date of death is uncertain, with estimates ranging from 1232 to 1242. He is buried in Worms.

Massacre of the Jews of Metz during the First Crusade, by Auguste Migette.
He suffered greatly during attacks on the Jewish community, leading him to move from Mainz to Worms where he became rabbi. On the night of 22 Kislev 1196 (14

November),[7] two intruders broke into his home during his study of the verse “And Jacob dwelt in safety,” wounded him and his son, and murdered his wife Dulcea, his 13-year-old daughter Belat, and his six-year-old daughter Hannah.[8] He wrote:

...And they split open the head of my daughter Belat... and also my daughter Hannah, and she died... My wife the righteous woman got up and cried that we were being murdered. The villains struck her in the head, shoulder, and across her back, and she fell and died. I closed the door and we cried until help came from Heaven.

I remained destitute, in great poverty and suffering.

Yet, at the end of his lamentation, he justifies God’s judgment:

Woe unto me for my wife, woe for my daughters, I will mourn with a lamentation—how great are my sins.

The Judge is faithful who judged me,

In my sin and transgression He humbled me, I shall bless Him for every measure and sing His praise,

To Him I bow and prostrate myself.

Some scholars argue that parts of the lament were added later or copied incorrectly, as it refers to sons having died even though earlier he mentions that his surviving son was treated by his wife and lived.[9]

One of the attackers was apprehended a week later, brought to justice, and executed. Following these events, Rabbi Eleazar focused on composing his Sefer ha-Rokeach and teaching via writing, as direct instruction had become difficult.

Eleazar developed a vigorous activity in many directions. On the one hand, he was a Talmudist of vast erudition, a liturgist gifted with a clear and easy style, and an astronomer, and was well versed in the sciences open to the Jews of Germany at that time. At the same time, he was an adventurous mystic who experienced visions, seeing legions of angels and demons. He exerted himself to spread mystical systems which went far beyond the conceptions of the classical authors of Jewish esoterica. In his mystical works he developed and gave a new impulse to the mysticism associated with the letters of the alphabet. By the gematria and notarikon systems of interpretation found in the Talmud, Eleazar invented new combinations by which miracles could be performed. The haggadic anthropomorphism which he had combated in his earlier works (Ha-Roḳeaḥ, Sha'are ha-Sod weha-Yiḥud) occupied later the foremost place in his mystical writings. Eleazar's great merit therefore lies not only in his new mystical system, but also in his ethical works. In these he shows greatness of soul and a piety bordering upon asceticism. Though so severely tried by fate, he inculcates cheerfulness, patience, and love for humanity.

Unlike Rabbi Judah the Pious, he signed his writings by name (usually as "the small one"). He was the first to do so.

Rabbi David Gans dated his death to 1238, and many scholars followed him. However, Ephraim Elimelech Urbach noted that Rabbi Eleazar is cited as deceased in works from 1232 and 1234, suggesting an earlier death. Yet, a signature by him exists from 1224, so his death likely occurred between these years. He is buried in the Old Cemetery in Worms.[10]

Sefer ha-Rokeach
His main work, "Sefer ha-Rokeach", is a halakhic text including legal rulings, customs, and their reasons according to the Tosafist tradition. It combines pilpul, halakhic conclusions, ethical insights, and many gematriot.

He taught that the reward for mitzvot depends on one's struggle. A mitzvah that is difficult to perform earns more reward than "a hundred mitzvot performed easily."

The book frequently references Kiddush Hashem and reasons that if a person would die for his faith, he can surely resist lesser sins.

Another halakhic work is "36 Sha'arim" on the laws of shechita and treifot.[11]

Joy in worship
Rabbi Eleazar praised serving God with joy, quoting from the Torah on the verse: "Because you did not serve the Lord with joy and gladness of heart..." He wrote:

One should always think how to do God's will. Pleasures with one's wife and children are insignificant compared to loving the Creator... Even the satisfaction of a man uniting with a woman after a long separation is as nothing compared to the joy of doing God's will.[12]

Repentance
He emphasized repentance from sexual sin. Following the Sefer Hasidim, he categorized levels of repentance including "Teshuvat HaBa'ah"—returning to the scene of sin but resisting. He also supported ascetic forms of repentance—painful self-afflictions proportionate to the pleasure derived from sin, known as "Teshuvat HaMishkal".

Joseph Dan argued this elite form of teshuva was ideal in Ashkenazi Hasidism, though dangerous for most people.

Kabbalistic Thought
He wrote many Kabbalistic works, rich in gematria. Rabbi Tzvi Elimelech of Dinov in the Bnei Yissaschar emphasized that the Rokeach's teachings were from Elijah the Prophet.[13]

His concept of "Kavod" as an intermediary, non-created emanation of God, was adapted cautiously from Saadia Gaon and his teacher Rabbi Judah the Pious.

Halakhic customs
Rabbi Eleazar instituted several customs, including:

Taking three steps backward before reciting "Hashem, open my lips" before the Amidah.
Responding "Baruch Hu u'Varuch Shemo" after the zimun in Birkat Hamazon.
Reciting the verse "He wraps Himself in light as a garment..." when examining tzitzit.
Substitute prayers for Kaddish and "Barchu" if not heard in public.[14]
Not saying Tachanun during the month of Nisan.[15]
The earliest source for the kitniyot prohibition on Passover is found in his Pesach derasha.[16]

Works
Ethical works
Ha-Roḳeaḥ, ("The Perfumer"), a halachic guide to ethics and Jewish Law for the common reader. The title derives from the numerical value of the word רקח, which corresponds to that of אלעזר. The book is divided into 497 paragraphs containing halachot and ethics; first published at Fano, 1505.[17]
Adderet ha-Shem, still extant in manuscript in the Vatican Library.
Moreh Ḥaṭṭa'im, or Seder ha-Kapparot, on penitence and confession of sin, first published at Venice, 1543. This work, which is included in the Hilkot Teshubah of the Ha-Roḳeaḥ, has been reproduced many times under various titles. It appeared under the title Darke Teshubah at the end of the responsa of Meir of Rothenburg in the Prague edition;[18] as Inyane Teshubah, or Seder Teshubah, in the Sephardic ritual of 1584; as Yesod Teshubah, with additions by Isaac ben Moses Elles, first published in 1583; as Yore Ḥaṭṭa'im ba-Derek; and as Sefer ha-Kapparot. The title adopted here is the same as that given in the Kol Bo, in which the work was reproduced.
Sefer ha-Ḥayyim, treating of the unity of God, of the soul and its attributes, and of the three stages (recognized by the ancients as "plant, animal, and intellectual") in man's life.
Sha'are ha-Sod ha-Yiḥud weha-Emunah, a treatise on the unity and incorporeality of God, combating the anthropomorphism of the Aggadah (published by Adolf Jellinek in the Kokabe Yiẓḥaḳ collection [xxvii.].[8]
Kether Shem Tov. The Crown Of The Good Name, by Avraham ben Alexander of Cologne, disciple of Eleazar Ben Yehudah of Worms: Ethical-Kabbalist book.[19]
Pietistic works
Yir'at El, still extant in manuscript in the Vatican Library, containing mystical commentaries on Psalm 67, on the Menorah, and on Sefirat ha-Omer. In 2001 this work was published as part of the book דרוש המלבוש והצמצום.[20]
Sefer ha-Kabod, mystical explanations of various Biblical passages (Adolf Neubauer, Cat. Bodl. Hebr. MSS. No. 1566, 1).
Yayin ha-Reḳaḥ, mystical commentaries on the Five Megillot. Those on Book of Ruth and the Song of Songs were published at Lublin, 1608.[21]

A commentary on Psalm 145. (MS. De Rossi No. 1138).
A commentary on the prayers mentioned by Joseph Solomon Delmedigo in his Maẓref la-Ḥokmah (p. 14b).[22] Printed by Hirshler.
Ta'ame we-Sodot ha-Tefillah (Neubauer, ib. No.1575.)
Perush 'al Sefer Yeẓirah, a commentary on the Sefer Yetzirah, being extracts from Shabbethai Donnolo's commentary. Fragments of this work were first published at Mantua in 1562, later in several other places; a complete edition was printed at Przemyśl, 1883.[23]
Midrash we-Perushʿal ha-Torah, mystical commentary on the Torah mentioned by Chaim Yosef David Azulai, recently printed by klugman.
Sha'are Binah, in which, interpreting Biblical verses by the system of gemaṭriyyot, he shows the origin of many aggadot of the Talmud. This work is frequently quoted by Solomon Alkabetz, in his Manot ha-Lewi.
Shi'ur Qomah, a commentary on the Shi'ur Qomah, the Pirqe de-Rabbi Yishma'el, and Merkabah mysticism (MS. Michael).
Sefer ha-Ḥokmah, mystical treatise on the various names of God and angels, and on the seventy-three 'Gates of the Torah'.
Sefer ha-Shem, mystical dissertations on the names of twenty-two letters, with a table of permutations (Neubauer, ib. No. 1569, 4).
Eser Shemot, commentary on the ten names of God (MS. Michael, No. 175).
A commentary on the piyyuṭ "Ha-Oḥez."
Six small cabalistic treatises entitled Sod ha-Ziwwug, Sefer ha-Ne'elam, Sefer Mal'akim, Sefer Tagim, Sefer Pesaq, and Sefer ha-Qolot, all of which are still extant in manuscript (Neubauer, ib. 1566).
Liqquṭim, mystical fragments, mentioned by Menahem Recanati.
Sode Raza, a treatise on the mysteries of the "Merkabah." Part of this work was published at Amsterdam in 1701, under the title Sefer Razi'el ha-Gadol. In the introduction[24] the editor says that he decided to publish this book after having seen that the greater part of it had been produced in French under the title Images des Lettres de l'Alphabet.[8]
In addition to these works, Eleazar wrote tosafot to many Talmudic treatises, referred to by Bezalel Ashkenazi in his Shiṭṭah Mequbbeṣet; a commentary on "Sheqalim" in the Jerusalem Talmud, cited by Asher ben Jehiel in his commentary to that treatise in the Babylonian Talmud; thirty-six chapters on the examination of ritually slaughtered animals (MS. Michael No. 307). Leopold Zunz enumerates fifty-five liturgical poems and dirges composed by Eleazar and occurring in the Ashkenazic maḥzorim, qinnot, and seliḥot.[8]

Sources

See for example: Etz Chaim by Chaim Vital, Shaar HaAhava, Chapter 11, p. 110 where he is cited as "the Rokeach". The name appears in many print and online sources.

See the title page of the 1557 edition of Sefer ha-Rokeach, where he is named "Eliezer of Germiza". This error was perpetuated in subsequent editions, including Lviv 1859, Warsaw 1880, and modern editions. Some scholars such as Shlomo Bloch also used this mistaken name.

Some even conflated titles, referring to him as "Rabbi Eliezer the Great of Germiza (the Rokeach)"—see the book "Shemot HaTzaddikim" and some editions of the prayerbook "Tefilat Kol Peh".

This error also led to misidentification of manuscripts and events by researchers. See the introduction to "Maaseh Rokeach" by Rabbi Ephraim Zalman Margolies.

See: Joseph Solomon Delmedigo, "Matzref LaChochmah", Basel 1629, fol. 14b

Sefer HaNiyar, siman 44.

See the analysis by Leopold Zunz and others about the exact date and location, and whether the attack was related to the Crusades. Scholars like Kammer and Bloch argue that the murder was criminal rather than religiously motivated.

18 folios on parchment, modern foliation in pencil in Arabic numerals, complete (collation i-iv4 v2), written by two scribes in neat Italian semi-cursive scripts in brown ink: (1) ff. 2r-9v, ruled in blind (justification 128 x 95 mm.), single-column text of 24 lines, enlarged incipits, periodic vocalization, diagrams on ff. 4rv, and 9, marginalia in hand of primary scribe intermittently throughout (see especially ff. 4rv), catchwords on f. 6v, decorated final words on f. 9; (2) ff. 1v, 10-18, ruled in blind (justification 145-160 x 110 mm.), single-column text of 22-25 lines (f. 1v contains twelve lines in square script with six in semi-cursive below), horizontal lines drawn to separate prayers, partial vocalization on ff. 10, 15v-16, and 17v, small decorative flourishes on ff. 13v, 14v, 15v, scattered worming on ff. 1, 17-18, strong browning throughout, dampstaining on ff. 1, 10, 15-18, small tear in upper margin of f. 10, loss of upper-outer corner of f. 10 affecting a number of words, some text faded or flaked (see especially ff. 12v-13v, 15v-18), puncture affecting some words on ff. 14-16, inner margins reinforced. Late seventeenth- or early eighteenth-century limp vellum binding, original ties now missing, lightly soiled, paper pastedowns and flyleaves. Dimensions, page size 185 x 140 mm.; binding 190 x 145 mm.

Rabbi Eleazar ben Judah of Worms' Eser havayot on the esoteric meanings of God's Hebrew Names is one of the most important expressions of Ashkenazi Hasidic thought. This beautiful manuscript is one of the earliest extant copies. Of particular interest is the fact that it is preserved here in the context of a substantial collection of prayers and charms for success and for safety (especially during travel), as well an early exemplar of the standard form used to prepare a get (Jewish writ of divorce).

Provenance

1. While the manuscript has no colophon, it is possible to date and localize it approximately to the end of the fourteenth century in Italy based primarily on the characteristic Italian scripts in which it is written.

2. Solomon Joachim Halberstam (1832-1900), a wealthy Polish Jewish scholar and bibliophile who had acquired hundreds of valuable manuscripts from the libraries of Leopold Zunz (1794-1886) and Samuel David Luzzatto (1800-1865), came into possession of this manuscript and included it when cataloging his own personal collection. The first folio contains his Hebrew initials in pen followed by the manuscript's shelf mark: "No 146".

3. The Judith Lady Montefiore College in Ramsgate, England, purchased 412 manuscripts from Halberstam's collection, including ours. The transaction was carried out by Rabbi Moses Gaster (1856-1939), principal of the College between 1891 and 1896. The manuscript contains the library stamp of the institution, known in Hebrew as Yeshivat Ohel Mosheh vi-Yehudit, on its first and final folios, as well as the library's shelf mark (MS 256) on both its spine and the pastedown of the upper board.

4. Between 1898 and 2001, most of the Montefiore manuscripts, including ours, were placed on permanent loan at Jews' College in London. In 2001, they were returned to the Montefiore Endowment Committee.

5. In 2004, part of the Montefiore Collection, including our manuscript, was sold at auction by Sotheby's in New York (lot 213).

ff. 10-18, Kabbalistic prayers and charms for success and safety during travel and throughout the day: f. 10, standard text of tefillat ha-derekh (the wayfarer's prayer) with added petitions to angels;

f. 10v, Advice on what to say in order to have one's prayers answered, followed by a tefillat ha-derekh attributed Rabbi Judah ben Samuel he-Hasid (c. 1150-1217) and a prayer of one Rabbi Joshua for protection against Gentiles with evil intentions;

f. 11, Tefillat yihud ha-shem (prayer unifying God's Name) to be recited every day as a protection against all forms of danger;

f. 11v, Prayer for the welfare of the Jewish people and the coming of the messianic era, followed by a charm for protection on a journey involving gathering seven stones and throwing four of them in each of the four directions while reciting angelic names, as well as yet another tefillat ha-derekh;

f. 12, Statement promising a share in the World to Come to those who recite Psalm 29 four times daily without interruption, followed by a tefillat ha-derekh appealing to God to save the petitioner just as He saved David, Elijah, and Enoch;

ff. 12rv, Text of Psalm 90;

f. 12v, Prayer to God to send the petitioner Yohakh (whose name is spelled out by the last letters of Psalm 90:11a: ki mal'akhav yetsavveh lakh) and other angels considered to be patrons and protectors of wayfarers;

f. 13, Directions to recite Psalm 91 and have in mind Yohakh's name;

ff. 13rv, Text of Psalm 17;

f. 13v, Short prayer for success on a journey;

ff. 13v-14, A shemirat ha-derekh (wayfarer's charm) attributed to Rabbi Moses ben Nahman(?) (1194-1270) consisting of fifteen verses, five each taken from the Torah, Prophets, and Writings, followed by a blessing requesting that the same angels sent to protect Jacob (Gen. 32:2-3) do so for the petitioner as well;

f. 14, Prophylactic verses;

f. 14v, The traditional text of the viddui (confessional);

ff. 14v-15, Text of Psalm 25, followed by a prayer for health and for protection against all manner of evil spirit;

ff. 15-16, Prayer attributed to Rabbi Ishmael the High Priest, containing references to angels' names and petitions for protection, success, forgiveness, not forgetting one's knowledge, etc.;

ff. 16-17, Prayer attributed to Elijah the Prophet, containing requests for material blessing and protection from all forms of danger;

ff. 17v-18, Two prayers for those traveling by sea; [f. 18v, blank].

Our manuscript consists of three sections: the standard form of a Jewish writ of divorce, Rabbi Eleazar ben Judah of Worms's Eser havayot (the introductory section of his longer treatise, Sefer ha-shem) and an extensive collection of prayers and charms for success and protection. The first and third elements were likely added by a slightly later scribe after the second work had been copied: the first presumably to take advantage of the blank folio preceding Eser havayot, and the third because of its authorial and thematic connections to the esoteric material in that work.

Rabbi Eleazar ben Judah of Worms (c. 1165-c. 1230) was the last great expositor of the traditions of the Hasidei Ashkenaz, a group of pietists living in Germany in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. His oeuvre includes a wide array of writings, ranging from liturgical poetry and halakhic (Jewish legal) discourse to commentaries on the prayers and esoteric exegesis. His major theological work was Sodei razayya (Secrets of Secrets), a five-part mystical compendium consisting of Sod ma'aseh be-reshit (The Secret of Genesis), Sod ha-merkavah (The Secret of the Chariot), Sefer ha-shem (The Book of the Name), Hokhmat ha-nefesh (The Wisdom of the Soul), and a commentary to the ancient Sefer yetsirah (Book of Creation).

Sefer ha-shem, the largest of the five parts of Sodei razayya, which was written by Rabbi Eleazar around 1220 in Speyer, constitutes the first attempt in Jewish literature to discuss and analyze systematically the various theological and ethical meanings of the Names of God. Despite the fact that, in the estimation of the modern historian Joseph Dan, the book's first major expositor, it should be seen as "the most important expression of the inner core of the Ashkenazi Hasidic religious world" (Dan, 1998, p. 132), Sefer ha-shem was not printed until 2004, in Jerusalem. It was subsequently republished in 2014 as part of a four-volume set of Rabbi Eleazar's writings (Eleazar ben Judah of Worms, ed. Aaron Eisenbach, Jerusalem, 2004, vol. 1, pp. 1-7).

Eser havayot (Ten Essences) is the name given in several manuscripts (though not ours) to the introductory section of Sefer ha-shem. It begins with an outline of the magical ritual to be observed in transmitting the secrets of God's Names from rabbi to student (on which, see Dan, 1998, 1996, 2002, and Wolfson, 1994, at length). It then proceeds to expound on the Tetragrammaton, the four-letter Name of God, with particular reference to the yod with which the Name begins. Yod in Jewish numerology equals ten, and so much of the discussion turns on the various tens to which the yod of God's Name corresponds. One of these is the eser havayot, the ten "essences," which Rabbi Eleazar understands to refer to up, down, north, south, east, west, beginning, end, light, and darkness (or: good and evil). The ensuing mystical-theological discussion draws heavily upon ideas in the Sefer yetsirah and Heikhalot (divine palace) literature.

Immediately following Eser havayot is a collection of prayers and magical formulas to be recited for the purpose of defense against evil spiritual forces or physical threats to one's safety. The latter half of the twelfth century saw a steady growth in the popularity of mystically- and angelologically-tinged private petitions, especially among the Hasidei Ashkenaz (Ta-Shma, 2003). According to Ephraim Kanarfogel, in subsequent generations, these types of texts were often attributed to the most prominent leaders of this group, particularly Rabbi Eleazar and his teacher, Rabbi Judah ben Samuel he-Hasid (as in our manuscript). It makes sense, then, that the later copyist in our manuscript would have appended this series of kabbalistic tefillot and shemirot ha-derekh to an esoteric theological treatise authored by Rabbi Eleazar.

Approximately twenty-four manuscripts of Sefer ha-shem, in whole or in part (most often in the form of Eser havayot), have come down to us. Of these, the vast majority (eighteen) reside in European public collections in Budapest, Florence, Leiden, London, Milan, Moscow, Munich, Oxford, Paris, Parma, and Zurich; two are housed in the Jewish Theological Seminary in New York; and one can be found at the National Library of Israel in Jerusalem. Only three are owned privately. Our copy is one of five surviving manuscripts of the work dating prior to the year 1400. The fact that it is accompanied by one of the earliest and most varied manuscript collections of tefillot and shemirot ha-derekh, as well as an important witness to the tradition of how to write a get, makes it a unique and valuable repository of Jewish law, theology, and liturgy.

Abstract
This article completes the author’s series of notes on magical papyri begun in Symbolae Osloenses 96 (2022). New readings and further discussion of content and context, touching on the history of science (medicine, astrology) and religion (Christianity), as well as provisional texts and translations, are offered for eight finished products of magical ritual from Egypt of the Roman and Late Ancient periods on papyrus and other materials (O.Moen inv. 631; PGM XXXIII and XLIII; PGM P 5b, P 6c, P 10, and P 16; Suppl.Mag. II 52). A documentary text on the same sheet as one of them (P.Oxy. VII 1059 back descr.) is given a first full edition.

This sequel to a collection of contributions to the interpretation of Greek magical papyri (Zellmann-Rohrer Citation2022c), developed in the course of work on the editions of GEMF, is devoted to amulets and other finished products of formularies, which still await their due attention as the focus of a comprehensive editorial project.

1. Suppl.Mag. II 52 (KYP M878): a “letter to the dead” on a sarcophagus panel?

The text was classed by its most recent editors under the rubric “Applied Curses: Pagan”, who identified the adjuration of “a male corpse … against the woman Senblynpnos, because she has neglected his burial”. The substrate, now in the Louvre,Footnote1 which is described in that edition only as an opisthographic “wooden tablet”, deserves further commentary as, in line with a new reading in the first line of the text, it allows the artifact to be situated in the context of afterlife ritual. A distinctive pair of slightly angled tabs protruding from what are now the top right and bottom right corners (seen from the front, where the text is written across the wood grain) point away from a purpose-cut writing tablet, where they would have been a waste of wood, and towards the re-use of wood, in short supply in Egypt, from a different application: a wooden sarcophagus. The tabs would then have belonged to dovetail joints, and given the size of the object, it could have been the head or foot panel of a plain rectangular coffin.Footnote2 The back bears traces of bitumen, suggesting that it faced inwards in the original disposition of the coffin, in contact with the human remains.

Further support for this theory comes from another internal reference in the text to sarcophagi: the adjuration begins, “I adjure you by the gods who are here and the sarcophagi and your gods, those down in Hades” (ἐζορκίζω σε τοὺς θεοὺς τοὺς ἐνδ̣ααθὶ καὶ τοὺς σα̣κ̣αφάκους καὶ τοὺς θούς σου ⟦π⟧ τοὺς κατ’ Ἅδου). The second member of the triplet of guarantors of the adjuration, σα̣κ̣αφάκους (σα̣ρ̣αφάκους in Suppl.Mag.; for σαρκοφάγους), was taken in the most recent edition as “those” (gods, comparing PGM IV 2865–2867) “who eat flesh”, and the possibility of a reference to the coffins themselves, already raised by Horsley (commentary to New Docs. II 13 [p. 48], but ultimately opting for the translation “(gods of the?) coffins”), was discounted. The surrounding references to gods, however, seem to mark this limb out as distinct. If gods were meant, they could have been specified, as is done in the other two limbs (τοὺς θεοὺς τοὺς ἐνδ̣ααθί, and τοὺς θούς σου ⟦π⟧ τοὺς κατ’ Ἅδου). The argument that the word is inappropriate to denote a coffin in an Egyptian context is based on a literal, etymological reading of σαρκοφάγος that need not have pertained at this date, if the connection to φαγεῖν could even have been perceived through the phonetic spelling. An objection might be raised from the use of the article τούς in place of τάς (compare Poll., Onom. 10.15), but, as Horsley pointed out, the difficulty is not serious; in particular, the presumably understood λίθους could readily have reverted to the masculine gender.

Another parallel for the adjective in the magical papyri, not discussed in Suppl.Mag., is in application to myrrh (ζμύρνα) in PGM IV 1504. The proximate cause there is the wasting effects of erotic passion (ἔρως) to be inflicted on the female target of this “leading-procedure” (ἀγωγή) via the airborne fumigant over which the spell is pronounced, but the role of myrrh in embalming might also be in view: 100 talents of myrrh are requested for the ταφή of a sacred animal in PSI IV 328, and a “myrrh-filled coffin” (ἡ ζυρνίνη [for ζμυρνίνη] σορός) is cited in PGM VIII 97 (see Zellmann-Rohrer Citation2022c, 295–301).

The conjunction of spirits of the human dead, coffins, and ritual practice among the living is rounded out by a reconsideration of the first line of the text, printed σαοραυινιενουτι⟩ο⟋ in the most recent edition. The first editor had wondered about an Egyptian female name for at least the initial σαορ-, but in Suppl.Mag. it is left unarticulated and presented in the translation as if magical words, among which the possibility of “νουτι ο, Egyptian ‘great god’” is raised in the commentary. If the final, suprascript ο is recognized instead as an application of a common mode of abbreviating the genitive of Greek versions of Egyptian personal names in -ις, -ιος, an alternative division into two personal names presents itself, an addressee in the dative followed by a patronym in the genitive: Σαοραυι Νιενουτιο(ς) [νιενουτιο, tablet]. That is, the text on the tablet is presented as a communication to a deceased person, Saoraus son of Nienoutis, contiguous with the traditional Egyptian letters to the dead and the addresses to “corpse-divinities” (νεκυδαίμονες) common in aggressive magic of the Roman period. The closest points of comparison are thus the adjuration (ἐξορκείζ[ω]) of one Euangelos in PGM XXXII and the command of Horion son of Sarapous in Suppl.Mag. I 37, both for the purposes of erotic magic. Might the claim in the text that this man has been “deprived” (ἀπεστέρηκε) of burial “henceforth” (τὸ λοιπόν) by the target, Senblynpnos, refer to a situation in fact caused by the speaker of the text, inscribed on a panel removed from that burial?

Neither name in the newly proposed reading of the tablet is otherwise attested, but both are sensibly Egyptian. The first is comparable with the writing S³-Ḥr found once in Athribis of the Late Period (Vernus 1978, 105 no. 114) for the more common Sy-Ḥr “Son of Horos” (TM Nam 7992), and the second is apparently a compound with nṯr, perhaps Nš-(p³-)nṯr “He belongs to (the) god” (compare Νεησις: Foraboschi Citation1967–1971, 203), or a shortened form of Πανινουτις (Foraboschi Citation1967–1971, 231; TM Nam 7287) from P³-n³-nṯr.w.

The following revised text and translation can thus be proposed:

2. PGM XXXIII (P.Tebt. II 275; KYP M767): fever amulet
Although it is not a formulary, this amulet holds a special claim to consideration in the course of GEMF, a Chicago-based editorial project on the Greek magical handbooks on papyrus, due to the role of the Chicago papyrologist Edgar J. Goodspeed in its decipherment during his collaboration with its excavators, Bernard P. Grenfell and

Arthur S. Hunt, in Oxford in 1900. Goodspeed's work is acknowledged in P.Tebt. II only in a general way,Footnote4 but preparatory work on the amulet by him can be identified with certainty, as he wrote of the text in a letter to his mother of 29 June 1900:Footnote5

Just now I must do papyri, all I possibly can. Oh, I did an extraordinary magical one this afternoon; an address to some demon Κόκ Κούκ ΚούL [sic] with a sort of meaningless rebus above it thus only about ten times this size. If BP. doesn't care for it, I do! But I think he will.

Goodspeed later reconsidered the meaninglessness of the "rebus", to judge from an added annotation beside his copy of it: "The rebus seems to mean 'The (gnostic) god Akramakamari is our Father'." It may indeed have been B. P. (Grenfell) who put the finishing touches on the publication, including a comparison with an amulet first published by Ulrich Wilcken in 1901 (Wilcken Citation1901, 420–427; later reprised as BGU III 956 and PGM XVIIIb), which Goodspeed is unlikely to have known at least in the main period of his work on the Tebtunis papyri. A remark in the commentary to the edition in P.Tebt. II with a verb in the first-person plural presumably refers, as usual, to Grenfell and Hunt.Footnote6

Unusually for papyri from the excavations of Grenfell and Hunt at Tebtunis, the amulet does not bear one of the modern inked processing numbers added by the excavators for reference before publication, the so-called "T-numbers" (O'Connell Citation2007), by which Goodspeed himself cited the papyri in his writings contemporary with his work on them. That absence might lead to the suspicion that such an annotation was once attached to some other surface, like a tube or case in which the amulet might originally have been found, from which it was later separated. No such artifact, however, remained with the amulet, nor can one be located among the finds from Tebtunis in the Phoebe A. Hearst Museum of Anthropology in Berkeley. Among those papyri assigned to Goodspeed for contribution to P.Tebt. II in a letter from Grenfell of 5 November 1902, in which the "T-numbers" are used for reference (Hickey and Keenan Citation2021, 141–445, Appendices D–E), two (351, 399) have not yet been identified with the inked numbers on papyri now in the Berkeley collection, and the amulet may be among them. Perhaps, as Hickey and Keenan suggest, these numbers were recorded on the papers between which the papyri were kept,Footnote7 as in other cases, but not copied over to the papyri themselves. If an identification of the T-number of the amulet with either of the missing ones is accepted, two possible contextual groups present themselves:

For the generally accepted third-century date of the amulet, T-399 (Group 2) is most appealing given its proximity to T-406, one of only two papyri dated in that century. Either number is high enough to suggest that the amulet was probably found in a private house in the village and not in its main temple, dedicated to Soknebtunis. That reconstruction would not preclude production by one or more of the experts practicing in this temple, perhaps informed by its substantial holdings of ritual and medical texts.Footnote8 A more robust conclusion is the thoroughly documentary surroundings, giving an impression of amulets as a feature of daily life. The personal copy of a literary text, the Trojan War account of Dictys of Crete (P.Tebt. II 268), on the back of a re-used document (P.Tebt. II 340) is the exception that proves the rule.

The following notes are offered on readings, based on autopsy of the papyrus on several occasions in 2015. Among the many Greek fever amulets on papyrus, which remain to be systematically collected and studied (see in general De Haro Sanchez Citation2010, 132–41), it retains some remarkable details – chiefly the name and epithets of the invoked deity, discussed further below – against others, which first caught the eye of Goodspeed but can now be recognized as common to the genre: the "rebus" αβλαναθαναβλαναμαχαραμαραχαραμαρα[ν?] (for the reading, see below) and its graphic deletion as analogy for the removal of the fever (see now Faraone Citation2012, 20).

1 αβλαναθαναβλαναμαχαραμαραχαραμαρα[.]. The first line of the diminishing figure was read αβλαναθαναβλαναμαχαραμαραχαραμαρα[χ?] by edd.pr., and the tentative restoration of the last letter had become a certainty in the re-printed version of Preisendanz. The end of the line has obviously been damaged; one letter should have been removed from the beginning and end of that sequence in its repetition in the second line, a pattern repeated until only a single α remains in line 18, and the form ending in -μαρα in the second line establishes that one more letter should have stood at the end of the first line, which accords with the available space. Parallels establish that the text is a compound of two independently circulating elements, the first of which is the near-palindrome αβλαναθαναβλα. That analysis leaves ναμαχαραμαραχαραμαρα[…] for the second element, reminiscent of the more common ακραμμαχαμαρι (see Suppl.Mag. I 10.1 n.; for caution on any Jewish connection: Bohak Citation2003, 81), but like the latter beyond reconstruction as a palindrome. Rather, a more abstract and complex rearrangement of syllables is at work, perhaps at an earlier stage something like the nested doublet-triplet structure αμ αχ αρ | αμ αρ αχ || αρ αμ αχ

| αρ αχ αμ || αχ αρ αμ | αχ αμ αρ. An appealing symmetry to bracket the second element as a whole could thus be gained with the restoration ναμαχαραμαραχαραμαρα[ν].

20 ταϊδα pap. The trema in the writing of the name of the bearer was omitted in previous editions. The first editors considered the name a psilotic variant of the commoner Θαΐς (Preisigke Citation1922, 126–127; Foraboschi Citation1967–1971, 130; TM Nam 5393), which is generally understood as a Greek name (LGPN I–IIIA, IV, VA–B s.v.), but there may be enough instances of Ταις, including with the stem Ταιδ- in oblique cases (though not yet in the accusative), to warrant analysis as a distinct, Egyptian name (TM Nam 4790): there is at least one other attestation in the Roman Fayum, P.Mich. VIII 512 ro 7 (Ταιν [accusative]; add perhaps Τ̣αι [dative] in O.Mich. I 103.1 with Foraboschi [1967–1971, 305]); see also Preisigke (Citation1922, 406). If the etymology of the latter is Egyptian T³-ḥy, as suggested by P.BM Andrews 1.5, there is no etymological place for the stem consonant /d/, which will have arisen by analogy with Θαΐδ-.

21 The name of the mother was read Τ̣ᾳ̣ρ[….] by the first editors and Τ̣ᾳ̣ρ[αυς] by Preisendanz with reference to Preisigke (Citation1922, 416) (listing only Ταρευ). The supplement was apparently rejected by Foraboschi (Citation1967–1971, 309), but on the original, Ταρᾳ̣[υς] can be read with confidence, possibly with one letter-width of blank space at the end before the formulary resumes.

22–23 νυκτοπυρέ|τ[ο]υ [ἢ c. 5 -πυρέτο]υ̣. The first editors gave in 23 -τ[ο]ῦ […… ὅ]τι, and Preisendanz offered the supplement [ἢ λεπτοπυρετοῦ], but the compound is unattested in amulets; compare, however, λεπτοπυρέτιον in the Kyranides (2.10.8–9, p. 133 Kaimakis) and λεπτοριγοπυρετινόν in the fever amulets P.Oxy. LXXXII 5306.13–14 and 5307.9–10 (which the editor regards as an error for λεπτοριγοπυρέτιον; the same copyist produced P.Oxy. VI 924, which has been re-published by Maltomini [2015] with new readings including another relevant instance: λεπτοριγο{λεπτο}πυρέτιον, 5–6). The parallel structure among the rest of the members in the Tebtunis amulet would favor instead a compound describing the time of day of the fever's onset,

Download CSVDisplay Table
Parallelism then favors a -πύρετος compound mirroring νυκτοπύρετος in its initial element, and given the natural pairing of νύξ with ἡμέρα, the otherwise unattested *ἡμεροπύρετος "daytime-fever", which would fit the space, is strongly suggested. There are no close parallels in papyrus amulets, but the pairing of night and day as times of onset is found in PGM XVIIIb.6 νυκταιρινοῦ τε καὶ ἡμερι⟨νοῦ⟩, already cited as a close parallel to the Tebtunis amulet by the first editors (see above).

The epithet παρημερινός, attested only here in ancient Greek to the author's knowledge, also supports a new coinage. Late medieval Greek formularies for incantations and amuletic prayers offer further indications of a tradition of ad hoc pyretological coinages. The παρημερινός of the Tebtunis amulet re-appears in a Byzantine narrative incantation acclaiming how Christ "abolished every fever, daily, every other day, tertian and quartan and second-ian [sic: see below]” (ἐκατέργησεν πάντα πυρετὸν καὶ καθημερινόν, παρημερινόν, τριταῖον καὶ τεταρταῖον καὶ δευτερινόν: Paris, Bibliothèque nationale de France, gr. 2316, fol. 320v [Legrand Citation1881, 18–19; re-collated]). A list of symptoms for which help is sought in a combined prayer for angelic assistance and exorcism includes fevers of “nighttime or midday” (ἢ νυκτηρινὸς ἢ μεσημβρινός: Venice, Biblioteca Nazionale Marciana, gr. II 163, fol. 69r, a portion omitted from the edition of Pradel [Citation1907, 21]), making *μεσημεροπύρετος “midday-fever” otherwise tempting here but too long. The qualification of fever as “nighttime and all-day” alongside “second-ian (sic), tertian, quartan”, expanding the ancient typology of times of periodic onset every third or fourth day, is found in another formula against “paroxysm” (παροξυσμός). After a compressed narrative of the crucifixion, how “the Christ was raised up, and the devil was wounded, and the man was crucified” (ὁ Χριστὸς ὑψώθη καὶ ὁ διάβολος ἐτραυματίσθη καὶ ὁ ἄνθρωπος ἐσταυρώθη), the fever is adjured and ordered to depart (ὁρκίζω σε, ὁ ῥιουπύρετος [Ὁρίου πυρετός, ed.] διτταῖος, τριταῖος, τεταρταῖος, ὁ νυκτερινὸς καὶ καθημερινός· ἔξελθε: Paris, Bibliothèque nationale de France, gr. 1603, fols. 326r–327r [Delatte Citation1927, 554; re-collated]).

23–24. πατρο[c. 21 Κό]κ, edd.pr.; Preisendanz supplemented πατρο[παράδοτος θεὸς ἀκάματος Κό]κ, the latter epithet apparently based on ἀκάμ[ατ]ε in 19, but gave no justification for the rest, which would be the only instance of a compound epithet in πατρο- (let alone πατροπαράδοτος) in the magical papyri, though it can be applied to gods elsewhere (of Zeus Sabazios with respect to Stratonike, mother of Attalos of Pergamon: I.Pergamon I 248.49). The rarity of the divine name is at odds with an acclamation as “ancestral” (πατροπαράδοτος), nor is such a conception of the divine much in evidence in the magical papyri. Human tradition (“you are the god passed down from our forefathers”) is after all a less impressive credential than the acclamations of the feats of deities themselves common in the corpus. An epithet placing the deity in relation to an even more powerful, cosmogonic father suits better the conceptual world of Greek amulets in Egypt: e.g., πατρογένειος, πατρογενής (LSJ 1349 s.vv.) or πατρογέννητος (Lampe Citation1961, 1053a s.v.), whether applied directly to Kok Kouk Koul or applied to the speaker as his offspring (sc., e.g., υἱός), removing the inconcinnity assumed by previous editors of invoking that deity and shortly thereafter claiming to be him.

Two later texts, one from Late Antiquity and the other from Byzantium, go some way towards confirming this reinterpretation of the πατρο- epithet and setting the mysterious Kok Kouk Koul in a clearer light. His name is not discussed in the first edition beyond the identification of a “deity”. In the apparatus to the PGM edition, Preisendanz compared an Egyptian divine name Χουχ, but the third element is left unexplained, and even for the first two the phonology is problematic: in Greek versions the aspiration is maintained with at least one chi. Faraone (Citation2012, 20 n. 59) considered in passing that the same sequence may be abbreviated in some Greek magical gems inscribed with three kappas, which relate to iconography of Herakles, but their expansion is never given by the gems. Brashear (Citation1995, 3590) identified a decan, an idea based on a misunderstanding of a source but which nevertheless points in a productive direction.

The discussion of Gundel cited by him (to which add Gundel [Citation1968, 22], where the possibility has become a certainty) leads to a seminal text of Late Antiquity for both decanology and demonology, the Testament of Solomon, which mentions a suggestively named Kok Phnedismos (18.32), but it is not a decan, rather the name of a power that a decan reveals as the means by which the harm that it inflicts on humanity may be counteracted. This decan has nothing to do with fever, but rather insomnia; four other decans in the Testament are blamed for various fevers (18.18–20, 23), but neither their names nor the angelic and other means of counteracting them show any connection to the Tebtunis amulet.

Progress can be made in a different quarter of the Testament. The demon Lix Tetrax (7), whose name recalls the apotropaic Ephesia Grammata of the Getty Hexameters (SEG LXIV 830), reveals a conjunction of astral lore, occult names, and the pyretological tradition that may be relevant. The demon reports that it dwells near the tip of the crescent moon and presides over the infliction of the “semi-tertian” fever (ἡμιτριταῖος). The pattern expected in the Testament, in which demons and counteracting angels are paired, is eventually imposed upon this episode in favor of the angel Azael (7.7): it belongs to an angelological tradition that proved popular in later Greek texts, in which angels are assigned to concrete spheres of competence (Zellmann-Rohrer Citation2018c, 111–112; Citation2024b). Before that, in what appears to be an older traditional stratum (7.6), the demon first offers three names that humans may invoke, whereupon the demon itself heals them. This recommendation fits into another distinct tradition, in which fever is divinized and offered cult (Zellmann-Rohrer Citation2020, 75). As for the three names recommended by the lunar demon Lix Tetrax, βουλταλά, θαλλάλ, μελχάλ, their triplicity, and their common ending in -l in another version, βούλ, τάλ, θαλάλ (cod. H), recalls the Kok Kouk Koul of the Tebtunis amulet. Coptic magical texts give further, related triplets in conjunction with fever. Although that branch of the tradition made of the sequence a set of occult names for the three companions of the prophet Daniel, saved from the fiery furnace as analogy for the cure of fever (see in general van der Vliet Citation1991, 236–239; Zellmann-Rohrer Citation2022a, 152), no such connection need pertain in this earlier phase.

A moon-dwelling demon such as the Lix Tetrax of the Testament would naturally be counteracted by a solar deity, an aspect lent to Kok Kouk Koul of the Tebtunis amulet by his epithet ἀκάματος “untiring”. This description is particularly associated with fire in Greek epic (e.g., Hom. Il. 5.4; Od. 20.123), which resonates with the πῦρ-cognates applied to fever in this text. Nor need so specific an association as that with Lix Tetrax be assumed, as a lunar aspect to periodic fever may underlie a reference to the waning moon in the Kyranides as the time to prepare amuletic remedies against fever (2.47, p. 186 Kaimakis). A solar deity would in general provide an appealing opposite of the periodic fever, whose onslaught flags in predictable intervals. The poetic ἀκάματος is also rare enough in the magical papyri to support this association: the formulary Supp.Mag. II 87 invokes a deity under epithets including ἀκάματος, Ἥλιος “Sun” and ὁ προπάτωρ θεός “the forefather god”, to whom the unresolved πατρο- compound in the Tebtunis text might relate. Solar associations continue in the later tradition, as in the following formula for an invocation from a sixteenth-century codex in which “Sir Sun” (κὺρ Ἥλιε) is asked to take and banish the fever symptoms.

Vatican, Bibliotheca Apostolica Vaticana, Barb. gr. 311, fol. 124v ἐσύ, Ἥλιε, κὺρ Ἥλιε, ὁ ἀνατέλλων ἐπὶ δικαίους καὶ ἀδίκους καὶ φωτίζων πᾶσαν τὴν οἰκουμένην, ἔπαρε τοὺς πόνους τούτους τῆς κεφαρ[αργίας], τὸ ῥῖγος, τὴν θερμασίαν, ψῦχος καὶ πᾶ[σαν] λοιμικὴν ἀσθένειαν ἀπὲ τὸν δοῦλον τοῦ θεοῦ τὸν δεῖνα καὶ ἄγωμε, ῥίψατε αὐτοὺς εἰς τὴν θάλασσαν.

You, Sun, sir Sun, who rises upon the just and the unjust [compare Matthew 5:45] and gives light to the whole world, take these headache pains, the shivering, the fever, chill, and all pestilential sickness from the servant of God so-and-so, and go, cast them in the sea.

The symbolic opposition of the two luminaries is also co-opted for a fever amulet in a formulary recipe on papyrus, in which the astrological signs for Sun and Moon are to be written on the light and dark sides of an olive leaf, respectively (PGM VII 214–215).

An example of an ancient fever-fighting motif from the medieval Christian magical tradition, whose substantially unaltered survival from antiquity is relatively uncommon, may draw this excursus to a close. The text, transmitted among medical recipes in a fourteenth-century codex, has implications too for the history of such motifs in the vicinity of Tebtunis itself.

Vatican, Bibliotheca Apostolica Vaticana, Vat. gr. 299, fol. 507v ληξοπύρετα ἐκ τῶν Ὥρου· στέατος κροκοδείλου, ἐγκεφάλου αἰθυίης, χαμαίμηλον βοτάνην, στράχνων φύλλων, λινοσπέρματος, ποταμογείτονος, στρατιώτου ποταμίου μίξας ὁμοῦ πάντα καὶ λειώσας ἐπίβαλε ῥοδίνου καθαροῦ ἀναλόγως καὶ χλίανε ἕως ἂν λάβῃ βρασμὸν καὶ ἐάσας ψυγῆναι καὶ διηθήσας ὀθονίῳ σύγχρισον τὸν πάσχοντα λέγων· δέξαι τὸν ἱδρῶτα τοῦ Κρόνου ἐνβορρακαίθου κομφθηρίου· ⟨λ⟩ῆξον τὸν πυρετὸν τοῦδε ἐν τῇ ἄρτι ὥρᾳ· λέγει σοι ὁ μέγας θεός, πρωτογεννήτου Ὀμβορόθου κρομφθηρίου· λῆξον τὸν πυρετὸν τοῦδε ἐν τῇ ἄρτι ὥρᾳ.

Fever-stoppers, from the (works) of Horus:Footnote9 some crocodile’s fat, shearwater’s brain, chamomile plant, strychnos leaves, flaxseed, pondweed, water-lettuce, mix all together, emulsify, and add some pure rose-oil in proportion and heat until it comes to the boil. Let cool and strain with a cloth and anoint the patient, saying, “Receive the sweat of Kronos enborrakaithos komptherios. Reduce the fever of this (man) at the present moment. The great god speaks to you, (son) of the first-born omborothos kromphtherios. Reduce the fever of this (man) at the present moment.”

The composition shows Egyptian textual motifs with direct phraseological debts to an Egyptian background, a rich stratum that would repay further study. There is a traditional Egyptian divinization of ritual substances with respect to Greek assimilation of Egyptian gods, here Kronos as manifestation of the crocodile god Sobek (see further below) suggested by the use of crocodile fat in the recipe. That Egyptian connection is confirmed more generally by the boast of proof by testing, the urge to conceal, the formulaic expression of urgency, the reported speech of a “great god”, and more specifically by a command to “receive” a substance, which has parallels in other Greek magical papyri for similarly divinized substances involved in the ritual (PGM XXXVI 286–287; LXI 7–9).

The Fayum region, to which the Tebtunis amulet belongs, suffered well into modern times from high incidence of the malaria that likely underlies the periodic fever of Taïs (Scheidel Citation2001, 77), and it would have been fertile ground too for diverse approaches to the disease’s symptomatic fevers. A natural ally would be the region’s chief deity, the ancient Egyptian Sobek, equated with the Greek Kronos (Ronchi Citation1974–1977, 3:591; Kockelmann Citation2017, 1:173–179), and the honorand of the chief temple of Tebtunis. Kronos recalls a claim of the medical author Theodore Priscian, who cites an ancient conception of quartan fevers as daughters of Saturn (Physica, pref. §3, pp. 250–251 Rose), with whom Kronos was also linked; Kronos would then, not unlike John the Baptist in later Greek ritual texts (Zellmann-Rohrer Citation2020), figure in both causation and removal of fever. He is appropriate also in his crocodile form, marsh-dwelling but admirably thick-skinned and unbothered by mosquitoes, if the ancients had any premonition of such correlations. In the Vatican codex the reported speech of a god who is himself “the one of” or “the son of” the “first-born” (πρωτογέννητος), justifying the preceding imperative, recalls again the Tebtunis amulet, where πατρογέννητος (or πατρογενής) has still more reason to be considered in the resolution of the πατρο- compound.

24. After this line, Preisendanz assumed a lacuna and restored another line, [ἤδη ἤδη ταχὺ ταχύ], a possibility already considered in the commentary to the first edition. There is nothing to prevent the invocation from ending more succinctly after the ὅτι clause.

3. PGM P 16 (P.Ross.Georg. I 23; KYP M440): Christian invocation
This papyrus was purchased in Egypt in 1897 by Vladimir Georgevich von Bok (1850–1899) on behalf of the State Hermitage,Footnote10 where it is now kept under the inventory number 5657. The first edition was by Zereteli and Krueger in P.Ross.Georg. I 23, where it was inexactly titled “Christliche Beschwörung”. This title, and a modified and partly normalized text, were reprinted by Preisendanz in PGM. The papyrus, however, lacks verbs of adjuration, and the communicative act is rather a sort of petition to the Christian deity (κύριος; mentioning also the τριάς, an ἄγγελος, and οἱ ἅγιοι μάρτυρες) against a certain Theodosi(o)s who has behaved in an oppressive manner (τυραννικὸς τρόπος) towards the petitioner. Björk offers a partial, fully normalized reprint in his study of Christian curses (1938, 46–47 no. 24), and the text has been variously inventoried and translated.Footnote11 Since the first edition, however, no author has claimed to work on the basis of autopsy. A good digital image has been made available by the APIS project,Footnote12 and a collation of this image with published editions indicates that a re-edition of the papyrus based on autopsy would be desirable. Some preliminary corrections and notes on the text are offered here from collation with the image.

The writing is along the fibers, not against them as the description in the first edition might suggest.Footnote13 The assessment of the quality of the hand by Zereteli and Krueger (“ungeschlachte und ungeübte Kursive”) and Preisendanz (“schlechte Kursive”) is unduly harsh: the copyist appears to have been practiced and fluid in forming not only individual letters but also various ligatures (e.g., δι, 2; λε, 11; τρ, 1; υρ, 7), and to have been a frequent even if not professional writer. The fourth-century date generally accepted may be maintained: compare P.Gen.2 App. 1 (319 CE); P.Panop. 27 (323); P.Rain.Cent. 86 (381).

1. Preisendanz, following the first editors, places a chrism at the beginning of the line, of which there is no trace in the image; the text appears to have begun simply with the first ἀγεία.

2. [εὔχομαι] has been restored by previous editors at the end of the line, governing a following τῷ κυρίῳ, but even if the text opened with a first-person verb, it is difficult to exclude ἐπικαλοῦμαι (as in PGM P 13 and 21), and the presence of a finite verb is perhaps not required if the point were to set the martyrs in some relation to the deity (see the next note).

3. An unusual nomen sacrum abbreviation $\overline{\text{κ}\rho}$ apparently for a form of κ(ύ)ρ(ιος) went without comment in PGM, where κυρίῳ was printed, after the first editors had mentioned in passing (mistakenly) “$\overline{\text{κ}\dot{\omega}}$ = κυρίωι” in their introduction; the papyrus has κύριε in full in 16. A parallel can now be identified in κρ for κ(υ)ρ(ίῳ) again for the deity in P.Berl.Zill. 14.17 (with Paap Citation1959, 102 n. 1) of the sixth century (compare also $\overline{\text{κρc}}$ and $\overline{\text{κρυ}}$ in P.Rein. II 59, a codex of the Greek version of Exodus from the third century [Paap Citation1959, 22 no. 75; 102]), but aside from the restoration [εὔχομαι] at the end of the previous line, nothing favors the expansion κ(υ)ρ(ίῳ) here over, e.g., κ(υ)ρ(ίου) construed with the preceding μαρτύρω[ν].

The first editors’ reading τ[ὸ] ὑμῶ[ν πάθος ὁ] was also taken up by Preisendanz, understanding ὑμῶν as a phonetic spelling for ἡμῶν. The petitioner, however, elsewhere uses the first-person singular for self-reference, and the pronoun may rather associate the angel with the plurality implied by the opening address to the trinity (see also the discussion of 9 below). An oblique stroke above tau might represent a correction to ὁ, but a conflation in the forms of the definite article (τό for ὁ sc. ἄνγελος in the following line) would not be surprising in this text; there is a general parallel in the spelling τοί for οἱ among the documentary papyri (P.Gen. 12 16.22), although Gignac (Citation1981, 173) considers this form an “isolated blunder”.

4. Previous editors read κατεμαρ̣τύρ[ι ὅτι τηρ]α[ν]ῃ[κόν], understanding κατεμαρτύρει and τυραννικόν. The latter is unproblematic in view of the spelling in 6–7, but the past tense is unexpected in comparison to ἔχει (5) and ἀγνωεῖ (3), and the image allows κατ’ ἐμαί (for κατ’ ἐμέ, cf. the form of iota in ἔχει), yielding either a further qualification of τρόπον in the following line (for, e.g., οὐκ ἀγνοεῖ τὸν κατ’ ἐμὲ τυραννικὸν τρόπον ὃν ἔχει Θεοδόσις) or a separate summary of the petitioner’s situation (οὐκ ἀγνοεῖ τὸ κατ’ ἐμέ· τυραννικὸν ἔχει κτλ.).

5 [ὅ̣λ̣α] τά at the end of the line in the first edition has become ὅ̣λ̣α τά in PGM, but the image shows none of these traces, allowing space for no more than two letters after the final sigma of the preceding Θεοδόσις, which is also extended to the right. By itself τά (sc. ἐναντία in the following line) seems to suffice for the sense; there may be an underlying conflation of the definite article with the relative pronoun (Gignac Citation1981, 179).

6–7 τηρα|νεικῷ τρόπο[υ] has been read so far, but the image shows before the break a wider loop more consistent with the open left lobe of ω, favoring τρόπῳ, the grammatically expected form, despite the suggestion in the apparatus to normalize τυρρανικοῦ; elsewhere the ductus in the combination πο differs, with ο smaller in size and beginning well above the baseline.

7 βουήθιαν as in the first edition is favored by the image against βουήθια in PGM.

8 μήν should be printed (with the first editors) instead of μή in PGM; the following τήν seems to have been corrected from τον on the papyrus.

9 διὰ τῶν ἁ̣[γίων] in the first edition has become a certainty in PGM. This reading still seems the most likely for the space (cf. also διὰ τῶν ἁγίων μαρτύρω[ν in 2), but it is difficult to exclude διὰ τῶν ἁ̣[γγέλων] or even μ[αρτύρων]. In any case, the preceding ὑμῶν in this line refers probably to the trinity (as in 3) and need not be corrected to ἡμῶν.

10 προσφεύγω [σοι] as restored by the first editors was also taken up in PGM, but the clause may have been complete with the verb, as the direction towards the deity is supplied in the following parallel clause, ἐπὶ τὴν σ̣ὴ̣[ν] ἁγιώτητα (11–12).

11 τακρεωβλεπω on the papyrus is emended to τακρέω⟨ν⟩ βλέπω in PGM, following the understanding of the first editors, but alongside the participle apparently assumed (for δακρύων βλέπω “I look tearfully”), a single compound might also be considered, which could be regarded as more faithful to the orthography of the papyrus. I have not found any attestations of δακρυοβλέπειν “look tearfully” or “through tears”, although δακρυοβρέχειν is on record in Theodorus Studites, Epist. 477.118–19.

13 φαυλων is the reading of the papyrus, for which PGM gives φαύλον (sic) with φαύλων in the apparatus as the reading of edd.pr. Zereteli and Krueger in fact printed φαῦλόν με in the main text, tentatively considering in the apparatus a normalization ὅσα φαύλων με ἐποίησε, with a note by P. Jernstedt suggesting Coptic influence through the idiom ϩⲁϩ ⲛ- followed by a noun, for “many”. Kapsomenakis (Citation1938, 119 n. 1; BL III, 155) proposed to divide φαύλον με ἐποίησά μεν, for φαύλων με ἐποίησέ με; this argument is reiterated in Kapsomenakis (1972–1973, 562–566; BL VII, 170). It seems possible to make sense of φαῦλων for φαῦλον (cf. αὐτών for αὐτόν in 17) as a simple predicate of με, without recourse to Coptic; the repeated με(ν) might add emphasis.

13–14 εποιησα.|μενανασστηνασον is the reading of the papyrus; the first editors printed ἐποιήσα|μεν ἀνασστηνάσον in the text and corrected to ἐποίησε· ἀναστενάζων in the apparatus; ἐποίησε | μετανασστενάσον appears in PGM, with μεταναστενάζων? in the apparatus. The image allows εποιησαι in 13, as there are traces consistent with the bottom part of ι (if not an extension of a tail of α to the right): ἐποίησαί | μεν (l. ἐποίησέ με), with the pronoun perhaps repeated for emphasis (compare the previous note). That division would leave ἀνασστήνασον: an aorist imperative ἀναστένασον inviting the deity to join a lament would be sensible but unparalleled, and we might think rather of a by-form of a causative stem of ἵστημι (the suggestion of Anastasia Maravela), in my view most likely ἀνάστησον “cause to rise (again)” in the sense of “restore”.

14. In place of κακ[ὰ ὅλα] in PGM and κα⸗[ὸν ἐγώ] in the first edition, it seems possible, and preferable for the sense, to read from the image καὶ ὥ̣σ̣σ̣α̣ (for ὅσα, as in 13).

15. The papyrus has διαπε⟦πε⟧ποθα, the correction by an underline taken by the first editors as a diacritic on a word in the line below (read there as παρώρα, but see the following note). It would be unusually elongated for an acute accent and seems to begin to the left of the vowel in question.

16 παρώρα is read by the first editors and PGM. There is a hole in the papyrus after the second α of παρωρα-, but ink at its left edge cannot belong to the upright of the following κ: παρωρᾷς (l. παρορᾷς) seems preferable. On that basis μὴ παραστα[τῇς] may be restored for the parallel command in this line against μὴ παραστά[τει] as previously printed.

19–21 κύριοσ [μ]ό[νος] | θεός ἐ̣σ̣̈ι ἐν [υ]ἱῷ κ[αὶ] | ἐν τῷ πατρί has been read by previous editors. The letter read as a second sigma in 19 is damaged, and although the mid-high surviving trace is somewhat more difficult for mu, κύριος μ̣[ό]̣νος removes an unusual termination, elsewhere in the text paralleled only before a vowel (τοὺσ ἐ̃νας, 22). In the following line θεός is less clear on the image than previously presented, though it seems inevitable; ἐ̣σ̣̈ι following it, however, is impossible, and the traces match πατρί directly beneath them, which the copyist probably anticipated here.

27–28 [....]σ[...]ρεωσ[c. 6] | [c. 9]ν....νος in the first edition is repeated in PGM but with the four unread letters in 28 set in square brackets. The image allows κ̣ύ̣ρι[ε] ⸗ ἕως ι̣[ο]ῦ | ἐ̣ὼν ι̣ο̣ῦ ἐ̣ῶνος (l. τοῦ αἰῶνος τοῦ αἰῶνος). The additional vocative would align with the four-fold repetition of ἀμήν in the preceding, and the rest of the sequence can be seen as a conflation of two Hebraisms, ἕως τοῦ αἰῶνος “forever” (e.g., Psalm 27:9, 88:5, 89:2 in the Greek version) and the even more common εἰς τοὺς αἰῶνας τῶν αἰώνων “forever and ever” (Psalm 83:5 and, e.g., Revelation 1:18); compare also εἰς πάσας τὰς γενεὰς τοῦ αἰῶνος τῶν αἰώνων “for every generation, forever and ever” (Ephesians 3:21).

The following text and translation can thus be offered; some other, minor divergences from previous editions are noted in the apparatus.

The holy trinity, the holy trinity, the holy trinity, through the holy martyrs … Lord: for your angel is not unaware of the tyrannical manner in which Theodosi(o)s behaves towards me, the adversities I have suffered from him in (his) tyrannical manner, finding no help except God’s power and your testimony through the saints(?), and through them I take refuge with [you?] and look tearfully to your holiness, so that I may look upon (your) power – how much he has brought me low! Restore (me)(?), and do not overlook, Lord, how much I have endured from him, and do not support him, as I have said before, him, Theodosi(o)s, and (do not) neglect me, for there is only one Lord, only one God, in the son and in the father and in the holy spirit, forever and ever, amen, amen, amen, amen. (Crosses) Lord, Lord, Lord, Lord, forever and ever.

4. O.Moen inv. 631: a composite finished product of scripture and drawing for erotic magic?

This ostrakon, which entered the private Moen collection from an unreported source, was identified by its first editor as a school-exercise, copying Matthew 1:19–20 along with crude drawings (Fig. 1).Footnote14 N. Carlig (Citation2012) has argued for a closer relation between text and drawing, that the latter’s two anthropoid figures illustrate the dream of Joseph referenced in the gospel passage. Some particularities of the figures suggest an even tighter and more particular relation, when considered in the context of Matthew 1. The pose of both figures (see the new drawing above) is the orant one, consistent less with gestures of meeting between a superior (angel) and inferior (the mortal Joseph) than with those of two beings of the same status interceding before another, or perhaps of a now sainted Joseph elevated to the same heavenly plane as the angel.

The gospel passage centers on a man who wishes to break off his engagement and an angel who dissuades him from doing so. Besides writing practice, or a broadly amuletic function as recently proposed for a partial citation of Matthew 1:20 in Greek (P.Mich. inv. 4944b [Jones Citation2018]), it would be a suitable selection for a less well-known but widely attested use of scripture: application in magic by way of analogy. The use of Homer set the stage in Graeco-Roman practice, and Christian scripture, especially but not limited to the Psalms (Zellmann-Rohrer Citation2018a; Citation2021; Citation2024a), was later taken up wholeheartedly. Gabriel is invoked as the angel who overcomes Joseph's reluctance and "makes" him take Mary as his wife in a Coptic formulary recipe for erotic magic: "I adjure you by your power (…) and by Gabriel, the one who went to Joseph, made him take Mary as his wife" (ϯⲧⲁⲣⲕⲟ ⲙⲟⲕ ⲛⲧⲉⲕⲃⲟⲙ (…) ⲙⲛ ⲅⲁⲃⲣⲓⲏⲗ [ⲡ]ⲉⲛⲧ[ⲁⲩⲃ]ⲱⲕ ⲱⲁ ⲉⲓⲱⲥⲛϥ ⲁⲩⲧⲣⲉⲩⲭⲓ ⲙⲙⲁⲣⲓⲁ ⲛⲁⲩ ⲛ̣ⲥ̣ⲉ̣ⲓⲙ̣ⲉ̣).Footnote15 The Moen text does not preserve any invocation or request specific to erotic magic, but the inscription of these verses of Matthew 1, and not simply the gospel's first verse, is otherwise unmotivated and would find an appealing explanation in the aim to strengthen a marital bond or initiate male-female attraction. The inscribed and decorated ostrakon would then have been a finished product in a ritual, which could, for example, have been deposited in a ritually significant location (the home of the couple in question), or more specifically such that the targeted party would step on (ἐπισκελίζειν) or step over it (διασκελίζειν), as paralleled in Byzantine texts.Footnote16

The disposition of the figures on the Moen ostrakon centers them roughly beneath the phrase ἰδοὺ ἄγγελος "Behold! An angel!" (l. 4), supporting a relation between drawings and text. Carlig already noted a general resemblance to some of the drawings of angels in magical texts. The third figure, upside-down with respect to the others, is mounted on a supernaturally large bird and theriomorphic itself, with a bird's head, and hence could fit into the liminal category of supernatural powers with hybrid animal-humanoid forms also figured in the Coptic magical papyri.Footnote17 That the bird has letter-like signs on its body is also consistent with this broader tradition of ritual figures, wearing such inscribed garments or more abstractly adorned with Greek and Coptic letters, an example of which from a Coptic formulary of Late Antiquity is given above (Fig. 2).Footnote18

5. PGM P 6c (P.Oxy. VII 1059; KYP M425): account re-used for Christian invocation
This papyrus, from the excavations of B. P. Grenfell and A. S. Hunt at Oxyrhynchus, bears on one side a text published by A. S. Hunt in P.Oxy. as a "Christian prayer" and on the other the remains of a document, which was described there as “a list of χλανίδια with their values”, two lines being given as examples. An image of the documentary side of the papyrus, which after distribution of finds by the Egypt Exploration Fund (later Society) to subscribers came to the Andover Newton Theological Seminary, then in 2017 to Yale, is published here for the first time (Figs. 3–4),Footnote19 as is a full text of the clothing-account. The first edition of the prayer has been reprinted several times (Schubart Citation1918, 371; Leclerq Citation1937, 1422), including in PGM, and it has also found a place in the checklist of Christian amulets drawn up by de Bruyn and Dijkstra (Citation2011, 200–201 no. 110) as “probably” belonging among them. The prayer certainly seeks protection, and patterns of surface damage are consistent with a single fold, in half along the vertical axis, which makes some sort of amuletic function likely – deposition in a house rather than carrying on the body, as protection is requested for multiple people – even if in combination with mnemonic functions. The nexus of Christian prayer(-amulets) and recycled papyri continues in P.Oxy. XVI 1928, a composite of Psalm 90 and the titles of the four gospels (κατὰ Ἰωάννης, καιτὰ Λουκᾶ, κατὰ Μᾶρκος, κατὰ Μαθθέας) on the back of a documentary protocol (SB XXII 15581). Re-use in the other direction is attested by P.Oxy. III 407 (Blumell and Wayment Citation2015, 325–326 no. 88), an invocation for help, mercy, forgiveness of sin, and salvation in this world and the next (βοήθησόν μοι, ἐλέησόν με, ἐξάλιψόν μου τὰς ἁμαρτίας, σῶσόν με ἐν τῷ νῦν καὶ ἐν τῷ μέλλοντι αἰῶνι, 3–5), in an ornate bookhand and titled with the label “prayer” (προσευχή) on the back in a more cursive one, below which a notation of an amount of money in drachmasFootnote20 and a quantity in λίτραι has been added. Fold-lines might once again indicate use as an amulet, but an aide-de-memoire for prayer remains possible.

Hunt assigned a fifth-century date to the present papyrus without distinguishing between the texts on front and back; Cavallo and Maehler (Citation1987, 50 no. 21a) place the cursive hand of the original document in the second half of the fifth century and the “crude, semi-cursive hand” of the prayer at the end of the same century. Excavation context might suggest instead the late(?) fourth century, which the accounting in solidi would not contradict (see in general Bagnall Citation1985, 16).

An alphanumeric sequence (B 5 J 19) has been added on the papyrus in black ink in a modern hand. It belongs to the series of processing numbers (see also §6 below for Oxyrhynchus and §2 above for a similar practice by Grenfell and Hunt at Tebtunis), related in turn to packing- and inventory-numbers, assigned by the excavators and reflected in part in the inventory numbers under which the Oxyrhynchus papyri still held by the Egypt Exploration Society are stored (and, beginning with P.Oxy. XL, noted in publications).Footnote21 The elements of the main series of the current inventory numbers, corresponding to a numbered tin packing box and lettered and numbered folders and layers of papyri packed within, can be recognized in the most common form of the processing number, a number followed by a letter followed by a number (tin box, folder, layer within). The significance of the present form is not entirely clear: the presence of other letters than B at the beginning of other numbers (e.g., P.Oxy. III 454: D 161; P.Oxy. II 260: E 373) complicates an explanation as the modern name of the site, Behnasa, as in the element B in the modern inventory number. A small group of proximate numbers, including one other amulet, may be gathered:

The presence of the processing number 5 B J 18 on P.Oxy. VII 1052 (1057), an order for payment on the other side of an account, both dated to the fourth century, complicates the question further: is the 5 to be understood as a tin-box number after all, and the B a suffix (i.e., two tin boxes, 5A and 5B in that season)? Both 1052/1057 and 1059 most likely come from the fifth season (1905/6), but the first, third, and fourth seasons are also possible, to judge from the limited information given in P.Oxy. VII.Footnote22 If P.Oxy. VIII 1109 (B 5 J 27) belongs in the same find-group, the preface to its volume, which is even less informative on the affiliation of the published papyri to excavation seasons, might strengthen the claim of the fifth season, as the latter is the only one mentioned in the preface,Footnote23 but it is a chronological outlier in the group, and no papyrus with an inventory number indicating a tin box number below 25 from the fifth season has so far been published in P.Oxy.

Especially if 1052/1057 is to be added to the group, and 1109 excluded, a fourth rather than fifth century date is more likely for 1059. The implication of amulets (1058 and 1059) among financial records already suggested by the pairing of front and back of 1059 is in any case noteworthy. Such a documentary context can be established also for the Tebtunis amulet discussed above (§2) on a similar basis.

The text on the front, written along the fibers, is given below from the photograph. Of this account of clothing, the top, left and right of a single column survive, with the bottom cut off in the re-use. It is of some small interest as expanding the descriptors applied to outerwear (χλανίδια) in the papyri: so far χλανίδιον has been found with αἰγιοπλάκινον ἄσπρον (SPP XX 245.4); αἰγιοπλάκινον ἀργύρεον (P.Eirene IV 47.6); αἰγιοπλάκινον κίτρεον (SPP XX 245.5); καθημερινόν (SPP XX 245.3); and ὁλοπλάκ(ινον) (SB VI 6570.3). If the reading σικελλε̣ικ̣[όν] in 4 is right, one of them may be a Sicilian import (or imitation thereof).

Some details of the prayer on the back (P.Oxy. VII 1059), which would repay closer study than the limited commentary of ed.pr. (“A prayer written in a rude hand and in illiterate Greek”), may be revisited after collation with a facsimile.

1 κύ(ριϵ) ed.pr. The second letter is too narrow and shallow for υ, by comparison to the two writings of μου in the same line; instead κ(ύρι)ϵ, the expected form of the nomen sacrum, may be read, in which ϵ is written with separation between the two strokes, as in ἐρπίς in the same line. The form κυ is all but invariably reserved for the genitive: Paap (Citation1959, 79–81) gives only three examples where it represents the vocative, including this one (no. 343). The overlines on κϵ presumably continued for the following θ(ϵ)έ, of which a scant trace is visible over epsilon; these features were not noted in the first edition.

3 Ἀννη̣α (l. Ἄνναν?) ed.pr. The fourth letter is too narrow for η and descends at left farther than usual for that letter in this hand; rather Ἀννία for Ἀννίας, as the text seems most often to construe ὤψϵ (ὄψαι, from the ὀπ- stem of ὁρᾶν) with the genitive, more correctly Ἀννίαν.

The result is the following text and translation:

6. PGM P 5b (P.Oxy. VIII 1151; KYP M420): Christian fever amulet
After its discovery at Oxyrhynchus and first publication by A. S. Hunt as P.Oxy. VIII 1151, this papyrus was sent to Glasgow, where it is now kept in the University Library. Hunt’s edition was reprinted in PGM and revised by B. C. Jones (Citation2016, 134–140 no. 17),Footnote24 and the text and its production have also been studied by A. M. Luijendijk (Citation2014) and P. Piwowarczyk (Citation2019, 269–272).Footnote25 Some notes after autopsy of the papyrus (11 June 2014) are presented here, after general remarks on context and content.

Luijendijk (Citation2014, 424), consistent with the emphasis in the title of her study on the “gospel” quality of the amulet, considers in particular the latter part of the text, how it “cleverly weaves together several biblical phrases”. The opening of the text, while certainly Christian, harks back to apotropaic motifs far older than the gospels, in an application of a richly documented pattern of commands to sicknesses to flee (φεῦγε) because of the pursuit (διώκει) of some higher powers (see in general Faraone Citation2018, 208–213). A novel feature is the expansion to include an acclamation of a feat already accomplished by two persons of the Christian Trinity, having forestalled (προέλαβεν) the evil spirit. Here the closest parallel for the phrasing comes among medieval Latin bee-incantations, in one of which the insects are threatened with the intervention of the patriarchs Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob:

I adjure you, bees, little bees, God’s faithful: be afraid, do not try for the woods, flee (them), do not attempt flight. Let Abraham hold you back, let Isaac hold you back, let Jacob bring you back indoors, amen. Let Abraham follow you, let Joseph forestall you.Footnote26

Although the text is preserved in a fourteenth-century codex, it probably reaches back to a common ancestor in Late Antiquity shared with medieval Greek applications of the motif of pursuit by the three patriarchs, as in an address meant to force a fugitive to return: “Abraham pursues you, Isaac turns you back, Jacob overtakes you, and an angel of the Lord turns you back to where you wrongly departed.”Footnote27

The opening portion of the Oxyrhynchus amulet has yet to receive its due of stylistic attention. Although not literary, it too offers indications of the care taken in its composition. As seems not yet to have been remarked, its first six lines present a rhythmic structure in terms of syllabic stress rather than vowel quantity, under rules observed in the liturgical poetry of Romanos the Melode from the following century.Footnote28 The pattern may be reconstructed as follows:

φεύγε πνεύμα μέμισιμένον·

Χριστός σε διώκει, προέλαβεν σέ ὁ υιός του θεού και το πνεύμα το άγιον.

An opening trochaic rhythm is followed by a dactylic rhythm, which appears even more strongly if an auxiliary accent is assumed on the first syllable of μεμισιμένον.Footnote29 The shift between the two schemata coincides with, and may serve to mark, a sense pause at the semantic transition between command and motivation by acclamation.

The arrangement of words and clauses also shows a certain artfulness.Footnote30 Chiasmus neatly mirrors the actions of Christ and the Son of God across the address to the demon in σε “you” upon which they are brought to bear: Χριστός σε διώκει· προέλαβέν σε ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ θεοῦ “Christ pursues you, the Son of God has forestalled you” (3–5). The placement of the contrasted “spirits” (πνεύματα), abhorred and sacred, effectively brackets the opening six-line unit: πνεῦμα μεμισιμένον (1) and τὸ πνεῦμα τὸ ἅγιον (6). The composition balances doublets, in ἴασαι καὶ ἐπίσκεψαι “heal and shelter” (28) and ἀποδίωξον καὶ φυγάδευ|σον “chase off and put to flight” (32–34), with triplets, in particular a branching structure for the core pyretological schema (34–38; on the terminology, see §2 above) that can be schematized as follows:

Table

Download CSVDisplay Table
Among three limbs of symmetrical construction, the middle one is itself expanded by three qualifiers. The structural unity is reinforced by repetition of παν- in either first or second position in each of the limbs.

A tripartite structure also orders the text as a whole, which can be considered as three invocations:

1. Address to the “abhorred spirit” (πνεῦμα μεμισιμένον, 1–6)

2. Address to the “God of the pool at the Sheep Gate” (ὁ θ(εὸ)ς τῆς προβατικῆς κολυμβήθρας, 7–14)

3. Address to Christ (15–56)

The last limb is also the longest, further bolstered by the citation of John 1:1 and 3 and a list of saints, a disposition consistent with the preference in poetic compositions across the ancient Indo-European languages, Behagel’s “Law of increasing members”. Parallel structure also connects the second and third, with a scriptural reference followed by a request for the present time. The third limb then circles back to the first with the chiastic repetition of φεῦγε … διώκει (1–3) in their amplified forms, via preverb and causative suffix, as ἀποδίωξον καὶ φυγάδευσον (32–34).

Despite suggestive references to the intercession of saints with local cult in Oxyrhynchus, and a familiarity in the Christian community there with both scriptural means of healing and other apotropaic traditions, there is disappointingly little direct indication of archaeological context. An unexploited piece of evidence comes once again in the form of an inked excavation processing number (see §5 above), in this case 6 F 13. Around it the following small group of proximate numbers may be drawn:

There are no objective grounds for dating the amulet in the fifth, as universally done following Hunt, as opposed to the (late) fourth century: reference to the θεοτόκος, a term used comfortably by Athanasius of Alexandria and Gregory of Nazianzus in the fourth century, should be no obstacle, nor should expressions of devotion to saints, before organized ecclesiastical centers devoted to them happen to surface among the surviving papyri. The proximity to the literary texts P.Oxy. VIII 1098 and XI 1395, beyond potentially complicating the purely “gospel” milieu in which the amulet has previously been placed, also favors a reconsideration of the date to include the later fourth century.

Nothing in the preface of P.Oxy. VIII indicates the season in which the papyrus was found, nor does the date of publication (1911) narrow the field. Among published papyri from these excavations with “modern” inventory numbers, only P.Oxy. LXXV 5048, from the sixth season, reflects an original “tin box” sequence 6 F (or tin box 6 at all): namely 6/F (3–4), a literary bookroll (Xenophon, Memorabilia) of the second century, unlikely to have had any direct connection to the amulet. The Xenophon bookroll could perhaps be grouped with 1569 (6 F 12) and 952 (6 F 17) into a tighter chronological band, belonging perhaps in that case to a different season than the group to which the amulet and the literary texts 1098 and 1395 might be assigned, but such an argument runs a risk of circularity.

In 52–53 ἐπεκαλεσά|[μ]ην, silently corrected in PGM from ἐπικαλεσά[μ]ην of the first edition (to which Luijendijk [Citation2014, 430–431] and Jones revert), is the genuine reading of the papyrus. In 55–56 ὑπε|ναντίο̣ις. ἀμήν + is printed in the first edition (without comment). The line would be unusually short. In an archival photograph kept with the Egypt Exploration Society papyri in Oxford, the ink can be seen to continue in the center, though abraded, making a vacat (as the typesetting of the first edition suggests) unlikely. Rather, ο̣ο̣υ̣ can be made out between the two words, and the final letter of ἀμήν has been extended with a flourish to the right (as in ἦν in 15), which Hunt read as the crossbar of a staurogram. In PGM P 1 a staurogram likewise begins and an ἀμήν ends the text, without a following staurogram.

These observations yield the following text and translation:

Flee, detested spirit: Christ pursues you. The son of God and the holy spirit have forestalled you. God of the pool at the Sheep Gate, rescue (10) your servant Ioannia, whom Anastasia alias Euphemia bore, from every evil. In the beginning was the word, and the word was with God, and the word was God. All things were made through him, (20) and without him not even one thing was made that was made. Lord Christ, son and word of the living God, who has healed every sickness and every weakness, heal and watch over your servant (30) Ioannia too, whom Anastasia alias Euphemia bore, and pursue and make flee from her every fever and every kind of fever-chill, daily, tertian, quartan, and every evil, by the prayers and intercessions of our (40) lady the mother of God and the glorious archangels and the holy and glorious apostle and evangelist and theologian John, and the holy Serenus and the holy Philoxenus and the holy Victor and (50) the holy Justus, and all the holy ones. For I have called upon your name, lord God, which is wondrous and surpassingly glorious and fearsome to your enemies, amen.

7. PGM XLIII (KYP M776): Christian fever amulet
The text, from a papyrus of unknown provenance now in Vienna (P.Vind. inv. G 335), was mentioned in passing by C. Wessely in 1886, before his first edition in 1893, giving a fourth-century date that has yet to be modified; an improved version was included in PGM on the basis of a new collation by H. Gerstinger.Footnote31 Corrections to PGM were later published by F. Maltomini (Citation2018, 115). To the few more corrections offered below after autopsy (10 July 2015) may be added the observation that the papyrus has perhaps been re-used: traces of ink in the left and right margins, which cannot be explained as offsets, may belong to a washed-out predecessor to the amulet. Although the amulet was not included in the Christian section of PGM and has generally been absent from discussions of Christian amulets (e.g., the list of De Bruyn and Dijkstra [Citation2011]), the conjunction of Εμανουηλ among divine names with the symbol α ω (middle column, 6, 11, 13), noted in the apparatus to PGM but not printed in the text, sets this identification beyond doubt.

18–20 Σα[βαω]θ | ⸣λαπαπ̣α | [ ] PGM; line 18 can be read in full without loss of text as Μιχαηλ if the papyrus is turned upside-down. The following two lines seem to be no more than one, returned to the original orientation once again after a vertical vacat, for which another permutation of the α ω figure without the central cross seems the most likely.

25 (lower right) [δ]ιᾳφύλαξον PGM, reporting Gerstinger's reading of the papyrus as ⸣ιιᾳπϋλαξον; φύλαξον ed.pr. Rather ἀπάλαξον (l. ἀπάλλαξον): the first alpha is written unusually high, to avoid an area of damage to the papyrus at the beginning of the line. What had previously been read as trema are stray marks.

26–27 Θεονεί|λλα PGM; θεα|λλα ed.pr.; rather Θεῦνεί|λλα (compare Foraboschi Citation1967–1971, 138).

27 ῥίγους καὶ πυρετοῦ, ἤδη, ταχύ PGM, reporting the reading of the papyrus as ριτος και υπερετουσμ (…) ταχυμ (ριτοσηανταρετουσαιηδημαχιμ, ed.pr.); Maltomini pointed out that at least one complete ταχύ can be read, and preferred ῥίγος for what was previously read ριτος. Inspection of the original supports {ρ̣ιγοπ̣υ} ῥ̣ιγοπυρέτου ἤ̣δ̣η ἤδη ταχὺ ταχύ: a copying error due to a skip of the eye suggests the use of a written exemplar or formulary. The upsilon in πυρετ- is unusually formed: only the left half of the three-stroke form (Y) is present, then a horizontal stroke unconnected to it leads into the following letter, but this reading seems preferable to epsilon. The first ἤδη is obscured by blotting and the second ταχύ somewhat faded but clear under a microscope.

The following text and translation, synthesizing these observations with the corrections of Maltomini, may be offered. The line-numbering of PGM is maintained for convenience.

8. PGM P 10 (KYP M431): Christian exorcistic amulet
This amulet, from Byzantine Arsinoe-Crocodilopolis, now in Vienna (P.Vind. inv. G 337), was first published by C. Wessely (Citation1893, 65–67), and although the new collation again by H. Gerstinger for PGM introduced some improvements, scribal features were generally ignored, above all nomina sacra, for which the diplomatic transcription of Wessely remains the best account. The central exorcism holds considerable interest for the history of demonology and apocryphal traditions of celestial topography, which remains to be exploited;Footnote32 in the absence of a much-needed new edition, F. Maltomini has offered corrections (Citation2018, 121), to which a few more can be added here after autopsy (10 July 2015), following some observations on the physical disposition.

The back, otherwise blank, shows traces of a washed-out text, and a so far unique application of strips of papyrus in a chiastic figure with a horizontal strip intersecting the center (). The strips might initially suggest ancient reinforcement of the substrate,Footnote33 but the folding pattern – fold-lines visible in lines 11, between 22 and 23, and in 34 suggest folding from top to bottom – would have situated it in just the right place to appear on the outside of the folded packet. Hence it would have offered a fibrous counterpart to the paratextual addition of cruciform symbols to Christian texts.

Before 1 and 1 [ὁρκίζω ὑμᾶς κατὰ τῶν τεσσάρων εὐ|αγγ]ελίων PGM ([ ]ελιων ed.pr.), but the interlinear space would be too large for anything to be missing at the top. The folding pattern and the cruciform fibers added on the back suggest that the first preserved line was the first line on the original. The second preserved letter of 1 resembles no other lambda in the text, and a small trace of another letter after the break can now be read via microscopy, which is consistent with the lower right vertex of delta but cannot be reconciled with gamma. Thus the first line most likely began [ἐκ] δ̣ξιῶν τοῦ υἱοῦ̣ [φεῦγε ῥῖγος τρι-], only one letter longer than the securely restored lines 4–5; the allusion to biblical passages like Matthew 20:21 would situate the patient in a blessed spot of privilege at Christ's right hand, from which the fever-demons are banned.

2 τεταρτε͂ον ἢ .[. The trace was omitted by edd.; κ̣[αθημερινόν] (see §2 above) and ἀ̣[μφημερινόν] (§6) are possible.

3]διδων is thus far unexplained. A participle δίδων seems out of place; I have considered [παν]διδῶν for παντοειδῶν (cf. χρυσίδην for χρυσίτην in 18), agreeing with the following πυρετῶν, but this solution seems hazardous where the text is broken.

4–5 ἀπὸ τ[οῦ δεῖνα, φοροῦντος | τὸ θεοφυ]λακτόν PGM; for space rather ἀπὸ τ[οῦ φοροῦντος | τὸ φυ]λακτόν. There are also better parallels for φυλακτόν as synonym for φυλακτήριον (see in general Lampe Citation1961, 1492 and LBG 1962): it appears in recipes for amulets in a late Byzantine codex (Bologna, Biblioteca Universitaria, 3632, fols. 7v [Zellmann-Rohrer Citation2022b, 1119], 282v and 357r [Delatte Citation1927, 573, 600]), to which an unpublished recipe in the same codex can be added: fol. 280v φυλακτὸν παιδίου, ἵνα βαστᾷ̣ (followed by magical signs). A golden amulet is described by this term in a sixth-century list on papyrus probably of items in a dowry (SB XVI 12940.7, φυλακτὸν χρ[υσοῦν]), and φυλακτογράφος designates a producer of such objects (LBG 1962).

6 θεός PGM; rather θ(εό)ς as θ̄c̄ pap. An overline also marks the following ïστρ̄ᾱ̣ηλ, apparently as a non-Greek word; but the name is not contracted here as a nomen sacrum.

7 ἄνθρωποι PGM; rather ἄν(θρωπ)οι as ᾱ̄νοι pap.

7–8 δ[εδίασι καὶ πᾶν] | πνεῦμα φρίττον PGM (φριττει ed.pr.); rather δ[εδίασι καὶ | τὰ] πν(εύματ)α φρίττου, with another neglected nomen sacrum (πν̄ᾱ̄ pap.: compare 35 below), which suits the space better, and φρίττου for φρίττουσι perhaps by way of φρίττουν, anticipating the medieval vernacular form of the third-person plural.

9 ὄνομα σμ[PGM, with 〈Ἀ〉σμ[όδιος] proposed in the commentary. That demon's name could also have been Ἀσμοδαῖος, but Σμάραγος "Smasher", among the daemonic enemies of the potter's kiln (Suda ω 251 = Hes. fr. 302.9), a fitting analogue to fever, deserves consideration too.

10 [...]οραν καὶ φοραν[is also so far unexplained. A sensible pairing of opposites would be (δια)φθ]οράν καὶ φοράν, with the latter in its sense "bearing" connoting fertility. Precise parallels are lacking, but an astrological forecast in CCAG IV 155 is broadly comparable: τῶν ζῴων ἔσται φθορά … σίτου ἐλαχίστη φορά, ἐλαίου εὐφορία. Does the demon perhaps bring on destruction (φθορά) and harm fertility (φορά)?

11–12. Parallels remain to be found for the frog-headed, wolf-footed demon. Demonic spirits in the form of frogs appear in the New Testament (Revelation 16:13), and the Graeco-Egyptian astrological tradition features hybrid decans and similar celestial deities: a catalogue in P.Oxy. III 465 includes a human figure with vulture- and snake-faces and lion's feet (Nebu: i 12–20) and another with human body, lion's face, and crocodile's tail (v 15–21).

12–13 κε[φαλὴν ....] PGM. The recurrence of ὁρκίζω in 19 suggests against reading [ἐξ]|ορκίζω into the following line; probably rather κε[φαλήν· ὅτι], a common transitional device between the enumeration or command of demonic entities and their adjuration: e.g., PGM IV 395–396, κατάδησον τὴν δεῖνα (…) ὅτι ὁρκίζω σε, νεκυδαῖμον.

13–19. Preisendanz compares an originally Mesopotamian sequence of colors for the seven planets linked to metals, with reference to a discussion by Pradel (Citation1907, 82–83); add now Lumpe and Bietenhard (Citation1991, 178–179). Hopfner (Citation1921, 155 §613) connects the passage with the description in Herodotus (1.98) of the seven-colored walls of Ecbatana, supposed to represent the seven planets. These colors, however, fail to match the Vienna papyrus, and the emphasis in the latter is on the materials, not their color: note especially ἐλεφάντινος "ivory" in place of λευκός "white", ἀδαμάντινος "adamant" without any direct color reference, and μαλακηκτός "mallow-colored stone" (for μολοχιτικός(?), from μολοχῖτις [Pliny, NH 37.114], with the same vocalic interchange as found in μολόχη/μαλάχη "mallow"). There is a heavenly topographic system that gives a closer result, as it includes primarily precious metals and gems: the Arabic treatise Al-miʿrağ ("The Ascent": Cerulli Citation1949) describes the progress of the prophet Muhammad, guided by the angel Gabriel, through eight heavens, iron, bronze, silver, gold, pearl, emerald, ruby, and topaz respectively. If an older origin is wanted, it would be better to look to the doctrine espoused by Celsus (and attributed by him to a Persian, Mithraic one) according to Origen (Contra Celsum 6.22): a heavenly ladder with seven gates, each of a different metal (lead, tin, bronze, iron, alloy, silver, gold), symbolizing one of the planets (Saturn, Venus, Jupiter, Mercury, Mars, Moon, and Sun respectively), with an eighth gate beyond.

14 οὐρανοῦ PGM; rather οὐ(ρα)νοῦ, as $\overline{\text{ουνου}}$ pap.

19 [ὑμᾶς] PGM; there is a trace of ink before the break consistent with ὑ[μᾶς].

20 πνεύματα τὸν κύριον PGM; rather πν(εύματ)α τὸν κ(ύριο)ν as $\overline{\text{πνα}}$ and $\overline{\text{κν}}$ pap., this time acknowledged in the apparatus.

30 ἄνθρωπον PGM; rather ἄν(θρωπ)ον as $\overline{\text{ανον}}$ pap.

30–31 μὴ [ἐν ὕδατι κακ]|όν PGM, but the disposition of the following lines (esp. 34–35 ὁρκί|ζω) shows that the right edge of the papyrus is nearly intact, with loss of a single letter at most and enough of a right margin preserved in 30 to suggest it ended with μή, as in the first edition. The articulation ὅν at the beginning of the next line then becomes inevitable and the syntax intolerable; probably a longer sequence of negations in μή has fallen out in the copying (not on the papyrus) after ἐν πυρί (as already suspected by ed.pr.), including but not limited to ἐν ὕδατι as in PGM, and culminating in, e.g., “not anything contrary to the oath that you will make” (⟨ … μή τι ἐναντίον τῷδε⟩ ὃν ποιήσεται τῷ ὅρκῳ) or simply “not to do anything contrary to the oath” (⟨ … μή τι ἐναντί⟩ον ποιήσεται τῷ ὅρκῳ). The mistake may have resulted from a skip of the eye in copying (πυρί … ἐναντί-).

33 κυρίου PGM; rather κ(υρίο)υ as κ͞υ pap.

34 ἀνθρώπους PGM; rather ἀν(θρώπ)ους as ανο͞υς pap.

35 πνεύματα PGM; rather πν(εύματ)α as πν͞α pap.

37 ἄνθρωπον PGM; rather ἄν(θρωπ)ον as αν͞ον pap.

ἔκθαμβ[ον] PGM (similarly ed.pr.). The papyrus is nearly complete at right, and the left part of o is clear, so too the left end of an overstroke for ν, as in line 19 ελεφαντινο͞ν: here ἔκθαμβο(ν).

38–39 ἀλλοι|ωσείνη (l. ἀλλοι|ωσύνην) PGM; rather ἀλλοί|ωσειν (l. ἄλλοιωσιν) {ἤ}, the copyist having anticipated the conjunction after the following φρενῶν. There are no other attestations for ἀλλοιωσύνη, and the nexus ἀλλοίωσις (τῶν) φρενῶν is found in Byzantine authors (e.g., Theodorus Studites, Ep. 520); in a demonological context, a decan in the Testament of Solomon admits to “stealing away the wits and deranging the heart” (φρένας ἀποκλέπτω καὶ καρδίας ἀλλοιῶ, 18.30).

41 πατέρα κα[ὶ υἱό]ν PGM; rather π(ατέ)ρα καὶ ὑ(ἱό)ν as πρ͞α and ὑν̄ pap., and as Anastasia Maravela points out, space also favors an abbreviated [πν(εῦμ)α] at the end of the line.

45–46 κ[αὶ ἁγίους | ὅρκ]ους PGM. Before the break in 45, there is further ink after κ. The most likely reading for this curved trace is αι in ligature as κ, although the form is somewhat different from the preceding writings of καί in 41 and 42. There is a further trace of ink to the left of -ους in 46, and the gap before that is too large in turn for [ὅρ]κους, making [τού]τους a better fit, before which [ὅρκους] will have ended the following line, where, to judge from previous lines, the reconstruction of PGM is again too short. The sequence could still conceivably have run κ(αὶ) [ἁγίους ὅρκους | τού]τους, but [μεγάλους ὅρκους] also deserves consideration as the nexus φοβερὸς καὶ μέγας with ὅρκος is attested (Alexander Romance recension F, 48.8), whereas φοβερὸς καὶ ἅγιος is not.

46 κύριος Ἰησοῦς PGM; rather κ(ύριο)ς Ἰ(ησοῦ)ς as pap.

[κελεύει …] is printed at the end of the line in PGM (following ed.pr.). There is one more trace before the break that does not suit κ[ελεύει], nor ἐ[πιτιμᾷ], ἐ[πιτάσσει], or ⲡ̣[ροστάσσει] (compare line 5 above). The claim ⲇ̣[ιώκει ὑμᾶς] would suit the context, an application of a motif common in apotropaic incantations and related texts in which a command to flee (as probably [φεῦγε] here in 1) is motivated by a claim of pursuit by a higher power: see §6 above. The line-end would thus coincide with a complete thought, which does not however guarantee that the papyrus is complete at the foot. The trace also allows the expected ⲓ̀(ησοῦ)ς Ⲭ̣[(ριστό)ς] before the verb, but there is no trace of the left terminus of an overline for before the break.

The following text and translation combine the corrections proposed here with those of Maltomini; the line numbers in PGM are one higher in each case through the assumption there of a lost first line (see above). Other minor divergences are noted in the apparatus.

On the right (?) of the Son, flee, fever, tertian or quartan or … of all kinds (?) of fevers … withdraw from the bearer of this amulet, for the God of Israel commands you, whom angels bless and humans fear and spirits tremble at – and so too the demon whose name (is?) Sm[… (?)] … wasting and bearing (?) … which has feet of a wolf and a frog's head – for I adjure it by the circles of heaven, the first […], the second of hyacinth(-colored stone), the third of adamant, the fourth of mallow(-colored stone), the fifth […], the sixth of gold, the seventh of ivory. I adjure you, unclean spirits, by our Lord [Jesus Christ?] not to injure the bearer of these adjurations, to withdraw from him, not to hide in this ground, not to wind your way under a bed, under a window, under a door, under (floor-)beams, under furniture, at the bottom of a pit. I adjure you, all that swore before Solomon, that you not injure a human, not in fire, not in ⟨ … nothing contrary to?⟩ the oath that you will make, fearing the amen and the hallelujah and the gospel of the Lord, who suffered on account of us humans. Now too I adjure all the spirits that there are, either crying or laughing fearsomely or giving humans bad dreams or terrible frights or causing blindness or derangement or beguiling of the wits, both in sleep and outside sleep. I adjure them by the father and the son and the holy spirit and the holy angels who stand in front of the glory of the Lord to withdraw from the bearer of these fearsome and [great(?)] oaths, for the lord Jesus [pursues you(?)]

2 For panels with such tabs compare, e.g., the model coffin British Museum EA65372 (Thebes, 18th Dynasty; image: https://www.britishmuseum.org/collection/object/Y_EA65372_1); and for the corresponding notches to receive them, e.g., the coffin-fragment British Museum EA46665 (Zitman Citation2010, 2:131, 216; image: https://www.britishmuseum.org/collection/object/Y_EA46665).

3 The translation follows Horsley (New Docs. II 13); in Suppl.Mag. it is pointed out that a month-date is also possible, but no month name is included, and the age of the addressee has been focalized in ἄωορος (20).

4 “With the assistance of” on the title page; “these papyri were studied by Dr. E. J. Goodspeed, who deciphered part of those here edited and is associated with us in their publication; to him we also owe the bulk of the indices” (P.Tebt. II preface p. v). For Goodspeed’s career and his involvement with Grenfell and Hunt and P.Tebt. II, see Hickey and Keenan (Citation2021); Todd Hickey is thanked for the reference to Goodspeed’s account of his work on the amulet.

6 On l. 21 in reference to the parallel in BGU III 956: “we prefer [Wilcken’s] original reading ἤτοι to his emendation ἢ τοῦ”; see further the preface (P.Tebt. II p. v), “the summer of 1906, when we largely extended and altered the commentary”.

7 Goodspeed describes receiving the papyri from Hunt “all fixed up in nice shape between sheets of papers, numbered and straightened out”: “Student Travel Letters vol. 2” (see n. 5 above), letter of 12 June (continuation of 11 June).

8 For an overview of the contents of the temple’s library, see Ryholt (Citation2017).

9 If a human author and not the god Horus (compare the attributions of Greek magical texts to Hermes among the papyri, e.g., Suppl.Mag. II 72 [GEMF 4]), perhaps the Egyptian Horus of Mendes cited by Aetius of Amida (Iatrica 15.27; probably the same man is called simply Horus, ibid. 7.35, 101).

10 On von Bok, see Bierbrier (Citation2012, 66). During this second of his two missions for the Hermitage (the first in 1888–1889), whose focus was Coptic art, he also excavated in Middle Egypt (Sohag, Assiut).

11 See also De Bruyn and Dijkstra (Citation2011, 188–189 no. 35). There is also an English translation based on the text of PGM in Meyer and Smith (Citation1994, 50–51 no. 27).

An incantation against “magic” includes a narrative motif in which John the Baptist and the twelve apostles confound seven witches (μάγισσες) whose activities include, in their own words, “stepping-overs” (διασκελίσματα) among other rituals (μάγια καὶ κομποδέματα, ἀντίμαγα, φάρμακα): Athens, National Historical Museum, Archive of Historical Documents, 210, fols. 68r–71r (Delatte Citation1927, 120–122).

19 Diana Yount of the Andover Newton Theological Seminary is thanked for supplying images while the papyrus was still kept there; it is now in the Library of the Yale Divinity School under call-number RG 305.

20 From a facsimile provided by the British Library, where the piece is now kept (Papyrus 1189), the reading ˛ηρλς' seems preferable to ˛βρλς' as in the first edition.

21 For the processing numbers, which remain to be studied in detail, see Zellmann-Rohrer (Citation2018b, 197–198).

22 P.Oxy. VII p. [v]: “The great majority” of the papyri in the volume are from this season, with “a few” from the previous two, and “one or two in the non-literary section” from the first season.

23 P.Oxy. VIII p. [v]: 1082–1083 and 1091–1092 are said to come from the 1905/6 season.

24 Also taking account of a correction proposed by Hagedorn (Citation2003, 226) in lines 38–39. Hunt’s translation is also reprinted in Milligan (Citation1922, 150), and a revised version appears in Meyer and Smith (Citation1994, 40–41 no. 16). Wessely (Citation1924, 193–196) (417–420) gives a French translation and commentary. The text is included in the checklist of de Bruyn and Dijkstra (Citation2011, 186–187 no. 21), and is mistakenly adduced among “Parallel attestations of the Lord’s Prayer (Matt. 6.9–13)” in La’da and Papathomas (Citation2004, 111–112). An image of the papyrus can be found at: https://www.gla.ac.uk/myglasgow/library/files/special/images/papyrus/0012rwf.jpg (last accessed 16 January 2025).

26 Munich, BSB, clm 7021, fol. 158v (Schönbach Citation1893, 29–30 with Zellmann-Rohrer Citation2025, 259): timete, siluas non tangite, fugite, fugam non tendite. Abraham uos detineat, Isaac uos detineat, Iacob in tectum uos perducat amen. Abraham uos sequatur, Ioseph te preueniat.

27 Paris, Bibliothèque nationale de France, gr. 2316, fol. 369r (Oikonomou-Agorastou 1982, 90 no. 248), Ἀβραάμ σε διώκει, Ἰσαάκ σε ὑποστρέφει, Ἰακώβ σε καταλιμπάνει, καὶ ἄγγελος κυρίου ὑποστρέφει σε ὅθεν κακῶς ἐξῆλθες. For another version in a fifteenth-century manuscript, see Vassiliev (Citation1893, 341) and Delatte (Citation1927, 626).

28 For a summary of the rules, see Maas and Trypanis (Citation1963, 512), and for the historical development, Lauxtermann (Citation1999).

29 See, e.g., Dewing (Citation1910, 418). An auxiliary accent is also posited for accentual rhythm in Latin verse: Wilkinson (Citation1963, 90 n. and 107–109).

30 Various features resonate with those inventoried in the dated but still useful study of Heim (Citation1893, 544–547) as characteristic of ancient Greek incantations: balanced clauses, isocola reinforced by anaphora and assonance, homoioteleuton, and alliteration.

31 Wessely (Citation1886, 187; 1893, 70–71); English translation based on PGM: J. Scarborough in Betz (Citation1986, 281). For discussion of the diminishing figure of the palindrome, see Faraone (Citation2012, 23–24). An image is available at: http://data.onb.ac.at/rec/RZ00002489.

32 The address to the demons, and the invocation of the creator god as an example of Jewish influence on Christian exorcisms, are briefly mentioned in Bartsch (Citation1967, 56 and 62 respectively). There is an English translation by M. Meyer in Meyer and Smith (Citation1994, 44–45 no. 20); the text is listed in de Bruyn and Dijkstra (Citation2011, 188–189 no. 27). A more popular interest is reflected by selection for two public exhibitions, with catalogue entries by H. Förster in Henner, Förster, and Horak (Citation1999, 47 no. 36); similarly Ernst (Citation1996, 46–47 no. 20). For an image of the front (only), see http://data.onb.ac.at/rec/RZ00010485.

The Taylor-Schechter Cairo Genizah Collection at Cambridge University Library is the world's largest and most important single collection of medieval Jewish manuscripts. For a thousand years, the Jewish community of Fustat (Old Cairo), placed their worn-out books and other writings in a storeroom (genizah) of the Ben Ezra Synagogue, and in 1896–97 the Cambridge scholar, Dr Solomon Schechter, with financial help from the Master of St John’s College, Charles Taylor, arrived to examine it. He received permission from the Jewish community of Egypt to take away what he liked (explaining later, ‘I liked all’), and he brought 193,000 manuscripts back to Cambridge, where they form the Taylor-Schechter Cairo Genizah Collection.

The storeroom where the manuscripts were stored by the community of Fustat was a genizah, a sacred storeroom. According to rabbinic law (see, for instance, Mishna Shabbat 16:1), once a holy book can no longer be used (because it is too old, or because its text is no longer relevant) it cannot be destroyed or casually discarded: texts containing the name of God should be buried or, if burial is not possible, placed in a genizah.

At least from the early 11th century, the Jews of Fusṭāṭ, one of the most important and richest Jewish communities of the Mediterranean world, reverently placed their old texts in the Genizah. Remarkably, however, they placed not only the expected religious works, such as Bibles, prayer books and compendia of Jewish law, but also what we would regard as secular works and everyday documents: shopping lists, marriage contracts, divorce deeds, pages from Arabic fables, works of Sufi and Shi'ite philosophy, medical books, magical amulets, business letters and accounts, and hundreds of letters: examples of practically every kind of written text produced by the Jewish communities of the Near East can now be found in the Genizah Collection, and it presents an unparalleled insight into the medieval Jewish world.

Alongside the T-S Collection, Cambridge University Library is also now the home of the Jacques Mosseri Genizah Collection. Assembled by the successful Cairene businessman, Jacques (Jack) Mosseri in the first decade of the twentieth century, these manuscripts were intended to remain in Egypt as part of the Jewish community's cultural heritage. However, after Mosseri's premature death in 1934 and his family's subsequent departure from Egypt, his eponymous collection disappeared from scholarly view until the 1970s, when it was microfilmed by a team from the Jewish National and University Library. Following discussions with members of the Mosseri family, in 2006 this 7000-fragment collection came to Cambridge University Library on a 20-year loan, where it is being conserved and digitised.

At the moment, over 33,000 manuscripts from across the Taylor-Schechter, CUL Or. and Jacques Mosseri Collections are available online. More manuscripts are being added on a regular basis.

The Genizah Research Unit at Cambridge University Library is responsible for the curation, digitisation and description of the Genizah Collection.

The digitisation of the Taylor-Schechter Cairo Genizah Collection has been sponsored by the Jewish Manuscript Preservation Society, the Friedberg Family of Toronto, and the Arts and Humanities Research Council, UK. Completion of the digitisation of the Taylor-Schechter Cairo Genizah Collection has been made possible through the generous support of Dr Miri Freud-Kandel and Jonathan Kandel.

Abstract
Since the first magic bowl text in Jewish Aramaic was edited by Thomas Ellis in 1859 there have only been just over 100 such texts published. Among the most significant contributors were James A. Montgomery, Cyrus Gordon, Edwin Yamauchi, Markham J. Geller, joined more recently by Tapani Harviainen, Christa Muller-Kessler as well as Joseph Naveh and Shaul Shaked. This dissertation includes text editions with critical apparatus for twenty hitherto unpublished magic bowl texts in Jewish Aramaic. The commentary contains philological analyses and comparison with other published and unpublished bowls, Jewish amulets from Late Antiquity, magical Geniza material, classic Jewish sources up to the medieval period, Hekhalot, and Jewish liturgy. Special features and differences between duplicate texts are discussed. A comprehensive glossary, lists of names, and photographs of the bowls are provided. The introduction includes a description of the bowls, a review of the main grammatical features of the Jewish Aramaic dialect of the bowls, a discussion of some other sources with which these texts share material and motifs and an analyses of the importance of duplicate texts. The limited number of bowl texts which are available for study means that many of the problems which have risen in the process of editing have remained unsolved. This new corpus includes a wide spectrum of material including rare curse texts, legal as well as liturgical formula, new lexical material and parallels to previously published texts which allow corrections and in some cases new readings. The occasional employment of other contemporary dialect forms as well as non-Jewish motifs expose the world of magical practice in Late Antiquity to have been fertile ground for cross cultural exchanges.

DAN LEVENE, Jewish Aramaic Curse Texts from Late-Antique Mesopotamia: "May These Curses Go Out and Flee" (Magical and Religious Literature of Late Antiquity 2). Brill, Leiden 2013. Pp. xiv + 164. Price: €98.00 hardback. ISBN: 978-90-04-25092-5.

The present volume is the author's second monograph on the subject of the Aramaic incantation texts from Late Antique Mesopotamia inscribed upon terracotta bowls,[1] and the very first volume by any scholar on a specific sub-genre within those texts: curse texts or aggressive incantations, which stand out from a genre (namely, bowl magic) that is otherwise defensive.[2] Levene has assembled 30 exemplars of this sub-genre, including 12 from the Vorderasiatisches Museum in Berlin and the Samir Abu Dehays Collection that had never been published before, and an additional two from the Vorderasiatisches Museum that had been published in the late nineteenth century but for which Levene was able to dramatically improve upon the original readings and translations. These new texts are undoubtedly the most exciting thing about this offering, but scholars will also benefit from his improved readings of the sixteen other texts that have been assembled in this volume. The volume concludes with a bibliography of relevant literature, a synopsis of seven formulae that are characteristic of these aggressive incantations, glossaries of vocabulary and different classes of proper nouns, and an index of seventeen biblical quotations found within this corpus.

Each publication of such texts brings with it a wealth of new data, and the potential for disagreement over their interpretation. The language of these incantation texts differs from that of the classical texts, and they present their own challenges to interpretation that reflect their independence from those texts. Even some of the most common terms encountered in the bowl corpus are problematic cruces, and in some cases Levene has supplied idiosyncratic translations without further commentary (although in fn. 31 on p. 8 he suggests that he might take up the thorny question of terminology again in a future publication). This is the case, for example, with the common terms rāzā 'secret; mystery,' which he regularly glosses as 'spell,' millaṯā 'word,' which he glosses as 'incantation', and the problematic term disqā, which Segal[3] derives from Greek δίσκος, Müller-Kessler[4] considers to be a corruption of dastabīrā 'written deterrent' based on the parallels,[5] and which Levene glosses simply as 'document.'

[1] The first is D. Levene, A Corpus of Magic Bowls: Incantation Texts in Jewish Aramaic from Late Antiquity (London and New York 2003).

Bhayro, Aramaic Bowl Spells — Jewish Babylonian Aramaic Bowls — Volume One (Magical and Religious Literature of Late Antiquity 1, Leiden, 2013). The presentation of the data is thorough, professional, and succinct. Only two minor omissions detract from the utility of the publication, namely the lack of references to the provenance and script of the bowls.

The vast majority of the published corpus of incantation texts was acquired through purchases from antiquities dealers and therefore lacks any clear provenance. The texts published in this volume are no different in this regard. Of the bowls published for the very first time in this volume, those from the Vorderasiatisches Museum were acquired from a Baghdad dealer in 1886, and one is from the personal collection of Jordanian financier Samir Abu Dehays. The six bowls from the British Museum collection are also of unknown provenance. Bowls N&SH 6 and 7, originally published by Joseph Naveh and Shaul Shaked and currently in the Israel Museum, both come from the personal collection of an Iranian businessman, Mr Alqanayan.[6] Bowl N&SH 9, likewise from the collection of an unnamed private collector, was in the possession of Victor Barakat at the time of its original publication. Mr Barakat attributed it to 'the Bethany area in the vicinity of Jerusalem', a provenance which the two scholars regarded with scepticism.[7] N&SH 21 comes from another private collection, the Einhorn Collection in Tel Aviv, as does N&SH 23, from the Alexander L. Wolfe Collection in Jerusalem.[8] The one bowl from the Royal Ontario Museum, 907.1.1, was originally published without any indication of provenance,[9] and the final bowl, Yale Babylonian Collection 2393, was acquired for that collection by Albert Clay and allegedly comes from Nippur.[10] Thus, of this entire collection of texts, only two have vague provenances, of which one is extremely dubious.

Therefore, the author can be certainly excused for omitting any information about the provenance of these bowls, as there is not much to say in that regard. Unfortunately, the lack of any provenance makes the inclusion of a script chart all the more critical. Without knowing the precise geographic origins of the bowls, or the likely time periods during which the bowls were deposited, deduced from the stratigraphic context within which they would have been recovered under the controlled conditions of a proper archaeological excavation, the only way that we can recover this crucial information is by establishing a typology of the script used in the bowls and classifying them through reference to the script of those bowls that have been recovered from archaeological excavations. James A. Montgomery encouraged this as a best practice in his publication of the Aramaic incantation texts from Nippur,[11] but he has admittedly seldom been followed in this regard. For these reasons, I have drafted a script chart of the newly published texts in this collection.

Table 1. Comparison of Scripts

Inadvertently demonstrating the utility of such a chart, Levene draws attention to the script of the bowls at several points throughout his work, such as when he notes the similarity between the hands of two incantations in the British Museum on p. 10, and the peculiarity of the script of VA 2417 on p. 90. For the non-specialist, it is extremely useful to have examples of the letter forms organized in one place to illustrate these claims.

The latter text, VA 2417, stands out even against the unusual backdrop composed by these texts. He draws our attention to what he considers several Mandaeisms in the language of the bowl, such as 'əlāḵ for 'ălāḵ 'to/for you' (passim) and 'apārā for 'apārā 'dust' (l. 8). In his translation, he glosses (l. 7) the name <'ḤWRBH> as 'at/on the ruin' and the accompanying epithet <'WTR'> as 'place', but in light of the other Mandaeisms in the text it might be possible to analyse the name as a compound along the same lines as Mandaic iurba Yurbā, 'the great Yāhû/Iao' who is identified with the supreme deity of the Jews in the Mandaean Book of John. Hence 'Aḥūrbāl'Aḥū rabbā would mean something like 'Big Brother', and his epithet could be cognate with Mandaic eutra 'uṯrā 'excellency.' I would also like to suggest that the words that follow be read, ʾuṯrā də-Samqī 'the excellency of Samqi'[12] w-ʾuṯra d-ileḏ ʾaḥdī 'and the excellency who brought joy to a child' (or possibly even yalḏ[ī] 'children.')

Downloaded from https://academic.oup.com/jss/article-abstract/61/2/537/2563578 by guest on 18 June 2020

This text is also noteworthy for the reappearance (in l. 5) of the genius 'Abīṭūr, who first appeared in a bowl excavated by Layard at Tell Amran ibn Ali, BM 91710, the very first of the incantation bowls to attract scholarly attention.[13] In his edition of the British Museum's collection, Segal identifies this being with the Mandaean 'Third Life,' abatur ʾAḇāṭūr, albeit without merit. To my knowledge, this being appears nowhere else within the corpus, so his reappearance here is certainly welcome, as it provides an additional clue to a central Mesopotamian provenance. The incantation itself, for raising a pack of 'zombies' to invade a victim's home, consume all the food and beverages, and generally raise mayhem, is also unique within the corpus of incantation texts.

It would be difficult to improve upon Levene's fine readings, which are cautious and well-substantiated. For this last text, VA 2417, I might only tender the following alternative suggestions:

l. 7	yleḏ ʾaḥdī	'he delighted a child'	for	ṣad ʾərāḏī	'hunting wild asses'
l. 9	kursēhon	'their thrones'	for	kursēḵon	'your thrones'
l. 10	ʾuḏnā	'ear'	for	ʾīḏ{ḏ}ā	'hand (?)'

In closing, this volume serves as a useful reference for researchers interested specifically in curse texts, but daunted by the prospect of rummaging through the disconnected and at times contradictory scholarship that has accumulated over the course of over a century and a half on the thousand or so bowl texts that have thus far been uncovered, searching for the few that are directly relevant to their interests.[14] Levene should be commended for bringing these texts to scholarly attention and making them accessible to a broader audience.

CHARLES G. HÄBERL
RUTGERS, THE STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW JERSEY

[12] Wohlstein ('Ueber einige aramäische Inschriften auf Thongefassen des Königlichen Museums zu Berlin', Zeitschrift für Assyriologie 9 (1894), 11–41 (41)) identifies Samqi as a Babylonian place name, citing a swamp of that name mentioned in Tractate Yebamoth, ch. 16.4, 121a ('Once a man drowned in the swamp of Samqi (ʾāḡmā də-Samqī), and Rav Shela permitted his wife to marry again'). In this he is followed by Montgomery, Aramaic Incantation Texts, 296. The description of Samqi as a 'swamp' and the reference to Rav Shela likely place it somewhere in the vicinity of Nehardea. Drower (Mandaeans of Iraq and Iran [Oxford, 1937], 94–5) hypothesizes that the ʾuṯrī were originally 'originally life-spirits bringing fertility and wealth in the shape of rain and springs', which would certainly be consonant with this identification.

[13] Segal, Catalogue, 55.

[14] The first such texts were published in A.H. Layard, Discoveries in the Ruins of Nineveh and Babylon (London 1853), 434–48, 150 years prior to the publication of this volume. Since that point, there has been a nearly continuous stream of publications on the corpus. The interpretation of these texts has been the occasion for a not inconsiderable amount of polemic between the scholars engaged in this task, which further complicates the efforts of non-specialists to make sense of the corpus and apply it to their own research.

Preface

This book contains the select proceedings of a panel that never happened. Originally conceived by Marco Moriggi, we convened the panel Syriaca Magica as part of the XIII Symposium Syriacum, which was to be held in Paris in the July of 2020. Because of the global COVID pandemic, and the accompanying uncertainty, we decided to press ahead with plans to publish the papers ahead of any future meeting. Still, we are grateful to the Société d'études syriaques for its assistance, and in particular to Françoise Briquel Chatonnet, Alain Desreumaux, Muriel Debié, Margherita Farina, and Flavia Ruani. We are also grateful to James Nathan Ford for his assistance, particularly with the preparation of the chapter by Gaby Abousamra, and to the staff at the publisher, E.J. Brill, for their patience and professionalism, particularly Katelyn Chin and Erika Mandarino. We would also like to express our thanks for the research funds received by Moriggi, which were provided by the 2020/21 PIACERI research support program at the Università di Catania—Dipartimento di Scienze Umanistiche (S.WART Project, director Professor Dr Stefano Rapisarda). Finally, we thank our loved ones for their continued support: Marco thanks his wife, Maria Teresa, and his daughter, Lea, for the hectic and vibrant life they share together, and Siam thanks his wife, Anne, for her grammatical exactitude and inexplicable love.

Notes on Contributors

Gaby Abousamra
(PhD 2002, École Pratique des Hautes Études, Sorbonne, Paris) is Professor of Epigraphy and Ancient Semitic Languages in the Department of Archaeology, Lebanese University (Beirut). His research interests include Phoenician, Aramaic, Hebrew, Syriac, and Arabic inscriptions.

Ohad Abudraham
(PhD 2017, Ben-Gurion University of the Negev) is a Postdoctoral Fellow in Hebrew and Semitic Languages at Tel Aviv University. His research interests include Aramaic dialectology, Hebrew and Aramaic epigraphy, and Jewish magic.

Siam Bhayro
(PhD 2000, University College London) is Associate Professor in Early Jewish Studies at the University of Exeter. His research interests include the Bible, Semitic languages, medicine in the Christian and Islamic orient, and Jewish magic.

David Calabro
(PhD 2014, The University of Chicago) is Curator of Eastern Christian Manuscripts at the Hill Museum and Manuscript Library in Collegeville, Minnesota. His research focuses on the intersection of language and culture in the Near East, including topics such as nonverbal communication, sacred space, ritual, and magic.

Nils H. Korsvoll
(PhD 2017, MF Norwegian School of Theology) is Associate Professor in Religious Studies at the University of Agder (Kristiansand, Norway). His research interests include magic and ritual practice in Late Antiquity, material culture, provenance and critical theory, popular religion, and religious education. He teaches broadly within religious studies and religious education, and is a member of the Young Academy of Norway.

Matthew Morgenstern
(PhD 2002, The Hebrew University of Jerusalem) is Professor in Hebrew and Semitic Languages at Tel Aviv University. His research interests include the grammar and lexicography of Eastern Aramaic, and the Hebrew and Aramaic of the Dead Sea Scrolls.

Marco Moriggi
(PhD 2003, Università di Firenze) is Associate Professor in Semitic Philology at the Università di Catania, Honorary Senior Research Fellow at the University of Exeter, and Honorary Research Fellow at Birkbeck, University of London. His research interests include Syriac incantation bowls, Syriac language, Aramaic epigraphy in late antique Mesopotamia and the Gulf, and Aramaic dialectology. His latest title with Brill (together with Ilaria Bucci) is Aramaic Graffiti from Hatra: A Study based on the Archive of the Missione Archeologica Italiana (2019).

Abigail Pearson
(PhD 2021, University of Exeter) researches the transmission of technical lore from Antiquity to the Middle Ages. Her doctoral thesis examined the extent to which we can trace a continuous Syriac magic tradition from Late Antiquity to the present day, exploring the circumstances that encouraged or necessitated innovations to Syriac magic texts and practices over time. She is also interested in the application of Digital Humanities technologies to Syriac studies, and has helped to develop handwritten text recognition models that can automatically transcribe Syriac manuscripts.

Michael Zellmann-Rohrer
(PhD 2016, University of California, Berkeley) is a researcher in the Institut für Wissensgeschichte des Altertums at the Freie Universität, Berlin. He is a member of the project ZODIAC on the history of zodiacal astrology, an editor of the Lexicon of Greek Personal Names, and an associate editor of the Supplementum Epigraphicum Graecum, with further research interests in papyrology, late antique and Byzantine studies, and the history of religion and magic in the ancient and medieval Mediterranean.

CHAPTER 1

Syriac Studies and Magic: An Introduction

Marco Moriggi and Siam Bhayro

1 Introduction

Those familiar with the geological feature fluviokarst will know that 'the pattern of surface stream channels and stream valleys is still in evidence, though much of the drainage may be underground'. Furthermore, 'as the valley cuts deeper and deeper into the carbonate rocks, the stream that flows through it loses water into the limestone through joints and fractures, which begin to enlarge into cave systems'.[1] This feature presents us with an apt metaphor for how Syriac studies has treated magic, whose effects are manifest while the cause is very much underground.[2]

2 Magic in Syriac Studies

As it happens, Syriac magic has been studied since the emergence of Syriac studies, albeit usually in a negative manner, or, at best, in a way that contextualises it within the framework of late-antique and early-modern 'iathromagic' practices.[3] Beyond this, magic in Syriac studies has been largely ignored, if not directly censored, with what would be considered mainstream Syriac scholarship consigning the subject to the margins. The following three examples, drawn from recent scholarship, demonstrate this well, but more examples could be adduced.

The recently-published volume dedicated to The Syriac World contains no chapter specifically devoted to magic texts and practices in Syriac culture.[4] Despite this omission, magic seeps through the cracks, appearing briefly in five other chapters:

– Bar-Asher Siegal's chapter on 'Judaism and Syriac Christianity' (pp. 146–156) refers to the 'interconfessional milieu' and 'shared magical tradition' of the magic bowl texts (pp. 149–150).

2 The term 'magic' and its use in this volume is discussed below.

4 D. King (ed.), The Syriac World (London, 2019).

– Kessel's chapter on 'Syriac Medicine' (pp. 438–459) discusses magic in the context of 'folk-medicine' (p. 445), especially in relation to the Syriac Book of Medicines (p. 448).
– Gzella's chapter on 'The Syriac Language in the Context of the Semitic Languages' (pp. 204–221) refers briefly to the 'sub-literary register' of the Syriac magic bowls (p. 217).
– Briquel-Chatonnet's chapter on 'Writing Syriac: manuscripts and inscriptions' (pp. 243–265) refers to magic bowls and scrolls as typologies of written evidence in Syriac written documents (pp. 248, 251).
– Herman's chapter on 'The Syriac World in the Persian Empire' (pp. 134–145) refers to how Syriac magic texts give evidence for religious syncretism in the Sasanian period (p. 141).

For such a bulky volume, which contains 896 pages in the printed edition, this handful of references seems frankly rather poor, and strongly suggests that the communis opinio is still the patently negative one expressed by Badger (and his contemporaries and successors) more than one hundred and fifty years ago.[5]

Similarly, the Gorgias Encyclopedic Dictionary of the Syriac Heritage does not feature any entries concerning 'magic', 'incantation', 'amulet', and the like.[6] And, again similarly, such themes seep into the treatment of other topics, for example into Van Rompay's entry on 'Inscriptions' (pp. 208–211) and Butts's entry on 'Syriac Language' (pp. 390–391). This provides yet another confirmation that Syriac magic is often not taken seriously as a subject in its own right, but is used when convenient in support of other subjects that are considered to be more important or orthodox.

This is especially the case with one particular topic in Syriac studies, namely the relationship between Syriac Christians and Jews, as is demonstrated by the volume that was recently edited by Butts and Gross.[7] The chapter by Belinitzky and Paz, 'Bound and Banned: Aphrahat and Excommunication in the Sasanian Empire' (pp. 67–88), uses the evidence provided by the Syriac and Jewish Aramaic magic bowls in a comparative analysis of Aphrahat's Demonstrations and the Babylonian Talmud, concluding that 'Aphrahat, in turn, could be better understood and illuminated on the backdrop of the function of the ban in the Babylonian Talmud and the incantation bowls' (p. 87). Earlier, the authors note that 'the lexical juxtaposition of banning and binding points to proximity of the incantation formulae and the apparent legal ban presented by Aphrahat and the rabbis, once again highlighting the porousness of the artificial boundary between magic and law' (p. 79). It is thus not surprising that in the 'Introduction' (pp. 1–26), in which the editors discuss how 'Syriac studies has much to offer for the contextualization of Babylonian Judaism', one finds 'magic' among the genres of Syriac texts (pp. 5–6). Having said that, it is clear that it is Syriac literature (vis-à-vis Babylonian Jewish Literature), as opposed to Syriac texts in general, that remains the main focus of these essays. The only other place where 'sorcerers and blasphemers' are quoted is in Rubenstein's chapter on 'Syriac Christian Sources and the Babylonian Talmud' (pp. 255–279; see pp. 274–275). It would seem, therefore, that 'Syriac literature' is still conceived as a narrow space where only 'literary', that is 'orthodox', 'canonical' texts are included.

The persistence of this kind of approach to magic sources in Syriac studies is probably best explained by two factors. First, Syriac literature was transmitted mainly in ecclesiastical contexts (scriptoria, schools, etc.), with the result that this transmission was subject to specific ideologies that governed its choices of texts, traditions, reading practices, and even single textual variants. Second, despite the early (albeit dismissive) interest in Syriac magic texts by scholars in Syriac studies, it is clear that, in terms of esteem and thus priority, it was religious literature (especially of Greek origin) that was most valued, especially in comparison with amulets and other 'superstitious' practices.

Be that as it may, after more than one hundred and fifty years, it is high time for this historic prejudice to be explicitly rejected, and for a new discourse to be firmly established in Syriac studies. Following the suggestion of Lucas Van Rompay, it is surely now time to consider 'the Syriac bowls [and magic texts] as a part of Syriac literature, especially because of their importance as a source for the study of the Syriac language'.[8]

3 Syriac Magic in the Study of Magic

While the treatment of magic in Syriac studies has left a lot to be desired, it is also true that the treatment of Syriac sources and traditions in the study of magic in general has been far from ideal. Unlike the former situation, however,

8 L. Van Rompay, 'Some remarks on the language of Syriac incantation texts', in R. Lavenant (ed.), v Symposium Syriacum 1988 (Rome, 1990), pp. 369–381 (381).

this is less to do with historic prejudice and more to do with the state of the field. After all, scholars who are not specialists in Syriac studies can hardly be expected to integrate Syriac sources into their research if those sources are themselves neglected by specialists. General studies of magic cannot be blamed if they simply reflect the state of the more specific field. A recent example of this is the excellent volume edited by Frankfurter, in which he states 'Gaps in coverage will be inevitable—the neglect of Arabic, Syriac, and Ethiopic sources being most glaring'.[9]

4 Magic in This Volume: Methodology, Approach, Perspectives

Magic as a topic within religious studies, anthropology, and the humanities in general is not the subject of this book. Instead, it is our aim to introduce a new perspective in Syriac studies, highlighting the significance of the subfield of Syriac magic both within and without Syriac studies. To extend the fluviokarst metaphor, the study of Syriac magic has accompanied and supported the mainstream flow of Syriac studies; nevertheless, many caves remain to be explored. It is our hope that this book will demonstrate the value of such explorations, and prompt further research.

As editors, we were happy for those contributing to this volume to use the term 'magic' without engaging with questions of definition, unless they wanted to clarify their own peculiar attitude towards this term.[10] Even though we did not ask our authors to take or to express a position on this, we nevertheless want to draw some lines of demarcation within which we may set our heuristic approach to the study of Syriac magic. First of all, we share both of the following observations by Sanzo, first that the 'conclusion to abstain from using the term magic in scholarship is ultimately unhelpful', and, second, that 'magic should in fact be kept as one of our heuristic categories in the study of antiquity'.[11]

9 D. Frankfurter, 'Preface', in Idem (ed.), Guide to the Study of Ancient Magic (Leiden, 2019), pp. xi–xii (xii).

10 Scholarly interest in magic has increased in the last few decades; in this regard, it is instructive to see the first three footnotes in L.M. Bortolani, S. Nagel, 'Introduction', in Eaedem, W.D. Furley, J.F. Quack (eds), Cultural Plurality in Ancient Magical Texts and Practices: Graeco-Egyptian Handbooks and Related Traditions (Tübingen, 2019), pp. 1–23 (1). As this may be addressed from various topical, cultural, geographical and temporal perspectives, it is clear that the recent increase in scholarly interest will only accelerate.

11 J. Sanzo, 'Deconstructing the deconstructionists: a response to recent criticisms of the rubric "Ancient Magic"', in Idem, A. Mastrocinque, M. Scapini (eds), Ancient Magic: Then

In this sense, the recent words of Frankfurter may be considered a watershed (even for Syriac magic):

> … 'magic' or 'magical' can serve as a quality of certain practices and materials that highlights for our scholarly scrutiny features of materiality, potency, or verbal or ritual performance we might not otherwise appreciate as part of a culture's religious world, or aspects of the social location of ritual practices we might not otherwise appreciate. 'Magic'—the category—becomes thus a heuristic tool rather than a second-order (etic) classification …[12]

Moreover, 'magic' or 'magical' are by no means meant to translate any of the indigenous Syriac terms related to this subject. As it happens, this is not just the case for the Syriac traditions, but also for the comparable traditions, whether ancient (e.g. Egyptian, Sumerian, Akkadian, etc.) or more recent (Jewish, Mandaic, etc.).[13]

Having clarified that, in Syriac studies as well as in other related fields, 'magic' may be a heuristic tool,[14] we can now turn to discuss the main feature to which we apply this tool in order to better understand and contextualise Syriac magic as a cultural phenomenon of Late Antiquity and beyond, namely texts. There are hundreds of Syriac magic texts, most of which still need to be published, with many of the already published ones needing a fresh analysis. These texts are not just elements of a written dimension; they are 'amulets (including gems) for healing and protection, figurines for ritual focus and gestures, inscribed bowls for protection from demons, and of course, ritual manuals',[15] in all their 'lettered' and/or 'semi-lettered' typologies,[16] as well as in their materiality.[17]

14 This in fact will emerge in some of the contributions published in the present volume.

The texts and objects of Syriac magic are per se 'documents of specific historical subcultures',[18] but, in their turn, they cannot be fully understood except in the framework of Syriac culture, the late-antique Mesopotamian milieu, and so on. These texts are evidence for Syriac magic as far as we are able to rightly understand what their authors intended for them. In spite of the fact they pertain to the domain of microhistory, they are properly understood in a wider context. We are thus attempting to establish an approach to research that, starting from single groups of texts and objects, interprets the texts through the lens of concepts like 'relation' (including 'interrelation'), 'plurality', and 'fusion'.[19]

Before we describe how these three terms should be understood, both in respect of the contributions in this book and beyond, we want to stress that, as regards 'comparison' and 'syncretism', two renowned, recurrent, leading categories in the study of magic, we think that, if we cannot move beyond the fundamental tool of comparison, we should use it in the manner proposed by Sanzo (deriving his approach from Bonnell), i.e. distinguishing each time 'between the analytical use of comparison (i.e. oriented around similar kinds of individuals/groups at a particular period of time) and the illustrative use of comparison (i.e. attempting to illuminate a broader idea, concept, or model that transcends specific groups or a particular time period)'.[20] This approach may avoid one of the most dangerous tendencies in comparative studies, namely 'parallelomania'.[21] As for 'syncretism', even though we did not veto its use by the contributors to this volume, our preference is for 'plurality' in the sense that we explain it below.[22]

The first element we want to address is that magic may be understood in terms of 'relationship', i.e. as a process, a factual sequence of actions for which we find only sparse hints or references in the texts we study. A significant portion of Syriac magic has thus been lost, despite the potential for the evidence of modern and contemporary magical practices of the near eastern Christian communities (often Neo-Aramaic-speaking and writing) to help us to reconstruct plausible scenarios.[23] Thus Veltri wrote:

18 Frankfurter, 'Ancient Magic in a New Key', in Idem (ed.), Guide, p. 9.

19 The first concept comes from Veltri's approach to ancient Jewish magic; see the contribution by Moriggi in this volume. For the other two, we are indebted to Bortolani, Nagel, 'Introduction', in Eaedem, Furley, Quack (eds), Cultural Plurality, p. 3.

> … magic clearly does not possess an existence of its own. Rather, it relies on those relationships that obtain among the performers and actors of magical practices. Thus it emerges in an interstitial space where the magician is the protagonist: the magic circle, the magician's sole preserve. The 'work' of a magician always presupposes the existence of a real or imaginary audience without which the magical act cannot take place. Magic is that in-between space—an interstitial component of political and social pertinence …[24]

Furthermore, looking at the texts presented, discussed, and referred to in this book, we are faced with what Veltri describes as follows:

> … the nature of magic is to be found in the process which leads from the hidden to the 'unhidden' and vice-versa. It is neither the origin nor the goal that are magical, but rather the way (or path) leading from one to the other. It is characteristic of magic that elements from one culture pass into the other, without the receiver being able or willing to understand the transmitted contents …[25]

Magic, therefore, whether ancient, late-antique, medieval, or modern, is an empirical matter. Obviously, texts do not always depict reality. Instead, they often present what their authors intend to obtain from them, thus partly or totally overshadowing the relationships involving practitioners, clients, and society in general.

Fortunately, texts often speak by themselves, as long as we use a sound philological approach to let them speak for themselves.[26] Emending an ancient text according to a presumed 'standard grammar' is always wrong, and is a patent mistake for magic texts (including Syriac ones). Indeed, it is doubtful whether any 'standard grammar' of an ancient Restsprache, or indeed a literary language attested across two millennia such as Syriac, can be assumed. Linguistic choices in the broader sense are due to both internal factors, which relate to the demands of the language itself, and, largely, external cultural factors, which—as demonstrated in various articles and works over the last decades—are not always easy to discern.

The picture of Syriac magic texts that emerges thus reflects relationships among cultures, i.e. among living men and women rather than simply texts and objects. To use another geological metaphor, it is like sediment that accumulates from multiple materials over a prolonged period. It is best not to speak of this in terms of 'melting pots', 'crucibles', and the like, where the resulting indefinite colour hides all the preceding colours and nuances. We think that our texts better resemble a petrographic thin section, where colours alternate, intersect, are present at the same time but in different places, maybe according to tonality or with colours confronting each other in a striking way. As with the case of petrographic sediments with telluric forces, all the cultural motifs were gathered in that very context and compacted tightly by the pressure of textual and pragmatic needs. We thus think that the resulting presence of elements of different cultural origins

> … can thus be described as 'plurality', while instances in which these elements overlap to such an extent that it is almost impossible to disentangle them can be described as examples of 'fusion'. In detail, cultural plurality and fusion can manifest themselves in a range of different dynamics: from phenomena such as simple borrowing, through advanced adaptation, up to complete assimilation or even distortion of origin and meaning …[27]

5 The Contents of This Volume

The contributions to this volume, therefore, have been assembled with the aim of offering a critical assessment of where we are as a field, and to demonstrate the potential, indeed the necessity, for the field to be taken forward in a methodologically sound manner. Accordingly, the first contribution by Abigail Pearson analyses how Syriac magic practices were first brought to the attention of the academic world nearly one-hundred and seventy years ago, at a time when magic was often treated with suspicion or dismissed as having little scholarly value. Pearson demonstrates how the negative effects of these attitudes have proved difficult to dismantle and, consequently, how the study of Syriac magic is still in its early stages as progress has often been slow and sporadic. She begins with publications that date from 1852 to 1945, and examines the myriad of social, intellectual, and cultural influences which caused magic texts to be ignored. She then considers publications from 1946 to 2019, outlining how changes in the way magic was perceived led to greater recognition of the contributions this material could make to our understanding of social and religious history, and assessing both their positive contributions as well as some shortcomings. She ends by outlining some desiderata, stressing in particular the importance of a sustained approach to the publication of more primary source material.

Following this, Siam Bhayro discusses how, for every period for which we have evidence, we can see Syriac Christian priests preserving, studying, and practising both the magical and medical arts. The nature of the evidence changes from period to period, with the modern period providing both manuscript evidence and eye-witness testimony, the medieval period furnishing manuscript evidence, and the late-antique period giving more indirect evidence. Taking a diachronic approach, however, means that the more recent evidence shines a light on the earlier, less illuminated periods. This, in turn, permits a consistent picture of Syriac Christian priestcraft to emerge from the modern, medieval, and late-antique periods, suggesting a remarkable degree of continuity in terms of magical-medical therapeutic knowledge and practice. This revolves around two manuscript types—the magical 'Book of Protection' and the magical-medical 'Book of Medicines'—which probably first appeared during the so-called 'Syriac Renaissance' (eleventh–thirteenth centuries CE) as learned and practical handbooks for use by priests.

In the next chapter, Marco Moriggi discusses how the testimony of the incantation bowls springs directly from the realm of micro-history and may thus shed more light than the canonical texts on the real, day-to-day, interactions between cultural groups. It is possible, when one analyses the Syriac incantation bowls more closely and for more than simply the presence of Jewish elements, to discuss the interaction between Syriac Christianity and Judaism in Sasanian Babylonia from a new perspective. This new approach may, on the one hand, yield new data for the study of Jewish-Christian relations, and, on the other, foster the creation of a methodology based on linguistic variation in texts that are parallel but that come from different cultural traditions.

The next chapter, by Michael Zellmann-Rohrer, considers new contributions to the history of Syriac magic from an editorial project on the so-called 'Book of Protection' or 'Book of Charms' and related texts. Zellmann-Rohrer shows in impressive detail how these compendious ritual handbooks, extracts of which are dispersed in miscellanies, and the finished amulets that were produced from such handbooks, are more numerous and widely distributed than previously thought (based in particular on the important but limited publication by H. Gollancz), both diachronically and geographically throughout greater Mesopotamia and beyond. He presents excellent examples of how our understanding of these texts, whether published or unpublished, can be advanced, how they are a rich source for the daily life and thought of the Christian communities that they served, and how the textual motifs can also be contextualised in terms of broader ritual traditions in Late Antiquity and the Middle Ages.

In his contribution, Nils Korsvoll addresses the comparative paucity of biblical references in the Syriac magic bowls and amulets from Late Antiquity, a phenomenon that has been considered notable and significant. Korsvoll brings recent developments in biblical studies and the study of magic to bear on this question, particularly in regard to the problem of the relevance and usefulness of definitive or teleological categories like biblical. He revisits the biblical references and invocations that are present in the Syriac amulets and bowls in light of such developments, drawing especially on David Frankfurter's proposal of an authoritative discourse of precedent, and thus proposes that they do not refer to the Bible or necessarily to a biblical story, but rather to narratives or figures in a wider storied universe.

This is followed by David Calabro's contribution, which describes the complex relationships between the different versions of Syriac charms produced within East Syriac communities in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. Some charms, such as the Anathema of Mar ʿAbdishoʿ, show a wide degree of variation, while others, such as the prayers that introduce the book, are relatively stable. Calabro presents a classification of the charms based on a comparison of three sections of the book: the introductory prayers, the Anathema of the Gospel, and the anti-weapon charms, concluding that the evidence suggests that the charms were spontaneous productions sharing a basic structure; the most textually stable charms are those which are shortest, those which are based on biblical quotations, and those which are produced by the same scribe.

In his contribution, Gaby Abousamra presents a catalogue of Christian features of the late antique Syriac magic texts, before moving on to list the parallel features in the modern Syriac magic texts. This enables him to argue for a degree of continuity from the ancient to the modern.

The final contribution is by Matthew Morgenstern and Ohad Abudraham. Moving away from Syriac sources, this chapter presents the first full edition of an important Mandaic magic text, preserved on three lamellae, with reference to parallels preserved in several Mandaic magic bowls. The importance of publishing texts with reference to as many parallels as possible is clearly demonstrated, something which should be adopted into the treatment of Syriac magic texts. Furthermore, coming from the same cultural environment as the late antique Syriac sources, the Mandaic sources shed much light on the nature of magic in Sasanian Mesopotamia, but without the overt Christian elements that appear in some of the contemporary Syriac sources.

CHAPTER 2

Syriac Magic: An Overview of Previous Approaches and Prospects for the Future

Abigail Pearson

1 Introduction

Syriac magic practices were first brought to the attention of the academic world nearly one hundred and seventy years ago, at a time when magic was often treated with suspicion or dismissed as having little scholarly value. The negative effects of these attitudes have proved difficult to dismantle and, consequently, the field is still in its early stages as progress has often been slow and sporadic. In this chapter, I review the previous literature published on Syriac magic, then outline the future prospects of the field. First, I discuss publications from 1852 to 1945, examining the myriad of social, intellectual, and cultural influences which caused magic texts to be ignored. Then, I consider publications from 1946 to 2019, outlining how changes in the way magic was perceived led to greater recognition of the contributions this material can make to our understanding of social and religious history. I discuss the key studies on Syriac magic published in this period, highlighting their positive contributions as well as some shortcomings. Finally, I outline desiderata, stressing in particular the importance of a sustained approach to the publication of more primary source material.[1]

2 1852–1945

In 1842, the Archbishop of Canterbury appointed G.P. Badger, a missionary and scholar, as the Church of England's delegate to the Church of the East.[2] As part of this role, Badger spent three years (1842–1844 and 1850) travelling in the Middle East—primarily in Iraq—where he learned much about the beliefs and practices of its Syriac Christian communities.[3] In his 1852 publication The Nestorians and their Rituals, Badger reported on the use of amulets amongst Syriac Christians:

> As might be expected in a people among whom education has been neglected for so many ages, and who cannot consequently be supposed to possess any deep or adequate sense of the high and holy truths which they profess, the Nestorians entertain many superstitions respecting the powers of evil, and the value of certain talismans to allay or counteract them. Thus they have charms against the evil eye, the poison of reptiles and plants, the rot and other diseases in sheep, the tyranny of rulers and the designs of wicked men, &c, most of which adverse influences are believed to be destroyed by certain passages of Holy Writ which are profanely used to this end [...] I regret to state that the clergy are generally the authors of these absurd and profane effusions.[4]

Badger reported useful information about the creation and use of magical amulets: that they are written by clergy and sold to villagers, and that they are usually copied from a handbook.[5] He also provided translations of four texts from one such handbook in his possession.[6] Aside from these contributions, however, it is impossible to ignore the strikingly dismissive tone of Badger's report. Badger believed that employing Biblical texts in amulets is blasphemous and deemed the practices 'superstition'. Badger also emphasised that, in his view, there is a clear and obvious distinction to be drawn between the 'high and holy truths' of religion and the 'absurd and profane' practice of magic.

Furthermore, Badger's racist attitudes towards Syriac Christians are laid bare. His assertion that Syriac Christians are uneducated, and his suggestion that this has so long been the case that nothing more could be expected, are shocking to the modern reader. Worse still is that Badger was not alone in the field in holding these views. In De Philosophia Peripatetica Apud Syros Com- mentationem Historicam (1852), E. Renan also gave an unsparing assessment of Syriac culture which was later adopted by W. Wright in his Introduction to Syriac Literature (1894).[7] Paraphrasing Renan, Wright stated that:

> We must own—and it is well to make to confession at the outset—that the literature of Syria is, on the whole, not an attractive one. As Renan said long ago, the characteristic of the Syrians is a certain mediocrity. They shone neither in war, nor in the arts, nor in science.[8]

Renan and Wright both labelled Syriac people as mediocre and dismissed outright that their literature might contain any material of artistic or scientific interest, demonstrating that Syriac literature faced prejudice within its own field from a pervading racism at the outset.

Badger's evident racism and his desire to draw a sharp distinction between magic and religion echo the dismissive attitudes towards foreign cultures and their beliefs that is characteristic of much of nineteenth-century scholarship. Hyam and Smith have described the years 1815 to 1915, in which Badger and Wright both lived, as Britain's 'imperial century' because it saw 'dramatic extensions of British territory'.[9] Colonial expansion meant Western nations were meeting a greater number of foreign cultures and in a much closer way than ever before. These new encounters prompted the emergence of anthropology, and inspired scholars to set about analysing, categorising, and comparing humans from across the globe. Inherent in these studies was a belief in the superiority of Westerners. As Hyam explains, a prevalent idea at the time was that all the nations of the world could be arranged in a hierarchical order based upon their level of advancement.[10] Advancement was defined by a 'British standard', assumed to be 'accurate and universally valid', which placed Western European nations at the top of the 'ladder of progress' and indigenous peoples of Oceania and the Americas at the bottom.[11] These views were espoused by the philosopher James Mill, the anthropologist Edward Tylor, and the biologist Charles Darwin, among others.[12]

Harari explains that these widespread ideas distorted how the practices and beliefs of the newly encountered peoples were perceived.[13] When anthropologists first attempted to define magic and distinguish it from religion, they too adopted an evolutionary model. James Frazer, a social anthropologist who studied under Tylor, represented magic as a primitive stage in humankind's beliefs about the supernatural, with religion being a later and more sophisticated development. In his influential study The Golden Bough, published in 1890, Frazer argued that 'the conception of gods as supernatural beings entirely distinct from and superior to man [...] has been slowly evolved in the course of history'.[14] With 'the first advance of knowledge', Frazer argued, 'prayer and sacrifice assume the leading place in religious ritual; and magic [...] sinks to the level of a black art'.[15] Implicit in this theory was the assumption that the West practices religion, whilst everyone else practices magic—ideas which inadvertently lent support to imperialism by implying that Britain's colonial expansion would bring about advancement in the subjugated peoples.[16]

Alternative definitions of magic were proposed in the early twentieth century by a French school of sociologists who rejected the evolutionary distinction.[17] Durkheim argued that practices could be defined as either religious or magical according to whether they are carried out by the community or the individual, respectively.[18] Durkheim's view is succinctly summarised in his assertion that 'there is no "church of magic"'.[19] Similarly, Mauss and Hubert argued that the distinction lay in how a practice was perceived in the society being studied.[20] This perception, they argue, affects where and how a rite would be carried out, with 'magical rites [...] commonly performed in the woods, far away from dwelling places, at night or in shadowy corners, in the secret recesses of the house or at any rate in some out-of-the-way place', whereas religious rites are 'performed openly, in full public view'.[21] Whilst this school of thought moved away from the evolutionary idea, they perpetuated negative connotations surrounding magic by presenting it as individualistic, secretive, and peripheral.

These narratives also pervaded the popular culture of the time, where foreign cultures were subject to further exoticisation and demonisation. As Stibbe explains, geographical expansion led to 'cultural colonialism' in which the traditions, arts, and rituals of different cultures were appropriated for entertainment purposes.[22] Nowhere did this occur more evidently than in the world of entertainment magic, which surged in popularity during the Victorian era. Stibbe outlines how Victorian entertainment magic perpetuated imperialist ideals by amalgamating the traditions of foreign cultures with illusory tricks that could be debunked.[23] Stage magicians dressed their performances in an array of props, words, and legends drawn from foreign cultures, which allowed the audience—aware of the illusory nature of the performance—to feel superior to those who believed in the appropriated rituals.[24] Offstage, a more sinister association was fuelled. Advertisements regularly depicted common tropes of the East—such as veiled women, men wearing the fez, exotic animals, and Egyptian hieroglyphics—alongside frightening hellish characters like skeletons, demons, devils, and ghosts. In these ways, entertainment magic succeeded in merging together distinct elements of various non-Western cultures into one monolithic 'other' which was subsequently labelled magic and amalgamated with charlatanism and the diabolical.

Due to these negative connotations, magic texts could at best be considered the superstitions of primitive nations, and at worst as attempts to harness malevolent powers. In such a climate, it is easy to understand why so few studies on Syriac magic texts were published—especially in comparison to studies on what were considered to be more conventional Christian texts. Over nine decades, only eight studies on Syriac amulet scrolls or magic handbooks were published, along with just six studies on Syriac incantation bowls. For the most part, these publications were of single texts which appeared sporadically. Individual Syriac bowls were published by Ellis (1853), Montgomery (1912 & 1917–1918), Lidzbarski (1916), and Allotte de la Fuÿe (1924). Small selections of amulet texts were published by Hall (1892), Hazard (1893), Gollancz (1899), Nau (1907), and Macler (1908). Only two substantial publications of Syriac magic texts appeared. These were Montgomery's Aramaic Incantation Texts from Nippur (1913), which included seven Syriac incantation bowls, and Gollancz's The Book of Protection (1912), which contained transcriptions and translations of four Syriac amulet books.

Colonial discourse also affected how Syriac magico-medical traditions were received and discussed. Two texts of this genre were edited and published in this period: Budge's Book of Medicines (1913) and Gottheil's Contributions to Syriac Folk-Medicine (1899).[25] Budge's Book of Medicines is a transcription and translation of a lengthy Syriac medical manuscript containing three distinct sections. The first consists of medical lectures on parts of the body, interspersed with traditional remedies. In a series of articles published between 1926 and 1946, Schleifer demonstrated that these medical lectures were based on the works of Galen.[26] The second section contains astrological, mathematical, and divinatory materials such as calendrical knowledge, definitions of weights and measures, and hemerologies. The third section contains over one hundred traditional remedies for physical injury or disease. These are arranged according to the part of the body affected; beginning with those that affect the head and working downwards. Gottheil's Syriac Folk-Medicine is a transcription and translation of a shorter version of section three, based on ms. Syriaque 325 from the Bibliothèque nationale de France.

Budge prized what he believed to be of Greek origin in the Book of Medicines (and believed to be of Greek origin what he prized) whilst making disparaging remarks about the indigenous Syriac medical tradition. He praised the first section, writing that it 'exhibits everywhere the touch of a master hand'.[27] Moreover, he noted that the author speaks with respect of the 'ancients', and concludes that 'the men to whom he refers under this appellation were not the priests who used spells and incantations […] but the great founders of Greek medicine […] who were the first to give medicine the status of a science'.[28] In a stark contrast, Budge wrote that the second section was added to the work by 'some student or scribe who could not free himself from the trammels of the beliefs of some of his contemporaries', and, likewise, the third section 'must have been written by "physicians" who were both ignorant and superstitious'.[29]

It is clear that Budge sought to separate Greek medicine from Syriac medicine by representing the former as rational and the latter as irrational. The Greek medical tradition has long been regarded in this positive light because it was thought to underpin the Western medical tradition.[30] Thus, in the same way that foreign beliefs were depicted as magic to distinguish them from Western religion, medicine was divided into Western and non-Western. This also echoed and supported colonial ideals by presenting the Western colonisers as the bringers of true medicine to an uncivilised local populace.

A similar sentiment was expressed by Gottheil. Though Gottheil was not as impressed by Greek medicine as Budge ('where the names Hippocrates and Galen are still highly prized, such ignorance cannot excite wonder'), he still made it clear that his interest in ms. Syriaque 325 lay solely in its potential to provide evidence that the works of Galen were transmitted in Syriac.[31]

The privilege both Budge and Gottheil accorded to Classical culture is characteristic of Syriac studies at this time. To demonstrate its prevalence, we can again turn to a citation of Wright—whom Budge had studied under at the University of Cambridge.[32] In his Introduction to Syriac Literature, Wright granted the Syriac writers one single positive attribute:

> They were apt enough as pupils of the Greeks; they assimilated and reproduced, adding little or nothing of their own [...] Yet to the Syrians belongs the merit of having passed on the lore of ancient Greece to the Arabs, and therefore, as a matter of history, their literature must always possess a certain amount of interest in the eyes of the modern student.[33]

For Wright, the value of Syriac literature lay primarily in its role as a transmitter and preserver of Greek literature.

With all this considered, it is clear that Syriac magic was introduced to the western academic world at an unfortunate time. Racism, imperialism, academic discourse, and popular culture all combined to devalue, amalgamate, and stigmatise non-Western belief systems. Yet, there are still positives to be drawn from the studies which were published. For instance, the negative perception of magic meant scholars of this period justified their interest in these texts by focusing on the contributions they could make to our knowledge of the Syriac language. As a result, these publications laid the foundation for subsequent research by highlighting philological, palaeographical, and orthographic points of interest. As with many disciplines, however, research began to slow with the onset of the First World War, and the threads begun in these early studies were not picked back up again until after the Second World War.

Since the mid-twentieth century, the category 'magic' has been subject to several reinterpretations. A growing awareness of the ethnocentrism at the heart of previous definitions led many scholars to question its validity as a category in academic discourse. For example, Wax and Wax condemned previous definitions as 'wholly ethnocentric', 'inutile', and 'misleading', and they argued that suggested dichotomies of magic and religion, such as manipulative/supplicative, 'should be discarded from social scientific literature'.[34] When Mauss' Theory of Magic was republished in English translation in 1972, one reviewer noted that the 'modern reader [...] may reject the basic premise of the argument, that a distinct category of magical belief and action exists in society'.[35]

The prevailing response to the issues surrounding the word magic was to cease using it. This manifested in one of two ways: either magic was replaced with technical descriptors such as 'rituals for gaining power', or it was subsumed into its once opposing category to be considered as part of religion. The first option was particularly popular among Classics scholars. For instance, the word 'magic' is avoided in Gager's Curse Tablets and Binding Spells from the Ancient World.[36] The latter approach was adopted by many anthropologists, with several concluding that no distinction could be made between magic and religion in the societies they studied.[37] Hammond, for instance, argued that 'magic is not an entity distinct from religion but a form of ritual behaviour and thus an element of religion'.[38]

On the whole, Semitists have been happier to retain 'magic' and have tended to opt out of the theoretical debates regarding its definition. Shaked emphasised that, although magic is difficult to define, it is not difficult to identify.[39] In his study of ancient Jewish magic, Bohak argued that as long as we understand that 'magic' is our category—not that of the society being observed—and that it serves only as a heuristic device, then it can be a useful label.[40] In Syriac studies specifically, many scholars including Moriggi, Müller-Kessler, and Bhayro, describe texts as 'magic' without addressing the definitional dilemma. These studies do, however, contribute to the (re)definition of 'magic' by using it as a neutral rather than a negative category.

Whilst the debate on how to define magic is not settled, these dialogues have helped to change attitudes towards practices and beliefs labelled as such. As stated by Shaked, this has led to 'a real revolution' in the perception of magic and its importance for understanding the history of religion.[41] Bhayro, writing specifically about incantation bowls—though his words apply to many kinds of magical text—described them as 'perhaps the most important source we have for studying the everyday beliefs and practices of [...] communities'.[42] He emphasised that their content 'is an uncensored witness to the clients' anxieties, desires, and methods of seeking to influence the divine realm'.[43] These changes in attitude have encouraged studies on magic in many guises and in many disciplines to increase, as has been the case for the study of Syriac magic.

The Syriac incantation bowls from late antiquity have received the most attention in this period. Studies came slowly at first: only four studies on bowls were published in the first four decades following the Second World War—Teixidor (1962), Hamilton (1971), Harviainen (1978), and Gignoux (1984).[44] Research picked up in earnest in the mid-1980s, beginning with Naveh and Shaked's influential work Amulets and Magic Bowls (1985).[45] This work included two Syriac incantation bowls and generated interest in Semitic magic more generally. Since then, another twenty-eight Syriac incantation bowls have been edited and published, with key contributions from Geller (1986), Segal (2000), and Müller-Kessler (2005), to name only a few.[46] In 2014, a significant contribution was made by Moriggi when he corrected, updated, and compiled forty-nine Syriac bowls that had previously been published into a single volume.[47]

The sustained effort towards the translation of Syriac incantation bowls has equipped scholars with the necessary source material to investigate an array of research questions. To give a few examples, studies on the Syriac incantation bowls have examined their linguistic and philological features (Moriggi: 2005 and 2012, van Rompay: 1990),[48] identified Jewish formulae used in them (Moriggi: 2015 and Bolz: 2015),[49] investigated their authorship (Juusola: 1999),[50] and debated their widespread classification as Christian texts (Korsvoll: 2017).[51]

This period has also seen a rise in the number of studies published on Syriac amulets. The silence on this topic that followed Gollancz's Book of Protection (1912) was broken in 1987, when Hunter published an article in which she analysed a selection of amulets with the aim of establishing their typical structure.[52] Then, throughout the 1990s, Hunter was the sole contributor of articles on the Book of Protection and the amulet scrolls deriving from it. Her contributions include two general introductions to the use of amulets amongst Syriac Christians in the modern period (1995 and 2009),[53] a study of the syntax used in the amulets and how these might help us categorise them into different genres (1990),[54] translations of two amulet scrolls (1993 & 1999),[55] a translation of an amulet to bind weapons (1992),[56] and a comparison of amulets for safe travel taken from four different versions of Book of Protection (2015).[57] Aside from Hunter, only two more articles on the Book of Protection have been added to the discussion, published by Balicka-Witakowska (2008) and Lyavdansky (2011).[58]

Syriac amulets from the late antique and medieval periods have also been published, though these are less common. Hunter (2013 and 2017) translated three fragmentary magic texts found in Turfan, which are thought to date to between the ninth and thirteenth centuries.[59] The texts are all passages for protection or healing closely related to those we see in the Book of Protection. Takahashi (2017) identified and published two medieval Syriac magic texts belonging to the Ōtani Collection at Ryukoku University in Kyoto.[60] Whilst their provenance was not recorded, Takahashi suggested that they were most likely found in Turfan and he proposed a date within the thirteenth century. Abousamra (2013) translated two magic texts which were found on mummies preserved at the Hadath Grotto in Lebanon.[61] The texts date roughly to the thirteenth century.[62] The first was found inside a child's jacket and calls for fever and chills to be chased away, and the second was found in a pouch tied to a woman's belt and contains 'the anathema of Mar 'Abdisho'—a text commonly found in the Book of Protection. From late antiquity, one Syriac amulet written on a sheet of silver was published by Naveh and Shaked (1985), Naveh translated one Syriac amulet written on leather (1997), and Gignoux published three amulets on leather (1987).[63]

Scholars have also revisited Budge's Book of Medicines. Rudolf produced a re-edition of the astrological section which included a German translation and a detailed commentary.[64] Bhayro challenged the assumption that the first section contains simple translations of Galen's works. In two publications (2013 and 2015), Bhayro compared Galen's Art of Medicine with the Book of Medicines and demonstrated that the latter adapts the former to suit a new cultural, material, and religious context by abridging it with Syriac Christian theology and Mesopotamian medical remedies.[65]

Overall, this period has witnessed an increase of scholarly interest in Syriac magic texts. Yet this overview brings to light some issues with the field at present. First, a small number of scholars have made the majority of contributions. With so few voices taking part in the conversation, the studies which have been published suffer from a lack of exchange and debate with scholars researching other aspects of Syriac culture as well as with scholars studying the magical beliefs and practices of neighbouring societies. Second, the publication of source texts has been, and continues to be, sporadic. This is especially true of the amulet handbooks, where the tendency has been to publish just a small selection of amulets at a time. The value of such contributions is limited because they remove the amulets from their immediate and physical context, narrowing our understanding of factors such as how the material is compiled and presented. Furthermore, the present limitation in readily accessible material reduces the scope and detail of potential research topics. With the aim of outlining how the field can begin to remedy these issues, some key desiderata are identified below.

4 Desiderata

For the field to progress, our first task is to publish more source material. Research on the Syriac magic bowls is furthest ahead in this regard. With regard to Syriac amulets, it would be advantageous to compile, revise, and update the editions which are currently scattered across numerous journals and books. This should be combined with the publication of material which has yet to be edited. For example, Houghton Library at Harvard has five unedited amulet scrolls (Syr. 156, 159, 160, 162 and 163), and there are unedited amulet handbooks in Bibliothèque nationale de France (Syr. 347), Selly Oak Library (Mingana 316 and 583), and Staatsbibliothek (Sachau 95 and 553)—with more likely to be identified in other collections as research continues. Furthermore, to provide a complete picture of this tradition, we should aim to publish these manuscripts in toto.

As for the Book of Medicines, Bhayro and Rudolf called for a critical edition to be produced. They recommended that this should consist of a re-edition of Budge's manuscript (now BL Or. 9360), with variations from other versions presented alongside it as apparatus.[66] This would answer questions relating to the character and originality of Budge's version as well as philological issues.[67] Furthermore, the Book of Medicines and the Book of Protection belong to a wider corpus of magico-medical, astrological, and divinatory texts which have received little scholarly attention. Al-Jeloo identified nine other titles of this genre which could once be found in the library of Urmiah College: the Book of Medicines, the Book of Omens, the Book concerning all the Organs of the Human Body, the Book of Sorcery, the Book of Unbinding Sorcery, the Book of Fortunes and Spells, the Book of Dream Interpretation, the Acts of Simon Magus, and the Book of Astrology.[68] Unfortunately, the collection of Urmiah College was destroyed in the First World War, and the subsequent rarity of these books is one reason why most have not been studied. It would be worthwhile to search the catalogues of museums and libraries to see if any of these works can be located. If so, they should be edited and published to further expand the corpus.

As more source material is published, a greater number of detailed and sustained studies on Syriac magic can be carried out. The study of Syriac incantation bowls is already at this second stage, but there are still topics to be explored. For instance, Moriggi stated that a study of the iconography of drawings in the Syriac incantation bowls is needed.[69] Comparative work with later magic texts would also be advantageous, offering insight into how the Syriac magic tradition developed.

In the study of Syriac amulets, there is much work to be done comparing amulets from the late antique, medieval, and modern periods in order to better understand their relationship. It has long been assumed that the amulets from the modern period are related to those from late antiquity, but before the discovery of amulets from the intervening medieval period it was unclear if these similarities were the result of a consistent tradition. An analysis of the way that Syriac amulets have changed and stayed the same over this thousand-year period would shed light on the way formulae, function, and praxis have developed. For instance, Moriggi suggested that priests and deacons may have started a process of 'Christianization', incorporating liturgical material into amulets so they could be sanctioned by the Church.[70] Moreover, advances in the study of the magical practices of neighbouring cultures means that fruitful studies might be done regarding the interaction of the Syriac amulet tradition with amulets written in other Aramaic dialects or in Hebrew, Akkadian, Ethiopic, or Arabic.

Bhayro and Rudolf suggested topics that should be prioritised in further studies on the Book of Medicines.[71] For the first section, a systematic analysis of all the parallel Greek and Syriac passages should be carried out. For the second section, intertextual material in Hebrew, Mandaic and Arabic should be added as an appendix. Analysis of the third section should begin with a study of its terminology, with particular attention paid to the use of Iranian, Akkadian, and Greek loanwords, as well as Syriac terms. Focus in these areas will help us to discern the origins of the practical medical lore contained throughout and contribute to our understanding of how the Syriac medical tradition persevered and innovated over the course of a millennia.

5 Conclusion

The suggestions above are only preliminary—if the field can achieve the publication of more source material, the momentum seen in recent years will be able to continue. As Syriac magic texts become accessible to more scholars, new avenues of research will open up, and a greater diversity of perspectives will undoubtedly bring additional insights. The present volume is an important step towards this goal.

CHAPTER 3

Syriac Magic and Medicine: A Near-Eastern Paradigm of Priestcraft

Siam Bhayro

1 Introduction

In every period for which we have evidence, we can see Syriac Christian priests preserving, studying, and practising both the magical and medical arts. The nature of the evidence changes from period to period, with the modern period providing both manuscript evidence and eye-witness testimony, the medieval period furnishing manuscript evidence, and the late-antique period giving more indirect evidence. Taking a diachronic approach, however, means that the more recent evidence shines a light on the earlier, less illuminated periods. This, in turn, permits a consistent picture of Syriac Christian priestcraft to emerge from the modern, medieval, and late-antique periods, suggesting a remarkable degree of continuity in terms of magical-medical therapeutic knowledge and practice. This revolves around two manuscript types—the magical 'Book of Protection' and the magical-medical 'Book of Medicines'—which probably first appeared during the so-called 'Syriac Renaissance' (eleventh–thirteenth centuries CE) as learned and practical handbooks for use by priests.

This does not mean, of course, that lay people were not preserving and practising various forms of magical-medical therapy. In keeping with other milieux, aside from the priests, there were also root cutters, drug traders, herbalists, midwives and such like.[1] This was a common feature of most ancient and medieval societies. But it will become clear that Syriac Christian priests represent a special case, namely a near-eastern paradigm of learned and literate magical-medical priestcraft that transcends three millennia. The origins of this model of priestcraft can be discerned in the pre-Christian near-eastern antecedents of the Syriac Christian priests—the Mesopotamian *āšipu*s and the Iranian magi.

2 The Modern Period

As Abigail Pearson discusses in her contribution to this volume, in terms of English-speaking scholarship on Syriac magic, our earliest source is Badger's first-hand account of his travels in Mesopotamia in the middle of the nineteenth century.[2] In his fifteenth chapter, which focusses on the Nestorian clergy, Badger moved seamlessly from quoting their liturgy to quoting several examples of 'charms' intended to remove hatred, to inspire hatred, to prevent fire, and to inspire love.[3] Regarding these magical spells, Badger wrote:[4]

> I regret to state that the clergy are generally the authors of these absurd and profane effusions; and I was not a little surprised to learn, on my visit to Leezan in 1850, that Kasha Kena, who is so highly spoken of both by Mr. Ainsworth and Mr. Layard, is in the practice of drawing up and transcribing similar charms, which he sells to the people in the surrounding villages.

Badger is clear that the practitioners of magic were, to his dismay, the more respected members of the clergy. Furthermore, the provision of magic spells was a source of income for these clergymen, and, significantly, the spells were transmitted and sold in written form.

This latter point is important because, elsewhere, Badger described how the common folk were illiterate and it was only the more educated among the clergy who could read and write.[5] The provision of written spells to illiterate clients is noteworthy because the clients were not able to read the text on the amulet. The client's trust in the efficacy of the magical device, therefore, was not directly based on the text itself; instead, it was the priestly status and personal reputation of the scribe that was the guarantee of the product's prestige and hence perceived efficacy.[6]

In terms of process, Badger referred to the clergyman 'drawing up and transcribing' charms. Elsewhere, Badger stated, 'I have in my possession an entire volume of these charms, from which the following specimens are translated'.[7] This most likely refers to a recipe book, which was consulted in the process of drawing up (presumably in discussion with the client) and transcribing the client's personalised amulet.

Badger routinely expressed negative views of the clergy, considering them to be barely literate. But there were, in his view, some exceptions, and it is likely that it was the more erudite members of the clergy to whom the general population had recourse when wishing to purchase an amulet. After all, it would take a reasonably educated priest to be able to make effective use of a recipe book in the production of an amulet.

Elsewhere, we are given the following glimpse into the other scholarly activities of the clergy:[8]

> A few years after the events narrated by Mutran Hanna, one Gawrièl, a native of Mardeen, who had acquired some wealth in mercantile speculations, retired from business at Baghdad, and undertook to instruct several Chaldean youths gratuitously in the Arabic language, in grammar, logic, and rhetoric, of which he was considered perfect master. His talents and zeal were so much appreciated, that on his arrival at Mosul, the Chaldeans offered him the convent of Rabban Hormuzd, then deserted and partly in ruins, as a seminary, and invited him to take up his abode there. He acceded to the proposal, and in a short time collected a number of pupils, most of whom soon after took the vows of poverty and celibacy. These monks, headed by their lay superior …

It would appear, therefore, that there were instances of members of the clergy being educated to a higher level, including in the various branches of philosophy, and that it was assumed that monasteries were the natural environment for such pursuits (even when the teacher was not a clergyman). It was probably such educated clergy, working with manuscripts in monasteries, who had access to magical recipe books. The same most likely pertains to magical-medical manuscripts. Thus al-Jeloo states, in his discussion of both types of manuscript in a more contemporary setting, 'Often such manuscripts are to be found with priests or deacons of the Church, and are usually written or copied by men with such ecclesiastical ranks'.[9] For example, al-Jeloo describes finding two dated manuscripts during fieldwork in Syria and Iraq in 2009, both of which had been copied by members of the clergy.[10] The earlier, dated to 1719, is a magical recipe book akin to those published by Gollancz.[11] The later, dated to 1796, is a magical-medical manuscript similar to BL Or. 9360, which was published by Budge.[12]

Although the magical recipe books differ from manuscript to manuscript, they often designate themselves as a ܟܬܒܐ ܕܣܗܕܐ 'Book of Protection', which is a convenient term to adopt for this manuscript type.[13] It is likely that Badger's volume of charms was such a 'Book of Protection'.[14] The colophon of the first manuscript published by Gollancz is clear that his manuscript was copied by a priest in a monastic setting: ܟܬܒ ܟܬܒ ܗܐ ܟܬܒܐ ܕܣܗܕܐ ܒܫܠܡ ܟܬܒܐ ܕܣܗܕܐ ܒܫܠܡ. ܐܡܝܢ ܟܬܒ ܟܬܒ ܠܡܪܝ ܓ̈ܘܪ̈ܓ̈ܝ ܒܫܢܬ ܫܡ . ל . ܘܐܬܝܗ ܒܝܪ̈ܚ ܬܡܘܙ ܒܫܢܬ ܐܠܦ ܘܩ̈ܝ ܘܝ̈ܘ̈ܢ̈ܝ ܒܪ̈ܟ̈ܝ ܒܝܪ̈ܚ ܬܡܘܙ ܗܐ ܟܬܒܐ ܕܣܗܕܐ ܒܫܠܡ ... ܐܡܝܢ ܘܐܬܝܗ ܒܝܕ ܟܠ ܚܠܫ ܘܚܛ̈ܝ̈ܐ ܘܣܟ̈ܠ̈ܐ ܘܛ̈ܡ̈ܐ ܘܠ ܗܘ ܐܠܐ ܒܝܕ ܟܗܢܐ ܓ̈ܘܪ̈ܓ̈ܝ ܒܪ ܙܝܐ ܡܢ ܟܦܪ̈ ܫܝܒ̈ܢܝ ܕܒܪ̈ܟ̈ܬܐ ܐܡܝܢ ܘܐܡܝܢ. 'This book is finished in the blessed month Tammuz, the thirtieth (day), in the year 2114 of the blessed Greeks (i.e. 1802–1803 CE). Amen. This book is finished under the roof of Mar George. Amen ... This book is finished by the hands of the feeble and sinning and wicked and impure and infirm one, and that is the priest George, son of the late Zaia, from the blessed village Shibani. Yea and Amen'.[15]

Again, as with the 'Book of Protection', there is also considerable scope for variation between the magical-medical manuscripts. The self-designation ܟܬܒ ܐܣܝܘܬܐ 'Book of Medicines' is convenient,[16] even though manu-

> Its size and general appearance suggested that it had been copied in some monastery on or near the Tigris, in which it had formed part of the library, for, had it been intended for the private use of some monk, the manuscript would have been of smaller size. The quires that had been torn away from the beginning must have contained the Introduction and the first two Chapters of the Book of Medicines, and it is very probable that there were in them theories or statements that were not acceptable to the monkish readers …

Notwithstanding Budge's final speculative remark,[23] the general point that this manuscript originated in a monastic setting, and was held as a practical reference work for use by the clergy, accords well with the overall picture of the context in which these texts were copied and used. It was the clergy who preserved both the magical and the magical-medical literature, and it was the monasteries that were the repositories of such technical knowledge. And, as we have seen, the common folk, when in need of therapy, would employ the services of esteemed members of the clergy.

3 The Medieval Period

Budge's copy of the 'Book of Medicines' was made in 1894; Badger's copy of the 'Book of Protection' probably comes from the middle of the nineteenth century, as does his eye-witness testimony. The two dated manuscripts mentioned by al-Jeloo both come from the eighteenth century. Given what Badger observed of the practice of his day, in which the priests were still functioning as magical-medical therapists, it is unlikely that the manuscripts procured by Badger and Budge were jealously guarded by their owners simply to drive up the price—they probably remained in practical use and were thus an important source of both income and prestige for their owners.[24] Indeed, this continues to be the case, as al-Jeloo reports how jealously guarded these manuscripts are even in the twenty-first century;[25] he also mentions the existence of modern translations into Neo-Aramaic, dating from the second half of the twentieth century, 23 I have argued elsewhere that the 'missing' initial chapters contained more theoretical or general material that was not of interest to those desiring a practical and specific collection of medical lore; see Bhayro, 'Theory and Practice', pp. 155–156.

24 See the account in Budge, Syriac Book of Medicines, vol. I, p. xl.

25 See al-Jeloo, 'Kaldāyūthā', pp. 457 & 459.

again, presumably, for practical therapeutic purposes.[26] In the cases of both the Syriac and the Neo-Aramaic copies of these text types that were produced in the second half of the twentieth century, the information given by al-Jeloo shows that these texts continue to be copied by, and sold to, members of the clergy.[27]

This testifies to a continuity in magical-medical therapy from at least the eighteenth century to the present. Moreover, given that Budge's copy of the 'Book of Medicines' was made from what was, in his estimation, a twelfth-century manuscript, it seems clear that these traditions stretch back, at the very least, into the medieval period.[28] Thus al-Jeloo refers to Sarau's catalogue of manuscripts from Urmia, in which two 'Book of Medicines' type manuscripts are listed, one of which dates to the thirteenth century.[29] In terms of the 'Book of Protection' type, al-Jeloo, having noted that the earliest known dated copy was made in 1719, adds that 'the text is undoubtedly much older since most amulets would have perished with their owners, and even many of the surviving texts are undated'.[30] This would most likely push the 'Book of Protection' type back into the medieval period as well. This raises an important question regarding the circumstances that led to the emergence of the 'Book of Protection' and 'Book of Medicines' text types. In addressing this question in the way that is suggested below, it is my hope that we will approach these text types from a new perspective that properly appreciates their elevated status.

Recently, in scholarship on Syriac literature, we have witnessed an increased interest in the so-called 'Syriac Renaissance', that is, on the flourishing of Syriac literature and scholarship from the eleventh to the thirteenth centuries.[31] Mirroring contemporary trends in Arabic scholarship,[32] this period saw the 32 See, for example, the following remark by Carl Brockelmann at the end of his discussion of the first 'golden age' in Arabic literature: 'The need to compose compact overviews of all or at least the greater part of the sciences … only manifested itself towards the end of this period' (i.e. around the turn of the millennium)—C. production of vast encyclopaedic compilations in which sources from earlier periods were collected and bodies of knowledge were organised according to the needs of contemporary scholars. Furthermore, during this process, a certain degree of acculturation took place, in which editors went beyond simply compiling earlier texts, but adjusted them so that they would better accord with their Syriac Christian context. Modern scholarship on the Syriac Renaissance has tended to focus on the most important personalities, particularly Barhebraeus (1226–1286), whose ܟܬܒ ܓܢܙܐ ܪܫ̈ܝܡ 'Book of the Cream of Wisdom' presents an encyclopaedic survey of Aristotelian scholarship on logic, the physical world, metaphysics, and practical philosophy.[33] But other luminaries are also considered, including Eliya of Nisibis (975–1046), Michael the Syrian (1126–1199), and 'Abdišo' bar Brikha (d. 1318). And, of course, one thing they all have in common is that they were all high-ranking members of the clergy.

In terms of the literary products of the Syriac Renaissance, modern scholars have tended to focus on the sciences (physical, natural and medical), theology and philosophy, chronography, and the arts, particularly poetry.[34] The one major field that is omitted from such studies is magic. This omission is, of course, attributable to an historic prejudice, both within Syriac studies but also in the wider academic context, the echoes of which persist to this day.[35] But the silence is all the more deafening when one considers that the two main text types, the 'Book of Medicines' and the 'Book of Protection', both display precisely the same characteristics of the other, more celebrated, compilations of the same period. Both text types contain pre-existing written material that was collected and organised in order to produce practical encyclopaedic compen-

Similar trends can also be observed in the production of Byzantine Greek iatrosophia, practical medical compendia that also combine magical and medical lore, which became more popular after the fall of Constantinople in 1453; see the first chapter in P.A. Clark, A Cretan Healer's Handbook in the Byzantine Tradition: Text, Translation and Commentary (Farnham, 2011). A systematic comparison of the Syriac 'Book of Medicines' text type with the Greek iatrosophia promises to be a fruitful enterprise.

dia. Moreover, both the magical and medical content has clearly been acculturated to suit its Christian context.[36] In other words, both the 'Book of Medicines' and the 'Book of Protection' reflect the Weltanschauung of the Syriac Renaissance.

It is in this light that we should consider how the physician and medical historian Ibn Abī Uṣaybiʿah (d. 1270) describes the education of the Melkite Christian, Muwaffaq al-Dīn Yaʿqūb ibn Siqlāb (d. 1227). We are told that Ibn Siqlāb was born and raised in Jerusalem, where he studied at a local monastery under a monk who is described thus: 'a virtuous man, a philosopher … who was an expert in the natural sciences, a master in geometry and arithmetic … well-versed in astrology and the observation of the stars: he knew of fates that had been foretold and had come to pass, and amazing warnings'.[37] The latter part of this description accords well with the content of the second part of Budge's version of the 'Book of Medicines', while what precedes it accords with what modern scholars have focussed on when studying the Syriac Renaissance. Thus Ibn Siqlāb was taught at a monastery by a monk who was also a philosopher and scientist, and who also possessed an expertise in astrology and divination. This shows that, to those active in the Syriac Renaissance, the artificial distinction drawn by modern scholars between the magical and non-magical arts would not have been recognised.

It is no longer acceptable, therefore, to view the production and preservation of the 'Book of Medicines' and the 'Book of Protection' text types as anything other than part of the same 'high' learned and literate culture that produced the other, more celebrated, works of science, philosophy etc. The 'Book of Medicines' and the 'Book of Protection' should now be permitted to take their place among the other products of the Syriac Renaissance.[38]

Ibn Abī Uṣaybiʿah also devotes much space to discussing another distinguished Melkite Christian physician, Muwaffaq al-Din ibn al-Muṭrān (d. 1191). In doing so, he tells us that Ibn al-Muṭrān's father was a devout Christian who travelled to the West to learn more about his faith as well as 'the several schools of Christian thought'. He then studied medicine in Baghdad, and finally he settled in Damascus where he practised medicine. Significantly, the Arabic term المطران (al-muṭrān) means 'the metropolitan'; in other words, it is possible that Ibn al-Muṭrān's father was some sort of bishop who studied theology, philosophy and medicine, and served as both a high-ranking clergyman and physician in twelfth-century Damascus.[39] When we consider both the modern and medieval periods, therefore, a consistent model of priestcraft emerges, in which the more erudite priests would not simply serve as intermediaries between their communities and God—they would also study the arts and sciences, and they would tend to the therapeutic needs of their congregants using a range of magical and medical methods.

4 Late Antiquity

We are fortunate to have a very informative primary source that gives us a valuable insight, albeit from a polemical perspective, into the magical practices that were prevalent among Christians in the Syro-Mesopotamian milieu of Late Antiquity.[40] The fifth-century priest and poet Isḥaq of Antioch wrote a memrā, which has been attributed to Ephrem, in which he denounced the magical practices perpetrated by Christian priests. Such practices are described as being ܥܬܝܩܐ ܕܚܫܐ ܘ ܥܬܝܩܐ ܕܦܓܪܢܘܬܐ 'ancient paganism', which, leaving aside Isḥaq's withering condemnation, probably reflects the reality that there was no small amount of continuation from pre-Christian into Christian magical practice.[41] Indeed, Moriggi refers to continuity in terms of both the reception of pre-Christian magic into Syriac Christian texts, and the persistence of such texts and practices even to the present day. And, of course, it was the clergy, working in their scriptoria, who accomplished the initial reception and acculturation of ancient pagan lore into its new Syriac Christian context.[42]

Thus the model of priestcraft that is evident for the modern and medieval periods can be traced further back into Late Antiquity. Our evidence for this period is often tangential, but an analysis of the enigmatic Bardaiṣan of Edessa should prove instructive.[43]

Bardaiṣan flourished in the late second and early third centuries of our era. Although he was a prominent member of the royal court of Abgar VIII, the Great (r. 177–212) in Edessa, his own origins are unclear. He is variously described by later, less-reliable, writers as being Armenian, Mesopotamian, Syrian, and Babylonian. The final three terms probably reflect the general Syro-Mesopotamian milieu in Late Antiquity. The reference to Armenia could derive from Bardaiṣan spending the latter part of his life there, spreading the Christian faith, or because he had some ties to that region; he also appears to have written a history of Armenia.[44] Julius Africanus, who met Bardaiṣan in Edessa in 195, referred to him as a 'Parthian', which probably refers to the prevailing political and, to a lesser extent, cultural dominance of this Iranian empire in Mesopotamia in the period leading up to, and during most of, Bardaiṣan's lifetime.[45]

Like the king he served, Bardaiṣan was a pagan convert to Christianity. He excelled across an impressive range of disciplines, including theology, philosophy, astronomy, astrology, and anthropology, and he gained fame as a poet and hymnist.[46] He is also indirectly responsible for what is probably the oldest piece of Syriac literature—the 'Dialogue on Fate' or 'Book of the Laws of the Countries'—which was written by his disciple Philip, and which recounts a theological debate between Bardaiṣan and a certain Awida.[47]

Crucially, for our line of argument, the narrative opens with a seldom noticed detail, namely that the setting for this debate is Bardaiṣan making a physician's house call: ܟܝ ܡܢ ܗܘ ܒܝܬܐ ܕܚܕ ܡܢ ܒܢܝ ܐܢܫ ܠܡܚܙܐ ܠܒܪܕܝܨܢ

45 See H.J.W. Drijvers, Bardaiṣan of Edessa (Assen, 1966), pp. 217–218. Drijvers suggests that 'Parthian' may reflect Bardaiṣan's position in the court of Abgar, but allows for the possibility that it reflects Bardaiṣan's ethnic background (p. 167). Notwithstanding this possibility, I still prefer to understand it in a political and cultural way, given that the Parthians were dominant in both of the regions in which we can be certain that Bardaiṣan resided, namely Upper Mesopotamia (prior to its formal inclusion in the Roman Empire in 216) and then Armenia—see Drijvers, Bardaiṣan of Edessa, p. 208. It is also possible that, for Julius Africanus, 'Parthian' was a way of referring to the typical status and function of a magus; see the argument advanced below.

'Recently, we had gone to visit our brother Shemashgram, and Bardaiṣan came and found us there. And after he had examined him and seen that he was faring well, he asked us ...'.[48] Philip thus informs us that he and his colleagues went to visit another colleague. The use of the term ܐܚܐ 'brother' suggests that they are members of the clergy. The verb used for 'visit' is ܒܩܪ, which is often used in a medical context to mean 'care for, look after, heal'. For example, Bar Hebraeus relates how the Baghdadi physician Ibn Jazlah accrued significant wealth because he would only visit (ܒܩܪ) his friends for free when they were sick; everyone else had to pay.[49] So it appears that Philip and his colleagues are visiting another colleague who is sick in order to attend to his ill health, something confirmed by Bardaiṣan's actions. The first thing Bardaiṣan does upon his arrival is examine Shemashgram. The verb used for 'examine' is ܡܫ, which literally means 'grope' and can be used to refer to a physical examination by means of touch. For example, the same verb is used in the Syriac version of Luke 24:39, in which the resurrected Jesus suggests to Thomas that he physically touches his wounds. It is only after Bardaiṣan has ascertained Shemashgram's state of health that he turns to the others and joins in with their theological debate. This raises the question of which system of medicine Bardaiṣan was practising when he visited Shemashgram, or, to put it another way, what his sources of technical knowledge were.

Before discussing medicine, it is worthwhile considering the source of Bardaiṣan's astronomical knowledge. In the 'Book of the Laws of the Countries', Bardaiṣan quotes from a text called the 'Book of the Chaldaeans', which appears to have been a Syriac text that preserved a body of Mesopotamian astronomical tradition that was translated from Akkadian. For example, at one point Bardaiṣan states: ܠܐ ܚܢ ܒܥܬܐ ܕܢܡܘܣ ܕܫܒܥ ܟܘܟܒܝܐ ܘܠܐ ܕܬܪܥܣܪ ܙܝܢ ܙܘܪܐ. ܘܠܐ ܕܫܬܝܢ ܘܫܬ ܣܝܡܢ ܕܙܝܪܐ. ܐܠܐ ܕܠܐ ܡܢܝܢ ܘܫܡ ܕܟܘܟܒܝ ܣܗܪ ܕܐܝܬ ܒܗ ܫܒܥ ܘܫܬ ܣܝܡܢ ܕܙܝܪܐ ܘܫܬ ܣܝܡܢ ܕܙܝܪܐ. 'For we do not find seven laws in the world according to the number of the seven stars, nor twelve according to the number of the signs of the zodiac, nor thirty-six according to the number of the decanal stars'.[50] Even in this short quotation, which gives some technical astral details, we can discern an Akkadian substratum. The term used for 'sign of the zodiac' (ܙܝܪܐ) comes from Akkadian MUL lumāšu,[51] and the thirty-six decanal stars refers to the ancient Mesopotamian tradition of astrolabes or 'Three Stars Each' texts.[52] Although Bardaiṣan's immediate source of ancient Akkadian astronomical lore, the Syriac 'Book of the Chaldaeans', is no longer extant, Rudolf has provided clear evidence in other sources for the continued transmission of Akkadian astral lore into Syriac, and its subsequent preservation even into the medieval period.[53]

The process of the transmission of Akkadian astral traditions into Syriac should be contextualised alongside their reception in the two other major literary Aramaic dialects of Mesopotamia, namely Jewish Babylonian Aramaic and Mandaic, with the latter being particularly instructive for our present line of argument. This is already suggested by the use of the same Akkadian term MUL lumāšu, which, in addition to being loaned into Syriac as ܠܘܡܫܐ, was also loaned into both Jewish Babylonian Aramaic as מלואשא and Mandaic as maluaša.[54]

Rochberg has demonstrated how the Mandaic astral text Asfar Malwašia, 'Book of the Signs of the Zodiac', contains ancient Mesopotamian astral lore that was directly translated into Mandaic from Akkadian.[55] In terms of when this process of translation most likely occurred, Müller-Kessler suggested the second century CE because this is when the Mandaeans would have had access to functioning temples in Babylon, Borsippa and Kutha;[56] it was these traditional Mesopotamian temples that were the repositories for learned cuneiform texts.[57] If the second century CE did indeed witness what could be described 57 For the surprisingly late demise of ancient cuneiform scholarship, possibly even into the third century CE, within the scribal schools that were located in the temples of Babylonia, as an Akkadian to Aramaic translation movement, which included the transmission of Mesopotamian astral lore from cuneiform Akkadian texts into Aramaic alphabetic texts, then this was probably the context that produced not only the Mandaic 'Book of the Signs of the Zodiac' but also the Syriac 'Book of the Chaldaeans', through which Bardaiṣan was then able to access ancient Mesopotamian astral lore. Given that this transmission would have happened a couple of generations before Bardaiṣan flourished, this would indeed appear to be the most likely scenario.

The reception of Akkadian astral lore into Jewish Aramaic texts certainly began at least two centuries, and probably as many as four centuries, earlier than it occurred with Syriac and Mandaic; this is evident from Dead Sea Scroll texts such as the Enochic 'Astronomical Book', which appears to have been written in the third century BCE and shows clear Mesopotamian influence.[58] It is possible, however, that, in addition to this early reception of cuneiform astral traditions into Jewish Aramaic texts, a later reception, which was contemporary with that posited for Syriac and Mandaic, also occurred with Jewish Babylonian Aramaic. Evidence for this is tangential, but appears to be compelling enough to mention here. Neugebauer discussed how Maimonides's method of calculating the visibility of the new crescent moon accords with ancient Babylonian lore, adding that further investigation could lead us to conclude that this represents a 'striking example of the continuity of astronomical tradition'. Neugebauer then discussed how an ancient Babylonian technical method may have found its way into Jewish astronomy, concluding that 'we must probably assume the existence of intermediate sources, e.g. treatises written in Aramaic. None of them seems to have escaped destruction'.[59] Given that, in this case, Neugebauer was discussing a specifically rabbinic tradition, which relates to the computation of the lunar calendar, it is unlikely to relate to the kind of sources attested in the Dead Sea Scrolls, which concern the solar calendar. This would suggest a different transmission trajectory to the early phase, for which the parallel processes in Syriac and Mandaic would present the most likely context.

Be that as it may, it appears to be more than likely that Bardaiṣan's astral scholarship was based on the fruits of concerted efforts that were made in the second century CE (i.e. during his lifetime) to transmit a significant body of knowledge from Akkadian into two, and perhaps all three, of the main literary Aramaic dialects of the Syro-Mesopotamian milieu. Significantly for our present line of argument, these efforts were made in the scribal schools that were located in the historic temples of Babylonia, which places them within the purview of the priests. The reasons for this will be discussed in more detail below.

If this was the case for the astral sciences, then it was probably also the case for other scientific and technical corpora, which helps us address the question of which medical system Bardaiṣan was using when he examined the sick Shemashgram. There is no good reason to assume that Bardaiṣan was using anything other than the traditional Mesopotamian medical system, which was the prevailing medical system of his day and region;[60] it was considered prestigious, and had been practiced for over two millennia. And, just as with astronomy, we have clear evidence for the transmission of ancient Akkadian medical lore into both Jewish Babylonian Aramaic and Syriac.[61]

In addition to mastering the arts and sciences of his day, therefore, Bardaiṣan appears to have also been a practising therapist. But can we be sure that he was a member of the clergy? As we have seen, the manner in which Bardaiṣan's physician's house call is described suggests that the patient and the visitors should be understood as being clergymen. This would, in turn, lend support to the idea that Bardaiṣan was also a priest, as the narrative presents him as holding a senior and respected position among those gathered in the patient's home. Furthermore, Bardaiṣan certainly bears all the hallmarks of what we would expect from high-ranking clergy in the Syriac milieu in later periods, especially in respect of his erudition across several fields, theological speculations, hymn writing, and especially his later missionary work in Armenia.[62] He also left behind a distinctive Christian movement, albeit one considered heterodox by later writers. All of these factors are suggestive of Bardaiṣan's priestly status.[63]

60 It is unlikely that Bardaiṣan used the Greco-Roman system of medicine, as his knowledge of Greek culture and sources appears to have been limited, to say the least. Thus Burkitt argued that Bardaiṣan had no first-hand knowledge of Greek sources, and such knowledge only appears among his followers. For example, it is Bardaiṣan's son, Harmonius, who is said to have used Greek music theory. Furthermore, the apparent Stoicism of the 'Book of the Laws of the Countries' probably pertains to those who came after him. See Drijvers, Bardaiṣan of Edessa, pp. 9, 43, 76–77, 180.

But we are left with one major problem when trying to answer the question as to whether Bardaiṣan was a priest, namely, it is not entirely clear precisely what, if anything, being a priest entailed in Bardaiṣan's day. This problem is particularly acute in the Syro-Mesopotamian milieu, for which our evidence is especially sparse. Even in the west, for which there is more evidence, the earliest evidence we have for ordination as a rite comes from the early third century. Prior to this, the notion of laying on of hands was associated with the sending of missionaries, and the concept of ordination was very much a recognition of a person's gifts rather than status; indeed, one can safely assume that these were gifts that had been sufficiently demonstrated to warrant recognition by the local community of believers. By the late second century, however, the distinction between clergy and laity had begun to emerge in the west, with a local bishop administering the rite of ordination not so much as a recognition of a person's gifts, but as a means of conferring gifts upon the candidate.[64] The extent to which this had permeated into Bardaiṣan's milieu is unclear, but is perhaps beside the point; it is likely that Bardaiṣan's rise to prominence occurred in a more primitive stage in the development of ordination, and that his priestly status was very much on account of his numerous gifts being recognised by the community of believers that gathered around him.

5 Pre-Christian Models of Priestcraft

It would seem, therefore, that Bardaiṣan functioned as both priest (in as much as such a status may have existed for Christians in his milieu) and physician. The location of his activities, moreover, is further instructive. As noted above, 62 Hence Wright's quaint statement that Bardaiṣan 'betook himself as a missionary to the rude mountaineers of Armenia'; see W. Wright, A Short History of Syriac Literature (London, 1894), p. 29.

63 It is also certainly the case that later historians, when giving their biographies of Bardaiṣan, refer to him becoming a deacon after his conversion to Christianity. As Drijvers points out, however, this could simply be an established trope in an ecclesiastical legend; for example, the same is said of Mani—for details, see Drijvers, Bardaiṣan of Edessa, pp. 188–190.

64 E.G. Hinson, 'Ordination in Christian History', Review and Expositor 78 (1981), pp. 485–496 (486–487). For the Greek East, the earliest evidence adduced by Hinson is from the fourth century (489).

Bardaiṣan served in the royal court of Abgar the Great, in which he appears to have functioned as a palace wise man. Drijvers thus refers to Bardaiṣan as a 'gentleman of the court … distinguished by a high social position and doubtlessly by great erudition'.[65] Given his mastery of multiple ancient Mesopotamian technical fields, his priestly status, his role in the palace, and his high social status, Bardaiṣan very much resembles, in practical terms, two pre-Christian types of priest, namely the Mesopotamian āšipu and the Iranian magus.

Historically, there were two main types of healing professionals in the ancient near east—the asû, commonly understood as a physician or herbalist, and the āšipu, often translated 'exorcist' or 'magician'.[66] They were complementary rather than competing therapeutic practitioners, as their skills were originally distinct. In the latter part of the first millennium BCE, however, the fortunes of the asû and the āšipu very much diverged. As far as we can tell from official records and tablet colophons, the status of the asû very much declined. This is probably because, in the Neo-Assyrian and Neo-Babylonian periods, the asû relied mostly on the patronage of local rulers or functioned as a private entrepreneur. When the Achaemenid Empire reorganised the local power structures in Mesopotamia, however, the traditional institutional support for the asû all but disappeared. The āšipu, on the other hand, was a priest, and continued to receive the institutional support of the temples, which, as we have seen, continued to function in Mesopotamia throughout the Achaemenid and Parthian periods. Furthermore, the āšipu was more flexible than the asû, absorbing and practising a broader range of technical knowledge and crafts. This included the asûtu, that is, the traditional craft of the asû, in addition to astral and other forms of divination.[67] The following description by Steinert is particularly instructive, as it also informs the following discussion of the magus:[68]

> The āšipu mastered a far greater corpus of texts than the asû, and his knowledge and activities were of a wider range and higher order. He focused not only on applying medical treatments and healthcare services for individuals and households, but also attended to the concerns of the king and society at large by mediating (through rituals) between the human and divine world and preserving wellbeing and divine order (cf. the āšipu's role in rituals for the induction of divine cult statues or in purificatory rituals for the king). Through their vast knowledge and their employment of strategies to boost their social prestige, the *āšipu*s were in a better position to preserve institutional ties and support from local temples throughout the Late Babylonian period, while the *asû*s seem to have lost these strategic ties (e.g., with the shrines of healing deities), becoming largely invisible in the written records … By the Late Babylonian period, the field of asûtu healing techniques seems largely to have been taken over and carried out by the āšipu as well, although the profession of the asû may have survived for some time, as a craft practiced outside the large institutions.

Another distinction between the āšipu and the asû is that the former was more stationary, being attached to his temple or the palace, while the latter could travel to ply his trade. Again, for our purposes, the location of the āšipu priest's practice in either the temple or the palace is significant.[69]

This model of priestcraft, in which the āšipu was held in high esteem as a polymath, exorcist and medical practitioner, continued throughout the Achaemenid period and well into the Parthian period. As long as the traditional temples of Mesopotamia continued to operate, and as long as the political elite extended their patronage, the āšipu priest continued to function accordingly, occupying a privileged position in both temple and palace.

Judging by the extent to which the Iranian magus resembles the Mesopotamian āšipu, this model of priestcraft appears to have continued in Mesopotamia even under the Sasanians. Boyce accounted for the presence of the magi in Achaemenid Mesopotamia thus, again implicitly locating their activities in both palace and temple:[70]

---

69 Geller points out that both the asû and the bārû (diviner) have this in common, with neither of them being priests; see M.J. Geller, Ancient Babylonian Medicine: Theory and Practice (Chichester, 2010), pp. 50–51.

70 M. Boyce, A History of Zoroastrianism Volume Two: Under the Achaemenians (Leiden, 1982), p. 66 (see also 33).

> Zoroastrian priests must have gone to live there [Babylonia], some to care for the needs of Persian officials and others, some probably simply to study further—for Babylonian lore, especially in the fields of astronomy and astrology, was to contribute largely to the development of Zoroastrian scholasticism by western Iranian priests.

Elsewhere, Boyce describes Babylon as 'one of the great strongholds of the magi' in the Achaemenid period.[71] Indeed, when Babylon surrendered to Alexander the Great in 331 BCE, it was the magi who took the lead in the great procession, with the Babylonian priests following behind them;[72] this probably speaks to both their political and religious status.[73]

As a member of the professional class of priests, the magus would have been part of the learned scribal elite, often serving in the royal administration at either central or local level.[74] In terms of his possible range of activities, the magus was known for practising dream interpretation and other forms of divination,[75] performing priestly rituals,[76] and serving as an intermediary between the human and divine realms at both the temple and the royal court.[77] He would have been considered an expert in cosmology,[78] astronomy and astrology (particularly the Babylonian system),[79] and, of course, he would have been a practitioner of magic (a major part of the prevailing medical system);[80] hence later Christian, and especially Syriac, traditions about the magi being experts in magic, medicine and divination.[81]

To an outsider, therefore, a magus would have very much resembled an āšipu, as Dandamayev explains in a rather understated way:[82]

> The seeming confusion in the use of the words 'Magi' and 'Chaldeans' in Greek literature can be explained by the fact that the activities of Babylonian priests and Iranian Magi were similar in some aspects.

82 Dandamayev, 'Magi'.

For several ancient Greek writers, the magi and the Chaldeans were synonymous because of their expertise in the astral sciences.[83] For example, the second-century CE historian Appian's account of the founding of Seleucia-on-the-Tigris (the new Babylon) describes Seleucus consulting the magi of Babylon to determine the most auspicious time to begin his project; from the context, however, it would appear that he was actually consulting Babylonian priests.[84] This association of magi with Chaldeans continued in Syriac Christian sources even into the medieval period; Boyce adduces one example from the 'Cave of Treasures', in which the magi observe a celestial omen and, together with Chaldean priests, discover its meaning in their books.[85]

6 Continuity in the Traditional Model of Priestcraft

On a personal level, therefore, Bardaiṣan, as physician-scholar-priest, very much resembles a magus and, in turn, an āšipu. He shares their high social status (both religious and political), their polymath tendencies (particularly in respect of his reception and use of ancient Mesopotamian technical lore), their interest in cosmology and the astral sciences, their practical functions as priest and physician, and the location of their activities in both the palace and temple (in Bardaiṣan's case, among his community of fellow believers). In other words, Bardaiṣan probably represents a continuity in the model of priestcraft practiced by the āšipu and the magus—something that would have seemed normal to someone of his background, status and education.[86] Be that as it may, it would appear that, long after the Akkadian language, and hence the term

83 Boyce and Grenet, A History of Zoroastrianism, p. 368. For astronomers as temple-based priests in Babylonia between 400 BCE and 100 CE, see M. Ossendrijver, 'Hellenistic Astronomy and the Babylonian Scribal Families', in A.C. Bowen and F. Rochberg (eds), Hellenistic Astronomy: The Science in its Contexts (Leiden, 2020), pp. 426–439 (434–436). Ossendrijver remarks that, in this period, astronomers were 'perhaps exclusively, employed by the temples' (434); he also notes that, in Seleucid Uruk, for instance, the astronomers were either a kalû (lamentation priest) or an āšipu, with the latter specialising, in addition to the astral sciences, in 'omens, rituals for averting their evil, and medicine' (436).

84 Boyce and Grenet, A History of Zoroastrianism, p. 374.

85 Boyce and Grenet, A History of Zoroastrianism, p. 453.

86 In this respect, the reputation of Bardaiṣan as prolific hymnist is really interesting, as this is something for which the magi were also reputed; see Boyce and Grenet, A History of Zoroastrianism, pp. 539–548. Such perceptions may indeed reflect a reality, that is, that priests of these types did actually write hymns.

āšipu, ceased to be used, the āšipu model of priestcraft continued under other names in other languages, particularly with the magus and then with Christian priests in the Syriac milieu.

The traditional Mesopotamian model of priestcraft probably continued well into the third century CE, when the historic Mesopotamian temples finally ceased to function.[87] By this time, however, Christianity had become well established as a significant minority faith in Mesopotamia. It stands to reason, therefore, that, as Christianity spread in Mesopotamia, its more erudite adherents would have adapted the prevailing model of priestcraft, that of the āšipu and magus, and put it into practice in a Christian context: monasteries would have replaced the traditional temples, Christian priests would have taken the place of the priests of the old religion, and the complementary roles of medicine and magic would have continued, albeit with some degree of acculturation with respect to the new faith.[88] Bodies of knowledge were transmitted, both from Akkadian into Aramaic and from temples to monasteries, which became the new seat of learning and therapeutic practice. And magic and medicine, long-term partners in therapeutic practice, continued their complementary relationship, this time at the hands of Christian priests.[89]

7 Post-script: The Jewish Babylonian Aramaic Magic Bowls

All of this has clear implications for the magical practices that can be observed for the Jews of Talmudic Babylonia, for which the Jewish Aramaic magic bowls are our main source. Of course, unlike their Christian neighbours, the Baby-

87 For the persistence of the traditional Mesopotamian temples into at least the third century CE, see M.J. Geller, 'Tablets and Magic Bowls', in S. Shaked (ed.), Officina Magica: Essays on the Practice of Magic in Antiquity (Leiden, 2005), pp. 53–72 (53–54); see also al-Jeloo, 'Kaldāyūthā', pp. 474–475, who allows for temple activity persisting even into the fourth century CE.

88 A similar suggestion is made by al-Jeloo, specifically in respect of textual continuity and the 'Book of Medicines' text type, but he appears to misunderstand the roles and fortunes of the antecedents, with 'practitioners, now priests and deacons, replacing the separate roles of the bâru, âshipu and asû'—see al-Jeloo, 'Kaldāyūthā', p. 467. As we have seen, by the second half of the first millennium BCE, the āšipu had more or less subsumed the roles of the other two. Despite this, al-Jeloo's suggestion, although it is tentatively put, has much to commend it.

89 It is possible that the particular origins of the Syriac model of priestcraft are, at least in part, responsible for the distinctive Syriac tradition of Christ and his followers as Physician/physicians; see R. Murray, Symbols of Church and Kingdom: A Study in Early Syriac Tradition (London, 1975), pp. 199–203.

lonian Jews of Late Antiquity did not have functioning priests, and the rabbis were not magical-medical therapists in the way that the Christian priests were. But this still leaves the scribes, who, as has become clear, were certainly practising magic including writing bowls for clients.[90] While there is a clear continuity between the pre-Christian priestly scribes and their temples, on the one hand, and the Christian priestly scribes and their monasteries, on the other, the continuity of ancient practice that we can posit for the Jews of Talmudic Babylonia lies with the scribes and their scribal schools, which, of course, lacks the priestly element.[91]

In addition to the critical mass of evidence that places the writing of many of the Jewish magic bowls within the purview of the scribes, we also have the 'Book of Asaph the Physician', a late-antique Jewish medical textbook whose introduction contains the 'Enochic' explanation for the origins of sickness, magic and medicine.[92] Interestingly, while the rabbis rejected the various Enoch traditions, there is some evidence that the bowl scribes were more open to them.[93] Although the question of the date and provenance of the 'Book of Asaph the Physician' remains unresolved, the best work on this text to date is probably that of Muntner, who asserts that it comes from either Palestine or Mesopotamia on the eve of Islam;[94] if it was indeed Mesopotamia, that would, of course, be the same context as the magic bowls.

91 For the distinction between the differing, and often competing, guilds of the priests, rabbis, judges, and scribes, see C. Hezser, The Social Structure of the Rabbinic Movement in Roman Palestine (Tübingen: Mohr Siebeck, 1997), pp. 467–489; although this relates to the situation in late antique Palestine, it is likely that the situation in late antique Babylonia was not altogether different in this specific regard.

92 By 'Enochic', I mean the exegetical tradition of Gen. 6:1–4, in which the angels descend to take human wives. This tradition occurs in various forms, with that of the book of Jubilees apparently underlying the introduction to the 'Book of Asaph the Physician'; see V. Nutton, 'From Noah to Galen: A Medieval Latin History of Medicine', in I. Csepregi and C. Burnett (eds), Ritual Healing: Magic, Ritual and Medical Therapy from Antiquity until the Early Modern Period (Florence, 2012), pp. 53–69 (64). See also E. Lieber, 'Asaf's Book of Medicines: A Hebrew Encyclopedia of Greek and Jewish Medicine, Possibly Compiled in Byzantium on an Indian Model', Dumbarton Oaks Papers 38 (1984), pp. 233–249, who provides a good summary of prior scholarship on this text.

94 See S. Muntner, Introduction to the Book of Asaph the Physician (מבוא לספר אסף הרופא; Jerusalem, 1957); see also Nutton, 'From Noah to Galen', p. 61; Lieber, 'Asaf's Book of Medicines', p. 246.

Taken together, all of this very much suggests that both magic and medicine were being carried out by late antique Jewish scribes, which, given the historic Mesopotamian precedent and concurrent practice among late antique Christians, makes perfect sense; indeed, we would not expect anything else. This, in turn, very much suggests that, when considering the praxis of the Jewish Aramaic magic bowls, we should not assume that they functioned alone. It is likely that the bowl was often part of a complementary therapeutic package that could include a more medical component.

CHAPTER 4

Syriac Incantation Bowls and the Mesopotamian Context: A Glimpse into Christian-Jewish Cultural Interactions

Marco Moriggi

1 Syriac Incantation Bowls 2014–2020

When considering the whole corpus of Syriac texts included under the label 'magic texts', two groups of textual sources may be singled out: texts written on the nowadays well-known Mesopotamian incantation bowls, and texts written or incised on a variety of objects that are described as 'amulets', 'talismans', or 'phylacteries' in the scholarly literature.[1] Mesopotamian incantation bowls with Syriac texts, in both Estrangela and Manichaean scripts, have been studied and commented upon since research on this peculiar kind of artefact began, i.e. from the middle of the 19th century.[2]

The present situation with regard to Syriac incantation bowls may be summarised as follows. There are sixty-three published Syriac bowls.[3] Forty-nine

1 On the category of 'magic' and related subjects, chiefly the way an object is included in/excluded from the domain of 'magic' artefacts, see D. Frankfurter, 'Ancient Magic in a New Key: Refining an Exotic Discipline in the History of Religions', in Idem (ed.), Guide to the Study of Ancient Magic (Leiden and Boston, 2019), pp. 3–20 (13–14); G. Veltri, A Mirror of Rabbinic Hermeneutics: Studies in Religion, Magic, and Language Theory in Ancient Judaism (Berlin and Boston, 2015), p. 125; see also the Introduction to the present volume.

2 On the history of the study of the Syriac bowls, their language and scripts, see M. Moriggi, A Corpus of Syriac Incantation Bowls: Syriac Magical Texts from Late-Antique Mesopotamia (Leiden and Boston, 2014), pp. 1–3, 11–19. As regards Mesopotamian incantation bowls in general, including texts—apart from the Syriac ones—in Jewish Babylonian Aramaic, Mandaic, Pahlavi, and various pseudo-scripts, see now G. Bohak, 'Jewish Amulets, Magic Bowls, and Manuals in Aramaic and Hebrew', in Frankfurter (ed.), Guide, pp. 388–415 (394–400); S. Shaked, J.N. Ford, S. Bhayro, Aramaic Bowl Spells: Jewish Babylonian Aramaic Bowls Volume One (Leiden and Boston, 2013), pp. 1–27. Pseudo-scripts on incantation bowls are the subject of a thorough study by D.J. Waller, 'Curious Characters, Invented Scripts, and … Charlatans? "Pseudo-Scripts" in the Mesopotamian Magic Bowls', Journal of Near Eastern Studies 78 (2019), pp. 119–139. Incantation bowls may be included in the category of 'lettered amulets' as discussed by R. Kotansky, 'Textual Amulets and Writing Traditions in the Ancient World', in Frankfurter (ed.), Guide, p. 509.

2 Late-Antique Mesopotamian Magic: Incantation Bowls

It is well known that it is by no means as easy task to conduct research on ancient societies, especially as our evidence is often fragmentary and but a poor reflection of the entire picture. There are some notable exceptions to this general situation, but, even in these few cases, the puzzle still lacks many pieces.

Regarding textual sources, the situation is often worse than that found, for instance, in the field of archaeology. For some ancient societies, we have only canonical texts which were conceived in order to project a precise, often idealised, picture of the society they originate from. At the same time, these texts were intended to hide specific social, political and religious elements that were considered not to accord with this picture, or that may have compromised the strength of the elite. It was this elite, in turn, that wanted to create and promote the picture painted by the canonical books.[22]

It is of course possible that ancient sites yield texts which were not official or at least did not fall into the category of the canonical, and, as such, have escaped the control of the dominant group and thus avoided mutation in language and content or, at worst, destruction. This is the case with what we usually label as 'magic' texts, including those specifically dealt with in this paper, incantation bowl texts.

Incantation bowl texts, in this respect, have some characteristics that may contribute to our understanding of how different social and religious groups interacted in Late Antiquity. First, they were used, according to the data at our disposal, in central and lower Mesopotamia between the fourth and the eighth centuries AD, which is comparatively well-defined in terms of both geography and chronology.[23] Second, this specific context witnessed one of the most intriguing cultural melting pots of Late Antiquity, in which Judaism, Christianity, Manichaeism, Zoroastrianism, ancient Mesopotamian cults and Gnostic sects—among them the Mandaeans—lived side-by-side. Even if this 22 The usual labels found in scholarly literature, such as 'Christian', 'Jewish', 'pagan', and the like are often built upon the point of view of these canonical texts and may be easily considered as 'artificial'. See K. Eshleman, Review of: É. Rebillard, J. Rüpke (eds), Group Identity and Religious Individuality in Late Antiquity (Washington D.C., 2015), http://bmcr.brynmawr.edu/2016/2016-05-35.html (last visit 28.11.2020).

23 For the archaeological contexts where incantation bowls were discovered, see R. Venco Ricciardi, 'Trial Trench at Tell Baruda', Mesopotamia 8–9 (1973–1974), pp. 15–20; M. Gawlikowski, 'Bijan in the Euphrates', Sumer 42 (1985), pp. 15–21. Regarding chronology, see S. Shaked, J.N. Ford, S. Bhayro, Aramaic Bowl Spells: Jewish Babylonian Aramaic Bowls Volume One (Leiden and Boston, 2013), p. 1.

in itself is not a sufficient condition for interaction from a cultural point of view, it appears that all of these groups were, to varying extents, involved in the practice of making and using incantation bowls. Third, as Shaked states, the bowls are marked by an 'intensively private character. Not only do they deal with private affairs, sometimes even with intimate problems, and never refer to communal concerns, they are also private in the sense that each artifact containing an inscription is normally prepared for a specific individual or for members of a small household, with the person's name inscribed on it'.[24] This 'private character' provides us with a key to the realm of micro-history—everyday life in these ancient communities—where the canonising processes and authoritative textual decisions were less effective and, in any case, could not completely control the phenomenon of inscribing and using incantation bowls.[25]

In this context, attention must be paid to what the people of the time thought about the texts on the incantation bowls. As Levene notes:

> … it must be realized that those who composed, produced and consumed the type of magical incantations in late antiquity that we find in magic bowls, would not have considered the issue in quite the same way as we have done over the past two centuries. In fact, it is quite clear from a number of sources that prayer and magical incantation are the products of the same cultural environment. Furthermore, there is nothing to suggest that those who used prayer and magical incantation were different groups of people. Although distinct in both form, function and context, the evidence indicates that both magical incantation and forms of prayer were not necessarily thought of as contradictory or even totally exclusive of each other.[26]

Bhayro.

It should also be noted that, because of the temporal and geographical remoteness of the context in which the bowls were produced, it is difficult to discern the extent to which members of one community were aware of their distinctiveness in relation to the other communities.

Notwithstanding the physical form of the bowls, which are usually described as ordinary pottery of common shape as was in everyday use in Sasanian Mesopotamia, it must be borne in mind that, for the people who used them, 'les documents eux-mêmes, avec tout ce qui' ils contiennent et ce qui les caractérise (écriture, dessins, forme, matière, dimensions, etc.) sont magiques'.[27]

Before moving on to discuss how the bowls inform Jewish-Christian relations specifically, we should first consider briefly the well-known topic of syncretism in incantation bowl texts. In his analysis of syncretism in the incantation bowls, Harviainen concluded that 'syncretism did not imply independence of religion; it was solely an additional instrument with which people tried to strengthen the protection system provided by their native religion'.[28] It is rather difficult, therefore, to distinguish religious elements pertaining to a particular faith in a syncretistic framework like the one mirrored in the bowl texts.[29] When dealing with these magical objects, we may still consider the problem in light of Gordon's statement that:

> … there is no way of sharply distinguishing in detail Jewish from Christian from Mandaean magic. Magic is highly interconfessional. Clients go to a magician not because he belongs to the same denomination but because they have confidence in his professional skill. An element attributed to Rabbi Joshua son of Peraḥia, is obviously Jewish. A reference to Jesus the Messiah, is obviously Christian. Invoking 'the knowledge of light', is obviously Mandaean. But one cannot state that a given incantation belongs > entirely to one religion. For this very reason the classification has, in practice, rested mainly on the script employed. Aramaic letters are called Jewish; Syriac letters, Christian; Mandaean letters, Mandaean. As for the rest, we have to evaluate each element point by point.[30]

Thus the distinctions that are commonly drawn on the basis of script (square script means a Jewish text, Syriac scripts—Esṭrangela and Manichaean—mean a Christian text, Mandaic script means a Mandaic text) may no longer be valid, and certainly not as a tool to distinguish corpora of texts.

In my opinion, the crux of the issue is not the distinction between communities, but the process through which these groups shared cultural features. The cultural syncretism that is apparent in these texts is nothing but a result of this interaction. This approach may demonstrate its usefulness if one looks more closely at the Syriac bowl texts with reference to the Christian and Jewish cultures of Sasanian Babylonia.

3 Syriac Incantation Bowls and Jewish Culture in Sasanian Babylonia

Incantation bowls in Syriac comprise a small minority of those known to exist, which number over two thousand. As discussed above, there are sixty-three Syriac bowls that were published between 1853 and 2020, and a further one hundred and two are known to exist in museums and private collections.[31] A unique feature of these bowls is that they employ two scripts, Esṭrangela and Manichaean, to write a single language: Syriac.[32] Even though they are comparatively few in number, the Syriac bowls provide a rich inventory of texts and motifs, some of which have already been identified as being derived from Jewish traditions, in particular the 'divorce-formula' (geṭ) to exorcise demons and illnesses.[33]

Van Rompay suggested that the Syriac bowls should be regarded as 'a part of Syriac literature'.[34] Given this, one may wonder whether the search for for-mulae like the 'divorce-formula' in Syriac bowls may be included (at least from the point of view of methodology) in the framework of the study of Jewish elements in Syriac literature. Furthermore, one may consider whether the transmission of traditions between the two cultures was mutual, with Syriac Christian elements occurring in Jewish bowls. We encounter two problems when exploring these questions. First, do we have Syriac bowls that we can label indisputably as 'Christian'? And, second, what can we deduce about interactions between Judaism and Syriac Christianity in Sasanian Babylonia if the multifaceted nature of the texts blurs the confessional lines?

If we approach the subject of interaction between Judaism and Syriac Christianity in Syriac bowl texts from the point of view of Syriac studies, it makes sense to begin with the existing body of research on Jewish tradition in Syriac sources. According to Brock, this may be fruitfully conducted in at least > … four main areas of Syriac literature: (1) incorporated into the actual Syriac translations of Old Testament books, most obviously in the Pentateuch and Chronicles; (2) targumic traditions known to early Syriac writers but absent from the extant Peshitta text of the Bible; (3) apocrypha and pseudepigrapha of Jewish origin […]; (4) certain types of Syriac literature, notably of course commentaries, but also poetry, chronicles, and Old Testament "hagiography".[35]

To this, we may now add incantation bowls and related texts as a fifth area. Although it is outside the realm of high literature, it is nevertheless an everyday practical theurgic Syriac literature. The methodology used by Brock is also useful with the bowl texts in as much as it focusses on linguistic phenomena and the borrowing and transformation of specific themes from Judaism into Syriac Christianity.

The bowl texts, however, do not testify to an exact borrowing in one direction. It is indeed the case that Syriac bowls show Jewish elements in their texts, such as the aforementioned 'divorce-formula', although such elements are often subject to a degree of acculturation.[36] It is also the case, however, that Jewish texts show Syriac (Christian) elements. For example, there are Jewish Babylonian Aramaic bowls that contain expressions such as 'in the name of Jesus who suppressed the height and the depth by his cross, and in the name of his Exalted Father, and in the name of his Holy Spirit, forever and ever',[37] or 'Jesus the Physician, guard this your handmaid from every evil forever', or 'Jesus the Physician, guard these your servants from every evil'.[38] We thus have a bilateral relationship (or, better, a multilateral one, if we also take into consideration the Mandaic bowls) between Syriac and Jewish texts in this respect, which accords with Bohak's rejection of the 'pan-Judaic perspective' on the origin of magical themes in non-Jewish magical texts.[39]

Given all of this, one may legitimately ask whether it is possible to find Syriac bowls that can unequivocally be attributed to a Christian cultural milieu. In this respect some attempts have been made, and a grouping of Syriac bowls that 'seem to be Christian [...]. Judging by the presence of Christian formulae, Jewish themes or cross symbols' was proposed some years ago.[40] Again, I think that pinpointing single elements in a text is not sufficient a basis on which to reconstruct the interactions that led to its production. In many cases, we cannot be sure that a text was written or used by a Christian, but, at the same time, we cannot exclude Christians from being the practitioners or clients.[41]

We cannot deduce from the Syriac bowl texts, therefore, a sharp confrontation between well-defined, canonised, cultural features that pertain to one cultural milieu or another. Rather it is the reflex of an ongoing process of interaction in which many cultural features are brought together in order to provide 41 Thus Harviainen stated that 'the Syriac bowl texts also lack references to Christianity, Judaism or Zoroastrian religion. This dual evidence provides significant concrete support for the hypothesis of a pagan origin for the Syriac bowl texts'; see T. Harviainen, 'Pagan Incantations in Aramaic Magic Bowls', in M.J. Geller, J.C. Greenfield, M.P. Weitzman (eds), Studia Aramaica: New Sources and New Approaches (Oxford, 1995), pp. 53–60 (58; Harviainen's emphasis). One may recall here, following Lacerenza, 'the so-called "Hebraikos Logos" of PGM IV: 3009–3085 (l. 3019)—a text rich in Jewish materials, even though it also mentions the name of Jesus, and was probably assembled by pagan hands'; see Lacerenza, 'Jewish Magicians and Christian Clients', p. 405.

the text with as many defenses as possible against evil, misfortune and illness.[42] The best way to discern the circumstances in which such features were used is to consider, whenever possible, the manner of their use in the text. This will always involve some degree of adaptation and transformation of the original feature in its new context (e.g. the Jewish divorce-formula in a Syriac text). The degree of adaptation and transformation may vary, but it always involves, to a greater or lesser extent, the language(s) of the texts. Furthermore language is the tool of performative statements, which are an important feature of incantation texts.[43] Investigating linguistic variation in the context of the transmission of a feature from one text to another may help to explain the processes of cultural interaction that are found in Syriac bowls and beyond.[44]

4 Jewish Themes in Syriac Incantation Bowls

In my analysis of the use of the Jewish divorce-formula (geṭ) in Syriac incantation bowls, therefore, I stressed the importance of focusing on textual variation in order to properly investigate the absorption of this theme into Syriac bowl texts, and made the following conclusions:[45]

a) of all the types of divorce-formula attested in Jewish Babylonian Aramaic bowls, only one was adopted for use in Syriac bowls;[46]
b) single passages of the Syriac text were translated from Jewish Babylonian Aramaic and Hebrew;

42 Ilan remarked, while dealing with a group of Syriac and Jewish Babylonian Aramaic bowl texts that were ordered by the same couple (Dadba and Sharqoi), that 'they believed they should use all measures available to protect themselves, just to be on the safe side, like installing two alarm systems from two competing companies'; see T. Ilan, 'Jesus and Joshua ben Perahiah: A Jewish-Christian Dialogue on Magic in Babylonia', in R.S. Boustan, K. Herrmann, R. Leicht, A.Y. Reed, G. Veltri (eds), Envisioning Judaism: Studies in Honor of Peter Schäfer on the Occasion of his Seventieth Birthday (Tübingen, 2013), II, pp. 985–995 (986).

44 An analogous perspective, including direct references to incantation bowl texts, is featured in B. Belinitzky, Y. Paz, 'Bound and Banned: Aphrahaṭ and Excommunication in the Sasanian Empire', in A.M. Butts, S. Gross (eds), Jews and Syriac Christians: Intersections across the First Millennium (Tübingen, 2020), pp. 67–88 (77–88).

46 On this type of text in the Syriac bowls, no significant new data are provided by the contribution of S. Bolz, 'A Jewish Adjuration Formula in Three Syriac Magic Bowls', in M.E. Doerfler, E. Fiano, K.R. Smith (eds), Syriac Encounters: Papers from the Sixth North American Syriac Symposium, Duke University, 26–29 June 2011 (Leuven, 2015), pp. 455–466.

c) it is possible to detect in the Syriac texts clear signs of adaptation in terms of both morphology and syntax;
d) the key Jewish Babylonian Aramaic term gyṭ' 'deed of divorce' is rendered with Syriac dstbyr', a loanword from Middle Persian (dastwar).[47]

This short list includes linguistic phenomena that are the tangible result of a 'sophisticated adaptation of the Jewish spell to the Syriac cultural milieu'.[48] For other possible examples, one may read the Syriac bowl no. VA 3383 (Vorderasiatisches Museum, Berlin), where elements of Jewish mysticism (including an interesting description of the angel Metatron) were adapted by the scribe in order to be fit for his clients, one of whom bears a Christian name (srgys, ll. 1, 8);[49] or Greenfield's notes on šmḥyz' in the Syriac bowl no. YBC 2357:8 (Yale Babylonian Collection).[50]

A similar process of adaptation and absorption may be detected, albeit in a more nuanced way, in some passages of the Peshiṭta Old Testament. For example, Paradise is described as a mountain, which is unlike the Hebrew text of Genesis but in accordance with other early Jewish texts such as Ezekiel and 1 Enoch. Analogously, the technical term qdyš' /qaddišā/ 'holy' means 'continent' in the Peshiṭta Old Testament, and, 'although this ideal [sexual continence] was clearly current in some circles within Judaism, there appear to be no clear 47 We may further add that the texts feature the well-known figure of Joshua ben Peraḥyah, a significant character in the texts for divorcing demons. This Talmudic sage seems to have had an important role in Jewish-Christian magical interaction in Sasanian Babylonia; see Ilan, 'Jesus and Joshua ben Perahiah'.

Greenfield, 'Notes on Some Aramaic and Mandaic Magic Bowls', Journal of the Ancient Near Eastern Society of Columbia University 5 (1973), pp. 153–154. A partial list of Jewish elements in Syriac bowls is provided by C. Müller-Kessler, 'Eine ungewöhnliche Hekhalot-Zauberschale und ihr babylonisches Umfeld: Jüdisches Gedankengut in den Magischen Texten des Ostens', Frankfurter Judaistische Beiträge 38 (2013), pp. 69–84 (69–70). For an analysis of other linguistic features that point to a Jewish Babylonian Aramaic origin of some Syriac bowl texts, with adaptation and linguistic variation, see H. Juusola, 'Who Wrote the Syriac Incantation Bowls?', in Studia Orientalia 85 (Helsinki, 1999), pp. 77–87.

instances where qaddisha has this technical sense in Jewish texts.'[51] Thus it is possible, to some extent, to trace the way Jewish features entered Syriac incantation bowls by means of text variation—certainly morphological and syntactical, but also lexical. While the Jewish origin of the divorce-formula is beyond doubt, what is found in the Syriac texts is different from what is found in the Jewish texts, first of all from the point of view of language.

Behind the texts, of course, there were scribes, and it is important to remember that all such textual and cultural interactions involve real human beings. As Lacerenza puts it, at the heart of such interactions, was the 'average late antique magician […] a mediator between different realities, modes of thought, and situations: between learned and popular culture, between orthodoxy and heterodoxy, and between traditional faith and other cultures'.[52]

5 Syriac Christianity and Judaism in Sasanian Mesopotamia: Interaction through Shared Magical Practices

As we are studying texts, we run the risk of 'depicting it all as if human lives were made up only of words, culture and cognitive representations, and not of the process of social interaction'.[53] In this respect, the incantation bowls have proved useful in emphasising that, in the framework of Sasanian Babylonia, 'the elements in flux are affected by a multitude of individual experiences, and to look for a simple match, a single "structure" that embraces a shared cognitive model and an aggregate configuration of society, is a futile exercise'.[54]

Thus, on the one hand, we have a rich inventory of Jewish features in Syriac texts, some, but not all, of which would have been Christian. But we also have, on the other hand, sophisticated paraphernalia of social and cultural categories, such as 'Judaism' and 'Christianity' etc., all of which are more or less constructed according to the 'boundary schema' that 'constructs an assumption of shared homogeneity within the group and cultural difference between groups, with great potential consequences for the social life of larger communities and regions'.[55] Faced with this situation, we chose text variation and its linguistic implications as a way to understand at least part of the process that led to the inclusion of some Jewish features in Syriac bowl texts. This process is surely a transfer (if not a direct translation), and implies adoption and adaptation before absorption. In terms of social interactions, 'given the very personal nature of the incantations, this is testimony to a level of interaction between the communities that the official sources deny. But the level of interaction goes beyond clients seeking the services of those from other communities. There is much evidence for an interaction, possibly even fellowship, between practitioners from different communities'.[56] More generally, as Bhayro notes:

> The texts illuminate the relations between the various religious and ethnic groups. We even see families where the two spouses have names of different religious and ethnic origins, and where the children again have names that indicate different ethnic and religious groups. We find that magic provided a medium that fostered intercommunal relations on a number of levels, with scribes from various communities apparently engaging in meaningful fellowship with each other and with their clients, often on quite intimate terms. Furthermore, we can now locate these practices at the core rather than on the periphery of these communities. Some of the unpublished bowls contain explicit dates, which can help in fixing the time and location of the communities involved.[57]

In this context, although the impact of Jewish features still appears to be significant, one is not persuaded to see the type of interaction discussed above in terms of 'influence' on the part of the Jewish communities of Sasanian Babylonia on the Christian or other communities. As pointed out by Stern, 'indeed, in the context of Sasanian-ruled Babylonia it would be difficult to identify Jews, Christians, or pagans as either dominant or weak, and hence in a privileged position to exert influence over one another; a more egalitarian model of cultural exchange should perhaps be preferred'.[58] Furthermore, 'it is misleading, moreover, to treat "influence" as the logical opposite, or at least sole counterpart, of "shared culture" [...]. Influence, coercion, mimicry, emulation, borrowing, appropriation, accommodation, trade, exchange, distribution, free access, free sharing, etc., are all possible and legitimate ways for culturemes to be transmitted between people or groups of people, and thus to account for resulting similarities between them'.[59]

For more nuanced uses of the comparative methodology in this respect, see J.E. Sanzo, 'Deconstructing the Deconstructionists: A Response to recent Criticism of the Rubric "Ancient Magic"', in Idem, A. Mastrocinque, M. Scapini (eds), Ancient Magic: Then and Now (Stuttgart, 2020), pp. 27–49 (31).

56 S. Bhayro, 'Magic as the Basis for Social Cohesion in pre-Islamic Mesopotamia', Societas Magica Newsletter 25 (2011), pp. 1–5. In this context one may stress the importance of handbooks of magic, 'even among magicians living in villages in remote regions', that could be transmitted from one magician to another regardless of any religious affiliation; see Lacerenza, 'Jewish Magicians and Christian Clients', pp. 407–408.

57 Bhayro, 'Magic as the Basis for Social Cohesion', p. 5.

According to the data provided by the Syriac bowl texts, we find neither polemic against, nor resistance to, the exchange of themes and motifs between Syriac and Jewish texts on incantation bowls. This exchange aimed to give the incantation as much strength as possible. Having a practical goal, there appears to have been little room for allusions to controversies and hostilities. Apart from the concept of 'influence', which we have already considered, the Syriac incantation bowls, in their relationship with their Jewish counterparts, exhibit a high degree of interaction and overlap between traditions that the scholarly works have usually kept obscured. If we project this picture onto social interactions, to the degree that this is possible with ancient cultures and societies, we can imagine that Jews and Christians interacted in late-antique Babylonia on the basis of a common need for magic protection (something that was also shared by Manichaeans, Mandaeans, and other communities).[60] In this sense, 58 S. Stern, 'Rabbinic, Christian, and Local Calendars in Late Antique Babylonia: Influence and Shared Culture', in M.J. Geller (ed.), The Archaeology and Material Culture of the Babylonian Talmud (Leiden and Boston, 2015), pp. 260–288 (262).

59 Stern, 'Rabbinic, Christian, and Local Calendars', p. 263. In this respect, it might be useful to consider the idea of a 'percolation'—in the Mesopotamian religious (and magical) tradition—of themes and motifs, through both vertical and horizontal dynamics. This 'percolation' was 'channelled through the migratory routes of folk-lore and tradition'; see B. Barnes, Contextualising Syriac Anathema: Bridging the Gap between Suggestions of Comparison in Late Antique and Nineteenth Century Christian Ritual Practice [University of Southampton, Faculty of Humanities, Thesis for the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy (2016), unpublished], p. 114.

the usual description of communities in terms of social and cultural boundaries, based on, and at the same time fostering, conflicts and polemics, must be considered unsuitable. It is now evident that, as Stern observes, 'cultural transfer and similarity do not occur solely by virtue of physical or social proximity between different groups and cultures,' and that 'it occurs in a specific social context (which can be, for example, political or economic domination, conflict and polemic, coexistence and partnership, mobility and migration, etc.), and as a result of concrete and specific events or social processes'.[61]

The framework within which the Syriac incantation bowls were conceived is a highly articulated web of interactions, not necessarily only in the lower section of Babylonian society, but even in the very same scriptoria where canonical texts were prepared.[62] These interactions were not subject to the rigid separation witnessed in other sources, as the incantation bowls were part of a series of theurgic practices that, in turn, pertained to the same cultural stock whose tradition had a long history in Mesopotamia. Rewording Stern, we may say that it was perhaps the congruence of diverse processes—the independent histories of individual magical traditions, their reciprocal interactions, and the shared Babylonian culture of the Aramaic-speaking communities—that successfully brought about the emergence of the practice of incantation bowls, where Christian (Syriac) and Jewish (Jewish Babylonian Aramaic) individuals interacted in order to create effective tools for the protection of their families from misfortunes, illnesses and demons.[63]

CHAPTER 5

More on the 'Book of Protection' and the Syriac 'Charms': New Texts and Perspectives for the Study of Magic and Religion

Michael Zellmann-Rohrer

1 Introduction

The Syriac compendia of ritual methods seeking assistance in all aspects of life, cohering in collections known in modern Western scholarship as the 'Book of Protection' or 'Book of Charms', aimed at no lesser a goal, to quote one of their titles, than the 'protection of humanity from all that is evil and hostile'.[1] Surviving only in modern copies but evincing ancient roots, these collections have been known in the West at least since the early days of Anglo-American missionary activity in the 18th century, and they are reasonably familiar within Syriac studies and even beyond. They are less well served, however, by editions and studies than might be hoped or, by now, expected, and the same is true for their counterparts in finished ritual products, or amulets.

The purpose of this chapter is to report on progress towards remedying that situation, in the form of an expanded collection of witnesses to the Syriac magical tradition—'magic' being used here as a convenient shorthand for instrumental religion focused on personal protection and advancement, shared with the scholarship on neighbouring traditions, though its practitioners would probably have resisted it and indeed framed their texts explicitly in opposition to it.[2] The catalogue of these documents (section 3 below) cannot yet claim to be exhaustive, and the author, who continues to develop editions and annotated translations of the texts, would particularly welcome information on further relevant manuscripts. A preliminary sketch is given both of the character of the tradition as a whole (section 4) and of the implications of newly identified witnesses for understanding magic and popular religion in pre- and early-modern Mesopotamia and beyond. Garshuni texts, which belong to the study of Arabic (and Christian Arabic) ritual and magic, are not treated here;[3] while a perspective is offered in passing on Late Ancient and early Medieval Syriac amulets, they cannot be examined in any detail.

2 History of Research

Three intersecting traditions must be distinguished at the outset: the standalone 'Book of Protection', collections of related formulae in miscellanies, most often in codices concerned with medicine and divination, and 'finished products' in the form of amulets, copied with the aid of one or more formulary-recipes from the first two categories, for which the favoured format was a long, thin paper scroll that could be rolled up and carried in a pouch. (See sections 3.1, 3.2, and 3.3 below respectively; and for a more detailed consideration of the history of the field, its past problems and future trajectories, the contribution by Abigail Pearson to this volume.) Research on the second strand is little developed, but the existence of the first and third have long been documented in Western exploration of enclaves of Syriac culture in Kurdistan and Azerbaijan—northern Iraq, southeast Turkey, northwest Iran—and followed with editions.

The American missionary Rev. Justin Perkins (1805–1869) gave a first-hand account of a 'Nestorian' village priest who fulfilled a request from a Muslim client for a 'charm' for a cow that failed to produce milk, by pronouncing a prayer over some salt to be fed to the animal, a text which, another priest explained, was memorised from an 'old book'.[4] The British Arabist and missionary George Percy Badger (1815–1888) offered excerpts in English translation from a manuscript of 'charms' that he had acquired in the region of

Mosul in the 1840s; on another visit to Lizan in 1850, he observed a presbyter copying and selling amulets in the village.[5]

The British rabbi Sir Hermann Gollancz (1852–1930), Goldsmid Professor of Hebrew at University College, London,[6] published what remains the most extensive collection, three manuscripts with formulae for what he termed 'charms'.[7] This publication, which was welcomed by both Semitists and folklorists,[8] had been preceded by a paper originally delivered at the Paris Orientalist Congress of 1897 with excerpts of texts and translations.[9] The volume was not accompanied by a synthetic study, and commentary was minimal—an exception is an extended discussion of Jewish folklore on Solomon in the preface, occasioned by the unusual epithet bar Yaqay attached to him in one of the Syriac texts. Gollancz had been preceded in the publication of a textual amulet by the Rev. Willis Hatfield Hazard in 1893 and in the description and extensive if incomplete translation of another 'Book of Protection' manuscript by the French Armenologist Frédéric Macler.[10]

The project of editing texts, especially the finished amulets, has been well served by Erica Hunter, who has also developed an application of Form Criticism from biblical exegesis to the understanding of the presence of the saints in these formulae and refined the description of textual genres among them, continuing the unpublished work of Karl Kramer.[11] Another unpublished dissertation in the intervening years by the Dominican Fr. Yousif Mirkis, Bishop of Kirkuk, examined the amulets alongside parallels in Arabic in the context of contemporary beliefs about the evil eye.[12] The edition of the formularies, however, has not advanced much since Gollancz, whose publication in turn is not without problems, one example of which will be seen further on. The texts have nevertheless begun to find a place in sociological studies of their homeland,[13] whose continuation may be hoped for in future work.

As regards folklore, a synthesis between the data of the 'Book of Protections' and related texts and the information gathered by B. Nikitine, 'Superstitions des Chaldéens du plateau d'Ourmiah', Revue d'ethnographie et des traditions populaires 4 (1923), pp. 149–181, remains a desideratum; the latter records occasional 'charms' including the words ܟܐܦܐ ܥܠ ܟܐܦܐ ܫܡܥܘܢ ܟܐܦܐ 'Stone upon stone [kêfâ]: Simon Peter [Kêfâ]!' to bind the mouths of wolves and prevent them from harming lost livestock (180–181 no. 33), and an address to an onion to avoid eye irritation when peeling (175 no. 126).

3 Textual Witnesses

Here presented in alphabetical order by modern holding institution are all witnesses to the 'Book of Protection' and related traditions known to the author in any worthwhile detail and which, when noted as either 'published' or 'collated', will figure in the new edition. In addition to the documents known through their removal to libraries, chiefly in the West, relevant texts were still to be found into the 21st century in private hands closer to their original homeland, as well illustrated by the recent survey of Nicholas Al-Jeloo, full publication of the results of which is still awaited.[14] In the interest of space, codicological descriptions are kept to a minimum. As a significant number remain inaccessible, a grouping into families would be premature; some remarks on that subject are attempted in section 5 below.

For convenience, as such a checklist does not yet exist, an annex to 3.3 on pre- or early Medieval Syriac amulets outside of the amuletic bowls is also offered. The bowls, no fewer than 49 of which have been collected and comprehensively discussed in the recent corpus of Marco Moriggi,[15] need not be reprised here; along with similar artefacts in Jewish Aramaic, their floruit falls

Ca2480, Pa400, Je96–9173) now in London,[17] and an intriguing assemblage of three sheets of gold, silver, and bronze respectively, wrapped around a wooden rod, inserted in a tube, and deposited in a burial in Luristan (Pusht-i Kuh) of the 3rd century CE, inscribed with a complex composite of signs, figures, and letters among which some in an eastern script of Aramaic have been recognised.[18]

Ca2055 Cambridge, University Library Add. Ms. 2055.6. Paper, 16×11.5 cm, 1 f. Copied by 'Abdîšô' on behalf of the deacon Hûmê of Merestak; assigned to the 18th century. A single section; the lack of the title, and indeed the loss of all but this single leaf, makes the identification of a Book of Protection manuscript uncertain, though the mention of a client in the colophon at least suggests an amuletic collection of some kind as opposed to a more general miscellany. Unpublished (collated); catalogue description by S.A. Cook.[26]

CaH156 Cambridge, MA, Houghton Library Ms. Syr. 156. Paper, 11×8 cm, 46 ff. Occasionally vocalised East Syriac. Copied in 1826 in Razgâ by Denḥâ (patronym and titles effaced) for DRPY son of ʾY'WN and his mother 'NNH from Sarrāṭāw, residents of KWSH in the territory of Urmia, but some sections are personalised for a Denḥâ son of Gawzâ (perhaps the copyist). Book of Protection (ܟܬܒܐ ܕܨܠܘܬܐ ܟܬܒܐ ܕܚܝܠܬܐ) with 66 sections and illustrations, into which medical prognostics (ff. 39b–41a) as in G. A and pharmacological recipes (ff. 44b–45b) have been inserted. Unpublished (collated); mentioned by M.H. Goshen-Gottstein.[27]

CaH160 Cambridge, MA, Houghton Library Ms. Syr. 160. Paper, 12×8 cm, 49 ff. Unvocalised East Syriac. Copied in 1804 in Shibani by the presbyter George son of Zî'â from the Šemzdîn region, resident of the same village (possibly the copyist of G. A and Lo6673), for a client from Hasar whose name and parents' names have been effaced; later ownership inscriptions of John son of NZ', John son of Zî'â and KZ', grandson of ḤWŠB', and Abraham son of Mûqdû. Book of Protection (ܟܬܒܐ ܕܚܝܠܬܐ) with 71 sections and illustrations and added medical prognostics (ff. 45a–47b) as in G. A (see 3.2). Unpublished (collated); mentioned by M.H. Goshen-Gottstein.[28]

Pa400 Paris, Bibliothèque nationale de France syr. 400/1–3. Three vellum rolls, two tall and narrow (the larger 27.5×9 cm) and one roughly square (18.5×19.5 cm), at least one of which was once enclosed in a copper container. Unvocalised Estrangelo. Each roll is personalised for the same client, one KWRWHZ'D alias YZD'NZ'DG, identified by her mother's name DYNQ (as also Ca2480 above). Assigned to the 6th–7th centuries (Gignoux), apparently from a Persian-speaking area on onomastic grounds. Published by P. Gignoux, with new readings and discussion of syr. 400/3 by N.H. Korsvoll and L.I. Lied.[97]

4 Overview of Contents

The aim of 'protection' expressed by the title of the treatise at the centre of this tradition is well borne out by its contents, applied to a broad range of ills.[98] These include specific symptoms—fever, headache, toothache, backache, bleeding, indigestion, pleurisy, boils, rabies, insomnia, nightmares, difficult childbirth—, broader designations such as 'all sickness', and the effects of demonic possession and the evil eye. The protection extends to that of livestock, crops, and land, and to crises such as risky voyages and military and legal combat, with related goals of keeping the peace among households and comrades and of personal advancement through success in public life and business. The means include simple prayer close to the realms of liturgy and private devotion and matching the rubric ܫܘܠܡܐ applied by the manuscripts themselves, but not to the exclusion of invocations with more diverse elements—metaphor, narrative, direct address to the targets rather than appeals to holy intermediaries—from the realm of incantations. Such texts may also be inscribed to be worn as amulets or uttered over medicinal substances, and the illustrations furnished in many of the witnesses, figuring both protective saints and malevolent demons, may be intended as models to be copied for apotropaic purposes, though this is nowhere made explicit. The amulets follow a similar course, with a narrower focus on personal protection against sickness and demonic assault.

The intersection of the 'Book of Protection' with other ritual, medicinal, and divinatory texts is already anticipated by a paratext to that treatise in the form published by Gollancz (G. A § 54; see also 5 below). It offers medical prognostics based on a calculation applied to the sum of the numeric values of the letters of the names of the patient and his or her mother: the results are keyed to diagnoses of the sources of the illness and prescriptions for cures, which include visiting specific monasteries to seek textual amulets. The witnesses described under 3.2 above take this development further: situated in miscellaneous codices, they concern themselves with a more diverse group both of aims, aggressive as well as beneficent—as occasionally even in some witnesses to the 'Book of Protection' proper—, a selection of which is discussed in 5 below, and of means, for example, miniature ritual dramas distinct from simple prayers and phylacteries.

Because many of the manuscripts were subject to one or more layers of personalisation, changed hands among owners, and recorded also the names of copyists, they can be recognised as products and possessions of specific individuals and places, even if these often remain only names. Onomastics would indeed repay further study for clues of ethnic origins and affiliations. The presence of transliterated Arabic in some of the 'charms' (e.g. G. A § 19; Lo 4434 §§ 51, 90; Lo6673 § 64) may provide a sign of linguistic diversity among participants in the tradition, and perhaps even the sharing of ritual texts among Christian and Muslim practitioners and clients, as implied by the episode of the dairy cow reported by Perkins. The internal use of the Arabic loanword ܛܠܣܡ 'talisman' to designate some of the formulae (e.g. Lo6673 §§ 54–55 and the title of Bi583) may point in this direction, though the term is ultimately Greek (and it appears at an early stage already in LoA). More positive evidence is the use of Arabic pseudo-script among some magical designs to which apotropaic power is imputed (Pa347 §§ 10, 16, 33).[99]

99 For the tradition of these signs in the West see R. Gordon, 'Charaktêres Between Antiquity

Across these documents, a thorough integration with contemporary Christian faith and practice can be observed, which again makes problematic any application of the term 'magic', however convenient for interdisciplinary dialogues in modern scholarship. A lively and diverse cult of saints underpins the attribution of amuletic prayers to these figures, their presence in narrative motifs in incantations, and closing invocations of their prayer and intercession. The adaptation of scripture may also be mentioned, especially the Psalms, for which parallel developments at the centre of magical practices can be traced for both Christian and Jewish traditions in the area and further west.[100] Some inventive compositions can already be found in the material published by Gollancz, such as Psalm 29:7 with elements of the prophecies against Gog and Magog from Ezekiel 38:2–6 and against Capernaum from the gospels (Matthew 11:23, Luke 10:15) in G. A § 16,[101] and more will be met further on in this chapter. Two full-standing treatises (Be218 and Be327) are devoted to the application of the Psalms in this respect. This sample, small in comparison to the Jewish Sefer Shimmush Tehillim and its medieval Greek counterparts, is still sufficient to establish, despite the scornful assessment of Kayser,[102] a sound analogical connection between the prescribed Psalms and their applications, which demonstrates a deep and active acquaintance with scripture. Such a mentality can be confirmed by hagiography, as in an episode in the Book of Governors in which Elijah, bishop of Mokan, invokes an analogy in citing Psalm 29:5 and and the Renaissance: Transmission and Re-Invention', in V. Dasen and Jean-Michel Spieser (eds), Les savoirs magiques et leur transmission de l'Antiquité à la Renaissance (Florence, 2014), pp. 253–300. Their study in Syriac texts, where they appear already in the early amulets (Ca2480 Je96–9173 Pa400/1), remains to be developed; for a recent discussion see Zellmann-Rohrer, 'Dream-Request', and for the possibility of a relation to non-phonetic characters on the amuletic bowls, D.J. Waller, 'Curious Characters, Invented Scripts, and … Charlatans? "Pseudo-Scripts" in the Mesopotamian Magic Bowls', Journal of Near Eastern Studies 78 (2019), pp. 119–139.

101 The versions in StP18 § 23, Ye10 § 30, and Ye19 § 18 confirm the emendation of ܕܚܒܝ to ܕܡܥܒ in the Ezekiel citation proposed by Gollancz; the concurrence of all the Syriac witnesses in ܡܚܝ ܝܘܡ against the Peshitta ܠܝܠܐ is also noteworthy.

102 'Es ist umsonst, bei solchem Unsinn, wie dem vorliegenden, nach einem vernünftigen Grund zu suchen, und so lassen sich auch hier keine bestimmten Beziehungen zwischen den einzelnen Psalmen und den Dingen, wofür oder wogegen sie gut sein sollen, nachweisen': 'Gebrauch von Psalmen', p. 459 n. 4.

9 when chopping down a local sacred tree of the Yazdis.[103] The involvement of priests in the provisioning of ritual services informed by these documents, already recorded by Perkins and Badger and corresponding to the testimony of earlier Syriac literature,[104] is extensively confirmed by their role as copyists of the manuscripts themselves on record in the colophons. This priestly connection does not prevent the conjunction of the Psalms with more original mythopoeia. A procedure to protect livestock from wolves pairs an excerpt from Psalm 19:13 with a claim that the wolf has been 'gouged with the furrow that the ox ploughed, right up to the king', perhaps yet another Solomonic allusion, and the event has been marked on the cosmic plane as 'the seventy veils', apparently heavenly, 'have come down to earth' (Lo5442 §1).

5 New Perspectives

The new manuscripts, both formulary codices and finished amulets, identified in the course of this study provide first and foremost a broader perspective on the history of the texts in question. The witnesses gained for the 'Book of Protection' can in turn be analysed into codicological families. It emerges that while Gollancz was prescient in giving pride of place to his codex A over B and C, a fourth manuscript (Lo6673) known to him but relegated to an appendix in favour of G. A is in fact a better representative of the majority, a group of some 11 codices (Be95 Be553 Bi583 CaH156 CaH160 Lo6673 NY2941/2 NY2941/3 PaM Pr2 Vi7 Ye10) that add a more or less similar set of formulae both within and after the main assemblage of G. A; there is much variation in turn on the presence and content of the medical prognostics by psephistics that forms the final section of G. A (§54), and which itself circulated independently.[105] A class

105 See the multiple witnesses in Ma52 and a copy in a manuscript with no other relation to the tradition of the Book of Protection, Cambridge, MA, Houghton Library Ms. Syr. 166, pp. 58–60 (edited by I.H. Hall, 'The Letter of Holy Sunday', Journal of the American Oriental Society 15 (1893), pp. 121–142 (137–142), according to whom it was copied in 1885 from a 'much older' exemplar; see also Goshen-Gottstein, Syriac Manuscripts, p. 106). An of extravagantes (Bi316 CaH162 CaH163 Ev1 Ma52 Mo417 NH3 Pa347 StP4 Ye19), with which G. B and G. C may also be grouped, presents only partial overlap with any of these or with each other, and no small number of additional formulae, some selections of which will be discussed below. There are, finally, intersections with substantially independent textual traditions of the larger collections of ritual recipes.

The gathering of new witnesses also allows new readings and corrections to the Book of Protection as published by Gollancz. As a specimen, a re-edition of two texts is offered here. The case is also of interest as evidence of the relation between the 'Book of Protection' proper and collections of formulae in larger codices, which indicates a complex process of textual transmission. The first formula in question seeks to cure backache via an incantation containing a narrative motif in which King Solomon is afflicted with similar pain and cured in a manner analogous to the desired outcome after his cries of pain attract divine attention and aid (G. A § 10). In the edition of Gollancz, the ending is apparently garbled and contains an incongruous reference to a saint with no relation to the narrative, one Mar Zî'â; Gollancz nevertheless attempted to make sense of it as follows:

> The Anathema of King Solomon, which is of avail for an injury (?) to the back. In the name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost: and in the name of I Am That I Am, Almighty God, Adonai, Lord of Hosts. King Solomon was building the House to the name of the Lord, and the Holy Spirit was handing him the stone: Solomon stooped to take hold of the stone: he hurt (?) his back, his loin ruptured, and he gave forth a bitter cry. Whereupon our Lord said unto his disciples: What voice of crying is this? and they replied unto him: It is that of Solomon, the son of David, who is building the terrific, blessed House ܒܝܬܐ ܩܕܝܫܐ]]. Amen!

A fuller collation shows that the phrase that Gollancz rendered as 'the terrific, blessed house' is the result of an unintended juxtaposition of the stubs on either side of a large lacuna in his manuscript: ܡܪ 'Mar' must be understood before ܩܕܝܫܐ, which is a personal name, not an epithet of the 'house', and in turn an entirely separate section has fallen out in which Mar Zî'â is more entirely different psephistic method, using diagrams related to the so-called 'Sphere of Democritus' of Late Antiquity (PGM XII.351–364), is preceded by an interesting prayer (rendering the trishagion acclamation in Greek, 'Frankish', Armenian, Georgian, Persian, Turkish, Arabic, and Syriac) among additions in the flyleaves of a theological miscellany, Mosul, Dominican Friars 121, f. 2a–b (unpublished).

at home, a prayer attributed to that saint against plague, which follows the Solomon incantation directly in several witnesses and is attested on its own in a few more. The witness to both texts in the codex designated here Lo6673, already known to Gollancz and offering, as argued here, the solution to this problem, was summarily dismissed: the Solomon text 'repeats [itself in] part, evidently a case of dittography, and also adds the passage which "our Lord said to his disciples, Go to the garden and cut therefrom &c.", contained in A § 20',[106] while the Mar Zîʿâ text, duly edited in his Appendix,[107] is not brought to bear on the question. A hypothetical reconstruction of the shared ancestor of the surviving witnesses to both texts is offered here, which will make the point clearer; the witnesses most relevant to the filling of the lacuna where the Mar Zîʿâ text directly follows the Solomon text are Be95, Be553, Bi583, CaH156, CaH160, NY2941/3, Pr2, and StP18; in Lo6673 they keep this order but with a section corresponding to G. A § 9 intervening.

Zakhu and Azerbaijan, and of the Western Syrians of Ṭur ʿAbdin and Maʿlula (Oxford, 1901), pp. 39a s.v. ܩܫܝ and 40a s.v. ܫܝ. Some witnesses give a simpler title, 'For back strain.'

109 As Gollancz already saw, these epithets render Hebrew 'I am that am' (Exodus 3:14), El-Shaddai, and Adonai.

110 Some witnesses substitute 'Solomon, son of David' (CaH163 Lo4434 Ma52 Mo417).

111 In two witnesses, 'built himself a house' (Mo417 Lo4434), with a trace of this variant perhaps in Ye10 and Ye19 'built himself a house, for the name', and so on.

112 In one witness 'our Lord's garden' (Lo6673).

113 A truncated version in the majority of witnesses, calling for two shoots to be struck on the ground and in the air respectively, and the other on the patient's right side (Be95 Be553 CaH156 CaH160 Lo6673 NY2941/3 Pr2), loses the point of the ritual observance of right and left, not to mention leaving one of the patient's sides untreated.

114 Alongside minor variants in Mary's titulature, other versions add John the Baptist (Bi583 CaH156 CaH163 Ma52 StP18 Ye19) and the apostles and saints (Ma52) or substitute a trinitarian coda (Lo4434 Mo417) or a single saint (Eugene: Ye10).

The Solomon incantation can now be recognised as belonging to a type merging two popular narrative motifs in the composition of Late Ancient and medieval magical texts in the Mediterranean vicinity. In a recently proposed typology, these can be analysed as the 'suffering saint' and 'cosmic disturbance' motifs: in the former, the incantation recounts how a holy figure was afflicted, then healed in a manner analogous to the present healing scenario, and in the latter, how healing is specifically dispensed by deities (in Christian texts, most often Christ or Mary) after the cries of distress from the patient, or a figure representing him or her, reach and perturb them, with the cures in turn specifically featuring, and hence authorising, incantations themselves.[121] Some Mesopotamian examples may be mentioned, closer to the regional context of the Syriac texts. The ancient god Enlil plays a role as the analogous sufferer in an incantation from Ur III against the Samana-disease;[122] a Mandaean incantation against sunstroke contains the following dialogue between the Sun and a male sufferer: 'From the east I come and to the west I go. I found him and his pain; he was weeping, wailing, and shedding tears. And I said to him: Why are you weeping? … And he said: Why should I not weep … when your blows fall on my face, and (it is) your burning that inflamed it, and (your) staff is in my eyes'.[123] A more disruptive 'disturbance' can be found in a collection of gynaecological recipes on a parchment bifolio from the Cairo Geniza including several incantations. One of these, in Aramaic with Hebrew rubric and instructions, now finds a close parallel in one of the new Syriac texts, which advances its interpretation. The Geniza incantation runs, ברת קל נפקת מן א[ר]עא לשמיא ואמרת קדם אלהא חייא קל מטלמן לא קל טורין מתהפכין לא קל גלמת לא קל יתמ׳ לא קל אדמי אלא קלא דפ׳ בת פל׳ בעייא. תעני יתה בהדא שעתה עי[ר א]להא יאמר למיכאל סב מפתחא מן ידך דימינא וחוה [ ] בידיה דגבר דשמאלא יזיל ויפתח באפוי דטלי[א בין] דכר בין נקבה ויקום וישבח לאלהא חיא א׳ א׳ ס׳

A voice went out from the earth up to heaven and spoke before the living God, a voice of the oppressed (?), not a voice of mountains moving, not a voice of hills, not a voice of orphans,[124] not a voice of blood, but the voice of her, so-and-so, the daughter of so-and-so. Answer her at once, angel of God, let him say[125] to Michael, 'Take the key in your right hand and show […] in the left hand of Gabriel, let him go and open before the child, whether it is male or female, and let it arise and praise the living God.' Amen, amen, sela.[126]

There is now a Syriac parallel for this motif specifically relating to birth among the texts identified since the publication of Gollancz, which also adds an instance of textual crossover between handbooks and finished amulets. Under a similar rubric, the incantation runs (Lo5281 § 42; LoA16; StP4 § 26; text of Lo5281), Ancient elements, probably inflected through pre-Christian Aramaic in particular, of the anguished cry (ܐܠܗ ܐܝܬ) reaching divine attention and receiving ritual treatment through the mediation of angels, show through in the Syriac. The 'shoots' referenced in the Solomon incantation can now be set against the background of a sort of magic wand credited with control over the natural world, which will appear even more distinctly in the final witness to this complex of motifs (below). Modifications for relevance in a Christian context can be seen in turn, the reference to 'our Lord' and more particularly the tree that supplied the wood for the crucifix.

A different, possibly original setting for the Syriac Solomon incantation in Lo4434 and Mo417 locates the event in private rather than public life, as Solomon builds a house for himself rather than a temple for the deity, which may suggest an origin in Judaeo-Christian lore on the king's wider exploits. (An intersection of the Syriac tradition with his eponymous Testament is discussed below.) Central to the incantation is the pun on ܐܒܢܐ 'stone' and the verb ܒܢܐ 'bend down', which, along with the artful construction featuring extensive parallelism in syntax, suggests an Aramaic origin for the text. That impression is both reinforced and complicated in turn by two final witnesses. In the first (StP4 §43) the pun is in fact absent, the verb ܒܢܐ being replaced with ܫܩܠ, but the drama plays out in an entirely pre-Christian angelological landscape and sets its hero in a novelistic, even comic light:

127 The version in StP4 substitutes 'the garden of Eden.'

128 The version in LoA16 substitutes 'dew' (ܛܠܐ).

129 ܬܫܩܘ apparently for ܐܫܩܘ (as in LoA16 and StP4); the version in StP4 omits the second instruction and substitutes final clauses for the parataxis in both the first and second ('so that rain … so that it may give …').

130 The version in StP4 has 'and cast out the evil Satan from her.'

131 The versions in LoA16 and StP4 omit the results of the first two strikes; the former reverses the sources of the second and third shoots, such that the tree of the staff of Moses yields the remedy for difficult labour.

He said, "I have not wronged the widow, and I have not struck the orphan." A closing prayer to 'our Lord' to assist the same healing as he healed the sight of the blind can be regarded as a later addition to an older core, whose early date is once again suggested by the use of the rarer ܐܝܬ, a cognate of which is probably to be read also in the Geniza text discussed above, in place of ܡܠܐܟ to denote the angel. The second of the final witnesses (L05281 § 49) seems to show a later stage of the adaptation of that core, in which the form of the Solomon narrative is close to that of G. A § 10, but with the preservation of what now appears as the original purpose of the command to the disciples about their 'wands': 'strike one on the earth, that it may produce fruit (ܠܐܪܥܐ ܘܝܗܒ), another in the air, that it may give rain (ܘܠܐܘܝܪܐ ܠܐܪܥܐ), and another on the right side, that the left side may get relief, of so-and-so son of so-and-so.'

The Mar Zî'â text is part of subgenre of prayers attributed to saints, in particular their last prayers before death by martyrdom or otherwise, to which special efficacy was attached, and into which the present healing scenario can be conveniently inserted, which recur often in the 'Book of Protection' and related texts (see further below). While susceptible to a reading as simple prayers, they also contain and constitute an endorsement and authorisation of the textual amulet, to which internal reference is explicitly made. Mar Zî'â himself (ca. 309–431 CE; BHO 1251), according to his Life miraculously born to a Christian father and mother in Palestine at the ages of 120 and 93 respectively (his father is said to have been a merchant and a nobleman, but not exactly a 'chief'), whose birth, appropriate to his name, was heralded and accompanied by much 'disturbance' (ZY') in the natural and demonic worlds, left home for a monastic life as a preternaturally ascetic child at the age of six, eventually founding a monastery at Dāsān and performing miraculous healings throughout the mountainous region north of Mosul.[132] He recommends himself for this role in particular through his reputed cleansing by prayer of three entire villages of plague on separate occasions, described in similar terms (ܒܝܬ ܥܕܬܐ ,ܒܝܬ ܥܕܬܐ ܕܫܠܡ ,ܒܝܬ ܥܕܬܐ ܕܫܠܡ).[133] His final prayer before his death, in turn, seeking blessing for his monastery, echoes in more general terms the prayer of protection in the amulet.[134]

These considerations suggest that Gollancz was too hasty in dismissing the witness of Lo6673 to the Solomon incantation as repetitive or corrupt—indeed it provides the crucial climax of the healing exemplum, without which, as in G. A, the whole point of the incantation is lost—, although still superior versions of this incantation can now be identified. As for his comparison to G. A § 20, that incantation against indigestion ('wind of the heart') proves to have only a vaguely similar version of the motif of 'cosmic disturbance' followed by divine cure prescribed via dialogue. It is attested in a relatively smaller number of new witnesses (Bi583 § 24; CaH156 § 24; CaH160 § 22; CaH163 § 20; Lo4434 § 14; Mo417 § 43; NY2941/2 § 11; StP18 § 12; Ye10 § 15, in which the divine instructions have been conflated with those of the Solomon motif; Ye19 § 22), which nevertheless allow improvements in the constitution of the text. Gollancz rendered the Syriac, which is accompanied by directions variously given before or after to speak it over oil and give to the patient to drink, as follows:

> Our Lord and his disciples were walking on the way, and they heard the sound of an exclamation, and our Lord said, What sound is this? They replied unto him, It is that of one who bears these writs, having been seized by a cramp (rheumatism) in his heart and in all his members. I said: (as a remedy) for teeth (which have fallen) from the mouth, and for a child (which has fallen) from its mother. Go to the garden of our Lord, and cut three branches, one in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, the second in the name of our Lady, the blessed Mary, and the other in the name of Gabriel chief of the angels, and smite the spirit in the heart of the one who carries these writs, by the prayer of the blessed Mar Augin (Eugenius). Amen!

In the annotations to the translation, Gollancz speculated that the 'I said' was a sort of authorial cross-reference. A superior version of the text in a subgroup of the witnesses (Bi583 CaH156 Lo4434 Mo417 NY2941/2 StP18) shows that a verb has fallen out of the text in G. A, and that the speech belongs in fact to Christ's interlocutors, intensifying the effects of the commotion, before Christ himself provides the prescription and resolution, which in turn involves tying rather than 'smiting', a more appropriate analogue to the control of 'wind' sought here. In the interest of space the text of the incantation alone is given following Mo417:

ܡܪܢ ܘܬܠܡܝ̈ܕܘܗܝ ܒܐܘܪܚܐ ܐܙܠܝܢ ܗܘܘ ܘܫܡܥܘ ܩܠܐ ܕܡܟܠܟܠܘܬܐ

Our Lord and his disciples were walking on the road, and they heard the sound of crying out, and our Lord said, What is this sound? His disciples said to him, It is that of so-and-so, son of so-and-so. Wind has gripped his heart and all his limbs, such that I thought teeth would be knocked from the mouth, and a child would fall from its mother.[135]—Go into the garden of our Lord and pluck three shoots[136] and tie three knots, one in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ and another in the name of Mary and another for the name of Gabriel chief of the angels. I am the one who blesses—o Lord, heal him by your right hand.[137]

135 The version in StP18 alone places a negative (ܠܐ) before the verb ܢܦܫ, which would change the sense—the disciple would be saying that he has spoken up in order that the impending cosmic disturbance be avoided in the first place—without altering the constitution of the broader motif.

136 Three witnesses substitute three 'root-strings of hemp' (ܫܘ̈ܠܐ ܕܩܢܒܐ: CaH163 Lo4434 StP18), attractive if the shoots are suspected as interference from G. A §10, but the latter seem more at home in a garden.

137 A more satisfying doublet is given in StP18: 'I am the one who writes (the amulet) on earth, and God is the one who heals in heaven' (the manuscript presents the form ܒܫܡܝܢܗ,

Another opportunity for further discussion on the basis of new witnesses is a passing remark of Gollancz in his preface in regard to G. B § 5, 'Particular attention should be called to the large number of Fathers and Saints … some perhaps hitherto scarcely or not at all known'.[138] The so-called 'Ban of Paradise' (ܣܓܝܪܬ ܦܪܕܝܣܐ ܕܫܒܥ) for general apotropaic purposes, which is the vehicle of this catalogue of fathers and saints, can now be recognised also in two variants of G. B § 5 (Ev1 § 27; Mo417 § 10; NH3 § 50) as well as G. C § 26 and G. A § 52 and its variants (Be95 § 43; Be553 § 50; Bi316 § 8; Bi583 § 56; CaH156 § 56; CaH160 § 55; Lo6673 § 52; NY2941/2 § 40; NY2941/3 § 54; PaM § 41; Pr2 § 56; Vi7 § 51). A unique feature common to all is a sub-sequence of varying length listing saints with the same name, John. The most extensive list counts no fewer than 50 Johns (NY2941/3 § 54)—compare 23 in G. A, 21 in G. B, 22 in G. C—, and when consolidated they reach 95 individuals, including 91 not listed in the BHO. The point of the accumulation is perhaps to trace a succession of homonyms, beginning with John the Baptist and John the Evangelist and carrying on into figures of a more local character (e.g. John of Arzûn, Bi316 Bi583 CaH156 NY2941/2 NY2941/3 Vi7; John of Ašnô, G. C Mo417; John of Gelô, CaH156; John of Georgia, Bi316; John of Rôstāqâ, CaH156). Besides the Johns, the rest of the cast of holy figures would repay closer analysis. In a double presentation in G. B, Mo417, and NH3, the saints neatly mirror righteous predecessors from the Old and New Testaments.

In all there are many additions to the saints represented in the witnesses published by Gollancz, for example, some of the 'Persian' martyrs of the 4th-century persecution under Shapur II and later counterparts: Susan, Anahid, Tarbo, Parugitha, Stratonike, Sultan Mahduk, Thekla, Helena, and Qandaq (CaH156 NY2941/2 NY2941/3). Beyond the 'Paradise' texts, the genre of 'last prayers' attributed to saints and especially martyrs receives additions including Aḥḥay, disciple of Addai and colleague of Mari (Lo4434 § 116), the Palestinian Mamas, patron of livestock (NH3 § 49; Pa424–425 § 32), the Persian Miles (Lo4434 § 69; Pa424–425 § 18), and the Eastern Christian saint par excellence, Nestorius (Ch12093 § 4; Pa347 § 30; Mo417 § 15; StP4 § 31). This evidence for the inextricable connection of Syriac 'magic' with the cult of saints joins that of the medical prognostication treatises in G. A§ 52 and related witnesses, whose diagnoses include recommendations to visit specific monasteries and obtain healing amulets associated in turn with specific saints.[139]

Beyond new readings, the further witnesses offer entirely new content, a few examples of which may be presented here. The first two come from two large collections in miscellanies, Lo4434 and Pa424–425. They share the following incantation for an eye ailment (Lo4434 §12; Pa424–425 §17), which presents much obscurity but retains, in its direct address to the eye, an interesting relic of Hellenic myth, namely, alongside the angel Gabriel on whom the healing apparently depends, a reference to the sickle (ἅρπη; here 'staff' and 'rod') with which the god Kronos castrated his father Ouranos, the bloody drops from which were received as the male seed by the earth-goddess Gaia (Hesiod, Theogony 173–184).

> For eyes that throb and tear up: make the blessing between the eyes with the sign of the Cross for three days, three times a day, and (the patient) is relieved. 'In the name of the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit. What is the matter with you, eye, bewitched[140] and terrified? Why have basins of blood fallen to the earth? You have struck with his staff, that is,[141] Kronos', with his rod, and not Gabriel's, chief of the angels, who touched you with a strike[142] of his living release. He went down to ascend[143] the mountain of Jerusalem and subdued every demon. Let him not be vexed by the rising-up of a serpent and the spittle that is spit into good eyes, amen.'

The 'basins' (ܐܓ̈ܢܐ) possibly continue the punning motif found in the Solomon incantation discussed above, as the word can also denote in a transferred sense a part of the eye itself.[144] The complex scenario of causation for the eye disorder apparently includes both the action of the eye ('striking' with the staff of Kronos) and serpents believed to spit venom into the eyes.

In turn the Paris collection is the sole witness to the following 'blessing' for disorder of a mother's breasts that might impede nursing (Pa424–425 § 27), which matches the preceding in efficacy issuing from sheer—but focused—oddity, the anthropologist's 'quotient of weirdness'.[145]

> Another blessing for a woman's breast when it throbs. 'A blind man, son of a blind man, grew tired on the road. Rest from your journey, for our Lord Jesus Christ calls to you and says to you, Where are you from? He says to him, I am from the isle of the seven days. I am going to enter into the body of woman and man. I will enter into the breast [ܚܕܝܐ]—that is, the breast [ܬܕܐ]—of her, so-and-so, daughter of her, so-and-so, and ruin her breast [ܚܕܝܐ]. Our Lord says to him, Walk on down the Jerusalem road, and you will encounter three trees, one dry, one withered, and one uprooted. Dry up some of the dry one and wither some of the withered one and uproot some of the uprooted one, and may the Lord God uproot you from the breast [ܚܕܝܐ] and the breast [ܬܕܐ] of her, so-and-so, daughter of her, so-and-so, yes, amen.'

The blind man—or perhaps, one-eyed man,[146] given the widespread associations of any kind of unusual gaze with the 'evil eye' in folklore—apparently figures the affliction of both mother and by extension the nursing child, whose cause, given the references to drying up, should be laid at the failure of the breasts to produce or express milk. The association of withered trees with Jerusalem probably relates ultimately to the episode of the cursing of the fig tree (Matthew 21; Mark 11). Without excluding more local developments, and allowing that, as discussed below, the motif of encounter and redirection of malevolent forces is widespread in the Aramaic and adjacent traditions, both the motifs of the maimed man and the three trees can be paralleled in ritual texts from the Greek tradition. An incantation transcribed in the early 20th century for glandular swelling (κουφή) puns as follows on the word for 'mute' (or 'deaf', κουφός), 'A mute man got a mute woman pregnant, they went to the mute-thicket to cut a mute-plant, to make the sign of the cross over the swelling (κουφή)'.[147] Some late manuscripts offer in turn three trees planted in Paradise, apple, rose, and quince, and subsequently ruined as an analogy for the removal of a pox;[148] three different trees, sycamore, chestnut, and 'firewood' in the fictional city of Aneuis parched by God as an analogy for the removal of splenitis; and figs grown in Jerusalem and subsequently withered as an analogy for the same.[149]

The new content is most frequent in the larger collections outside of the 'Book of Protection' proper, which belong to a substantially different tradition, but additions to the documentation established by Gollancz can be found in the latter too. Two examples that cross the two categories may be given. The first, a remedy for colic, is found in Ch12093 § 3 and NY2941/2 § 43.

There found her the LLYQM and said to her, I am Ḥazban, chief cultivator of my very own circuit in the marrow. Come out from among the bones to the flesh and from the flesh to the skin and from the skin to the ear (of the plant) and from the ear to the water. (...)'

The text goes on to repeat the request with reference to the power of God and the action of seven evil spirits. The role of Solomon in incantations is seen here neither for the first nor the last time; more striking are the stress on the agricultural background of his family on the father's side, and the appearance of the talking she-ass of Balaam, known from scripture (Numbers 22) but with her master re-cast as a diviner, a development rooted in post-biblical Jewish traditions.[150] The relation of the unfortunate creature to the illness is uncertain—perhaps an allusion to an analogy between the stopping of her movement imposed by the angel, and blockage of the natural motion of the bowels—, but it serves to introduce the still obscure LLYQ(Y)M (instrument of or colleague in divination?), with a further pun possibly pertaining between ܚܩܠܐ 'cultivator' (κόλων) and ܩܘܠܐ 'colon' (κόλον),[151] seat of the 'colic' targeted by the incantation.

The second intersection comes in a formula for an incantation for protection against dogs, which seeks to bind their mouths. A common kernel is shared by Lo4434 § 84 and CaH156 § 66, which is given here according to the latter before it continues with an addition resembling a formula for the same aim in G. A § 21.

ܫܫܠܚ ܫܡܥ ܒܟ ܡܢ ܚܠܩ ܒܝܡ. ܚܠܩ ܚܕܐ ܚܕܐ ܡܢ
ܚܕܐ ܡܢ ܫܠܚ ܠܐ ܡܢ ܫܡܥ ܒܟ ܚܕܐ

150 Possibly also reflected in Lo5281 § 6 (a remedy for impotence), where the supernatural she-ass, left anonymous, releases 'the sea that was bound in her net' (ܝܡ ܕܐܬܚܒܫ ܒܗ ܚܕܐ ܐܬܬܝܪ). Already Philo (De mutatione nominum 202) calls Balaam an augur (οἰωνοσκόπος); for his role as prophet and sorcerer see further L. Ginzberg, Legends of the Jews, edited and translated by H. Szold and P. Radin, 2nd edn (2 vols; Philadelphia, 2003), vol. II, pp. 760–779. For the nexus ܚܠܡ ܡܐ ܚܕܐ in Syriac see e.g. Severus of Antioch, Letters 6.3, ed. E.W. > Binding of the mouths of dogs. 'Adam called you "dog", our Lord Jesus Christ shut your mouth, the Cross is between you and me—and may our Lord shut your mouth!'

That knowledge of true or occult names is a source of power is a commonplace of magical thought, and here there is a more particular allusion to Adam's naming of, and attendant mastery over all animals by divine assent after their creation (Genesis 2:19–20). Among ritual texts in particular there is a parallel in a medieval Latin text that might suggest in turn a shared background in Late Antiquity: addressing an eagle, to protect it from attacking a trained falcon, one informs it, 'Eagle, eagle, the Lord made you, Adam gave you a name.'[152] The coda of Lo4434 gives an interesting reinforcement of the Christian nexus between Adam and Christ, the first and the perfect human, respectively, somewhere between whom the user of the current procedure stands. It cites how, 'when our Lord entered Jerusalem, the stones gave voice and the dogs gave no bark.'[153]

An example of new content from within the 'Book of Protection' proper can also be given. The formula (CaH163 § 38) relates to hunting, opening with a reference to 'loosening' of a quarry, previously understood in its use in a related procedure published by Gollancz (G. A § 14) to refer to facilitating the chase.

> ḥaglâ-birds and the partridges and the traps and the hunting-nets of him, so-and-so, the son of her, so-and-so.'

A metaphorical sense for this 'loosening' is superficially appealing, of 'flushing out' the birds, but here at least the reference to loosening traps and nets in addition to the game suggests instead an aggressive ritual procedure designed to hinder a rival's hunt, especially as just such a 'binding' is explicitly mentioned in a variant of G. A §14 in Ye10 §36.[155] The text, which takes on the character of a hymn cataloguing the impressive feats of the deity impressed upon the natural world—perhaps more specifically the awe inspired by a theophany—, into which assistance with the present matter of fowling is neatly fitted, remains distinct from a prayer in that the result is never in fact requested, but rather acclaimed as a fait accompli. The language of universal praise includes a Psalmic allusion (97:6), while the 'cliff-dwellers' especially figure the mountain-haunting birds themselves, who would be understandably relieved at their freedom, however short-lived.

Worth a mention, finally, are examples of new roles as prayer-eponyms and actors in narrative incantation motifs. Already the witnesses published by Gollancz, expanded by the published amulets, offer an extensive cast. They are joined by the likes of St. Onasimo (alias Onasima: BHO 814–816) on the occasion of the salvation of her sisters and herself from a fiery furnace (Lo4434 §22), an Abba Markos whose inflamed spleen is made to 'wither' (ܝܒܫ: Lo5281 §52), the apostle Simon-Peter on his travels in 'the city of Asia' (ܐܣܝܐ ܩܪܝܬܐ) where he counteracted Lilith and other ills imperilling unborn children and thus gained converts (Di225 §10; Lo5281 §18), and the biblical Enosh encountered and dispatched by St Marutha to heal plague-sores (Lo4434 §63). In a meeting equally incongruous from a chronological perspective, Moses (reprising in part his role in G. A §22, a version of which in Ev1 §5 presents the narrative in the first person in his voice) witnesses Adam once again exercising his mastery over animals while also invoking the help of three saints (Mo417 §22).

ܫܒܩ ܠܝ ܠܝ ܐܡ ܐܡ. ܐܫܬ ܡܠܐ ܐܒܥܘ ܐܬܩܛ ܐܝܠ ܐܒܝܪ

155 This invocation, only loosely comparable to that in G. A, ends with, 'let the hunting of this your servant be released, if it is bound' (ܫܒܩ ܠ ܐ ܐ ܒ ܒܪ ܐ ܒ ܐ).

to interrupt the workings of a mill (Lo5281 §§58–59), in part via a Garshuni invocation referring to Solomon's sealing of four jinn, and to hinder the heating of an oven (ܟܝܬܐ: StP4 §39), which can be counteracted in turn by reciting the reference to analogous releasing in Psalm 146:7c three times, or that of a furnace (ܟܘܐܪܐ: Lo5281 §§21–22), similarly released in turn via Psalm 102:19–20. Several more definite instances can be added. A proper curse is inflicted on an enemy by an invocation of the 'chief of demons' (ܪܝܫ ܫܐ) who is to derange the target's mind (CaH160 §67), while a curse of more limited scope, in the genre of erotic magic, asks further demons to torment a beloved with burning discomfort such that she is unable to eat, drink, or even stand until she sees the beneficiary (CaH160 §68), a technique familiar from magical texts of the Late Antiquity.[157] The same manuscript offers yet another procedure turning the tables, for use by a wife to regain the love of her husband (CaH160 §72): it combines the ritual deposition of hair from the target's head under the threshold of the house with the recitation of Psalm 46, whose opening invocation of God as 'our house of refuge' (ܡܚܣܝ ܒܝܬ) neatly responds to the direction that the hair be stolen (ܓܙܠ) from the man's head, then analogically bound to the household (ܒܝܬ). Desire, for the purpose of favour in public life rather than sex or marriage, is couched in similar terms of 'burning' and pursued in one case with internal reference to an accompanying ritual analogue: the target should be affected 'as this writing is burned in the oven' (ܟܝܬܐ ܗܢ ܟܬܒܐ ܕܐܬܚܪܩ ܒܟܝܬܐ: Lo5281 §46). The separation of two persons, apparently for the benefit of a third in an unspecified relation to either, may also be sought (Lo5281 §§47–48). Aggressive procedures are also represented in the manuscript of 'charms' seen by George Percy Badger in the region of Mosul in the 1840s and excerpted in English paraphrase.[158]

The invocation of demons just seen, in sharp contrast to that of Christian holies, is rare. At a safer remove, the sending of demons against enemies by a higher power, and even the visitation of Satan, is sought in a new procedure known from two witnesses (CaH162 §13; Di225 §1). While the language harks back to biblical precedent (adapting Psalm 109:6), the gravity of this escalation is internally acknowledged, it would seem, by a peculiar disposition in which the name ܫܠܡ itself is apotropaically deformed by the writing of the last three of its consonants upside-down, and so too the name of one of the demons (CaH162, f. 20a–b; with a similar treatment for Satan in the version of G. A § 26 in Ye19 § 25).

Beyond the texts themselves, their continued collection and study allows progress on larger questions of context. Contradicting the impression of Gollancz that such texts are 'extremely rare',[159] they now number no fewer than 69, with at least 38 for the 'Book of protection' alone,[160] joined by 15 manuscripts containing related material in miscellaneous collections and 17 finished amulets (not including their earlier counterparts). A similarly broadened geographic and temporal context can be established: such texts were by no means confined to the mountainous Hakkari region as might have been expected from the small sample made available by Gollancz, as they are now on record in the cities of Amida, Mosul, and Urmia, and reflections of the same tradition in the fragmentary manuscripts from Malabar (Ca1167) and Turfan (including also Sogdian)[161] suggest a diffusion far to the east as part of missionary activity, which invites further investigation. Their copying can now be shown to have extended over a longer period, both earlier (1714 for StPS1, the earliest internally dated witness) and later (1932 for StPS26), while the finished amulets bring this range dramatically into the Middle Ages, as two are securely dated by archaeological context before 1283 (Bei1 Bei2), a period to which the Turfan material, which for reasons of space cannot be considered further here, may also be assigned. These last provide an equally precious datum for geographical context, localised in coastal Lebanon, far to the west of the other artefacts.

The extension of witnesses to this tradition to an earlier period in turn gives an opportunity for contextualisation within ritual traditions of the region and farther west, contemporary and more ancient. (Diachronic continuity is further considered, in terms of magical-medical practitioners, in the contribution of Siam Bhayro to this volume). Gollancz had already broached the subject years before the publication of his 1912 collection, remarking of his codices, 'I do not touch here upon the consideration as to whether they are of Syriac originals or translations from the Greek, seeing that many of the Proper Names, specially of demons, appear to have Greek forms … however … not a few of these charms and exorcisms resemble very closely ancient Assyrian incantations'.[162] It may now be taken as axiomatic that the traditional origins of rituals should be sought first within or as close as possible to the communities in which they are embedded, and that this inquiry should not be privileged above the determination of internal meaning to those who actually participated in the tradition of the texts. This contribution has no new native informants to offer, past or present, and can only present some tentative suggestions on groupings of documents as the oeuvre of known copyists: George son of Zîʿâ of Shibani (CaH160, G. A, Lo6673), Ṣlîbâ son of Gammô of Salmas (Be95, Be553), Elijah son of Stephan of Mawānâ (LoA17, PaM, whose dates, if correctly read, give him a career of at least 60 years), Zerwandad son of Safar of Rabnaṯ (Bi583, NY2941/4), the last of particular interest as demonstrating the production of handbooks and amulets by the same man. Some analysis of antecedents may nevertheless be cautiously attempted. The intent will be to give serious consideration to the possibility raised by Gollancz, but left virtually untouched by his predecessors,[163] of a significant role for translation in the makeup of the Syriac texts.

The background of the Solomon incantation (G. A §10 and variants) has already been mentioned in this respect. In its poetic architecture, the text suggests an origin for itself within Aramaic, but the Solomonic lore might point to an interdialectal translation, namely from an incantation originally composed in Jewish Aramaic. Also close to home for the Syriac documents, the shared terminology of binding (ʾSR) and sealing (ḤTM) with incantation bowls and amulets on other media in Jewish Aramaic and Syriac of Late Antiquity and the early Medieval period deserves a fuller treatment than can be offered here, and an engagement with amuletic texts in Mandaic is also a desideratum.[164] The motif of encounter and redirection of harmful forces by beneficent ones is enduringly popular in the Greek tradition,[165] but a Jewish example involving a Talmudic sage, the rabbi Ḥanina ben Dosa, and a demoness on incantation bowls is also relevant.[166] The rich Jewish tradition of angelology, the assignment of angels in elaborate hierarchies to spheres of competence in the human and natural world down to a minute scale, is refracted through obvious signs of translation in invocations in the Syriac texts of angels such as 'those who preside [literally, sit] over human feet' to encourage customers to come running to the user's shop.[167]

As for the nearest great civilisation to the east, Persian influence can only occasionally be detected. The most intriguing text unfortunately remains unpublished and inaccessible: aimed at healing boils (as also G. A § 53), it was cited in translation from a private collection ('Rev. Mr. Yohannan') by R.J.H. Gottheil as a fragmentary collection of prayers and 'charms'.[168] As it draws a direct relation between the prophecy of Zoroaster and the birth of Christ and appears little known in the scholarship on the Book of Protection, Gottheil's version, lightly adjusted, seems worth re-printing.

> Zardosht the prophet prophesied saying, A time will come when they see a star in the heavens having the likeness of a mother with a son in her arms. The time came, and they saw the star. Twelve kings set out from Persia to go to Jerusalem. Before the cock could crow, they had reached Jerusalem. They saw King Herod, who said to them, Where do you come from and where are you going? They answered, A king has been born in Bethlehem, and we have come to worship him. Then the star fell down in front of them; they went and worshipped the child who had been born.

> They opened their treasure chests and brought him offerings: gold, myrrh, and frankincense. They asked for a set of swaddling clothes. They then went to Persia, made a great fire, and threw the swaddling clothes of our Lord upon the fire. Before the swaddling clothes of our Lord the fire went out. In this manner may the boils go out and leave and be uprooted from the body of so-and-so, the son of so-and-so (…)

The absence of information on the provenance of this manuscript limits potential conclusions, but a retroactive Christianisation of both Zoroastrian prophecy and fire-worship would be of the most obvious appeal in a Late Ancient Persian context.

A background in the multicultural and multilingual ritual texts of Late Antiquity can be demonstrated more solidly in several cases. We have already seen a reference to the myth of Kronos and his bloody sickle, to which mention of the famous sorceress Medeia may be added, who by that fame had already won a role in Greek narrative incantations, specifically as seeker of herbal remedies for inflammation.[169] Here (M0417 § 18) there is only a fragment, appended to a variant of a procedure known already in G. A (§ 53) to cure boils, of what must have been a longer narrative of her encounter with an anonymous hero,

ܟܕܒܝܫ ܒܥܐ ܕܐܢ ܠܝܡ ܟܕܒܝܡܐ ܟܣ ܟܝ ܟܝܠ ܟܝܠ
ܐܡܪ ܠܗ ܠܐ ܟܐ ܟܐ ܐܙܠ ܐ

> A valiant man split the sea and the rivers and was going to Medea [ܒܥܐ] the sorceress, and he said to her, Where are you going?

That the original aim of this quest was to obtain a remedy from her expertise, as referenced in the Greek parallel, seems likely if beyond proof. The identity of the 'valiant man' (ܟܝܠ ܟܝܠ) remains obscure, but in light of the traditional context the Argonaut Jason, who sought comparable assistance from Medea, suggests himself. Another refraction of the Greek names of mythical figures, anticipated by Gollancz, may be found in one more of the texts not yet known to him: a procedure for the protection of flocks from wolves, in which an acclamation is made of the presence of supernatural guard-dogs with apparently ancient names: 'Titous and Kallinous and Hadrious the voracious bitches are the ones who watch over the lambs in the flocks of so-and-so, son of so-and-so'.[170]

At the end of another procedure to promote the social standing of the beneficiary, a genre already well attested in the material published by Gollancz (e.g. G. A § 40), comes an adaptation of a quite unexpected motif (Ma52 § 22). The targets of the new-found popularity are to follow him about 'from house to house, from village to village, from place to place, and from street to street'. This phrasing proves to be an adaptation of a very ancient Egyptian metaphor in which the effect on the target of erotic magic is compared to the behaviour of breeding pairs of animals seeking each other out, which is also reflected in Coptic texts of Late Antiquity, one of which gives a very similar sequence 'from village to village, from city to city, from field to field, from place to place'.[171] The animal similes in turn—but not the 'from … to …' sequence—are paralleled in some Mandaean magical formularies copied in 20th-century Baghdad (dog and bitch; he-goat and she-goat; bull and cow; fish and fisherman).[172] The prospect of a relation between Egypt and the Mandaean tradition, in turn, invites a mention of occasional echoes of Gnosticism, dividing and reappropriating the features and epithets of the supreme Jewish deity, as in the case of a reference to 'Adonai who is above the heavens' and 'his son who is beneath the earth'.[173]

On the subject of the Graeco-Egyptian nexus, the Syriac texts appear also to owe to that background the use of the mother's name (matronymic) in formulae for identifications in place of the patronymic as usual in daily life. This practice, whatever its internal logic, in a magical context surely harks back to an ancient Egyptian formula, which was directly translated into Greek and thereby diffused through the circulation of ritual handbooks.[174] In fact a more direct reflection of that translation is found in the early Syriac Pa400, in which the precise structure of the formula, a relative clause 'whom she (the mother) bore,' is rendered (there ܕܝܠܕܬ: syr. 400/1.19, 50) alongside the more common filiation-type with ܕܒܪ. It is made explicit in several of the texts already encountered by the feminine forms of placeholders ('son of her, so-and-so' and similar) and is reflected also in personalisation of both formularies (Be95 Be553 Di225 Ev1) and amulets (Bei1 CaH159 NY2941/4 Ox3 Ye9–90), as well as colophons where the name of the patron's mother is recorded or at least intended to have been (Be95 Bi583 CaH156 CaH160 Lo6673). The same magical significance of the metronymic identification is probably also reflected in the psephistic calculation of the medical prognostics that travel with the 'Book of Protection' (see 4 above).

A link with Jewish traditions, inflected through Greek texts, is also suggested by a procedure for an amulet to rid a house of snakes and scorpions by inscription of the name of Adam at its four corners (Lo4434 § 94). In the Geoponica, a Greek compendium of agricultural advice compiled in the early Byzantine period from Late Ancient and in some cases earlier sources, there is a comparable procedure attributed to the ancient sage Democritus to protect a dovecote from snakes. It has been shown to relate to a tradition in which this name embodies the four cardinal directions, and hence the entirety, of creation as an acronym of ἀνατολή, δύσις, ἄρκτος, and μεσημβρία.[175] The Syriac text adds the name of Eve, and neither text refers explicitly to the acronym, but the specification of the four corners of the structure to be protected makes its underlying presence likely.

A link with an incantation popular further west in medieval Europe, widely attested in Latin and Greek as well as vernacular languages, the so-called 'Three Brothers charm'[176] to promote the healing of flesh wounds and protect against infection, can also be identified. In the West it is a narrative motif of three brothers on a mission to gather herbs to treat such wounds, who are met and advised by Christ, after swearing to make the cure freely available, to use a simpler preparation including an incantation citing the analogous preservation of his wound from infection after the lancing at the crucifixion. Here (Lo4434 § 68) a troop of 12,000 angels takes the place of the brothers, and Gabriel that of Christ, but the core structure, including the internal prescription of an incantation, persists.

A relation more specifically to Greek texts comes through in a motif cataloguing the locations in which and the means by which a binding-curse may be deposited, facilitating in turn its counteraction. A consolidated list from the five instances known so far (Lo4434 §§ 29, 37; Lo5281 §§ 6, 10; Ma52 § 16) mentions deposition in the tombs of 'sinners', of the untimely dead, of monks, and of Jews, in caves, monasteries, mountains, cliffs, fields, water, fire, the threshold of a house, a crossroads; with the help of angels, celestial bodies, and knot-tying; and inscription on human[177] and animal bones and teeth, parchment, cotton, antimony, needles, reeds, gold, silver, bronze, lead, iron, stone, wood, plants, and in any of the 72 languages. Aside from the sweeping perspective on the varieties of injurious magic believed to be abroad in the world—and the pervasive anxiety that must have accompanied them—there is a connection to a Late Ancient and medieval Greek apotropaic tradition. The so-called 'Prayer of Cyprian' gives a comparable but briefer catalogue, which may indeed have been grafted into that text from an originally separate origin, in line with that saint's specialism in the releasing of bindings of the sort that he used to inflict as a magician, before his conversion to Christianity. It includes deposition on the seashore, in rivers, the sea, tombs of a righteous man or a sinner, the threshold or lintel of house, the leaf of a tree, or a roof, and inscription on gold, silver, bronze, iron, stone, wood, lead, tin, animal hide, fish skin, deerskin, with ink or cinnabar, in any of the 'twelve languages'.[178]

Another motif of cataloguing gives a similar impression, in which fever and other diseases are identified with ethnic adjectives. 'Jewish' is favoured above all (as already in G. A §§ 4 and 28), possibly related to a legend about the origins of fever(-demons) at the beheading of John the Baptist by Herod,[179] but 'Arab', 'Armenian', and 'Turkish' also appear. 'Alan' (ܐܠܢܝܐ, CaH163 §§ 12–13;

177 The mention of inscription on human skulls (حل ܡܢܚܫܐ ܒܪܢܫܐ) in particular recalls the Jewish Aramaic curses inscribed on the same substrate, for which see G. Bohak, Ancient Jewish Magic: A History (Cambridge, 2008), pp. 193–194.

Mo417 § 4; Pa424–425 § 34), which must refer to the nomadic tribe that burst onto the Mediterranean scene in Late Antiquity, again suggests origins at that time, and a Hellenic perspective surfaces in the inclusion of 'Syrian', 'Median' and the characteristically Greek pejorative 'barbarian' (CaH162 § 7; Mo417 § 4; Ye10 § 4) in the catalogue to the exclusion of 'Greek' itself. Further complexity is introduced by the version in Ev1 § 7: first the possibilities of 'Arab', 'Turkish', and 'Roman' (ܪܘܡܝܐ, here perhaps equivalent to 'Byzantine'), fevers are introduced, then different adjurations are applied based on religious affiliations, by the (Mosaic) Law (ܢܡܘܣܐ) if the fever is 'Jewish', by the still obscure meṣḥaf if it is 'pagan' (ܡܨܚܦ), and by the gospel (ܐܘܢܓܠܝܘܢ) if it is 'Syrian'—by this stage the frame of reference has been re-centred upon Eastern Christianity. The co-occurrence of these lists with specification of fevers 'of every kind' (ܟܠ ܓܢܣ) via the Greek loanword γένος is also a clue to the origins of the racial motif in a pun on the multiple valences of γένος, biological race and categorical type.

The ritual significance of the figure of Solomon has been encountered already. His famous ring is reproduced directly as an amuletic device (G. A § 41) and invoked in its own right in adjurations (e.g. G. A § 35). The legendary building project of the Jerusalem Temple—to which the backache incantation discussed above attached itself—and Solomon's demonological prowess had given rise in Late Antiquity to a Greek treatise framed as an autobiographical account, the so-called Testament of Solomon, of how the king gained help in that enterprise from many demons, which would otherwise have been at large and causing harm. Fittingly, a direct translation of a substantial excerpt from that text can now be identified as a constituent of a 'Ban of King Solomon' in one of the Syriac miscellanies, with interesting divergences including in the names of the demons and the substitution of Gabriel for Michael as the source of the ring used to harness them.[180]

A more cosmopolitan direction to complement the local development of the cult of saints witnessed elsewhere in the tradition is the no less highly specialized role for two saints, Luke and Phocas, in an incantation against reptiles already encountered (Mo417 § 22), where the pair, alongside Cyprian, are invoked with surprising prescience by Adam. Such an apotropaic role for a St Phocas is already attested in Greek in a Late Ancient papyrus amulet from Egypt, where he is said to command an entity whose name has been lost—but which has a good chance of being reptilian—from appearing in the place

180 Mo417 § 11; compare especially 1.1–1.14 of the Greek text in the edition of C.C. McCown, The Testament of Solomon: Edited from Manuscripts at Mount Athos, Bologna, Holkham Hall, Jerusalem, London, Milan, Paris and Vienna (Leipzig, 1922), pp. 5*–13*.

under protection.[181] In turn he is paired with a St Luke in a lengthy Byzantine incantation for protection from the bites of noxious animals more generally: 'Saint Luke, Phocas with five iron fingers, stand brandishing your iron, bind the snake, the viper, and every evil thing crawling upon the earth, for the lord Jesus Christ has ordained that after sunset it not be shaken.'[182]

An application of a Psalm, selected on the principle of analogy to the desired result of the procedure, may provide a final example. It will be recalled that the Psalter in general is the central source for the scriptural borrowings that run throughout these texts, but the present case illustrates both a high degree of specificity and potential interconnection with traditions outside of Mesopotamia. A procedure for 'releasing', which in context should refer more specifically to the release of magical binding of a man's sexual potency (Lo4434 § 35),[183] calls for the anointment of the bodies of both husband and wife with liquid mercury over which ritual speech has been made, including Psalm 23:4 and Psalm 24:7–10. These Psalms, with their references to a reliable rod and staff and to lifting, rising and opening in preparation for a glorious entrance, could independently have suggested themselves as an analogy for a successful coupling. But a recommendation to write precisely the seventh and eighth verses of the same Psalm 24, transliterated from Latin no less, in a Byzantine medical collection strongly suggests a relation to an accretion of Late Ancient recipes concerned with magical uses of the Psalter.[184]

The simplest explanation for all of these intertexts, whose number could be greatly multiplied, seems to be a common ancestor in Late Antiquity, but more intricate patterns of medieval and early modern transmission must still be considered in future work. Given the complex textual tradition of the Syriac witnesses, multiple determination is more likely than not.

6 Conclusion

The 'Book of Protection', whose future study can now be founded upon a widened and deepened textual basis, offers a privileged glimpse of life in Christian communities faced with challenging surroundings, of their relation to ancient traditions from their own past and those of their neighbours, and of their negotiation of an uncertain future through ritual means. Their delicate balance with demographically dominant and ruling groups, tensions underlying which were already surfacing in references within the texts to adversarial relations with 'sons of Hagar' (the versions of G. A § 6 in StP4 § 7 and G. A § 7 in Lo6673 § 7) and especially with officials (e.g. G. A §§ 6–8), was to be shattered by events on a global scale a few years after the publication of the landmark collection of Gollancz.[185] The texts offer perspectives on the later careers of ritual traditions from ancient and medieval Mesopotamia and beyond, and precious witnesses to a lost way of life in the modern Middle East.

CHAPTER 6

Traces of a Storied Universe: Biblical Figures and Motifs in Late-Antique Syriac Amulets

Nils H. Korsvoll

1 Introduction

Biblical quotations or allusions are a fairly common feature in late-antique amulets.[1] Often, it is believed, they are adapted from liturgy.[2] Scholars of ancient magic, therefore, generally hold that the making and use of amulets had 'a symbiotic relationship with institutional rituals and practices',[3] whether to evoke public worship, to appropriate efficacy, or to assert religious identity.[4] Biblical references also abound in medieval and early-modern Syriac amulets,[5] but are more scarce among late-antique Syriac amulets.[6] This was already noted by James A. Montgomery in his seminal publication of incantation bowls from the site of ancient Nippur,[7] and it has since fuelled debate on both their assumed religious context[8] and what the few biblical references might mean.[9] These debates are more extensive than I show here; rather than recounting them, I take this opportunity to revisit and reassess the biblical material in late-antique Syriac amulets in light of recent scholarship, in both biblical studies and history of religion, on what biblical might mean and may have meant.

As I elaborate below, ancient sources, including amulets, exhibit notable variation in their biblical allusions and quotations.[10] Newer studies have begun to explore this variation, in order to reassess what the Bible was and may have meant in often diverse and differing contexts. For instance, Siam Bhayro argues that parallels between New Testament passages and stories in the incantation bowls 'represent Jewish scholarly engagement with early Jewish literature',[11] while Theodore de Bruyn holds that fragments from gospel stories in amulets should not be understood as scriptural quotations but as 'trusted ways of recollecting the power of Jesus to heal and protect'.[12] I recently pointed out the potential statistical pitfalls of simply counting the number of biblical references in a corpus.[13] In short, while the comparably lower number of biblical references in Syriac amulets is certainly important, such a comparison may also be flawed in relying on somewhat dated notions of both biblical and scripture.[14]

Here, I first introduce the above-mentioned variety in biblical material in late-antique sources, in amulets and more broadly. Then, I present how this variation has prompted scholars to change how they conceive of biblical quotations and allusions. My discussion culminates in David Frankfurter's article 'Narrating Power: The Theory and Practice of the Magical Historiola in Magical Spells',[15] where he challenges the perceived primacy of the written and compiled versions of myth or scripture:

> In many cultures "myths" as coherent narratives describing supernatural events do not exist except as ritual librettos which are implicitly or explicitly oriented toward the ritual context and its goals … That is to say, myths only exist in the form of ritual applications; the historiolae "are" the myths, rather than derivatives of them; and the "canonical" myths … are literary contrivances, masking the diversity and even incoherence of the actual traditions.[16]

I proceed to borrow Frankfurter's anthropological understanding of myth or scripture, and I conclude that the biblical material and motifs in late-antique Syriac amulets suggest a notion not of scripture but of an authoritative discourse of precedent.[17] Rather than a biblical canon, the figures and narratives seem to belong to a wider storied universe.

2 Syriac Amulets from Late Antiquity

Amulets appear in many forms and for many purposes in Late Antiquity:

> In the Graeco-Roman world amulets were commonly used to invoke divine power for healing from sickness, protection against harm, malediction of adversaries, and success in a variety of affairs. These amulets were prepared by specialists who often followed pre-existing models. They were rendered effective by writing, recitation, and other rituals, and were then worn on one's body or fixed, displayed, or deposited in some place.[18]

There were amulets written out on papyrus, parchment, pottery (ostraca), thin metal sheets (lamellae), or on gems or other types of jewellery.[19]

Most Syriac amulets are incantation bowls, which are medium-sized bowls (commonly 15–20 cm in diameter and approximately 8 cm deep) with an incantation or magical spell written on the inside in ink.[20] The remainder are a few inscribed lamellae and some leather amulets with the text again written in ink.[21] These are small, portable, and show signs of having been folded. Broadly speaking, the Syriac amulets use two different scripts, one that is close to Estrangela, and the other a unique script that has come to be known as Manichaean.[22] There are currently no fonts that 'could correctly reflect the peculiar palaeography of Syriac incantation bowls',[23] so the most recent publications transliterate their texts in Latin script.[24] In this paper, I follow this convention,

There are some sixty published Syriac amulets from Late Antiquity, most of which are thought to come from what is now Iraq.[26] Several incantation bowls were excavated by the University of Pennsylvania at Nippur in the 1880s, where many were found buried up-side-down and in association with what appeared to be domestic buildings.[27]

The stratigraphy helped date the bowls to the sixth or seventh centuries CE, but details of their use remain vague. Suggestions have included hydromancy, overturning witchcraft, or serving to trap demons.[28]

Other incantation bowls and amulets have no known provenance, which has led to controversy concerning their acquisition and study.[29] Among the late-antique Syriac amulets, biblical references and motifs appear in both provenanced and unprovenanced pieces. Opinions on how to navigate this situation differ,[30] but in line with the growing awareness of and concern about the illegal export and trafficking of ancient artefacts, I follow the guidelines laid down by the American Schools of Oriental Research (ASOR) in 2015 and only examine amulets that were acquired by or belonged to a recognised collection before April 24, 1972.[31] Thus, my survey and analysis of biblical material is not comprehensive, but it is broad enough to make certain initial observations and suggestions.

3 Reconceptualising the Categories Biblical and Scripture

Traditionally, discrepancies between biblical material in amulets and the canonical texts have been taken to indicate the former's distance from the canon or institutional ritual contexts.[32] Over the past decades, however, scholars have begun to challenge the implicit dichotomy and teleology underlying the categories biblical and scripture, both in biblical studies more broadly and in studies of late-antique amulets. For instance, Ruth Langer summarises how biblical material appears in rabbinic liturgy:

> as the citation of complete biblical pericopes; as prayers or study passages; as the explicit citation of verses as midrashic-style proof texts to buttress the theological statement of a prayer; as reused biblical language, often adjusted in grammar and meaning to its new context; and in prayers that consist virtually entirely of concatenated unadapted verses.[33]

Derek Krueger makes similar observations regarding early Byzantine sources, remarking that diversity and variation have often been hidden by 'Byzantine copyists and later preparers of critical editions [who] corrected near quotations to exact quotations'.[34] Or, as Eva Mroczek points out, scholars have read the variants of the story or motif 'either as proto-biblical, para-biblical, or biblical interpretation', which they 'assimilated into an evolutionary narrative with Bible'.[35] Contrary to such approaches, Hindy Najman, for example, proposes to read biblical and pseudepigraphic literature not as variants of scripture, but as living, culturally contextualised discourses centred on important figures.[36]

This rereading of biblical material also resonates among scholars of ancient amulets.[37] For example, several Greco-Egyptian amulets include narratives about Moses that do not compare with the current canons,[38] and Ágnes

T. Mihálykó observes that biblical quotations in PGM P13 seem to display 'a deliberate variation with no other overall principle than variation itself'.[39] Gideon Bohak notes 'quite a few interesting examples of the use of biblical and parabiblical myths' in ancient Jewish amulets,[40] and de Bruyn and Jitse H.F. Dijkstra describe biblical references in Greco-Egyptian amulets very much like Langer's description of Jewish liturgy quoted above:

> Passages may be quoted in an abbreviated form as a cipher for an entire work, as in the incipits of the gospels or the opening words of verses in a psalm. Often several passages are juxtaposed one with another, and sometimes they are quoted in an incomplete or confused manner.[41]

Joseph E. Sanzo proposes that these amulets do not rely on a Bible, but rather on a set of stories and figures that function as 'a repository of individual thematic units'.[42] De Bruyn agrees, describing it as a complex of 'authoritative traditions … ignoring the boundaries of later classification'.[43]

Montgomery already remarked on the deviance from canonical texts among the biblical references in the Nippur incantation bowls.[44] With more specimens having come to light, some scholars hold that the corpus nevertheless demonstrates that 'by the fifth century CE the canon of sacred scriptures was a long-established text'.[45] Others continue to argue that 'biblical quotations appear mostly in pre-Masoretic spellings'.[46] Still, all agree on the biblical material's varied format and use in the bowls. Shaul Shaked, for instance, divides biblical references into quotations, echoes of biblical themes, liturgical quotations, and allusions,[47] while J.B. Segal finds direct quotations, citations from liturgy, or references with 'a familiarity with Biblical narrative'.[48] There has been some discussion regarding the biblical references and motifs in the late-antique Syriac amulets, but these have mainly been concerned with whether or not they are Christian.[49] Here, I explore the Syriac amulets in light of the above, newer observations on how biblical material appeared and was used in Late Antiquity.

3.1 Biblical Material as Authoritative Discourse of Precedent

More specifically, I do this through the abovementioned interpretive framework that Frankfurter proposes in his article on historiolae and the power of narrative.[50] First, I present a brief recap on historiolae, the use of which is attested already in ancient Egypt and Babylonia.[51] De Bruyn finds a good example in P.Oxy. VIII 1151: 'O Lord, † Christ, Son and Word of the living God, who heals every illness and every infirmity [Matt 4:23], also heal and watch over your handmaid Joannia …'.[52] Thus including stories or myths in amulets is common, but there is some debate as to how they were considered efficacious. Jørgen Podemann Sørensen, who wrote an early and influential article on historiolae in ancient magic, argues that the mythical story provides a sacred precedent for the amulet's intended outcome,[53] while Henk Versel suggests that the connection with myth helps establish a liminal space wherein the amulet will work.[54] Others hold that the precedent lies in the narrative itself, not necessarily in its mythical status or reference,[55] and Frankfurter ascribes to this view in his examination of ancient historiolae through anthropological theory.[56]

Myth and ritual have been a favoured topic in anthropology for a long time, to the extent that I cannot summarise the many contributions here.[57] Instead I proceed directly to Frankfurter's article, where he combines perspectives from these efforts with insights from speech-act theory.[58] He takes inspiration from William A. Graham, who asserted that 'the sacrality or holiness of a book is not an a priori attribute of a text but one that is realized historically in the life of communities who respond to it as something sacred or holy'.[59] But how, then, can we map or describe the processes by which myth or scripture is made powerful and set to work in amulets? After all, while historiolae are made (relevant) for the specific, situated amulet that they appear in, they also require a recognisable tradition 'which establishes the historiola's performative value and power'.[60]

To take this into account, Frankfurter builds on anthropologist Mary E. Mills' breakdown of myth into different levels of discourse, proposing a framework of three tiers. These outline how a successful historiola contains or draws on:

> (1) the abstract set of concepts and relations that might crystallize around or into (2) certain figures, names, places, or folklore motifs according to a culture's current circumstances, and then come into being within (3) a variety of performative settings according to a variety of forms.[61]

As I understand Frankfurter, the contextual, situated historiola or narrative in an amulet is the performative third tier. Here is the actual text, the material artefact it is written on, and the possible ritual context it is accompanied by.

For the first tier, we have the broader, more abstract notions that, for instance, de Bruyn and Sanzo find behind biblical references, such as healing, salvation, or security. Scripture (with a capital S) certainly also belongs to this first tier. Yet, based on what I discussed above, I would place biblical material in the second tier.

Hence, in light of the reconceptualization of biblical that Mroczek, Najman, Krueger, and others are proposing, I consider the biblical stories and motifs in amulets to be part of Frankfurter's second tier:

> Finally, the specific terms, symbols, and motifs of composition (my level [2]) do not themselves constitute "myth" but rather the authoritative discourse of precedent in a given region at a certain time: stories, prayers, heroes and gods—a discourse that would certainly evolve through time (and particularly as a culture converted to Christianity or Islam).[62]

Now, as the former quotation from Frankfurter makes clear, this authoritative discourse of precedent, crystallised around figures, names, places or motifs, is conditioned by a culture's current circumstances. This may include, but does not require, the Bible, scripture, or canon.

As Bohak, de Bruyn, Sanzo, and others argue, canon, institutions, and religious authority are not unimportant for how and why amulets employ biblical material. Rather, the point is that their use is not necessarily derivative. This is the nuanced point I want to make by using Frankfurter's analytical framework and by situating canonical, biblical texts within the second tier. As such they are part of a culture's current circumstance, instead of an abstract theological or ideological idea or entity in the first tier (where conventional conceptions of Bible or Scripture might place them). Therefore, as I proceed to (re)examine four examples of biblical material in late-antique Syriac amulets, I expect to further elucidate their use and meaning, and, by extension, to shed more light on this still somewhat mysterious corpus.

4 (Biblical) Figures, Narratives, and Motifs in Syriac Amulets

4.1 'Jesus the Healer'

My first example is the invocation of 'Jesus the healer' in the incantation bowl CBS 9012, which is held in the University of Pennsylvania Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology. It comes from the university's excavations at Nippur and is preserved in its entirety. It is of average size, its text is written in the so-called Manichaean script,[63] and it has a circle divided into four sections by a simple cross in the centre.[64]

63 Moriggi, A Corpus, pp. 16–18.

64 This is a common graphic motif in the Syriac bowls (Moriggi, A Corpus, p. 43).

The bowl contains fourteen lines of text, and Marco Moriggi notes several parallels among as yet unpublished bowls.[65] Baruch Levine wrote of CBS 9012 that 'the composition of the text reflects a definitive format … There are four successive passages, each beginning with the formula: ʾāsîr weḥātîm "bound and sealed"'.[66] The first segment invokes 'Jesus the healer' (lines 1–3); the second segment refers to Moses and the Red Sea (lines 3–4);[67] the following segments draw on a number of familiar entities in late-antique magic: celestial bodies (line 6), angels (line 7), Solomon (line 8), El Šadday, and Lord Abrasax (line 9).[68]

Here, I present Moriggi's transcription and translation of the first segment:

> (1) mzmn hnʾ kʾsʾ lḥtwmyʾ byth dmyḥrḥwrmyzd br mʾmy (2) bḥyl {ḥyl} dyyšwʿ ʾsyʾ bḥyl ʾḥny tqypʾ ʾsyr dwrh wmškwnth (3) wbyth wʾntth wbnʾ wbntʾ dmyḥrḥwrmyzd dmytqrʾ br mʾmy …
> (1) Prepared is this bowl for the sealings (of) the house of myḥrḥwrmyzd son of mʾmy (2) by virtue of the power of Jesus the healer, by virtue of the power of the mighty ʾḥny, bound is the dwelling and the tent (3) and the house and the wife and the sons and the daughters of myḥrḥwrmyzd who is called "son of mʾmy" …[69]

The text on the bowl is quite legible and it follows a common structure and uses common terminology, so there has been no significant debate on the reading or translation, except for the invocation of 'Jesus the healer' and 'the mighty ʾḥny'. Montgomery, in his publication of CBS 9012, emended ʾḥny to ʾḥyny, 'my relative' or 'my cousin', arguing that the practitioner thus claims kinship to the powerful healer.[70] However, while this is possible, it does appear somewhat speculative. I prefer Moriggi's interpretation of ʾḥny as a power name, one of the many unidentified nomina barbara in this genre.[71]

The identity of this 'Jesus the healer' remains uncertain. Montgomery understood him to be the famous, much-referenced Joshua bar Peraḥya, as ʾsy', 'healer' or 'physician', is a common epithet in the incantation bowls and in another bowl found to describe Joshua bar Peraḥya.[72] Victor Hamilton was less adamant, proposing either Joshua bar Peraḥya or Jesus Christ as possible identifications.[73] Markham J. Geller suggested that this bowl is part of a wider tradition in Late Antiquity that centred on the healing abilities of Jesus of Nazareth.[74] More recently, Maria Gorea and Gaby Abousamra note that this is an invocation of Jesus Christ, but without further discussion or comment,[75] while Moriggi declines to express an opinion on this.[76] In the end, a definitive identification is impossible. As Montgomery noted, 'sy' is a common epithet; for instance, it is used later in CBS 9012 as an epithet for the angel Michael, as well as among lists of powerful beings in CBS 16097 and BnF Syr 400/2.[77] So, in terms of Frankfurter's framework, the second tier escapes us in this case.

However, if the names or epithets remain vague, perhaps the motif or the structure of the incantation can help. The segment itself is fairly simple, consisting of two figures with an epithet, each of which is being invoked because of his ḥyl, 'power'. The motif of powerful agents is again common in amulets,[78] so 'Jesus the healer' has both an ordinary epithet and an ordinary motif here. Moreover, this simple motif for agency is repeated for 'ḥny, and the parallel structure in the segment places 'Jesus the healer' on a par with 'the mighty 'ḥny'. So, while the identity of or reference to 'Jesus the healer' remains uncertain, he is characterised by being invoked in parallel with another figure and by the common or generic apotropaic qualities that are ascribed to him. This parallels what de Bruyn finds in Greco-Egyptian amulets, where invocations of Jesus typically consist of only the name and a generic epithet.[79] Some of his examples include liturgical language, but this is not the case for CBS 9012 where both Jesus' epithet and the reference to his power are common, apotropaic qualities.

4.2 Moses and the Red Sea

For my second example, I continue along the spiralled text of CBS 9012 to its apparent reference to Moses and the parting of the Red Sea. As with 'Jesus the healer', the text is well-preserved and quite legible, so there is little disagreement as to its reading:

> ʾsyr wḥtym (4) ʾyk dʾmr mwšʾ lymʾ dswp wqmw ʾyk šwrʾ dmn trwyhwn gysẗ
> Bound and sealed is (4) as said Moses to the Red Sea and stood (the waters) like walls that (were) on both sides.[80]

These lines are preceded by the earlier quotation, and then followed by a similarly structured adjuration calling on the word of God and divine order. It has been proposed that this adjuration is also based on a biblical reference, but this has not yet been fully explored.[81]

Returning to the cited excerpt, it is evidently not Exodus 14:21–22 verbatim. As opposed to the previous case, however, there are enough elements to direct us to the specific story. But this raises the question of whether the second tier, in this case, is the wider Exodus narrative, or whether it is an apotropaic motif, or a miracle story, or something else?

Turning again to its function, this passage is another example of a historiola, where the story serves as a precedent for what the adjuration wants to achieve.[82] Broken down according to Frankfurter's framework, there is the historiola (tier 3), relying on the story of Moses parting the Red Sea (tier 2), which communicates salvation, divine power, divine protection, etc. (tier 1). However, as I noted earlier, scholars debate the reference versus the narrative in ancient historiolae, and, while the reference here is clear enough, there is not much of an actual narrative or story; there is no dialogue, no sequence of events, and no story arc to serve as exemplar for the subjugation that the segment seeks to establish. As such, the reference to Moses and the Red Sea may just as well be considered an apotropaic motif, rather than a historiola.

Frankfurter calls such cases 'clausal historiolae', setting them apart from 'historiolae proper'. The latter include actual narratives, whereas clausal historiolae are 'a subsidiary invocation to a directive utterance, a command or prayer'.[83] This distinction does not help us to discern the exact nature of the reference to Moses and the Red Sea in CBS 9012, but the reference does compare better with a clausal historiola's emphasis on invocation and command. Hence, it appears to lean more towards the emphasis on figures formulated in Najman's 'Mosaic discourse', rather than the canonical narrative in Exodus 14:21–22.

4.3 Other (Biblical) Figures: Noah and Solomon

Turning to another Syriac incantation bowl, AO 207964-O, its invocations of Noah and Solomon are remarkably like that of Moses above; indeed, the two segments of text and the structure of the incantation as a whole are both similar to what we saw in CBS 9012. There are several studies of AO 207964-O, but here I again present the excerpt from Moriggi's transliteration and translation:

> (10) … ʾsyr wḥtym bʿyzqtʾ dḥtymʾ bh šmyʾ wʾrʿ wbḥtmʾ dḥtmh nwḥ lkywlh wbʿ[y]zqth dšlymwn (11) dḥtymyn bh šʾdʾ wdÿwʾ wbḥtmʾ rbʾ ḥtymyn ḥtymyn mzrzyn wmšrryn qmʿyʾ hlÿn …
> (10) … Bound and sealed by the signet ring by which heaven and earth are sealed and by the seal by which Noah sealed his ark and by the signet ring of Solomon (11) by which demons and devils are sealed and by the great seal are sealed, sealed, armed and made strong these amulets …[84]

The bowl is similar in size to CBS 9012, with a diameter of 17.5 cm and thirteen lines of text, but it differs in that it is written in Estrangela script.[85]

The bowl belongs to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington DC, and it is held at the National Museum of Natural History. It was acquired in 1900/01, following its purchase from the Rev. Gabriel Oussani, and hails from Hillah, the capital of Babylon Province that is situated to the south of ancient Babylon.[86]

Starting with Noah, this is again an invocation of a biblical figure with reference to a specific (and popular) story, but without any actual narrative features; hence, it functions as a clausal historiola. Given the brief reference to the ark, it is again difficult to ascertain if this points to Genesis 6–9 specifically, or if it draws on the wealth of apotropaic topics and traditions linked to Noah that can be found in other sources.[87] This is even more evident when it comes to the following reference to Solomon, around whom there was, and indeed still is, an extensive lore concerning apotropaic or magic powers. Especially linked to his seal or ring (for instance, he appears, as I noted earlier, in CBS 9012).[88] Returning to the two references in AO 207964-O (tier 3), they both clearly draw on themes of divine power and salvation (tier 1), but it remains unclear which part of the culture's current circumstance carries this (tier 2). As with Moses and the Red Sea, there are several possibilities, but being clausal historiolae I again find it most likely that the (biblical) figure(s) here are the lynchpins, and not the biblical narratives that they also appear in.

4.4 Biblical Formulae

Moving on, amulets also use (biblical) formulae or formulaic language, which is another well-known link to institutional religion or practice.[89] My example here is the phrase (mn hš) wl'lm 'lmyn, '(from now) and forever and ever', which appears throughout both Jewish and Christian tradition,[90] as well as in numerous other amulets and incantation bowls.[91] I find it in six of the published Syriac amulets from Late Antiquity,[92] but restrict myself to two cases.

First, there is BnF Syr 400/1, which is one of three leather amulets made for the client 'kwrwhz'd, called yzd'nz'dg, daughter of dynq'. They were given to the Cabinet des Médailles de la Bibliothèque Nationale de Paris, currently the Bibliothèque nationale de France (BnF), by Mohsen Foroughi, who had acquired them in Iran. BnF Syr 400/1–2 was acquired in 1972, while the third amulet appeared some years later. All three were published by Philippe Gignoux in 1987.[93] BnF Syr 400/1 measures 27 by 9 cm, contains 92 lines of text, and came to the museum rolled up in a cylindrical brass container.[94]

The text is a standard combination of adjurations and invocations, in Estrangela script and surrounded by a border. The forever-and-ever formula concludes a brief, separate adjuration at the top of the amulet:

(3a) … wptkrwt' ttbṭl
(4a) mn hd' yzd'nz'dg bt dynq mn hš wl'lm
(5a) 'lmyn 'myn 'myn slḥ

(3a) … et que l'idolâtrie soit anéantie,
(4a) loin de cette Yazdān-zādag, fille de Dēnag, à partir de maintenant et pour les siècles
(5a) des siècles. Amin, amin, Selah.[95]

My second example comes from AO 207964-O, which I introduced in the previous section. Here too the phrase comes at the very end of the incantation, closing a doxology:

(13) … 'n' ktbty 'lh' n's' mn hš wl'lm 'yn w'myn 'myn 'myn slḥ

(13) … I wrote, God heals, from now and forever, yes and amen, amen, amen, selah.[96]

In brief, these cases show that while the phrase is recognisable across specimens, it is not fixed—the exact wording varies—but it is always used to conclude segments or texts, herein mirroring its use in liturgy and biblical texts.

It is reasonable to conclude, as many have indeed done, that the amulets engage with or draw on liturgical practice and/or biblical text, which would be the relevant cultural circumstances in tier 2. However, this and other similar formulae are also found in numerous other contexts. For instance, Syriac manuscripts are known for their extensive colophons, comments, and scholia, and these are 'often followed by a doxology'.[97] Typically, older studies paid little attention to these, but increasingly scholars have begun to explore their significance.[98] For instance, Thomas A. Carlson has pointed out that Syriac colophons typically consist of stock phrases, among which liturgical or biblical formulae figure prominently.[99] Indeed, Eva Riad argues that one 'cannot speak of one sacred and one secular literary tradition' in early Syriac scribal tradition, as topics, themes, and scribes overlap.[100] Therefore, rather than seeing biblical formulae as derivatives from liturgy or canonical texts, they may instead be understood as part and parcel of written expression. Certainly, the formulae are special in that they are connected with ritual agency, but this in fact only makes sense since the written word in and of itself was thought to hold agency in Antiquity.[101]

5 Discussion and Outlook: A Shared Storied Universe

Revisiting the above examples of biblical references and motifs in late-antique Syriac amulets, my aim was to explore them as manifestations of, rather than derivations from, stories and figures found also in the Bible. Using Frankfurter's analytical framework, I propose that they draw on a broader authoritative discourse of precedent, wherein the biblical canon played an important but not exclusive part. Sanzo paints a similar picture from late-antique Egypt, where he finds that the personal taste or creativity of the amulet maker seems to guide 'the apotropaic, exorcistic, and curative uses of names, especially names of famous figures associated with long-standing traditions'.[102] Similarly, Sara Ronis understands late-antique Talmudic demonology as 'cultural interactions and transcultural tropes, as different groups of Late Antique Jews adopt, adapt and reject diverse cultural options available to them in the cosmopolitan communities in which they lived'.[103] The variations in type and form suggest that such a freedom also existed in regard to the Syriac amulets; however, there are also some shared features that, necessarily, demarcate their authoritative discourse of precedent.

First, the relevant themes or principles behind the discourse are, unsurprisingly, salvation, divine power, or divine protection. These themes are well-documented in ancient amulets,[104] so it is no surprise to find that the figures or stories dealt with here also point towards these principles in their first tier. The amulets aim to protect and to heal, and therefore naturally appeal to notions of protection and healing. Second, the absence of long lists of names is noteworthy because this was an otherwise common and time-honoured form of invocation in late-antique amulets.[105] For instance, Bohak discusses how such lists suggest that the names functioned simply as power names or nomina barbara, without any explicit reference.[106] This is, of course, a conjecture, but such lists hold no signs of references or connections to a second tier. Therefore, the lack of such invocations in Syriac amulets suggests that the figures and motifs here do indeed carry meaningful reference(s) to an authoritative discourse of precedent, which is somehow anchored in their culture's current circumstances. But what can we learn about it?

My final observation is that the references and invocations are brief, flexible, and, at the risk of repeating myself, not necessarily linked to a specific biblical passage. Jesus the healer, Noah, and Solomon are all identified by epithets that link them to known stories or story-clusters, but not necessarily to a specific one. Moses and the Red Sea is specific, but the function seems again to be identifying the figure rather than rendering a special narrative. Moreover, in their respective spells, the figures are placed parallel to other figures of power—suggesting a more open and diverse authoritative discourse of precedent than that enshrined in canonical scripture. Likewise, the forever-and-ever formula is recognisable across the amulets, both in form and use, but also across other genres of writing, both sacral and secular.

In fact, returning to Sanzo, he argues that the ambiguity or openness of several of the references in late-antique amulets may well be intentional:

106 Bohak, Ancient Jewish Magic, pp. 254–257.

> In addition, the ubiquity of the amuletic use of Mt 4:23/9:35, which makes a general reference to the many healings of Jesus in Galilee, may be related to the passage's open-endedness and, hence, capacity for allowing practitioners to invent new Jesus traditions about healing and/or appropriate local non-canonical tales for their rituals.[107]

This resonates with my examples from the Syriac amulets, where the figures are included as independent entities, but with short and generic epithets that could have been salient to a variety of local traditions. Thus, recasting the biblical references or motifs as parts of a somehow broader, authoritative tradition helps explain the thematic orientation, the fluid format, and the parallels with non-biblical stories. This, in turn, suggests that the amulets operate within something like a storied universe, where figures, with associated qualities or stories, can be accessed according to specific needs or topical relevance, without hailing to one specific religion or tradition.

CHAPTER 7

Soundings in the Textual History of Syriac Amulets

David Calabro

1 Introduction

In northern Mesopotamia during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries CE, there circulated among Syriac-speaking Christian communities a large number of charms against various dangers and maladies. These charms were inscribed on scrolls and small codices, which clients would wear as a protection.[1] The codices, which could contain any number of charms from twelve to over seventy, are conventionally known by the title Book of Protection, reflecting the Syriac Ktābtā d-núṭārā da-bnaynāšā 'Writing of the protection of humans'.[2] The precise number of charms is still unknown, but a conservative estimate would be around eighty-five.[3]

From the colophons of these manuscripts, we know that they were typically produced by priests, and sometimes by deacons and sons of priests. The powers invoked in the charms are saliently Christian, including Christ, the Virgin Mary, and various saints. However, the texts are part of a long tradition of Aramaic and Semitic apotropaic magic, which can be detected in the names of demons, the use of ancient formulae for binding and expelling evil powers, and the basic structure of many of the charms.[4] Versions of some of the charms have also been found in ancient contexts at Turfan and at Hadath Grotto in Lebanon.[5]

1 The production of the codices for clients is attested in the colophons of many of the manuscripts. Typically, these refer to the client formulaically as 'the blessed youth, the beautiful shoot' (ܥܘܠܡܐ ܒܪܝܟܐ ܘܫܦܝܪܐ ܕܫܒܝܚ) and include his name. In some cases, blank spaces are left for the names of the client, his father, his mother, and his home town, which are filled in later. Secondary circulation of the codices is also frequently attested, as the original client's name is blotted or scratched out and replaced by another name. The manuscripts' small size (typically around 8×6 cm) and heavy wear support the assumption that the clients would keep them on their persons, as implied by the phrase 'the bearer of these amulets' (ܒܥܠ ܩܛܝܥܐ ܗܠܝܢ) that appears in the text of the charms.

2 Many variations of this title appear in the manuscripts. This is part of the overall variation we find in the manuscripts, which is explored at length below.

As soon as we start comparing different manuscripts of the Book of Protection, one of the most striking things we notice is the high degree of variation between them. For example, the Anathema of Mar ʿAbdishoʿ shows such drastic variation that the prospect of a critical edition of the charm would seem impractical. Even the revealed names of power that are used to bind the evil spirit in this charm vary, not only in spelling but in the selection and number of names, so that one might wonder how a copyist could ensure the effectiveness of the charm while taking such liberties. Yet not all charms vary to such a degree. The Prayer of Adam, for instance, is textually stable from one manuscript to another. Thus, one of the main problems associated with the Book of Protection is that of explaining why some portions are textually stable while others are not. Specifically, the contrast between drastic textual variation, on the one hand, and textual stability, on the other, raises questions such as the following:

1. Does the variation or stability attach to certain types of charms? For instance, is it the case that named anathemas, like the Anathema of Mar ʿAbdishoʿ, are especially prone to variation, while charms linked to biblical tradition, like the Prayer of Adam, are inclined to stability?
2. Is variation linked to the age of the charm? That is, would older charms tend to vary more, while newer ones would be more stable because they have had less time to change through transmission? (If this is true, we would expect the charm Binding the Guns and the Engine of War, which is obviously a newer charm because it is tied to newer technology, to be very stable.)

A related problem arising from the high degree of textual variation is that of the categorisation of the charms. For instance, do charms to protect cattle from harmful creatures and from the Evil Eye align more with charms against harmful creatures and the Evil Eye, or with charms for cattle? Some manuscript evidence also implies that charms for a man called to stand before a magistrate may belong to a general category of charms for binding the tongues of slanderers, and this may in turn be part of a larger category including charms to protect against sorcery.[6] Establishing the categories of charms may help to clarify whether certain categories are more prone to variation than others. This categorisation should be based not only on the rubrics of the charms (which vary and can be misleading), but also on a comparison of the text of the charms, with special attention to their structure.

Previous studies on the textual history of the charms are very few, and none have focused on the textual differences between manuscripts. Erica Hunter has published a form-critical study of selected anathemas found in nine manuscripts.[7] This study focuses on structural aspects, illuminating a four-part structure frequently found in anathemas attributed to saints. The focus on structure is appropriate, as we shall see below, for these charms tend to share a common structure despite the wide range of textual variation. In addition, Alexey Lyavdansky and Heleen Murre-Van den Berg discuss the long-range history of some formulas used in the Book of Protection, tracing these formulas to earlier Jewish, Islamic, and ancient Mesopotamian texts.[8]

The present study draws on sixteen manuscripts, which contain a total of 639 charms (including repeated instances of the same charm).[9] These charms were cataloged according to their rubrics, then sorted into categories. Some charms, such as named anathemas, were also sorted by individual charm; others were ambiguous due to variation in the rubrics and could not be reliably differentiated beyond subject categories like anti-weapon charms and charms against reptiles. Eleven of the sixteen manuscripts are dated, allowing the charms to be further sorted in chronological order. This allows a view of historical development spanning about a century and a half, from 1734 (the date of the earliest manuscript at my disposal, BnF Ms Syr 347) to 1883 (the date of the last manuscript, DFM 417). In this study, I begin the task of comparing and sorting out the individual charms to describe their textual history. Specifically, I will focus on three things: (1) introductory prayers, (2) an anathema known as the Anathema of the Gospel, and (3) anti-weapon charms. I will argue that the Book of Protection seems to resist, by nature, a rigid textual stemma; rather, the study of its textual history leads us to an anthropology of the creation and use of the charms.

6 In the manuscript Rylands Ms Syr 52, the rubrics of some charms mention binding the tongues of rulers, Muslims, and those who deny the Christian faith.

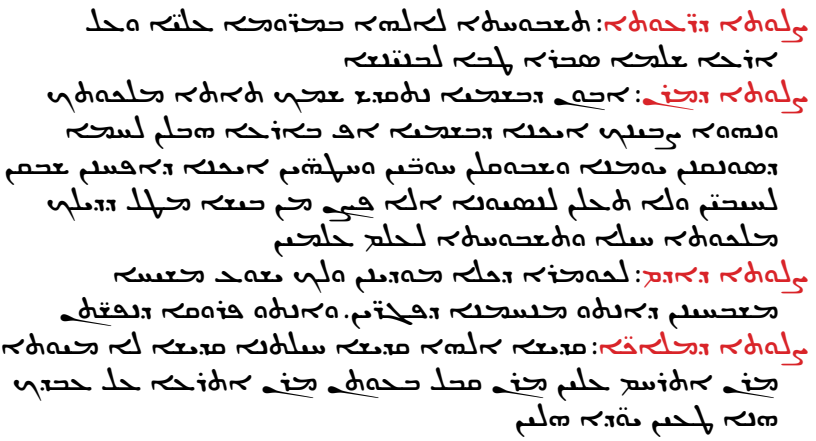
2 Four Introductory Prayers

Most manuscripts of the Book of Protection open with four short introductory prayers: the Prayer of the Shepherds (quoting from the words of the heavenly host in Luke 2:14), the Lord's Prayer (quoting from Matthew 6:9–13), the Prayer of Adam, and the Prayer of the Angels, almost always in that order.[10] Some manuscripts include additional material at the very beginning (see below), and some omit one or more of the introductory prayers, but this combination of four prayers is common enough that it may be considered standard. Following these prayers are the charms of the book proper, usually starting with the Anathema of the Gospel.

In six manuscripts, a loose conglomerate of prayer formulae, beginning with an invocation of the Trinity and the Trisagion, is added at the beginning. Although this material occurs in the earliest manuscripts, it contrasts sharply with the four standard introductory prayers in its high degree of textual variation. Indeed, in the earliest manuscript available for study, BnF Ms Syr 347, this material consists only of the invocation and the Trisagion, and it is unclear whether it was intended as a distinct text. Thus it is appropriate to treat the four standard introductory prayers independently of this initial material.



The four standard introductory prayers are in reverse chronological sequence, implicitly performing a process of accretion in which prayers have been added to the beginning of the book over time. The Prayer of the Angels is presumably primordial or timeless, the Prayer of Adam has an implicit setting after the expulsion from Paradise,[11] and the Lord's Prayer is from the Sermon

10 The one exception is CSDMA 16, in which the Prayer of the Angels precedes the Prayer of Adam.

11 The prayer mentions Jesus Christ in his role as the Saviour, which would fit with a setting after God has taught Adam about the future coming of Christ, as attested in the Cave of Treasures and in the Arabic Combat of Adam and Eve with Satan. The wider context in the Book of Protection implies that the prayer is meant to help access God's protection, which would be appropriate after the expulsion, when Adam and Eve began to encounter tribu-on the Mount during his ministry. The Prayer of the Shepherds also fits with this reverse sequence, following the canonical order of the Gospels rather than a harmonised chronology of the life of Christ.

These four introductory prayers are among the most textually stable parts of the Book of Protection. Textual variation occurs commonly enough from one manuscript to the next, but the variation is relatively minor. Indeed, it is possible to posit an original text of these prayers:

Prayer of the Shepherds: Praise to God in the exalted heights, and on earth peace, good will to humankind.

Prayer of Our Lord: Our Father who is in heaven, may your name be sanctified. May your kingdom come, may your will be done—as in heaven, so on earth. Give us the bread we need daily, and forgive us our debts and our sins, even as we have forgiven our debtors. And do not lead us into temptation, but deliver us from evil, for yours is the kingdom, the power, and the praise forever and ever.

Prayer of Adam: You, O Lord of All, we thank. And you, Jesus Christ, we praise; for you are the Reviver of our bodies, and you are the Saviour of our souls.

Prayer of the Angels: Holy God, Omnipotent Holy One, Immortal Holy One! Our Lord, have mercy on us! Our Lord, receive our supplication! Our Lord, be pleased with this servant of yours who bears these charms!

lations, darkness, and attacks from Satan. Also note that the prayer is in the first-person plural, which implies that the prayer is offered by Adam and Eve together.

In the earliest manuscript available for study, BnF Ms Syr 347, all of the prayers lack titles (although the charms of the text proper do have titles), so it is an open question whether the titles were an original feature of the text of these prayers. Without the titles, there is nothing in the Prayer of Adam and the Prayer of the Angels to connect these prayers with Adam and the angels, although these identifications may have been transmitted orally.

Of these prayers, only the Prayer of the Angels shows significant textual variation. In some versions, the first word, ܩܕܝܫܐ, is reinterpreted as part of the title and rendered as a plural form (with Seyame), so the title becomes 'Prayer of the Holy Angels'. This changes the syntax of the beginning of the charm to ܐܠܗܐ ܩܕܝܫܐ ܟܠ ܩܕܝܫܐ ܚܝܠܐ ܩܕܝܫܐ ܕܠܥܠܡ 'Holy God, Holy Omnipotent One, Immortal One' (this is the reading according to Gollancz A, dated 1803).[12] This variation is minor compared to what we find elsewhere in the book.

Several factors may contribute to the textual stability of these introductory prayers. Each of them is very short. They also occur at the very beginning of the book, which may make them easier to retain in memory than charms that occur later in the book. Two of them, namely the Prayer of the Shepherds and the Lord's Prayer, are quoted from scripture (both appear to be based on the New Testament Peshiṭta); this tie to a preexisting text would undoubtedly help to keep textual variation in check. Yet the link to the biblical text need not have required a process of copying from one book to another; instead, it may have been based on memory. These are well-known passages, quoted in the liturgy and likely used in sermons and in private discourse. These characteristics—the shortness of the texts, the occurrence at the beginning of the book, and the link to well-known biblical texts—suggest that the textual stability of these introductory prayers may fit with a process of spontaneous and creative production, as implied by other charms that exhibit a much higher degree of variation.

3 Anathema of the Gospel

The Anathema of the Gospel (ܫܘܒܚܐ ܕܐܘܢܓܠܝܘܢ), said in one early rubric to be 'useful against all maladies' (ܫܘܒܚܐ ܕܐܘܢܓܠܝܘܢ ܠܟܠ ܚܫܐ, Berlin Sachau 95, dated 1779), is typically the first charm of the Book of Protection after the introductory prayers.

12 Houghton Syr 163, dated 1809, adopts the longer form of the title (ending with ܩܕܝܫܐ) while retaining the original reading of the opening words (beginning with ܩܕܝܫܐ).

Unlike the introductory prayers, the Anathema of the Gospel shows a great deal of textual variation, from paraphrasing and the transposition of phrases to the addition or omission of whole sections. Only manuscripts written by the same scribe show a high degree of similarity. However, what all the manuscript witnesses of this charm do share is a common structural core. This core consists of two parts: (1) a quotation from John 1:1–5; and (2) an invocation of names of power to protect the bearer of the book from evil, beginning with the formula ܒܫܘܠܛܢ ܗܠܝܢ ܥܫܪ ܡܠܝ̈ܐ ܩܕܝ̈ܫ̈ܐ ‘By the power of these ten holy words’ or a variation of this formula.[13] These two structural elements always occur at the beginning of the charm, one immediately after the other.

Despite the great degree of textual variation evident in this charm, the very beginning, which consists of a quotation of John 1:1–5 (based on the New Testament Peshiṭta), is textually stable. This is exactly like the first two introductory prayers, being a quotation of a well-known biblical passage at the beginning of the charm. Therefore, the degree of textual stability in the Anathema of the Gospel decreases as one proceeds further into the charm, from the textually stable biblical quotation at the very beginning to the textually variable but structurally stable invocation of names of power, and finally to the addition of different sections at the end.

In the earliest available witness to this charm, BnF Ms Syr 347, the invocation of names (which is much shorter than all subsequent witnesses) is followed by a continuation of the quotation from John 1, including verses 6–15.[14] There is no picture or other decoration. A gap of about 45 years separates this early witness 13 The manuscript Vienna Hs Syr 7 is exceptional, including only the quotation from John 1:1–5. Gollancz assumed that the ‘ten words’ are the Ten Commandments; see H. Gollancz, The Book of Protection (London: Oxford University Press, 1912), p. lxii. However, the pronoun ‘these’ implies that the words are taken from John 1:1–5. Further, this formula also occurs in the charm Binding the Guns and the Engine of War in Houghton Syr 163, and there it is also explicitly linked to John 1:1–5. The ‘ten words’ are most likely the repeated names referring to God in this passage: three instances of ‘the Word’, three instances of ‘God’, two instances of ‘the Life’, and two instances of ‘the Light’. The Syriac words, in order of appearance, are as follows: ܐܠܗܐ, ܐܠܗܐ, ܐܠܗܐ, ܐܠܗܐ, ܐܠܗܐ, ܐܠܗܐ, ܚܝܐ, ܚܝܐ, ܢܘܗܪܐ, ܢܘܗܪܐ.

14 The invocation of names ends with ܡܫܝܚܐ ܡܫܝܚܐ at the bottom of fol. 4^{r}, then the continuation of the quotation starting with John 1:6 begins at the top of fol. 4^{v}. Thus, rather than viewing the structure of the charm as a long quotation from John 1 with the invocation of names inserted in the middle, we should view it as essentially bipartite: The two-element structural core forms the first part, and the continuation of the quotation from John 1 is tacked on as a second part. Unfortunately, the leaf containing the end of this charm is wanting.

from our next dated manuscript. Following this period, we see two branches of development. Some manuscripts set some of the text near the beginning of the charm inside a grid and add a picture of the four evangelists.[15] These manuscripts end after the invocation of names. Other manuscripts have no grid or picture, but they include a separate section, entitled ܒܫܘܪܝܐ ܕܡܬܝ 'Gospel of Matthew' (or a variation of this title) and quoting passages from Matthew and Mark (Matthew 10:7–10; Mark 16:15–18; Matthew 28:18–20; Mark 6:13) plus some additional material. We can refer to these two branches of development as Groups 1 and 2 respectively. The distribution is as follows:

Group 1
Berlin Sachau 95 (1779)
Berlin Ms Or Oct 553 (1800)
Gollancz A (1803)
Houghton Syr 160 (1804)
Houghton Syr 156 (1827)

Group 2
Houghton Syr 163 (1809)
Rylands Ms Syr 52, Part 1 (undated)

Some manuscripts vary even more or do not fall into either of these groups. Vienna Hs Syr 7 (dated 1826) has a grid and a picture of the four evangelists but has no invocation of names, including only the quotation from John 1:1–5. CSDMA 16 (dated 1837) has an invocation of names calling upon the four evangelists, but it has no grid or picture of the evangelists; instead, it has a picture of a lone saint holding a censer. DFM 417 (dated 1883) seeks to unite the tradition, including the main elements of Groups 1 and 2: a very long invocation of names, the grid, the picture of the evangelists, and the 'Gospel of Matthew' section.[16] All of this underscores the high degree of variation we see in this charm, aside from the biblical quotation at the beginning.

15 The part of the charm that occurs in the grid is not fixed but varies from one manuscript to the next.

16 DFM 417 is larger than other manuscripts of the Book of Protection, and it is joined to another book consisting of medical remedies. This late manuscript, rather than being an actual Book of Protection, may represent a sort of compendium, assembled in order to preserve the tradition.

4 Anti-weapon Charms

A variety of charms in the Book of Protection are aimed at protecting the bearer of the book from weapons. Some untangling is necessary to gain a clear picture of the repertoire of these charms, since the titles vary and overlap with each other. A comparison of the texts, however, reveals that there are six distinct charms. Two of these are very common in the manuscripts: Binding the Arrows and All Weapons of War (ܚܬܝܡܐ ܕܚܨܐ ܘܟܠ ܙܝܢܐ ܕܩܪܒܐ ܕܡܠܚܡܬܐ), and Binding the Guns and the Engine of War (ܚܬܝܡܐ ܕܡܕܟܝܢܐ ܘܩܠܥ̈ܐ).[17] The following discussion will focus on these two. The other four have only one occurrence each and thus are not susceptible to a description in terms of textual history.[18]

The two common anti-weapon charms vary substantially from one manuscript to the next, yet, unlike many other charms, the variation is limited to the level of the phrase, including the alteration, addition, omission, and transposition of phrases. Each of these two charms has a more complicated structure than the Anathema of the Gospel, containing between eight and nine core elements that are basically constant across the textual witnesses.

The charm Binding the Arrows and All Weapons of War has a structure consisting of nine elements:

1 Invocation of the Trinity
2 Reference to the crucifixion, with a quotation from Psalm 22:2 (as quoted by Jesus on the cross)
3 Quotation from Psalm 46:9: 'He breaks the bows and breaks the spears'
4 Quotation from Psalm 37:15: 'Their sword shall enter into their own heart'
5 Invocation of names of power, including the prophet Elijah
6 Quotation from Psalm 7:13–14: 'He ordains their arrows against the persecutor'
7 Reference to the throne of God
8 Quotation from Psalm 91:5: 'You shall not be afraid of the arrow that flies by day'

17 Both title forms are standardised.

18 These four are as follows: Binding the arrows, swords, spears, and axes (ܚܬܝܡܐ ܕܚܨܐ ܣܝܦ̈ܐ ܪܡ̈ܚܐ ܘܒܛ̈ܐ ܩܠ̈ܥܐ ܘܟ̈ܠ ܙܝܢ̈ܐ ܕܩܪܒ̈ܐ ܕܡܠܚܡ̈ܬܐ, attested only in BnF Ms Syr 347), Binding the swords (ܚܬܝܡܐ ܕܣܝܦ̈ܐ, attested only in Houghton Syr 162), Binding the swords and all weapons of war (ܩܠ̈ܥܐ ܕܚܬܝܡܐ ܕܣܝܦ̈ܐ ܘܟܠ ܙܝܢ̈ܐ ܕܩܪܒ̈ܐ ܕܡܠܚܡ̈ܬܐ, attested only in DFM 417), and Binding the gun of the warriors (ܚܬܝܡܐ ܕܟܠ ܓܒܪ̈ܐ ܕܩܠ̈ܥܐ, attested only in Cambridge Ms Syr Add 3086).

9 Reference to the cardinal directions: command that weapons be removed from the bearer of the book 'as far as the east is from the west', etc.

The charm is also typically accompanied by a picture of assorted weapons, including at least one bow and arrow, swords, daggers, spears, and sometimes guns.

There is some question as to whether guns are original to this charm. The focus of the charm, at least in the earlier manuscripts, is definitely arrows. All of the quoted scriptural passages have to do with arrows, except for Psalm 37, which deals with a sword. In addition, lists of weapons in the title and in the body of the charm typically mention arrows first. Guns are often (though not always) mentioned in these lists, but, when they are mentioned, they typically appear at the end of the list. This may suggest a process of accretion in which additional weapons, including guns, tended to be tacked on at the ends of lists. Nevertheless, even the earliest manuscripts mention guns and include them in the accompanying picture, so the incorporation of guns into the charm must have begun before our earliest available evidence.

In three manuscripts, we see a trend toward guns being made the focus of this charm. In Houghton Syr 163 (dated 1809), both the title and the text place guns first in the list of weapons; thus the title reads ܟܬܒܐ ܟܐܦ̈ܐ ܟܚܨ̈ܐ ܟܣܠܝ̈ܬܐ ‘Binding the guns, swords, spears, and daggers’—exactly like some instances of the title for the other major anti-weapon charm, Binding the Guns and the Engine of War. That charm actually follows this one in Houghton Syr 163, with the rubric ܟܬܒ̈ܐ ܐܚܪ̈ܢ ‘Another binding charm for guns’. Without a textual analysis across manuscripts, it would be easy to confuse these two charms and to fail to recognise the first charm as Binding the Arrows and All Weapons of War. Similarly, the late manuscript DFM 417 (dated 1883) places guns first in the title and in the text of this charm, and the undated first part of Rylands Ms Syr 52 alters the title but not the text in this way. Overall, we can detect in the history of this charm a gradual repurposing of what was originally a protection against arrows as a protection against guns. This makes sense as a response to the growing prevalence of guns during that time.

The charm Binding the Guns and the Engine of War has eight consistent elements:

1 Invocation of the Trinity
2 Quotation from Psalm 29: 'voice of the Lord that cuts the flame of fire'[19]
3 Voice of the Lord against Gog, Magog, Meshech, and Togarmah

19 This opening quotation sets the 'voice of the Lord' theme for the following two elements.

4 Voice of the Lord against the craft of wicked enemies, etc., that they not be moved, heated, or come forth from their mouths against the one bearing these writs, Amen.
5 Matthew 11: Jesus's rebuke of Capernaum
6 Matthew 8: Jesus arose and rebuked the sea
7 By that power I bind, expel, and anathematise the bullets from the one who bears these writs
8 By the prayer of the Holy Virgin, the Mother of Light

There also consistently appears an illustration of guns accompanying this charm.

Some of the variation we see in individual manuscripts shows interesting adaptation to the theme of the charm. In Gollancz A, instead of 'Mother of Light' (ܐܡ ܢܘܗܪܐ) at the end, we have 'Mother of Fire' (ܐܡ ܢܘܪܐ). And in Houghton Syr 163, instead of the usual metathesised form ܛܓܪܡܐ for Togarmah in the third section, we have ܡܫܩ ܓܪܡܐ 'the gun of Garmah'.

Although the degree of variation in these two charms is considerably less than what we see in many others, it is still essentially creative variation within the parameters of a common structure, the difference being that the structure in these cases is more complex, more tightly defined, than in most other charms. The types of variation we see in the anti-weapon charms, which are common to the book as a whole, are significant in understanding how the charms were transmitted. First, we often see variation in the extent of biblical quotations. The basic notion that a particular passage should be quoted is constant, but the one creating a given manuscript might quote briefly or extensively as desired. For example, in Berlin Sachau 95, in Binding the Arrows and All Weapons of War, the quotation from Psalm 22 extends beyond the words of Jesus on the cross from verse 2 (ܐܠܗܝ ܐܠܗܝ ܠܡܐ ܫܒܩܬܢܝ 'My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?') and includes all of verses 2–3. Second, names of power may be added or omitted at will, but this usually occurs within limited parameters, such as the name of John the Baptist appearing after that of the Virgin Mary. All of this indicates a process of transmission that is highly creative, albeit drawing on deep knowledge of the tradition.

5 Conclusions

I have attempted here to make sense of the different degrees of textual variation we find in the Book of Protection. It is possible to describe a spectrum of textual variation in this book. Some portions are textually stable, such as the introductory prayers and the first part of the Anathema of the Gospel (the quotation from John 1:1–5). These portions tend to be short and are often anchored to a biblical passage. Next along the spectrum, some portions are textually variant but have a complex structure that remains stable, such as the two main anti-weapon charms. These often exhibit variation within limited parameters, such as drawing out or abbreviating the extent of biblical quotations. Finally, we see more drastic structural variation around a common structural core in cases like the Anathema of the Gospel.

Given the drastic differences between manuscripts of the Book of Protection, the classical stemma model is only partially apt for describing the textual history of the book. However, it may be possible to describe the individual charms diachronically in terms of cultural history. When we compare the manuscript witnesses of a given charm, we find that the closest witnesses belong to families of manuscripts produced by the same scribe. These families belong, in turn, to larger groups, which are textually variant but structurally similar. Groups of manuscripts can be compared chronologically to reveal trends in the development of the charms, such as the divergence of the two variant groups of the Anathema of the Gospel and the adaptation of Binding the Arrows and All Weapons of War as a charm against guns.

Overall, this analysis points to a creative manner of production for manuscripts of the Book of Protection. A priest would draw on both personal inspiration and extensive experience with the tradition of the charms in order to produce a manuscript of the book for a client. The process of production of the book was thus similar to the performance of a charm. Rather than invoking the powers of heaven aloud to combat a present evil, the priest would channel this power into the book, which could then be carried to protect the bearer over a long period of time. Such a scenario fits much better with the textual evidence than an alternative scenario of rote copying from a written exemplar.

The creative manner of the book's production has interesting consequences for the classification of some of the charms. For instance, the title and the text may be equally important guides to the classification. The text of both can be varied in order to repurpose a charm. A case in point is the charm labeled 'Binding the Guns …' in Houghton Syr 163 and DFM 417, which is actually Binding the Arrows and All Weapons of War, but with 'guns' (ܩܠܥ̈ܐ) placed first in the title and in the text. The charm following immediately after in Houghton Syr 163, which is genuinely Binding the Guns and the Engine of War, is accordingly labeled 'Another binding charm for guns'. In cases like this, how do we classify the altered text? It is evident that the charm in these manuscripts is meant to be a protection primarily against guns. But from the standpoint of textual history, the charm is really primarily against arrows; indeed, it may originally have had nothing to do with guns at all. I would suggest that while questions of typology and of textual history force us to classify this text as essentially Binding the Arrows and All Weapons of War, the classification that accords most with the nature of the book itself is as a variant of Binding the Guns and the Engine of War. The classical model of textual history would classify the alteration of the text as an aberration; but, in fact, it is a performative act, purposeful and strategic. Thus the question of textual history, while helping us toward a comprehensive understanding of the repertoire of charms, sets in relief the more fundamental question of the book's real-life function, which is the mechanism for the textual change we see in the manuscripts.

Ultimately, through studying the textual history of these charms, we are able to approach the anthropology of their creation and use over time, which is an important chapter in the cultural history of Syriac magic. More insights are likely to come as the study of the texts progresses.

CHAPTER 8

Syriac Magic and the Contemporary Christian Milieu: Continuity or Discontinuity?

Gaby Abousamra

1 Introduction[1]

In the late Sasanian and early Islamic periods, there is a well-developed magical tradition written in Christian Aramaic dialects. The extant texts were mainly written on earthenware bowls, although some parchment scrolls and metal lamellae have also been preserved. With the exception of the Christian Palestinian Aramaic texts, most stem from southern Mesopotamia and Khuzestan. More recently, from the eighteenth century, one finds the use of paper scrolls and booklets with Syriac incantatory texts among Middle-Eastern Christian communities, especially in the north of Iraq and Iran. In the present study we will discuss the relationship between the two corpora.

2 Syriac Magical Texts from Late Antiquity

2.1 Syriac Amulets

Four Syriac amulets inscribed on parchment or leather have been published to date. Three were written for the same client, a certain Xvarr-Veh-zad called Yazdan-zadag daughter of Denak.[2] They are referred to by their scribe as ܩܡܥܐ "amulet" (Gignoux I 25;[3] Gignoux II 6 [2×], 47, 49) or ܩܛܝܛܐ "writ"

1 Magic bowls numbered T279xxx are published in J.N. Ford, O. Abudraham, 'Syriac and Mandaic Incantation Bowls', in D. Regev, H. Hizmi (eds), Finds Gone Astray: ADCA Confiscated Items (Jerusalem, 2018), pp. 75–111 (75–99). The labels Gignoux I, II, III refer to the amulets published by P. Gignoux, Incantations magiques syriaques (Louvain and Paris, 1987). The labels Codex A, B, C refer to the texts published in H. Gollancz, The Book of Protection: Being a Collection of Syriac Charms (London, 1912; reprint Amsterdam, 1976). The abbreviation CSIB refers to Moriggi's Corpus (see n. 17).

(Gignoux II 3 [2×]). They contain long lists of angel names and many references to Christian formulae and allusions to the baptismal rite. The fourth, published by Naveh,[4] does not contain any Christian elements. In addition, a Syriac amulet inscribed on a silver lamella is known;[5] its Christian affiliation is indicated by a small slightly elongated cross at the beginning.

2.2 Syriac Magic Bowls

The Syriac magic bowls are referred to by their scribes as ܟܣܐ "cup, bowl", ܡܚܟܐ "amulet", ܪܐܙܐ "mystery" or, sometimes, ܡܣܟܠܐ "countercharm", ܟܬܒܐ "writ". They are written in two different scripts: Estrangelo and Manichean. The number of published bowls now stands at around sixty.[6] Some were undoubtedly prepared by Manichaean practitioners,[7] but many show distinctly Christian features.[8] In the following, I will discuss the most important of these.

2.3 The Sign of the Cross

The most visible Christian iconographic element in the amulets is the cross. It appears in various forms and in different places in the incantation texts:

- Inserted in the text as a series of seven crosses, designed usually as the sign + (Gignoux II 55; CSIB 3:8; 38:9);[9] or in different numbers: one cross (CSIB 27:6; MS 1928/54:5),[10] three crosses (T27986:4–5).
- At the end of the text: an amulet ends with a long series of crosses (Gignoux II 56), a bowl with two crosses (T27989:12), and another bowl with six crosses (T27993:10).
- In the center of the bowls[11] there are different forms of crosses,[12] enclosed by a circle or petal motifs.[13] The crosses divide the enclosed space into four

7 See S. Shaked, 'Manichaean Incantation Bowls in Syriac', Jerusalem Studies in Arabic and Islam 24 (2000), pp. 58–92.

8 It is rare, however, to find unequivocally Christian client names in these bowls.

9 In T27993:10, the space after the end of the text is very faded; but here too we can likely discern seven crosses.

10 Shaked, 'Manichaean Incantation Bowls in Syriac', p. 75.

11 Especially the bowls in the Manichaean script, most of which come from Nippur; we find only two bowls with Estrangelo script having a cross (CSIB 10; CSIB 28).

12 We can distinguish some crosses whose base arm is longer than the others (CSIB 6; CSIB 28; CSIB 32; T27989).

13 Bowls with petal motifs (CSIB 10; CSIB 27; CSIB 35; CSIB 42).

quarters, which often contain various types of marking: dots (CSIB 2), small crosses (CSIB 3; CSIB 4; CSIB 6; CSIB 17; CSIB 23; CSIB 31; CSIB 38), or individual letters (CSIB 40). In many cases, however, each quarter is blank (CSIB 5; CSIB 9; CSIB 10; CSIB 16;[14] CSIB 27; CSIB 32; CSIB 41; CSIB 42; T27996).[15] Designs resembling Maltese crosses can also be adduced (CSIB 22; CSIB 28; T27989).[16] In CSIB 30, the text is written in four cartouches approximating the shape of a Maltese cross. Furthermore, in the second cartouche,[17] there are three small circles each divided into four segments by a cross.

– The word ܨܠܝܒܐ "cross" itself is used to protect people and possessions: ܒܝܕ ܚܬܡܟ ܒܟܪܐ ܩܕܡܝܐ ... ܨܠܝܒܟ ܕܐܬܪ ܨܠܝܒܐ ... ܕܐܬܐ ܕܐܝܟ ܕܡܐ ܕܒܪܝܬܟ ܕܐܬܪ ܐܢܐ "By your seal, First-Born Son ... of your victorious Cross I am sealed ... by the blood of your New Covenant" (JNF 218:6–7); ܒܝܬܐ ܗܕܐ ܒܝܕ ܚܬܡܐ ܕܢܘܪܐ ܠܥܠܡ ܠܥܠܡ ܐܡܝܢ ܨܠܝܒܐ ܕ[ܢ]ܘܗܪܐ ܒܫܡ ܕܝܢ ܘܒܫܡ ܕܝܢ ܘܒܫܡ ܕܝܢ ܗܕܐ ܒܝܬܐ ܐܡܝܢ ܐܡܝܢ ܣܠܐ ܒܫܡ ܕܣܘܦܝܐ ܕܪܚܡܐ "Sealed and doubly sealed is this house by Yes and Amen, and by the sign of the Cross [of] Light for ever and ever. Amen, Amen, Selah. In the name of the Physician of Mercy" (JNF 223:3–4).[18] We find an allusion to the passion of Christ in Gignoux II:28: ܕܡ ܪܙܐ "the blood of the mystery".

14 Moriggi discerns the circle, but not the cross. Müller-Kessler (quoted by Moriggi) claims there are two crosses and does not mention a circle. See C. Müller-Kessler, Die Zauberschaltentexte in der Hilprecht-Sammlung, Jena, und weitere Nippur-Texte anderer Sammlungen (Wiesbaden, 2005), p. 148.

15 See also the damaged bowl CSIB 39. Such designs also appear, however, in Jewish bowls where there is no reason to believe that either the practitioner or client was Christian; e.g. CBS 16018 in J.A. Montgomery, Aramaic Incantations texts from Nippur (Philadelphia, 1913), Bowl 19. H. Misgav, 'Jewish-Aramaic Incantation Bowls', in D. Regev, H. Hizmi (eds), Finds Gone Astray: ADCA Confiscated Items (Jerusalem, 2018), pp. 53–72 (71), notes the same design in a Jewish pseudo-script bowl (Bowl n. 10; T 27997).

16 In the center is a circle with eight spokes according to Ford. In my opinion, there are four spokes, slightly curved, making a Maltese cross, whose base arm is longer than the others.

17 Counting with M. Moriggi, A Corpus of Syriac Incantation Bowls: Syriac Magical Texts from Late-Antique Mesopotamia (Leiden, 2014). Segal (no. 119ES) considers it to be the fourth cartouche. See J.B. Segal, Catalogue of the Aramaic and Mandaic incantation Bowls in the British Museum (London, 2000).

18 Compare the formula ܒܫܡ ܕܣܘܦܝܐ ܕܪܚܡܐ "In the name of the Physician of Mercy" with a similar one: ܒܫܡܟ ܕܝ ܡܪܝ ܐܣܝܐ ܪܚܡܐ ܕܝܢ ܕܪܚܡܐ "In your name, Lord of Healings, the great healer of mercy". T. Fain, J.N. Ford and A. Lyavdansky, 'Aramaic Incantation Bowls at the State Hermitage Museum, St. Petersburg', Babel und Bibel 9 (2016), pp. 289–324 (288–289).

2.4 The Name of Jesus and His Epithets

In the Syriac magic bowls reference is made to several of Jesus' epithets.

– The epithet ܐܣܝܐ "healer" is repeated in various bowls invoking Jesus to heal the client: ܒܚܝܠ ܝܫܘܥ ܐܣܝܐ "by the power of Jesus the healer" (CSIB 6:2); ܒܫܡ ܝܫܘܥ ܐܣܝܐ ܒܪ ܚܝܐ ܩܕܝܫܐ ܪܒܐ ܘܓܒܝܪܐ ܘܒܫܡ ܝܫܘܥ ܐܣܝܐ ܒܪ ܚܝܐ "In the name of the great and mighty and holy Lord, and in the name of Jesus the Physician, Son of Life" (JNF 220:15). The epithet ܐܣܝܐ ܘܚܝܐ ܡܪܦܐ "physician and living healer" (CSIB 49:1) is easily identified with Jesus, whose hands are "full of mercies and supplied with grace" (ibid., line 3).[19] Similarly, in the Book of Protection, one finds ܐܣܝܐ ܕܟܠ ܚܫܐ ܘܟܠ ܡܟܝܐ ܕܟܠ ܚܒܠܐ ܘܟܠ ܟܝܒܐ "the Physician that heals all pains, the Healer of all sicknesses (and) of all wounds" (Codex C:9). This title of Jesus is well known in Christian liturgy.[20] Bowl T27989 likewise contains a reference to Jesus as healer: [ܐ]ܡܝ ܟܠ ܚܫܐ ܐܣܝ ܟܠ ܚܒܠ "He heals every pain and annuls sickne[sses]" (l. 5). As noted by Ford, the text recalls Matthew 4:23: ܘܐܣܝ ܟܠ ܚܫܐ ܘܟܠ ܡܟܝܐ "and He was healing all sicknesses and all pains" (see also Matthew 9:35; 10:1). This association of Jesus with healing was so strong that we even find a reference to "Jesus the healer" in a Jewish bowl (Wolfe 15:5).

– Jesus is referred to as ܡܫܝܚܐ "Christ" in CSIB 27:6; MS 1928/54:5.[21] By his power the patient will arise and be helped. Some Jewish bowls (published and unpublished) refer also to Jesus as Christ: in Moussaieff 155:12, we find ܝܫܘܥ ܡܫܝܚܐ where Levene identified ܡܫܝܚܐ as "Christ".[22] There are two unpublished parallels where, instead of ܝܫܘܥ ܡܫܝܚܐ, one finds ܝܫܘܥ ܐܣܝܐ "Jesus Christ".

– The epithet ܡܪܝ "Lord" is the most important title of Christ in the New Testament and in Christianity. The same epithet is mentioned in Davidovitz 8:1–2: ܒܚܝܠ ܕܝܠܟ ܡܪܝ ... ܘܥܡ ܡܪܝܡ ܝܠܬܢ "By your power, Our Lord Jesus ... also Our Lady Miryay (Miriam)". Here, the mention of Our Lady Mary is remarkable as it is the first time we find it in such documents from this period; it will be abundantly attested in the late Syriac Christian amulets.

– The epithet ܒܪ ܐܠܗܐ "Firstborn Son" appears in a Syriac magic bowl: ܒܚܬܡ ܒܪ ܐܠܗܐ "By your seal, Firstborn Son" (JNF 218:6–7). It derives from the use of ܒܟܪܐ ܩܕܡܝܐ "first-born" with respect to Jesus in the New Testament (Romans 8:29; Colossians 1:15, 18; Hebrews 1:6).[23]

– The term ܐܡܝܢ "Amen" appears in CSIB 2, written on the right side of the chest of a standing human figure drawn parallel to the rim. On the left side is written ܐܠ ܫܕܝ "El Shaddai". The figure is dressed in a tunic decorated with a series of magical signs, and he holds what appears to be a palm branch in his right hand. The magic word ܐܡܝܢ frequently serves to close spell units in the Syriac magic bowls, either alone or in the formulaic expression ܐܡܝܢ ܐܡܝܢ ܣܠܐ "Amen, Amen, Selah". Here, however, it appears outside the framework of the spell in collocation with the divine epithet ܐܠ ܫܕܝ "El Shaddai", and may thus possibly be an allusion to the title of the Christ in Revelation 3:14.

2.5 The Trinitarian Formula

The Christian Trinitarian formula, "in the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit", is used repeatedly in these documents at the beginning or at the end of the spell unit: Gignoux II:1, Gignoux III:1; CSIB 2:9; Davidovitz 6:2–4.[24] Another different and interesting Trinitarian formula is mentioned in a Jewish Aramaic incantation bowl, which uses the Divine Name instead of "the Father": יהוה יסוס רוח קד "YHWH, Jesus, Ho(ly) Spirit".[25]

2.6 Biblical Quotations

The main bowl containing a clear New Testament text is CSIB 49:4–6, which makes use of Ephesians 6:10–17.[26] Some contexts allude to New Testament passages, e.g. ܟܠ ܕܝܠܕ ܐܢܫ ܒܐܝܬܬܐ "everyone who is born of a woman" (CSIB 27:5; MS 1928/54:5) can be compared with the depiction of John the Baptist in Matthew 11:11: ܠܐ ܩܡ ܒܝܠܕܝ ܢܫܐ ܠܐ ܐܬ ܒܗܘܢ ܕܡܢ ܐܬܝܠܕܘ "among those born of women there has not risen anyone greater than John the Baptist".[27] The sentence ܐܝܟ ܕܐ ܒܫܡܝܐ ܠܐ ܡܢ ܒܪ ܐܢܫ ܕܢܫܬܟܚ "just as the 23 For additional examples of ܒܟܪ ܩܕܡ "Firstborn Son" in early Syriac literature, see Ford, 'Jesus in the Magic Bowls'.

24 An expanded form of the Trinitarian formula has been appropriated for use in the Jewish Aramaic magic bowl Moussaieff 163:29; see D. Levene, '"and by the Name of Jesus" an unpublished Magic Bowl in Jewish Aramaic', Jewish Studies Quarterly 6 (1999), pp. 283–308; Levene, Jewish Aramaic Curse Texts, pp. 111–113.

sinful servant who does not accept and does not observe the commands of his master" (CSIB 14:12) recalls Luke 12:47: ܘܗܘ ܥܒܕܐ ܗܘ ܕܝܕܥ ܗܘ ܠܨܒܝܢܗ ܕܡܪܗ ܘܠܐ ܐܬܛܝܒ ܘܠܐ ܥܒܕ ܠܨܒܝܢܗ ܢܬܟܢܫ ܠܗ ܒܟܬܝܫ ܣܓܝܐ "And that servant, who knew his lord's will, and prepared not himself according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes".

2.7 Liturgical Formulae and Doxology

The formula ܡܢ ܗܫܐ ܘܥܕ ܥܠܡ ܥܠܡܝܢ ܐܡܝܢ ܘܐܡܝܢ "from now and forever and ever. Amen" (Gignoux 1:4a–5a; 11:46; CSIB 19:5; CSIB 28:13) is well known in Eastern liturgies in Syriac.[28] We also have the expression ܐܡܝܢ ܘܐܡܝܢ "yes and Amen" ending this formula or alone (CSIB 10:2, 10; CSIB 26:18; CSIB 28:13). We find once the word ܐܡܝܢ "verily" (CSIB 48:6),[29] a liturgical expression that is still used today in the Syriac liturgy.

2.8 Christian Client Names

Several names in the magic documents seem to be explicitly Christian (clients or their matronymics). In CSIB 6, the husband, Mihr-Hormizd, has a Zoroastrian name, but the wife's matronymic, Baṯ-sāhdē "daughter-of-martyrs" (lines 12, 14), is Christian.[30] The masculine equivalent Bar-sāhdā "son-of-a-martyr" appears in CSIB 13:2, 9–10 as the name of a slave of the owner of the bowl. The PN Marcion (CSIB 45:3a, 2b) recalls the name of the founder of the Christian heresy Marcionism during the second century and is also likely Christian. The name Qyomta "Resurrection" is well attested (CSIB 14:12; 24:7; 28:3, 6, 7, 11; 31:3, 6, 10, 12); in CSIB 47, the name Qyoma seems to be the masculine form.[31]

2.9 Christian Baptism

Gignoux discerns a possible reference to baptism in an amulet that mentions oil, water and salt, which are used to this day in Catholic baptismal rites.[32] There are also allusions to the seal of the Spirit during the baptism of all the members of the body (1:27–28, 31–33; 11:2), a practice that is continued nowadays in almost all the baptismal rites of the Oriental Christian Churches.

32 Gignoux 1:86; see Gignoux, Incantations magiques syriaques, p. 24.

2.10 The Resurrection

Naveh and Shaked noted the reference to the resurrection of Christ in CSIB 27:4: ܕܟܝܐ ܠܝܘܥܝ ܐܝܬ ܒܝܬ ܡܝܬ ܕܚ "A dead man I raised and he granted victory to Yowi'a".[33] Compare, for example, ܐܝܬ ܥܡ ܐܠܗ ܩܡ "And God raised him" (Acts 2:24) and ܒܝܬ ܡܢ ܐܠܗ ܕܝܗܒ ܠܢ ܢܨܚܐ ܒܝܬ ܡܪܢ ܕܝܠܢ ܝܫܘܥ ܡܫܝܚܐ "But thanks be to God, who gives us victory through our Lord Jesus Christ" (1 Corinthians 15:57).

2.11 Conclusion

With the exception of a small number of bowls, the main spell units of the Syriac magic texts from the Sasanian period show considerable similarity to those of other religious traditions and are not distinctively Christian. They tend to mention many of the same divine epithets, angels, demons and illnesses, and use similar formulaic expressions and magical motifs. In not a few cases Jewish Babylonian Aramaic or Mandaic parallels of the entire spell are extant.[34] An increasing number of bowls, however, show Christian confessional features in the introductory or closing sections of the text, which indicate that the practitioner who prepared the incantation was Christian, whatever the origin of the main spell.[35] In the following section we shall discuss the extent to which the tradition represented by the Syriac magic bowls and amulets was incorporated into the Syriac magical texts of the Modern Period.

3 Syriac Magical Texts from the Modern Period

3.1 History

This corpus is comprised of numerous rolled paper amulets and magical booklets dating from the eighteenth century, belonging to various Middle Eastern Christian communities and written in various scripts. They were originally prepared in Turkey, Iraq, and Northwestern Iran, but were later brought by immigrants or refugees to countries such as Georgia, Armenia and Russia.[36] These amulets are referred to as ܚܪܡܐ "anathema", ܛܘܒܐ "protection", ܩܛܝܥܐ "amulet" or ܟܬܒܐ "writ". One amulet scroll or booklet can contain a considerable number of prayers or anathemas. The first text of this type was published by Willis Hazard in 1893.[37] Four years later Hermann Gollancz presented two manuscripts at the international congress of orientalists in Paris,[38] and in 1912 he published three whole manuscripts (codices), each one containing numerous spells.[39] Other amulets have since been published.[40] The oldest known manuscript dates to 1714 (St. Petersburg, private Collection).[41]

3.2 Healing and Exorcism in Christianity

Healing and exorcism were an important part of Jesus' ministry as depicted in the Gospels (e.g. Matthew 4:23–24, 9:35, 14:14; Mark 1:32–34, 39, 3:10–11, 6:5; Luke 6:18–19, 7:21).[42] The Peshiṭta translates Greek θεραπευω "to heal" with the verb ܐܣܝ, which is also used in the incantation bowls and in late Christian amulets. Jesus heals the sick and exorcises demons. He also ordered his disciples and gave them power to do the same (Matthew 10:1; Mark 3:15, 6:7, 13, 16:17–18; Luke 9:1–2). This command was performed explicitly in his name (Luke 10:17–20; Acts 3:6–8, 16, 5:16, 8:7, 9:34, 14:8–10, 28:8–9). This exorcistic tradition has continued as part of official Church practice within most Christian churches to this day. In addition, it has influenced informal and popular practice of magic and amulet charms amongst Christian communities.

An important witness to the popular use of amulets by Christians in late antiquity is a memrā attributed to Saint Isḥaq of Antioch (late fifth century AD).[43] The author condemns the magical practices and the use of amulets, which he describes as common in the daily life of priests, deacons and the laity: ܗܠܝܢ ܕܡܢ ܒܝܬ ܩܘܕܫܐ ܕܐܠܗܐ ܕܐܝܬ ܒܗ ܐܣܝܐ ܕܢܦܫܬܢ ܕܗܘ ... ܒܬܚܬ ܒܪܟܬܐ ܕܩܕܝܫܐ ܒܬܚܬ ܥܒܕܝ ܟܫܦܐ ܕܐܝܬ ܒܗ ܣܝܡܐ ܕܡܫܝܚܐ ܐܬܘ ܠܒܝܬ ܡܚܫܝ ܟܫܦܐ ܕܐܝܬ ܒܗ ܣܝܡܐ ܕܡܫܝܚܐ “They left the faithful Church in which is the heavenly Healer, and they run to the house of the sorcerers. ... In place of the benedictions of the saints, the incantations of sorcerers, and instead of the Holy Cross, they bear the writings of demons” (39–42; 47–50). People were bearing these amulets on their heads and necks: ܗܢܐ ܠܫܡܗ ܘܗܢܐ ܠܟܪܟܗ “This one bears it on his head and another also on his neck” (63–64).[44] From the late sixteenth century we have the eyewitness report of Dandini concerning the use of amulets by Maronites: “... a large number of superstitious bills which they wear over them, especially children”.[45] In the mid-nineteenth century, Badger wrote about Kurdistan as follows: “The Nestorians entertain many superstitions respecting the power of evil, and the value of certain talismans to allay or counteract them”.[46] The use of amulets in the nineteenth century by Lebanese Christians is attested to by such documents as a printed Karshuni paper signed by the Maronite patriarch Paul Mas‘ad (1854–1890)[47] and another from 1872 signed by the patri-

44 Archaeological evidence for the use of amulets on the head is provided by a burial tomb in ‘Ainturin (north Lebanon), where a skullcap was found on which was sewn a small pocket containing a folded amulet; see H. Salamé-Sarkis, ‘Une amulette maronite signée et diffusée par le Patriarche Boulos Mas‘ad’, Mélanges de l’Université Saint-Joseph 51 (1990), pp. 313–325 (313).

arch Elias Howayek (1899–1931). Today many Lebanese Christians protect their children with an amulet, known as Kitab Mar Antonius "Writ of Saint Antonius".[48]

3.3 The Structure of the Magical Booklets and Amulets

The contents of the magical booklets usually have the following structure: opening formula, the Lord's prayer, the prayer of Adam, the prayer of the holy angels, the anathema of the Gospel (usually the prologue of the Gospel of John), followed by a long list of prayers and anathemas for different forms of protection, illnesses, exorcisms, for cattle, possessions and all kind of affairs. The booklets usually comprise a sort of "catalogue" of prayers and anathemas from which the scribe chooses to write a specific amulet for a client.[49] They also contain some simple illustrations and finish with a colophon mentioning the scribe, who usually belongs to a priestly family. The form of the individual amulets, on the other hand, is stereotypic. They begin with a title, "Anathema (ܚܪܡܐ) of Saint So-and-So" and a reference to the various illnesses and demons that it is meant to treat. The text then opens with the Trinitarian formula: ܒܫܡܐ ܕܐܒܐ ܘܒܪܐ ܘܪܘܚܐ ܩܕܝܫܐ "in the name of the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit", followed by the prayer of a Saint and his titles. Then it continues with prayers and invocations to the Lord to heal the client from all sort of illnesses by the intercession of the Saint. It ends with a doxology, the Trinitarian formula or a formula such as "by the prayer of holy Mary and the prayer of Saint John the Baptist …". Sometimes there are also colophons or illustrations.[50]

4 Continuity or Discontinuity?

Over a millennium separates modern Syriac magical documents from their late antique precursors. Virtually no Syriac incantatory text or amulet from Mesopotamia, the birthplace of this genre, is extant from the intervening period. Two amulets from the Qadisha Valley (Lebanon), however, have recently been discovered. They likely date to before the year 1283, the date of the collapse of 48 See Abousamra, 'Two Syriac Amulets from Hadath grotto (Qadisha)', pp. 214, 227.

49 Similar booklets are known from other Oriental magical traditions; see, for example, M. Baillet, 'Un livret magique en christo-palestinien à l'université de Louvain', Le Muséon 76 (1963), pp. 375–401.

50 For more details about the structure of amulets, see the contributions of Calabro and Zellmann-Rohrer in this volume.

the cave-refuge in the village of Ḥadath as a result of the Mamluk incursion.[51] These two folded papers form a "bridge" between the two corpora and contain features which exist in both traditions, including the use of an opening formula and Trinitarian invocation, and the use of the verbs "to seal", "to bind", "to expel", "to ban", and "to swear" against evil spirits. Qadisha1 is written in Estrangelo script, and is similar in style and content to the magic bowls and amulets from the Sasanian period. Qadisha2 is written in Serto script, and contains the spell ܗܪܡܘ ܕܡܪ ܥܒܕܝܫܘ "Hermo of Mar Abdyeshu'". It is very similar to many modern amulets that also refer to this saint. The Christian features in the amulets and magic bowls from late antiquity are limited and elementary, but in the modern handbooks and rolled amulets they are frequent and more developed. The Qadisha amulets indicate that the "Christianization" of Syriac magic had already begun by that time.

4.1 Parallel Features and Motifs

Many motifs and formulas in the modern Syriac incantations can be traced back to late antiquity, not just to the Syriac amulets and magic bowls, but also to Jewish Aramaic and Mandaic texts as well. Below I shall discuss a number of these, primarily using the three codices of "the Book of Protection" published by Gollancz as the basis for comparison.

4.1.1 Lists of Various Types of Evil Spirits

Modern Syriac amulets contain many such lists, e.g. "I bind and anathematize and overthrow and make distant and cast down all pains, evil, accursed and misleading sicknesses, and satans, rebellious dēvs, demon(s). And also the spirit of lunacy, the spirit of the belly, the spirit of the heart, the spirit of the head, the spirit of the eyes, malady of the belly, the spirit of the teeth. And also the evil and envious eye, the eye that smites and does not pity, blue eyes, every type of (evil) eye … And also cold and hot fever, frightful visions and deceiving dreams that occur at night and during the day. And also lilith, the companion spirit, and Zardukh, the … dēv, and all pains and evil sicknesses, and dēvs, and knots of witchcraft" (Codex C, §1). The same occurs in the late antique bowls, e.g. "and the mystery of this house—I shall pronounce it upon all that are in it: upon demons, and upon dēvs, and upon witchcraft, and upon (magical) practi[ces], and upon all messengers of idolatry, and upon 51 See Abousamra, 'Two Syriac Amulets from Hadath grotto (Qadisha)'. I refer to them as Qadisha1 and Qadisha2.

all troops, and upon amulet-spirits, and upon goddesses, and upon all powerful demons, and upon all powerful satans, and upon all powerful liliths" (CSIB 23:4–6).

4.1.2 Use of Common Verbs for Binding and Expelling Evil Spirits

The binding of evil spirits is common to both the modern Syriac amulets and the ancient amulets and magic bowls. For example: ܐܝܬ ܠܗ ܐܣܪ ܐܢܐ ܥܠ ܐܝܕܝܗ ܘܪܓܠܝܗ "I bind their hands and feet" (Codex A, § 48) and ܬܬܐܣܪ ... ܒܐܝܕܝܗ ܘܒܪܓܠܝܗ ܕܠܐ ܬܩܪܒ ܠܡܕܘܟܬ ܐܢ ܬܬܐܣܪ "may she be bound ... by her hands and by her feet so that she may not approach Mayduxt" (CSIB 7:11).[52] Often, multiple verbs, which are common to both corpora, are used. Compare, for example, the use of the verbs ܐܣܪ "to bind" and ܚܪܡ "to anathematise", in both Codex B, § 5, and CSIB 32:2–3.

4.1.3 Use of Biblical Verses

Biblical verses are commonly quoted in the Jewish magic bowls, including a number of verses from Psalms 91 and 121.[53] These Psalms are also quoted in the modern Syriac amulets. See, for example, Codex A, § 9 (Psalm 91:5).

4.1.4 Historiolae and References to Exemplary Figures

The figures of Daniel and his three friends occupy an important place in the Book of Protection, for example, "Just as you were with Joseph in the Land of Egypt, and with Daniel in the lions' den, and with the house of Hananiah in the fiery furnace, and with Jeremiah in the pit of mire, so (may you be) with this your servant" (Codex A, § 32); and "Just as the children of Israel went forth to the wilderness by the hand of Moses, just as Adam went forth from the Garden, Jonah ⟨...⟩, Daniel from the pit, Hananiah from the fiery furnace, Noah from the ark, so too, vermin, go forth from this wheat!" (Codex C, § 6). Daniel and his friends are similarly mentioned in an unpublished Syriac bowl, which reads "and I was not ashamed, for I considered Daniel and Hananiah and Azariah and Salzer, Die Magie der Anspielung (Tübingen, 2010), pp. 117–119, 123–125. For the language of these quotations, see also the recent study by D. Molin, 'Biblical Quotations in the Aramaic Incantation Bowls and Their Contribution to the Study of the Babylonian Reading Tradition', in A.D. Hornkohl, G. Khan (eds), Studies in Semitic Vocalisation and Reading Traditions (Cambridge, 2020) pp. 147–170.

Mishael".[54] Qadisha 1:2–3 provides a link between the two corpora, reading "By the na[mes of Hananiah] and Azariah and Mishael and Daniel of the pit".

Moses and the parting of the Red Sea is another biblical theme attested in both the modern Syriac amulets and Syriac magic bowls, for example, "just as God loved Moses and divided the Red Sea before him" (Codex A, § 40) and "as Moses said to the Red Sea and (the waters) stood like a wall on both sides" (CSIB 6:4). Another popular theme is the signet-ring of Solomon, for example, "By the staff of Moses the prophet and by the signet-ring of Solomon" (Codex A, § 35). References to the signet-ring of Solomon are particularly well attested in the Jewish magic bowls, but also appear in the Syriac bowls, for example "Bound and sealed by the signet-ring by which are sealed heaven and earth, and by the seal by which Noah sealed his ark, and by the signet-ring of Solomon by which are sealed the demons and the dēvs" (CSIB 28:10–11).[55]

4.1.5 Divine Epithets

A number of divine epithets in the modern Syriac amulets are also attested in the ancient magic bowls, for example, "the Living God" in Codex C, § 9 and CSIB 28:12. The same epithet appears in Qadisha1:1. Some of the epithets in the modern Syriac amulets ultimately derive from Biblical Hebrew, for example, "in the name of I Am That I Am, El Shaddai, Adonai, the Lord of Hosts" (Codex A, § 5; compare § 10) and, in the magic bowls, "Adonai Sabaothi, El Shaddai" (e.g. MS 2055/19:12) and "I Am That I Am" (e.g. VA 3383:8–9).[56]

4.1.6 Invocation of Angels

Again, this feature is common to both corpora, for example, "In the name of Gabriel and Michael" (Codex A, § 13) and "In the name of Michael the healer and Raphael the deliverer and Gabriel the servant of Adonai" (CSIB 6:6–7). The lists of angels can be lengthy, for example, "In the name of Gabril, Michail, ʿArail. In the name of Michail, and ʿAzril, Šamšail, Ḥaršail, Sarfail, and Nurail … In the name of Šamšel, Ṣuṣaniel, Šmail, Ḥinail, Zadiqail, Pruquil, and Sahrail, and Zaqail, Dinail, ʿAšinail, Taqifail, the mighty Ganbaril, Šamšail and Sahrail, and Maqail, Yomail, Kokhevail, Šufail, Maryail, Mhalelail, and Zaṭrail, ʾUmyail, Ḥašḥašail, Ṭaryail, ʿAzizail, Manail, Samyail" (Codex C, § 3).

4.1.7 Protection by Angels on All Sides

Closely related to the invocation of angels, this is a common motif, for example, "Gabriel is on his right and Michael on his left, I Am That I Am, El Shaddai, Adonai is above his head, the Cherubim are in front of him, and the Seraphim are behind him" (Codex A, § 7; compare § 8). As discussed by Levene, Marx and Bhayro, it is widespread in Jewish magic (including the magic bowls) and also appears in several Syriac bowls of Manichaean origin, for example, "Sealed with it are four angels: Az(az)el before it, Azir behind it, Michael on its right, Raphael on its left. Over it is invoked the name of Ḥarbiel Mani" (MS 2055/24:9–13).[57]

4.1.8 Binding and Exorcism by the Holy Cross

This is a common motif in modern Christian amulets, for example, "I bind them by the living Sign of the Cross of our Lord" (Codex A, § 47). Similar references to the cross may be adduced from two unpublished bowls: "By your seal, First-Born Son … of your victorious Cross I am sealed" (JNF 218:6–7); "Sealed and doubly sealed is this house by Yes and Amen, and by the sign of the Cross [of] Light for ever and ever" (JNF 223:3–4).

4.1.9 Appeals for the Protection of Family Members and Property

Such appeals are ubiquitous in both corpora, for example, "May the multiple danger be annulled from off the flocks, from the cattle, and from the house of him who bears these writs" (Codex A, § 5) and "I bind and anathematize and overthrow and make distant and cast down all pains … and all pains, evil illnesses, and dēvs (and) knots of witchcraft from the body, from the soul, from the house, from the sons, from the daughters of the one who bears this amulet" (Codex C, § 1). Compare, for example, "Bound and sealed is all the evil that is in the body of M. son of M., and in his house, his wife, and his sons, and his daughters, and his cattle, and in all his dwelling" (CSIB 6:8) and "protection of her house, her husband, her sons and her daughters and her property" (CSIB 2:3–4).

4.1.10 Appeals Relating to Childbirth and the Survival of Progeny

Similarly, such appeals are common to both corpora, for example, "Then my Lady Mary asked … for barren women, that they may give birth: by your might, O Lord, may those who are giving birth give birth to sons of blessings and to daughters of righteousness, and may the barren women conceive" (Codex B, § 6) and "so that the sons may live for their mothers and the beloved children for their fathers" (CSIB 8:6).

4.1.11 Demons and Illnesses

Many of the maleficent forces named in modern Syriac amulets have antecedents in ancient magic bowls and amulets, for example, ܪܘܚܐ ܒܝܫܬܐ "evil spirit" (e.g. Codex A, § 46; CSIB 22:11) and ܥܝܢܐ ܒܝܫܬܐ "evil eye" (e.g. Codex A, § 23; CSIB 16:12). The maleficent force ܡܓܪܢܐ "migraine" (e.g. Codex A, § 13) is, to the best of our knowledge, not yet attested in the ancient bowls or amulets, but it does occur in the Jewish magic bowls.[58]

In modern Syriac amulets one finds a demoness referred to by such epithets as ܠܠܝ ܚܢܩܬܐ "Lilith the strangler" or ܠܠܝ ܘܚܒܪܬܗ ܘܐܡܗ ܕܛܠܝܐ ܚܢܩܬܐ "Lilith and the companion spirit and the mother, strangler of children" (Codex B, § 7).[59] As her name suggests, she is a lilith who kills young children. In the Syriac magic bowls, the corresponding epithet is ܚܢܩܬܐ "strangler", which is used in the following example: "may they be protected from demons and dēvs and spirits and lilith and the companion spirit and the strangler" (MS 2055/22:14–18). The corresponding epithet חנקיתא is attested in Jewish Aramaic bowls, for example: הדין צילמה דרוח לוטתא ודמחיתא בישתא ודעינא בישתא ודזביה ודחנקיתא "this is the image of a curse spirit, and of the evil smiter, and of the evil eye, and of zky', and of the strangler" (HS 3005:1–4).[60]

4.1.12 Maladies and Witchcraft Associated with Various Ethnic Groups

We find such references in both Syriac magic bowls and modern amulets, for example: "the sorcery of the east and of the west, of the north and of the south, of Jews and of Aramaeans, of men and of women" (CSIB 38:3–4);[61] and "Arab [witchcraft], Persian witchcraft … Jewish [witchcraft] … Qadišian witchcraft … Indian witchcraft … Kaškarian [witchcraft]" (T27983:10–15).[62] Compare, in amulet Sado, folio 20, "and fever (and) shivering, and the hot and cold one, and the tertiary one, and the Jewish one, and the Indian one, and the Alanian one, and the barbarian one, and the Arab one, and the Scythian one, and the … one, and the Armenian one, and every type of fever".[63]

4.1.13 Evil Spirits Drinking the Blood and Eating the Flesh of Their Victims

This is a widespread motif that also appears in the Book of Protection, for example, "We go on our hands so that we may eat flesh, and we crawl along upon our hands so that we may drink blood" (Codex B, § 10). It also occurs in CSIB 26:14, which reads, "and she drinks blood, the bones and water of many men".[64]

4.2 Conclusion

The similarities in the contents of the magic texts lead us to propose a possible historical connection between the late antique and modern documents. In spite of the lack of intervening sources, with the exception of Qadisha amulets, it seems clear that they share many formulas and motifs. This evidence allows us to suggest a continuity in the popular magic tradition practiced in the same area. In terms of continuity, the following three features appear to be the most significant.

- Documents from the Sasanian period use the basmalah, thus: "In the name of the great Life" (Mandaeans), "In your name I act" (Jews), "in the name of the Living God" and "in the name of the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit" (Christians). The last formula is more repeated and developed in the modern Syriac amulets.
- The main aim in both corpora is to protect people and possessions from various kinds of evil spirits and illnesses, by invoking divine beings to protect them.
- In both corpora, one finds important masters or patrons who are invoked or who wrote charm texts for their pious flocks on bowls or amulets, for example Rabbis Joshua bar Peraḥya and Ḥanina ben Dosa in the Jewish tradition, and Mar ʿAbdyeshuʿ and Mar Tamasis in the Christian tradition.[65]

CHAPTER 9

A Mandaean Lamella and Its Parallels: BM 132957 + BM 132947 + BM 132954

Matthew Morgenstern and Ohad Abudraham

In a seminal article from 1999, Christa Müller-Kessler drew attention to the large collection of Mandaean lamellae housed at the British Museum and their potential contribution to our understanding of Mandaean magic and religion.[1] In the same article, Müller-Kessler presented an editio princeps of parts of a lengthy magical formula comprising of a list of demon names that dwell in different geographical locations and noted that some sections of this formula are paralleled by magic bowl texts, excerpts from which she published in a partial synopsis. In another important article published in the same year, Müller-Kessler presented editions of two more Mandaean formulae from lamellae (BM 135793[2] Ia and a lamella auctioned at Christie's).[3] In both articles, she firmly established that the texts inscribed upon lamellae and those inscribed upon earthenware bowls belong to the same period and cultural environment. In subsequent articles, including two written with her husband Karlheinz Kessler, Müller-Kessler discussed various aspects of these lamellae, in particular from an Assyriological perspective.[4] Regrettably, her complete edition of this and other texts from the British Museum has never been published.

Over the past 20 years, hundreds of additional Mandaean epigraphic sources have come to light or been deciphered. Beyond the materials discussed in the editio princeps, there are currently over 200 magic bowls and around 40 lamellae that remain unpublished. The scope of the unpublished material is considerably larger than that of the texts that have appeared in scholarly editions. Furthermore, advances in the study of the texts and in digital photography enable us to improve upon the readings of previously published material.

The present article seeks to present the first full edition of the Mandaean formula preserved on BM 132957 + BM 132947 + BM 132954 along with a synoptic presentation of its parallels. All the sources presented here have been transcribed or collated on the basis of high-definition digital photographs, including the sources previously published by Müller-Kessler, whose important contribution to the study of these texts is duly acknowledged. Most of our parallels are published here for the first time and they have aided us in many cases in our reading of the lamellae, but we have no doubt that the discovery and editing of additional parallels will further illuminate the reading and interpretation of this and other Mandaean formulae preserved on bowls and lamellae. For reasons of space, we have kept our comments brief. Our aim here is to provide a first edition of this interesting text in its entirety to encourage its study; we have no doubt that other scholars will have much to contribute to its elucidation. The text, which makes frequent references to local gods, casts considerable light upon the religious landscape of pre-Islamic Mesopotamia and makes reference to Babylonian, Persian, Christian, Jewish and perhaps even Greek deities.

1 The Sources

1. Lamellae BM 132957, BM 132947, BM 132954. The first two items are the remains of a single strip which were tacitly combined in Müller-Kessler's edition, while her proposal that the formula continues on BM 132954 is proven by the repetition of the final line of BM 132947, [h]ʿia ušba ahua[ta] (l. 240), in the first line of BM 132954, hʿia ušba ahuath̲ (l. 240′). In total, the formula comprises of 329 lines of text,[5] a total of about 1150 words. It is mostly legible, though corrosion and damage have obscured some letters, and the miniscule script is in some places cursive and malformed. The short lines contain around 16–20 letters. In some cases, the scribe split a single word over two lines, while in others he wrote the first few letters of a word at the end of one line and then rewrote it in its entirety on the following line. We regard this as a scribal practice rather than a textual error and have left these repetitions without emendation marks in our transcription, though they are omitted in our translation. The orthography is often defectiva, and we have similarly seen no reason to emend this. We have striven to interpret the text as it stands and have avoided unnecessary speculative emendations.[6]

Müller-Kessler's partial edition presents lines 1–36, most of lines 50–61, 69–76, 82–85, 106–121, and lines 157–169, 171–172, 176–177, 182–184, 230–243.[7] We have found first readings[8] of selected parts of the text in other articles: ll. 48–50 (sic);[9] l. 145;[10] ll. 155–156;[11] l. 169–170;[12] ll. 188, 190–195;[13] ll. 220–221;7[14] l. 227;[15] l. 250;[16] ll. 254–255;[17] ll. 256;[18] 291–304.[19]

2 The Edition

The Mandaic text presented line-for-line in bold characters and is transliterated according to the system developed by Rudolf Macuch. Scribal erasures are marked with strikethrough, e.g. ~~thuil~~, superlinear insertions are marked with carets, e.g. ^a^. Uncertain readings are given as grey letters, e.g. a. Breaks in the source and reconstructions are marked with square brackets, e.g. [a], while ellipsis indicates where we have omitted a portion of text from the source, e.g. … Where two parallels exist, we have presented them in parallel columns. As noted above, we have proposed only the most minimal textual emendations. The translation is presented in continuous paragraphs, and the line numbers are marked at the nearest convenient point without breaking words. Wherever possible, the toponyms that have been identified have been translated with an English equivalent. However, many have defied identification, and the parallels indicate that several may have been corrupted during the course of textual transmission.

3 Translation of the BM Lamella

(1) [In the name of] the Great Life! (2) May there be [hea]ling (3) unto Pīr Nuḵraia son of (4) Ābānduḵt [and] unto his dwelling (5) and his house. The anathema of the great name (6) and the anathema of the primordial word, (7) the anathema of Manda-ḏ-Heyyi, the anathema of (8) Yawar-Ziwa, the anathema of Hiḇil (9) the armed Uthra, the anathema of (10) Life I proclaim against … (11) … (12) *sahir*s and šeds and devs, (13) and slaughterers, goddesses (14) (and) pebble-spirits (14) and liliths, to bind (15) and shackle all of (16) the Seven (planets), the gods (17) and angels, pebble-spirits and (18) temple-spirits and idols and shrine-spirits (19) and archons, to let loose (M138 adds: against them) (20) sword, fire and conflagration (21) and banning and excommunication against (M138 adds: all the Seven (planets) and gods and angels and temple-spirits and archons and idols, and against) (22) every family and every (23) tribe and against (24) every household, and against (25) every pebble-spirit. (M138:10–11 adds: Bound is Buznai the lilith, she and all of her tribes.) (26) Bound are the three hundred and sixty (M138: furthermore, boun[d] are the six hundred and twenty) (27) imprecations of darkness that (28) are in the firmament, in the four (29) corners of the world (?) (M138: up to) the House of (30) the Scales. Bound are all (31) the imprecations that there are on the earth, (32) the daughter of slime (?).[33] From west to (33) east, and from north to south, (34) up to the end of the black (35) waters. Bound are all the (36) families and tribes (M138 adds: bound are all the black waters, bound are the gods and goddesses and all the families and the tr[i]bes of the [s]ahirs), bound is (37) Bizbaṭ, the father of the sahirs (38) and bound are all his children, (39) the sahirs and devs and *šed*s (40) and liliths, servitors and nasties, (41) *piga*s and paralysis demons and epilepsy (42) demons. Bound are those of Beṯ (43) Nabu the Dog (M138: The House of [Beṯ] Guile [= Nikkal?]) that do not give (44) yet demand, and have not loaned yet take payment. (M138 adds: and they are called curses and imprecations in this world). (45) Bound are the incubi and tormentors, (46) the tribes of the drooling ones. (47) Bound are those of the House of (Beṯ) the Indians (M138: the House of [Beṯ] India), (48) the sahir who is in charge of (49) pitchers of water and uncovered (50) jugs. Bound are those of Beṯ (51) P(a)qa, (M138: P(a)qrun) the sahir, who are (52) clothed in rags and covered (53) in tatters, and he sits (M138: they sit) upon the (54) desolate rubbish-tips. They (55) are called "affliction of the night" (56) and "mishap of the day" (M138: "mishap of the night" and "affliction of the day"; they set forth guileful ones and they enter men's houses and destroy them). Bound (57) are those of the Beṯ Alga, the sahir, (58) who sit (M138: who sits) beneath the gutters. (59) Bound are those of the Beṯ Macedon, (60) the sahir, who sit (M138: who sits) in the (61) corners of ruined houses. (62) Bound are those of Beṯ Sasanprun (M138: Siqpun), (63) the sahir who dwells (64) in the leaves (?) of windows and in parapets (M138: of) (65) roofs.[34] Bound are those that overturn (66) hearts and pervert the mind. (67) Bound are all the devs that (68) are in the world, (69) bound is Komiš, the lilith who (70) dwells from Susa (71) up to Šuštar, in the ruins (72) of Qidrun, Matiene and Media, (73) and the land of the Romans (74) and the wilderness of Beṯ Asp(a)nia; (75) bound is she and all of (76) her tribes. Bound is (77) Ṭripit, the lilith who dwells in the (78) mountain of darkness, she and all of (79) her tribes. Bound is Dnapaṭ (80) Dinariṭ, the lilith who dwells in the (81) snowy mountain, bound is she (82) and all of her tribes. Bound is (83) N(a)mlik, the lilith who dwells in the land (84) of the Persians, she and all of (85) her tribes. Bound is M(a)lkiat, (86) the lilith who dwells in the whole territory (87) of Mesene, she and all of (88) her tribes. Bound is (89) Šašqalia, the lilith who dwells in the (90) Mount Qalia ("The Burnt Mountain") (91) that the Lord of the Earth burned, (92) she and all of her tribes. (93) Bound is Hṭaṭit, the lilith who (94) dwells on the banks of the sea, (95) bound is she and all of her (96) tribes. Bound is she (97) and all the vehicles and chariots (98) of fury that she has commanded. (99) Bound is Y(a)ldat, the lilith who dwells (100) on the banks of the Eulæus, she (101) and all of her tribes. Bound is (102) Azaṭ, the lilith who dwells (103) in Siniaus, the edifice (104) of the royal house of 34 The direct parallel with M138 ends here. M138 continues: "They pass by all the new houses that do not … (19) They enter and dwell within them … and they set … (20) from the house and dwelling and residence and building and the children of Ahay b. Ispindarmid, and Life is Victorious!".

Rome, (105) she and all of her tribes. (106) Bound is Npazaṭ, the lilith (107) who dwells (108) at the mouth of the Zaftai (= Lower Zab?) river. (109) Bound is she and all of her ⟨tribes⟩. (110) Bound is Ulamayi, who dwells in (111) the wilderness of Kulania (?) and bound is Elamayi, (112) the dev who dwells in the ruins of (113) ancient … (114) Bound is Lilith, the raiser of dogs, (115) bound is Lilith, the raiser of dogs, (116) who dwells on the Pešra river (117) and calls herself Mamai. Bound are (118) all the liliths[35] and goddesses who (119) dwell in the fortress of Škitin (120) Šaqrat (BM 132168: of Beṯ Iškatil and Šarqat) and in the furnaces of House of (121) Iniquities. Bound is the Messiah of (sic) The Life-Giver (122) who dwells in the church of Qrabul. (123) Bound are his sorceries and words of (124) falsehood and the spells of darkness that issue (125) from his mouth. Bound is Š(a)mzana, the dev (126) who dwells in the fortress of Karka (town of) Be(ṯ) Sloḵ. (127) Bound is Š(a)rznaia, the dev who dwells in (128) the fortress of Eulæus in the fortress of Karka (town) (129) of Sloḵ. Bound are all the gods (130) and angels and goddesses, temple-spirits (131) and idol-spirits, *sahir*s and *dev*s (132) and pebble-spirits and liliths that dwell on (133) the Glala River and the Simar River, (134) and on the Biṭar River and on the (135) Be(ṯ)-Hamia River. Bound is the goddess (136) of the town of Šenna, and bound is the Hurdaniata goddess (137) (?; MS 2054/29: the H[ur]bniata goddess), bound is the goddess (138) of Qrunia, bound is the goddess of (139) the cub of Yurat. Bound is Zakur, (140) the odious sahir who dwells on the lakes (141) of tar. Bound are the gods (142) and goddesses and temple-spirits and pebble-spirits (143) and idol-spirits and *šed*s and *dev*s and liliths (144) of all the House of Syria of the mouth of (145) the two (rivers), Beṯ Gazura (= Jazeera) and Nuar Nirig (146) and Beṯ Ṭaṭi(a) of Šuiania and Brata (147) ḏ-Mihla ("Daughter of Salt"). Bound is the goddess of the enduring (148) mountain who by crouches (?) by the spell of Biqaz (149) Qun Sasris. Bound is (150) the goddess of Huṣi(a) and bound is the šed (151) of Gizra ḏ-Mihla ("The Isle/Heap of Salt"?). Bound is (152) the goddess of Wardunia, bound is Zahil (153) the dev, and bound is the šed, Elamayi (IAA G adds: he and all of his tribes and all of his plans) by the (154) spell of {Bz} Bhzqun (IAA G: Bhzqan) Ahblum. (155) Bound is the goddess Tarbušnita (156) and Mulit of the Kmar river. Bound (157) and fettered is the Master of Beṯ Zatan (BM 91777: Zaman). Bound is (IAA G adds: the Lady, her sister; bound is) Anahid the lilith (162) of Arimin of the Chaldaeans. Bound and fettered (163) is the lilith who sits upon Mount Qalia ("the burnt mountain") (164) that the Lord of the World burned and cursed, (165) burned is she that cursed the mountain (166) upon which she sits, that of curses, and she calls (167) herself Nanai of (BM 91777: that sits upon) the perfect waters. (168) Bound is Nanai of Borsippa and Nanai (169) of Beṭ Guzayi. Bound is Nirig of (170) the Kufti River. Bound is Nišar of (171) Kashkar, bound is Birqa who dwells (172) in the town (of) Beṭ Guznaia, bound is (173) Gisur the Persian and Hugad the Persian. (174) Bound is Anahid who calls herself (175) Anahid the queen, bound is Pan- (176) Parinarm the subservient (?), bound is Mihraṭ, (177) the sahir that sits upon the mound of myrrh (MS 2054/43: that stands before Beṭ Mgba, FM E.2–1907: that stands before Beṭ Mgiri). (178) And bound is the pebble-spirit and the temple-spirit that (179) dwells on the mound of Šulap. Bound (180) is the lilith that rested and sits (181) and calls herself Nanai d-Nhat. (182) Bound is Grud Gusphara, the god Bruqa (183) who sits upon the bank of the (184) Tigris. Bound is Qinrati(a), the lilith, (185) daughter of Šarai, who sits upon the mound of Beṭ (186) M(a)na, who calls herself the goddess of Beṭ M(a)na. (187) She is the wife of Raia (188) Tabula (the spicer), and the adulterous (lover) of Tarmūz (= Tammūz) son of (189) Kutil. It is she that her father calls her (190) Sarasani the sorceress, and whom her mother calls (191) Amamit the beautiful. (192) Her worshipers and holy ones call her (193) The Holy Spirit, (194) and her priests and priestesses call her the goddess of (195) Beṭ M(a)na, who filled her heart with sorcery (and) (196) her mouth with fabrication and falsehood, and her forehead (197) with spells and signs (MS 2054/114 adds: in falsehood and) through the falsehood (198) and lies that she has at her disposal she leads astray (199) worlds and generations. And with (200) her male and female worshippers she does nothing (201) that is good. To the one whom she loves she grants (202) adultery and fornication, and to the one whom she loathes (203) she grants menstruation and uncleanliness (204) and smites him/her with leprosy. The one whom (205) she loves—she suspends a drum from (his) neck. The one whom she loathes—(206) she dressed[36] him in leprosy and sat him (207) in the gate. She hates women on account of (208) her (MS 2054/114: their) sorcery and loves men (209) on account of her (MS 2054/114: their) adultery, apart from (MS 2054/114: She is bound and shackled and subdued by the spell and word of) the three (210) Uthras (MS 2054/114: men), the sons of light (MS 2054/114 adds: when they passed over came against her and …) for your spell (211) is granted to you and your nakedness is revealed (MS 2054/114: [and granted] to her her spells, and revealed her nakedness, to her and her sahirs and her pebble-spells

Mamai and unto Marta (327) daughter of Mama, unto their dwelling and their residence (328) and their threshold, and Life is Victorious!

4 Notes

3. [pʿ]ir nukraia. Pīr is usually an honorific title, though in our text is also employed as a personal name.[37]

5–7. bgan šuma rba ubgan mʿmra qadmaiia 'The anathema of the great name and the anathema of the primordial word'. Müller-Kessler[38] translated bgan as 'By the protection', but the idiom abgan

37 On this name and title, see M. Lidzbarski, 'Ein mandäisches Amulett', in G.C.C. Maspero (ed.), Florilegium ou recueil de travaux d'érudition dédiés à M. le Marquis Melchior de Vogüé à l'occasion du quatrevingtième anniversaire de sa naissance (Paris, 1909), pp. 349–373 (372), and P. Gignoux, Noms propres sassanides en moyen-perse épigraphique (Wien, 1986), p. 148 s.v. Pīr.

38 Müller-Kessler, 'Interrelations between Mandaic Lead Scrolls and Incantation Bowls', p. 200.

qarina ʿl 'I proclaim an anathema against' is common in Mandaic. Compare e.g. bgan šuma rba ubgan mimra rba qa[d]maiia ʿl punaqitai lilita 'the anathema of the great name and the anathema of the primordial word is upon Punaqitai the Lilith'. (Matisyahu 1:3–4)[39] and uhaizak agzar agzarta hibil ziua ltarmidia uamar abgan hiia uabgan manda ḏhiia uabgan mimra rba qadmaia nihuia lkul gabra {ḏ-adin} ḏ-adinqia pandama maṣbuta niṣba 'And then Hiḇil Ziwa decreed for the priests, and said, "May the anathema of Life, and the anathema of Manda ḏ-Heyyi, and the anathema of the great primordial word be upon any man that baptises without a pandama (face covering)"' (Sidra ḏ-Nišmata CP 45:36–38).

13. nksia 'slaughterers'. In M138:13 unkusia. The spellings may represent alternative forms of this category of demon based upon two alternating noun patterns: nāḵsi based upon the participle, and nākōsi based upon the nomen agentis.

16. ʿlahia 'gods'. The standard orthography is attested in this text once in the singular alaha (l. 182) and once in the plural alahia (l. 238). The orthography representing an i/e vowel is found another four times in our text: ʿlahia (l. 129–130, 141, 271, 273). The form with preliminary ʿ has not been recorded in the grammars and lexica of Mandaic, but we have found other examples in the epigraphic corpus, e.g. Pognon 25: 7, 8, and FM E.2–1907:11 (parallel to l. 182 of our text).

19. mšbaq 'to release'. Moussaieff 138: 9 reads lmišbaq. Both readings are grammatical.[40]

20. uiaqadna 'and conflagration'. The reading is certain, but in view of the noun pattern (compare Syriac بَصَّدْكَ)[41] we would expect the second a to appear after the d. The standard orthography is found in the parallel from Moussaieff 138: 9 uiaqdan[a].

22. qninia qininia 'every family'. The reading qnnia in M138:22 lends support to the irregular forms in BM 132947 (for regular qinia) and suggests that they are not to be emended.[42]

42 On such plural forms for other nouns, see Nöldeke, Mandäische Grammatik, p. 163 (§ 132).

24. bitia bitia 'every household'. This example indicates that contra Nöldeke, this plural form is not to be regarded as a 'schlechte Lesart'[43] but is a genuine dialectal variant.[44]

24–25. hu|mria humria 'every pebble-spirit'. The role of this phrase here is enigmatic.

32. pt iuna 'the daughter of slime (?)'. Müller-Kessler read ptihna and translated 'I open'. The later priestly commentary Alf Trisar Šiualia reports: uhu alma ḏmn atutia rbita hu urbita mn atutia alma ḏ-ptahil hʿ ⊙ ualma ḏ-ptahil mn atutia alma ḏ-arqa ḏ-tibil pt iauna (var DC 6: iuna) 'And that is the world that is beneath the sea (rḇiṯa), and the sea is beneath the world of Ptahil, and the world of Ptahil is beneath the world of Tiḇil, the daughter of Iauna'.[45] The Mandaic dictionary tentatively relates this use of iauna to Biblical Hebrew יְוֵן 'mire', though Macuch questioned whether the phrase arqa pt iauna is not to be derived a myth relating to iauna 'dove'. Its derivation remains enigmatic.[46]

32–33. lm|{dana}dna 'to the east'. Moussaieff 138:33 reads lmadna, and from the context, the identity of the lexeme is not in doubt. It is possible that the original spelling in BM represents the alternative form (l)mdana attested in MS 2054/83:6–7: mn mdana lmarba 'from east to west'.

34–35. lska ḏ-mia sia|uia 'to the end of the black waters'. In the Ginza, the black waters are the birthplace of evil creations (e.g. Gy 309:11–16), including the earth (e.g. Gy 169:10–15, 268:6–7).

35–36. kulhiun qinia 'all the families'. While the precise pronunciation of this unusual form of the pronominal suffix (for standard Mandaic kulhun) cannot be determined, its occurrence three times in our text suggests that it cannot be rejected as a scribal error. The other examples are f.pl. hʿia ukulhiun šurbaṯ̲ 'she and all of her tribes' (ll. 84–85) and m.pl. 'siria kulhiun diuia 'bound are all the *dev*s' (l. 67). For the word-pair qinia/šurbana, compare qina ḏ-muta ušurbata (rurbata) ḏ-hbila 'the tribe of death' in Pašar Mihla (169–170, 189–190, 200–201, 223–224, 259–260).

37–38. bizbaṭ abhn ḏ-shr|ia 'Bizbaṭ, the father of the sahirs'. The same epithet for Bizbaṭ is found in Šafta ḏ-Qaština 365, while in canonical Mandaean sources, Bizbaṭ is identified as the father Muhammad;[47] see e.g. ahmaṭ br bizbaṭ sahra (Gy. 21–22).[48] The form abh(u)n for abuhun was dismissed in Nöldeke's grammar,[49] but is now well attested in epigraphic sources.[50]

40. lhania // ulihania 'servitors'. Drower and Mauch[51] followed Nöldeke[52] in deriving this demon class from Mandaic liha 'net'. However, in light of forms such as ללחני (e.g. Allard Pierson Museum: 2),[53] it seems that the h (JBA ḥ) was originally geminated, and the demon name is a form of Aramaic laḥḥin < lahhinu* 'temple or court official'.[54]

42–44. 'siria ḏ-bt nbu klba ḏ-laihibia ubaiia 'Bound are those of Beṯ Nabu the Dog that do not give yet demand'. M138 reads: 'siria ḏ-bit nʿklta ḏ-lihib ubaiia 'Bound are those of the House of (Beṯ) Guile that does not give yet demands'. It is possible that nʿklta 'guile' represents a folk etymology of the name of the goddess Nikkal. The defective orthography of bt 'house of' provides clear evidence for reduction of the diphthong in the construct form of this noun. Additional examples are found in ll. 50, 104, 172. An alternative form with the elision of final -t is also common in this amulet, e.g. bia aulia (ll. 120–121), bia bršrta^i^ (l. 219), bia knrita (l. 221), bia lhmia (l. 223), and bigzura (l. 145).

44. ularšun 'and they have not loaned'. Moussaieff 138:14 reads udla ršu 'and who have not loaned'. The two textual witnesses employ different forms of the 3 m.pl. perfect morpheme for III-y verbs. Such interchanges are common in epigraphic Mandaic texts.[55]

46. ḏ-ririnia 'the drooling ones'. M138:15 reads ḏ-rirania. We interpret this as the plural of an unattested rirana 'drooler'. However, a connection cannot be ruled out with the toponyms found in BM 1957-9-25.1, ואיסתרא דדירוני (l. 6) and ואסתרא דרידדני (l. 7).[56]

48–50. shra ḏ-pqidilḫ ha|ṣbia ḏ-mia ukuzia ḏ-mgalia 'the sahir who is in charge of pitchers of water and uncovered jugs'. Müller-Kessler cites these lines and translates 'Sahra (moon demon) who commanded pitchers of water and jugs of shadows'.[57] The final word is missing in her citation, but from her translation and comment ('The letters g and ṭ are sometimes confused in the Mandaic script') it would appear that she also read mgalia but proposed emending the text to mṭalia. However, there are no grounds for this emendation. On the prohibition in Rabbinic tradition of liquids left uncovered see m. Ter. 8:4–7.

48–49. ha|ṣbia 'pitchers'. For pitcher-spirits, see Müller-Kessler, 'Mandaic Incantation against an Anonymous Dew,' p. 496 following Drower and Macuch, Mandaic Dictionary, p. 126a (sic) s.v. haṣubia.

50–63. 'siria ḏ-bt pqa shra 'Bound are those of the House of P(a)qa, the sahir'. Through this passage, there is some confusion both between the different textual witnesses and within them over whether the nouns and verbs are in the singular or plural, i.e. whether they agree with the noun shra or the relative pronoun ḏ, which may be singular or plural. Hence in BM 'siria ḏ-bt pqa shra (sing.) ḏ-lbiš|ia (pl.) blaiia umksin (pl.) blaiiata uiatib (sing.) 'l qi|qlata hrubata hinun (pl.) etc. parallels M138 shrḫ (sing. or pl.) ḏ-lbišia (pl.) blaiiḫ umksia (pl.) blaiiḫ uiatbia (pl.). 'l qiqlata. In this case, the plural uiatbia seems preferable from the context. Similarly, in ll. 56 ff.: BM 'sir|ia (pl.) ḏ-bit alga shra (sing.) ḏ-atibia (pl.) tutia nrzu|bia parallels M138 'siria (pl.) ḏ-bit alga shra (sing.) ḏ-iatib (sing.) tutia nrzubia.

51–53. ḏ-lbiš|ia blaiia umksin blaiiata 'who are clothed in rags and covered in tatters'. On blaiia and blaiiata, see the comments by Müller-Kessler in her edition of this text.[58]

57. shra 'the sahir'. Müller-Kessler reads sh{i}r⟨i⟩a.

58. ḏ-atibia 'who sit'. The scribe almost consistently omits the first y of the root y-t-b. In addition to this example, the y is omitted in another nine examples in various persons (see ll. 60, 163, 177, 183,

185, 219, 220, 223 and 269). All of the examples follow the relative pronoun ḏ-. Examples presenting the first radical are rarer: uiatib (53), ḏ-|iatbia (165–166), iatib[a] (235), ḏ-iatiba (251). All the forms also show a full vowel following the second radical. Morphologically, these forms could be interpreted as active participles without the reduction or with the secondary expansion of the second vowel (yātiḇā for expected yātəḇā), but it seems more likely that the forms are to be interpreted as representing the passive participle yətīḇā. Perhaps diyətīḇā > diʔətīḇā.[59]

61–62. ḏ-btia hrbi|a 'of ruined houses'. Müller-Kessler translated 'privies',[60] but the root h-r-b (< Aramaic ḥ-r-b < Central Semitic ḫ-r-b) does not have this meaning.

64–65. ubtiaqi|a 'and in parapets'. The meaning of this word and its occurrence in Mandaic discussed by Ford.[61]

69. kumiš. Geoffrey Herman notes that this lilith name also appears in the magic bowl corpus as a personal name (CBS 2922 [Montgomery 17]: 2, 11, 12).[62]

70. ualma 'up to'. Müller-Kessler read alma but the u is clear to us.

74. ḏ-bit aspnia. We may cautiously suggest that this is related to the toponym אספמיא found in the Babylonian Talmud.[63]

87. mšun. Identified with Mesene in Southern Iraq.[64]

89–90. bṭura qlia 'Mount Qalia' ("The Burnt Mountain"). We take this to be a toponym, but compare damit lṭura qalia ḏ-lamapiq btibil simadria 'You are like a burned mountain that produces no blossom in the world' (Jb. 109: 19–20).

97. krbia 'vehicles'. We have tentatively interpreted this as a metathesised form of rkbia.

100. kipḫ ḏ-ʿulai. The Ulay river, today known as the Karkheh.

102. azaṭ. Also attested in IM 132481: 57 (published by Zehron Nu'mān), and in BM 91715 [Segal 084M]:4 // BM 91780 [Segal 085M]:3.[65]

103–104. bsiniaus bniana ḏ-bt mlaka ḏ-rima 'in Siniaus, the edifice of the royal house of Rome'. Lidzbarski already noted that Siniauis is described in the Gy 134:6 as arqa titaita ḏ-hšuka 'the lower land of darkness', and cited our text in comparison.[66] For mlaka, Lidzbarski read mlka, but our reading is certain. For rima, Lidzbarski read ruma.

108. nhar zptai 'the Zaftai river'. Müller-Kessler tentatively suggests identifying this with the 'little Zab'. It is perhaps a compound of zaḇ tatai 'lower Zab'. Ran Zadok writes: I doubt whether it can be equated with Gk. Ζαπάτας of Xenophon, Anab. because the Semitic form of this river (and its homonym) has always been Zāb without any extension/suffix (Akkad. Zābu is with the nom. sg. marker which became obsolete in the 1st millennium BCE). The more so since the Semitic form is very old and persists until nowadays. Perhaps Zaptay, which apparently ends with an adjectival suffix (originally < -āy), refers to the stream which flowed in Hit, a source of bitumen (zpt = Aramaic 'pitch').

114. mrbia klibia 'the raiser of dogs'. Müller-Kessler read mrdia and translated 'rebellious, dog-like'. While this interpretation is supported by epithets applied to the 'stra 'goddess', it is problematic within the present context as the liliths here are all construed as feminine, hence we would expect these adjectival modifiers to be in the f.s.

120. šaqrat. Müller-Kessler read the parallel in BM 132168:30 as ušarmat, but though damaged, the third letter is clearly q, not m.

120. {ubatnia} ubtunia 'and in the furnaces'. Müller-Kesser read ubatnia {'btnia}. We regard the sharp right-facing stroke before the n of the second word to be u, and take it to be a rewriting of the previous word meaning 'furnace'. Defective spelling following a prefixed preposition is quite common in the epigraphic corpus. See also unahid 'and Anahid' (l. 256), utiqata 'and new (f.pl.)' (l. 294).[67]

121. 'sir mšʿha ḏ-mhiana 'Bound is the Messiah of (sic) The Life Giver'. A reference to Jesus. Compare e.g. from the Ginza: amunʿil šumḫ uʿšu mahiana qra lnapšḫ 'His name is Amunael (= Emanuel) and he called himself Jesus the Life-Giver' (Gy 28:17–18).[68]

122. bqlisia ḏ-qrabul 'in the church of Qrabul'. Compare רוסתקא דקרבי/ול (B24:2).[69] This is the first epigraphic attestation of Greek ἐκκλησία 'church' in Mandaic.[70] It is attested in Syriac both in the form ܐܟܠܝܣܝܐ[71] and ܩܠܝܣܝܐ.[72]

123. 'siria hrša umnla 'Bound are his sorceries and words'. From the context, we would expect hršḫ umnlḫ. Both nouns are plural, and the antecedent of the possessive pronouns would appear to be mšʿha 'the Messiah'. Graphically, the reading with final -a is preferable, though it is not clear to what f.s. antecedent the pronouns might refer. It could perhaps be qlisia 'the Church'.

127–129. ba|qra ḏ-ʿulai baqra ḏ-krka ḏ-saluk 'in the fortress of Karka (town) of Sloḵ', i.e., modern Kirkuk. The repetition here from the previous line perhaps implies dittography.[73]

133. uʿl nhar simar. Ran Zadok writes: The Simar river may be identified with the modern Saimarreh (/Saymarre/) river which starts 25 km SE of Kermanshah (Media) and flows southwards via Luristan where it becomes a tributary of the Karun river; the latter is one of the main rivers of Susiana.[74]

136. dura ḏ-šina 'the town of Šenna'. Although this would ostensibly appear to be related to JBA דור שיני 'gums', a term which has been extensively discussed in the literature,[75] this meaning is not suited to our context, and it is better interpreted as the region Šenna in North-Eastern Babylonia.[76]

137. hurdniata. MS 2054/29: h[ur]bnaita. Compare perhaps אימה רבה דחובניא (BM 1957-9-25.1:7), which has been identified as Ḥabbāniyya by Lecker and Zadok.[77]

138. qrunia. Geoffrey Herman has suggested connecting this to קלוניא mentioned in b. Yev. 115b.

140–141. iama|ta 'lakes'. The first attestation in Mandaic of the lexeme yammətā 'lake'. Compare Syriac ܝܰܡܬܳܐ.[78]

141. ḏ-aqira 'of tar'. For the a between the relative pronoun and the noun qira, compare ḏ-abna 'that he built' (MS 2087/4 a 8), dadlibat 'of Dilbat' (MS 2054/106:10).

150. 'stra ḏ-huṣia 'the goddess of Huṣi(a)'. Probably an unidentified toponym. Compare the enigmatic אימה רבתי הוצי הוצייא (BM 1957-9-25.1:8).[79]

151. ḏ-gzra ḏ-mhla. Probably a toponym, though possibly one formed form descriptive nouns. gzra may perhaps be interpreted as an island, or alternatively, as a heap; cf. NENA gizra 'heap of wood'.[80] The toponym is otherwise unknown.

152. urdnia 'Wardunia'. This toponym is also mentioned in the Babylonian Talmud.[81] Ran Zadok adds: In view of its occurrence in Mandaic, it should be lemmatised accordingly in Oppenheim, where he prefers what now becomes an inferior variant (Wrdyn') as lemma. In this case, it ends in the compound suffix -ūn-ya which is common in the Aramaic toponymy of the Babylonian alluvium (the base is Iranian).

155. trbušita. This is the reading of our lamella, and it is in this form that the text was correctly cited by Müller-Kessler and Kessler.[82] Their proposal to emend our text to read trbuš⟨n⟩ita based upon other instances of this name is now supported by our previously unknown parallel from IAA G:9, though the reading without n is also found in Qmaha ḏ-Ṣir Sahra (DC 43A:137).

157. ḏ-bit zatan. Müller-Kessler read ḏ-bit zaman in both BM texts.

158. amšmiš. Derived from amat šamiš* 'the handmaiden of Šamiš', amšmiš occurs in epigraphic Mandaic texts as a demonic name, e.g. BM 91775 [Segal 086M]: 9, 16 (bis). It is also attested as a personal name in a bilingual inscription from Edessa.[83] The geminated σ in the Greek form of the name in that inscription, Αμασσαμσες, indicates that the final -t of amat was assimilated into the first š of šamiš.

159–161. 's|pndarmid … anahid. Demonised forms of two Zoroastrian deities. Spendārmad, daughter of Ahura Mazda, and Anahid.[84]

165. ḏ-luṭata lṭura 'that cursed the mountain'. We have interpreted luṭata as the verb (for laṭṭa or perhaps lṭata), but the syntax here is difficult and the text may be corrupt. Regrettably, the parallel is broken at this point.

168–169. nanai ḏ-burṣip unanai ḏ-bit guzaiia. For a detailed discussion of these gods, see Müller-Kessler and Kessler, 'Spätbabylonische Gottheiten', pp. 75–77.

170–171. nišar ḏ-kškar. Nišar of Kaškar was first identified in Mandaic literature by Greenfield.[85]

171–172. 'sir birqa ḏ-šri|a bmata bt guznaiia. The god Birqa of Guznaia has been discussed in detail by Müller-Kessler and Kessler.[86] See also below, the comments by Ran Zadok on bruqa (l. 183).

176. mhraṭ. Normally a personal name ('descendent of Mihra'),[87] it is used here as a demonic name.

177. tila ḏ-mura 'the mound of myrrh'. Compare הר המור (Cant. 4:6). The variants indicate that the textual tradition is very unstable at this point, and this may be the corruption of a toponym.

180–181. ḏ-nhat iati^ba^ uqria lnpša nanai {ḏ-xxx} ḏ-nhat 'that rested and sits and calls herself Nanai d-Nhat'. The expression appears to be an etiology; perhaps nanai ḏ-nhat is intended to explain the origin of the syncretistic goddess Nanai Anahid.[88]

183. bruqa. Ran Zadok writes: The god Bruqa is identical with the god ᵈBu-ru-qu of the city of Dēr, 25 km. east of the Tigris. He is mentioned in an Assyrian royal inscription from 813 BCE.[89] ᵈBu-ru-qu probably goes back to a qatūl-formation with NA vowel harmony. The theophorous element which denotes 'lightning' has a variation of several nominal formations: qatūl: ᵈBa-ru-qu-il(?)-lu(?)-ú, ᵈBa-ru-qu-x⌋ [...],[90] with ū in view of ᵈBu-ru-qu above. The divine name by itself is ᵈBir-qu in Akkadian, i.e. of the qitl-formation like Mandaic birqa (above, ll. 171–2) which may be considered its continuant. Mandaic has mata (land) of bt (Bēt) guznaiia (the Aramaic origin of the region name Γαυζανιτις of Ptolemy) as the abode of Birqa. Macuch[91] considered the qatl-formation as the original one in this case. A qutl—formation is discernible in West Semitic anthroponymy.[92]

The Aramaic theonym is of the qatl-formation (later > qtal) like in Arabic[93] (the qutl-formation denotes the morning star in JPA).[94]

185. šrai. Müller-Kessler transcribes this name as Šadai,[95] but the reading with r seems certain.

187–188. ria t|bula. MS 2054/114:4–5 reads raia tbula. This deity is mentioned in a positive manner nine times in Pašar Mihla[96] as the parent of the personified salt that is addressed throughout that work. The etymology would appear to be from rāʕyā 'shepherd' and an unattested nomen agentis form tāḇōlā 'spicer'.

189. ḏ-abuia 'that her father'. On the use of the 3m.s. possessive pronoun in BM 132947 compared to the feminine form abu in MS 2054/114, see Abudraham, A Grammar of Early Mandaic, p. 187.

190–195. uʿmḫ qa|rialḫ amamit šprtia dh | dhla uqdišata qrila r | ruha ḏ-qudša ukumrḫ ukumratḫ qrilḫ ʿstra ḏ-bit mna 'and whom her mother calls Amamit the beautiful. Her worshipers and holy ones call her The Holy Spirit, and her priests and priestesses call her the goddess of Beṯ M(a)na'. These lines were first published by Müller-Kessler,[97] but with unnecessary emendations which led her to misinterpret the passage. dhla and kumrḫ are plural forms bearing the 3 f.s. possessive pronoun, hence 'her worshippers' and 'her (male) priests'.

203. dištna umṭnputa 'menstruation and uncleanliness'. Compare umṭanputa uzma udaštana (Gy 51:19).

204. ukdšalḫ {bgba} bgrba 'and smites him/her with leprosy'. This appears to be the first attestation in Mandaic of the root k-d-š (< Aramaic k-t-š) with the specific sense of 'smite with skin disease'. It is already attested in the Gt stem in this sense in the Genesis Apocryphon from Qumran (1QapGen 20:25).

205–206. ḏ-šni|alḫ 'the one whom she loathes'. The reading is certain, but from the context, this should read ḏ-sni|alḫ as in line 202. It is unclear if this is a phonetic variant or a misreading of a Vorlage ḏ-sani|alḫ, with Mandaic ࡐ for graphically similar ࡑ.

93 J. Fox, Semitic Noun Patterns (Winona Lake, 2003), p. 82, suggests that the original formation was qatal, but he does not list all the forms. It must be admitted that it is difficult to find a vocalised common precursor for the extremely variegated morphological spectrum presented here.

207. baba 'in the gate'. MS 2054/114:11 reads bbaba.[98]

211. uglilik štuatik 'and your nakedness is revealed'. Compare galiltinin lšiṭuatḫ (Gy 118:19).

221. gurda. The reading grud gusphra in Wolfe alludes to the deity mentioned in l. 182 of the BM text.

222. ḏ-šarim ptulata 'that defiles the virgins'. On the meaning of this expression, see M. Morgenstern, 'Mandaic Magic Bowls in the Moussaieff Collection', in M. and E. Lubetski (eds.), New Inscriptions and Seals Relating to the Biblical World (Atlanta, 2012), 157–170 (165).

226. huzita 'of Huzai', presumably Be(ṯ) Huzaia.

226–227. qrmnia|ta 'of Qarman' (f.), a place-name mentioned already by Strabo and later in the Babylonian Talmud.[99]

229. mrdnita 'rebellious'. A new word in the Mandaic lexicon.

232–233. ma|ta h{da}datia. BM 91777 reads mata hdita. This is probably to be identified with the town Ḥdetta, Persian Nōkard 'new town', south of the meeting point of the Tigris and the Upper Zab.[100]

235–236. The order in BM 91777:17 is reverse: 'stra ḏ-'l prat iatba umulit qrat lnpša 'siria šitin ušita alahia.

242. hšum. Müller-Kessler apparently read hšim,[101] but the penultimate letter is clearly connected to the m.

243. bit girma. BM 91777 reads bit girmai. This may be identified as Beṯ Garmai in North Mesopotamia.

243. udarin. Müller-Kessler read uradin, in accordance with the parallel in BM 91777. In our opinion, the lamella reads udarin.

253. mnṭul ḏ-dmuta hlpat 'because she changed her form'. The similarity to YBC 2364: 8 aminṭul ḏ-dmuta halpat was noted by Müller-Kessler.[102]

259. ḏ-bit kuta. For Kuta, see Oppenheimer, Babylonia Judaica, pp. 175–178. Geoffrey Herman notes בי כותאי (b. Git. 45a).

98 On the loss of b in these circumstances, see Abudraham, A Grammar of Early Mandaic, p. 112.

99 Oppenheimer, Babylonia Judaica, pp. 49, 484–485.

101 The transcription reads hym, but from her translation, Hašim, we assume that this is a printing error.

102 C. Müller-Kessler, 'The Story of Bguzan-Lilit, Daughter of Zanay-Lilit', Journal of the American Oriental Society 116 (1996), pp. 185–195 (191).

261. {qba}qruṭba. Following a suggestion by Yakir Paz to identify this toponym with קורטבא mentioned in the Babylonian Talmud (Yev. 115b),[103] we have tentatively taken the letters qba to be a false start for qra and emended the text. It is hoped that additional findings may settle this issue.

266–268. uqurn uqurnatan gaṭil hazuria ʿsr ṭṭun 'and their horns killed pigs. Bound is Ṭiṭun'. The alternative reading from MS 2054/32, u'siria diuia ḏ-qurnis mgaṭlia hizuria u'sir diuia ḏ-ṭ'ṭun suggests that the text of BM may be corrupt. Yakir Paz has proposed that qurnis and ṭ'ṭun may reflect the name Κρόνος and the word Τιτάν of classical mythology. Since the text is confused, it is difficult to determine if the reading of BM reflects a folk etymology of Κρόνος.

271. ʿlahia mšria ṣibia 'gods (who) set firm (their) firewood'. This enigmatic phrase has a very close parallel in two Mandaic incantation bowls: abugdana ṣibia mašar ʿlauikun 'Abugdana (who) set firm (his) firewood upon you' (MS 2054/111: 9) // abugdana ṣ'bia mašar ʿluaikun (DCG 5: 50). As indicated by the unequivocal singular participle mašar, the plural form in our context mšria should also be derived by the root š-r-r 'to make firm, tighten'. The precise meaning of the word ṣibia is uncertain. It could also mean 'colours' (cf. Sy. ܨܒܥܐ) but this would hardly fit the context.

285–286. lšura ḏ-a|rqa 'the navel of the earth'. Although not mentioned in the Mandaic Dictionary, this expression is found three times in the Ginza Rabba: n'sbḫ lšura ḏ-arqa uba ḏ-nigiṭrḫ blbab šumia kḏ ba ḏ-ninisbḫ lšura ḏ-arqa ʿtkarakbḫ naplia (Gy 97:19–20), which Lidzbarski translated 'Er faßte den Nabel der Erde, und wollte ihn an das Herz des Himmels knüpfen. Als er den Nabel der Erde fassen wollte, umkreisten ihn die Hinfälligen'; and kḏ nisbḫ lšura ḏ-arqa uasqḫ ʿsrḫ bqumbta (Gy 98:20). The expression seems to parallel Biblical טַבּוּר הָאָרֶץ (Judges 9:37, Ezekiel 38:12).

286. ʿlma 'up to'. A rare alternative spelling for regular alma (e.g. l. 34). The same spelling is found in two other epigraphic lamellae (Lidzbarski lamellae [= BM Dept. 2197]: 220 and MS 2087/9b: 5).[104]

291–302. ʿsir pumaiun … ḏ-lanitun ʿl nukraia. Compare איסירין ופכירין וחתמין מין ליבה ומן פומ^י^ה ועיניהון לעוורון אודניהון ליט^ר^שן ריגליהון לא להלכן בתרה דכורק ב〈ר〉 אפרידדי 'Bound and clasped and sealed from his heart and from his mouth, and may their eyes be blinded, may their ears stop up, may their feet not walk after him, Chwaraq son of Afrididay' (BM 1957-9-25.1: 13).[105]

297–298. luṭata hdtia ua|tiqata 'curses, new or (298) old'. Compare BM 1957-9-25.1: אסירין וחתימין לוטתא ונידרא חדתא ועתיקתא 'bound and sealed are the curses and the oath, new or old' (BM 1957-9-25.1: 13).[106]

327–328. hiklẖ|un 'their residence'. The Mandaic grapheme ẖ is almost exclusively employed in word-final position. We may assume that in the present example, the ẖ sign was employed because of the line break. This orthographic practice may allude to the reduction of the diphthong heḵlayon > heḵleon.[107]

Syriac and Mandaic Incantation Bowls

James Nathan Ford and Ohad Abudraham[1]

Introduction

Protective amulets written in Aramaic on clay bowls have been known since 1853 when Ellis published the first samples from Nineveh (Ellis 1853: 509–23). The texts, which are commonly wwritten on the inner side of earthenware bowls, often in a single spiral, are commonly dated to the fifth to seventh centuries A.D. (Montgomery 1913: 102–105).[2] All such texts appear to originate in Babylonia or occasionally in what is now western Iran. The spells are for the most part written in various forms of Aramaic that were current during that period: Jewish Babylonian Aramaic (JBA), Mandaic and

1 The Syriac bowls were prepared by Ford (Bowls 1–6) and the Mandaic bowls by Abudraham (Bowls 7–8). Partially preserved letters have been printed with grey font in the transcriptions. Square brackets [x] indicate reconstructed text. Round brackets (x) indicate readings that the authors consider to be uncertain. We would like to thank Professor Matthew Morgenstern (Tel Aviv University) for high resolution close-up photographs that were crucial for the deciphering of the bowls and for his generous advice during the preparation of this article. We would also like to thank Professor Shaul Shaked (Hebrew University of Jerusalem) for permission to quote from unpublished bowls in the Martin Schøyen collection (labeled MS). Bowls labeled JNF, Wolfe, Davidovitz, AS, DS and DCG are in private collections and are being prepared for publication by Ford. Our gratitude is extended to Ms. Lisa Marie Knothe, Mr. L. Alexander Wolfe, Mr. Gil Davidovitz and Ms. Ester Davidovitz, Mr. Akram Sawalha, Mr. David Sofer and the David Crown Gallery, respectively, for access to the bowls and for generously facilitating their study. We would also like to thank Prof. Dan Levene (University of Southampton) for access to bowls in the Samir Dehays collection (labeled SD). Bowls labeled PC are in another private collection and are being prepared for publication by Ford and Morgenstern. We would like to thank their owner for access to them. We are grateful to Professor Marco Moriggi (Università di Catania) for making available to us the manuscript of his new study of the Syriac incantation bowls (Moriggi 2014) prior to its publication. Research for this study was supported by Israel Science Foundation grant no. 1306/12.

Syriac.[3] A few bowls are written in Pahlavi, a contemporary form of Persian, or in Arabic, but no such bowls are found in this allotment. Some bowls are written in pseudo-scripts, i.e., meaningless symbols that often imitate the form of real alphabets. Four such bowls have been found in this lot, of which one (T27999) is clearly an imitation of the Jewish script.[4] The bowls are sometimes illustrated with pictures of the magician/client or demons.[5] One of our texts, Bowl 8, contains such an illustration on the outside of the bowl.

The Syriac and Mandaic incantation bowls in this allotment constitute a fairly representative sample of materials of this nature, except for the relative proportion of Syriac to Mandaic bowls (see above, n. 3). The lot contains six bowls written in Syriac, of which four are written in the Manichaean script and two in the Estrangelo script.[6] Three contain previously unknown formulas, although one of these is paralleled by a number of unpublished Jewish Aramaic bowls. The remaining three Syriac bowls carry well-attested formulas that also have one or more Jewish Aramaic parallels. Two bowls are written in Mandaic; both represent fairly standard examples of such texts with numerous parallels, most of which are as yet unpublished.[7] The texts on all eight bowls are in a fair to poor state of preservation, but can often be deciphered with the aid of the parallels.

3 For an attempt at a statistical survey, see Morony 2003: 87. Morony based his findings on the corpus that was then known, which represents only a small portion of the material now available. However, the distribution that he found, i.e., 62% Jewish, 23% Mandaean and 13% Syriac, would appear to reflect fairly accurately the overall distribution of such bowls.

4 For the term Jewish script see Naveh 1987: 162–74 (with reference to the magic bowls on p. 170).

5 For a detailed study of the iconography of the incantation bowls, see Vilozny 2010.

6 The current state of research of Syriac incantation bowls is described in Moriggi 2014: 1–3. On the scripts see Moriggi, ibid., pp. 14–19.

7 For a description of Mandaic magic texts published up to the late 1960s see Yamauchi 1967: 1–67. Since then, many new texts have been published, but no up-to-date general introduction exists. Yamauchi 1999–2000 has already been superseded by text publications by Müller-Kessler, Segal and others.

The Syriac Bowls

1. T27983

Syriac, Manichaean script. No drawing. The writing is divided into three registers, each comprised of parallel lines. Badly faded. Much of the text is lost.

Linguistic features: Frequent use of he for etymological ḥ: ܗܝܡ (line 5, as opposed to ܚܝ in the same line); ܗܝܐ (lines 5, 7, 11, 20, as opposed to ܚܝܐ in line 4, etc.). Weakening or loss of etymological ʾ: [ܐ]ܒܪ (line 5, for ܐܒܪ); ܒܪܟ (line 18, for ܒܪܟܐ).

Clients: PN daughter of Huda and her spouse (?, possibly additional opponents).

Opponents: PN daughter of Hubb[ay]; (A)m... daughter of Hubb[ay].

Published parallels: None.

Comments: The preserved text is only partially deciphered. A parallel would be helpful.

Commentary

Much of the text is illegible, but from the little that can be deciphered it is clear that the incantation is directed against witchcraft and curses of people in general and of specifically named human opponents in particular, including two daughters of a woman named Hubbay (line 3).

5–7. ... 𐡀𐡓𐡉𐡌𐡀 𐡀𐡕𐡕𐡀 "a free man and a free woman ..." – These lines contain an enumeration of witchcraft and curses performed by various types of people. Such enumerations are well attested in the magic bowls, especially in lists of curses. The reconstruction [𐡀𐡓𐡔𐡌𐡀 𐡀]𐡕𐡕𐡀 "of a manservant [and a maidservant] " is suggested by the following contexts from Mandaic and JBA magic bowls, respectively: kulhun sana ubʿldin[a] ḏ-[qniskuia] pt duktbḫ {a} ʿntta gubria uʿnšia uabdia ua[ma]ta u[h]aria uhrata umisik[i]ni[a] uiat[iria] um..nia umarmaniata ukulhun bnit ana[ša ḏ-...] "all the foes and opponents of [Q.] daughter of D., the wife – men and women, and manservants and [mai]dservants, and [fr]ee men and free women, and poor and ri[ch], and M[anich]aean men and Manichaean women, and all human be[ings who ...]" (MS 2054/24: 10–11); ומיתי חרי וחרתא עבדי ואמהתא עתירי ומיסכיני רחיקי וקריבי לבאבי ולפיתחי ולתרעי "and he brings free men and free women, manservants and maidservants, rich and poor, far and near to my door and to my doorway and to my gate" (JNF 120: 2–4). In the latter context, the enumeration is of potential clients, rather than potential enemies.

6. ܛܘܬܐ "curses" – See also lines 3, 4 and 7. This is the first attestation of this form in the Syriac bowls, but compare JBA לטותא "curse" (Sokoloff 2002: 623). The usual form in the Syriac bowls is ܛܘܠܐ "curse" (e.g., Bowl 2: 45), as in Classical Syriac.

9. ܙܘܥܝ "her spouse" – Cf. Mandaic zaua "spouse" (Drower and Macuch 1963: 157).

10-16. ... ܥܪܒܝ [ܣܢܓܪ] "Arab [witchcraft] ..." – These lines contain a long enumeration of witchcraft performed by various ethnic groups. Compare חרשין ארמאין חרשין יהודאין חרשין טיאעין חרשין פרסאין חרשין הינדואין חרשין יונאין חרשין די כיתין חרשין דמיתעבדין בשבעין לישנין בין דאיתתא ובין דגברא "Aramaean witchcraft, Jewish witchcraft, Arab witchcraft, Persian witchcraft, Indian witchcraft, Greek witchcraft, Roman witchcraft, witchcraft that is performed in seventy languages, whether of a woman or of a man" (Gordon 1934, Bowl D: 8–10); מן חרשי איהדאי ומן חרשי ארמאה ומן חרשי פרסאי ומן חרשי מדאי ... ומן חרשי דמיתעבדין במאה עשרין ושבע מדינן "from Jewish witchcraft, and from Aramaean witchcraft, and from Persian witchcraft, and from Median witchcraft ... and from witchcraft that is performed in one hundred and twenty seven provinces" (MS 2053/189: 20–22).

13. ܣܢܓܪ ܩܕܥܝܐ "Qadišian witchcraft" – For the gentilic ܩܕܥܝܐ, see Nöldeke 1879: 157–63.

15. ܣܢ[ܓܪ] ܟܫܟܪܝ "Kaškarian [witchcraft]" – The southern Mesopotamian town of Kaškar is occasionally mentioned in the magic bowls. For example, uʿsir nirig ḏ-kškar uʿsir nišar ḏ-kškar "and bound is Nirig of Kaškar and bound is Nišar of Kaškar" (MS 2054/24: 4–5). Cf. Müller-Kessler and Kessler 1999: 68. For Kaškar in late Antiquity in general, see Oppenheimer 1983: 171–74.

2. T27984

Syriac, Estrangelo script. No drawing. The incantation is enclosed by a circle. The writing is in spokes extending from the center to the rim. The text continues on the outside with a short line written parallel to the rim and enclosed in a circle. The central section of the bowl is badly faded, but most of the text can be reconstructed with reasonable certainty based on the internal structure of the text and the unpublished parallels (see below).

Linguistic features: Use of ḥeth for etymological h: ܪܝܫܚ (lines 9 and 22, for ܪܝܫܐ); ܫܠܚ (line 51, for סלה). Use of he for etymological ḥ: ܡܝܗܡ (line 19, for ܡܝܚܡ). 3 m.s. possessive pronoun -ēh on m.pl. nouns: ܚܕܗ (line 40, for Classical ,ܚܕܐ).

Clients: Bar-Gelal son of Daday.

Published parallels: None. Unpublished parallels include the Jewish Aramaic bowls JNF 81; PC 36; PC 37; PC 38; PC 39; SD 38.

Comments: Same client as Bowl 3. Some of the readings are based on new photographs taken by the author after the bowl was cleaned shortly before the article was sent to press.

11 The base of the ʿē is almost entirely lost, but there does not seem to be space for a yodh before the lamadh.

12 The top of the ʿē appears to be missing, giving the appearance of yodh. Cf. the base of the ʿē in 𐡁𐡓𐡉𐡊 (Bowl 3: 3).

13 The letter following the mim has only one spike and is therefore either a defective ḥeth or a yodh (as transcribed here). In the latter case, the writing indicates the loss of ḥ/h (for a similar example in a JBA bowl, see Morgenstern 2007: 251). In either case, the scribe stopped at the end of the line in the middle of the word and then rewrote the entire word at the beginning of the following line (with ḥeth, in accordance with standard orthography). Commentary

The main portion of the spell (lines 6–47) invokes a group of seven angels, Šmayyael, ...iel, Š[am]šiel, [Sahriel], ...iel, Nuriel and ...iel, who are responsible for various elements of nature, which for the most part are reflected in their names: šmayyā "the heavens," ʾarʿā "the earth," šemšā "the sun," sahrā "the moon," zīqē "the winds," ʾāyar "the air," nūrā "fire" and mayyā "water." Each angel is to watch over a part of the household and possessions of the client. The closing section (lines 48–50) is based on Isa 6: 3. Jewish Aramaic versions of this spell are also extant (see above).

2. ܕܕܝ “Daday” – The matronymic of the client is apparently equivalent to the feminine PN דדי in Jewish bowls (e.g., MS 1928/43, referring to a different person; see Shaked, Ford and Bhayro 2013: JBA 26). The ʿē serves as a mater lectionis for the vowel a. For additional examples, see the recent discussion by O. Abudraham of the spellings ܢܩܒܬܐ /neqbāṯā/ and ܨܠܐ /salā/ in MRLA 3, Bowl 20, lines 7 and 10.[16] The latter spelling also occurs in the present corpus in Bowl 5: 10 and Bowl 6: 16.

3. ܒܫܡ ܐܗܝܐ ܒ[ܐܗ] “[In the nam]e of ’hy’ and bhy’” – Cf. בשום אהיה באהיה בהיה מיכאל וגבריאל ואחזיאל (JNF 81: 5–9).

6–7. ܘܒܫܡ ܫܒ[ܥܐ ܡܠ]ܐ̈ܟ̈ܐ ܕܐܬܝܗܒ ܫ̈ܠܛ̈ܢ “And in the name of [7 angel]s who have been given dominion over” – The parallels read ובשום שבעה דמשמשין וממנין על “and in the name of the seven who serve and are appointed over: (JNF 81: 10); ובשום שבעא מלאכין דימשמשין על “and in the name of seven angels who serve over” (PC 37: 4–5); ובשום שבע מלאכין דימשמשין על “idem” (PC 36: 4). In the present bowl the traces of the word ܫ̈ܒ̈ܥ̈ܐ are preceded by extremely faint traces of what looks like a large ʿē followed by two short nearly vertical strokes. There is no sign of the letters shin or beth. It thus seems likely that the scribe wrote the numeral 7, rather than the word ܫ̈ܒ̈ܥ̈ “seven,” or the like, as in the parallels. In the Syriac bowls the use of such numerals is at present best attested in bowls written in the Manichaean script. Moriggi, however, has recently found an example in the Estrangelo bowl IM 44107: 9 (see Moriggi 2014: 81).

34–35. ܒ[ܫܒܝܠ] ܐܪ̈ܒ̈ܥ̈ ܕ̈ܪ̈ܟ̈ܢ “in the four corners [of his house]” – The form ܐܪ̈ܒ̈ܥ̈ is a feminine plural nomen regens in the status absolutus. For additional examples, see ܐܪ̈ܒ̈ܥ̈ ܕ̈ܪ̈ܟ̈ܢ ,ܒܝܬ “and the four corners of my house” (JNF 239: 5); ܒܫܒܝܠ ܐܪ̈ܒ̈ܥ̈ ܕ̈ܪ̈ܟ̈ܢ “in the four corners of her house” (DS 35: 10); ܒܫܒܝܠ ܐܪ̈ܒ̈ܥ̈ 4ܕ “in the 4 corners of his house” (Wolfe 24: 9). For the use of the status absolutus with the nomen regens in Mandaic, see Nöldeke 1875: 312–13.

37. ܠܡܢܛܪ “to protect” – The infinitive (pa.) is exceptionally written with a seyame.

16 Abudraham 2015: 100-101.

3. T27986

Syriac, Estrangelo script. No drawing. The incantation is enclosed by a circle. The writing is in spokes extending from the center to the rim. The central area of the bowl is faded and the beginnings of many of the lines are lost.

Linguistic features: Use of ḥeth for etymological h: ܫܠܚ (lines 18, 34, for סלה); ,ܫܠܠܝ (line 34, for הללויה). Weakening of ʿ: ܥܢܝ (line 11, cf. JBA ענש). Af. imperative ܐܫܠܚ (line 11, for Classical ܫܠܚ).

Clients: Bar-Gelal son of Daday (Masnaqta)

Published parallels (of lines 6ff): IM 23776 (Teixidor 1962: 56–59; Hamilton 1971: Bowl 15; MRLA 3, Bowl 15); Moussaieff 131 (Levene 2003: 91–92; Ford 2006: 210; JBA). Unpublished parallels include MS 2055/8; MS 2055/18; MS 2055/21; MS 2055/23; JNF 211; JNF 238; Davidovitz 31; PC 15; JNF 169 (JBA); JNF 252 (JBA); Wolfe 63 (JBA). The version in the present bowl particularly resembles that of JNF 238, PC 15 and Wolfe 63.

Comments: Same client as Bowl 2.

Commentary

The incantation is comprised of two independent spells, separated by three crosses. The first is a short reference to the signet ring of King Solomon son of David (lines 1–4). The signet ring of Solomon is an extremely common motif in the Jewish Aramaic magic bowls and is attested several times in both the Syriac and Mandaic bowls (see Moriggi 2014: 50 and the bibliography cited there). The second spell is well attested in both Syriac and Jewish Aramaic versions, most of which are as yet unpublished. It begins with a series of magic names that are requested to expel the evil spirit haunting the house to a desolate place, a typical abode of demons. This is followed by an obscure reference to a number of astral bodies and then an invocation of an angel named Taqnusa, who is asked to eradicate and expel the demons from the house. The relevant verbs are 2 m.pl. forms (lines 23–24), apparently referring to Taqnusa and his entourage. The spell closes with an appeal to the names of several angelic figures. One of these, ʾsrh gdwl, appears to be a corruption of Hebrew השר הגדול " the Great Prince." The latter spelling appears in the unpublished Jewish Aramaic parallel Wolfe 63: 8, which suggests a possible Jewish origin for the spell. The client is referred to once as ܕܢ ܓܠܠ ܒܪ ܕܥܕ, "Bar-Gelal son of Daday" (lines 2–3), as in Bowl 2, and twice as ܕܢ ܓܠܠ ܒܪ ܕܥܕ, ܡܚܣܢܝܐ "Bar-Gelal son of Daday Masnaqta" (lines 14–15, 27–28). He is therefore to be identified with ܕܢ ܓܠܠ ܒܪ ܡܚܣܢܝܐ "Bar-Gelal son of Masnaqta" in JNF 217.

11. ܐܓܠܝ ܥܢܫ “punish and banish” – The verb ܥܢܫ “punish” has been interpreted following a suggestion by O. Abudraham. Cf. Sokoloff 2002: 873, s.v. ענש. Davidovitz 31: 5, written in the Manichaean script, reads ܐܓܠܝ ܐܒܕ “eradicate and banish.” In both texts ܐܓܠܝ is clearly transitive and must be a m.pl. af. imperative from gly. Note also the form ܓܠܝ in the corresponding context in MS 2055/21: 6: ܟܠ ܒܝܫܐ ܕܐܒܕܝܢ ܕܓܠܝ ܘܕܝܣܦܝ ܘܕܝܬܒ ܘܕܝܫܕܝ ܒܝܫܐ “eradicate and banish and scatter and expel all evil spirits.” These forms correspond to אגלו / ܐܓܠܝ in some of the parallels and show the shift a > i/e in a closed syllable. For a number of examples of this shift in the prefix of the af. imperfect or active participle in Jewish Babylonian Aramaic, see Morgenstern 2002: 62.

20. ܫܡܫܐ “the Sun” – The Syriac parallels known to the present author all read the common noun ܫܡܫܐ “the sun.” The JBA parallels likewise consistently read שמשא. In our bowl the absolute case indicates the proper name Šamiš, i.e., the sun as a deity or supernatural being. See further Nöldeke 1875: 300; Moriggi 2014: 57 and the bibliography cited there.

23–24. ܐܒܕܬܘܢ ܘܬܒܬܘܢ ܘܐ(ܡ)ܚܬܘܢ “that you (pl.) eradicate (?) and expel and transfix” – The 2 m. pl. verbs are written with the seyame, in contrast to the usual usage in Classical Syriac (see Kiraz 2012: 110, who notes occasional exceptions in some early manuscripts).

4. T27989

Syriac, Manichaean script. In the center is a circle with eight spokes. Markings are visible in some of the sections. Several lines contain long series of magical characters, sometimes interspersed with meaningless sequences of letters in the Manichaean (and once in the Estrangelo) script. There are two crosses at the end of the incantation. The incantation is enclosed by a circle. The writing begins near the center and spirals towards the rim. Much of the writing is badly faded and parts are entirely lost.

Linguistic features: Use of ḥeth for etymological h: ܪܫܝܚ (line 2, as opposed to [ܪ]ܫܝܐ in line 5; cf. n. 26). Weakening of ʾ: ,ܫܢܪ (lines 2, 4, as opposed to ,ܫܘܐܠ in line 6 and ܫܘܐܠ in lines 7 and 11); ܫܢܐ (line 4, for Classical ܫܢܐܠ). Loss of final l: ܠܚܐ (line 10, for ܠܚܐܠ; cf. n. 23). 3 m.s. pronominal suffix -hy on nouns with m.pl. and f.pl. endings and with collective nouns: ,ܫܢܪܐ ,ܫܒܚܬ ,ܫܥܝܢ ,ܫܒܥ (line 2); ,ܫܪܫ ,ܫܢܪ (line 4, as opposed to ܫܪܫ ,ܫܘܐܠ in line 6). 3 m.s. pronominal suffix -wh on nouns with m.pl. endings: ܫܘܐܠ (lines 7, 11).

Clients: Šlima son of Maḥlafta.

Commentary

The incantation is intended mainly for the protection of the livestock of a certain Šlima son of Maḥlafta. It is most likely a Christian text, as it contains an appeal to Jesus to banish the various demons from the house and the livestock of the client (lines 5–6). In particular, the phrase [ܟ]ܫܝ ܠܐܚܕ ܟܠ ܕ[ܐ] ܡܫܟܚ ܥܒܕ “Jesus heals every pain and annuls sickne[sses]” (line 5) recalls Matt 4: 23. The Peshiṭta version reads as follows: “Jesus was going around all of Galilee, teaching in their synagogues and proclaiming the gospel of the kingdom and healing every pain and sickness in the people [ܒܟܠ ܡܟܐܘ ܒܟ ܟܠ ܡܫܝܚܐ ܟܟܐ].”[30] As noted above, the text is written in the Manichaean script. The same is true for CBS 9012: 2 (AIT, Bowl 34; MRLA 3, Bowl 6), which appeals to the power of ܥܒܕ ܡܫܝܚ “Jesus the Healer,” and JNF 220: 15, which invokes the name of ܥܒܕ ܝ ܡܫܝܚ ܕ ܟܟ “Jesus the Healer, Son of Life.” None of these bowls has specifically Manichaean features and one must assume that they were written by Christian practitioners. The use of the “Manichaean” script to write Christian incantation bowls suggests that it was originally a local Babylonian script that was not exclusively tied to the Manichaean community.

2. ,ܟܠܫ “all the animals (!)” – Apparently a corruption of ,ܟܠ ܫ. Cf. ܟܠܫ (line 7) and ܟܠܫ (lines 4 and 11).

10. ܠܐܚ “and annul” – For ܠܐܚܕ. The loss of final l is common in Jewish Babylonian Aramaic (including the JBA magic bowls), but is rarely attested in the Syriac bowls. For additional examples, see ܠܡܚܝܡ ܡܝܢ ܡܦܝ ܡܚ (JNF 216: 2–3) for ܠܡܦܝ ܠܡܚ ܠܡܚܝܡ ܠܡܝܢ (JNF 218: 2).

30 Cf. Matt 9: 35; 10: 1.

5. T27993

Syriac, Manichaean script. At the end of the incantation is a series of crosses. The incantation is enclosed by a circle. The writing begins near the center and spirals towards the rim. The writing is mostly washed out and the first three to four lines are entirely lost.
Linguistic features: Non-etymological ʿē: ܣܠܥܗ (line 10, for Hebrew סלה). Demonstrative pronoun ܗܕܝ (line 5, for Classical ܗܕܐ).
Clients: Name illegible (part of the name can probably be discerned in line 9, but the reading is uncertain).

former is also referred to as מריא איבול מלכא רבא דזעקי "Lord Ibol, the great king of the zaʿqa-spirits" in MS 1927/34: 10.[33] The use of magical paraphernalia belonging to a king or queen of demons implies that the exorcist can harness the power of the demonic sovereign against his or her subjects. Compare also the appeal to 𐡀𐡉𐡁𐡅𐡋 𐡅𐡇𐡉𐡋𐡄 "Ibol and his force" in Bowl 6: 14. For this general magical technique elsewhere in the magic bowls, see recently Gabbay 2010, especially p. 63; Ten-Ami 2013: 198–99.

10. 𐡅𐡁𐡓𐡉𐡕𐡄 𐡅𐡁𐡇𐡘 𐡅𐡁𐡇𐡑𐡑𐡌[𐡕] "his inner and outer threshold" – A reference to the "inner threshold" occurs in the Damascus Genizah magical booklet 4b: 1–2: וקבר באסקפתא גויתא "and bury (it) in the inner threshold" (Bohak and Morgenstern 2014: 29*). Cf. 𐡀𐡓𐡁𐡏 𐡅𐡊𐡕𐡄 𐡅𐡁𐡓𐡉𐡕𐡄 𐡅𐡁𐡇𐡘 𐡃𐡕𐡉 𐡅𐡁𐡇𐡑𐡑𐡌𐡕𐡄, "and the four corners of my house, and the thresholds of my inner and outer gates" (JNF 239: 5–6).

6. T27996

Syriac, Manichaean script. In the center is a cross within a small circle. The incantation is enclosed by a circle. The writing begins near the center and spirals toward the rim. Commentary

The introductory formula is lost and the legible portion of the text starts at the beginning of the main spell unit. It is at present one of the few spells with versions in all three dialects, Syriac, Mandaic and Jewish Babylonian Aramaic (see Müller-Kessler 1998). The incantation is first directed against a long series of demonic forces, mostly envisaged as types of demonized magical speech, i.e., witchcraft (lines 3–7). These are punished (line 3) and then sent back to the people who sent them against the client (lines 7–8). Sending witchcraft back to the witch is a common motif in the incantation bowls. See further Ford, forthcoming. Four angels are then invoked and asked to become guardians of the house and its inhabitants against various types of witchcraft-related phenomena: the evil eye, the envious glance, the plot of the evil heart, and the word of the slanderous tongue. Finally, the client, his household and his possessions are protectively sealed by means of a variety of magical signet rings and seals. For Ibol, see the commentary to Bowl 5, above. The signet ring of the angel Ḥalṭum is also mentioned in Jewish Aramaic bowls. For example, JNF 7: 6–7: אסיריתון וחתימיתון כולהון בעיזקתיה דחליטום דיממני על שיפטיא כולהון "You are all bound and sealed by the signet ring of Ḥaliṭum, who is appointed over all plagues."

7. ܢܗܦܟ "may they turn away" – Recent editors of the parallel Syriac bowls derive this verb from the common root ʾsr "to bind," in accordance with JBA ניתסרון "may they be bound" in the Borsippa bowl, line 7, and Mandaic litsrun "idem" in Greenfield and Naveh Lead Roll, col. b: 25 (see Müller-Kessler 1998: 335; Moriggi 2014: 157), but the morphology suggests a derivation from JBA סור "to turn aside" (Sokoloff 2002: 797). Cf. already Allotte de La Fuÿe's translation, "Qu'ils se retirent" (Allotte de La Fuÿe 1924: 394). The verb is otherwise attested with reference to demons in the Syriac incantation bowl AS 1: 17–18: ܗܕܐ ܗܘ ܢܗܦܟ ܘܢܬܪ ܘܢܦܩ ܡܢ ܩܕܡ ܗܠ[ܝ]ܢ ܫܡܗܬ ܕܟܬܝܒ ܗܟܐ "Rather, may it turn away and flee and go out quickly, quickly, quickly from before the[se] names that are written here."

10. ܒܝܢ "between" – For Classical ܒܝܬ. For the same reading in IM 60960: 10, see Moriggi 2014: 90. The form is independently attested in PC 16: 6: ܒܝܢ ܓܒܪܐ ܘܐܢܬܬܗ ܘܒܝܢ ܐܢܬܬܐ ܘܒܥܠܗ "and he casts strife between a man and his wife, and between a woman and her husband."

10. ܥܝܪ "alert" – The reading corresponds to ʿiria in the parallel Mandaic lead roll Macuch Ia: 48 (Müller-Kessler 1998: 338). For a discussion of the variant readings in the various versions of this passage, see Morgenstern and Ford, 2017: 200-203.

11. ܢܛܠ "they shall keep" – PC 1: 7 similarly reads ܢܛܠܩ. I tentatively identify the verb as ܛܠ (pa.) "to restrain, confine," but in a positive sense. Müller-Kessler 1998: 340 similarly translates unkllunan in the corresponding context in a Mandaic parallel as "und (sollen sie) zurückhalten … mich."

7. T27995

Mandaic. No drawing. Fairly good scribal hand. The text is written in a spiral beginning at the center of the bowl and continuing on the rim. The incantation is enclosed by a circle on the outside. Outside the circle, written parallel to the rim, is a label indicating the title of the spell. The central section and one side of the bowl are very badly faded, but much of the text can be read or reconstructed with the aid of the parallels.

Commentary

There are reasonable grounds to assume that the current bowl originally belonged to a set of two bowls that together contained the well-documented spell "Bound is heaven and bound is earth." This phenomenon occasionally occurs among the Mandaic bowls, where one finds evidence for sets of two or more bowls carrying sequential texts. See, for example, MS 1928/05 and MS 1928/06 (two of an original set of at least three bowls); MS 2054/19 and MS 2054/43.[39] In the present case the bowl must have been the second bowl of the set, as the text begins abruptly in the middle of the spell. The first line or two are lost, but it is clear that there is not enough room for the entire spell. All other parallels include a very interesting beginning directed against various demons associated with place-names (for example, "Bit Iurba," "Bit Bganit," "Bit Sidmus," "Bit Ṣarpiel"). Furthermore, the label on the outside gives the title of the spell by quoting its opening words, ʿsira šumia uʿsira arqa, "Bound is heaven and bound is earth," but this phrase is not preserved on our bowl, nor does it seem to have originally been contained in the lost lines at the beginning of the text. In the second part of the spell, that represented by our bowl, the various demons are adjured to leave the client and his household and possessions, otherwise the angel Yohabil, whose name derives from the root ḥbl "to destroy," will come against them and bind them in prison.

9. umn zirḇ ḏ-bdibrḇ umn b[z]irḇ ḏ-mata "and from his seed that (he sowed) in his open field and from his seed that (he sowed) in the inhabited area" – In light of the parallelism (ḏ-bdibrḥ // ḏ-mata) and the parallel versions (for example, MS 1928/53: 19: mn zirḥ ḏ-bdibrḥ mn bzira ḏ-bmata), it is seems reasonable to suggest a phonetic process of assimilation such as: də+bəmāṭā > dəbmāṭā > dəmmāṭā.

9–10. [ḏ-nihdar bhdar] hdrnḇ ḏ-b[ita] "[that comes round] about the house" – For a similar sequence see Ginza Yamina (ed. Petermann) 169: 16–17: mia siauia hdar hudranh ḏ-alma "The black waters encircled the circumference of the world." Defective spellings for the vowel /u/ are very rare in Mandaic, however the regular spelling of hudrana in the bowls appears to be without the mater lectionis. The spelling hdrana could reflect a different nominal pattern (i.e., hadrānā), or possibly graphic omission following the hā ـــ.

39 For similar examples from Jewish Aramaic magic bowls, see Shaked, Ford and Bhayro 2013: 217. There are no holes in the bowl or bitumen residue that would suggest that our bowl was physically fastened together with the second bowl. For the fastening of pairs of magic bowls together facing each other, often containing identical texts, see Levene 2011: 224–27, 233–43; Ford and Levene 2012: 54, and the bibliography cited in the former study.

10. ʿusrḫ “his bond” – The parallels read ʿsurḫ (or ʿsura ḏ-hiia “the bond of Life”). The spelling ʿusra similarly appears in the Princeton Mandaic Bowl, line 16: bhahu ʿusra ḏ-ʿtsra bḫ “by that bond by which was bound.”[40]

8. T28002

Mandaic. In the center is a small blank circle. The writing begins near the center and spirals towards the rim. The initial lines are jagged and difficult to follow. On the outside of the bowl is a large drawing of a demon en face with raised hands. The demon is enclosed by a circle and seems to be bound and shackled. There is also a label indicating the title of the spell. It is written parallel to the rim and enclosed by a line. The writing is very faded, but much of the text can be read or reconstructed with the aid of the parallels.

Commentary

The bowl contains the formula "Suppressed is the House" in its entirety. The main function of the formula is to ensure that all the elements of the client's house are protected. Some elements are of a physical nature (for example, "roof," "gates," "windows," "residence," "structure") whereas others are spiritual (for example, "the mysteries of the house," "the seven mysteries of the temple-spirits"). The list of evil spirits to be suppressed contains the usual types of demons known from numerous Mandaic bowls ("sahra-spirits," "dēvs," "demons," "spirits," "amulet-spirits," "liliths"), but it also includes a specific reference to ruha ḏ-qudša "the Holy Spirit," viewed by the Mandaeans as the mother of all demons. The label on the outside gives the title of the spell used in the incantation by quoting its opening words, kbiš bita "Suppressed is the house." The same title is given in the label on the parallel bowl BM 91748.

8. riš(uat)un "the heads of the temple-spirits" – For the use of the plural ending -(a)wātā with the masculine noun riša in all three eastern Aramaic dialects see Nöldeke 1875: 167; Nöldeke 1904: 344. If our reading is correct, this would be the first occurrence of this form in the Mandaic epigraphic corpus. Contrast what is apparently to be read ri[šai]kun in line 15.

REVIEWS

Notes on the Mandaic Incantation Bowls in the British Museum

J. B. Segal, with a contribution by E. C. D. Hunter, Catalogue of the Aramaic and Mandaic Incantation Bowls in the British Museum (British Museum Press, London 2000).[1]

To regard Professor J. B. Segal's Catalogue of the Aramaic and Mandaic Incantation Bowls in the British Museum as a "catalogue" would be a great injustice, for it is actually a detailed edition of the largest corpus of incantation bowls published to date. The study comprises a transliteration (into Roman script) and translation of, and commentary on 75 bowls in Jewish Aramaic, 40 bowls and some fragments in Mandaic and 4 bowls in Syriac, most of which have never been published before. 159 plates containing photographs of all the bowls (including 22 additional bowls in pseudoscripts) are also provided. The photographs are of good quality and allow the reader to check most of Segal's readings.

Segal has supplemented his study with concordances of the fixed formulae and standard texts, the latter referred to as 'refrains'. Indices of the various types of proper names and glossaries of the vocabulary of each of the languages represented in the bowls (including Hebrew) also facilitate the use of the book. All occurrences of the various forms of each word are cited, except in the case of the most common forms. An in-depth study of the grammar of the various dialects, however, is naturally beyond the scope of such a work. For the Jewish Aramaic bowls, see now H. Juusola, Linguistic Peculiarities in the Aramaic Magic Bowl Texts (Studia Orientalia, 86: Helsinki 1999).

The author enjoyed the collaboration of several other scholars, most notably E. C. D. Hunter, who wrote a chapter on the physical features and decorative aspects of the bowls and prepared a Table of Scripts containing examples of the script of all the legible bowls. Hunter also added introductory comments concerning the physical features of the individual bowls at the beginning of each commentary and provided scaled drawings of the cross-sections of the bowls and hand-copies of the drawings of demons and magical symbols, etc., which occur on some of them. C. Walker contributed a Table of Registration Numbers and Provenances and a Table of Clients.

[1] It is a great pleasure and priviledge to dedicate this review to the master of incantation bowls, Professor Shaul Shaked. May there be healing and sealing and arming and protection for his body and his spirit and his soul and for his house and his dwelling and his residence and his building and for his spouse and his sons and his daughters and for all his undertakings.

Professor Segal's study of the British Museum collection of Aramaic, Mandaic and Syriac incantation bowls provides an indispensable tool for further research on this genre. As will be seen below, however, his readings and translations are sometimes problematic, and scholars unfamiliar with the scripts and languages of the bowls should therefore use them with caution. In addition, the author generally refrains from reconstructing the text when the bowl is broken or effaced. Prudence in such matters is a great virtue, but the fomulaic nature of many of the incantations and the occurrence of duplicates often allow reconstruction with a high degree of certainty, and the translations of a number of the bowls would have profited from such an approach. The present author hopes that the following comments will facilitate the use of the Mandaic section.[2]

[2] New readings are based on the photographs published in Segal's study. The author would like to thank Professor Shaked for making available photographs of unpublished bowls from the Martin Schøyen collection (cited as MS), which often facilitated the understanding of the British Museum bowls, and for help in translating several difficult passages. The present author has usually refrained from comment in cases where Segal's reading appears doubtful, but a more likely solution is not evident. An examination of original photographs or a collation of the bowl will hopefully settle such questions. Reconstructions anticipated by Segal's translations are generally not proposed unless the lacuna occurs within a segment of the text otherwise under discussion.

Segal's method of transcription has been followed with the exception of $\bar{d}$, which is here rendered $\underline{d}$ and separated from the following word by a hyphen. When citing Segal's transcription or translation, square brackets containing three dots ([...]) have been used to signify lacunae or unreadable text, regardless of the specific method employed by Segal. Some of the reconstructions are anticipated by Segal. 1: lypqwn "May they ...be expelled": The verb NPQ (Peʿal) "to go out, come out, leave, depart" (Drower-Macuch, p. 304a) would best be rendered "to be expelled" in the context of the forcible exorcism of demons. 4: d̲-hʾzyn (b)ʾytʾ: Segal reconstructs d̲-[hzyn b]ʾytʾ in his note to line 4, but hʾzyn is readable.

078M: 3–4: mwmʾytʾ lyʾswr ...qyryʾtʾ "An oath for Yaswar ...the invocations" — read: qʾrʾyth̲ lyʾswr mlʾkʾ wʾwmyth̲ wʾmrylh̲ lyh̲ wlkwlhyn (4) qryʾtʾ "I hereby call Yaswar the angel, and bid him take an oath, and say to him, to him and to all (4) the imprecations".

ʾmrylḥ is a 1 c.s. perf. form (<ʾmryt); for the loss of the final t, see Nöldeke, Mandäische Grammatik, §170. 5: wmhdrylwn wʾzlyn "and go around and are gone" — read: wmhrbylwn wʾzlyn "and destroy them and go about". 6: yʾdʾ — read: yʾdnʾ. 6–7: kwlhyn qryʾtʾk ... bbtyʾ {(wbgd)yʾ} "all your invocations ... in the houses" — read: kwlhyn qryʾtʾk (7) ˆd-zwtyʾˆ rʾ(ʾ)btʾ(yʾ d-)htyʾ bbtyʾ wʾ(bp)gryʾ "all your imprecations (7) which are small (or) great which harm the houses and the bodies". 7–8: d-lʿqrʾ (8) wlʿkynpʾ (wnʾpqʾ): "for root (8) and for wing! There will go forth" — read: d-lʿqrʾ (8) wlʿkynpʾ (wnʿpqʾ) "that they may flee (8) and take wing and be expelled". Similarly, line 10 (below). Cf. 076M, lines 4 and 6 (above). 8: wmn qwdʾmʾy dylyʾ ʾbdrhmʾn "even before me, Abdrahman": this is probably a dittograph. 9: rʾzʾ wmlʾlʾ "the mystery and the spell" — read: (b)rʾzḥ wmlʾlḥ "by the mystery and the spell". 9: mlʾkʾ wkwlhyn "the angel, and all" — read: mlʾkʾ ʾ(nʾt) wkwlhyn "the angel, you and all". 10: [...]hyn lʿqrʾ wlʿkynpʾ wnʿpqʾn "[...] For root and for wing!" — read: hʿnyn lʿqrʾ wlʿkynpʾ wnʿpqʾn "may they flee and take wing and be expelled". 10: bšnyrʾy — read: bšnyrʾh. Cf. below, lines 15–17. This spelling is apparently a variant of bšnyrʾ, a short form of bšnyrʾy (cf. Segal's note to 077M:8 [p. 104]). It also occurs in 079M:9,10 and 080M:8. 11: šʾhpryd[...]whlyn ʿmwmʾtyʾ "Šahafrid [...] And these adjurations of mine" — read: šʾhpryd ʿw (hʾzyn) rʾzʾ ltysʾb whlyn ʿmwmʾtʾ "Šahafrid. If you do not take this mystery and these adjurations". 11: wnʿšdwn "and cast" — read: wnʿšdwnʾk "and cast you". 12: bm(ʿdyr)tʾ rbtyʾ d-nyrʾ "by the great Share of the Plough" — read: bmrkybtʾ rbtyʾ d-nwrʾ "by a great chariot of fire". 12–13: ʾlh ... bʾythḥ "the god ... the house" — read: ʾlʾ(h)ʾ d-t[...] wtypwq ʾ(nʾ)t wkwlhyn šwrbʾtʾk m(n) hʾz[y]n bʾyth "the god, that you [...] and be expelled, you and all your tribes, from this house". 13: (wmn) [...] "and from [...]" — read: (wmn) bnʾywn (wmyn bnʾ)[twn] "and from their sons and from [their] daughters". 15 17: d-bšny (16) rʾ h (17) (wy) [...] "Belonging to Bašni (16) ra L (17) (ife) — read: d-bšny (16) rʾh (17) h(w) "It (the bowl) belongs to Bašnirah". Cf. above, line 10.

Note to line 3: Segal's claim on p. 31 that "verbs of adjuration in 1st sing perf" are "extended by alef" is fallacious. In the present example (ʾwmytʾ), the alef is in fact the accusative suffix pronoun -ḥ, as noted above (for further examples of YMA [Afʿel] + accusative suffix pronoun, see Drower-Macuch, p. 192b). All of his other examples concern the verb ŠBA (Afʿel) "to adjure," where the alef derives from sandhi writing of the verb and the following preposition (ʿl). Cf. Aramaic ʾšbʿyt ʿl (e.g., 027A:4: ʾšbʿyt ʿlykwn).

079M: 1: hyyʾ "(Victorious is) Life" — read: [bšwmʾ(yhwn)] (d-)h[y]yʾ "[In the name] of Life". 3: ʾbʾn gwšnʾhp — read: ʾbʾn gwšnʾ(s)p. Segal (note to line 3) posits a scribal error for ʾbʾn gwšnʾsp, but this would seem to be the actual reading. 3: wb[...] "and Ba[...] — read: kby[š...] "suppre[ssed is...]." It does not seem possible to read the first letter as w. A reading db[šnyrʾh...] "of Ba[šnirah...]" seems epigraphically less likely than kby[š...] and, moreover, would entail an emendation of the text to <w>db[šnyrʾh...] "<and> of Ba[šnirah...]" (cf. lines 9 and 10 [below]). If the proposed reading is correct, the length of the lacuna suggests the following reconstruction: kby[š hyšwkʾ myn qwdʾm nhwrʾ wkbyš] (4) kwlḥ hylḥ d-hyšwkʾ myn qwdʾm kwlḥ hylḥ d-nhwrʾ ˆrbʾˆ "suppre[ssed is darkness before light and suppressed is] (4) all the power of darkness before all the power of great light". Cf. 084M:18–19 and 023A:4. 6: wʿl: "and to" — translate: "and against". 7: rbʾ zywʾ "great [...] radiance" — read: ...bʾytʾ "...house". 8: wʿl kwlhwn dywʾ "and to all the devils" — read: wʿl kwlhwn ʿ(t)yt "and against all of them I came". 9: dʾbdrhmʾn — read: d-ʾbdrhmʾn. 9: wdbšnyrʾy — read: wdbšnyrʾ(h). 10: wdbšnyrʾy pt šʾhpryd — read: wdbšnyrʾh pt šʾhʾpryd.

2: ʾbdrhmʾn (Segal: ʾbrhymʾn): Cf. the form of the r in br (line 2) and elsewhere in the text. 6: b... "c[reated]": The translation is suggested by the context (see the bibliography cited by Segal, p. 107). The verb would seem to begin with b, as read by Segal. A derivation from BNʾ "to build" is likely, but the present author is not able to make sense of the subsequent traces. Cf. ptʾhyl bʾnyʾ šwmyʾ wʾrqʾ

"Ptahil, the creator of heaven and earth" (Ginza Yamina [ed. Petermann], 227, 22–23). Cf. also the verb BR' "to create" (Drower-Macuch, p. 69b). Note that Mandaic b'ny' "creator (lit. builder)" parallels Akkadian bānû "creator" (CAD, B, p. 94; cf. banû A, meaning 3 "to create, said of a deity" [CAD, B, pp. 87–89a]) and Ugaritic bny "creator" (G. del Olmo Lete and J. Sanmartín, Diccionario de la lengua ugarítica [Aula Orientalis — Supplementa, 7: Barcelona 1996/2000], p. 114a). 7: l'qrwn'kwn "they shall extirpate you" (<'QR [Drower-Macuch, p. 34]). Segal derives this verb from QR' "to call," translating "their kings will ...denounce you," but the context suggests another verb referring to the expulsion of the demons. Cf. M. H. Lichtenstein, Episodic Structure in the Ugaritic Keret Legend: Comparative Studies in Compositional Technique (Columbia University Ph.D. Thesis: 1979), pp. 311–338, who discusses the use of the Aramaic cognate 'QR "to extirpate" and its interdialectal equivalents in incantations directed against demons. In the corpus of the British Museum bowls, cf. 034A:2. For the intransitive homonym 'QR (<*'RQ) "to flee," see 076M:2,3,4,6.

081M: 5: nqb't- read: nwqb't'. 8: kyy'tyb ... ml'ky' "seated ... angels" — read: kd y'tyb bškynt' d-npš[h w]ml'ky' "seated in [his] own dwelling [and] (I saw) the angels". 9: d-q'ymy' 'l'w' "as they stood on high" — read: d-q'ymy' 'l'wh "who serve him (lit. who stand in his presence)". Cf. d-q'ym qwd'm "who serves (lit. who stands before)" (107M:10' and 17' [below]). The Mandaic expressions parallel Hebrew 'MD 'l "to serve (lit. to stand in the presence of)" (e.g., Gen. 18:8) and Akkadian (ina/ana) pān PN izuzzu "to serve (lit. to stand before) PN" (AHw., p. 409a, meaning I,2: "[dienend] stehen vor"). 9: wmytgmry' l'trw'n 'trw'n "and perfected in diverse places" — translate: "and take possession of diverse places". 9: bh[...]rwh'ywn "with [...] their spirits" — read: bh[wmr'ywn wb]rwh'ywn "with their h[umartas and with] their spirits". 10: wlṣ'wy' "and to defile" — translate: "and to desolate". The parallel with lhrwby' "to destroy" suggests a derivation from the root ṢW', otherwise attested in Mandaic in the Pe'al Stem with the meaning "to languish, pine, wither away, dry up" (see Drower-Macuch, p. 390a). Cf. 107M:14' and 20' (below). 10: wl'šwṭ [...]d' d-hyy' "and to make foolish ...[Man]da dHiia" — read: wl'šwṭ[y' bny' šwrb' r]b' d-hyy' "and to render sense[less the children of the gr]eat [family] of Life". 11: 'n' bhyl'y ... d-lwn mn (byt) by rb' q'dm'yy' d-hw(' 'l'w')y q'd[...] "I, in my power ...that [...] (went forth (?)) from my great primeval house that was above the prim[eval...]" — read: 'n' bhyl'y ... d-lwn mn byt bwrb' q'dm'yy' d-hw(' 'l'w')y q'(m)[yt...] "I, by my power ...that accompanied me from the house of the great primeval father, that was upon me, st[ood...]". Cf. DC 37, 367: bh'yl' d-mn byt 'b lw'n "by the power that accompanied me from the house of my father". The latter text suggests that byt bwrb' q'dm'yy' is a contraction of byt 'bw rb' q'dm'y' "the house of the great primeval father," which occurs in a magical context in DC 26, 60–61: q'l' d-'t'ly' mn byt 'bw rb' q'dm'y' "the voice which came to me from the house of the great primeval father." Cf. also the occurrence of the same expression in Ginza Yamina (ed. Petermann) 208, 10–11 // 209, 20–21 in a mythological context. For additional references to byt 'bw "house of the father," see Drower-Macuch, p. 1a, s.v. ab 3. 12: byt šwby'hy' "(in) the house of the planets," — translate: "The house of the planets". 12: w'š[...] — read: w'š[tw'š...] "and were cast into con[fusion...]". 13: bykl't' "upon brides": The reading seems correct (cf. the k in lml'ky' [line 8]), but this is probably a distortion of bydl't' "among children," as the parallels (e.g., MS 1928/25) read by'ld't' or the like. 13: lnqwpy' "to stab" — translate: "to strike down". 13: ]qr't 'lw'ywn "She invoked against them" — read: gy]mr't 'lw'ywn "she set over them". 13: wlṣ'ywdy' nšy' "and ensare [sic] women" — read: wlṣ'ywry' '(n)šy' "and to molest women". 14–15: d-'pky' ... wmhrby' b'ty' "that overturned ...and destroying houses" — read: d-'pky' 'lbb'[ywn d-bny' 'n'š'...] wbbyny'nwn wmytqry' b'lm' g'ṭly' g'ṭl' wmhrby' b'ty' "that pervert the hearts [of humans...] and in their buildings, and are called in the world 'murderers' and 'destroyers of houses' ". 16: Read: [byt' (...)] (d-)'kwry' wr<wh'> whmrt' 'tbh z(m)' d-ywn' ('w) t'rn'wl['] (h)yw'r' p(w)š bmy' "[the house (...)] in which there are temple-spirits and sp<irit(s)> and humarta(s). Dilute the blood of a dove or a white cock in water". The text contains instructions for a magical praxis. For the use of a "white cock" in Jewish ritual and magic, see D. Levene, "'...and by the name of Jesus ...' An Unpublished Magic Bowl in Jewish Aramaic," Jewish Quarterly Studies 6 (1999), pp. 292–293, and S. Shaked, "Jesus in the Magic Bowls. Apropos Dan Levene's '...and by the name of Jesus ...'," ibid., pp. 309–311. 17: lkwl m'n d-'qr'yt' d-'(t)r' 'ml' "to everyone of the invocations of Uthra 'Amla" — read: lkwl m'n d-'qr'yt' d-'(kwr') 'tlh "for anyone who has (i.e., is suffering from) an imprecation of a temple-spirit". 18: m'šwy' — read: m'šwy'. 18: wlb[...] zykry' "and for their s[ons] [...] male" — read: wlb[n'ywn] (zykry') "and for [their] male so[ns]". 20: d-y'w'r "of Yawar" — read: 'l klyl nhw 'y'r "Upon the wreath of the light of air". This phrase, which is the opening line of the basic incantation (see line 5), is written below a line encircling the incantation and serves as a label for the bowl.

082M: 10–11: mn 'l'n' (11) ... twšbyht' "From a tree (11) ...praise" — read: mn gwpn' (11) d-mly' btryṣwt' wmn 'l'n' d-kwlh twšbyht' "From a vine (11) that is full of uprightness and from a tree that all of it is praise". Contrary to Segal, mly' b "full of" provides an excellent parallel to kwlh "all of it." The pronominal suffix in kwlh refers to 'l'n' "tree," not twšbyht' "praise," as in Segal's translation. Cf. Ginza Yamina (ed. Petermann) 189, 14-15: gwpn' d-kwlh hyy' w'l'n' rb' d-kwlh 's'w't' "a vine that all of it is life and a great tree that all of it is remedies" (cf. Drower-Macuch, p. 85a, s.v. gupna and ibid., p. 351a, s.v. ʿlana), where the pronominal suffix is in each case unambiguous. 11: ṣ'yrn' b'yt' b'rby' z'wy't' "I draw the shape of a house with four corners" — read: ṣ'yrn' b'yt' b'rby' z'wy'tḥ "I encircle the house at its four (inner ?) corners". The verb ṣ'yrn' in this text would appear to be derived from ṢUR II "to surround, hem in, encompass, ..." (Drower-Macuch, p. 391a), not ṢUR I "to form, shape, ..., depict, trace" (Drower-Macuch, ibid.), as implied by Segal's translation, although Segal himself understands the text to refer to the magical encircling of the house (see p. 28). Note the collocation with ṣwrt' "(magic) circle" (line 12) [see below], which Drower-Macuch, p. 391b, derive from ṢUR II, and the parallel ṣ'yrn' "I encircle" // htymn' "I seal" (lines 13–14). 11–12: 'rby' z'wy't' ... 'rby' qrn't' "four corners ... four horns" — read: 'rby' z'wy'tḥ ... 'rby' qrn'tḥ "its four (inner ?) corners ... its four (outer ?) corners". For q'rn' "(outer ?) corner," see Drower-Macuch, p. 403a, s.v. qarna, meaning c: "corner, projection". Cf. the Akkadian word-pair tubqu //šaḫātu "outer corner // inner corner" (see CAD, Š/1, p. 82b, meaning 1a:2'). 12: ṣ'yrn' ... bš'b' ṣb't' "I draw the shape ... with seven fingers" — read: ṣ'yrn' š'b' dmw't' ḏ-hyšwk' bš'b' ṣwr't' "I encircle seven images of darkness with seven (magic) circles". 14–15: bh'zyn pwgd'm' ... bh'zyn b'yt' "by this word ... in this house" — read: bh'zyn pwgd'm' ḏ-qr' hybyl m'ry' ʿl š'b' dmw't' (15) ḏ-h[yšwk' ḏ-]hwbḥ kḏ 'pk' wnpq' mn qwd'mḥ ṭ'bwt' wrw'h' ḏ-š'wy' hybyl tyhwybḥ bh'zyn b'yt' "by this word which the Lord Hibil invoked against the seven images (15) of da[rkness that] were in it (the house), as they (the demonic images) turned and were expelled from before him (or 'it' [the word] ?). May the goodness and ease that Hibil established be in this house". The bottom of the k in h[yšwk'] is visible in the photograph and indicates that there is space in the lacuna for an additional letter (i.e., ḏ) before hwbḥ. 16: w'l pgr' "and for the body" — translate: "and upon the body".

083M: As noted by Segal, much of this bowl parallels McCullough (1967), Bowl C. It also parallels DC 43B. 3–6: ʿsyr[...] ... bnḥ "Bound be ... her sons" — read: ʿsyry['] (b'by') ḏ- šywl br'z' ḏ- ʿsyry' gyrmy' myty' w'[syry]' h(')r[by'...] (ḏ-)byldb'by' mn pgrḥ ḏ-b'š[nyr'y pt] (š)h [...] (zwḥ w)bnḥ "Bound are the gates [of Sheol by the mystery of] Leviathan. Bound are the dead bones and [bound] are the sword[s and....] of the enemies from the body of Baš[niray daughter] of Šahafrid [...] her spouse and her sons". 6–7: pkyr ... h'zyn "fettered ... this..." — read: pkyr h['mš' (7) ml'ky' ḏ-'l]m' h'zyn "tied up are the f[ive (7) angels of] this [wo]rld". Cf. McCullough (1967), Bowl C:4–5. 7: wmn ʿl'yy' mn[...] "and above [...]" — read: wmn ʿl'wy' (my)['ʿsyr h]ylḥ [mn] (r)qʿ(h)' "and from above the waters. There is not enough space in the lacuna for Segal's entire restoration, "fire in which they dwell," although it is based on the parallel passage in McCullough (1967), Bowl C:9 (nwr' ḏ-y'tbybhyn), nor do the traces fit nwr' "fire" alone. Read possibly [hšw "darkness." 9: wyldḥ whlb' wbnḥ "and her child and Halba and his sons" — read: wyldḥ whlbḥ wbnḥ "and her infant and her milk and her sons". Segal understands hlb' (here read hlbḥ) to be the husband of Bašniray's (female) child (yldḥ [var. yld'tḥ]). Segal bases his interpretation primarily on several passages in 084M (especially lines 3–4 and 13) where the vocable is followed by zwḥ "her spouse," the latter analyzed by Segal as standing in apposition to hlb'. In the present text, however, no matronym or reference to a relation of hlbḥ with respect to any other person is given, which would be unusual were the vocable to refer to one of the clients. This suggests that hlbḥ is not the name of a person. Furthermore, yldḥ most likely refers to a young child, who would surely not be married. hlbḥ is therefore tentatively understood as "her milk." The bowl was apparently written not long after Bašniray had given birth, at a time when she was particularly concerned for the well-being of her infant, including a sufficient supply of mother's milk. Although "(mother's) milk" is not otherwise known by the present author to occur in such lists of people/objects for whom/which protection is requested in Aramaic incantations, demons are nevertheless sometimes said to harm a woman's milk. See, for example, MS 1928/53:15–16: 'zl' wš'ry' ʿl hdy'yhwn ḏ-ʿnšy' ... wn'sb' hlb'yhwn myn'yhwn wmṭnp'ly' wmṣy'lhyn "(the demon who) goes around and haunts the breasts of women ... and takes their milk from them and pollutes it and sucks them". 10–11: lṭwpr[...] blygr'ywn — read: lṭwpr(y' ḏ-)blygr (11) (wmn ṭw)[p](ry' ḏ-)blygr'ywn. See Segal's translation. 12: ḏ-sm lwn lʿdn'- read: ḏ-sm'lwn lʿwdn'. 13: "and her child and Halba" — translate: "and her infant and her milk". See above, line 9. 14–15: bšwmḥ ḏ-zhyr ... ḏ-hy' "In the name of zhyr ... of Lif[e]" — read: bšwmḥ ḏ-zhyr smyr<...>zyw' rb' q'dm'yy' bš'ršyr' wbz'rzʿyl ʿsyqt' wg' [yl] (15) ml'k' wnydmy' ʿkwr'y(kwn) lmy' (q'ryry') ḏ-(rmy' bp)yry['w]ys (y)'rdn' rb' ḏ-hy[y]' "By the name of Zhir Smir, the great primeval <...> Ziwa, by a chain, and by Zar[ziel the signet-ring, and Gab]riel (15) the angel. And may your temple resemble the cold water that is found in Piryawis, the great Jordan of Life". Cf. DC 43B, 15–18 (unpublished): bš'r šyr' ḏ-'rq' (16) bz'rzyʿyl ʿsyqt' wg'brʿyl m'l'k' bšwmyḥ zhyr wsmyr (17) ywsmyr zyw' rb' q'dm'y' br hyy' rby' ryš'yy' md'my' ʿl (18) kwb'k [read: ʿkwr'k] 'lm<y>' q'ryry' "By a chain of the earth, (16) by Zarziel the signet-ring, and Gabriel the angel, by his name, Zhir and Smir, (17) the great primeval Yusmir Ziwa son of the great first Life. (18) Your temple resembles the cold water."[3] In McCullough (1967), Bowl C:14–15, read similarly: bšwršyr' wbzrz'yl 'syqt' wg'r'yl ml'k' bšwm' d-zhyr smyr yws[m]yn zyw' rb' q(d)m'y(yḥ) br (15) hy^y^'...nydmy' ......ly' q[r]yry'. The parallels suggest that in 083M the name ywsmyr, or the like, has been omitted between smyr and zyw', presumably by haplography. The phrase wnydmy' 'kwr'y(kwn) ... "And may your temple resemble ..." in its entirety is paralleled by MIT, 16:9–11. Cf. also DC 29, 219–220 (// Drower, JRAS [1937], p. 593, lines 26–27): nyd'my' 'kwr'k lmy' q' (220)ryry'. A number of Jewish Aramaic incantation bowls exibit a literary dependence on part of the formula in 083M:14–15 and parallels. E.g., Isbell, 50:2: bš[w]ršyr' bzwzmry b'yzqtyh dywkbrzyw' br rby "by a chain, by zwzmry, by the signet-ring of Yukabar Ziwa son of Rabbi". In addition to bš[w]ršyr', which exactly parallels bšwršyr' in McCullough (1967), Bowl C:14, compare b'yzqtyh with 'syqt' and ywkbrzyw' br rby with ywsmyr zyw' ... br hyy' rby'. Cf. Ch. Müller-Kessler, "Puzzling words and spellings in Babylonian Aramaic magic bowls," BSOAS 62 (1999), pp. 111–112. A Syriac bowl has elements of both the Mandaic and Jewish Aramaic versions (MS 2055/13:8–9): bšyršyr' bzyw zymr' bzrzy'yl ('yz)qt' rbt' dḥtym' bh šmy' w'r' "by a chain, by zyw zymr', by Zarziel the great signet-ring by which are sealed the heavens and the earth." 16–17: Read: w'(s)wt' ... wn wz'kw[t'] wṭ'bwt wn'(ṭ)r' rb' d-šr'r' nyhwy[lḥ] (l)pgrḥ rwhḥ wnyšymtḥ (17) d-(b)'šnyr'y pt šhy wlz[wḥ] ('bd)[rhm'n] br mwy' wlbn'ywn zykry' wlbn'twn nwqb't' [wlby]t'ywn (dw)[r'ywn...] "and may there be hea[ling ... and gu]arding and victor[y] and good[ness] and a great and steadfast protective (charm) for the body, spirit and soul (17) of Ba[šniray daughter of Šaha]frid and for [her] spouse Abd[rahman] son of [M]išoya and for their male sons and for their female daughters and for their [hou]se, [their] dwe[lling...]". For the reading n'ṭr' (Segal: n'wr' "Mirror"), see Müller-Kessler (1996), p. 190. 18: [...] wym'n 'sy' "[...] the healer" — read: b'(swt)[ḥ] d-m'n 'sy' "by the healing of Man, the healer". 19 (beneath the line): ...(hw) "It is ...". This would appear to be a label.

084M: The epigraphic notes are followed by a provisional retranslation of the entire text. The text comprises two independent incantations, which are separated by a line. The first (lines 1–12) parallels 085M (cf. Segal, p. 114). The second (lines 13–20) parallels DC 37, 399–414. On the base of the bowl is a label (lines 21–22). For a commentary to the translation and a discussion of the parallel DC 37, 399–414, see my forthcoming study, "Another Look at the Mandaic Incantation Bowl BM 91715," JANES 29 (2002) 4: hlb' — read: hlbḥ. The initial w would appear to have been corrected from an original l, the latter read by Segal. Cf. wmlkwt' in the parallel phrase in line 7 and wmlkw't' in 085M:6. 7: hw'yz'k mn b'ytḥ 'pqwyḥ hw'yz'k — read: wh'yz'k mn b'^y^tḥ 'pqwyḥ wh'yz'k. 7: m'g'ṭt — read: {m}<t>'g' <lg'>ṭt. The m is a mistake for t caused by the similarity between the two signs. <lg'> was omitted by haplography. 8: wk'lt hw'yz'k — read: 'k'lt wh'yz'k. 8: wt'nlyk — read: wt'nwlyk. 9: l(k)wnyk — read: ldwnyk. 10: whydymyt — read: whrymyt. 10: whdymy' — read: whrymy'. 12: lhlb' — read: lhlbḥ. 13: lb'šnr'y — read: lb'šnyr'y. 13: hlb' — read: hlbḥ. 14: wdyš'rmyly' — read: wryš' rmyly'. 14: dlyly't' — read: d-lyly't'. 15: ṭypy' — read: ṭwpy'. 15: ···read: ~~'kl'~~. 15: dygb'y — read: (l)ygr'y. 15–16: [...] — read: ['br'yy']. 17: sykyn' sykyn — read: bsykyn' skyn. 18–19: wkbyš (19) 'mhwt' — read: wkbyš' (19) myht'. 19: ldšk'b — read: l(')šk'b. 20: d-s'n'ly — read: d-s'ny'ly'. 21–22: 'syr (22) (h)tym — read: 'syr' (22) 'tw't'.

The following translation may be proposed:

(1) In the name of Life. May there be healing (2) and sealing and arming and protection and victory for the body, (3) spirit and soul of Bašniray daughter of Šahafrid and for her spouse and her infant, (4) her milk, her spouse and her sons and her daughters and her bed and her pillow. Your name is Azaṭ and you are called Arwazaṭ, (5) O youngest of (your) sisters and eldest of the female goddesses. You surely remember, (6) or I shall indeed remind you: when Šamiš took the crown and received the kingship, he reigned three hundred and sixty-(7)one years. Then they expelled him from his house. Then you, evil lilith, <too>k the crown and received the kingship (8) (and) reigned three hundred and sixty-one years. Then they expelled you from your house and they placed your cash box upon your head (9) and the cash box of your dowry upon your mlūg-property and made you take your mlūg-property in your hands and expelled you from the land of the Egyptians. And you said: I am (10) the lilith who has harmed the children of Adam. You are shackled and banned and rebuked and reproved. The mysteries which are in your mouth are shackled and banned. (11) Your arms are tied behind your back, your frame is bent to the earth and a great cord of iron is wrapped about you. You are bound by those mysteries that the fathers of your fathers (12) are bound within them. May there be healing and sealing and arming and protection for her milk, her spouse and her sons and her daughters and her bed and her pillow.

[3] Drower-Macuch, p. 161a, s.v. zarzi'il, incorrectly read z'rzy'yl 'syqt' d-g'bry'yl ml'k' "Zarziel, the signet-ring of Gabriel the angel." The reading bšwm z'rzy'yl 'syqt' d-g'bry'yl m'l'k' "In the name of Zarziel, the signet-ring of Gabriel the angel" does occur, however, in DC 43H, 28. Although DC 43H does not otherwise parallel DC 43B, the corrupt nature of the latter text suggests the possibility that DC 43H may preserve the original reading of the phrase. In such a case, the relevant lacunae in the incantation bowls paralleling DC 43B should be reconstructed accordingly. For š'r šyr' d-'rq', cf. R. Macuch, "Altmandäische Bleirollen (erster Teil)," in F. Altheim and R. Stiehl, Die Araber in der alten Welt, IV (Berlin 1967), p. 130, lines 17–18 and p. 187.

(13) May there be healing and sealing and arming for Bašniray daughter of Šahafrid and for her infant, her milk, her spouse, and her sons and her daughters. The signs that I, Bašniray, saw in my dream: it seemed I was strapped and doubly strapped, strapped (14) with straps of iron and chained with chains of lead, indeed thrown face down beneath a bed of iron, copper and lead, and I was filled with the water of sahras and (my) head was placed upon the skulls of liliths. On my (15) left were torrents of water; on my right a knife, a knife of death, violence (and) destruction; at my pillow a mace of radiance; at my feet a great axe of exorcisms; above my head an (16) [extraordinary] arrow. (17) The dēw which will come against me from the right shall be smitten by the great mace of radiance! The dēw which will come against me from the left shall be smitten by the knife, the knife of death, violence (and) destruction! The dēw that comes against me at my pillow will be smitten by the great axe of exorcisms! (18) The dēw that comes (against me) above (my) head will be smitten by the extraordinary arrow! Suppressed, suppressed is darkness before light, and suppressed is destruction before construction, and suppressed is error before truth and suppressed are (19) blow(s) before healing. And for Bašniray daughter of Šahafrid may there be healing and may she lie down for good and pleasant dreams — but for hateful dreams may my hater, the piṭyaruta-demon (20) that hates me, lie down. And Life is victorious!

References to a similarly named demon, Špwpty, occur in a number of unpublished

Jewish Aramaic incantation bowls in the Schøyen collection (see provisionally Ford, ibid., p. 265).

087M: Most of the remaining lacunae can be read or reconstructed with the help of the duplicates 086M and McCullough (1967), Bowl C (noted by Segal). The following comments are limited primarily to what the present author perceives to be incorrect readings. 3: [...] tyḥ [...] lḥ [...] — read: ...ʿs hʾylḥ mn rqʿ(yʾ) w(ʿs)[yr] (dw)[rḥ...]. 4–6: byš[...] ...lylytʾ — read: byš[yʾ ʿsyryʾ] rʾzyʾ ḏ-hšwkʾ bbh(ʾ)q (5) wbhʾq hʾylʾ wrʾzʾ ḏ-hzʾt rwhʾ ʿmʾykwn h(ʾ)qʾt zʾhʾt{t} wʿtzyhʾt ʿsyr[ʾ wsdym]ʾ yʾzdʾndwk lylytʾ {ʿ*s*} {ʿ*syrʾ wsdymʾ yʾzdʾn*(d)wk (6) lylytʾ}. 088M: For a discussion and partial transcription of this bowl, see now Müller-Kessler (1999). A re-edition will be published in Ch. Müller-Kessler, Incantations for the House of Pir Nukraya. Lead Rolls from the British Museum I (Styx: Leiden, in press) [courtesy the author]. 6: ʾkʾt: This is the toponym Akkad. See Müller-Kessler (1999), p. 208. 7: ḏ-šbyqʾlhʾ "that are left to her" — translate: "that she has left". 9: ḏ-hwtbyz bʾyšwmʾ "that is called Hutbiz" — read: ḏ-hw byzbʾy šwmḥ "whose name is Bizbay". 9: zʾmbwr ... byt tyldʾnʾ "the bee ... the house of procreation" — translate: "Zambur ... Bīt Tildana". These are toponyms. See Müller-Kessler (1999), p. 208. Note to line 6: Here bwznʾy is apparently a male demon. See Müller-Kessler (1996), p. 191, n. to line 5.

089M: A re-edition of this bowl will be published in Ch. Müller-Kessler, Incantations for the House of Pir Nukraya. Lead Rolls from the British Museum I (in press) [courtesy the author]. 14: pšʾr "dissolve" — translate: "be exorcised!" In his note to the line, Segal similarly considers the possibility of "be disenchanted, revoked." Cf. pyšrʾ "loosing or breaking a spell, exorcism" (Drower-Macuch, p. 372b). The Akkadian cognate pašāru (G and D) "to release, free" similarly occurs in incantations with the meaning "to undo, release (spell, curse, oath, magic)" (for references, see AHw., pp. 842b and 843a). 12–14: ḏ-ryšʾywn nyšqlwn ... ndʾlwn ... lbyš lskyʾ lmhyʾ wlštqyp wlʿbṭʾl (14) hylḥ wlʿpyl lʿhwryʾ "who shall lift (his) head ...shall raise ...they shall not gaze with evil (intent), they shall not smite and shall not beat themselves; and they shall not annul (14) (their) power, and shall not cause (them) to fall back backwards" — translate: "(any of various demons) who shall (pl.) lift their head(s) and the features (13) of their face(s) shall (pl.) raise, and shall (sing.) gaze with evil intent at these souls of Šrula, the man, and of Qaqay, the woman, and of their sons — it (the demon) shall be smitten and beaten and its power shall be annulled (14) and it shall fall backwards". The scribe passed from plural (nyšqlwn / ndʾlwn) to singular (lskyʾ) in the middle of the sentence. The l in lskyʾ and the following verbs is the 3 m. s. prefix, not the particle of negation as proposed by Segal (cf. Nöldeke, Mandäische Grammatik, §166). lmhyʾ "it shall be smitten" is an (assimilated) Ethpeʿel form (cf. lštqyp "it shall be beaten"). 16: [...]wn zykryʾ wbnʾtwn nwqbʾtʾ "their male [sons] and their female daughters" — read: (ʿ)[ttʾ] (wlb)[nʾy]wn zykryʾ wlbnʾtwn nwqbʾtʾ "the w[oman], and for their male sons and for their female daughters". 17: kbyš bytʾ hw "It is pressed down (in) the house." — translate: "It (the name of the incantation) is 'Suppressed is the house'."

090M: 6: nqbʾtʾ- read: nwqbʾtʾ. Cf. the form of nw in wmyskynwtʾ (line 15). 9: ʿyn "so be it" — translate: "if." ʿyn is a variant form of the conditional particle hyn (cf. Mandaic ʿl "if not" < ʾīn lā* and Aramaic ʾyn "if"). Note that Segal subsequently supplies "if" in his translation in parentheses. In MIT, 20:9, which parallels the present bowl, {ḏn} should similarly be read ʿyn "if." For additional examples in different contexts, see MS 2054/93:9 and Ch. Müller-Kessler, "Dämon + YTB ʿL — Ein Krankheitsdämon: Eine Studie zu aramäischen Beschwörungen medizinischen Inhalts," in B. Bock, et al. (eds), Munuscula Mesopotamica: Festschift für Johannes Renger (AOAT 267: Münster 1999), pp. 345ff and n. 23. 12–13: bšwmʾk kybšwn (13) wdwšwn "In your name! Suppress (13) and trample" — translate: "In your name, O Kibšun (13) and (also) Dušun". Although clearly derived from the verbs KBŠ "to suppress" and DWŠ "to trample," kybšwn and dwšwn are here most likely names of angels. 13: nqbtʾ — read: nwqbtʾ. 13: nqbʾtʾ — read: nwqbʾtʾ. 14: (wgzyrʾ) "and cut" — read: wz(g)[yrʾ] "and restrained". The letter followng the w is definitely z. The same reading occurs in the duplicate bowls 091M:43 and MIT, 20:17. Segal treats zgyr as a metathesized variant of gzyr "cut," which occurs in line 11 of the present bowl and in the parallel bowls (see p. 121, note to line 42). Yamauchi, MIT, p. 229, also translates zgyrʾ as "cut" in Bowl 20:17 (in his edition of the present bowl, Yamauchi, ibid., p. 274, restores wgzyrʾ, following C. H. Gordon, "Aramaic and Mandaic Magical Bowls," Archiv Orientální 9 [1937], p. 101), although in his Glossary (p. 326) he lists the same word under ZGR "to seize," following M. Lidzbarski, Ephemeris für semitische Epigraphik, I: 1900–1902 (Giessen 1902), p. 101 ("gepackt"). It should be noted, however, that in this and the parallel texts the two vocables consistently occur in different contexts; gzyr "cut" occurs following pryṭ "broken apart, separated, cleft open," whereas zgyr occurs in collocation with ʿsyr "bound," htym "sealed" and blym "muzzled, gagged." The meaning "to restrain, hold back, confine" ascribed to ZGR by Drower-Macuch, p. 162a, is thus appropriate for zgyr in the present context. 14: ʾynʾ hʾsmlyʾ ḏ-hwsrʾnʾ wkʿwyhtʾ "the envious and dim eye of want" — translate: "the envious and glaring eye of want". kʿwyhtʾ refers literally to an eye suffering from ectropion. See my article "Two Syriac Terms Relating to Ophthalmology and Their Cognates," Journal of Semitic Studies 47 (2002): 23–35. 14: *rgym*ʾ "stoned" — translate: "immobilized". See Drower-Macuch, pp. 424b-425a, s.v. RGM "in magic documents: to paralyse, immobilize," and note the parallel terms *blym*ʾ "muzzled" and *mskry*ʾ "closed" in the present text. 16: *wsynt*ʾ — read: *wsynty*ʾ. The same reading occurs in MIT, 20:21.

091M: 10: mn — read: wmn. 20: ʿ*yn* "so be it" — translate: "if". See above, 090M:9. 27: ldylwy — read: ldylḫ. 32–34: Read: *wmn zw*ʾ*(y) wbn*ʾ*y wbn*(ʾ*t*)ʾ*y wmn* (33) *byt*ʾ*y wmn kwl ḏ-*ʿ*k*ʾ (b)by(34)*t*ʾ*y bšwm*ʾ*k kybšwn*. 41: *nqb*ʾ*t*ʾ — read: *nwqb*ʾ*t*ʾ. 48: *lyš*ʾ*ny*ʾ — read: (b)[*yšy*ʾ w]*lyš*ʾ*ny*ʾ. 51–55: Read: (*byšy*ʾ wsynty.) wšyqwp (52) (*wlwtt*ʾ) *wmysknwt*ʾ (wṭyr)(53)[*wpt*ʾ] (wdyzw)ʾ*r*ʾ mn byt[ḫ] (54) ḏ-dwn(hqdw<k>t) br ʾ*b*ʾ(55)n(dwk) wmn zwḫ bnḫ. 58–59: ʾ*myn* — read: (w)ʾ*myn*.

093M: 1: bšwmḫ ḏ-(*mr*ʾ*yn t*ʾ*nh*ʾ*t*ʾ) "In the name of [our Lord, sighing]" — read: *bšwmḫ ḏ-m*ʾ*r*ʾ*yn* (ḏ-)ʾ(s)*w*ʾ*t*ʾ "In the name of the Lord of Healings". 15: ʿ*yn* "so be it" — translate: "if". See above, 090M:9. 17: . . . *ḏ-lwṭt*ʾ- read: tyd(*b*ʾ*q*)[bḫ]lwṭt(ʾ). 23: . . . *ḏ-lyṭ*ʾ*y* — read: . . . *wlb*ʾ*yṭḫ ḏ-lyṭ*ʾ*y*. 31: nqb[. . .] — read: *nwqb*ʾ[*t*ʾ]. 37–38: ʾ*yn*ʾ *ḏ-hwsr*ʾ*n*ʾ (38) *wkywyht*ʾ "the envious and dim eye (38) of want" — translate: "the glaring eye of want". "Envious" has no correspondant in the Mandaic text and was apparently inadvertantly carried over by the editor from the translations of the parallel texts. For *kywyht*ʾ, "glaring," see 090M:14 (above). 51: An additional line should be added. Read: hw. This is the copula. Lines 48–51 should be translated "These are the pictures for (the incantation) 'Bound and sealed is the mouth and seized is the tongue!' " (cf. 103M:32–34).

094M: A parallel text from the Iraq Museum (IM 60494) has recently been published by E. C. D. Hunter, "Who are the Demons? The Iconography of Incantation Bowls," Studi epigrafici e linguistici sul Vicino Oriente antico 15 (1998), pp. 95–115. 3: *gbʾry*ʾ "the men" — translate: "strong men". Cf. M. Sokoloff, "Notes on Some Mandaic Magical Texts," Orientalia N.S. 40 (1971), p. 456. Some of the parallel bowls, however, do read *gwbry*ʾ "men" (e.g., IM 60494:4). 6: ʿ*lyʾyn* — read: ʿ*lwʾyn*. 8: shyṭynyn "who squeeze them" — translate: "(who) seized them". For the verb SHṬ, "to seize," see Drower-Macuch, p. 319b (with Hunter, Studi epigrafici e linguistici 15, p. 105). The following verbs, rhyṭ (line 8), lgṭynyn (line 8), mṣrynyn (line 9), and *w*ʾ*mwrlyn* (line 10) are also perfect forms and should likewise be translated in the past tense. 10: *w*ʾ*mwrlyn* "and say to them" — translate: "and said to them". Segal's reading ʾ*mwr* would appear to represent a 3 m. pl. perfect form qtwl, well attested in Jewish Babylonian Aramaic, but the w is most likely part of a poorly formed m (i.e., *w*ʾ*mrlyn*). 10: brwk ḏ-lṭty[. . .] "Blessed is he whom you have cursed" — read: brwk ḏ-lṭty[n] "Bless him whom you have cursed!". Cf. line 43. 11: *w*ʾ*mrlḫ* "and they say to him" — translate: "and they said to him". ʾ*mr* is apparently a f. pl. active participle (in plene writing ʾ*mr*ʾ [see, for example, 103M:19]). For the use of the active participle as a historical present continuing a perfect form in narrative, see Nöldeke, Mandäische Grammatik, p. 375. The "impious women" (line 4) who cursed would now appear to offer an excuse for their actions in an attempt to mitigate their punishment after having been caught. They apparently address a single angel, which suggests that the subject of the preceding verbs rhyṭ. . . *w*ʾ*mwrlyn* may actually be only one of the angels listed in lines 6–8, presumably Sahṭiel (the verbs themselves are morphologically ambiguous). Another possibility is a f. pl. imperative continuing the preceding brwk, i.e., "and say to him". The variant ʾ*mr*ʾ*lḫ* would then preserve the suffix -ā attested in the 3 f. pl. imperfect (Nöldeke, Mandäische Grammatik, p. 228, does not give any examples of 2 f. pl. imperfect forms, which would presumably have originally had the same suffix). The 3 m. s. pronoun would accordingly refer to ḏ-lṭty[n] "whom you cursed," i.e., the client, to whom the "impious women" are commanded to explain their evil actions. 13: *w*ʾ*mrylhyn* "And I say to them" — read: *w*ʾ*mrnlhyn* "And I said to them". For this use of the active participle, cf. above, line 11. 15: wyqrwn — read: wyʾqrwn. 16: *w*ʿ*wrp*ʿ*yl* — read: *w*ʿ*wrp*ʾ*yl*. 21: *ḏ-l*ʾ*ṭtyn wmn* — read: ḏ-lṭtyn mn. 22: lṭtyn — read: *l*ʾ*ṭtyn*. 23–24: *lwṭt*ʾ ḏ- (24) *rbtʾ wšwlyt*ʾ "the curse of (24) the grandmother and the foetus" — translate: "the curse of (24) the mistress and the maid servant". See Drower-Macuch, p. 454b, s.v. šulita 2; M. Sokoloff, Orientalia N.S. 40 (1971), p. 458; J. C. Greenfield, "The Babylonian Forerunner of a Mandaic Formula," in A. F. Rainey (ed.), kinattūtu ša dārâti: Raphael Kutscher Memorial Volume (TEL AVIV: Journal of the Institute of Archaeology of Tel Aviv University, Occasional Publications, 1: Tel Aviv 1993), p. 12; and Hunter, Studi epigrafici e linguistici 15, p. 107. 31: *llwṭ*ʾ*t*ʾ "of the curses" — read: *wllwṭ*ʾ*t*ʾ "and the curses". 33: *ḏ-l*ʾ*ṭy*ʾ "which they cursed" — read: *ḏ-l*ʾ*ṭwḫ* "whom they cursed". 38: wnyshyṭyn — read: wnyshyṭyn(yn). 38: *ḏ-l*ʾ*ṭy*ʾ — read: *ḏ-l*ʾ*ṭwḫ*. The pronominal 3 f. s. object suffix refers to Mahduk (cf. line 33, above, and *ḏ-l*ʾ*ṭwy*ʾ in 095M:43, where the pronominal object suffix refers to the male client). 44 45: šrwn . . . *llwṭt*ʾ "Šrun . . . the curses" — read: šrwn (45) *wšrwlḫ wšyrwy*ʾ *w*ʾ*b*(*dwy*ʾ) *llwṭt*ʾ "release (me?), (45) and release her, and release and destroy the curse". As indicated by the parallel texts in which the words šrwn and šrwlḫ do not occur (e.g., 096M:42), ʾ*twn ml*ʾ*ky*ʾ "You, O angels," refers to the preceding Šariel and Barkiel. The element *-wy*ʾ in *šyrwy*ʾ and ʾ*bdwy*ʾ contains a formally 3 m. s. cataphoric pronominal object suffix referring to the feminine singular *lwṭt*ʾ "curse" (for the use of this form of the 3 m. s. pronominal object suffix to refer to feminine nouns, see Nöldeke, Mandäische Grammatik, p. 279; contrast *ḏ-l*ʾ*ṭwḫ* [above, lines 33 and 38], which uses the original feminine form). 50: qʾl qʾlʾy "Hark! My voice" — read: qʾl qʾlʾ hw "It (the name of the incantation) is 'Hark! A voice'."

095M: 2: For myhrwdyt, read possibly m(')hd(wk)t. For this well attested name, see 093M, note to line 2 (p. 123). 3: nqb't' — read: nwqb't'. 3: qny'nḥ — read: qyny'nḥ. 10: ḏ-ryš('yw)n — read: ḏ-ryš'(yh-w)n. 19: Read: tyš(ršylḥ). 23: ḏ-l'ṭynyn — read: ḏ-l'ṭ(ṭ)yn. 25: Read: ḏ-l('ṭ)tyn wmn lwṭt' {wmn lwṭt'} ḏ-'gyr'. 32: ḏ-m'sy' — read: {['s]y'} ḏ-m'sy'. 40: šylwy' [...] — read: šylwy' ('n'š'). Cf. 094M:39.

096M: 12: gzrn — read: gzrn[yn]. 14–15: b(15)yzrwn "by (15) Yazrun" — read: b('zr)['y] (15) wyzrwn "by Azr[ay] (15) and Yazrun". 25: ḏ-lpl(g') — read: ḏ-lpl('g).

097M: 1: 'k[...]t'- read: 'sw't' "healings". The traces are not clear, but one would expect a phrase similar to bšwmḥ ḏ-m'r'yn ḏ-'sw't' "In the name of the Lord of Healings" (093M:1 [see above]). 5: ('ly')wn — read: 'l(w')ywn. 6: [...] tb'r — read: [...](ṭynyn b'd..y' ḏ-ryš'yn w)tb'r. 7: ...lṭnyn — read: (br)[wk] ḏ-l'ṭtyn [wm]r'lḥ (ḏ-mn kyb') ḏ-[lyb]'n lṭnyn. 8: w'mrnly[...] ḏ-'šbtkyn — read: w'mrnlyn 'šbyt['l'y]kyn. 8: ...wyzd... — read: b('zd)'y wyzr[wn]... 9: wtyšbwq' l... — read: wtyšb(wql)ḫ l(yw)h'n'n [br 'kw']rwy(')... 9: ḏ-lṭnyn wmn — read: ḏ-lṭnyn mn lwṭt' (ḏ-)'b' wd'm' ḏ-lṭtyn wmn. 10: wšwlyt'...wmn — read: wšwlyt' (wmn lwṭt' ḏ-'g...wd)... mynḥ wmn. 11: bykwšt' — read: bkwšt'. 11: lwṭt' kwlm'n... — read: lwṭt' ḏ-kwlm'n ḏ-l'ṭ[...]. 11: ...myhy't' — read: ...(m'sy') myhy't'. 12: ḏ-l'ṭwy lywhn'n — read: ḏ-l'ṭwy' lywh'n'n. 13: bšwm brk'yl — read: wbšwm brk'yl. 13: š'ry'[...] — read: š'rywy' (cf. above, 094M:44–45). 14: lywh'nn — read: lywh'n'n. 14: 'myn — read: w'myn. 15: lbry "For my son" — read: lbr'y "For outside (the house)".

098M: 1: 'lsyr' bwgd'n' "The [binding] of Bugdana" — read: 'lsyr 'bwgd'n' "Elsir Abugdana". Cf. Müller-Kessler (1996), p. 193, n. 16. There appears to be a slight discontinuity in the writing between the r and the ' and, moreover, 'bwgd'n' is the usual Mandaic spelling of the name of this demon (for an exceptional writing bwgd'n', see Drower-Macuch, p. 54b). The demon himself would appear to be the speaker. For the divine name Elsir/Elisur, see S. Shaked, "The Poetics of Spells. Language and Structure in Aramaic Incantations of Late Antiquity, 1: The Divorce Formula and its Ramifications" in Tz. Abusch and K. van der Toorn (eds) Mesopotamian Magic: Textual, Historical, and Interpretative Perspectives (Ancient Magic and Divination, 1: Groningen 1999), p. 185, n. 45, and cf. MS 2053/200:1–2 (reading by S. Shaked): 'wmyt[y w'š]b'yt 'lk ('nth) 'ylyswr b(gdnh) [mlk'] ddywy "I adjure and make you swear, you, Elisur Bagdana, [king] of the dēws...". 099M:3 (see the corrected reading below), however, does indeed seem to be based on an interpretation of the term as referring to the binding of the demon. 3: wš'l'ṭ' — read: wšl'ṭ' (Müller-Kessler [1996], p. 193, n. 16). 6: l{b}k. What Segal reads as an extraneous b is more likely ' written over an original y. 6: l'k" — read: lyk{X}. 7: mš'lṭ — read: mš'lṭ'. 8–9: (dy)d'h"ywty (9) (t'rh'qy)' w(my' d'k'y') "[...] pure water" — read: ty(r)'hšy (9) wtyt'rh'qy' wt(k)'r'k'y' "move (?) (9) and distance yourself and turn back". 9: g't'k — read: g'ṭ'k. 9: g'b'l' — read: (q)'b'l'. 11: nq'bt' — read: nwq'bt'. 12: bšwm' tm'hṣ 'bd hygwt "In the name of Tamahaṣ, slave of Higut" — translate: "In the name TM'HṢ 'BD HYGWT". tm'hṣ 'bd hygwt should be interpreted as part of a magical name, together with the following 'yd 'wd ṭṭwz. Cf. the Aramaic version (O13A:8): bšwm hyg(y)h wd(yh) wṭṭm "In the name of HYGYH and DYH and ṬṬM". Cf. also 099M:13 (below) and the parallels listed by Segal (p. 157). 12–13: b'z'qtwn (13) dglyp' 'l'h' "by the signet ring (13) of Glifa the god" — read: b'z'qt (13) ṣwr glyp' 'l'h' "by the signet-ring (13) of Ṣur Glipa the god". 13: lbšwm' ḏ-prwš' "for the ineffable Name": This is surely a scribal error for wbšwm' ḏ-prwš'* "and by the ineffable Name" due to the similarity between l and w.

099M: 2: wlzwyḥ — read: wlz'w(ḥ). 3: 'syry' {bgd'n' 'syry'} bwgd'n' — read: 'syr 'b(wg)d'n' 'syr 'bwgd'n'. Cf. Müller-Kessler (1996), p. 193, n. 16. Segal (note to line 3) claims that 'syry' is for singular 'syr', but the latter is a feminine form, which would not accord with the masculine subject. 5: wmwmyn'lyk — read: wmwmy{y}n'lyk. 8: wnp'q {mn} kwlhyn qyry't' "May all mishaps go forth" — read: wnp'q hw wkwlhyn qyry'tḥ "and he was expelled, he and all his imprecations". The phrase does not accord well with the preceding phrases, but they are also problematic. 10: bzyr' "sowing" — translate: "semen". Segal follows Drower-Macuch, p. 167b, s.v. zira, in translating bzyr' as "sowing" (<"seed"), but bzyr' would appear to be synonymous with zyr' "seed (semen)" in the example that he cites in his note to line 10 (for Jb 202, read DC 43J, 202): mn zyrḥ ḏ-lyly' wmn bzyrḥ ḏ-'wm'm' "from his zyr' by night and from his bzyr' by day". Cf. the frequent pair ḥylm' dlyly' "dream by night" // ḥyzwn' dymm' "vision by day" (e.g., 068A:3–4), where ḥylm' "dream" and ḥyzwn' "vision" are essentially synonymous. 10–12: h'z'y ḏ-kt'blyk ... bb'bḥ "See, they have written for you ... at his door" — read: h'z'y ḏ-kt'blyk (11) gyṭ' km' ḏ-h'zyn g[yṭ'] kytbyt wyhbylḥ ly(w)h'(n)'n wlkwl m'n ḏ-h'zyn pwgd'm' myktyblḥ (12) wmyqb'rlḥ bb'bḥ "See, they (anonymous divine forces) wrote you (11) a bill of divorce, as I have written this bil[l of divorce] and have given it to Yuhanan and to everyone for whom this writ (lit. word) is written (12) and buried at his door". myktyb and myqb'r are understood as (assimilated) Ethpe'el participles. The bowl was evidently intended for burial under the threshold. 13: bšwmḥ ḏ-m'thymṣ h'mṣ "In the name of him that crushes, crush" — read: bšwmḥ ḏ-m't whymṣ h'mṣ "In the name of M'T and HYMṢ H'MṢ (the crusher of?)". Although at one time possibly translatable, at least m't and hymṣ would seem to now be magical names. Cf. 098M:12 (above) and the parallels listed by Segal (p. 157). 14: kryktyn — read:

krykytyn. The preceding word, ṣmyrtyn, should likely be similarly read ṣmyr^y^t(y)n.

5: 'bwgn' mlk': Cf. Segal, note to line 5. 5: (ḏ-hw) [šlyṭ 'l] "who [rules over]": The parallel bowl MS 2054/86:5 reads: ḏ-hw mš'l'ṭ 'l, but there does not seem to be enough space in the lacuna for mš'l'ṭ or mšl'ṭ. Cf. dhw' šlyṭ 'l in a related context in the parallel Jewish Aramaic bowl 013A:6 (and parallels [see Segal, p. 156, Refrain B, Ib]). 6: [dywy]' zykry' [wnwq]b't' "dēws, male [and fem]ale" is probably an error for dywy' zykry' wlyly't' nwqb't' "male dēws and female liliths". 9: n'l': According to S. Shaked, "Bagdāna, King of the Demons, and Other Iranian Terms in Babylonian Aramaic Magic," Acta Iranica 25, Deuxième Série: Hommages et Opera Minora, Vol. 11: Papers in Honor of Professor Mary Boyce (Leiden 1985), p. 512, this demon is to be identified with Persian nāl "complaint, lamentation." 9: wn'wl': See Drower-Macuch, pp. 297b-298a, s.v. niula 2. Note especially the frequent occurrence of the pair n'ly' wnywly' (see Drower-Macuch, p. 283, s.v. nala), paralleling the present text. 10: mhy'tyn... "you are smitten...": The translation follows MS 2054/86:10–11: mhytwn bṭrpws l'bb'(yk)wn wbmwrnyt' ḏ-qtryws ml'k['] ḏ-hw mšl'ṭ 'l shry'... See also Segal's Refrain B, Ib (p. 156). 19: pryt' ḏ-mynḥ pr't: The same phrase also occurs twice in MS 2054/86, but the context is unclear there as well.

101M: For a discussion and partial transcription of this bowl, see now Müller-Kessler (1999). A re-edition will be published in Ch. Müller-Kessler, Incantations for the House of Pir Nukraya. Lead Rolls from the British Museum I (in press) [courtesy the author]. 1–2: See Müller-Kessler (1999), pp. 206–207. 2–3: (h'w)kwlhwn shr' ...ḏ-myšt'mylḥ "that is, all sorcery spirits ...that hearken" — read: h(w) wkwlhwn shrḥ wdywyḥ (3) whwmrḥ wlyly'tḥ ḏ-myšt'mylḥ "he and all his sahras and dēws and (3) humartas and liliths that hearken to him". h(w) refers to the male demon 'Ulmaya in line 1. 7–8: ḏ-bshry' (zyk'r') ...ḏ-hyy' "of (those who are guided) by male (?) sorcery spirits ...dHiia" — read: ḏ-bhyry' (z)ydq' bhylḥ ḏ-mnd' ḏ-hyy' "of the elect of righteousness by the power of Manda ḏ-Hiia". See Müller-Kessler (1999), p. 204, and cf. line 26. 8: 'swt'- read: w'swt'. 9: [...] (lrqḥ) — read: l(b)[yt]ḥ wlpgrḥ "for his ho[use] and for his body". 10: [...]th lzwḥ — read: [...]t wlzwḥ. The t before wlzwḥ is most likely the last letter in the name of the mother of the client. The line ends with the second wlbn'tḥ. 11: Read: [mš'by]*n hyy' rby' s*_____ "The great Life is praised!". 12–16: See Müller-Kessler (1999), pp. 206–207. After lnpšḥ (line 16) read ('syr)['] "Bound are". 19–21: w'zlyn ...b ('{t.}'ythyn 'n'šy' "and depart ...the petitions (of) human kind" — read: w'zlyn q'ryn lnpš'[yhwn] ...('t') (20) w'qry't' ḏ-hynwn .../ (ḏ-š'ry') (21) bbt'yhwn ḏ-'n'šy' "who go about and call themselves '...' See Müller-Kessler (1999), p. 204 (Segal's reading wml'l' is correct). 26–27: [...]š'by'hy' ...hwn "[...]the great planets [...]" — read: (m)š'by' hyy' rby' (27) bnhwr'yhwn "the great Life is praised in its light!". 28–31: See Müller-Kessler (1999), pp. 206–207. At the end of line 31 read 'syr' (Segal: 'syry'). 32–33: lyl(y't') klby't' ḏ-t'yby' (33) b'sr' ḏ-klb('y') "liliths, bitches that return (33) in the tether of dogs" — read: lyl(y't') klby't' ḏ-š('r)y' (33) b'(r)q' ḏ-kl(.'y)y' "the dog-like liliths who haunt (33) the land of the Chaldeans". For lyly't' klby't' "dog-like liliths," see Müller-Kessler (1999), p. 202, with further references. For kl(.'y)y', which is here understood as part of a toponym, Segal reads klb('y'). Cf. the place-name k'lby', cited by Drower-Macuch, p. 197a. Segal's reading, if correct, would result in a word-play on lyly'ṭ' klby'ṭ'. The b, however, is not at all clear to the present author, and a reading kl(d'yy') "Chaldeans" (Drower-Macuch, p. 197a) seems equally possible. Cf. m'ṭ' k'ld'yy' "country of the Chaldeans" (Aspar Malwašia [ed. Drower], p. 250: penult.).[4] Such a reading seems semantically preferable, as a similarly constructed toponym, 'rq' ḏ-rhym'yy' "the land of the Rahimeans," occurs in a lead roll in a context thematically related to that of the present bowl (see Müller-Kessler [1999], p. 201). 34–35: twty' ʿqb̲[...] ḏ- (35) ywz'ṭdq (mndʿ) ḏ-hyy') "under heel so that (35) Manda ḏHiia will be vindicated" — read: twty' ʿqb̲ ḏ- (35) ywz'ṭ'(q) m(ndʿ)' ḏ-hyy' "under the heel of (35) Yuzaṭaq Manda ḏ-Hiia". Müller-Kessler (1999), p. 205, reads ywz'ṭ'r, but the frequent attestation of the name Yuzaṭaq Manda ḏ-Hiia (see Drower-Macuch, p. 190a, and, in the present corpus, 107M:10', 11') suggests that the final letter is a poorly formed q. 40–43: Read: b'swtḥ ḏ-(m')n 'sy' rb({y}') (41) wqy(')myn hyy' rby' bškyn'twn (42) bn(hw)r'yhwn ḏ-npš'yhwn (43) wbzyw'yhwn ḏ-k'byr "by the healing of Man, the great healer. (41) And the great Life abides in its dwellings (42) in its own light (43) and in its immense radiance".

102M: In the introductory observations (p. 133) attention is appropriately called to the close resemblence between this bowl and a Mandaic bowl published by C. H. Gordon in 1951. Note that the latter bowl subsequently made its way into the British Museum collection and is republished by Segal as 111M (see below). Both bowls are early versions of DC 40, 1086–1113. Read:

7: For the demon Karkum, see Drower-Macuch, p. 201b, and DC 37, 8–9: ʿsyry' d'ywy' ḏ-k'rkwm br lywy'tyn "bound are the dēws of Karkum son of Leviathan." The word following krkwm is probably to be read 'bwhwn (cf. 111M:7). 8: bk(s)t': Read bskt' "with a pin"? Cf. 111M:9: bsykt'. 9: (b)[...ḥ]: 111M:9 reads bpwmḥ "in her mouth." The same word may well have occurred here as well, as the length of the lacuna is appropriate and the traces following the b may point to a p. 10: bgyry' "with arrows": The reading is not certain. The corresponding word in 111M:10 is also difficult to read. 11: sm'yyl st̲'n' "Simail, the Satan": As noted by G. Scholem, "Samael," Encyclopaedia Judaica, Vol. 14 (Jerusalem 1971), p. 720, the Mandaic Simail (Drower-Macuch, p. 327b, s.v. simiaiil) is a variant of the Jewish demon Samael, who was likewise identified with Satan. The binding of Simail in the present text recalls the reference to the binding of Samael with šlšl'wt šl brzl "chains of iron" in Midrash Bereshit Rabbati (ed. Albeck), p. 167: myd ymsrnw hb"h lmyk'l wmby'w bšlšl'wt šl brzl wymsrnw byd yśr'l wyʿśw bw krṣwnm "The Holy One, blessed is He, will immediately hand him (Samael) over to Michael, who will bring him in chains of iron and hand him over to Israel, and they will do with him as they please." 12: For m'ynḥ "his water," cf. Drower-Macuch, p. 242b, s.v. maina.

103M: 8: wkbyš' — read: wkbyš<'>. 9: 'ṭ'y "Atay": read possibly (d-)m'y "of (I)mmay". Cf. the PN ʿm'y in lines 11 (see below), 13 and 15. The formula ʿsyr' wkbyš' lwṭṭ' w'qr'yṭ' ḏ-PN pt PN₂ ḏ-l'ṭ't should be rendered "the curse and imprecation of PN daughter of PN_2, who cursed". 9 10: d-w'ṭwy' "of W"ṬWY"" — read: d-l'ṭwy' "whom they cursed". The reading d-w'ṭwy' at the end of line 10 should likewise be corrected to d-l'ṭwy'. 11: 'ṭ'yw — read: ʿm'y. Cf. lines 13 and 15. 11: w'qr'yṭ' — read: w'qryṭ'. Read w'qryṭ' for w'qr'yṭ' in lines 12, 13 (twice) and 15 (twice) as well. 14: s'y.wm — read: q'ywm. The feminine PN q'ywm also occurs in MS 2054/81:11. 14: w'qr'yt — read: w'qryt'. 15: wkbyš — read: wkbyš'. 17: šwm'y "hear!" — translate: "I have heard"? The same writing occurs in MIT, 7:4, where it is translated "I hear" by the editor, but most of the parallels read šwmyt "I have heard" (e.g., 094M:2). šwm'y may therefore be a non-standard 1 c. s. perfect form following the pattern bn'y, frequently attested for III–' verbs in Jewish Babylonian Aramaic. 31: Read: (h)yy' z(')ky. The present author cannot discern the n in the photograph, but it is read by Segal and supported by the context. 34: {wy'.'} — read: (h)y'. This is the copula, grammatically according with dmwt' "picture." Lines 32–34 should be translated "This is the picture for (the incantation) 'Hark, I have heard a voice!' " (cf. above, line 17 and 093M:48–51).

104M: This bowl parallels 106M (see below). Both bowls parallel a section of the Zrazta ḏ-Hibil Ziwa, known from a number of late manuscripts (e.g., DC 14, 139–176 // DC 44, 251–325 // DC 52, 210–260 // J. de Morgan, Études Linguistiques, IIe partie: Textes mandaïtes [Mission scientifique en Perse, V: Paris 1904], pp. 256b:23–257a:21). Life is victorious!

7: The reading kb'š(yt) is not certain. 11: 'mr' wšym' "speaking and acceptance (lit. [favorable] hearing)": This common expression (Drower-Macuch, p. 353a) is clearly a calque of Akkadian qabû šemû "speaking (and) acceptance (lit. [favorable] hearing)" (see CAD, Š/2, p. 284b) or its semantic equivalent qabû u magāru "speaking and acceptance" (see CAD, M/1, p. 40). Cf. also qabû šemû u magāru "speaking, (favorable) hearing and acceptance" (see CAD, M/1, p. 40b) and qabû u lā šemû "speaking and non-acceptance (lit. not hearing [favorably])" (see CAD, Š/2, p. 284b). Compare Akkadian rema ummna balta lamassa qabâ šemâ šukna yâši "grant me mercy, (answering of) prayers, dignity, protection (lit. a protective spirit), speaking (and) acceptance" (BMS 22 r. 64–65 [cf. CAD, R, p. 262a; CAD, Š/2, p. 284b]) with Mandaic 'swt' wz'kwt' wh'yl' wšr'r' w'mr' wšym' wš'byq h'ṭ'yy' nyhwyly' ldyly' "May there be healing and victory and power and steadfastness and speaking and acceptance and remittance (lit. a remitter) of sins for me" (Ginza Yamina [ed. Petermann], 133, 21–23). For the semantic equivalence of Akkadian šemû and magāru, see CAD, Š/2, p. 277, s. v. šemû (lexical section), CAD, M/1, pp. 34–35, s. v. magāru (lexical section) and ibid., p. 40, meaning 4b. Note especially Antagal III 179: giš.tuk = MIN (šamû) ša magāri "the šemû of acceptance" (CAD, M/1, p. 35a). 11: šwm tl'ṭ' "the name(s) of three (divine beings)": The parallel bowl MS 2054/40:11 refers to Hibil, Šitil and Enuš in the corresponding context. 12: (gbr' qrb)'yy' "formidable man": The first letter of qrb'yy' would seem to definitely be q, both here and in line 17, thereby excluding a reading 'br'yy' "extraordinary" (for 'br'yy', cf. above, 084M:16 and 18). Neither does a reading qdm'yy' "primeval" seem epigraphically possible, although it occurs, for example, in DC 14, 164 (g'br' q'dm'y'). 14: wz(r')zy' h(')wy' "and they are armed (and) become": The reading is not certain. wz(r')z could conceivably be read wzdrz (Etpa'al). Cf. MS 2054/40:14: (w'zdr'z) whw' "it was armed and became." 15: '(tb)ls: The reading is confirmed by the parallels, but the meaning of the verb eludes me at present. Note that the occurrence of this verb in the parallel text DC 44, 315 is incorrectly cited as 'tb'l's by Drower-Macuch, p. 66b, s.v. BLṢ (the manuscript reads 'tb'l's). The reading 'tb'l'ṣ does occur, however, in the parallel passage in DC 52, 253.

105M: This text can be read virtually in its entirety with the help of a number of duplicates in the Schøyen collection (e.g., MS 1928/45, MS 2054/28, MS 2054/39, MS 2054/63, MS 2054/71), soon to be published by Professor Shaked, and Bowl 5205 in the Museo nazionale d'arte orientale a Roma, soon to be published by M. Moriggi. For lines 1–12, cf. provisionally the transcription and discussion of the parallel AIT, 40:1–17a by J. N. Epstein, "Gloses babylo-araméennes," Revue des Études Juives 74 (1922), pp. 62–65 (Epstein's readings and reconstructions will also need to be revised based on the new parallels). The present author will limit his comments to what he perceives to be incorrect readings or interpretations proposed by the editor. 8: 'l'hy' q'hdy' "gods crying out" — translate: "the gods cry out". 9: wlyly't' mthllyy "and purified liliths" — read: wlyly't' mhwll' "and the liliths wail". 10: {w's'rt} is not a scribal error. Read: w's'rt[ḥ l]šwm'ykwn "and I bind your name(s)". 12: [...]rb' wk[...] — read: [']swt' bb'yṯḥ d- "healing in the house of". 13–15: blbwš y'q'r ... "In robes of glory..." — read: blbwš y'q'r q'ymn' blbwšy' rb' d-nhwr' (14) hwmy'n' d-hz'yt' bhl[s]'y ('s)[yr]ly' 'n' h'byl zdyq' d-'štyhlyt w'tyt mn 'lmy' rwrby' ...'l shry' w'l dywy' w'l rwhy' w'l hwmry' (15) w'l lyly't' (w'l) ... b'ty' d-bny' 'n'š' m'ys'r... "I stand (clothed) in a robe of glory, in great robes of light, (14) (and) I have bound upon my loins a girdle of splendor. I am the righteous Hibil, who was sent and came from the great worlds ... against the sahras and against the dēws and against the spirits and against the humartas (15) and against the liliths and against ... the houses of humans (in order to) bind ...". The l in bhl[s]'y is read following Segal, but cannot be clearly seen in the photograph. hwmy'n' d-hz'yt' is tentatively understood as "a girdle of splendor," based on the parallel terms lbwš y'q'r "robes of glory" and lbwšy' rb' d-nhwr' "great robes of light" and the occurrence of zywyht' "splendor" in the corresponding context in the late (and apparently corrupt) parallel cited below (cf. Drower-Macuch, p. 166b, s.v. ziuihta 2). The rendering of 'štyhlyt as "I was stripped" in the present context is not "less likely," as claimed by Segal (note to line 14), but totally unlikely. Cf. the examples of the expression (')štyhlyt w'tyt "I was sent and came" cited by Drower-Macuch, pp. 450b-451a, s.v. ŠHL II "to send (away), dispatch." A semantically equivalent expression, 'yštgr w'ṭ' "he was sent and came," occurs in a Jewish Aramaic incantation bowl (AMB, Bowl 13:21) in a parallel context. A similar pair of Akkadian verbs, šapāru "to send" and alāku "to go," likewise occurs in a magical context with reference to a (human) emissary on a divine mission against evil beings in Maqlû I, 61–62 (CAD, Š/1, p. 436a): šaprāku allak u"urāku adabbub ana lēt kaššāpiya u kaššāptiya Asalluḫi bēl āšipūti išpuranni "I am sent — I go, I am ordered — I speak, Asalluḫi, god of exorcism, has sent me against my sorcerer and sorceress." A parallel to the Akkadian text (including the subsequent verbal pair wu"uru "to order" and dabābu "to speak") occurs in Hebrew in a nonmagical context with reference to a (human) emissary on a divine mission in Jer 1:7: wy'mr YHWH 'ly 'lt'mr n'r 'nky ky 'l kl 'šr 'šlḥk tlk w't kl 'šr 'ṣwk tdbr "But the Lord said to me: Do not say, 'I am (but) a youth', for to everyone to whom I send you, you shall go and everthing that I order you, you shall speak." Cf. the comparison of the thematically related verse Is. 6:8 with Akkadian mannam lušpur u luwa"ir ... "Whom shall I send with orders..." by N. Wasserman, Syntactic and Rhetorical Patterns in Non-Epic Old-Babylonian Literary Texts (Hebrew University of Jerusalem PhD Thesis, 1993), p. 73, n. 55 (citing an oral communication by A. (1) In the name of Life and in the name (2) of the Lord of Life. (3) May there be healing and protection and victory and sealing and arming (4) for this body and spirit and soul and for this house, dwelling (5) and residence and building and threshold and livestock and possessions (6) of P. son of A. and Rimay daughter of Dara, his wife. And may there be healing for their male sons (7) and for their female daughters. By the healing of Man, the healer. This is the charm that (8) Manda d̲-Hiia himself prepared, and he came against the seven planets and against the sahras and against the dēws and against the demons and against the (9) spirits and against the humartas and against the liliths. The earth which saw him shook and the heavens trembled and the world in its entirety quaked. (10) I have performed a (magical) suppression on earth. Seized is the power of all the sahras and dēws and demons and spirits [and humartas] and liliths. (11) They are bound and annulled from the house ...[of P. son of A.] and Rimay daughter of Dara, [his wif]e. [(...) Bound and ar]med is their house (text: houses) (12) against the sorcery of Ruha and against [...] and against w[ords ...and against] hateful [appa]ritions and ag[ainst the sorcery of three] hundred and sixty- (13) two languages [and against speaking] and acc[eptance of darkness]... (14) ...[Bound is...] with radiance and sealed with [light] ...(15) ...[Exterior] ...(16') ...(17') [...and from their ma]le [sons] and from their female daughters, and [may there be] healing [...].

6: "P. son of A.": Segal reads the first name as p(wh'ry'), but the reading is not convincing. Read possibly pyh'dwr'. 9: w{š}šwmy': The extraneous š, if correctly read, is poorly written and may have been intentionally rewritten by the scribe. 9: 'št'rzl't: Cf. Drower-Macuch, p. 475b, s. v. ŠRHZL. 12: (s'yn')t' "hateful": The first three letters are not certain, but the reading is suggested by the parallels (cf. 104M:10: 'mwmt' s(y)nt' "hateful conjuration[s]"). 12: w(m)n hršy' d̲-tl't "and ag[ainst the sorcery of three] hundred": The reconstruction is clearly required by the context and confirmed by 104M:10. The lacuna seems slightly larger than necessary, but there is not enough space for an additional expression.

107M: Note that the photograph of 107M in plate 121 is erroneously labeled as 102M. The signs > and >– represent marks used by the scribe to signify the end of sections. [5] Readings published by Müller-Kessler (1999) are marked below in bold script. Some of Müller-Kessler's readings can not be verified based on the published photograph, but have been provisionally accepted here. To minimize confusion, the line numbering follows Segal as closely as possible, although there would appear to be traces of some additional lines at the beginning of the incantation (so Müller-Kessler).

3': hʿbyl hlwpʾ: The name of the client is hʿbyl hlwpʾ (so Müller-Kessler [1999]), not hʿbyl hlypʾ, as read by Segal. 10': ḏ-qʾymʾ qwdʾmʾyn "who serve them (lit. stand before them)": Cf. ḏ-qʾymyʾ ʿlʾwḫ "who serve him" (081M:5 [above]). The same expression occurs in parallel with ŠMŠ (Paʿel) "to serve, minister to" in Ginza Yamina (ed. Petermann) 209, 16–17 (and parallels): ʾlyp ʾlyp qʾymyʾ qwdʾmḫ wrwbʾn rwbʾn ṭʾywtʾ mšʾmšʾlḫ "Thousand(s) upon thousand(s) serve him (lit. stand before him) and myriad(s) upon myriad(s) of evil spirits minister to him." 12': ... nʿryg ḏ-kškʾr wʿsyr ... šʾr [ḏ-k]škʾr "[Bound is DN of ... and bound is] Nirig of Kaškar and bound is [DN of Ka]škar": This line most likely parallels MS 2054/23:4–5: wʿsyr nyryg ḏ-nhʾr kwpt[yʾ] w[ʿ]syr nyryg ḏ-kškʾr wʿsyr nyšʾr ḏ-kšk(ʾr) "And bound is Nirig of the river Kupt(ia) and bound is Nirig of Kaškar and bound is Nišar of Kaškar." Parallel references to Nirig of the river Kuptia and Nišar of Kaškar also occur in the unpublished Mandaic lead roll BM 132947+, 170'-171', cited by Ch. Müller-Kessler and K. Kessler, "Spätbabylonisches Gottheiten in spätantiken mandäischen Texten," Zeitschrift für Assyriologie 89 (1999): 79, 68. 13': wrwqʾ rʾyqyʾ "and spit spittle": Segal's proposed emendation, {wrwqʾ} wrʾyqyʾ (incorrectly reading wrʾyqyʾ for rʾyqyʾ), is gratuitous, as the same expression occurs in MIT, 5:6 and 6:6. 15': Segal's reading wrgylyʾ wkbyšyʾ hynwn is most likely correct, but is not visible to the present author in the photograph. 16': byt zyb(nʾ): There would appear to be the remains of a crossed out letter between the two words. 16': For šyršyʾ "tribes," cf. Drower-Macuch, pp. 463b-464a, s.v. širša. In the present context, šyršʾ is equivalent to šwrbtʾ "brood, tribe, family" (see Drower-Macuch, p. 457a, s.v.), which also frequently occurs in incantations with reference to hordes of demons (e.g., 088M:7). 16': ʿtkʾ is an unassimilated variant of the usual ʿkʾ (Drower-Macuch, p. 348b, s.v. ʿka 1). 17': bhylʾ {bhylʾ} wʿrwtʾ "by the power and illumination": See Drower-Macuch, p. 357, s.v. ʿruta "illumination ... brilliance..." Cf. 081M:11: bhylʾy ... wrwtʾy, which Segal himself renders "in my power ... and my illumination." It should be noted that Segal's translation of ʿrwtʾ as "fever" is based on Aramaic *ʿryt*ʾ in the hendiadys *ʾštʾ wʿryt*ʾ "fever and chills," for which see AMB, pp. 47 and 49. *ʿryt*ʾ itself is properly "chill, shivering" (so Segal, p. 216, s.v.), which fits the present context even less than "fever." The cognate Mandaic term *ʿšʾtʾ wrwyt*ʾ "fever and chills," incidently, occurs in E. S. Drower, "A Phylactery for Rue (An Invocation of the Personified Herb)," Orientalia N. S. 15 (1946), p. 325, line 10 (incorrectly rendered "fever and weakness" by the editor [ibid., p. 334] and by Drower-Macuch, p. 429b, s. v. ruita). The same expression also occurs in DC 37, 267 (unpublished). Cf. also the semantic equivalent ʿš'tʾ hʾmymtyʾ wqʾryrtyʾ "hot and cold fever" (see Drower-Macuch, p. 403a, s. v. qarir). 17': šytyn wšytʾ "sixty-six": The present author can not discern these words in the photograph, but the same reading is proposed independently by both Segal and Müller-Kessler. 20': The beginning of the line is probably to be read (ʿsyrʾ) ʿstrʾ and comprises a dittograph of the final words of the previous line on the interior of the bowl. The present author can not discern traces of mygṭlʾ in the photograph, but Segal's reading (except for the final y) must be correct. The demon ʿstʾr ṭwrʾ "the Istar of the mountain" also occurs in AMB, Bowl 9:14 (written: ʾystr ṭwrʾ). Cf. ṭwrʾytʾ lylytʾ "the mountain-lilith" (DC 43F, 54 [cf. Drower-Macuch, p. 179a, s. v. ṭuraita]). The mountains as a home of demons is already attested in Akkadian literature. For references, see CAD, Š/1, p.. 55b, s.v.šadû A, meaning 1i.

109M: 2–3: thwylḫ (3) [...]k "May there be ...(3) [for Daro]k" — read: thwylḫ l[byt]ḫ (3) d-k "May there be ...for the [house (3) of] Farrok". The name of the client would seem to be Farrok, not Darok as read by Segal. 10–15: Read: (b)šmḫ ... mlʾkʾ (11) myk(ʾ)ʿ*yyl mlʾkʾ* (12) bšwmḫ d-(šyt)yl (13) mlʾkʾ bšw(m)ḫ (14) d-*šmšyy*ʿ*yyl* (15) mlʾkʾ "in the name ...the angel, (11) Michael the angel, (12) in the name of Šitil (13) the angel, in the name (14) of Šamšiel (15) the angel". Segal's reading (ʿ)*z*ʿ*yl* in line 10 seems plausible. 25–28: whtymʾ ... pt[...] — read: whtymʾ (26) hʾ nyšmtḫ d-(p) (27) rwk br qʾqʾy (28) w pt (ʾhʾt) "and sealed is (26) [th]is soul of (27) Farrok son of Qaqay (28) [and] Dostoya daughter of Ahat". 38–41: Read: ...(*byny*ʾ) šwmyʾ (39) (wʾrqʾ) wmšʾbyʾ (40) hyyʾ wʾswtʾ (41) thwylḫ "...between the heavens (39) and the earth. And Life is praised! (40) And may there be healing (41) for".

110M: The author of this bowl does not seem to have been well versed in the scribal art. Read section I (Segal's lines 1–9) tentatively as follows:

(1) h(ʾ)ln dmwtʾ (2) (d-)ʾ*dʾwnʾy* (3) b(š)wmʾ d-hy(yʾ) (4) ʾswtʾ wyhʾtʾmʾ (5) tʾ wntʾrtʾ thy (6) wylḫ lbytḫ (dybr)(7)(bydyryʾ) br mmy (8) d-ʾ*dw* <nʾy> [at an angle to lines 3–5] (9) ʾs (10) rʾ d-pˆrˆ [zlʾ]

(1) These (are) pictures (2) of Adunay. (3) In the name of Life. (4) May there be healing and sealing (5) and protection (6) for the house of Ybr (7) bydyryʾ son of Mamay. (8) Of Adu<nay>. [at an angle to lines 3–5] (9) Bond (10) of ir[on].

1–2: These lines would appear to explain the drawings. If this interpretation is correct, Segal's line 9 (d-ʾ*dy* "of Adday") should then be read d-ʾ*dw*<nʾy> "of Adu<nay>", as proposed above, referring to the following drawing. 6–7: The reading of the name of the client is uncertain. A reading dyrḫ "(and) dwelling" for dybr does not seem epigraphically likely.

111M: This bowl parallels 102M (above). As recognized by C. Walker in the Table of Registration Numbers and Provenances (p. 38), 111M was originally published by C. H. Gordon, "Two Magic Bowls in Teheran," Orientalia N.S. 20 (1951), pp. 306–315 (pp. 309–10, 314–15). Segal briefly cites Gordon's study in his note to line 8, but does not appear to have otherwise profited from the earlier edition. This is unfortunate, as Gordon's transcription is for the most part superior to that of Segal. Read:

(Drower-Macuch, p. 200b). It is tentatively understood as a Pa'el active participle, i. e., "polluting." The root K'R is semnatically related to the root ṬNP "to be impure" (MD, p. 181), and derivatives of the two roots are attested in parallel (see MD, p. 271, s. v. mkairuta and ibid., p. 100, s. v. KAR [Ethpa.]). mb'dy'mkyry' "polluting (magical) practices" may thus be compared with r'zy' mṭ'npy', rendered "defiling mysteries" by MD, p. 181, s. v. ṬNP. The analysis of mkyry' (and mṭ'npy' as Pa'l passive particles, both meaning "polluted, impure," is also morphologically possible. In such a case, compare the resulting parallel byšy' "evil" // mkyry' "polluted, impure" with the parallel byšt' "evil" // ṭmyt' "impure" in AMB, Bowl 13:17 (Jewish Babylonian Aramaic): ḥwmry byšt' ḥwmry ṭmyt' ḥwmry zydnyt' "evil humartas, impure humartas, malicious humartas."

PREFACE

The documents from the Cairo Genizah published in this volume were obtained by Mr Charles L. Freer in Egypt in 1908. They now form a part of the collections in the Freer Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C.

In December, 1906, Mr Freer had purchased at Gizeh the now well-known Greek manuscripts of Deuteronomy and Joshua, the Gospels and the Psalms, and fragments of a manuscript of the Epistles of Paul. A report upon them was made by Professor Henry A. Sanders at the meeting of the Archaeological Institute of America in Chicago at the end of December, 1907. Much interest was aroused; and since it seemed probable that the manuscripts had been found in the ruins of a monastery and had formed a part of a monastic library, Mr Freer resolved to spare no effort to obtain other portions of the same collection in case such should have been brought to light. With this in mind, he made a special trip to Egypt in 1908. The most diligent inquiry, however, failed to elicit information that would lead to the recovery of other Greek manuscripts of value; but in his quest Mr Freer did secure some Coptic parchments, in which was included a Psalter, and the Genizah fragments.

The Coptic Psalter was handed to me by Mr Freer in Detroit on September 15, 1908. A few days later his Curator brought to me at the University of Michigan the remaining Coptic leaves and the Genizah documents. All this material was at once examined by Dr William H. Worrell. The Coptic Psalter and the other leaves afterwards were published by Mr Worrell in Volume X of the Humanistic Series of the University of Michigan Studies; in the same series, Volumes VIII and IX, Mr Sanders had already published the Greek manuscripts.

Learning of the presence of the Genizah documents in Detroit, and appreciating, as few scholars would, their value as source material for the history of an obscure but important period, Professor Richard Gottheil in 1912 undertook to prepare them for publication. He had accomplished the extremely difficult task of transcribing the texts when the war broke out. Responding to the call of duty, with much personal sacrifice and risk to health, he devoted himself to humanitarian work in New York until the Armistice, and beyond.

Resuming his preparation of the Genizah material as soon as possible, he finished the first draft of the translation of nearly all the documents, and had commenced the preparation of notes, when an accumulation of work, due to having been called to spend an academic year at the University of Strasbourg, obliged him to ask to be relieved from further responsibility for the completion of the volume.

Very reluctantly the request of Professor Gottheil was granted, and he placed all the material in the hands of Professor Worrell in November, 1924. It is not possible to distinguish by marks the work of the two scholars, but for the final form of the volume Professor Worrell is alone responsible. Professor Gottheil personally examined certain Genizah documents in the Taylor-Schechter, Bodleian, British Museum and Paris Consistoire collections; and his name is therefore given with the observations bearing upon these collections. Similarly his name is mentioned in a number of other instances in which Mr Worrell was unable to verify sources or to express a personal opinion. Dr Samuel Feigin worked out No. XLIV independently, and that number has been printed just as it came from his pen, entirely upon his responsibility.

Professor A. Marx, Professor Ginzberg, and Professor Israel Davidson, all of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, Mr David Yellin, of Jerusalem, and Mr B. Chapira, of Paris, assisted Professor Gottheil with particular matters which have been acknowledged in their place. Mr Leon Nemoy, of Yale University, verified references to books in distant libraries. Anne MacKenzie Worrell gave vital assistance with references, analyses, manuscript, and proof. The Jewish Institute of Religion, New York, the Case Memorial Library, Hartford, Ct., the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, and the University of Michigan, loaned books of reference. To all of these the editors unite in expressing their indebtedness.

The heliotype plates of the volume were executed by the Heliotype Company, in Boston, under the direction of Mr W. C. Ramsay. The cost of publication was defrayed from the Freer Research and Publication Fund of the University of Michigan.

INTRODUCTION[1]

i. The Cairo Genizah

THE Hebrew word genīzāh means "safe-keeping," "hiding," "archive," "treasury," "hiding-place." Specifically it means a depository where worn-out, heretical, or disgraced books, written or printed, useless documents and letters, or other objects of pious solicitude, are stored.

Genizahs among Jews, and similar institutions among Christians, owe their origin doubtless to the feeling that objects hallowed by religious or personal use and association may not be destroyed even though they have ceased to be useful. Fear of profanation leads to the practice of hiding them, in walls or attics, in the ground, or with the dead, in order that, like the beloved dead, they may remain forever safe until obliterated by Time, under the dispensation of Providence. In Europe and elsewhere a corner of the graveyard was set apart for this purpose[2]. There is such a place in Florence[3], marked by an appropriate inscription. In the ancient Coptic "Red Monastery" at Sohaj worn-out prayer-books, vestments, and altar-paraphernalia are thrown into a pit. The theological motivation among the Jews is the protection of the Divine Name from desecration. Genizah papers are indeed sometimes called shemōth, "names." Islam shows a similar solicitude for any piece of writing or printing, because it almost certainly contains the Name of God[4].

The word genīzāh has now become a proper name, designating the literary limbo of the ancient Synagogue of Elijah[5] in Old Cairo. The Genizah and its contents have had a long history which unfortunately cannot yet be written because of the incompleteness and hear-say character of the evidence. From the account of Mr E. N. Adler in the Jewish Encyclopedia, vol. v, pp. 612 ff., we learn that the Synagogue was originally a Christian church, bearing the name of St Michael. Chosroes, partly as an enemy of the faith of Byzantium, and partly no doubt as the heir of Cyrus, in 616 turned the Synagogue over to the Jews. Benjamin of Tudela visited it in the twelfth century, and thought it a very ancient place. The great Egyptian antiquary, al-Maḳrīzī (A.D. 1364–1442), writes: "Synagogue of the Syrians: This synagogue is in the street of Ḳaṣr al-Sham', of the city of Cairo, and it is ancient. There is an inscription above its door, in the Hebrew writing, engraven in the wood, to the effect that it was built in the year 336 of Alexander (A.D. 24), which is about 45 years before the second destruction of Jerusalem, by Titus (A.D. 70), and 600 years before the Hijrah (A.D. 622). And in this synagogue there is a copy of the Law which all agree to be entirely in the handwriting of the Prophet Ezra." No doubt Mann is right, and we are to understand that the inscription read "(1)336" of the Seleucid Era, which is A.D. 1024 (The Jews in Egypt and in Palestine, vol. ii, p. 375). Simon van Geldern at about 1750, and Jacob Saphir in 1864, both saw the Synagogue and its genizah, and recognised the value of their treasures.

Mrs Agnes Smith Lewis tells us casually[6] that the first known Genizah leaves were brought to Europe by Dr Lansing; but there appears to be no support for the statement. Mr E. N. Adler in 1888 visited the Synagogue; but he did not succeed in seeing the contents of the Genizah, for he was told that they had been buried. In the early nineties Professor Gottheil used to see the desk of Dr Neubauer, the sub-librarian of the Bodleian Library at Oxford, covered with portions of books which Dr Neubauer told him had come from the East, his professional discretion not permitting him to disclose their exact source. The Bodleian catalogue makes the statement that in 1890 the Rev. J. Chester bought some leaves in Cairo for the Bodleian Library, and adds that "the credit of first recognising their possible value to Hebrew literature belongs to Dr Neubauer." In Anecdota Oxoniensia (Semitic Series, parts 4–6, Medieval Jewish Chronicles II, 1895) Dr Neubauer published a chronicle which had evidently come from the Cairo Genizah[7]. In January, 1896, Mr Adler again came to Egypt, and, with the knowledge and help of the Chief Rabbi of Egypt, he took away a sackful of parchment and paper leaves.

On May 13th, 1897, Dr Schechter observed in a bundle of fragments brought from southern Palestine by Mrs Lewis and Mrs Gibson, a time-worn leaf of the lost Hebrew original of Ecclesiasticus[8]. With the promptness which was characteristic of him, Professor Schechter set out immediately for Cairo with the single purpose of bringing back the entire contents of the Genizah to Cambridge. Armed with an introduction to Lord Cromer he went to Egypt. A word from the latter to the Jewish authorities in Cairo opened up the old chamber. Professor Schechter was able to take away with him in sacks, at his own estimate, not less than one hundred thousand pieces of vellum and paper. He has given an account of this visit in his article, "A Horde of Hebrew Manuscripts[9]."

One doubts, however, whether Schechter brought back all that was in the Genizah. Undoubtedly the place had been plundered before his coming[10], and he was cheated by the men who worked with and for him. Mrs Lewis[6] tells us that leaves were somehow stolen between the packing and unpacking; and that she personally bought some of these from dealers in Cairo. At any rate, a lot of the material had escaped. The Jews themselves had taken the overflow of the Genizah proper, and buried it in their cemetery in the desert, called al-Basātīn, where they had constructed several underground chambers for the purpose. From this place Professor Gottheil in 1910 secured fragments, both early and late. So much had escaped that there is hardly a large library in Europe that is without its collection of Genizah fragments. Of first importance in this respect are the British Museum, the Bodleian, the Jewish Consistory of Paris, the Royal Library of Berlin, the Municipal Library of Frankfurt and the library of the Archduke Rainer, in Vienna. Many private collections also possess them. Dropsie College, Philadelphia, is the custodian of some four hundred and fifty documents, apparently from the Cairo Genizah[11].

No list has ever been made, nor is one likely soon to be made, of all the places where Genizah fragments have found a resting-place.

The contents of Mr Adler's famous "sack" were brought to the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, in New York, where they are at the disposition of American scholars; and the great mass of material removed officially by Professor Schechter is now the Taylor-Schechter collection at Cambridge.

It seems certain that the Genizah, once filled to overflowing—literally overflowing into the community cemetery—is now emptied of everything of value. The three most recent visits disclosed nothing but printed matter. But a great deal may still be in the hands of dealers.

[10] The Synagogue had been repaired some time before Schechter's visit, most probably about 1890, shortly after which date the Genizah material began to appear at the Bodleian. To quote from a reliable correspondent, whose name cannot be mentioned: "Before the late Dr Schechter transferred its remains to Cambridge, many dealers helped themselves to small bundles of fragments which they would obtain by bakhshish from the beadle of the old Synagogue at Fusṭāṭ (Old Cairo), where the Genizah had been discovered in an attic as a result of the work of repairing the Synagogue. The workmen on tearing down the roof dumped all the contents of this attic into the court-yard, and there the MSS were lying for several weeks in the open. During these weeks many dealers could obtain bundles of leaves for nominal sums. They later sold these bundles at good prices to several tourists and libraries."

But the Genizah was known in 1750 and 1864, as we have seen, and hence could not be "discovered." Also, if "all the contents" were dumped into the court-yard, they must have been restored, in part at least, to the Genizah before Schechter's visit in 1897, for he found them there. In view of all the statements, perhaps the contents of the Genizah and the entrance to it, were always known to the Synagogue authorities. They deceived Adler upon his first visit, in 1888, with a conventional answer: The contents of a genizah are regularly buried. Before the repairs, the contents and their whereabouts were well known, but not their value. That fact appeared to the Synagogue authorities only after they had seen the beadle sell to the dealers.

[11] Formerly in the (Cyrus) Adler, Sulzberger, Amram, Friedenwald, and Cobern collections. These, together with other Genizah material in Philadelphia, are characterised by the late Dr B. Halper in his Descriptive Catalogue (1924).

The Genizah documents which have thus far been examined have contributed immensely to the history of the Jews in the eastern Mediterranean, especially in Egypt. Before the discovery little was known of the government of the communities, their tastes and activities, their daily lives. The article "Egypt" in the Jewish Encyclopedia, written in 1903, in the absence of a second edition of that work has been overtaken by the excellent book of Dr Jacob Mann, The Jews in Egypt and in Palestine under the Fāṭimid Caliphs (Oxford, 1920–22). It is hoped, however, that some day all the Genizah material will be published in the original texts, and with logical or chronological sequence, in a Corpus Geniziacorum; and that before long some body of scholars and some Maecenas will be found to undertake the task.

ii. The Freer Collection

The Genizah documents edited in the present volume were purchased by Mr Charles L. Freer of Detroit in the year 1908, from a dealer in Gizeh. Nothing further is known of their provenance. They were probably picked up by the curious or the speculative at the time when the Synagogue was being repaired. Every Egyptian knows the negotiable value of antiquities, particularly of inscribed leaves. It is, of course, also possible that they were dug up by natives after being regularly buried by the authorities of the Synagogue. It is even possible that they never were in the Synagogue, but that they were obtained from some ancient cemetery, where they had been originally buried with the dead.

The Freer collection of Genizah documents has been placed in the Freer Gallery of the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, D.C.

iii. The Paper

All the fragments are written upon Paper.

Nos. V, VI, VII, VIII, IX, X, XII, XIII, XV, XIX, XXIII, XXIV, XXV, XXVI, XXVII, XXVIII, XXX, XXXI, XXXII, XXXIV, XXXV, XXXVIII, XXXIX, XLII, XLIII, XLIV, XLV, and XLVI are without screen-marks. Nos. I, II, III, IV, XI, XIV, XVI, XVII, XVIII, XX, XXI, XXIX, XXXIII, XXXVI, XL, XLVIII, and XLIX have coarse, and Nos. XXII, XXXVII, XLI, XLVII, and L, fine screen-marks.

Watermarks are to be found on Nos. XXVII and L. The former is apparently a mailed torso, and the latter a hand-and-star such as was employed by manufacturers in France, Switzerland, and Sicily, between A.D. 1490 and 1590, according to Briquet, Les Filigranes (1907).

iv. The Handwriting

Although some of the hands betray a familiarity with Arabic writing (XXVII), there is very little of Arabic writing to be found in the collection. The instances are: Nos. XVI (entire), XXVII and XXXV (addresses), II and XIX (scrawls on the back which we have not attempted to explain).

The Coptic numerals employed in No. XL would seem to indicate some contact with the Coptic-Arabic fiscal system.

The collection as a whole is written in Hebrew characters. There is nothing remarkable in the use of the Hebrew alphabet by the Jews when writing Arabic. They have done similarly in Persia, Spain, the Slavic countries, and America. So also the Greeks and Armenians use their national alphabets for writing Turkish. For a time the Jacobite Christians of the Lebanon wrote Arabic in Syriac characters, the so-called Karshūnī. Just as the use of the Arabic script quite generally follows the adoption of Islam, so the use of the Latin or the Greek alphabet shows historical and cultural relationship to the Latin church or the Greek church respectively. It is perhaps not that the letters are more sacred than the language; but that the letters can still be taught after it becomes impossible to continue the tradition of the language.

The variety and difficulty of the hands present at once the chief problem of the editors; although Hebrew writing, in the very nature of the case, is not usually so difficult as the freely ligatured Arabic. One group in particular, Nos. III, XII, XXII, XXXIII, XXXIV, and XXXV, is written in a very bad Hebrew hand in which similar letters are scarcely differentiated at all. Even for a Jew of that time and place these letters could not have been more legible than the proverbial scrawls of Horace Greeley are to us. As modern analogies to these memoranda-slips and leaves from note-books, we are to think of the slips which are issued to us by our grocers, or the personal memoranda and agenda which we carry about in our pockets.

It has been difficult to find a satisfactory standard for the classification of hands[12]. The traditional terms, "square," "half-square," and "cursive," have no definitive and generally accepted meaning. "Square" is used to designate the group of hands most nearly like the standard type of our Hebrew bibles. "Half-square" means usually the group resembling the "rabbinic" or "Rashi" type of the printers; "cursive" means perhaps a running hand with ligatures. But "square" hands become careless, and begin to look like "rabbinic"; while truly "cursive" hands can hardly be found at all. In this collection, in spite of the carelessness of many of the hands, there is only one (XXI) really "cursive" hand, in the sense of being freely ligatured.

Under these circumstances it has been thought best to invent a system, if only for the purposes of this volume; and to give the three traditional terms a definite meaning. As the letter ℵ is the most variable in the alphabet, and as its variation stands in a certain relation to the classes, "square," "half-square," and "cursive," we need only to define these classes in terms of the form of ℵ. In very few cases is the result belied by the general impression of the writing.

[12] Bernheimer, Paleografia Ebraica, Florence, 1924, has come to hand too late for consideration.

The square type is made with five strokes: א.

The half-square type is made with three strokes, and still resembles the square: א ב ה.

The cursive type is made with three or even two strokes, and does not much resemble the square: א נ ס ף ע.

Nineteen of the documents may be dated, exactly or approximately. If these be arranged in chronological order no definite development is apparent. E.g. No. XLVII, of A.D. 1067, has the same cursive form as No. XLI, which is certainly later than 1412. On the other hand, it appears that while cursive hands are commonest in letters and memoranda, square and half-square hands are employed in legal documents (XI, XLIII) and in other formal (XXXI, XXXII, XL) writing, and by persons writing letters from Jerusalem (V, XXVII).

v. The Dating

Unfortunately only nineteen of the fifty fragments can by any means be dated. Of these the earliest appears to be No. V (c. 1016?) or No. XLIII (1043), and the latest No. L (c. 1530?) or No. XL (1511). The undated ones may, of course, fall outside these limits. General considerations make it likely that nearly all of the collection belongs to the early or middle part of this period; and it is disappointing not to find some reference to the Crusades or the Mongol invasions.

vi. The Language and Languages

The interpretation of many of the letters is made peculiarly difficult by a certain characteristic vagueness, incoherence, and obscurity of language (18). The editors are well aware of their failure in many instances to grasp the meaning of the texts (139 ff.). Some of the trouble arises from pure slovenliness of thought and expression. Confusion between two possible forms or constructions, which present themselves simultaneously to the mind of the writer, are very common (36, 46, 119–126, 138, 152, 153, 158). To the obscurities of very bad Arabic (151) and Arabic under some strong foreign influence (XXXIII) are added the inelegancies of speech-mixture. Hebrew and Arabic are often frankly combined in a single document, even of some pretensions (XLIII). But Arabic and Hebrew are combined in the same words (XV); Arabic words are used in a Hebrew sense, and Hebrew words in an Arabic sense (39, 162); and the Arabic and Hebrew articles are even combined (104).

One cannot escape the impression, however, that there is a considerable element of deliberate geheimthuerei; "My letter has gone forward to you with the 'dogs,' who will tell you about it" (19). "And the 'Elephant'—God keep him!—did not wish to give colors" (95). "The writer of it is the slave, your insignificant servant, Genesis-Exodus" (133). Some of this is due to fear of the interception of letters, no doubt: "And it is not possible for me to explain to you..." (151). Much of it arises from the trade-slang of a forgotten age: No. XXXVI is an excellent example of this. Some of it may be humor: "Bought a slave" means "became the father of a son" (51). "The bed is the most important thing in the house" (21). "I needed first of all a tailor" (151).

The elaborate ceremonial of address in the letters, whether in Hebrew or in Arabic, suggests some relationship with the highly developed epistolary technique of the Arabs, as set forth in such books as the Ṣubḥ al-Aʿshā of al-Ḳalḳāshandī (died A.D. 1418)[13].

The languages used are Arabic, Hebrew, and Aramaic.

Except in the few cases where the language is bad, we may assume that Arabic was the mother tongue of the writers of all these documents. It is used for most of the personal letters, notes, and memoranda; and documents in Hebrew have a tendency to lapse into it. Hebrew is the language of formal letters, or letters written by proficient persons with a motive for emphasising the bond that united the Jews. Hebrew is the language of the poetic pieces, all more or less religious, and Aramaic the language of documents (XI); but words from both languages are often introduced into Arabic texts, especially where Jewish institutions are concerned.

It is perhaps unnecessary, except for completeness, to remark here that Hebrew was properly the language of Canaan (Isaiah xix, 18). Themselves a part of the Aramaean migration, and in contact with Aramaic (Gen. xxxi, 47; II Sam. x, 6; Jud. xviii, 28), the Jews must have become more familiar with Aramaic after the deportations of Israelites and importation of Aramaeans in 734 and 722 B.C. (II Kings xv, 29; xvii, 6, 24; Ezra iv, 2, 10). Aramaic was understood by Judaeans of the upper classes as early as 701 B.C. (II Kings xviii, 26; Isaiah xxxvi, 11). During the fifty years of exile in an Aramaic-speaking Babylon the Jews must have learned that language thoroughly, as the steady process of aramaïsation in post-exilic Hebrew testifies. The writer of Ezra (end of fourth century B.C.) and the writer of Daniel (about 167 B.C.) not only include Aramaic documents and reports, but themselves use Aramaic within the body of a Hebrew book, intended for Jewish readers. With the beginning of Hellenistic times Hebrew seems to have perished as a spoken language. It was replaced by Aramaic and Greek. After the decline of Greek in the fourth century, Aramaic, in various forms, continued to be the language of Jews in the orient until the Muslim conquests, in the latter part of the seventh century A.D. Medieval and modern Hebrew have so strong an infusion of Aramaic at times, that they may be said to consist of a mixture of the two. This did not occur with Arabic, probably because of the greater difference between Arabic and Hebrew; although Arabic became the chief language of the Jews in the East.

[13] Cf. a similar work in Zeitschr. der deutschen morg. Gesell., vol. lxx, pp. 7 ff. British Museum 182, Hebrew A3, gives suggestions for writing to a superior for assistance.

vii. Arabic

At times the Arabic used approximates to the classical idiom. The suffix -kumū occurs in a rajaz-verse (133); and there are instances of the iʿrāb and the tanwīn (41). But for the most part the Arabic is colloquial in some degree. The type is usually Egyptian; but it is often Palestinian or Syrian, or even Maghribī (VII). This colloquialism varies from a slight coloring or an occasional slip, to an out-and-out use of the vernacular (IX, XII, XXVI, XXVII, XXVIII, XXX, XXXIII, XXXIV, XLV). In the two letters (or two parts of one letter?) written by a slave (or servant?) to his master (XXVIII, XXX) we have perhaps the oldest existing specimens of colloquial, howbeit Jewish Arabic. The writer spells both his Arabic and his Hebrew words phonetically. No. XXVI is most peculiar, if indeed we have read it properly.

Orthography and phonology must be treated together, as we cannot always know whether we are dealing with peculiarities of spelling or peculiarities of pronunciation. Some of the texts are more phonetic than others, writing the consonants and long vowels apparently as heard and spoken (130), and even occasionally indicating the short vowels (63, 139).

The Hebrew letters employed in expressing the Arabic sounds are those which etymologically correspond to the Arabic letters; but some cases require special comment:

ت and ث = ת
ط = ט
د and ذ = ד
ض = דׇ
س = ס, rarely שׂ or צ (3) under influence of ט (15)
ص = צ, rarely ז (51)
ز = ז, rarely צ (138)
ظ = טׇ
ج = גׄ, indicating a non-Cairene pronunciation
خ = כ, rarely ח, as in Europe (122, 138)
غ = עׇ
ق = ק, rarely ה (152), or omitted, because = hamzah (154)
ح = ח, rarely ה (50, 140), or ע under influence of ת (63)
ع = ע, rarely omitted, in numerals (138)
ه = ה, rarely omitted, in fī[hi] (112)
ـِ ـُ = י, passim. Short i also? (138, 230) = יא
ه = ה, rarely הא (12 ff., 159)

In the way of forms and syntactic peculiarities not necessarily colloquial:

אבי for ابو (114, 152)
אביך for اخوك (150, 152)
מתופיה for مُتَوَفّاة (38)

Also the frequent omission of the article, the strange use of prepositions, and the redundant "it" (XXVII especially).

Peculiarities of vocabulary not necessarily colloquial:

يَؤُمّ, "he intends" (24)
إِبْراء, "acquittal" (35)
أَمْر, "business" (162)
بَيْن, "by agreement" (43)
ثَقَّل, "forced" (34)
ثَمَن, "value" (164)
לא תגטט, for لا تُجَطّ (?), "do not be concerned" (154)
جُمْلة, "shipment" (97)
حديث, "business" (37)
" , "matter" (63)
يُحَرّص, "he should urge" (39)
مُحاكَمة, "judiciable claim"? (43)
مخدوم, "master" (138, 140)
خُضْرة, "mouldiness" (122)
خاطَر, "risked" (152)
يُخْلِف, "may he recompense" (154)
أُدْخِل له تحْته, "I pay to him, to remain under his management"? (32 ff.)
يُدِرّهم, "he liquidated them"? (39)
אדעא, for أَدْعَى, "he asserted"? (34 f.)
דפועהא, for دَفْعُها, "their delivery"? (97)
دَرَج, "moment" (162)
دفعتْ, "she summoned to court"? (55)
ذكَر, "he said" (34 ff. et passim)
راسى, "myself" (140)
رِقام, "embroidery" (152)
سبستان, "prunes" (123)
סרס, for شَرَس, "quarrel"? (132)
سُرْسور, "manager" (193)
مُتَسَفّر, "despatcher" (228)
أَسْقى, "he treated"? (112)
أَسْلَفْتُ, "I borrowed" (140)
اِسْتَمَعْنا, "we inquired" (45)
سِعْر, "purchase-price"? (164)

أَسْنَهُ, "payable next year"? (141)
مُشِدّ, "inspector," "overseer" (141)
شُغْل القَلْب, "worry" (36 et alibi)
شِقاق, "chaff"? (118)
شاكِريّة, "favor"? "wages"? (63)
شُرْطة, "police" (69, 95)
ضعف, "was not able" (112, 121)
طلب, "wished," "tried" (121)
على, "for"? (20 et alibi)
غاسول, "soap" (123)
غَلاء, "profiteering"? (125)
الفور, "Purim" (46)
قبول, "before" (120)
לקד אן, "because"? (21)
المُسْتَقِرّ, "the inquirer"? (62, 150 et alibi)
אקרא, for أَقْرُو, "I being impatient for"? (126)
قِصَص, "doings" (127)
كِراء, "cost"? "load"? (57, 73)
كِسْبة, "estate"? (49)
كَنِيسيّة, "church" (19, 120, 156)
تَلْشِيمة, "reconciliation" (42)
מהד, "dowry"? (57)
مع, "about"? (119)
معانى, "affairs"? (20)
المملوك, "your obedient servant"? "slave"? (24, 133)
ناخُوذة, "ship's captain" (48)
أَنْفَذْتَ, "you sent" (50)
أَنْفَذ, "it had paid" (150)
وَجْه, "important thing"? (20)
يَتَّجِه, "it might be due"? (9)
وَلَد, "son" (39)
وَلَّف, "he collected" (119)

Of especial interest are the instances of colloquial phonology (Egyptian, unless otherwise stated):

Loss of ' in numerals (114, 138, 163 et alibi).
Loss of final -hi (112).
New ' arising out of ḫ (154 bis), or triliterality (199).
Change of ' to ḥ before the voiceless stop t (63).

Change of s to ṣ before the emphatic stop ṭ (15).

Loss of final short vowel of verbal forms, resulting in shortening of preceding vowel (34), or (when the root ends with l) assimilation to the l of the preposition (46, 138, 140, 156).

Accent on first syllable in broken plurals of the form fa'ālīl, with consequent shortening of second syllable, so as to produce the form fa'alīl (160 et passim).

Maghribī accent on last syllable with consequent loss of initial vowel in ibn and abū (32, 41, 69).

Colloquial forms are frequent:

wilād for awlād (40).

Characteristic forms of numerals (138).

Maghribī hūmā for hum (140).

lē and ilō for lahu (Palestinian and Syrian, 33).

hādī for hādha (Palestinian and Syrian, 152).

dī for hādha (162).

ēsh for mā (Palestinian and Syrian, 21, 39, 52, 124, 152).

hēk for hākadhā (Palestinian and Syrian, 152).

The negative suffix -sh[e] (54, 65, 121, 140, 150, 151), at times still objective and not yet adverbial (150, 151).

The present-tense-prefix bi- with the imperfect (39, 112, 152).

The Maghribī first-person-singular (sic!) prefix with the imperfect, n, if it be not a mere use of "we" for "I." (Spanish-Moroccan? 152 et alibi.)

The external t in the VIIIth form of the verb (51, 52, 53, 160).

Metathesis of first vowel in verbs whose third radical is y, e.g. iḥkēt for ḥakaitu (Palestinian, 140).

Inflection of verbs whose third radical is ' (47) and verbs whose second and third radicals are identical (155), as though they were verbs whose third radical is y.

Simplification of yuṭma'ínn to yutámmin (47).

The pseudo-verb fī[h] (151).

The conjunctions walla (125) and ila wa (56).

The adverb lissa (65).

Syntactic peculiarities of the colloquial:

The relative pronoun alladhī is at times used as a conjunction in the manner in which its colloquial counterpart, illi, is used in Cairene vernacular at the present day. This is precisely the history of the Germanic demonstrative (English that) which becomes relative and then conjunctive: "That book that denies that such is the case" (45, 130).

The Hebrew letters אֲ occur many times in such a way as to appear to be the Arabic conjunction an, used as an indefinite relative pronoun (45, 51, 54, 96, 130). As everyone knows, Arabic has no indefinite relative pronoun. This an would seem therefore to be used in the manner of Hebrew -שֶׁ. At times it stands between an undetermined noun and its attributive adjective (45, 54, 96).

The conjunction an is omitted (121).

The participle is used for a finite verb (? 51).

Vocabulary and idioms which are like modern colloquial:

baṭṭāl,	"worthless," "bad" (34)
baḳa,	"he became"? (44, 63)
jāb,	"he brought" (38)
yejīb,	"that he bring" (121)
jābu,	"they would bring [a price]" (39)
jawāb,	"letter" (62)
ḥājah,	"thing" (19, 63, 120, 160), plural, ḥawā'ij (154, 187)
חדות,	"story" (47)
dā,	"he gave" (56)
rāḥ,	"he went" (46)
ruḥt fī ḥālī,	"I went about my business" (140)
ashṭar,	"cleverer" (160)
שיתאן,	"rascal" (113)
'ā'iz,	"desirous" (46)
ḳabadū,	"they have received" (120)
ti[ḳ]rā 'annī.....as-salām,	"give my greetings to....." (154)
bi naẓrak,	"with your favor" (141)
nuṣṣ,	"half" (122)

viii. Hebrew and Aramaic

The few Hebrew words which are spelled phonetically after the Arabic fashion (130) indicate the Sephardic value of the vowel ָ: ā (130). In No. XV, however, we have גודל uniformly for גָּדוֹל, and עוליך for עָלֶיךָ, and פעומים for פְּעָמִים (77, 79), indicating that ָ was pronounced ō, and that the accent rested upon the penult. Both of these peculiarities are foreign to the present pronunciation of Hebrew by Jews of Sephardic origin in Arabic-speaking lands, and characteristic of the pronunciation of Jews of Ashkenazic, Yememite, Persian, and Caucasian origin. There is no reason for suspecting Ashkenazic influence more than the others.

Arabic ابو frequently becomes אבי (142) on the analogy of ancient names, such as Abimelech (142).

Very few unusual meanings appear. דְּיוֹקְנִי, which generally means "picture," must mean "copy" (29). הַגְּרִי, "Hagarene," a biblical word, referring to a certain Arab tribe, stands for "Arabic" in general (27), instead of עַרְבִיִּים. שַׂר is a technical term for the chief figure which appears in the vision seen by a crystal-gazer (76). The poet, in quest of rimes, invents new words (173, 175).

ix. Contents

Of theological material there is only an unimportant fragment of Maimonides (XXXIX), an equally poor one of Simeon Ḳayyāra (VI), and an extremely problematic jumble of halachic notes of very doubtful origin and purpose (XLIV).

Poetry (pizmōnīm) is represented by a panegyric of Abraham Maimunī (XXIX), religious poems or hymns (pizmōnīm) and fragments (XVII, XIX, XX), including a biblical paraphrase (XXXVIII).

The liturgy is found in two specimens (X, XLVI), and liturgical notes in three (XXIII, XXV, XLII). None of these, except possibly XLVI, is of any interest. Nos. XXIII, XXV, and XLII are not only extremely difficult to translate and explain, but very difficult to account for.

There are two interesting magical texts or amulets (XV, XXIV), the former to be used in connection with some "scrying" or crystal-gazing ceremony.

Four of the items are documents in the precise legal sense: the extremely important formal agreement about the order of precedence in the Academy at al-Ramlah (XLIII), an interesting bill of divorce (XI), two documents recording the settlement of an indebtedness incurred in a partnership undertaking (I), and an all but completely unintelligible receipt in Arabic script (XVI). No. VII is the memorandum of an indignation meeting held by a defrauded investor, and hardly a legal document. The same may be said of the list of tax-payers (XIII), leaves from merchants' note-books (XIV, XVIII), and an accounting of expenses incurred by a business expedition (XXXVI). Two records of marriage-settlements, with long lists of articles belonging to the bride (XL, XLV), and a record of the sale of a slave (XLV), are probably informal documents.

Of the fifty numbers in the collection twenty-four contain letters. Nos. XXX and XXVIII probably are parts of the same letter, and XXXI and XXXII are certainly such; while No. L contains three distinct communications. We thus have twenty-four letters also. Not only do the letters constitute nearly half of the collection, but they are by far the most interesting part of it. In the picture which they give of Jewish life in Egypt from about A.D. 1000 to 1500, there is much that is characteristic of Jewish life and of life everywhere.

Letters were carried by travellers (47) or runners (XLVII) over vast distances, and arrived infrequently (47). Anxious relatives at home beg the young man to write oftener, and he replies that he is too busy (51). Every sort of letter is represented. There is the family-letter, mostly about personal trials and troubles (III, IX, XXVII, XXVIII, XXX); the begging letter of an aunt (XLIX); the appeal of a worthy man to the munificent al-Tustarī (XXXI–XXXII); the wheedling, half-threatening, plea for assistance in behalf of another (XLVIII); on the loss of a friend (XXI); the trivial polite letter (XXVI); to a departed guest (XXXIV); upon fleeing to Alexandria (XXXVII); on general business matters (XXII); to a business associate (XII, XXXIII); complaining to a business partner of his timidity (XXXV); from a wily old man in Jerusalem who knows better than to speculate in sugar (XLI); from a half heat-stricken man held up at a lonely caravan-station in Sinai (XLVII); about the adjustment of a debt (IV); about a real-estate controversy (VIII); about a case of divorce (V); complaint of political intrigue against the writer (II); exposure of a corrupt and tyrannical judge (L). From these letters, supplemented by the other material in the collection, we derive the data underlying the following sections.

x. Geography

The geographical range of the documents is from Aleppo and Turkey in the north to Aden in the south, and from Spain and France in the west to Colombo and India in the east.

Most important is Egypt, the home of prosperous Jewry. A number of Egyptian places are mentioned. At al-Fusṭāṭ (Old Cairo) was the congregation and Synagogue of Elijah, in whose archives were kept important letters received, and copies of important letters sent. Perhaps the Canal mentioned in No. IX is the ancient water-way which gave its name to the street al-Khalīg in modern Cairo (54). Alexandria is spoken of, and appears in several personal and family names.

Palestine, and particularly Jerusalem, are objects of concern. There is an allusion to the Jewish Quarter, to the Rubā'īyah (Mūristān?) and the Church (of the Holy Sepulchre?). There has been an earthquake, or similar catastrophe, and the "Glorious Place" has collapsed, and must be rebuilt (31). In the Holy City the chief necessities of life, then as now, were fuel-wood and olive oil, for heat and light (121), except when there was actual want of food (125). No. XXVII gives the familiar picture of Jewish misery in Jerusalem. Other places in Palestine and Syria are mentioned: Hebron? (118), al-Ramlah (201), Safed, Kafr Yāsīf, 'Ain al-Zaitūn (L), Tyre (127), Aleppo (103, XLVII). All the stations on the caravan route between Cairo and Damascus are mentioned in No. XXX. Caravans from Aleppo and Damascus stop at Ḳaṭyah in Sinai (XLVII).

There seems to have been a group of Cairene Jews, settled at Aden, South Arabia, and engaged in the trade with India and Ceylon. They even occasionally went to Colombo (IX).

Spanish Jews are often alluded to (179, L), and Spanish ships (123) are once mentioned; also people of Sicily (75) and commerce with that country (123); perhaps even France (99). The writers of XXI and XXVII were probably of Moroccan origin, as were doubtless others (153).

xi. Biography

A great many personal names appear; but most of them are not to be identified, and many of them are as indefinite as "Abraham Cohen" would be in modern New York, or "Muḥammad" in Cairo.

The following are a few of the names which seem to be more or less certainly placed. The references in each case are to Mann, The Jews in Egypt and Palestine under the Fāṭimids, vol. i (1920); vol. ii (1922).

1. Abraham Maimūnī (135), son of the great Maimonides, born 1186, died 1237.

2. Abraham, son of Shema'yāh the Ḥābēr, descendant of Shema'yāh Gā'ōn (7), signatory of many documents, alive in 1088 (Mann, ii, 232).

3. Abū al-Faraj (25), perhaps the same as Abū al-Faraj, son of Abū Zakarī, a judge at al-Fusṭāṭ, alive in 1301. Both father and son bore the title "ra'īs" (Mann, i, 246).

4. Ḥalfōn ha-Lēvī, son of Manasseh (11), signatory of documents in conjunction with No. 2, and therefore contemporary (Mann, ii, 232).

5. The Ḥazzān Bayyān (53)—a strange form and word-order—perhaps the same as Abū 'l-Bayyān the Ḥazzān, about 1050 (Mann, i, 242; ii, 308).

6. Immanuel, son of Yeḥī'ēl (61), perhaps a descendant of the Yeḥī'ēl who lived in the twelfth (?) century (Mann, ii, 303 ff.).

7. Jacob, son of Joseph ha-Ḥasīdh (26), perhaps the same as the head of the Jewish court who signed documents at al-Fusṭāṭ in 1016 and 1018, and at Aleppo in 1028 (Mann, i, 37, 150).

8. Judah ha-Kōhēn, son of Eleazar (13), was dayyān at Bilbais from 1187 onward (Mann, ii, 317).

9. Mebōrākh, son of Nathan (11), a known signatory of twelfth-century documents (Mann, i, 222, 227; ii, 293).

10. Nahrai, son of Nissīm (129), perhaps the same as the famous scholar by that name who died between 1050 and 1098 (Mann, i, 204 ff.; ii. 240 ff.). But the prefixed "Abū Yaḥyā" would refer to a supposedly well-known son, of which there is no record.

11. Nathan, son of Abraham (199), usurper of power in the Palestinian Academy (XLIII), becoming "Father of the Law Court," or "Second," in place of the rightful aspirant, Tobiah, son of Daniel (Mann, i, 141–152; also pp. 71, 75, 115, 129, 130, 193, 273).

12. Nathan, son of Samuel (35), perhaps the same as the secretary to the nāgīd about 1140 (Mann, i, 225).

13. Shabbatai, son of Abraham the Dayyān the Ḥābēr (17), signed documents in 1154 (Mann, ii, 259).

14. Solomon, son of Judah (199), the Gā'ōn, or "First," in the Palestinian Academy. See No. 11.

15. Tobiah, son of Daniel (199), the "Third" who should have been "Second" in the Palestinian Academy. See No. 11.

16. al-Tustarī, Abū Sa'd, Abraham, son of Abū al-Faḍl, Sahl (143), the wealthy dealer in rarities who through the mother of the Sultan Ma'add, a slave-girl from his market, exercised great influence at court until his assassination in 1048 (Mann, i, 76, 79, 122; Lane-Poole, A History of Egypt in the Middle Ages [1901], pp. 137, 149).

17. 'Ulāh ha-Lēvī, son of Joseph (3), probably the "Parnās of Babylon," about 1116 (Mann, i, 196).

18. Yepheth, son of David (7), perhaps the same as Yepheth the Ḥazzān, son of David, son of Shekhanya (Mann, ii, 97, 246). But he signed documents in 1020, ninety-six years before our own.

19. Abraham Castro (237, 241), may be the one mentioned by Sambari and Solomon Ḥazzān. If so, he was alive in A.D. 1606.

20. Joseph Sarakossī (Saragossī, L), organised the Safed community in A.D. 1492. See Jewish Encyclopedia, s.v.

xii. Jew and Gentile

The student of the Law who refuses to invest in sugar (193) speaks casually of a neighbor as "the uncircumcised one—May his name and memory be blotted out!" (191). The melancholic Abū Zubair, writing from Jerusalem, complains that a certain other Jew is found at the houses of Muslims, and does not understand the difference between "inside and outside" (127). A Jew excuses himself for resorting to gentiles (19). A proselyte is perhaps mentioned in a list of Jewish tax-payers (69). Two Muslim formulae: "Praise be to God, the Lord of the Worlds" (161), and "In the name of God, the Merciful, the Compassionate" (163), occur in one letter. Arabic script is occasionally used, and in one instance Coptic numerals (XL).

Considering the complaining tone of many of the letters, we hear surprisingly little about persecution. There is difficulty between Jewish landlord and gentile tenant (21), or between Muslim landlord and Jewish tenant (121), of the kind usual in the Near East, and not necessarily influenced by religious or racial feelings. In Nos. XXXI and XXXII Tobiah asks al-Tustarī for a letter: "For I fear that evil may overtake me on the way, even as it overtook me at Ḥānēs. Had it not been for the mercies of the Almighty and the favor of my Lord, the honored Elder, I should be today in prison. In those days I had money in my hand, and I gave a bribe" (147 f.). There seems to be a veiled allusion to persecution in XXII: "I inform you" by this letter "of the condition of Būṣīr and its pain and travail; and that it is a city of great trouble and travail" (97). No. XXXVII seems to tell of persecution or similar disorders: The writer's son-in-law (or father-in-law?) has rented a "tower" at a place called Sīkat (?), or near Alexandria; and the whole family intends to live together in it. At his present place of residence "there are people rejoicing, and many people dead—yet there is no trustworthy information." He would "like to go away from here." "Perhaps God will have mercy, and His anger will depart from His people Israel—even though there are some who say that the towers are untrustworthy" (171). A synagogue is destroyed by Muslims (233).

Piracy, the capture of Jewish merchants and other travellers, and the necessity of ransoming them, laid a heavy burden both upon those who ventured abroad and upon those who stayed at home (50, note; 51). The pirates were Muslims (51). Such captures were made purely in view of ransom. "The captive, Esther" (183) is ransomed by the man who is to marry her, for fifty dīnārs (183), a rather large sum. There were, of course, the usual slaves (159, 223 f.). It was probably the ability of the Jews to pay, and their faithfulness in ransoming their brethren, that made them the particular victims of this practice. Labor requisitions (231) need not have been made upon Jews especially.

The Jews paid a poll-tax (23). Number XIII is a list of the names of tax-payers with amounts (67 ff.). It is not clear why the Sultan took a third of a certain estate (41). Jews adjusted their differences successfully before Jewish courts (3 ff., 43). In one case two dishonest men defraud a business partner successfully by resorting to a Muslim court (35).

xiii. Marriage

Women owned and inherited property (39, 47, 55). A girl might marry when only twelve years old (187). The economic side of the agreement was arranged by a marriage-broker, who made note of the facts (XL, XLV). The betrothal, with its "advanced payment" (muḳdām), and the marriage proper, with its "delayed payment" (me'uḥār), were probably celebrated in quick succession (XL, XLV). In the interim the lady was sometimes supported by the fiancé (187). The bride brought a dowry (nedunyāh). This consisted of a great variety of goods. In both Nos. XL and XLV we find remarkable lists of articles of clothing and personal adornment, jewelry, cosmetics, and sweetmeats (187), which will well repay study. Some of the names belong evidently to the fanciful nomenclature of the day. What indeed is a "trembler" (181), or a "dancer" (179)? Others, though strange, are intelligible and interesting, such as the color, "gazelles' blood," and the many articles from Hormuz (181, 185). Property arrangements are also frequently stated, particularly that the husband shall possess the wife's handiwork, but must provide her with clothing (179, 183, 187), and the inheritance rights of the children are protected (183).

The last mentioned arrangements are made not merely in view of death, but also of divorce (183); and this was apparently not difficult. In No. XI we have a bill of divorce in which no grounds are stated, while great pains are taken with phraseology, attestation, and delivery of the document. In No. V the grounds are that the wife has refused to follow her husband to another city, to which he has transferred his domicile. That there may sometimes have been extreme grounds for divorce appears from the mention of two cases of adultery (53, 55), where the husbands were away from home for long periods. The unfortunate, illegitimate offspring was refused the customary blessings at circumcision (55). Neither ḥazzān nor dayyān would attend, and certain less sensitive Byzantine Jews managed to collect the necessary quorum (55). Great fondness for children is revealed in the letter to a departed guest (157), where we have perhaps one word of infantile Hebrew.

xiv. Religion, Learning, Superstition

Religion and learning are not fairly represented in the present small collection of Genizah documents. For evidence of these one must refer, e.g., to the description of still uninvestigated materials enumerated by Bacher in the Hastings Encyclopaedia of Religion and Ethics (s.v. Genizah). Our collection consists of humbler remains of the past, overlooked or rejected by seekers after literary texts. Nevertheless, we have a few pizmōnīm, liturgical fragments and notes, halachic bits, and a portion of Maimonides besides occasional references to books and an interest in study, pamphlets on Hebrew grammar and theological controversy (123 ff.). Books were hard to get, and loaned books hard to recover (125). A borrowed copy of the Prophets cannot be returned, because the boys are reading it (153)! Only one really unworthy exponent of religion appears (L), although the ethics of a certain transaction in grain are at least doubtful (123). There are some maxims of merit (127, 175).

It is quite natural that we should find some evidence of the pursuit of magic and pseudo-science. No. XXIV is a charm or amulet, such as those elsewhere alluded to (23, 125). No. XV, while it may be a charm, is certainly the recipe for a "scrying" ceremony, with the well-known reference to "princes" which are wont to appear in the vision (76). Elsewhere there is reference to a "magic circle" (107). Cabbalistic names are used (107), including the Tetragrammaton (77 f.), the שם המפורש (81), and Mīṭaṭrōn, the angel (77). The purpose of magic may be protection from disease and accident (107), or the cure of disease and decay (23), or the discovery of hidden treasure (79 ff.). The Song of Songs will cure "dry patches" or a drying up of the body, or boils (23). Psalm cxxi, 5–8, and Exodus xiv, 19 also have magic potency (107). People live in fear of magic, diseases, ghosts, and all sorts of catastrophy (107). The Latin word succuba perhaps occurs (107), instead of the Hebrew Lilith, for the vampire-demoness. If the boy's name, 'Allān, means "stupid," it is applied to avert the evil eye from a particular shining mark (9, 11, 19). A vindictive statement about one who is dead is hastily retracted: "But woe unto us! For we are not unmindful of our own condition!" (127).

XV. Commerce and Manufacture

The Jews of al-Fusṭāṭ and their correspondents dealt in many wares, both staple and fancy: tartar and resin (25), saffron and coral (75), pepper (87), flax, linen, and indigo (99), wool and woollen goods (121), wheat, prunes, gum-arabic, almonds, soap, and earthen pots (123, 231), alum, candied roses (?), and spikenard (153), sugar (191), swords (193), and other commodities. They advanced money for the purchase of material and the maintenance of workmen, taking and selling the finished product. They were in fact manufacturers of colored silks (73), cloth (161), and yarn (153).

The Jews also entered into partnerships (7), a thing which Moslems in Egypt even nowadays seldom dare to do. These, to be sure, were not always successful, because of the indifference (63), or timidity (161), or dishonesty (33, 191) of the partners. The risks of commerce were great. Then as now, goods were perishable and prices fluctuated (191). But clients in those days were exposed to unusual dangers and uncertainties. Tips, taxes, fees, bribes, presents, obligations, contributions, and gratuities, to agents, porters, sailors, ferrymen, gate-keepers, camel-drivers, inspectors, revenue-officers and what not (XXXVI), by which the Jews avoided molestation, must have taken much of the profit and all of the pleasure out of commercial pursuits.

Of the coins mentioned, the dīnār gets its name from the Roman dēnārius, but it is a gold coin weighing between 66 and 68 4/7 grains. The American five-dollar gold-piece weighs 129 grains at 900 fine; so that a dīnār of the same fineness would lack only a few grains of being equal to half that coin, or $2.50. Its purchasing power at the time, however, has been estimated at about $7.50. The ashrafī (139 ff., 187) succeeded the dīnār in Egypt toward the end of the fourteenth century A.D. (187). It weighed 53.8 grains.

The dirham gets its name from the Greek δραχμή. The Arabs took over this word, in the form darāhim, as though a broken plural from an imaginary singular, dirham. It was equal to about 1/15 of a dīnār or an ashrafī. A special dirham nāsirī is mentioned (111).

Other coins are, the rubā'ī, or "quarter" of a dīnār (167); the nuṣf faḍḍah, or "half a silver-piece" (139); the maiyadī or mu'aiyadī, coined after A.D. 1412–1421 (192); and the ḥabbah, mentioned among other small coins (165). The Hebrew words כְּפָרִים (193) and פְּרָחִים (183, 232) are used perhaps to mean dīnārs. Moroccan money was used (169). Mithḳāl and ḳīrāt (3, 33, 73) are names for weights primarily, but are used apparently in reference to coins or coined money. The former may mean dīnār (33, 73). The latter is 1/24 of a dīnār (3, 69).

In the way of weights and measures we have the ḳinṭār, which now equals about 99 lbs. and 4/5 oz. avoir., the roṭl, a little less than 1 lb. avoir., and the wiḳīyah, about 1.32 oz. avoir. The ḳinṭār contains 100 roṭls, and the roṭl contains 12 wiḳīyahs. Ḳinṭār is derived from Latin centēnarius, "containing a hundred," a word which has passed into many languages in the sense of "a hundredweight," or "a hundred pounds." Roṭl seems to come from Greek λίτρα, related to Latin libra, "a pound," and wiḳīyah from Latin uncia, "an ounce," the twelfth part of a libra. The ḳaṣabah is a measure of length, at present equal to 11 ft. 7.766. The equivalents in the above have been taken from Baedeker, Egypt and the Sudan, 1908. Wazn (121) seems to be a unit of weight, not "weight" in general. Ḳafaṣ (193) and ḳafīz (119) are evidently grain measures.

xvi. Proper Names

The many interesting proper names which are to be found in these texts deserve more than the few observations which are here accorded them; but adequate treatment must await further investigation. No. XIII is especially important.

No doubt the Jews of al-Fusṭāṭ, like Jews in other lands, bore double names, one Hebrew and the other gentile. Fortunately, however, in the case of Egypt, many names were more or less the same in both languages. We have therefore not only Hebrew names and Arabic names, but such as might be either if necessary. When a Hebrew name resembled an Arabic one in sense but not in sound, it was translated instead of being phonetically modified: e.g. Nāthan became Hibah (27, 69), while Abhrāhām became Ibrāhīm (22); just as Kēphā became Petros (John i, 43), while Shā'ūl became Paulus (Acts xiii, 9).

The patronymics are most interesting, as they show that certain name-motifs, which are commonly supposed to be of recent European origin, are medieval and oriental. Bin Asad (32), "Löwensohn," Ibn al-Bahwarī (67), "Son of the Lion-like," Sibā' (67), "Lion," are all members of the large group of "lion-names," which may have started with Genesis xlix, 9, as a cryptogram for Judah. In Europe the German translation, Löwe, seems to have been associated with Hebrew לֵוִי and לֵב. The permutations, through translation and paranomasia, are very numerous. Al-Dhahabī (71) is "Goldmann"; al-Fiḍḍī (71) is "Silbermann"; al-Sukkarī (67) is "Zuckermann"; al-Ṣafīr (131), though it means "sapphire," stands doubtless for Aramaic שַׁפִּירָא, "Shapiro"; Me'ir (179) is "Meier." Some names, however, have come back to the orient from Europe, such as Māyō (191).

xvii. Purpose and Plan of Publication

For many years the content of Genizah material, particularly the Hebrew material, has been studied, while the form, especially of the Arabic material, has been neglected. This is easily explicable; for the chief interest undoubtedly lies, and should lie, in the life and times of the Fusṭāṭ community, rather than in their language; and the language of these documents, at least on the Arabic side, presents peculiar difficulties.

In attempting to interpret documents written in a vulgar or barbarous form of some well-known language, there is always the question, first of all, as to whether they should receive grammatical and lexicographical treatment. It used to be thought that such was unnecessary, or indeed impossible, because there was no grammar. Now-a-days no one will doubt that vulgar and barbarous texts have, after all, grammatical peculiarities; and that these can and must be studied for an understanding of the content of these texts. But the discharge of this duty is more difficult than its recognition; for vulgar dialects must be studied without prejudice, mostly in the light of their own evidence; and barbarous documents require at the same time constant watchfulness to detect the intrusion of "educated speech" in its varying degrees of corruption.

It is the purpose of the present volume to explain the texts, particularly those in Arabic, in such a way that anyone having a fair knowledge of the ordinary idiom may learn to read them; and to call attention to the peculiarities of language in such a way as to benefit those whose chief interest is philological. The translations have been made so that, by including the bracketed words, the reader will have a free rendering, and, by excluding them, a literal one. This is of course not entirely true everywhere. At the expense of beauty and brevity, and with some violence to English at times, he will, however, usually be able to see what the editors understood the text to mean, and how they arrived at that understanding. The Arabic student will thus be assisted without seriously inconveniencing the general reader, who wishes to acquaint himself with the content of the documents. In a very few instances parentheses have been used to indicate words in the original which cannot stand in the translation. Bracketed restorations in the text of No. I are by Professor Gottheil; others have been explained in each case.

The treatment of proper names presents a problem. There are purely Hebrew names, or names written clearly as Hebrew; there are Arabic names; but there are also names which belong equally to the Hebrew and the Arabic languages, such as the interchangeable Abhrāhām-Ibrāhīm, and names which may be pronounced either as Hebrew or as Arabic, such as Ṣedhāḳāh-Ṣadaḳah. Doubtless the Jews of al-Fusṭāṭ used these pairs interchangeably. For this reason, and for the sake of simplicity, all familiar names have been given their ordinary English form, regardless of whether they are Hebrew or Arabic in a particular case: e.g. Abraham, Isaac, Judah, Nathan, Samuel, Joseph. Less familiar ones have been transliterated as Hebrew or as Arabic; and sometimes the assignment to the one or the other has been rather arbitrary.

The letters בר stand usually for בר רבי, and they have been so understood in most cases. Occasionally, however, they seem to be Aramaic בַּר (179), particularly when they do not have the dots of abbreviation over them. Ibn, Bin, Ben, Bar, Bint, and Bath have all been spelled with capitals, since often they must stand as the first part of a name. Sometimes they have been retained, and sometimes they have been translated. No fixed rule could be observed, as epithets and blessings attached to the end of a patronymic would in English seem to refer to the son, while in reality referring to the father. The innumerable abbreviations of formulae of blessing have sometimes been translated, sometimes paraphrased, and sometimes entirely omitted, as seemed best in each case.

The order of the fragments in this publication is that of the originals in the Freer Gallery at the Smithsonian Institution, Washington; not chronological, nor with reference to the contents. A chronological order would have been difficult, because so few of the fragments can be dated even approximately; and as to subject-matter, they admit of many arrangements. It is unfortunate that No. XXVIII is separated from XXX, and XXXI from XXXII. One might wish also that the more interesting ones could have been placed at the beginning of the volume, instead of some that are rather dull and obscure.

This work has been done under rather unusual difficulties. In spite of great effort, it doubtless contains many inconsistencies. Both subject-matter and language are such as to provoke controversy. The editors will be content if they have contributed anything to the understanding of Genizah documents.

INTRODUCTION TO FIRST FRAGMENT

Paper $12\frac{3}{5} \times 8$ inches.

Written in a fairly good Hebrew cursive, in Arabic with Hebrew intermingled.

The fragment is, in places, very much torn; but with the exception of a few words, the text can be recovered entirely.

It contains two documents relating to one and the same affair. It seems that two parties were concerned in some business venture in al-Yemen—Abū al-ʿAlā Ṣāʿid ʿUlāh and Abū al-Afrāḥ ʿArūs al-Ajawānī. Difficulties seem to have arisen and ʿArūs owes ʿUlāh the sum of four dīnārs and one carat. Upon the recto we have a document, fully attested, to the effect that ʿArūs owes this money to ʿUlāh. Upon the verso we have a second document to say that the money owed by ʿArūs has been paid, in the manner specified in the first document, into court; and ʿUlāh releases ʿArūs from all further indebtedness in the matter.

Being official documents they are extraordinarily prolix; but such verbosity and tautology are characteristic not only of these Judeo-Arabic court papers, but of such instruments at all times—even in the courts and law-offices of our own day. It has been no easy matter to translate this verbiage and to find the English terms corresponding to the Aramaic or Arabic expressions.

And, being official documents, they contain a great many Aramaic expressions and sentences. Jewish law goes back to Talmudic days, when the ordinary language of the people was Aramaic. As they passed into Arabic speaking lands, or as the Arabic cultural invasion engulfed them, their language of intercourse became Arabic; but the formulae as laid down in the Talmudic law held their own against this invasion, in exactly the same manner as Latin did in European lands, and as French did when it replaced Latin as the culture-language of Europe.

The documents here published bear a striking resemblance in their whole form and tenor to the two published by the late Adalbert Merx of Heidelberg University in his Documents de Paléographie Hébraïque et Arabe (Leiden, 1894). One of them, in fact, bears the date A.D. 1114, one year previous to one of our documents and two years previous to the second (A.D. 1115 and 1116). The names of the witnesses, being those of the members of the Court of Justice at Fusṭāṭ, are common in documents of this period. See Mann, The Jews in Egypt and Palestine under the Fāṭimid Caliphs, Oxford, 1920, Index.

11 Nisan of the year one thousand four hundred and twenty-eight according to the Era of Documents[15], in the same good coin which he possessed. [He does this] without

12 any constraint or restraint, argument or discussion at all, or any oath for the carrying-out of any part of this [agreement],

13 from among all the various kinds of oaths, unimportant or capital[16]; not even by means of an oath of implication, nor by any unqualified vow. [The return

14 of this money] is an obligation upon me, 'Arūs, during my lifetime, and upon my heirs after my death, upon anything worth while that I may possess—property, possessions

15 or money that is mine or that I may possess under all the heavens, at home or abroad, real or personal property, even to the covering that is

16 upon my shoulders: not like simple acts of recovery or mere contract formularies, but like full and valid documents:

17 invincible, irresistible writs of the court of justice, and the ordinances of the rabbis. I have written this document in his favor, that it may be in his possession

18 and in the possession of his heirs after him: a document lasting, stable and durable; it being understood that they can make use of it in any court of justice and for all time to come: not like

19 simple acts of recovery[17] or mere contract-formularies[18], but as the most binding and stable documents that our rabbis[19] have laid down for documents

20 acknowledging debts. I declare void all protests and conditions and protests of protests, and protests that may be developed from protests to the nth

21 degree that may be made for me, or that we may have made in connection with this deed of claim—[all] in accordance with the statutes of the wise men. We have received from our lord and master, this

22 'Arūs, the honored [elder], son of our lord and master Joseph, the honored elder, for our lord and master 'Ulāh ha-Lēvī, the trusted one[20],

23 this one trusted of the Bēth Dīn and accredited of the Yeshībah, this son of our lord and master Joseph ha-Lēvī the elder[21], [a guarantee] in current money

24 according to all that is set forth explicitly above, and which has been brought before us, the Court of Justice, and before those whose names are signed for us below.

25 We have written this, sealed it, and given it to our lord and master 'Ulāh ha-Lēvī the trusted one, that he keep it as evidence and as proof.

Of these, two dīnārs were to be paid at once; and two dīnārs and a ḳīrāṭ should be kept[6] and paid by him after the Passover festival of this year which is the year 1428 according to the Era of Documents. This Mar 'Allān was declared free from any further claims or demands, or from any gain that might be due (?)[7] to me from days of old until today. Now I have agreed to this and have given him a quittance in the Court of Justice, by means of a perfect, all-comprising, bill of sale, with all the legal apparatus with which it is customary to make such quittance at this time, by declaring void any provisions and conditions. I have received from his maternal uncle, Sheikh Abū al-Afrāḥ the two dīnārs which it was agreed should be paid at once on his account. There remained owing to me from him the two dīnārs and a ḳīrāṭ to be paid afterwards; for which[8] I had drawn up the promissory note mentioned in this paper. And now that he has been kind enough, and the payment of this sum has been accelerated to me, and I have received it from him, and he is free from it and from any liability in regard to it; and since I have no longer any pecuniary interest at all in it, even that of a penny or more, receive, therefore, this testimony from me, 'Ulāh ha-Lēvī, and ratify it on my part at this moment. Write it down, and have it signed for me, using all the sacred terms and the binding expressions, and in language that will fully exempt him, and hand this statement to this Sheikh Abū al-Afrāḥ 'Arūs, that it remain in his possession from now on and afterwards as a document and a bond. Behold! I acknowledge before you, in the most positive and binding form of acknowledgment, being in good health, in full possession of my will-power, voluntarily, not being forced, without coercion and constraint, without inadvertence or error, or any hindrance arising from illness, or any of the many [conditions] that might make it impossible for me to give testimony—that I received and accepted from him four dīnārs and one[9] ḳīrāṭ of fine gold in mithḳāls of Egyptian weight

GENIZAH FRAGMENT 2 b

II. LETTER

A letter from Shabbatai, son of Abraham, Ḥābēr, of Minyat Zifta, to Judah ha-Kōhēn, the son of Eleazar, Dayyān of Bilbais, complaining that Jews of Bilbais are injuring his position in Minyat Zifta.

Shabbatai signed documents in A.D. 1154. Judah was appointed Dayyān in 1187, after which date our letter was probably written.

Recto:

1 In the name of Mercy[1]! Happy is he who takes cognizance of the poor; on the day of evil God will deliver him[2].

2 For God will be thy hope and will keep thy feet from stumbling[3], [as it is said:] "When thou goest through the water, I am with thee[4]."

3 Peace and prolonged blessing, as [promised in] the Law and in tradition, to the Honorable Crown of Glory,

4 his Illustrious Greatness, our Lord and Master, Judah ha-Kōhēn, the Great and Mighty Prince among the People of God, the Glory of Princes,

5 the Diadem of Scribes. May He preserve him who preserves his scattered pious ones, and may He be unto him a healer and deliverer!

6 May he also preserve in life his two sons[5], the princes, the assistant priests[6]. May God lengthen their days in the [enjoyment of] good things, and their years

7 in pleasantness—son of[7] our Lord and Master Eleazar ha-Kōhēn, the Prince, the Glorious, Chief among Princes, the Glory of Worthy

8 Princes. His slave kisses his hands[8], and brings to the attention of his Highness[9] how ardent his desire is for

9 his well being, and his regret (?) at the length of time during which he is away from him[10]. Now when it occurred in this week that I was boorishly denied entrance

10 to his Highness, people came from Bilbais and mentioned to his slave[11] that Abū al-Bahā of Damascus,

11 who was living in Cairo, had come to Ṣalāḥ al-Dīn[12], and had taken a promise from him of promotion in Minyat Zifta[13], and they mentioned

[9] Cf. Bodleian, No. 2874, 11: ינהי אלי סאמהא אן. السامى was one of the honorific titles used in Egyptian protocols. [10] The translation is a suggestion merely: ما يفوت من قربه.

[11] I.e. to himself, the writer.

[12] Between the lines there has been inserted: "And some say 'Awwād (written עוער) al-Dīn...his slave."

the Jews said to me, "Write to our master[15], the Sheikh al-Thiḳah and to Sheikh Abū al-Faḍl al-Nūr, son of our master al-Nūr, that he become a teacher among them, because the judges[16] have no knowledge whatsoever has not been lacking his[24] favor and his good will at all times. God forbid that you should be in a divided state of mind[25],

My best greetings to my master the righteous priest al-Maghrabī; and so also to the Sheikh Abū al-Munajja[29]. May God grant him peace! May God open for him His good treasure[30]! His slave and his [slave's] son[31] kiss his feet.

And were it not for the opinion of the Jews, these words would not have been written so mysteriously about[32] your slave. Greetings to his Holiness, and greetings to the two priestly princes, his sons. May he be exalted forever, and the poor of Jacob.....

Margin:

In regard to[32] the case of the Jew [and] the Dayyān of Bilbais, I said: "It is right that he should be informed."

[22] I Samuel xviii, 14. After this long interruption, the text is taken up from line 16 as if nothing had intervened. [23] The writer. [24] The addressee's.

[25] A pure guess. The text seems perfectly plain מלו סרנהא, the feminine suffix (cf. note 8. הא = ـُه- = -u in this text) referring to the addressee. Lane (p. 1343) notes an old Arabic expression from the Ḥamāsah: مال سرجك "thy affair has become in a disordered state." Perhaps ملوى سرجه with the same import.

[26] The words are all blurred here. [27] Plural.

[28] Reading בצט = بساط. As in modern Cairene, the emphatic ط changes س into ص.

Address:

1 To our Glorious Lord and Master, Judah ha-Kōhēn, the Great and Mighty Prince

2 among the people of God, who fear God—May his name be remembered forever—son of our Lord and Master Eleazar

3 ha-Kōhēn, Prince of the Noble, Glory of Renowned Princes,

4 [Signed:] Shabbatai, son of Rabbi Abraham the Judge, the Ḥābēr, his slave. May he never be bereft of him[36]!

III. LETTER

Paper $11\frac{1}{4} \times 7$ inches.

Arabic in cursive Hebrew characters.

The paper is now much damaged, and the ink pale. The handwriting is so slovenly that whole groups of letters assume the same form. On the other hand, the same letter of the alphabet may assume many forms. The number of possible readings is thus very great, and their value correspondingly small. If the language were even tolerably pure and the thought connected, translation might still be possible. But the writer is vague and incoherent—perhaps even intentionally cryptic and mysterious. One doubts that Arabic is his natural tongue at all. It may be safely said that this letter would not have been clear even to a contemporary Egyptian acquainted with the secret diplomacy of the situation. Cf. Nos. XII, XXII, XXXIII, XXXIV, and XXXV.

1 Quite plainly, Hebrew כלבים, meaning "rascals"? Cf. No. XXI, recto, line 5

2 עלא would seem to be عَلَيَّ and not عُلَّى. But our fragment No. I gives in line 5 עולא, and so we have read עלא as عُلَّى throughout the collection. Cf. also Mann, The Jews in Egypt and in Palestine under the Fatimids, p. 283, col. 3, line 8.

III. LETTER

A letter from a certain Abraham, "Reader of the Law," probably stopping in Alexandria, to his brother, 'Ulā Abū 'Umrān Moses, "Reader of the Law," probably living in Fusṭāṭ. There is no date.

There is mention of business concerns and troubles; especially difficulties arising from the circumstance that a heavy poll-tax was being levied on a small number of Jews. We learn incidentally that bedsteads were scarce; and that passages from the Song of Solomon were used—in what manner we are not told—to cure a drying up of the body, and boils. Some female relatives and children have outstayed their welcome and are quarrelling with one another; and similar tittle-tattle.

IV. LETTER

A certain Ibn Ghurāb has borrowed money of the writer of the letter, and cannot repay it, although he has merchandise on hand. The addressee, an unnamed prominent man (ra'īs), is now asked to assume the debt, take over the merchandise, and arrange matters with the judge, Abū al-Faraj, and the money-changer or banker, as he has promised to do. There has also been some trouble about a certain piece of real-estate. There seems to be no way of dating this letter.

1 To his Excellence[1], our Master, the Ra'īs[2], may his glory[3] be exalted and his honor extolled. The servant[4] begs to say that 2 if the Master intends[5] to settle accounts with me[6], it is certain that in regard to the account[7] of 3 Ibn Ghurāb[8], there will be no difficulty in collecting it. The Sheikh al-Muharrab met with you [to consult] 4 about his affair and you promised him that the Master would speak to the judge, Abū al-Faraj, 5 that he [write] the document from the money-changer[9] for the [entire] amount, and that whatsoever was wanting 6 he would make good from the sale[10] of the resin and the tartar[11]. Now, the man has not paid
7 any part of it. The matter has been going on now for fifteen days.
The man
8 is coming within the next two days. The account will be left open as it stands
9 against him. It is permitted you by God that you settle with me in some manner. No account
10 has come to me. I wish today that this affair be settled, that I may have[12] [the account]
11 before Ibn Ghurāb comes. Now yesterday, Abram came and mentioned to me your
12 agreement about the small dwelling. Between him and me there arose 13 the worst kind of discussion. Do you not settle with him, either by agreement
14 or by written document, until he has settled with me about it, in regard to the share that is to come to me.
15 I shall not accept for[13] Ghurāb(?) less than fifteen dīnārs.

Margin:

But, if he has a judgment or has made a sale, do you make an agreement with him alone. In such a case, may my Master acquaint me of it. It is all right [to settle with him] alone(?). May my Master not withhold from his servant an answer. I am not able to describe to my Master what happened between us yesterday. May the kindness of our Master encompass his servant!

[9] Or "banker."
[10] Literally: "price."
[11] צנדרוס = سندروس.
[12] Literally: "find it."

V. LETTER

Paper $11\frac{1}{8} \times 7\frac{3}{8}$ inches.

Carefully written in half-square Hebrew characters, in fairly good mediaeval Hebrew. The paper is torn and the writing illegible in many places.

On the verso there is an address, but it is illegible save for the words:

יקרת.....המעותד לשם [יעקב] בר יוסף החסיד.....

Also on the verso, but upside-down, in very faded script which appears to be older than that on the recto, are portions of verses from the Bible, as follows: Isaiah lxv, 8, 9, 13, 16–18, 20 (קדוש for ירושלם)–25; lxvi, 1, 2, 5, 7–14, 18–23. Judges xv, 15–19; xvi, 28. We cannot imagine their purpose.

At the top of the recto are a few scrawled Arabic letters of no apparent import.

This letter was written to a Gā'ōn Jacob Ben Joseph ha-Ḥasīdh, perhaps the Jacob Ben Joseph Ab-Bēth-Dīn who as rabbi signed documents at Fusṭāṭ in A.D. 1016 and 1018, and did the same at Aleppo in 1028. Cf. Mann, op. cit., vol. i, pp. 37, 150. The writer of the letter is an important person in Jerusalem. At the time when this Jacob was in Fusṭāṭ the chief dignitary in Jerusalem was Josiah Gā'ōn. Cf. Mann, op. cit., vol. i, pp. 71 ff. His letters are not unlike this in their opening words. The "glorious place" which collapsed was probably a synagogue; and the cause may have been the earthquake of A.D. 1016. Cf. Mann, op. cit., vol. i, pp. 72, 156.

GENIZAH FRAGMENT 5 b

V. LETTER

Apparently Jacob had left Jerusalem some time before, bearing a commission from Solomon Ben Khalaf al-Būḳī in Jerusalem to his wife in Fusṭāṭ. Solomon had given Jacob two gold-pieces with which to pay her way to Jerusalem. Evidently he expected trouble, for he gave to Jacob a statement of his possessions in his house at Fusṭāṭ and directions to take possession of these. The only response that came was another messenger, Nathan or Hibah by name, son of Zachariah, who arrived in Jerusalem with a protest from the wife that Solomon had no grounds for his action. Nathan next undertook to carry to the wife in Fusṭāṭ a letter of divorce, which he promised to deliver to her in the presence of a certain Abraham the Ḥazzān.

Nathan appears with all the documents and with Solomon's statement that it was in the house of the writer that Jacob had sworn to carry the original message to the wife. The writer is equally certain that nothing of the kind ever took place under his roof, nor had he heard of the affair at all. He now writes in great haste to Jacob and tells him that he is sending by a Spaniard, al-Azhar, a copy of the wife's protest, which is to be delivered to Abraham, the intended witness of the divorce proceedings. Incidentally it is said that a certain "glorious place" in Jerusalem has collapsed.

VI. HALACHIC FRAGMENT

Paper $11\frac{3}{8} \times 6\frac{1}{2}$ inches.

Four pages of Hebrew in square Hebrew writing.

The orthography is poor, and many words and passages are omitted.

The variants are probably not worth noting; and the text has accordingly not been printed here. This fragment has been studied by Professor Gottheil only.

VI. HALACHIC FRAGMENT

From the Halākhōth Gedhōlōth of Simeon Ḳayyāra, a Babylonian rabbinical authority of the ninth century.

In the edition of Hildesheimer, Halachoth Gedoloth nach dem Texte der Handschrift der Vaticana, Berlin, 1888, this text covers p. 138, lines 9–20; line 30–p. 139, line 13; p. 140, lines 6–24.

VII. MEMORANDUM

Paper $10\frac{3}{8} \times 7$ inches.

Arabic in Hebrew characters, cursive and not easily read, since the writer has apparently written quickly and automatically, without looking at the resulting forms of the letters. The Arabic has a strong vernacular coloring. Some of the names have Maghrabī, or north African forms. A little Aramaic phraseology is introduced.

Certain witnesses, whose names are signed at the end in square characters, testify to their belief in the truth of Bin Asad's account of his transactions with Abū al-'Ulā Bin Bu al-Faraj and Ṣadaḳah Bin Jacob, his partner: all apparently Jews.

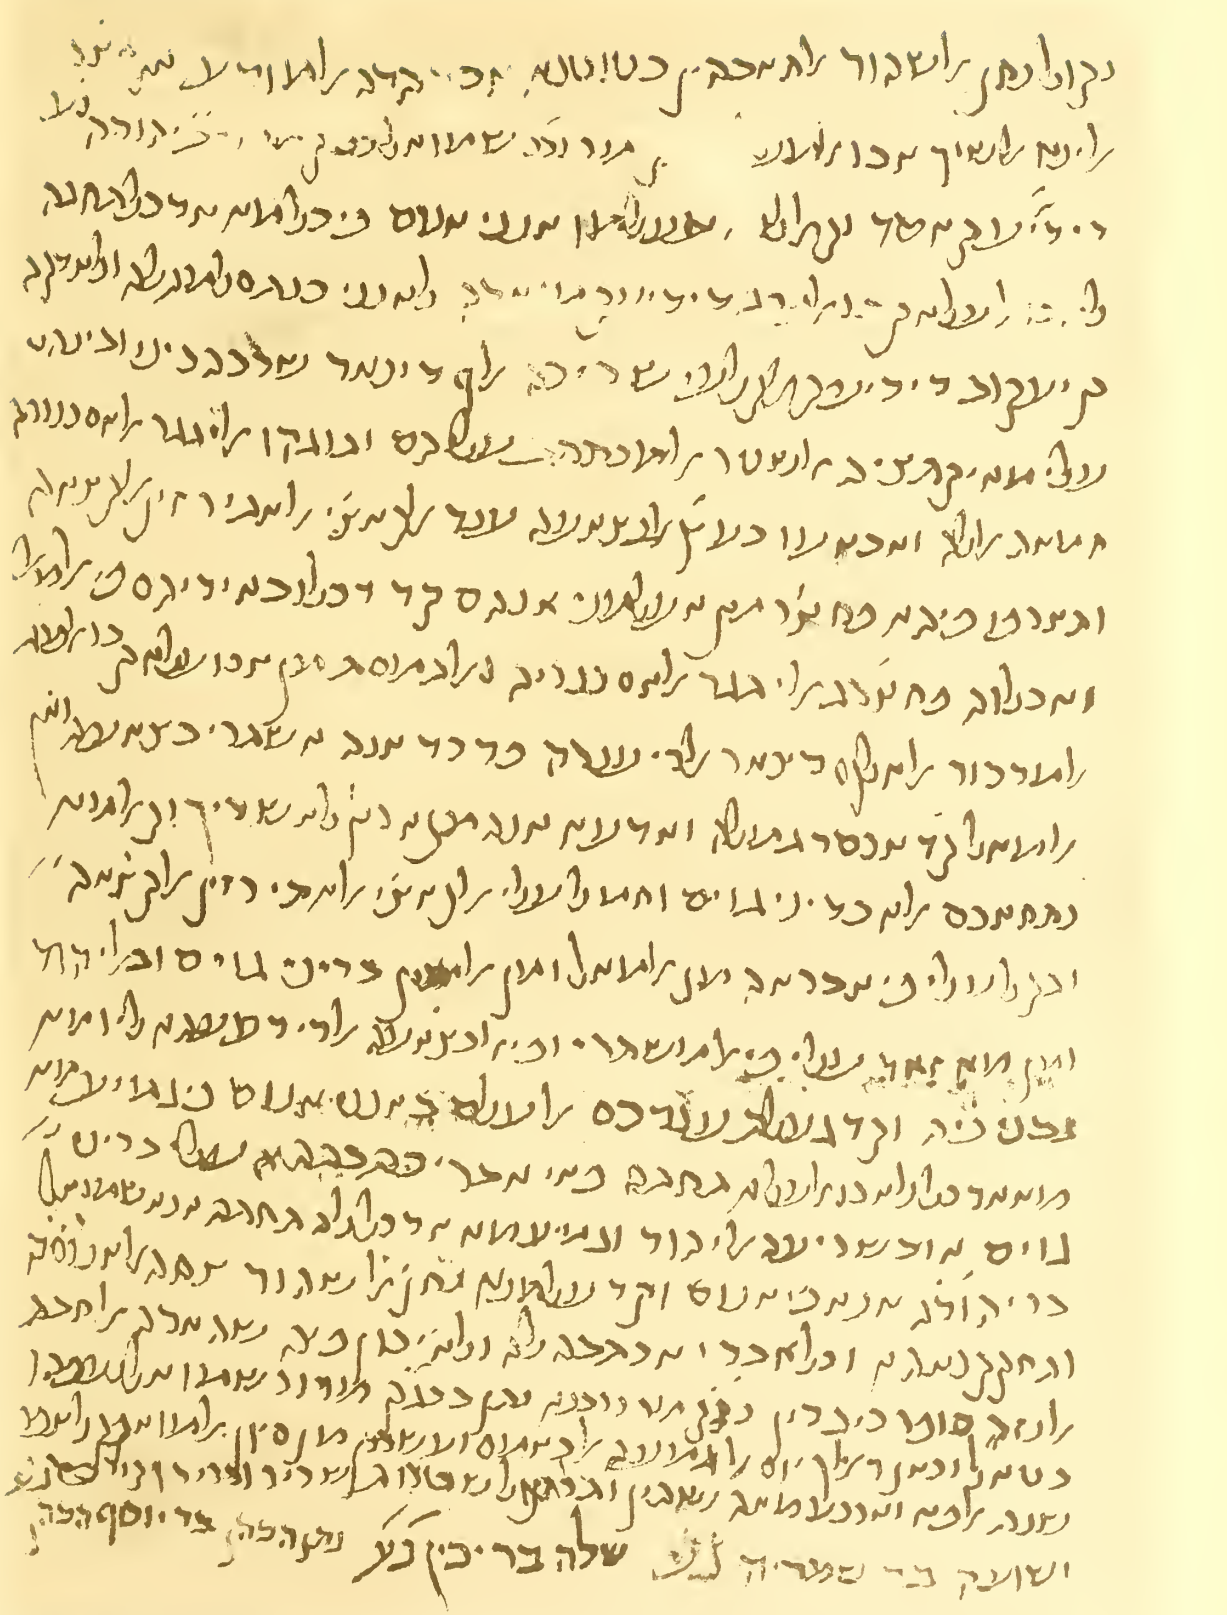
[1] I.e. الثابتين خطوطُنا, if one should seek to justify the expression grammatically.



[2] Cf. Hebrew מוּדָע "mark" and Aramaic מוֹדַעְא "declaration of protest."

[3] Aramaic דִּידִיעַ in mediaeval Hebrew is not followed by the preposition ב. Cf. the same phrase infra, ll. 4, 5.

[4] בן here, and in ll. 4, 5 and 9 (?), is not Hebrew בֶּן nor the genealogical form of ابن in names, but the Maghrabī (Tunisian, Algerian, Moroccan, Spanish) بِن = اِبْن. Note also בו, ll. 4, 9, for أَبو. This is also a Maghrabī form. Both arise from the ultima-accent of these dialects. In ll. 4, 9 we have the combination בן בואלפרג. ابن اسد has nothing to do with the tribe of Asad. It means "Son of a Lion" and is a play upon Gen. xlix, 9, and a substitute for "Jew" or "Judah," as in this case. Cf. the Western Benari, Loewensohn, Loewe, Loew, Lowe, Lieuw, Loeb, Léon, Leo, Lion, and variations. There is some confusion with לֵוִי and לֵב. Hence Herz, Leben, etc.

[5] אָנוּם is a very violently emotional Hebrew expression, used of rape and highway robbery.

[6] The expression أُدْخِل له تحته or أُدْخِل تحته له, "I pay in to him, to remain under his management."

VII. MEMORANDUM

It appears that Bin Asad loaned a large sum of money to Abū al-'Ulā and Ṣadaḳah Bin Jacob to invest at Alexandria, on terms that were stated in a document, and understood by Bin Asad to constitute a partnership. Some of the money was invested. Of the remainder a large part or all was either lost in speculation or stolen outright. Abū al-'Ulā asserted that some money had been lost, but that he was not liable for it, as he was merely an agent and not a partner. The matter was brought before a Muslim court, where Bin Asad was bullied by the Ḳāḍī and by his enemy, and confused with technicalities with which he is thoroughly disgusted. The court evidently decided against Bin Asad, and issued some document which put his case in a bad light. He goes to certain Jewish friends and tells his tale. He knows that he has lost the money: that is all. The fragment is the record of an indignation meeting held sometime in June of the year A.D. 1150.

15 A مُقَارِض is an agent, intrusted with capital for business purposes, on the condition that the gain shall be divided between the agent and the investor, and that the loss, if any, shall fall upon the investor. See Lane, Arabic-English Lexicon, part 7, p. 2515.

VIII. LETTER

Paper $12\frac{3}{8} \times 4\frac{5}{8}$ inches.

Arabic in cursive Hebrew characters.

The five bits of writing are from the hands of three individuals. The longest, recto (a), is rather clearly written; though the language is bad and mixed with Hebrew, and the style vague and ornate. The next longest, verso (a), is crabbed and angular, as though from the hand of someone unaccustomed to the pen; but the language is good, and the style concise and to the point. Recto (b) is merely a false beginning of the same. Verso (a) dates itself and recto (b) on Monday, the eighth of Marḥeshwān, Seleucid Era, 1543, which is A.D. 1231. Verso (b) and (c) are in a cultivated but difficult cursive hand, which becomes worse as it proceeds. The language is very much better than usual in our texts. There are even pedantic nominal case-endings and certain orthographic peculiarities of the Arabic in its own alphabet which the writer no doubt was accustomed to use. We do not know who he was. The first of the two is dated Thursday, the eleventh of Marḥeshwān, Seleucid Era, 1543, which is three days later than verso (a). The second is not dated, but may be assumed to have been written at the expiration of the ten days from the eleventh of Marḥeshwān, or the twenty-first of that month.

GENIZAH FRAGMENT 8 b

VIII. LETTER

Recto (a) is a letter from one Abū al-Thanā to a judge, Rabbi Elijah, probably both in Ḳalyūb, just north of Cairo. He seeks with flattery to represent that his friend, Abū al-Manṣūr, of Ḳalyūb, the son of Abū al-Faraj, has been driven into exile and destitution because he was prevented from selling his house by a sister-in-law, Sutait, the daughter of Abraham, and her husband, Abū al-Sarūr, the son of Ma'ānī. The house belongs to Manṣūr, and the other family have nothing to do with it. Abū al-Thanā sold the movable property at the request of Manṣūr's son. All the harmless facts are admitted, but the others are suppressed. Evidently Manṣūr's wife, Kifā', has died, and Manṣūr has tried to defraud his children by selling their estate; and has defrauded Sutait in some manner, possibly by the sale of the movable property. Abū al-Thanā is the agent of Manṣūr and not of his son. Manṣūr is not destitute; and probably would not have been evicted if he had not attempted the sale. We learn from verso (a) the other side of the story through the witness Tamīm, son of Joseph. Sutait and Kifā' were sisters and joint heirs to two estates. After the larger of the two had been reduced by confiscation, Sutait took the smaller as her own, and Kifā' the larger, which she willed to her children. Verso (a) tells us that Manṣūr was evicted, and made to pay damages to Sutait, which he could do in part only. Verso (c) states that the two parties agreed to a payment of the balance at convenience, without court-action, but with an added 20 per cent.

1 Thursday, the eleventh of Marḥeshwān, 1543, [Era] of Documents[37],
2 the property[38] passed from Abū al-Manṣūr Ibn Abū al-Faraj al-Ḳalyūbī[39].
3 He owes Sutait Bint Abraham, wife of Bū[40] al-Sarūr
4 Ibn Ma'ānī, a hundred[41] and sixty dirhams[41]. She received from him 5 a hundred and ten dirhams; and there remained, of what he owed her, fifty dirhams.
6 And she granted him a respite of ten days from this date.
7 And they declared each other free [of further obligation].

---

[31] كفاء "similar," to the parent.

[35] This tells us why there was trouble in the first place. The wife of Manṣūr had died; and the wife's sister wished to prevent Manṣūr from defrauding his children by selling the house for his own enrichment.

[36] I.e. from Sandabīs, a village in the Ḳalyūb district. Cf. Ibn Duḳmāḳ, op. cit., v, 49; Ibn Ḥauḳal (de Goeje), p. 93, and the other authors cited by de Goeje, ad loc.

[37] The numeral אתקמג is abbreviated to קמג, and שטרות to שט. This is the same year as verso (a), and probably also as verso (b).

[38] قِنْيان is "property" or "income."

[39] I.e. from Ḳalyūb, just north of Cairo.

[40] The north African form of Abū. Cf. No. XIII, note 32.

42 تَلْثِيمَة.

43 I.e. Sutait and Sarūr agreed to regard the remaining fifty dirhams as a debt of honor, never to be mentioned again between them; and the two parties were reconciled, and settled their case out of court. The ש is modern colloquial: mā na'rafsh, from ما نعرف شَيْئًا "We do not know."

Verso : (c)

1 And there remained between them nothing but to accomplish a reconciliation[42] among them,
2 making a debt of [the] 50 dirhams[41], and saying
3 "We know nothing about them[43]." And he agreed that, when 4 they were paid[41], the sum which would be paid
5 [would be, by tacit agreement] between them[44], two equal parts. So there remained, [by tacit agreement] between them, a judiciable claim[45] 6 amounting to sixty dirhams[46].

---

[44] بَيْنَهُم seems to mean idiomatically "by agreement"

[45] مُحَاكَمَة.

[46] I.e. ten dirhams extra for the privilege of private settlement by reconciliation?

IX. LETTER

Paper $6\frac{3}{4} \times 20\frac{1}{2}$ inches, made up of two sheets pasted together.

This long strip is completely covered with writing. The top, margin and bottom, originally left for the sake of appearance, were afterwards filled with postscripts; just as the margins of Oriental printed books are filled out with other material, for good measure, "pressed down and running over." Unfortunately twenty-three lines have been mutilated by the removal of one corner.

The writing is in cursive Hebrew characters, quite legible on the whole.

The language is Arabic, without any admixture of Hebrew or Aramaic, at times elegant, but in general colloquial, with strange constructions and strange meanings of ordinary words.

GENIZAH FRAGMENT 9 b

IX. LETTER

It appears that a certain Joseph, who lives in Fusṭāṭ with many relatives, is writing to a brother(?), who lives in Aden, South Arabia, with a few other persons from the Fusṭāṭ community. The father of these two brothers is the patriarchal head of the family. The brother in Aden is a merchant, and has made two trips to India, particularly to Colombo in Ceylon, on one of which he was captured by pirates and ransomed by his relatives at home. A maternal uncle, who went from Fusṭāṭ to India on business undertaken by the father, has died there; and there is great uncertainty about his will, especially because the wife of this uncle is a grasping creature and has also had an illegitimate child in his absence. A similar case is mentioned in the letter.

There is no address. The letter was to be intrusted to a friend for discreet delivery.

There is no date. But a certain ḥazzān Abū 'l-Bayyān, is mentioned in Mann, op. cit., vol. i, p. 242, vol. ii, p. 308, which is a letter considered by Mann to belong to about 1150.

Recto:

1 In the name of the Compassionate[1]!
2 My letter to you, O my Brother, mightier[2] than I and dear[2] to me. May God lengthen your life and prolong
3 your strength and your dignity, and not deprive you of the beauty of success! May God reunite us
4 under the most happy[3] circumstances, in His grace[4] and the abundance of His kindness: if it please God! And what you would like to know [is that]
5 from the time when you entered India no one came to us from you, and we became[5]
6 troubled in regard to you on account of the Indian Ocean until the Hājj 'Alī arrived,
7 who is called Ibn al-Ḳuzdīrī[6]. And we enquired[7] of him; and he informed us
8 of all that had befallen you, and the manner of your [maternal] uncle's death—God have mercy on him!—
9 and how you arrived [back] from India. And we praised God the Exalted 10 for your safety, and your being able to reach your uncle before his death.
11 And he told us that you had endured great hardships[8] with your uncle
12 while he was sick; and that was very[9] difficult for us [to bear,] namely[10]: [that] no one of us

11 יגעלך is the colloquial yij'állak for يَجْعَلُ لَكَ.

was at your side to help you in what befell you when you were worn out with the concerns of your uncle's case. But God the Exalted will make for you[11] a lasting change[8] and open the gates of fortune to your hands: if it please God!
Now Ibn al-Ḳuzdīrī arrived five days after Pūrīm[12]. And, after he had told us of the death of your uncle, we made a secret of his case. And your father did not leave[13] his presence until he had made him swear that he would not mention this matter to anyone; and we informed him about the wife[14] of your uncle, and what she was doing to us. And we made him swear[15] that he would not tell her anything of all that had happened. Then we made a secret of that matter. And we shall not tell anyone about anything: indeed not even your wife[16] shall we inform of the death of your uncle.
And [al-Ḳuzdīrī] had said that you wanted[17] [to go] to India, to Colombo; so, we returned to [our] former state of suspense; and remained [so] for the space of a month and a half:
until Ibn al-Zaiyāt arrived, who lives at the house of Musayyar Ibn Jārah[18].
Then we met together with him, and he told us of your return to Aden, and how the ship was captured when [you were] attacked, and how there came to you a cargo ship, and how you arrived at Aden, safe and sound. So we did not lack the grace of God: and with God there is no [possibility of anything] but [affairs going] well. But we were much distressed because[10] there was no letter of yours with him, reassuring us[19].
So, we remained anxious until Joseph Ibn al-Ḥafṣī arrived late on the night of Ramaḍān, the night of the festival of the Muslims[20]. And we met together with him. And he told us of all that had befallen you, and how you returned to Aden. But we did not believe [his] story[21] until he had handed us your good letter.
And we read[22] it, and understood what was in it. So, I was at peace. But if we had not seen 35 תואניא is certainly [ال]ثَّوانِيَ; accusative for nominative.

36 وَصيّة is both "testament" and "command"; hence the play upon the word.

37 וגיבני for وَأَجِبْنِي.

38 I.e. either he "made fools of," or "trifled with," or "gambled with."

39 He intended to write إِلَّا.....لَا.....إِنَّ.

40 תואב is apparently تُؤَابَة, but without the feminine ending.

41 Cf. al-Dhāhabī, Mīzān al-I'tidāl (Cairo, 1325), i, 440.

42 This jumble contains perhaps : ענד, בסלאם, and סאלמין.

43 Humorous? Although the text says "bought a slave," the context refers to a son.

44 The same correction of the text as in recto, l. 31. But here we have a reference to pirates, and the ransoming of captive Jews. Cf. Mann, op. cit., vol. i, pp. 87 ff. Muslims captured Christians and Jews, and Christians captured Muslims (and Jews?). The price of ransom was 33⅓ dīnārs, the dīnār being worth about $2.50 in gold, with a purchasing power of about $7.50 at that time.

15 let carelessness[35] overtake you in that [matter]; for this is our supreme "will"[36] in regard to you.
16 And you sent [a letter] complaining [to] the Master[30] and saying to him that you had sent to al-Anṣārī.
17 But answer me[37], by Allah, my Son: Have I anything of all [the property] he told you of?
18 But, my Son, aren't you free to recognize al-Anṣārī and his little game:
how 19 he stood in the market-place and played[38] with anyone who happened to be standing there? And know,
20 O my Brother, no good-fortune is sent[39] to you except that it comes from God the Exalted.
21 And about your father's[30] calling out to you—for men and demons may sleep, but the Master[30] does not 22 sleep, because he keeps calling to you, all night and all day long. And if you only knew shame[40]:
23 that it might enter into you through the letters to you! And you send [letters] to us about having 24 other business to do than writing letters: and especially the letter which reached us
25 with the ship's captain. And you sent word, and you said to your Master[30]: "When Shbl al-Daulah[41]
26 arrives get from him what I have sent to you as well as to the other merchants." And he did not 27 rejoice. It made a deep impression on him. And we heard that all the dignitaries arrived
28 at.....[42] But calm yourself[19]. Your mother 29 asked after you and said to you: "O my Son, just as you have relieved[19] me with your letter, so may God 30 the Exalted relieve[19] you from every care." And also Barakāt the son of my [maternal] aunt, has taken possession of 31 his house with the daughter of his [maternal] aunt, Sitt Nissīm—God have mercy upon her!—[as bride]. But you have 32 offspring—if it please God. We have heard that you have bought[43] a boy. May God the Exalted 33 teach you what a blessing he is, and make him the most blessed of honors, and grant you many more 34 like him! And, by Allah, my Brother, the Muslims[44] exacted[45] for you[r ransom still] more from us;
35 until one day[46] the ship's captain set free[47] a rich man, [one] of the friends[48] of your uncle. We object to your[10] not informing me as to whether any of the letters reached you.

I send you greeting, and to [all] whom your grace and favor protect, [I send] greeting.
And your father sends you greeting; and your mother sends you greeting; and the writer of this letter, your brother and slave, Joseph, who is grateful for your favor: we send you greeting!

Margin of verso:

And your sisters send you greeting; and your [maternal] aunts send you greeting; and the sons of your [paternal] uncle, the Sheikh Abū al-Ḥasan and the Sheikh Abū al-Faraj, and his children, send you greeting; and your father-in-law[55] Ibn Elias, sends you greeting. I am glad that you wrote to him [while on his] journey. And God the Exalted will cause [your letter] to reach him; and it will comfort you just as you comforted him and us. For he is ruined, he is in straits[56]. And the Ḥazzān Bayyān, and Joseph al-Maghribī, and Manṣūr, and his brother, the children of Khalaf, send you greeting. And the Sheikh ʿAṭāllāh[57] and his son[16], the Sheikh Abū al-Ḥasan, send you greeting. And the Kadi and his [male] slaves send you greeting. He has married the daughter of Futūḥ the Egyptian; and has been blessed [with] a boy from her. And you make inquiry in behalf of the Sheikh Abū al-Sarūr: [Please] inform him that his brother, Joseph al-Jadīd, asks after [the child] which was born[58] on the 14th of the month... .....fourteenth of the month. May God the Exalted requite her [with] her deed, and requite her [with] what she wrought!.....write.....remainder... ...and bring us together soon, if it please God. And you ask after the affairs of.....: [Please] inform him that his family are in health, and that his letters have reached his family. But we were grieved by what happened to him. May God the Exalted make up to him [what he lost], and set his affairs in order, and make up to him by his family [what he lost].....

[60] לם תלדשי, lam tulídshe, with the negative -she of modern vernacular.

[61] אשהרא is for أَشْهُرًا though we should have the genitive, not the accusative. Cf. note 8.

[63] I.e. "corrupt." This must be an epithet, not an acceptable name.

[64] In order to constitute a מִנְיָן or quorum.

Bottom of verso:

And another matter: On the day[46] when my [maternal] uncle went on a journey and we took leave of him at the canal, he took me aside and said:

"She is with child." And we let nine months[59] go by for it [to happen]; but she did not bear[60]. And again we let another nine months[61] go by, until she bore a boy. And there was an uprising of all the people, until [even] the Muslims[62] said: "We never in our lives heard of a deed like [the deed of] this Jewess! She deserves for this thing nothing less than burning!" And some of the Jews—Byzantine Jews, such as Manṣūr Ibn Moses, and Manṣūr Ibn al-Khabīth[63]— defended her cause, until they had collected something like ten of the Jews[64], in order to circumcise [the child]. But neither dayyān nor ḥazzān was present. And they did not [therefore] say the [necessary] blessings over him[65].

Margin of recto:

And another matter: After your mother had heard [of] the death of your [maternal] uncle—God have mercy on him!—she[66] was heavy-hearted because of you[67] and some hardship[68] which you might have encountered at sea the second time[69]. And while she was sick [from this worry] neither food nor drink entered her mouth, until your good letter reached her. And just as she looked at it—your letter—and felt well and happy [again], and just as you relieved us by your letter[70]: so may God the Exalted relieve you in your trial[71], and make good-fortune meet you and stay with you. [That is] what we pray for you always.

And another matter: Joseph Ibn al-Hafṣi brought us a letter [from you[72];] "Keep the mother of Abū al-Sarūr from writing; and pay her the price of the grain which arrived with the Kadi.....Ibn al-S...., and what she expects, without her hearing that anything has come to her." She has come to have no other occupation than begging of us continually. And before that—before the death of my [maternal] uncle—she brought the Master[30] before the dayyān[73] and made a demand upon him. And at the time my [maternal] uncle went on the journey[74]—God have mercy on him[75]—he recommended to the Master[30] that he buy for her a dīnār's [79] This root occurs three times here (and perhaps in verso, l. 35), and is plainly written מחד ; but there is no root محد nor محذ nor محر in Arabic. The root مهر is the only one that will give sense. The ר presents no difficulty ; but the ח can be accounted for only by the assumption of an actual dialectical difference.

X. A LEAF FROM A PRAYER-BOOK

Paper $8\frac{1}{2} \times 6$ inches.

Hebrew in half-square Hebrew characters, partly vocalized, and not always correctly so.

The many abbreviations and omissions, in the manner of No. XLII, suggest that this may be merely a memorandum of prayers.

worth[76] of linen, and fuel-wood and olive oil. And he bought her that. And he continued [to give her things] until[77] he gave[78] her the dowry[79]. And he gave her the linen for a dowry; and he paid[80] from [the sale of] it the cost[81] of the dowry[82], all of it; so that nothing remained that she could have [even] the slightest need of. And then she brought him before the dayyān; and she said to him: "We want from him [the profits of] my husband's journey, which he completed."

[81] كِرَاء is usually "rent." [82] She married again.

X. A LEAF FROM A PRAYER-BOOK

Like No. XLVI, this fragment has to do with the prayers for the Day of Atonement.

Recto begins with the words:

כִּי הכל הֶבֶל אלהינו ואלהי אבותינו הֲלֹא כָל הַנִּסְתָּרוֹת etc.

Verso begins with the words:

אַרְבַּע מִיתוֹת בְּבֵית דִּין חֶנֶק etc.

XI. BILL OF DIVORCE

Paper $7\frac{3}{8} \times 5\frac{1}{2}$ inches.

In half-square Hebrew characters, but in the Aramaic language, so often used in Jewish documents.

There are some places where the writing has been effaced or the paper destroyed ; but the complete text can be recovered from the context.

[1] Such bills of divorce could be drawn up in other languages than Aramaic, though this seems to have been the prevailing language since 500 B.C. A number of such bills have been found in the Genizah. See e.g. Moïse Schwab in Revue des Études Juives, vol. lvi, p. 128; and especially the excellent treatise of Ludwig Blau, Die Jüdische Ehescheidung und der Jüdische Scheiderbrief, Budapest, 1911 (two facsimiles are given there from the Elkan Adler collection). See another facsimile in the Jewish Encyclopedia, vol. iv, p. 624. Though the general expressions were fixed from of old, extra words could be added in order to give greater importance to that which was being said. The present bill is as long as any that we have seen of this early period.

[2] A.D. 1278. [3] We take מצרים = مصر = Fusṭāṭ.

[4] In none of the bills of divorce that we have seen is the precaution in regard to the name taken to this length. The usual expression is simply : וכל שום דאית לי.

[5] Notice the redundancy of the expression יתיכי ליכי which, however, is found elsewhere. Cf. Blau, loc. cit., part ii, p. 99.

[6] סת אלדאר would mean "lady of the house." See Steinschneider, Jewish Quarterly Review, vol. xi, p. 330.

XI. BILL OF DIVORCE[1]

A bill of divorce given to Sitt al-Dār, daughter of Isaac, of the village of Benha al-'Asal, by her husband—whose name may have been Shilyā—in the city of Fusṭāṭ.

It is dated 1590 of the Era of Documents, i.e. A.D. 1278.

On the verso the witnesses have testified to having handed the bill of divorce to the woman in question.

Recto:

1 On the third day of the week, [Tuesday], which is the twenty-ninth day of the month

2 Tammūz, of the year one thousand five hundred and ninety of [the Era of] Documents[2],

3 according to the method of dating by which we are accustomed to count here in Fusṭāṭ of Egypt,

4 which is situate upon the river Nile, I .....[11]

5 of the city of Fusṭāṭ[3]—and any other name or surname that I may possess,

6 my father may possess, my place of dwelling or the places of dwelling of my fathers may possess[4]—I desire,

7 in perfect free-will, and without being compelled: to free thee, to let thee go, and to cause thee[5] to depart—

8 thee my wife, Sitt al-Dār[6], daughter of Isaac, of the city of Benha[7]

9 al-'Asal—or any other name or surname that thou mayest possess, that thy fathers may possess,

10 or thy place of dwelling, or the places of dwelling of thy fathers[8] [may give thee], thou who wert my wife

11 prior to this. In such manner I release thee, I send thee forth, and I let 12 thee depart, that thou mayest be free and have the right, of thine own will,

13 to go and marry any man thou wilt.

14 No one can oppose thee in my name[9], from this day onward and forever. Behold!

---

[7] Yāḳūt, Geographisches Wörterbuch, vol. i, p. 748, gives both pronunciations, Binha and Banha. The word אלעסל was added to it, because the best honey in Egypt came from the place. See, also, Ibn Duḳmāḳ, Description de l'Égypte, vol. v, p. 59. It occurs in other Genizah documents; see Mann, The Jews in Egypt, vol. ii, general index, s.v.

[8] See above, line 6. The meaning seems to be that he wishes to cover any name that she or he may have coming from family possessions in other places.

[9] I.e. "saying that thou bearest my name." The addition of מן שמי is not normal; but see Blau, loc. cit., part ii, p. 100.

2 המגרש בתורת גירושין גמורין לקמן אנן עידי מסירה
3 עמנואל בי׳ יחיאל נבתויא שלה בר עמרם נע׳

---

[10] Here, and on verso, the letters נבתויא follow this name. In one document (Taylor-Schechter, 13. J6, No. 11) we find them after the very name which has been signed to our own: עימנואל בי׳ יחיאל נבתויא. See other examples of this combination of letters in Mann, op. cit., vol. ii, p. 236. It is not uncommon. Evidently it contains the first letters of some pious wish.

15 Thou art free to every man. It is proper that thou shouldst receive from 16 of freedom, a bill of divorce, and a letter of dismissal, according to the law of Moses and of Israel.

17 [Witnesses] Immanuel, son of Rabbi Yeḥīēl[10].
Shēlāh Bar ʿAmram.

Verso:

1 This bill of divorce has reached the divorcee, who is among her people, from the hand of Shilyā[11], 2 the divorcer, according to the law of complete divorce. Below we the witnesses of the delivery [sign our names]:
3 Immanuel, son of Rabbi Yeḥīēl Shēlāh Bar ʿAmram.

[11] If this reading is correct, one may restore recto, line 4 thus:

אנא ..ן שליא .. רי בה

and translate: "I,.....Shilyā..., who [live] in the city of Cairo," etc.

[1] Many letters begin with the simple word כתאבי. Cf. MS. Paris Consistoire VII. E. 18: .....כתאבי יא שיכי אטאל אללה; Brit. Mus. MS. Or. 5542, No. 10: .....כתאבי אטאל אללה. Sometimes אלי is added; MS. Paris VII. E. 12, No. 31: .....כתאבי אלי סידי; cf. Brit. Mus. MS. Or. 5542, No. 21. Sometimes the verb is used, in the first person or in the third person; e.g. Taylor-Schechter, 5. 7, No. 6: .....כתבת אטאל אללה; Bodl. MS. Hebr. c. 28, No. 55; Taylor-Schechter, 10. J4, No. 1: .....כתב עבד מולאי. Again, the verb is left to be understood; e.g. MS. Paris VII. E. 24. For the forms of address in Genizah letters, see Worman in the Jewish Quarterly Review, vol. xix, pp. 721 ff., and Goldziher, in Revue des Études Juives, vol. lv, pp. 54 ff.

[2] So the words should perhaps be rendered in this letter, instead of by "Lord and Master."

[3] In our texts there is a habit of using interchangeably the second and third persons, when speaking to the addressee; and the singular and plural of the first person, when the writer speaks of himself. In our translation we use one form only in each case.

[4] This formula gives some trouble because of its indefiniteness.

[5] Cf. the Koran, ch. i, verse 1. [6] جَواب here in the modern colloquial sense.

Genizah Fragment 12

XII LETTER

The Arabic is as slovenly as the script, and shows strong colloquial tendencies. The style is abbreviated and technical, perhaps intentionally cryptic. As he goes on the writer becomes more and more incoherent.

A letter from an unknown man to one whose name we read uncertainly as Abū Yaḥyā Nathaniel Ibn Nissīm, urging him to attend to certain business matters the nature of which is not clear.

Recto:

1 [This is] my letter[1], Sir[2], [to you]. May God lengthen your[3] life and prolong your[3] health and happiness! Behold [in me] the inquirer[4]
2 after the state of your health and fortunes. God, the Lord of the Worlds[5], disposes [our affairs]. [There are now] 7 [days] remaining of [the month of] Shebhāṭ. May God complete it
3 auspiciously for you and us! I am informing you, Sir, a number of letters have gone forward from me to you. I hope [to receive]
4 your answer to them. Your letter arrived by the hand of master Abū Ibrāhīm Ismā'īl Ḳfwḥ (?).
5 And then arrived, after it, another letter[6], by the hand of Lfyj (?). And you say in it: "Sell
6 gold to whoever needs it most. Send him the dīnārs as a favor[7], [the dīnār] equalling from 17 to 18 [and a] half [dirhams][8]." And I am still[9] in need[10] of [doing] this,
7 Sir. I desire of you, Sir, that you display some zeal, and sell and buy what
8 I told you to in the letter: not selecting some [one] thing[11] from it, but strictly doing everything that remains for you [to do], and what
9 I directed you [to do] in the matter[12] of the deposit. And may it become.....And what I said in the matter[12] of the 10 [personal] effects. I desire of [you], Sir, that you discipline yourself in this matter, and sell. And by Allah, Sir, 11 we are not going to save ourselves in [the business] according to what my partner says. But let no one take anything except what was decided upon

---

[7] شاكريّة usually means "wages"; etymologically "thankfulness."

[8] Reading לי for ל, and נוץ for نُصّ, the colloquial form of نِصْف. In the ninth and tenth centuries the dīnār was worth about 15 dirhams. See Le Strange, Palestine under the Muslims, 1890, p. 43.

[9] Or in the modern colloquial sense: "I have come to be."

[10] נעתנג is perhaps ni'tāj, for نَحْتَاج.

[11] Vernacular sense.

[12] חדית can hardly have any other meaning here. Cf. Dozy, Suppl., vol. i, p. 258, col. 2, line 4 from below.

XIII. LIST OF TAX-PAYERS

The title and contents indicate that we have here a register of tax-payers in some Jewish community, probably in Fusṭāṭ, with the amounts that they have paid—not the balance to be paid (as l. 1 states)—of the fiscal tax.

Interest centers in the personal names. One must remember, however, that these people were often no more conscious of the meaning and implication of their names than we ourselves are of ours. There are Arab-Muslim, Jewish and double names, epithets and descriptive identifications. The Jewish names already include well-known modern motifs.

[1] Or perhaps שר השדים, "the Prince of demons." In any case "prince" is the technical term for the figures seen by the "scryer," or gazer into crystals, ink-pools, and the like. The Arabs call them "kings." In the Journal of the American Oriental Society, vol. xxxvi, pp. 37 ff., there is abundant material on this subject. See also Daiches, Babylonian Oil Magic in the Talmud and in Later Jewish Literature, London, 1913; and Blau, Altjüdisches Zauberwesen, Strassburg, 1898, p. 11. Sanhedrīn, 101a says: "One is allowed to ask the princes of oil and the princes of eggs; only they lie. One whispers a spell over oil in the vessel, but does not whisper over oil in the hand....." Blau fails to understand that this refers to scrying with oil and with eggs, broken into a cup or plate. Rashī (11th cent.) on the passage, explains the "princes of oil" as "princes of the thumb." They are figures seen in the oiled thumbnail.

GENIZAH FRAGMENT 15 b

XV. CHARM

This is a magical text, to be used in "scrying," or self-hypnotic gazing, at some bright surface. The angel Mīṭaṭrōn is adjured by the Ineffable Name, with the will of God, to reveal through an apparition, or "prince," the location of hidden gold pieces, to one Ṣedhāḳāh Ben Sitt al-Ahl, and his mother, Sitt al-Ahl. The magic is kept "white" by reference to the God of Israel; but His Name is nevertheless taken in vain. Scrying with oil, ink, egg, and bright objects was common among Jews and Arabs in the Orient, then as now.

XVI. DOCUMENT

A small sheet of paper, $5\frac{3}{4} \times 5\frac{1}{2}$ inches, containing a document in Arabic script and language.

The script is atrociously bad; and for the full deciphering, it would need the vision of the late Professor J. Karabacek[1]. In two or three places only are dots used to distinguish one letter from several of its fellows.

The scrawl at the end of line 8 can only be imagined to stand for six hundred. If this is correct, the document is dated Monday, the 2nd of Shawwāl, 654 A.H., or the 23rd of October, A.D. 1256.

On the verso are three more lines of the same sort, and above these at least one preceding line. Of these scarcely a word can be read.

The difficulty of deciphering such writing as this might be compared to what would be encountered centuries hence by anyone who tried to read the strange marks now made by salesmen on their sales-slips in our department stores.

Grateful acknowledgment of assistance is here made to M. Casanova of Paris, to Mr David Yellin of Jerusalem, and to Mr Raja F. Howrani.

Genizah Fragment 16 b

XVI. DOCUMENT

A document in which a Muslim, Muḥammad Ibn Muṣṭaphā, acknowledges that he has received from two Jews, Isaac Ibn Abū Sa'd and Abraham Barakāt, the value of money which they owe him. Isaac and Abraham are released from any further responsibility for this. Isaac seems to have transacted the business. Two Muslims sign their names as witnesses of the acknowledgment. Muḥammad Ibn Muṣṭaphā does not himself sign. The words "he wrote" before the signatures show that we have here only a copy of the document. Perhaps this is often the case with our fragments.

Recto:

1 In the Name of God, the Merciful, the Compassionate! Muḥammad Ibn Muṣṭaphā Ibn 'Abdallāh, the Baker, acknowledges [that] he received some time ago

2 .....[2] as a deposit and so forth[3], belonging to him, itemized, in his possession, in his responsible custody,

3 as something belonging to him, documented as his, in the presence of Isaac Ibn Abū Sa'd Ibn Muḥāsin the Jew,

4 the pastryman, [that] he has received safely.....payment.....as long as anyone witnesses the complete payment of his responsibility,

5 whatever his responsibility, in the sum documented and written down against the aforementioned Isaac and against Abraham

6 Barakāt, a right without question and without responsibility for the things explicitly mentioned[4]

7 or any claim of all the remaining [possible] claims, at the utmost, in their entirety.

8 He testified regarding the two of them on the second of Shawwāl, [of] the year six hundred and fifty-four.

9 I testify regarding him who acknowledged this: And he wrote[5]: "Aḥmad Ibn Sulaimān Ibn Ibrahīm." I testify regarding this:

10 And he wrote[5]: "Muḥammad Ibn Ḥusain Ibn 'Alī Ibn Manṣūr."

---

[2] Evidently certain articles are named here, or sums of money. The second word in this line occurs again as the fourth word in line 4.

[3] نحوه, abbreviating some documentary formula.

[4] لمرسمى is plainly written. Is it intended for a plural construct?

[5] Equivalent to our bracketed word "Signed."

XVII. PENITENTIAL HYMN

Paper $10\frac{5}{8} \times 3\frac{3}{4}$ inches, written upon both sides.

Hebrew in rude, cursive Hebrew letters.

The strophe is of four lines, the first three of which rime, while the fourth line contains the general rime of the hymn. The first line in the fragment contains the end of one stanza. There follow three stanzas, and then comes one line containing a few words of supplication that are often used as a mark of division between one poem and another one succeeding it. After these stanzas come two stanzas of two different pizmōnīm ; but these contain only two lines each, so-called "sheniyyah," though the same rime ends each half-line. A later hand has copied and fully punctuated these two stanzas.

[1] Cf. Exodus xxii, 1.

[2] I.e. Rome or the Byzantine Empire.

[3] Read וָקָם. Cf. Numbers xxiv, 17 : וָקָם שבט מישראל.

[4] The reference is, of course, to Egypt. The original reading of the third word was מנאון. This has been smudged out and beneath it מנוחלי written.

XVII. PENITENTIAL HYMN

A portion of a Pizmōn, i.e. a hymn with a refrain, forming a part of the extensive Selīḥah, or penitential, literature, which was composed by the Jews during the early Middle Ages, and graced the Synagogal liturgy upon days set apart for invoking the forgiveness and the clemency of God.

Acknowledgments are due to Professor Israel Davidson for his help with some of the faded places, and with the literature.

Recto:

1 And be smitten that he die, there shall be no blood shed for him[1].

Pizmōn.

2 Make an end, now, in Edom[2] of host and legion,

3 And a sceptre shall rise[3] out of [Israel,] the inheritors of [subjection to] the law of Ammon[4].

4 And then in judgment may He sit in His palace—

5 Because of the righteousness of the Father of Nations, stricken in age[5].

Pizmōn.

6 O, when Thy people repenteth, let it not receive shame[6].

7 Redeem it a second time as Thou didst from Goshen,

8 That it may return, as in days of yore, to the Old Gate[7], 9 To celebrate Thy festivals three times a year.

Pizmōn.

10 May God cause His scattered ones to hear His voice from on high,

11 A voice of good tidings from God himself, that to Him belongs

12 Your flock[8], together with its pasture-place and its land,

13 Proclaiming redemption[9]. To Him the people shall gather.

14 O God, King, that sittest upon the seat of mercy.

15 O God, King!

---

[5] I.e. Abraham; cf. Genesis xviii, 11; xxiv, 1. The scribe wrote at first באימין, which he then corrected.

[6] Cf. Hosea x, 6: בָּיְשָׁנָה.

[7] Cf. Nehemiah iii, 6.

[8] Reading quite uncertain. Professor Davidson suggests as a possible reading עדריכם.

[9] Professor Davidson disagrees with the reading, and believes that only four letters fill the space, i.e. גולה. It is peculiar that וְלוֹ is written ולא, though in the passage (Gen. xlix, 10) there is no Kere and Kethibh.

XVIII. LEAF FROM A MERCHANT'S NOTE-BOOK

It is impossible to give a connected translation, or even to transcribe more than these first two sections of the recto. The remaining section of the recto, and the verso, which has two sections running from opposite ends to the center, are in the same hand, though more carelessly written.

Below we print a few of the expressions which are recognizable.

XIX. POETIC FRAGMENTS UPON THE BACK OF AN ARABIC DOCUMENT

Paper $4\frac{1}{2} \times 3\frac{7}{8}$ inches.

Portion of a book (?) made up of long strips of paper which had been used once before. Upon the back there are some lines in a hopelessly difficult Arabic script.

XIX. POETIC FRAGMENTS UPON THE BACK OF AN ARABIC DOCUMENT

The Hebrew of the recto is written in half-square characters, and is a portion of some dīwān or collection of poems. It is, however, written continuously, without any consideration for the form of the poem.

Professor Israel Davidson has very kindly gone over the fragment and made some useful suggestions. The text has been rearranged and pointed by Professor Gottheil.

Recto:

1 ..... as a fire that devoureth.

2 And a burning fire of grief.

3 And, as if that were only a little thing[1], it hath devoured me.

4 And how it burneth, and hath ground me in pieces!

6 And behold, my utterance stammereth.

7 For my wounds [are] a great wonder(?)

8 And my garment hath been cut(?)

9 Rolled in the blood of mine eyes.

10 ..... And my lights have grown dark

11 And my creations(?) have become like a shadow.

12 ..... from my neighbourhood.

13 A shaken world.

14 And ..... let me dwell.

15 The haunt of jackals[2] and the ostrich.

16 And let me have the wing of a dove

17 Or the legs of a hind.

18 And I shall have light in their midst.

19 To dwell ..... among them.

20 ..... and their accidents.

21 My grief is doubled.

22 And I shall wander .....

23 ..... and in me there His face .....

XX. LEAF FROM A BOOK OF POEMS

Paper $5\frac{3}{8} \times 3\frac{3}{4}$ inches.

A leaf, in a half-square hand, from a book of Hebrew poems.

It begins with the last verse of a poem by Abraham Ibn Ezra (1092—1167), the acrostic of whose name, Abraham, can be followed at the beginning of the four verses that remain out of the five. The first stanza must have been rimed with a nun. Each stanza is separated from its successor by the word פזמון.

[1] Cf. Isaiah li, 16.

[2] Cf. Psalm civ, 24.

[3] Cf. Psalm xl, 6. The word אין is badly written אן.

XX. LEAF FROM A BOOK OF POEMS

The second poem, as Professor Davidson was quick to detect, is by Judah ha-Lēvī (b. 1035). The acrostic of his name can be discerned in the last six of these eight verses of the poem, the whole of which can be found in the Diwān des Abū-l-Hasan Jehuda ha-Levi (ed. H. Brody), vol. iii, p. 164. The writer of our fragment calls it: פזמון בלבי according to the opening words. Brody's edition furnishes our emendations and restorations.

Recto:

15 In the congregation of my faithful people[8], will I praise Thee O Lord.
16 O my beloved ones, at early morn take now the righteous.
17 [Take] with you words, and return unto the Lord[9].

Pizmōn "In My Heart"

18 O people, whom [other] peoples have oppressed and taken captive, 19 Know that gracious and full of compassion is the Lord[10].

Pizmōn "In My Heart"

XXI. LETTER

A polite and elegant letter from an unnamed person to the ra'īs, Rabbi Ḥalfōn ha-Lēvī, who may be one of those mentioned in Mann, op. cit., vol. ii, pp. 232, 237; Jewish Quarterly Review, vol. xix, pp. 730, 733.

Recto:

1 O my Lord and Master! May God continue your strength and lengthen your life! I have written [this] on Saturday night
2 with the wish [that] none but God Most High should instruct him[2]. Well, we have suffered a loss[3] in this individual.
3 as you also know. For, by your life, you also sought in him a support, and a wise man
4 among [the] wise[4]. And you also sought in him.....But understand, and close your eyes to all that you see,
5 if you will be so kind[5]. And the elephant—God keep him!—did not wish to give colors; but he will reach you,
6 if it please God, in any case[6]. So give no thought to that matter.
7 And I greet my Lord and Master becomingly, according to my desire and my inclination toward him.
8 And this applies in the highest degree to Master Isaac, son of Rabbi Obadiah, and our friend, the Chief of the 9 Police, Ibn 'Azūr (?), and Abū Abraham Ibn Shbt, and Master Isaac Ḳrshānt,
10 and the rest of the brethren. Then [greetings] to my Master once more,
11 and the Mercy of God Most High, and His Blessing!

Margin:

XXII. A BUSINESS LETTER

Paper $7\frac{1}{2} \times 5\frac{1}{2}$ inches.

Arabic in cursive Hebrew characters, like those of III, XII, XXXIII, XXXIV, XXXV, all very difficult to read because of the levelling of many letters to the same form. The writer relied upon muscular sensation, more than upon sight. When the connection is lost reliable translation becomes impossible.

XXII. A BUSINESS LETTER

A letter from Ḥasan (or Ḥassūn) Ibn Isaac to his "brother and friend," Abū Joseph Malūl(?) Ibn Moses, dealing in flax or linen.

The Jews are having trouble in Būṣīr where flax from France(?) is sold. Directions are given about various business operations.

On the verso are notes in two other hands about bales of flax or linen. They may not refer to the contents of the recto.

Recto:

1 My letter goes to you, dear Brother. May God prolong your existence and lengthen your safety[1]

Of this I inform you [explicitly].
12 And I asked you in the latter part of my accounting concerning the oil, [to] pay the price [of it] to
13 Ibn al-Raḳḳī. I hope you have done this. Convey [to] Abū al-Faḍl Ibn

15 פרנסאוי is فَرَنْسَاوِىّ from فَرَنْسَا. Cf. פרנצא in Brit. Mus. MS. Or. 5544, fol. 1, line 4. Mann, op. cit., vol. ii, p. 191.

16 فَتُؤْخَذُ عَلَيْهِ لَوْلَا يُحَلُّ.

17 כתב for אכתב.

18 The reference is possibly again to persecutions.

16 about it: "Take the flax of France[15], and perfect(?) flax [it is]." But there is no flax in the city that 17 we would buy. And you are blamed for it unnecessarily[16]. And one comes [back] here and is very sorry.
18 And I have come to a definite agreement with Abū al-Ḥajjāj [about] my dīnārs. Write[17] and convey to him my greetings, 19 and inform him of this. For he has had.....in.....were in 20 the city beautiful..... But all of it has come to an end. May [God] complete our benefit thereby in safety[18].

Margin:

[19]Tell him all about this. And let him guard against being excited by this; not about the indigo.....with it. And we shall recover for him a quantity of linen about which he told us.....and have him settle with me when he arrives; and we shall.....all, if it please God.

Address on verso:

To my Brother and Friend [more powerful][20] than I, Abū Joseph Malūl(?) Ibn Moses. May [God] prolong [his existence] and lengthen [his safety and prosperity!] From his friend Ḥasan(?) Ibn Isaac.

[19] Most uncertain. [20] A pun on the word عَزِيز.

[21] We do not know the vocalization of this nor its meaning. The same word occurs as a proper name twice in No. XII, lines 22 and 24. In the present case it might be بِرْهُون, "by pledges." Cf. Dozy, op. cit., sub voce. Nor do we know the meaning of the letters הכּ, הל, המ, for which of course much might be imagined. Are they numerals with the order reversed?

XXIII. NOTES ON THE BACK OF A LETTER

Paper $18\frac{3}{8} \times 3\frac{1}{8}$ inches.

A strip of paper cut from a letter, upon which some ḥazzān or other person has written in a large cursive hand, as if for posting on the wall, what seems to be the first word or the first two words of certain prayers and pizmōnīm.

A peculiarity of the script is the different ways in which the letter א is written. Cf. lines 1 and 2 with lines 3 and 8.

It is written in cursive Hebrew characters, and contains part of a charm against all manner of diseases and distempers.

---

[1] Ink border-lines show that the strip was never any wider. The letters ודחלולי began the first line, which is written in characters small and cramped, though hardly as an afterthought to the remaining lines.

[2] I.e. "spectres."

[3] The form נוסיא remains unexplained, but the word is related perhaps to Aramaic נְסָם, which has been connected with Greek νόσος.

[4] Cf. the Syriac ܒܣܝܐ.

[5] עֵיק רַע, but this would be mixed Hebrew and Aramaic.

[6] I.e. "incantations." Cf. Montgomery, op. cit., p. 301.

[7] Cf. Targum to Levit. xxi, 20.

[8] שאלביטא can hardly be a corruption of שַׁלְהֶבְיתָא "flame," although it might possibly be a similar formation from the root לבט.

XXIV. CHARM

The literature on Jewish magic is extensive. See Blau, Das altjüdische Zauberwesen, Strassburg, 1898; Davies, Magic, Divination and Demonology among the Hebrews and their Neighbors, London, 1898; Montgomery, Aramaic Incantation Texts from Nippur, Philadelphia, 1913.

2 . . . . . [10]

3 [Jehov]ah is thy shade upon thy right hand. The sun shall not smite thee by day, nor the moon by night[11]. Jehovah will keep thee from all evil. He will keep thy soul. Jehovah will keep thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth and for [evermore[12]] . . . . . .

4 [shall] be with me in a circle[13]. In the name of God, the Mighty, the Powerful, the Creator, the Heroic, that speaketh righteousness, the Glory, the Able, the Pure, the Spotless, the Unique, the Holy! And also I shall recite the names of the an[gels] . . . . . .

[9] שוכבא may be connected with the root שכב "to lie" (sexually, of demons: cf. Montgomery, op. cit., p. 304). It seems actually to spell out the Latin word succuba, except that we should then have a ם, not a שׁ. At any rate, we fancy that this word is very close to the intended meaning. Amulets not uncommonly contain allusions to the incubus-succuba superstition.

[10] Here follow the Cabbalistic names which are untranslatable. They are derived from Exodus xiv, 19–21, in such manner that the first letter of each name comes from verse 19, the middle letter from verse 20, the last letter from verse 21. The following names complete the 72: לכב ושר יחו להח בוק מנד אני העם רהע ייז ההה מיך יול ילה סאל ערי עשל מיה והו דני החש עמם ננא ניתּ מבה פדי נמס ייל הרח מצר ומב יהה ענו מחי רמב מנק איע חבו ראה יבם היי מום. (So explained by M. Chapira to Professor Gottheil.)

[11] Cf. Worrell, "The Demon of Noonday," in Journal of the American Oriental Society, 1918, xxxviii, 160 ff.

[12] Psalm cxxi, 5–8.

[13] A magic circle. Cf. Worrell, "Ink, Oil and Mirror Gazing Ceremonies in Modern Egypt," in the same Journal, 1916, xxxvi, 37 ff., particularly p. 52.

XXV. A SCRAP OF PAPER

Paper about 13 × $3\frac{1}{8}$ inches, tapering towards the top.

Hebrew and Arabic, in cursive Hebrew characters.

This fragment is perfectly described in the introduction to our No. XXIII. It is a strip, cut from the same letter and used in the same manner.

But unfortunately it is not a part of the same leaf as No. XXIII; so that comparison gives us no help with the mutilated verso, nor with the sketchy recto.

XXVI. LETTER

It is a letter written to a certain Rabbi Moses in the name of an old man, Abū al-Ḥasan.

There is no information in it. It is purely "une lettre de politesse."

---

[9] I.e. the Sheikh Abū al-Ḥasan.

[10] The use of طلب in this sense is most unusual. We should expect قصد or اراد.

[11] Probably a forgotten twelfth century vulgarism. A شيطان now-a-days in Egypt is a "clever fellow," full of tricks. In the text we have ת instead of ט.

[12] פי the vulgar fī or fih for fīhi.

[13] ביסקי has the bi- prefix of the present tense imperfect in vulgar Arabic. Cf. Spitta, Grammatik des arabischen Vulgärdialektes von Ägypten, Leipzig, 1880, pp. 193, 203. أسقى is used in three ways: (1) Of filling a cup with wine, or other drink. (2) Of watering cattle. (3) Of irrigating the soil. I think we might translate "is watering himself," "is soaking himself." Abū al-Ḥasan is taking a lot of this medicine, or he is enjoying it, or both, if we are not mistaken.

XXVII. LETTER

Paper $11\frac{5}{8} \times 7\frac{1}{2}$ inches, water-marked with a mailed torso.

Arabic in half-square Hebrew characters.

A letter from Abū Zubair Ṣadaḳah al-Maghribī, in Jerusalem, to Abū Yaḥyā Nurāi Ibn Nissīm, in Fusṭāṭ (Cairo). It is a prolix epistle, taking up the margins as well as the body of the page and a half upon which it is written.

Abū Zubair is a man of poor health, narrow life, and many troubles. His family was originally from Morocco or some one of the other Barbary States. He writes Arabic, in Hebrew letters—as Jews have done with many languages—but in such a manner as to betray his familiarity with the Arabic script and orthography. His language is no doubt the slightly classicised vernacular of his own day. It already exhibits many of the peculiarities of the spoken Arabic of modern Cairo. The difficult passages are no doubt in the slang of his time. Other peculiarities, such as the occasional omission of the article, the redundant "it," the strange use of עלי and other prepositions, and of common verbs, are not so easily explained. He is especially prone to mix forms and turns of expression while putting them on paper.

Unfortunately the letter bears no date. It was written, however, before 1050–1098, when the addressee died.

Below the address there is a line of Arabic script which cannot be made out.

Recto:

1 The letter of my Lord the Sheikh has come. May God lengthen his existence and prolong his health and his happiness! Amen! Selah[1]!

2 Today—and there are six days remaining of Elul—May God add unto him these feast-days that are to come

3 for many[2] years! And may He make them for him fortunate and blessed in the acceptance of the Law and the Commandment! And we wish

4 for him [that he shall have] living male offspring! The arrival [of the letter] occurred after [we] poor ones had yearned for it, and had been deprived of it by delay, in addition to my having been made ill

5 and uneasy and sad by the great calamity[3] and the heavy affliction which has crushed our strength[4]: namely the

6 death of the excellent master[5], the Crown of our Head. Blessed be the honest judge who judges in righteousness and truth! This

7 Sabbath Day has been, with me and with my people, like the Sabbath Day falling upon the Ninth of Ab[6]; and we have not found any strength for our spirits.

8 [We are conscious of nothing] save that we are victims of calamity, we who have lived to [see] these misfortunes. And these bitter

9 cups[7] have been drained, and our sight has been blinded, and our strength cut off; and we shall continue to weep for him as long as we live.

[8] With only one ו.

[9] This quotation, Job iii, 21, is in Hebrew, as indicated by the overlining in the manuscript and in our text. All Hebrew words are thus marked.

[10] Jeremiah vii, 28.

[11] In the Arabic form.

[12] I.e. to pay a debt?

[13] "Graves of the Fathers" are probably Hebron, though we can not find any other instance of this title. At Hebron the "Fathers," Adam, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, were supposed to be buried. The vicinity is fruitful, and one might have bought grain there perhaps. Cf. Baedeker, Palästina u. Syrien, 1910, pp. 105 ff.

[14] Or "grain" merely.

[15] شِقاق plural of شُقَّة "strips, shavings," etc.

10 There is no strength now that he is gone. By[8] this Jerusalem! Many times we have desired death and longed for it. And I have become 11 one of those concerning whom it is said[9]: "Who long for death, but it cometh not, and dig for it more than for hidden treasures," because of what I endure in the way of cares of 12 this world and the multitude of its sorrows, and the might of its calamities, and the hard-heartedness of its people from whom sincerity 13 has been cut off. And concerning them [the saying][10] holds: "Truth is perished, and is cut off from their mouth." And nothing remains now but that someone should take 14 your property by force, while you look the other way. Most wonderful of wonders! Isaac[11]—God keep him!—after we had waited 15 for him[12] these ten months, went off to Kibhrē Abhōth[13], and bought wheat[14] in which was [something] like chaff (?)[15] and.....[16] 16 and collected[17] wheat[14] suitable for his place, worth a dīnār and a third the ḳafīz. And I said: "We will take it off your hands for a dīnār and 10 [carats the ḳafīz][18]."
17 But he said: "I am not selling." And he put the wheat into his house, while we were standing by[19]. This was the extremity of [our] patience.
And nothing is known 18 to me about[20] him except this: Not a dirham which he owes[21] me and has in his possession shall I take except [as] against the base "that render 19 evil for good[22]." God—He is exalted!—requites every man according to his intention! But the hour of this writing has elapsed[23]. May 20 God make suitable[24] two ḳafīz of grain as the equivalent of the return of the dīnārs[25], at three dīnārs and a quarter[26]. But I am also looking out for something else.
21 But let not my Lord worry. For they have received the fuel-wood, and the olive oil and everything they need,

[16] עניות Hebrew. It was very poor wheat?

[17] وَلَّفَ for أَلَّفَ. Cf. Dozy, Supplément aux Dictionnaires Arabes, ii, p. 892.

[18] If the carat is one twenty-fourth of the dīnār (cf. Mann, op. cit., ii, p. 195, n. 13), Isaac bought the grain at $1\frac{1}{3}$ dīnārs and was offered $1\frac{5}{12}$ dīnārs, or two carats more than the cost. They wished to shame him into paying them on the spot when he received the cash from them. The dīnār is, of course, at this time the large gold coin, and not the denarius.

[26] I.e. for two ḳafīz, or 1.625 dīnārs the ḳafīz. He offered Isaac only $1\frac{5}{12}$ before.

27 حاجة "thing" is modern Egyptian colloquial. In l. 20 he has used the classical and Palestinian شى.

28 قبضوا "grabbed," but in the dialect of Cairo, "received." This is still Isaac's case, we take it.

29 مع. Cf. note 20.

30 The relative pronoun is feminine but the verb is masculine. The writer has both the mother of Abū Yūsuf and the Sheikh al-Sharābī in mind, but he means the latter.

31 יכתריו is colloquial, from كرى. The ' is merely a graphic reminiscence of the singular.

32 כניסיה here and in l. 31, not كنيسة but كَنِيسِيَّة (Dozy, op. cit., ii, p. 493), the Spanish (15th century), Moroccan and Tunisian form of the same word. Is this the Church of the Holy Sepulchre? Perhaps we are to read كَنِيسِيَّة and understand the "Place of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre."

33 "belonging to." 34 قبول for قَبْل.

such as onions, and salt and other things. And I am rejoiced at everything[27] that turns up for them. And they have received[28] from me in addition three dīnārs cash for their pressing needs. And they do not need anything from[29] me. And at most times I go out to the house and ask them whether [they] need [anything]. And they have remained in the house in which they stayed when they first arrived—a full month—with the mother of Abū Yūsuf and with the Sheikh al-Sharābī who married[30] his son to the daughter of al-Ballūṭī.
And, although they had rented[31] a house in the vicinity of the Church[32], from[33] a Muslim man for five dīnārs for a whole year, and he was to receive the money before[34] we took possession. But when we had brought the five dīnārs, he said: "Six dīnārs! We shan't make it less[35]." The matter was hard for me[36]. And when we had agreed to the six, he sought[37] to bring[38] troubles from other directions. We dropped the matter.
And we hired a little room[39] of[33] a Jewish woman for two dīnārs until [the month of] al-Muḥarram—five months. And it is a room, in the neighbourhood of our friends, in which are all things necessary to it. And the bath is in the neighbourhood of it in the Jewish Quarter, near to the Church[32] and the Rubā'īyah[40]. I cannot describe[41] what I have done in regard to it. And I neglected no tradesman nor wool-merchant, nor cloth-merchant—according to whoever offered [things] for sale[42]. And there were sold from it[43] 39 quarters[44] of a wazn[45] [for] eight dīnārs, and [the] price

[35] מא נחט ישי is colloquial ma naḥuṭṭshe from classical مَا نَحُطُّ شَيْئًا "we shall not lower at all."

[36] עלּיי is عَلَيَّ. ى with ّ is regularly represented by יי.

[37] طلب in this sense is found in No. XXVI, recto, l. 13.

[38] יגיב colloquial root جاب from جاءَ and بِ.

[39] حُجَيْرَة diminutive of حُجْرَة. The writer has hired this for himself.

[40] The "fourfold" or "quadrilateral" place, but not "city square" to our knowledge. Perhaps this name was applied to the site of the Mediaeval lodgings and hospitals of the Knights of St John, which passed into the hands of the Moslems in 1187, and became known as the Mūristān. The room in question was probably in the block of buildings between the present Ḥārat Bab al-Silsileh, Ṭārīḳ Bab al-Silsileh and Sūḳ al-Laḥḥāmīn.

[41] אצף is أَصِف from وصف without the أَنْ as in modern vernacular. Cf. l. 40, and other instances.

[42] עלי מן אערצֿהא makes no sense. Perhaps it is a confusion between على ما أَعْرَضَها "according to what they offered for sale," and على مَنْ أَعْرَضَ "according to whoever presented himself." The writer of the letter is subject to these confusions.

[43] I.e. this room, which seems to have been used as a shop.

[44] רבעי is رُبْع with a connecting vowel.

[45] The wazn seems to be here a definite weight.

46 The writer sold 39 quarter wazns for 8 dīnārs, or 292 dirhams, which was at the rate of $7\frac{19}{39}$ dirhams the quarter, or $29\frac{37}{39}$ dirhams the wazn. After he had sold out at about 30 dirhams, the price sank to 20 dirhams the wazn.

47 The vernacular nuṣṣ for نِصْف.

48 خُضْرَة "greenness."

49 תחמיר, تَخْمِير and חמרת, خُمِّرَتْ have ח for خ which is very unusual and must point to a dialectic peculiarity.

50 תבקת, confusion between تَبْقِى and بَقِيَتْ (vernacular baḳat).

33 became 20 dirhams[46], every dīnār being by exchange 36 dirhams and a half[47]. And of the [buyers] some people paid me [with] a note, and of them some people

34 paid a part, and a part remained with them [unpaid for]. And mouldiness[48] had attacked it in consequence of the fermentation[49] which had developed in

35 Egypt. And I weighed out, in addition to this remainder which remained[50] [in their possession, unpaid for], a dirham and a half to such as brought it back[51] in a fermented condition, while it

36 remained [in their possession, unpaid for]. And I am diligent in this matter. But Praise to Him who made its star to sink[52]! And as for the row which occurred

37 at my place: God has taken away its bitterness[53]. And where God has made [me] to profit[54] from it[55] by a dīnār, I have done business by means of it[55] partly

38 in prunes[56] and gum-arabic, almonds and soap[57] and earthen pots[58]—such as I am unable, and am not in the mood[59], to mention. For even as

39 I write this letter, I sigh: "Perhaps death is very near[60]." But I was pleased by what it[61] said about the arrival of the ships

40 safely in Sicily, and their success with the cargoes. And I desire of my Lord that he inform me of the names of the people

41 arriving in the Spanish ship; and likewise, [of] every ship which comes let him inform me of all the news,

Margin:

as though I were an eye-witness of it. And perhaps there may come to me a letter from Sicily, or from some place or other. But up to the present [news of] the escape of the youth has not reached me. May God decree "safety" for him! And there arrived to me the letter of my Lord the Sheikh a little while ago, mentioning that he had got the pamphlets which belonged to me [and were] with Rabbi Joshua—May God keep him! And of these there reached Rabbi Israel two pamphlets in which were the elements of [Hebrew] grammar, for him to copy off for my Lord. And after I had

---

[51] עאודהא, confusion between عَاوَدَ "came back complaining," and أَعْوَدَهَا or أَعَادَهَا "brought it back."

[52] I.e. made the price to sink; or, caused the matter to be forgotten.

[53] מארה, an error for مَرَارَة. [54] נמע is جَمَّعَ?

[55] We doubt that the writer has anything in mind when he uses "it" so carelessly.

[56] סבסתאן. Cf. Dozy, op. cit., vol. ii, p. 625.

[57] נאסול is غاسول "cleanser."

[58] קללות, perhaps a feminine plural of the masculine noun קַלָּא.

[59] יתסע is يَتَّسِع from وسع "my breast is not expanded, I am not happy enough, to..."

[60] I.e. "Oh that death were near!"

[61] I.e. the letter he has received from Egypt.

62 נאכד, if correct, is نأخذ "we attacking." But على of the person is unusual.

63 אייט הדה is Syrian vernacular, ēsh hāda from ايّ شئ هذا "what sort of a thing this is."

64 עייאת is عَيَّيْتُ. Having used the double י for ىّ he employs א to avoid a third י.

65 כרראריס with an extra ר due to confusion with the singular form.

66 The correct title was אשת בעלת אוב. Cf. 1 Samuel xxviii, 7.

67 Numbers xxii, 28, about the ass of Balaam that spoke.

68 Genesis iii, 1, about the serpent that spoke.

69 Possibly "the Messiah." 70 I.e. "that exists between us"?

71 The מ and א are written over the line so as to suggest מפארג which we take to be مُفَرِّج.

72 סררנא is سُرِرْنا.

[73] Perhaps مَأْخذ "mine," or "source of supply."

[74] גראו, perhaps a confusion of نَرَى "we [do not] think," and colloquial yarau, "they [do not] think."

[75] עטימה should be masculine.

[76] פרג is فَرَج, a break in the grain market, or a relief in the stringency of public need.

[85] תעוזה is تُعَوِّزه.

[86] מעדורין is مَعْذُورين. [87] אוקת is a confusion between أَوْقَات and وَقْت.

[88] I.e. He makes no distinction between close friends and mere acquaintances, between Jews and Muslims. [89] I.e. "do you."

6 I have an account against him; but the greatest happiness will enter my heart if there should reach me [news] of the health of his body, and news

9 Sahlān is with us in Jerusalem. He has been ill. May God the Exalted heal him! And he says that his losses are reducing him to poverty[85].
10 And he finds no one visiting him that he does not speak to him violently against me. And people are disappointed[86]. One tries 11 to do a kindness—often it results in things which one does not like. And often it leads to a crash on certain occasions[87].
12 [One] buys him something, and he [goes and] lives in the houses of the Muslims. To him there is no inside or outside[88]. And if there is heard of Rabbi 16 his relations—God keep them both!—The most excellent of greeting! And the letters of Abū al-Faraj—God watch over him!—have arrived from Tyre.

17 And he is in all [good] health. And the boy, Asher,—God preserve him! —is with him. I am letting him[95] know that. Peace be unto him[95]!

Margin:

And the man has died who used to importune me in the house of the Sheikh Abū al-A'lā. And these doings[96] went on between us. And he has received his deserts[97]. But woe[98] unto us! For we are not unmindful of our own condition[99]. May God.....(?) my Lord most abundantly and extend his life!

[100] As there are scarcely any points to distinguish similar letters from one another in these proper names, it is almost useless to try to make them out. But the Arabic type commits one to some definite reading.

Address[100]:

To my lord the Sheikh Abū Yaḥyā Nahrāi[101] Ibn Nissīm,
From his grateful Abū Zubair Ṣadaḳah al-Maghribī.
May God extend his [earthly] sojourn, and protract his health and happiness!
Al-Fusṭāṭ—If it please God[102], the Powerful and Exalted!

[101] Aramaic.
[102] I.e. that it should arrive safely.

XXVIII. PART OF A LETTER

Paper $11\frac{5}{8} \times 5\frac{1}{8}$ inches.

Arabic in Hebrew characters.

The beginning, perhaps a considerable portion, of this letter, is wanting; but what we have is well preserved. The cursive Hebrew hand is neat and legible, and continues so to the end; and the margin has not been filled with added scrawls. A blank space has unaccountably been left near the bottom. After the conclusion, line 25, several postscripts have been added. A cryptic signature or date stands at the lower right-hand corner.

This fragment may be the ending of a letter of which No. XXX is the beginning.

[1] אן used as an indefinite relative, quite clearly in this case; less clearly in other instances among our fragments. This is not modern vernacular, and appears to be a characteristic feature of Judeo-Arabic of the time. We also have in our fragments الذى in the sense of أَنْ, a semantic change illustrated by English "that": first the demonstrative pronoun, then the relative pronoun, then the conjunction. This use of الذى is the same as that of the modern colloquial illi: ana mabsūṭ illi mā gāsh, "I am glad that he did not come." Cf. Spiro, Arabic-English Vocabulary, 1st ed., 1895, p. 17.

[2] lē for lō is Palestinian. [3] The Hebrew words. [4] I.e. "wife."

[5] بَعْدُ and not بَعْدَ, it seems.

[6] The writer is spelling almost phonetically both his Arabic and his Hebrew: חאסד = חָסֶד, קאהל = קָהָל, צדאקא = צְדָקָה. For this passage we know that צדקה was pronounced in the Hebrew way by Jews.

XXVIII. PART OF A LETTER

This text, with No. XXX, is extremely interesting, not only because it has been plainly written and perfectly preserved, but because it antedates by possibly two hundred and fifty years the next oldest specimen which we have of colloquial Arabic: Hazz al-Ḳuḥūf by al-Shirbīnī, A.D. 1687. (Cf. Brockelmann, Geschichte der Arabischen Literatur, vol. ii, p. 278.) In marked contrast to our texts Nos. III, XII, XXII, XXXIII, XXXIV and XXXV, we find here a Jew writing, probably in the early fifteenth century, almost what is spoken in Cairo today. Was the writer a slave?

1 And I shall acquaint you with and inform you of all that I know. And I shall take you with me [in fancy]
2 to every house to which[1] I go[2]. After this go [in fancy with me] to the shop. [The proprietor] sends me
3 all business. From this there are two [shares]. He says to me: "There is a dirham!" and "Give [me] a dirham!"
4 Every day there is my business; and at night I work at reading some of the things which 5 the Master has taught me. And I am content with your prayer; for you say:
6 "May God grant you grace[3] and favor[3]!" I have received [it] from you. And I and my household[4] and my sisters
7 and my people, and my companions, and the congregation[3] are at peace[3]. Then[5] the perfect 36bis I implore you by Allah! Return me a speedy answer!

37bis I implore you by Allah! Do not neglect the slave!

[19] תְּעַ = تعالى. [20] ינעד is يُنْعَدُّ (VIIth for the VIIIth form).
[21] Hebrew בראשית אלה שמות.
[22] These two lines, with the curious אמהא for أَمَّا (?) and the classical forms ending in -kumū, could almost be scanned as rajaz verses.
[23] Followed by a curious scrawl, half Hebrew and half Arabic.

XXIX. PIZMONIM

Paper $10\frac{5}{8} \times 4\frac{7}{8}$ inches.

Hebrew in cursive Hebrew characters.

Since the paper and ink are well preserved, and the writing is very plain, almost every letter can be certainly read. The language is an attempt at classical Hebrew, often distorted for the sake of the meter, and not always giving clear sense. Vowel points are inserted in places, and for the most part correctly.

The meter of the first nineteen verses appears to be a sort of rajaz trimeter. The remainder does not scan. In this first section of nineteen verses the second hemistichs are all rimed, with some difficulty, on the first hemistich of the poem; this hemistich appears again as the closing one of the section. In verses 21–24 the same rime is continued; it appears finally in the last verse of the entire poem.

The fragment can perhaps be dated not long before or after the death of the Abraham to whom it is addressed, in A.D. 1237.

XXIX. PIZMONIM

This poem of praise, consolation and encouragement, is addressed by some unknown person to a certain Abraham, who is a physician, a man in high position in the world, and greatly respected by the Jewish community of which he is the champion. He has been attacked by certain enemies, and perhaps even by a mob. The person meant is presumably Abraham Maimūnī, the son of the great Maimonides. He was born June 17, 1186, and died in the year 1237. He became nāgīd, probably in 1205, and was physician to the Sultan. See Mann, op. cit., vol. i, pp. 248 ff.; vol. ii, pp. 326 ff. XXX. PART OF A LETTER

We have here the beginning of a breezy letter written by someone in Damascus to someone in Fusṭāṭ. The writer has recently made the journey from the latter to the former place, earning or begging money from (Jewish?) communities on the way. Arriving at Damascus he is mulcted by both Muslims and Jews, but especially the latter, who are jealous of him. After establishing himself in business he has more trouble of the same sort, and is befriended by the Muslim ra'īs. Here the text breaks off.

The use of "ashrafī" and "nuṣf faḍḍah," instead of "dīnār" and "dirham," is found in No. XLI also. The "nuṣf" was not used before the days of the sultan al-Mu'ayyad (A.D. 1412–1421). Our fragment may therefore be dated in the early 15th century.

1 .....al-Shafīḳ.....
2 .....al-Sa'īd. May God prolong his life.....
3 and direct him, and reunite us by seeing him in Jerusalem[1].....
4 in good condition[2]. And in your days: A!N!S![3]; since the slave[4] prays for the Master[5]
5 often[6]: "God requite your heart with all that you desire, and give you what 6 you seek in all your undertakings! God prolong your life and multiply
7 your sustenance[7] as long as days and years continue!" God enable me to [answer your] questions!
8 O, Master[8], do not ask what happened to me from the day when I came up from Cairo!
9 I had[9] good luck by the grace of God and your grace. I came to al-Khānḳah[10], having with me eleven
10 half pieces of silver. I stayed[11] four days[12]. I made five half[13] [pieces of silver]. I arrived on a Sabbath[14] in Bilbais[15], [and so] I made[16]
11 nothing. We went to al-Ṣāliḥīyah[17]. I made three half[13] [pieces of silver]. I came to Ḳaṭyah[18].
12 I stayed[11] five days[13]. I earned an ashrafī[19]. We came to Gaza[20]. I stayed[11] fifteen[21]

---

[15] About 35 kilometers from al-Khānḳāh further along the caravan route.

[16] The first two letters of עמלת occur also at the end of the preceding line.

[17] About 55 kilometers from Bilbais, further along the caravan route.

[18] About 75 kilometers from al-Ṣāliḥīyah, further along the caravan route, in Sinai. Cf. Wüstenfeld's edition of Yāḳūt, vol. iv, p. 144, where the article is omitted as here in our fragment. The א in לאקטיה, לאגזה (l. 12), לאכפרכנה (l. 13), represents the vowel of the preposition.

[19] A gold-piece worth a dīnār, or somewhat less than a dīnār. Cf. Dozy, Suppl., sub voce and our note 23. The preposition bi is here properly used with the verb. Cf. Spiro, Vocab., p. 413.

[20] לאגזה, cf. note 18. About 190 kilometers from Ḳaṭyāh, further along the caravan route, in Palestine.

[21] חמסטעישר khámasṭá'sher is an interesting form with transposed ' still retained, and ṭ changed to ṭ́ by the '. The modern form is khámastásher.

22 Cana of Galilee, north and east of Nazareth.

23 If the ashrafī was worth 15¾ dirhams (cf. Le Strange, Palestine under the Moslems, p. 43), 75 half-dirhams or half-faḍḍahs would be the correct total of the collections in the various towns.

24 أَخَذتْ. Cf. note 11.

25 He put aside—though where and how?—68 half pieces, and took seven along to Damascus.

26 ה for ח.

27 מסאעד אלמכאידם possibly for מסאעדת אלמכאדים. The singular, מכדום, is elsewhere used of the addressee of this letter. The plural is here used of the Damascus Jews.

28 جَبْرًا الخاطر with مَعَ redundantly. The writer was virtually seized by the Damascus Jews.

29 I.e. the Damascus Jews.

30 Vernacular idiom. Cf. Spiro, op. cit., p. 119.

31 המה. Cf. the Maghrabī form hūma.

32 The vernacular negative, mā.....-sh abadan.

33 مُشدّ. See Dozy, op. cit., vol. i, p. 736, "inspecteur."

34 Since in line 9 he says that he had only eleven half pieces upon reaching his first station from Cairo; and in lines 16–17 he says that he left owing four ashrafīs (=126 half pieces according to line 14. Cf. note 23).

13 days. I earned an ashrafī[19]. I came to Kafr Kannah[22]. I stayed[11] five days[13]. I earned

14 four half[13] [pieces of silver]. The total [was] 75 half [pieces of silver][23]. There crossed over with me to Damascus seven

15 half[13] [pieces of silver]. The remainder I held onto[24] as a present [to myself?][25]. We remained on the road 45 days

16 until[26] we crossed over to Damascus safely[1]—By Allah! I went out from among you

17 owing a debt of four ashrafīs!—with the help of the gentlemen[27],

18 against my will[28] I came to Damascus safely! I went to the ra'īs, the son of the 19 sharīf. He took from me 15 half [pieces of silver] and he gave me a receipt in the [presence of the] aforementioned assemblage[29],

20 [in the very] midst of it. And I went about my business[30]. The rest heard [of this]. They were jealous about it. Five of them[31],

21 the ra'īs (of it) [and] others, said: "We shan't listen to this at all[32]." And they gathered in a crowd

22 at the house of the mushidd[33], all of them; and he tried to make peace between them. The peace turned out to my disadvantage.

23 They said: "We shall not take more than 20 half [pieces of silver]." Now they have taken what he took, [and] 75 half [pieces of silver]

24 also, and a gratuity of ten half [pieces][13], the total being 100 half [pieces]. But I owed 100 half [pieces] with [the debt

25 of] which I set out from Cairo[34]. That made 200 half [pieces]. I desired fifty half [pieces]

26 before[26] I should take my seat[11] in a shop. After an idleness of 25 days, after all

27 this, I clothed myself for 100 half [pieces] from sums (?)[35] which I borrowed[36] at interest[37]

28 payable the next year[38]. And peace[1] reigned, with your favor[39]; and so[1] [also I] myself[40] [was at peace], and I had no more anxiety
